

Three Incumbent Co. Commissioners Defeated

Thompson, M'Donald Are Winners

Reviewing The BIG SPRING WEEK

by Joe Pickle

With provisions made for an airport and a cemetery under municipal jurisdiction, Big Spring residents should concern themselves with two main objects. One is the building of more surfaced streets and the other is acquisition or development of an adequate water supply. Both go hand in hand in assuring growth and beautification of the city. Surely the time has come for people to do something about having new cars jolted into the junk heap in a year's time over main thoroughfares of Big Spring. The time has come when residents ought to be willing to cooperate in a concerted program to meet the need for more and better streets.

What brought all this up is really a development in the water situation. City officials don't particularly care to talk about it they fear people will be unduly alarmed, but the fact remains that Big Spring's water position is none too secure. It is a fact that the PWA underground water survey has shown that the wells to the south are not only capable of exhaustion, but heavy demands upon them this summer has proven that the level is being taxed. This doesn't mean that Big Spring faces an immediate water shortage, but it does mean that the shortage could come. In proof of this you will notice that the city's application for a PWA grant for dam construction has been pushed with more than ordinary ardor.

About four courses are ahead. One is the tapping of several large pumps or sinks capable of producing an abundance of water for a city several times the size of Big Spring. Another is the construction of a dam and the impounding of a surface or viable water supply. Another is to tap the inexhaustible underground supply high on Llano Estacado. A fourth would be to impound water in a lake on the Concho river.

First and second bales of cotton in the last week and day were gaining 15 cents a hundred, the equivalent of about $30 a bale premium. In addition to this, merchants were needed for around $10 in cash and merchandising for prices. In West Texas it is always a custom to give awards for the first and second bales. Just why there is no sound argument for giving prizes for a first bale; therefore, why not devise some means of making awards to the farmer who does the most to improve his staple during any given season.

Mrs. Mary Zinn, better known as Mother Zinn, celebrated her 90th birthday here last week. Overjoyed because of attentions shown her on the occasion, she exclaimed: "I just love everybody, but mind you, I love the Lord and the church better than anybody." That's Mother Zinn, all right. Charity is more than filling a stomach and clothing a back. The

90 Per Cent Of Total Vote Is Tabulated

One Congressional, One Appellate Contest Not Definitely Settled

DALLAS, Aug. 22.—With 90 per cent of the estimated total vote in the Texas democratic runoff primary tabulated Saturday midnight returns to the Texas Election Bureau definitely indicated the outcome of all contests except two. In the 13th congressional district, W. D. McFarlane, incumbent, held only a slight lead over Ed Gossett and in the civil appeals district 1 Cody was ahead of Soule less than 3,000 votes.

Ernest O. Thompson, incumbent, held a lead of approximately 50 per cent over his opponent, Frank S. Morris, in the race for railroad commissioner. J. E. McDonald, seeking re-election as agricultural commissioner, also was leading his opponent, George B. Terrell, by a substantial majority.

Blanton Ousted
The colorful Thomas L. Blanton, for many years a member of congress from the 17th district, lost his place to Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland. In the 8th congressional district, Albert Thomas held a substantial lead over Oscar Holcombe. In the civil appeals district 2 John Speer held a two-to-one lead over Harry Bunnenger.

The tabulation at midnight Saturday: Thompson 421,452, Morris 276,392, McDonald 393,469, Terrell 281,878, Holcombe 20,549, Thomas 26,935, Gossett 26,090, McFarlane 27,555, Cody 42,556, Soule 39,571, Bunnenger 20,949, Speer 41,404. Based on a comparison with previous primaries, a final vote of approximately 800,000 was indicated. This was somewhat larger than had been predicted by political leaders, due to the fact that few counties had heated races to stimulate interest and to the further fact that for the first time since 1918 there was no runoff in either the governor's race or senator's race to whip up statewide interest.

A number of counties held no

Easterners Hear Landon

Pledges Self To Protect America's Freedom And Opportunity

WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa., Aug. 22.—Gov. Alf M. Landon today asserted the presidential campaign presented a "choice between the pig in the poke policy of the new deal and American 'freedom of enterprise'."

In his first major eastern address, the republican nominee pledged himself "so far as it lies within my power to protect for America our heritage of freedom and opportunity."

The Kansan spoke from a platform on the Tam O'Shanter golf course, a mile from the village of West Middlesex, where he was born almost 40 years ago. He chose for his topic "The American way of life."

"The word 'American' x x x means an attitude of heart and mind," Landon said, "an outlook on life. It means not only deep love of liberty and justice, but courage to face the dangers and responsibilities that go with liberty. x x x"

"This American way of life is being challenged. We are told that it does not meet modern requirements. x x x Some are trying to supplant our institutions by others from abroad."

"Periods of depression are favorable for reviving ancient and discredited systems of society and government, and presenting them as the sure way of gaining Utopia. x x x The confidence of many of our people in our way of doing things has been shaken. They are wondering whether we may not have to scrap our American institutions."

"This doubt and distrust is fostered by unstable men to whom it is always dangerous to give political power. x x x Before the depression such phrases as 'the onward sweep of democracy' were commonplace. Now in many parts of the world, democracy is in retreat and dictatorships are advancing."

Death Takes Floyd Olson

Minnesota Political Leader Succumbs To Stomach Ailment

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 22.—Floyd B. Olson, farmer-labor governor of Minnesota and long prominent in state and national political circles, died at 8:31 tonight. He was 44 years old.

Governor Olson had been suffering for some time from a stomach ailment. With him at the time of death were Mrs. Olson, his daughter, Patricia, Maurice Rose, the chief executive's personal aide; Drs. Hunter Sheldon and Carl Myrland. Buried from the hospital, a large crowd waited on the street outside the building to learn the final outcome.

Abbe Herrin, political affiliate and long-time friend of the governor, informed Marvin McIntire, President Roosevelt's secretary, of the death. He said that Roosevelt was to have visited the governor on Aug. 31. The governor had been looking forward with keen interest to the president's coming. He talked of the proposed visit today, when he appeared for a time to be feeling some better.

He suffered a severe sinking spell late this afternoon, however, and opiates were required to alleviate increasing pain.

70 WORKERS ADDED TO DIST. WPA ROLL

Seventy people were added the past week to the WPA rolls over the district, bringing the total number at work on jobs to 1,825. R. H. McNew, district director, said the number was only 75 under the district quota. Most of those added were referred to WPA by the Texas Relief commission.

The Kansan spoke from a platform on the Tam O'Shanter golf course, a mile from the village of West Middlesex, where he was born almost 40 years ago. He chose for his topic "The American way of life."

Negro Draws Death Penalty

Former Bellboy Convicted Of Slaying Of New York Co-Ed

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 22.—Martin Moore, 22-year-old negro, was convicted of first degree murder today for the slaying of Helen Clevenger, New York University student. The verdict carried a mandatory death sentence. The jury deliberated an hour. Counsel for the negro indicated an appeal would be taken.

The state had demanded the death penalty for the six-foot-three former bellboy at the Battery Park hotel where Miss Clevenger was killed in her room. Defense counsel had offered an alibi for the negro and claimed that a confession he made was wrong from him by torture.

At 1 a. m. July 16, when the blonde co-ed was slain in her room at the fashionable Battery Park hotel, the gaunt, six foot three negro defendant said he was at the home of his girl friend, Fannie Lee Gilliam, who was celebrating her birthday with a party.

Slumped in the witness chair, his long, powerful hands almost touching the floor, he also told of being tortured into signing a confession and later reenacting the crime. Moore admitted owning the sub-noised automatic the state sought to show, through expert testimony, was the gun that killed Miss Clevenger, but said he had lent it to L. D. Roddy, negro elevator operator at the hotel, the day before the murder.

Roddy denied that he borrowed the pistol. The defense offered three witnesses to corroborate Moore's alibi and the state the same number to establish an alibi for Roddy.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Titterton of Davenport, Iowa, who have been in Big Spring visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wright and family, 111 E. 16th street, have returned home by way of New Orleans. Mrs. Titterton is a sister of Mrs. Wright.

Rep. Blanton Defeated By Eastland Man

Garrett Piles Up Great Majority In 17th District Contest

ABILENE, Aug. 22.—Thos. L. Blanton, who has represented the 17th congressional district in Washington for 20 years, with the exception of one portion of a term, was defeated in Saturday's runoff primary by County Judge Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland.

The tabulation at midnight from the 12 counties in the district, with only three incomplete, was: Garrett 33,514, Blanton 15,218.

The vote was virtually complete. There were only a few small boxes unreported in Jones, Eastland and Hamilton counties.

Garrett took a wide lead in practically every county, even carrying Taylor, Blanton's home county. Blanton was first only in Shackelford. A tie vote was recorded in Hamilton county, but about 200 more votes were expected there.

SCREEN'S NEW ROMANCE TEAM

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor form the screen's newest romance team. They play together for the first time.

In the dramatic romance, "His Brother's Wife," which headlines the Ritz program for Sunday and Monday.

Share Starring Honors In 'His Brother's Wife'

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor form the screen's newest romantic team in "His Brother's Wife," featured at the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday.

Taylor, regarded as the most sensational box-office draw since Clark Gable first leaped to fame, comes into his newest leading role following such hits as "Private Number," "Small Town Girl" and "Magnificent Obsession."

The new picture also features Jean Hersholt, who has won new popularity with his starring role in "The Country Doctor." Others in the cast are Joseph Calleia, John Eldredge, Samuel S. Hinds and Phyllis Clare. Direction was by W. S. Van Dyke, who made such outstanding pictures as "San Francisco," "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta."

"His Brother's Wife" tells of a young scientist about to embark upon his first expedition. On the eve of leaving New York for the tropical jungle, Taylor, the young scientist, goes on his final fling and meets Miss Stanwyck in a gay gambling casino. For 10 days their romance progresses and Taylor decides to forsake the expedition, remain in New York and marry the girl. He is dissuaded from doing so by his brother, and he accompanies Hersholt, a doctor, into the jungle to trace the cause of and find a cure for fatal spotted fever.

Meanwhile to avenge herself, Miss Stanwyck marries Taylor's brother and forthwith deserts him. The young scientist's love for the girl lures him back to New York—to find her married to his own brother. To solve the marital puzzle, Taylor takes the girl back to the jungle so that the brother can divorce her. When the divorce is granted, Taylor renounces the girl and orders her to return to New York.

An unexpected turn in events occurs, however, and as the young man and young woman battle jungle disease together, they again find love.

CITY WINS PLACE ON HONOR ROSTER FOR MILK SANITATION

Big Spring is on the honor roll of the state health department again for its record in milk sanitation. The city is listed as one of 39 in Texas achieving a rating of 90 or above. Big Spring was one of the 15 on the honor roll January 1, and has been there continuously. Other West Texas cities included are Abilene, Amarillo, Ballinger, Brownwood, Canyon, Childress, Colorado, Del Rio, El Paso, Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo, Wichita Falls and Sweetwater.

place, and a host of admirers will attend.

BARRYMORE IN NOVEL ROLE

The "old lady" in the above picture is Lionel Barrymore, who essays an unusual characterization in the fantastic film, "The Devil Doll," booked at the Queen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Seen with him here is Maureen O'Sullivan, who has a prominent part in the cast.

Barrymore In Unusual Role At The Queen

Portrays Old Woman In Fantastic Story, 'The Devil Doll'

Familiar though he is to patrons of the screen, Lionel Barrymore is recognizable only by his inimitable dramatic artistry. In "The Devil Doll," booked at the Queen theater for three days beginning Sunday.

In one of the most fantastic stories ever to reach the screen, Barrymore impersonates an ancient woman. In wig and skirts and petticoats, the master of characterization achieves a new height in dramatic portrayals.

The story of "The Devil Doll" concerns the career of a half-mad scientist who conceives a formula that reduces animals and human beings to a sixth their natural size and leaves them hopeless morons, subject to the will of their human master. The laboratory, with its scenes of tiny humans and the glowing genius plotting his revenge on enemies is one of the most startling spectacles in which Barrymore has ever participated. Unusual camera effects are achieved in presenting the scientist's victims in diminutive size.

Will Rogers Picture At Lyric Today

'In Old Kentucky' Last And One Of Best Of Late Great Comedian

Last and one of the most successful of the late, great funster's pictures is Will Rogers' "In Old Kentucky," which comes to the Lyric screen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for a return showing in Big Spring.

An old favorite play modernized, "In Old Kentucky" is packed with the humor that brought Will Rogers fame, and carries the excitement and romance of racing thoroughbreds that made the story itself popular.

Rogers has the role of a trainer of horses and the guide of young love's destiny. Around the romance of Dorothy Wilson and Russell Hardie, much of the picture's action centers. Hardie is the trainer for wealthy Charles Richmond, a job Rogers lost when he protected Miss Wilson's grandfather, Charles Sellon, from Richmond's wrath.

As Richmond and Sellon continue their feud, the task of training Miss Wilson's horse for the big race falls upon Rogers. At the same time he is engaged in the courtship of a Southern lady, played by Esther Dale.

Through plot and counterplot, a delightful story weaves its way, reaching an uproarious climax with the big race, in which the Rogers-trained nag has unexpected help from a rainmaker in one of the most hilarious sequences ever incorporated into a Rogers picture.

Sellon, as a half-cracked old Southern gentleman, contributes much to the humor of the picture. And there is also Rogers' No. 1 aide, the affable negro Bill Robinson, who is a comic as well as a top-notch tap dancer. His influence even makes a dancer out of Rogers. Alan Dinehart and Louise Henry are others in the cast.

Bickley To Speak At Assembly In Abilene This Week

Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church here, will be in Abilene Tuesday and Wednesday of this week to attend an adult assembly of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference, for which the First Methodist church in Abilene is host. Rev. Bickley will appear on the assembly program, speaking Tuesday afternoon.

Theme of the assembly will be "I Am the Way," based on the scripture, "I am the way, the truth and the light." Rev. Bickley's topic will be "I Am the Way—In Per-

ing. The story is strikingly effective, rather than morbid as the outline might lead one to believe. There is also a touch of romance, with Frank Lawton and Maureen O'Sullivan appearing as the young lovers. The cast also includes Robert Greig, Lucy Beaumont, Henry B. Walthall, Grace Ford, Arthur Hohl, Juanita Quigley and E. Allyn Warren.

T-P Adds New Fast Freight

West Texas Points Served From Ft. Worth-Dallas In Quick Time

The Texas & Pacific railway is expanding its freight services for this section of Texas, with inauguration of a new schedule between Dallas and Fort Worth and oil field points. The new train, called the "Merchandise Special" started runs this past week.

By the new schedule, T. & P. officials said, shippers in Dallas and Fort Worth may consign merchandise to West Texas points at the close of business each day and have the shipments delivered in towns in this area the next morning.

Big Spring Children To Be Seen On Ritz Screen Tuesday And Wednesday When Juvenile Comedy Is Presented

Opportunity to see how Big Spring's younger citizens appear on the silver screen will be given local theatergoers Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, when the juvenile comedy recently filmed here will be presented. It has an all-Big Spring cast, scores of local children having been given parts in the making of the picture here under the direction of Melton Barker of Hollywood.

Titled "Kidnapers Foiled," the picture is somewhat similar in type to the famed "Our Gang" comedies. All scenes in the film were made locally.

Presentation of the juvenile picture is in addition to the regular Tuesday-Wednesday screen program which features a drama "They Met In A Taxi," with Fay Wray and Chester Morris as the leading players.

Will Hunt For Redfern Plane

South American Is Convinced Can Find Wreckage In Jungles

BERKELEY, Calif., Aug. 22. (UP)—Convinced that he can find the wreckage of the monoplane of Paul Redfern, who disappeared in a non-stop flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 26, 1927, Lee R. Dennison, 61-year-old South American mining man, has announced that within the next 90 days he will start an expedition of two planes and a crew to attain this objective.

According to Dennison, the flight will be made into the jungle fastnesses of the Grand Savannah country, 350 miles inland from the Venezuelan coast.

The trip, he is convinced, will end forever the fantastic tale that has come out of the South American hinterland to the effect that the Indians, watching young Redfern plummet out of the sky, venerated him as a white deity, nursed his injuries and installed him as a captive medicine man king.

Convinced Elber Is Dead
Dennison's conviction that Redfern is dead but that the wreckage of his monoplane can still be found is based on a rumor brought him by an Indian courier of Venezuela that he knew the precise spot where the wreckage lies.

Redfern, flying his silver and gold monoplane, "Port of Brunswick," planned to pick up the South American coast at the island of Trinidad off Venezuela, head south to the mouth of the Amazon in Brazil and then fly 1,600 miles overland to Rio. Dennison believes Redfern may have mistaken the Orinoco delta in Venezuela for the Amazon, headed inland and crashed in the brush-choked ravines where his gasoline gave out.

"I have flown over this country a great deal in the past year," Dennison said. "And after 11 years in that territory am convinced no Indian tribe down there would have occasion to harbor him. Existence is too tough for everyone at all times."

Dennison's first clue as to the possible whereabouts of the wreckage of Redfern's plane came following a perilous 36-day trip by canoe from his mining headquarters of Paviche, near the headwaters of the Caroni river, on an exploratory voyage into the primeval Grand Savannah country.

Dennison explains that with two boarders he was at Carmo Falls, in the heart of the Great Savannah country, when he was bitten by a deadly viper. While he was recovering, as was one of his boarders, another Indian came to them with the story that he had seen the wreckage of Redfern's plane hanging from a tree.

WES FERRELL, ousted by Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox for walking out on a game without consulting him, was said to be drawing a salary of $20,000. Cronin suspended the pitcher for the balance of the season, and fined him $1,000. It's difficult to understand Ferrell's actions. Perhaps there's been some dissension on the club all along that even the manager could not unravel. Ferrell explained that he thought second baseman Oscar Melillo waved him out of the game. Melillo was amazed to hear about Ferrell's statement.

ALLEN WIGGINS, the "fireballer" who worked on the Coadman mound staff this season, is still anxious to play a little baseball. He has agreed to pitch for the Rebels today in their game with the Mexican Tigers.

THE REPORTER-News softball team of Abilene, winner in a game here last week with an all-star junior team, would like to meet the locals in Abilene.

DOUG JONES and Obie Bristow may enter an invitation golf tournament at Lubbock this week. Lubbock is celebrating with new grass greens, but the putting carpets are still in pretty bad shape, according to reports.

GEORGE BROWN believes that Cisco, Eastland and Ranger may be forced back to Class B football within the next year or so. Cisco is probably the weakest of the trio, with Eastland next.

MIDLAND, A former member of the District 3 Class A circuit, may go back to the "A" brand of football in a couple of years. Midland is growing.

ONE JR. LEAGUE GAME ON MONDAY

Scoring six of their runs in the third inning, the Cardinals swept a weak Raider defense before them Friday afternoon to win the first game, 10-4, and the Panthers smashed the Hornets to win the second, 5-1.

The Raiders took the field with only eight men and could not stop the smashing line drives the Cards produced.

The Red Birds smashed out 13 base hits off Red Womack, while Jack Oliver, who collected a quartet of blows himself, was holding the Raiders to an even four.

Only one game remains on the Junior League softball calendar before the two top teams start a two-out-of-three game play-off Tuesday.

The Hornets will play the Cardinals Monday and the Red Raiders will receive a forfeit from the Panthers.

Coahoma Plays Lorraine Independent Team Today

COAHOMA, Aug. 22.—The Bulldogs will trip back to the Lorraine Independents on the Lorraine diamond this afternoon and will have Bib Hardy back on the firing line.

Hardy has been out of action several weeks but has been pronounced fit and ready to go.

The Coahomans go to Hamilton next week-end for a game with the Pipers, champions of the Lorraine Invitational meeting.

NEW YORK TEAM COPS 3-2 VICTORY

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (AP)—Bill Dickey's single, driving in the winning run, broke up a 13 inning pitcher's duel between Johnny Broaca and Lefty Grove here today and gave the Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Lou Gehrig hit his 39th home run in the seventh frame to put the New Yorkers into the lead, and Jimmy Fox clouted out No. 33 in the ninth to tie the score and shove the game into extra innings.

Fox drove in the other Sox run in the sixth inning when he put Grove across with a long fly.

Joe DiMaggio tied the count, however, when the Yankees came to bat by tripling with Frankie Crosetti aboard, and Gehrig's circuit smash gave Broaca something to work on.

After Fox had put Grove back on even terms in the ninth and both pitchers hurled three scoreless innings, Red Rolfe got on base with two away in the thirteenth, and Dickey drove him across.

Gehrig collected a home run and two singles in six trips to the plate to add two points to his batting average, bringing it up to .383 for the season.

Roger Cramer, with a triple, double and a single, led the losers' attack.

Wes Ferrell Through For The Season

Red Sox Pitcher Ousted And Fined By Manager Cronin

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (AP)—Wes Ferrell, the big right-hander who cost Tom Yawkey a large bundle of cash in his expensive rebuilding of the Red Sox, has pitched his last game for 1936—and possibly his last game of all for the Boston outfit.

His prima donna temperament, which once cost him $1,500 for a ten-day suspension back in his days with the Cleveland Indians, drew a $1,000 fine and a lay-off for the rest of the season from Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox yesterday—the heaviest punishment for any player this year.

He walked off the field without orders in the sixth inning of the game with the Yankees, just when murderer's row had put the game on ice with a three-run rally.

"I'm finishing him," Cronin said, "and suspending him for the rest of the season." "He can go home. He can go to China."

He didn't want him around. He walked out on us last Sunday against the Senators, but today was tops."

This started talk that the Sox may consider trading Ferrell when the season winds up.

Ferrell, reached at his hotel room later, expressed surprise at the punishment.

"It's a puzzle to me," he said. "I thought he took me out, and I headed for the clubhouse. I had left the clubhouse by the time the game ended, so I haven't seen Cronin yet."

The 28-year-old pitcher threatened to punch Cronin in the jaw when he first learned of the fine and suspension. He calmed down, however, and carried his case to Tom Yawkey, Red Sox owner.

At a conference in which Cronin was present Yawkey told Ferrell: "Joe Cronin is the boss of this ball club. I expect him to run it for a long time to come. I'm backing him to the limit in anything he does."

Every player on the Boston club sided with Cronin. Ferrell walked off the mound with the manager standing on the club house steps yelling, "Wes! Wes! Wes!" Ferrell either didn't hear him or disregarded him.

The situation which led to Ferrell's "walkout" With the score tied 1-1, the Yankees came to bat in the sixth inning. Ferrell retired Joe DiMaggio. Then he walked Gehrig and Dickey singled, sending Gehrig to third. He retired Selkirk for the second out.

Then Powell hit a spinning grounder to Shortstop McNair's left. Gehrig scored and Ferrell expressed his disapproval of McNair's fielding by stomping around the box. Pearson singled through the box, scoring two runs. Before play was complete, Ferrell left the field, and walked through the Yankees' dugout to the Boston dressing room.

H. H. Hoyt, Ed Paso, who is favored to win the tournament despite the fact that Bean is ceded No. 1, eliminated Don Oliver, Midland, 6-4, 6-4. Boyd's victory over Bean last week in Roswell puts him in a strategic position.

M. M. Ballard, Aulene, who last week won the veteran's title at Fort Worth, had little trouble in showing Harry Jordan, Big Spring, out of the picture, 6-2, 6-3.

Surprise of the day was furnished when Don Oliver and Jack Hitt, Midland, upset Ballard and W. S. Lanham, Dallas, defending doubles champions, in three sets 7-9, 6-3, 6-0.

Pairings for the sectional test series: O'Hara Watts, Dallas, and Dr. E. Wald Robinson, Austin; Glenn Crisman, Houston, and L. C. Rogers, San Antonio; Al Mailhes, Shreveport, La., and O. S. Carlton, Jr., Houston; W. C. Hunt, Houston, and Harry Todd, Dallas.

Stocky Don Schumacher of Dallas, Texas amateur champion; Harry Todd, southwestern champion; Billy Howell and George Rolan of Houston, former Walker cup players and Lehigh University, 1934 trans-Mississippi titleholder, are among those entered.

Absent this year is David (Spec) Goldman, freckled Dallas star who went to the finals of the 1934 national amateur. The youthful metal lath worker said business would prevent him from attempting to qualify.

Reynolds Smith and Ed White, Texas' two Walker cup players, en route to the cup matches in the east, will play qualifying rounds on a New York state course.

SPRINTER TO CASH IN ON GLORY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1936 By United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (UP)—Jesse Owens is returning to the United States to "make as much money as possible," after being "kicked around quite a bit" by A. U. officials in Europe, the Olympic hero said today in a ship-to-shore telephone interview with the United Press. Owens is aboard the S. S. Queen Mary due here Monday.

He said he considered himself an amateur athlete, but expected to cash in on his athletic glory as soon as possible to support his wife and child.

"I'm not broke," Owens said, but most of my money is gone. It doesn't make any difference to me what I do as long as I make a lot of money."

Owens and his coach, Larry Snyder of Ohio State, are traveling together, but Jesse said it was his own idea to return home at once. For that decision the A.A.U. suspended him on the grounds that he failed to keep an engagement to run in a post-Olympic meet at Stockholm.

In the Dark
"I don't know anything about my suspension," said Owens. "I haven't talked to Mr. Brundage or Mr. Ferris. But I never told anyone I would go to Stockholm. They told me to go."

The Olympics were one grand thrill for him, Owens said. He didn't have an unpleasant experience until after they were over and the A.A.U. wanted him to barnstorm over Europe, running in every meet they picked for him.

"I was tired out after the Olympics and needed a rest," he said. "I ran in four meets for them and I thought that was enough. They told me I had to go to Stockholm. I didn't tell them I wouldn't but I never said I would. After the Empire games I decided I had better come home because I was tired of running and wanted to get back to see my wife and baby."

Jesse said his biggest thrill came "when the American flag went up the pole after I won the 100-meter dash." They are at Los Angeles, he said, and he is going to the event as the broad jump, in which he outjumped the German, Lutz Long.

Asked if he felt badly because Adolf Hitler didn't receive him formally after his triumphs, as he did some of the other athletes, Owens chuckled and said:

"He wouldn't bother me at all. He waved and when I was on my way to talk on a radio broadcast to the United States the day of the 100 meters, and I waved back."

Owens said his wife and mother will meet him at the pier Monday.

BALLARD BEATS HARRY JORDAN

MIDLAND, Aug. 22. (Sp)—Harry Bean, Roswell, N. M., took two strides toward retaining his Midland Invitational Tennis tournament crown won here last year with a pair of victories Saturday in the first round.

He took Ronald DeFord, Midland, out 6-4, 6-3 and then turned on another Midland player, Jack Hargrave, 7-5, 6-3.

Golfers Prep For National Amateur Play

1,067 Players To Compete For 180 Places In 36-Hole Medal Play

By BOB CAVAGNARO Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (AP)—In one of the game's greatest free-for-alls, 1,067 players will compete for 180 places in the 36-hole medal play qualifying tests of the National Amateur Golf championship next Tuesday on 30 battle fronts spread over the length and breadth of the land.

By the time the wide-spread qualifying trials are over, coupled with the results of the test previously held on the Pacific coast, and inclusion of 24 exempt players, mainly challengers from England and Scotland, a field of 310 will be eligible for the all-match play championship proper to be played Sept. 11-19 at the nearby Garden City golf club.

The exempt players include ten members of the British Walker cup team, which will meet an American side at Pine Valley, N. J., Sept. 2, and Captain William F. Tweddel, Harry Bentley, J. Morton Dykes, Cecil Ewing, Alec Hill, J. D. Langley, P. B. Lucas, Jack McLean, Gordon Peters, Hector Thomson, as well as Tony Torrance, A. R. Aiken, Lieut.-Col. H. A. Boyd, E. Taylor, Stanley Morrison and Henry Longhurst, all from the British Isles.

Continuing a custom adopted two years ago, eight former amateur titleholders availed themselves of a free ride into the championship. They are George T. Dunlap, Jr., Charles Evans, Jr., Jesse P. Guilford, S. Davidson Hurton, Max R. Marston, Francis O'Neill, Jess Sweetser and C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville. A notable absentee is W. Lawson Little, Jr., the two-time St. Francis, N. J., winner, who took the amateur ranks last spring.

The six golfers who made the grade on the Pacific Coast in rounds played Aug. 11 are James McHale, San Gabriel, Calif.; Roger Kelly, Beverly Hills, Calif.; and Winfield S. Day of Chicago, all of whom took the test at Los Angeles, as well as Matias Palacio, San Francisco; Ernest Pelper, Jr., San Jose, Calif.; and Don Edwards, another San Josean, at San Francisco.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 22. (AP)—Twenty-seven Texans and three out-of-staters will tackle the Houston country club's par 36-55-71 course here Tuesday in search of the six places allotted this section for the national amateur golf championship.

Stocky Don Schumacher of Dallas, Texas amateur champion; Harry Todd, southwestern champion; Billy Howell and George Rolan of Houston, former Walker cup players and Lehigh University, 1934 trans-Mississippi titleholder, are among those entered.

MAXIE SCHMELING AND JIM BRADDOCK TO FIGHT NEXT JUNE

GERMAN TO MAKE TOUR OF STATES

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (AP)—The next heavyweight fight for the championship of the world will be June 3, 1937, in Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl.

The principals will be James J. Braddock, titleholder, and Maxie Schmeling of Germany, who hopes to be the first man in history to regain the heavyweight title.

That was the status of affairs today after three days of wrangling between the New York boxing commission, Braddock and his manager, Joe Gould, Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, Madison Square Garden, and the 20th Century Sporting club.

Schmeling was aboard the liner Bremen en route home after turning down a flat guarantee of $300,000 or 50 per cent of the gate from the 20th Century's impresario, Mike Jacobs, for a return engagement with Joe Louis in Yankee Stadium in September. Maxie wanted a $600,000 guarantee.

The championship bout will give Braddock 42 1/2 per cent and Schmeling $5,000 for expenses plus 20 per cent of the gate.

When Schmeling turned down a $300,000 guarantee to fight Louis again, he refused the largest sum ever offered a fighter for a non-title bout.

Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, said the former champion would return to this country this fall to go on an exhibition tour of southern and western cities, but that plans to have Schmeling's wife, Anny Ondra, return to make a movie with him had been abandoned.

With committees already named to make plans for the sixth annual invitation golf tournament of the Big Spring country club September 5-7, tournament officials have announced that this year's event will be the fastest in the history of the tournament.

Derald Lehman of Abilene will play in the event here, as will Shorty Hornbuckle of Clovis, N. M., and Joe Dick Slaughter of Lubbock. They are recognized as the top-notch golfers of West Texas. Lehman, Abilene champ, played in the recent El Paso invitation tournament.

Oil Belt Grid Teams Ready

Start Warm-Up This Week; Steer Candidates To Report Wednesday

Most of the teams in the Oil Belt high school football district will be started on their fall training schedule by the latter part of this week, and all of the nine clubs will be in action by next week. The San Angelo Bobcats and Brownwood Lions have been training lightly for two or three weeks. The Bobcats scrimmaged Friday.

The Big Spring Steers, although due to report on Wednesday of this week, will not be in full swing until next Monday, according to Head Coach George Brown. Brown, although an assistant here for seven years, will be making his debut as head mentor, and will have a new assistant in Carner Brandon of Rice Institute. The Steer mentors expect to have a fairly well balanced team but will be forced to get along with only four or five lettermen.

Coach Johnnie Kitchen's Eastland gridgers will be taught fundamentals for two weeks, beginning Monday.

Breckenridge Buc candidates have been spending the summer undergoing conditioning work as outlined by Coach Eck Curtis.

The Cisco Lobos will begin training for the 1936 grid campaign Monday when they answer Coach Dexter Shelley's call for the first practice session.

Shelley will be faced with the necessity of building a team from only two lettermen and a few squadmen of last year. Joe Slicker, back, and Royce Rainbolt, guard, the only two returning lettermen, will be co-captains.

Other squadmen expected to report for practice Monday are Lane Page, tackle; Bill Wallace, back; Walter Webster, back; Dan Yar-

Roland Swatzy Pitches His First Shutout Victory Of The Year

By HANK HART

A sizzling fire ball propelled from the lean right hand of Marberry Wilbanks proved no mystery to the Coaden Oilers Friday night as they downed the Colorado All-Stars, 10-0.

The visitors showed ability afield and made the game a much closer affair than the score indicated, but there was little doubt as to the superiority of the two teams.

The Coadenites pounded out 13 assorted hits off Wilbanks, collecting six in the first three innings for as many runs, and had the game going their way from the start.

In pitching his first shutout victory of the year, Roland Swatzy set the Coloradoans down with six blows, and only in the eighth did he allow more than one bludge.

A two-buse blow by Dutch Moxley and a single by "Rat" Ramsey produced the opening Coaden run in the first stanza.

They counted again in the second when Jack Smith reached first on Wilbanks' miscue and went all the way around on two overthrows. They broke loose in the third by chalking up a quartet of markers on four hits, a base on balls and two enemy errors.

Doubles by West and Moxley and a home run by Williamson, his third lick of the game, accounted for three more runs in the sixth, and Jake Morgan came home with two in the following frame on successive singles by Wallin and Martin.

Biggest Colorado threat came in the seventh frame when Robinson and Dora singled as leadoff men, but Wallin cut the Colorado catch-off at second in a throw to Howard Swatzy, and Dora "idiot" at first when pinch-hitter Mainina popped to Ramsey in front of the plate and Smith "skied" to Williamson in right.

15 YEARS IN MAJOR CIRCUITS

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 22. (AP)—Fifteen years under major league baseball's "big top" and Gabby Hartnett still is putting on a great show.

On at least three occasions this year it appeared that injuries would force him to remain permanently on the sidelines. Each time the grinning, florid, puffing Gabby delighted his legion of admirers by bouncing out of the dugout to smash game-winning hits and continue his great play behind the plate.

Before the campaign started Gabby was the key man of the Chicago Cubs. He still is—the spark plug that keeps the Bruins humming along in the thick of the National league pennant battle.

Gabby's long career with Chicago was speeded up at the start because of the backing of Scout Jack Doyle, an old catcher himself, who dug Hartnett out of the Massachusetts brush.

Gets Three Hits

Back in 1922 when Hartnett first was taken to a Cub training camp, Bill Killifer had decided to send him to Los Angeles. But Doyle insisted the club shouldn't farm him until Hartnett had a chance to show what he could do. So Gabby was assigned to catch Grover Cleveland Alexander in an exhibition game at Los Angeles. The night before the game Doyle talked to Gabby, telling him just what kind of balls they were going to throw at him and how to handle them.

If Gabby was nervous the next day he didn't show it. He peeled off a single, a triple and a home run and after the game Alexander came in with the verdict—"he'll do!"

Hartnett opened the season catching Alexander at Cincinnati in the first big league game he ever saw and the first time he ever was in a big league park. He still has the baseball with the 5-3 score on it.

Gabby's A Handsaker

Gabby went hitless that day in four trips but he didn't get discouraged. In the next series with St. Louis he got his first hit in the majors—a healthy triple, with six count 3 and 2—reaching third base in spite of tripping over first and falling flat in the dust!

Fans at Wrigley field really go for him. He's forever shaking hands with friends before the game. He's a great hero to the kids. The umpires like him—even when he's "on" one of the arbiters. He's likely to rant and rave over some decision, but in the end that big Irish grin of his breaks through to smooth things over.

He has a bubbling vitality and husky good nature that make the fans love him, and he seldom lets them down. He is signing a program for a fan or getting a hit "in the clutch." He comes off hardy stock—he's the oldest of 14 children, seven boys and seven girls; and at 50 his father looks almost as young as Gabby!

Hartnett carries on a successful insurance business here in the off season, but baseball is his great love and he says he intends to stick in the game as long as he is able.

"It's keeping in condition," he says when explaining how he has been able to go on starring year after year as younger players pass from the big show. "The best thing I ever did was to get married. I'd have been a better ball player if I'd married five years earlier. When you see a ball player who's settled down and saving his money you see a good ball player. When they blow their money they get to worrying and that ruins 'em."

Mrs. Chas. Worley Takes Lead In Point Tourney

Mrs. Charles Worley, by playing 38 rounds, went to the front last week in the country club Point Tournament with a total of 840 points. Mrs. Gordon Phillips lost the lead for the first time since the play was started over a month ago. She has 824 points scored in 21 rounds.

Mrs. Harry Stalcup kept third place with 737 points, tacked up in 31 rounds. Play lasts until Sept. 6.

Softball Is Gaining Hold

Game Assured Prominent Place On Sports Calendar For Years

By HAROLD B. WHITE

Commissioner, Texas Amateur Softball Association

FORT WORTH, Aug. 22.—As the 1936 softball season nears a gigantic climax with the state tournament of the Texas Amateur Softball Association here on Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7, I have been asked to review records and compute results of the State's biggest season in the sport's history.

This season, without a doubt, has proved the durability of the game as a sport. Its appeal to both spectator and player assures softball a prominent place on the sports calendar for years to come. Teams can be financed for a season of play so reasonably that expense is a minor item. Lighted fields are everywhere and there is no night game so completely captivating of the spectators' interest as softball.

The size of the ball allows everyone to follow the play with ease. As the rule makers find and correct mistakes the game should set the down to become the summer evening pastime of millions of Americans. Its similarity to baseball partially satisfies that craving for the national pastime of the average American.

Older Players Retire

Slowly but surely sports writers

over the country are accepting softball as a sport to be considered. The game has undergone a severe trial this season—and won. In 1935 the game reached a peak of player interest in Texas. Everyone wanted to play and did to some extent, but found the game too hard and rough as we were making it.

Consequently, older players gave up the game to the younger ones and the latter were reluctant to play because some said it was "stale."

The result showed a decline in interest in the month of May of this year when teams were slow to organize. But when June and warm weather came, the revival was on in earnest. Teams and leagues began mushrooming. Even as late as July, many lighted fields were constructed and leagues organized.

It is odd how spectator interest picks up when the race gets under way. This is what happened all over the state.

What caused this acceleration of interest? There is only one answer—publicity. What caused the sports editors to suddenly accept softball as a sport and start writing about it, I don't know. They apparently decided it was news.

5,000,000 See Sport In Texas!

Nearly 1,000 teams with more than 20,000 players have brought entertainment to more than 5,000,000 spectators in Texas this year. It is estimated that about 50,000 Texans are watching softball each night. That is why softball ranks among the major sports of our state.

And consider this, softball has helped bring a renewed interest in baseball as an amateur sport. How? By reminding the American

SAND BELT GOLFERS TO HOLD ANNUAL ROUND-UP TODAY

Sand Belt golfers—about fifty strong—will gather at the country club today for the annual round-up. A business meeting is scheduled at 11 a. m., with matches slated for the afternoon. Awards will be made, plans discussed for the next season, and officers elected.

The Big Spring sharpshooters, undefeated in ten matches, will again take the league trophy. Permanent possession is gained by winning three years. A preliminary check-up revealed that E. C. Nix of Colorado was high point man for the season.

Two Coloradans stand at the helm of the Sand Belt organization—J. J. Billingsley, president, and Jake Merrott, secy-treas.

Local golfers will, of course, talk-up the sixth annual invitation tournament scheduled at the country club Sept. 5-7.

(In article next Sunday, Mr. White will give other interesting facts on the growth of softball in Texas and tell of some of the state's leading teams.)

Across the Rockies in a Ford V-8

Doenges Motor Company
Tonkawa, Oklahoma

Gentlemen:

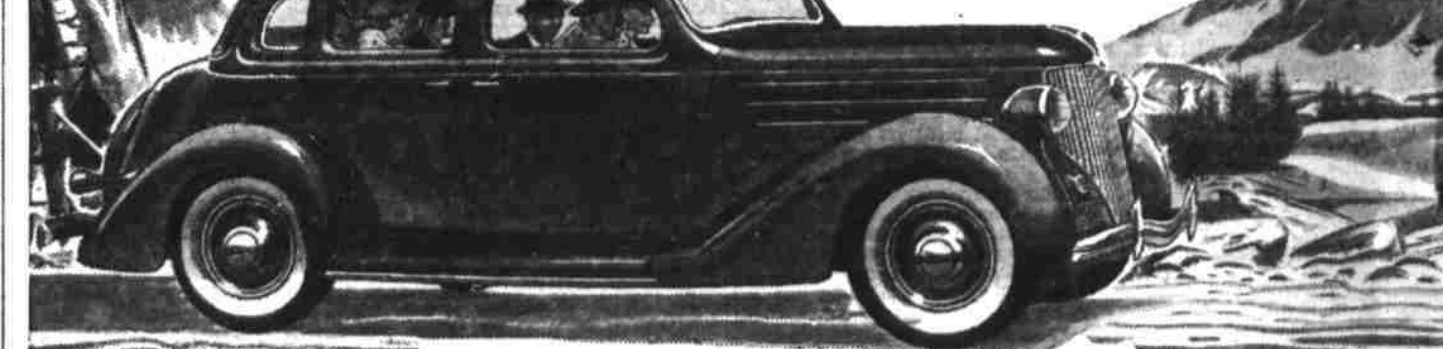

I have just returned from a two weeks' trip in which I covered more than 4800 miles and I am so well pleased with the performance and economy of my new Ford V-8 that I want to tell you about it.

Our car, a Fordor Sedan with Trunk, accommodated seven of us on this trip which took us through the mountains of Colorado, Wyoming and into Washington State. On the return trip there were nine of us and we came back through Salt Lake City and Denver.

On this trip we passed over six of the Rocky Mountain Passes and we marveled at the ease at which the car took these steep grades and the rare intervals at which we bought gasoline, for upon our return, by dividing the total miles traveled by the total number of gallons of gasoline bought, we found that we had averaged over 18 miles to the gallon for the entire trip which I think is unusually good considering the load we carried and the roads covered.

The car has given us perfect performance and I am well pleased and proud of my new car.

Yours very truly

NEW BOOKSTARZAN'S QUEST
By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.)

Tarzan—lord of the jungle—meets modern civilization in the form of aviation in this thrilling adventure story. The plot is laid in the very heart of an Edgar Rice Burroughs jungle.

The most human angle of the story is the humorous relating of experiences of people new to jungle life. Burroughs has outdone himself here.

Insofar as the plot is concerned, the book is up to standard. Can one say more? Danger and death in a variety of forms lurk at the end of most of the chapters. The heroine is brave as well as lovely and the worthy mate of the incomparable Tarzan.

Tarzan himself shines forth again in all his romantic splendor, the proud hero he has been in the past, the conqueror of the unconquerable, the thrilling jungle creature that moderns never tire of reading about.

TEXAS RANGERS' DIARY
AND SCRAPBOOK
Edited by Ann Jensen
(Kaleidograph Press)

This is said to be the only diary and scrapbook ever kept by a Texas ranger.

The ranger who perpetrated it was the late Alonzo Van Oden of Company D, Frontier Battalion, father of the woman who has edited it. He began the diary in 1891.

The book commences with sketches and line drawings of prominent rangers, then continues with entries selected from the diary. These entries would cause an Easterner to die of heart-failure. They are anything else than blood-thirsty and hard-boiled. Philosophy and religion, love of literature, and poetry compose most of the selections. Occasionally there is an account of an actual experience. For instance Oden told of the killing of Sam Bass, the outlaw, and called Bass his friend. He also called McKidrick, whom Bass shot, friend.

Mrs. Jensen has unburied the heart of a ranger in these selections. If her purpose was to throw unexpected light on such a man's thoughts, she succeeded admirably. But if she expected the originality of the journal to make it interesting to the multitude, I am afraid she is in for disappointment. Most people will look for the thrills and nothing else and when they do not find them here, they will put the book aside; even a ranger must measure up to a ready-made reputation.

KALEIDOGRAPH
July and August

The two issues have unusually excellent descriptive poems of the month. That for July is: Yellow the morning cornland, Yellow the pulsing sky . . . Yellow the tone of a summer day In the heat of a bronze July!

That for August is: Now when fleeting summer's hours are almost run, August, like a topaz, glitters in the sun.

The August number contains a unique Texas Centennial poem called "Road Signs." Each stanza refers by number to interstate highways:

This is Texas, Stranger . . . say, Folks are traveling today!

This is celebration year . . . Mighty glad to have you here.

Texas straddles South and West Where the stirrups fit the best.

Texas suffered more or less Pushing through a wilderness: See the livid scars that show Goliad and Alamo . . .

Stephen Austin rightly guessed Texas' future was the best!

District officials of the Young people's department of the Methodist church met in Big Spring Thursday for a business session. In the evening all the young people of the Signal Mount Union, which comprises Big Spring and neighboring towns, assembled on the top of scenic Mountain for a picnic supper and program.

The business meeting began at 3 o'clock. Participants were the following officers: Rev. W. M. Hamilton, Lubbock, executive secretary of the Board of Christian Education of this conference; M. D. Norwood, Texasoma, director of the young people's work of this conference; Clarence Walton, Snyder, treasurer; Franklin Weir, Tell, president; Miss Freddie Atkins, Lubbock, district director; Miss Frances Gilliam, Big Spring, assistant director.

Miss Frances English, Haskell, director of that district, was a visitor.

Many of the group had attended the Methodist young people's encampment at Mount Sequoia, near Fayetteville, Ark. These related the activities of the encampment.

An inspirational address by Norwood closed the evening session, in which about 50 young people took part.

Members of the R. E. Martin family held a reunion recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin in the R-Bar community. The Martins have lived here for the past years. Only one relative, a brother, Roy, who lives in Los Angeles, Calif., was not present.

M.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin and daughters, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin and son, Charles, Edward, and daughter, Tora, Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Mitchell, Waco; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin, Cosham; Mr. and Mrs. Granville Martin, Cosham; Mrs. Lillie Mae Harris and two sons, Abilene.

Mrs. M. L. Musgrove, of Big Spring, a long-time friend of the family was also present.

Louis Biles To Work
On Master's Up North

Among the Big Spring people who are looking forward to the school year is Louis Biles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Biles, now a resident of Woodbury, N. J.

Louis and his wife left last May to make their home in the north, when Louis was given a position with the Socony-Vacuum Oil company. Since Woodbury is only 12 miles from Philadelphia where the University of Pennsylvania is situated, Louis is making plans to begin work on his master's degree. The company encourages its men to do this to the extent of paying half of their university expenses and giving them a little time off to meet classes.

Mrs. Biles, mother of Louis, said that her son and his wife and young daughter seemed to be enjoying their new home and especially the sight-seeing advantages that that historic part of the country offered.

Early Emily
Post Argues
'Agin' RazorsOld - Fashioned Etiquette
Book Amusing To Moderns

Emily Post, arbiter of etiquette for moderns, is not the only woman who has made money writing books on how to be a lady—or a gentleman. Back in 1878, when Texas was really wild and wooly, a Mrs. Jane Aster published a book on the same subject. Her ideas and Mrs. Post's differ in a very wide degree, especially in matters of good taste.

Mrs. Aster did not write for Texans. Few of her ideas troubled Texans. Probably that is why a copy of her book, "Ladies and Gentlemen's Etiquette Book of the Best Society," was sold the other day in a local book store for 25 cents, the book is a treasure house of funny stories. If you think human nature is funny.

One of the most amusing chapters deals with the subject of hair on a man's face. Beards were in fashion in those days and Mrs. Aster liked a little spice with her kisses, so she paraded in great array all the ancient arguments for hair and against razors and barbers.

Man's chief adornment, a beautiful beard, is rapidly passing, she commented regretfully. The distinguishing mark for men of rank is being sacrificed to a little gadget made famous by Mr. Gillette.

The steel blade of his razor has shorn away the mark of manhood and left instead a stubble that is not only embarrassing but unsightly.

As for barbers, wrote Mrs. Aster, they have been the spits of great men whom they shaved and bearded in their private closets. It was a barber who helped the late King of Oude to ruin the country he governed; and it was a barber who, at the beginning of the present century was the bottle-imp of a Bishop of Hereford. Who in fact can respect a man whose sole office is to deprive his sex of their distinctive feature, she continued.

Going further: "It is said that Alexander the Great introduced shaving to prevent his soldiers being caught by the beard by their enemies, but the conqueror of Asia must be a devotee of priority in this iniquitous custom, which he probably found prevalent in the countries he invaded. At any rate it would appear that the Buddhist priests of India were ashamed of their locks at least a century before, and this reminds me that shaving and fanaticism have always gone together."

The custom of the clergy wearing a womanish face is purely Romanist, and I rejoice to see that many a good preacher in the present day is not afraid to follow Cranmer and other fathers of our church in wearing a goody beard.

It is clear that a Protestant chin should be well covered.

Whatever be said of the clergy,

Mens' Classes
Enter Contest
In Attendance

The men of the First Methodist and the East Fourth Street Baptist Sunday schools announce a friendly contest in attendance. The contest will begin the first Sunday in September and will continue for three months.

The purpose of the contest is to increase the enrollment of each class and to promote closer fellowship among the men.

Men who are 25 years of age and over will be eligible to participate. Visitors who are members of other Sunday schools in Big Spring will not be counted, as men from other churches will not be encouraged to leave their own Sunday schools.

At the close of the contest the two classes will have fellowship meeting entertainment to be provided by the losing class.

The custom of saving came to this country like many other ugly personal habits with the foreign monarchs. William of Orange was ashamed of that very appendage which it is a disgrace to a Muselman to be without.

Of razors and shaving I shall only speak from necessity, because, until everybody is sensible on this point, they will still be used.

Mrs. Aster, like a great many women of her day must have found this new vanity of men a trying thing, for the custom of shaving spread and now there are only a few really beautiful beards left for the world to admire. She would have been immensely pleased to have seen the young men of today trying, unsuccessfully at times, however, to grow a mustache. Even these efforts usually wind up with but a few scraggly hairs that are reminiscent of a misplaced eyebrow. N. R.

CHANGE! Are you daring enough? Of course you are.

Pull out of the old ruts! Remake your mouth! Comb your hair back and up! Slice another inch off your hem—shock your old friends—make new ones! Be sleek—be glamorous—but natural! And your wardrobe?

No problem at all if you know yourself! Your mirror never lies. Consider the three fundamental rules when selecting clothes—DESIGN—style and line. BECOMING—color and fabric. And SUITABILITY!

A day in town—back to school—business—bridge—shopping—dinner? An innumerable variety!

A very clever adaptation of the fitted tunic—a street dress with the newest of trims—leather. Inadvertently called "China Clipper" and worn in the picture of that name. A universal flattering style.

Black!—an all-time high. Satin or dull fabric. Remember the most seductive of all fabrics—satin—requires controlled curves! And weight-control is the very key of lasting youth. A semi-tailored suit of heavy slipper satin for the smart woman-about-town.

High-waisted fitted bodice—directoire influence—the period of femininity.

The cocktail or dinner hour indicates another change! Presto Cinderella. A suit or dress of rich fabric—and NEW short street length skirt—a fitted bodice with ruffled peplum, swallow-tail jacket effect and tunics of any length.

Go high hat!—fashion flash. Bury your old prejudices! Your fall debut must be in the most flattering frock the season offers. Never allow yourself to be taken for granted. Now and then it's smart to jog your friends and family!

Be natural with a difference!

WESLEY MEMORIAL

A series of services will be held Sunday to mark the dedication of the Wesley Memorial Methodist church. It has been announced by Rev. W. G. Anderson, pastor. The dedication service will be conducted by Rev. J. H. Crawford, a former pastor. Rev. W. M. Whitley, another former pastor, will be in charge of another service and the evening message will be delivered by Rev. J. E. Peters, who also served as the church pastor. Special music for the services will be given by a trio from the First Methodist church and a quartet from Knott.

The day's services also will mark the opening of a revival meeting. The public is invited to attend.

September

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen met for a business session Friday afternoon at the W.O.W. Hall. Reports of the recent Big Four picnic were given from the floor.

Members made plans to hold a School of Instruction here on September 18 when a grand lodge official will be in town to conduct it. This will be an all-day session and will be held at the W.O.W. hall.

Mrs. Stinson and Hicks served frozen malts to the following:

Mrs. S. R. Jones, M. C. Knowles, S. M. Stinson, B. F. Tyson, W. W. McCormick, B. N. Ralph, Herbert Fox, W. O. Wasson, H. J. Petefish, J. T. Allen, C. A. Schull, E. O. Hicks, J. P. Masdor, N. R. Smith, F. G. Powell, Misses Myrtle Stamps, Jamie Lee Mendor, Edna Cochran.

Mrs. S. P. Jones Back
From Centennial Trip

Mrs. S. P. Jones and three children, Myrtle, Mildred and Omar, have returned from a trip to Dallas to see the centennial exposition, also to Sulphur Springs and Emory to visit relatives.

Accompanying them home for a visit were Mrs. Jones, parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McKeown of Emory.

Larson Lloyds Return
From Trip To Dallas

Mr. and Mrs. Larson Lloyd have returned from a trip to Dallas to the Centennial. While in that part of Texas they went to Dennot to visit Mrs. Lloyd's sister, Mrs. C. E. Carter.

Little Miss Patricia Lloyd stayed at home with her grandmother, Mrs. Dee Price, while her parents were away.

AMERADA ACQUIRES ACREAGE IN GAINES, WILL DRILL TEST

Shows Encountered In Two Wildcats In Northwestern Ector County

AN ANGLO, Aug. 22.—Acquisition by Amerada of control of the county acreage on which the Adams and Adams drilled a big gas well three miles northwest of Seminole, with provision for a nearby well to be started by Sept. 1, and the Adams and Adams in both wildcats being drilled in extreme northwestern Ector county by Graham-Hunter Corp. on the R. B. Cowden lease attracted most attention in West Texas this week.

Stumble No. 1 C. H. Eubanks, seven miles northwest of Landreth No. 1 Kirk, Gaines county's only producer, showed gas from 5,628-32 feet and was credited with an increase in deepening. It showed some gas but no oil recently after being treated with 3,000 gallons of acid when bottomed at 5,342 feet. Location is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 2-B22-pal.

Landreth No. 1 Kirk, shut down for sometime after plugging back from 4,870 to 4,555 feet to cut off a small amount of sulfur water, was making a pumping test. Before presence of the water was discovered, the well was bailed 120 barrels of oil in 16 hours. It is 330 feet out of the southwest corner of section 2-B22-pal.

Crane Completion

Biggest completed well of the week was the Waddell No. 6 Edwards in the Waddell pool in northern Crane county, which flowed 2-1/2 barrels of oil in four hours after being treated with 5,000 gallons of acid to establish a daily potential of 13,192.2 barrels daily. Four employees of the Chemical Process Co. were assisted Saturday morning, Aug. 15, while preparing to run the acid. They were: D. B. Striplin, Granville Tolbert, Bertis Magnus and Jack Bell. The well topped the main pool at 3,535 feet and drilled to 3,700 feet. It is 330 feet from the south line and 660 feet from the west line of section 2-B22-pal.

Locations and completions this week balanced, 35 each. Locations preceding week totaled 47 in 11 counties, the largest number since the week ending May 14 when 48 were listed to establish a record since 1929 if not in the history of the district. Winkler county gained 10 of the locations last week, Ward eight, Howard five, Deas four, Ector three and Andrews, Crane, Jones and Upton counties one each. There were 11 completions in Winkler county, one in Ward, five in Deas, three in Upton, two each in Crane and Ector counties and one each in Pecos, Howard and Reeves counties.

New Wildcat Is Spudded In Jones County

Another, Half-Mile South-west of Anson, Is Abandoned

ABILENE, Aug. 22.—Routine drilling reports provided most of the news for this area during the week, with one wildcat north of Hawley spudded and one south of Anson abandoned.

About half a mile north of Hawley, the Thomas D. Humphrey No. 1 W. F. Rushing was spudded this week and had drilled past 500 feet on a projected 2,500-foot test. Location is in the center of section 12, 3, 1-2, T&P, was drilling at 250 feet in red rock.

Nearing the level where it may be compared with the ill-fated but interesting Fleetborn No. 1 Dodson in Glasscock county is the B. A. Duffy and Floyd Dodson No. 1 J. J. Carter estate, 8, 3, 1-2, T&P, survey which ran 1-4 inch casing at 1,750 feet. The wildcat is located a mile and a half northeast of the Fleetborn hole.

In Borden county the Moore Bros. No. 1 Clayton-Johnson wildcat in 20, 32, 1-2, T&P, was drilling at 660 feet in redbeds after setting 12 1-2 inch casing at 330 feet.

Garza county's newest test, the M. L. Richards No. 2 1st estate was spudded this week in 6, 5, K. A. Cox survey and set 12 1/2 inch casing at 300 feet in redrock Friday. It is located 570 south of the Richards No. 1 Post and 660 feet west of the Graham-Hunter No. 2 Post which was brought in for an 80-barrel producer last week.

Sinclair-Prairie staked location for its No. 5-B Davis, 330 feet from the west line and 990 feet from the south line of the southeast quarter of 2, 30, 1-1, T&P, in the East Howard field during the week.

DUCE, SEEKING MORE POWER, TAKES TIP FROM WASHINGTON

ROME, Aug. 22 (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini has become another George Washington in his determination to stay out of entangling alliances.

With conditions seemingly perfect for an alliance with Germany, he says to Hitler, in effect, "We can collaborate without incorporating."

With England and France pleading for his return to the Stresa anti-Germany front, he refuses to attend their preliminary Locarno conference.

He intends to be more than "a little bit independent."

Late summer, according to a high fascist official, will see a definite flowering of Mussolini's policy, with the following cornerstones:

1—No alliance with the German group or the Anglo-French group. On the contrary, an "independent Italian" policy which may be described as the holding of a continental balance of power as between France and Germany similar to that held by England for so many generations in the whole of Europe.

2—Reform of the League of Nations by removing its compulsory features and making the big powers linked by his own pact its ruling body.

3—Attendance at the five-power Locarno conference (England, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium) to be called probably in September. He will have worked out his idea for the new big-power pact by that time so as to capture the lead with it.

4—Reform of the League of Nations by removing its compulsory features and making the big powers linked by his own pact its ruling body.

Meantime some uncertainties must be cleared up for Mussolini. Wants Mediterranean Pact.

One is the attitude of England in the Mediterranean. If Duce wants England to give up its mutual security pacts in that sea and enter with Italy into a pact mutually guaranteeing its freedom.

Another is the socialist government in France. If Duce must wait to see how Premier Blum's left ideas will change French foreign Gulf No. 7 Goldsmith, in the northwest extension to the Goldsmith pool and in the northeast quarter of section 4-44-1a-T&P, flowed 60 1-2 barrels of oil the first hour after being shot with 200 quarts from 4,145 to 4,225 feet.

Amagada, it was understood, will drill in Gaines county 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 228, block G, W.T.R.R. Co. survey, a southwest offset to W. T. Walsh and Harry Adams Corp. No. 1 Averitt. This wildcat was drilled on a geophysical "high" worked out by Amerada and checked by others and was completed in March at 4,910 feet as a 12,368,000-cubic foot gasser when tools could not be recovered. It was reported it will be plugged owing to its bad condition.

Amerada acquired from Walsh and others their interest in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 228, for part cash, contracting to return the lease in the event oil production is obtained after a certain amount of oil is produced. Harry Adams turned to Amerada in the deal the lease on the west half of the northwest quarter of section 228, which was contributed by the Ohio Oil company (then Marathon) for the drilling of No. 1 Averitt. Full details of the transaction were not made public.

L. D. Stogner and Elliott Roosevelt No. 1 Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, Yonkum county wildcat in the northeast quarter of section 215-D, John H. Gibson survey, was unchanged in drilling to 4,965 feet in lime. Honolulu-Cascade No. 1 Dugan, southeastern Cochran county wildcat, had passed 3,070 feet in redbeds. It has an elevation of 3,694 feet and topped the Yates sand at 2,910 feet. Location is in the center of labour 13, league 55, Oldham county school lands.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Bob Slaughter in the southwest corner of Rockley county, in the southwest part of labour 83, league 38, Zavalla county school lands, had passed 2,040 feet in redbeds. Usan and Illinois No. 1 A. R. Brownfield, southwestern Terry county wildcat, was moving in rotary after drilling 160 feet with a water well machine. It is in the center of the north half of section 54-K-pal.

On the northwest side of Anson, the H. C. Owens and Roy Prichard No. 1 H. A. Owens, in section 69, REB&C survey, was shut down for repairs at a depth of 634 feet.

Northeast of Anson, the B. F. Robbins, W. K. Wood et al No. 1 McCreight had drilled past 2,370 feet in lime. It is in section 14, OAL survey.

Five miles northeast of Anson, the Cliff Camp No. 1 O. E. Woodson, in section 37, D&DA survey, was fishing for tools and 16 joints of eight-inch casing lost in the hole at a total depth of 1,735 feet.

R. C. Parker No. 1 C. L. Brown, in section 9, block 2, T&NO survey, was at a depth of 2,347 feet in lime, unchanged. It will be deepened to the 2,500-foot horizon.

Seven miles northwest of the Hawley field, the Owens-Snebold Oil Corporation & Wittmer Oil & Gas Properties No. 1 L. Jones was setting five-inch casing to a total depth of 2,540 feet. It is in the south end of the John W. McKisick survey.

In the Hawley field, the Ungren & Frazier key well, to be used for repressuring the Bluff Creek sands in the field, had cemented six-inch casing at a total depth of 1,982 feet after taking a slight show of oil and gas. It is on the line between sections 5 and 6, Manuel Pueno survey No. 197.

On the north edge of the Luera field, the Ungren & Frazier No. 11 J. W. Jeniles had drilled to 2,850 feet on a test which will be carried to the Canyon sands, first such deep test to be made in that area since the discovery of the Luera field. It failed in both the Hope and King sands, which produce in the field. The Canyon is expected around 2,900 feet. Location is in the northeast corner of section 207, BBB&C survey, three miles northwest of Luera.

Completions Recorded In Howard Co.

Continental No. 10 Settles Finished For 232-Bbl. Potential

Two completions were recorded in the East Howard and Howard-Glasscock fields last week. On production test the Continental No. 10 Settles, section 159, block 29, W&NW survey showed 11.36 barrels the second hour for a potential of 232 barrels a day. It topped pay at 1,205 feet and is bottomed at 1,248 feet.

Iron Mountain No. 11 C. D. Read, 36, 30, 1-1, T&P, was drilling Friday at 2,745 feet in lime with 1,400 feet of oil standing in the hole. It is the company's 15th producer on the Read lease. Rigging is up for its 15th test which may be spudded this week.

ELECTION CHANGES

Following every primary election in recent years has come the cry for changes in the law to make it less burdensome on the voter and the candidate alike, yet every change has added to the complexity of the act and has created contradictions or ambiguous sections until no one knows what it is all about.

The latest demand heard is for the preferential primary, which if adopted will serve to only further confuse the voter and make the completion of the returns a matter for expert accountants, who naturally are not to be had at the wages paid election officers and not at any price in the smaller towns and rural election precincts.

The greatest mistake made was for the legislature to take over the functions of the democratic party, it being the only party required to hold a primary election, except at rare intervals, because it is only required of parties casting 100,000 votes for its candidates. The mass and maze of regulations thrown around the primary makes it a cumbersome and expensive operation and some of its requirements are beyond physical compliance. The absentee voting, which is a comparatively late addition, costs the candidates fifteen cents for each vote, that being the price of the complicated blanks each county committee is required to buy for each absentee voter. The legislator with a salary of from $1200 to $1800 is assessed by his own vote in enacting the law only one dollar for cost of the election, which is less than the country constable who is lucky if he gets $50 in fees.

The best amendment to the law would be its total repeal, enactment of a law setting a uniform date for primaries, providing punishment for illegal voting, and leave the balance to the party holding the primary. Beyond that the state has no right to go.

Where the state can act, is through changes in method of selecting many public officials to bring about the "short ballot." The cry for this, too, is always heard after elections, but the agitation never lasts very long. Efficient government sooner or later will demand in Texas that many of the minor offices be made appointive.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

Unless you are willing to pay for the fun of being fooled, steer clear of a certain pleasant young man who makes his living as a magician-entertainer in the nightclubs of New York. You will know him by the turban and dangling tassel that he wears, and by the eagerness with which he appears to be trying to please.

It is his custom to move from one group to another, after the floor show, and exercise his talents for the personal edification of your private assembly. And that's how he makes much extra money.

Not long ago, a group from the American colony in Buenos Aires was rounding out a vacation in the city by a fare well fling in one of the town's most exclusive late spots.

Approaching the party, he suggested that one of the gentlemen hand him a $5 note "just for a moment." Unhesitatingly the note was proffered. Whereupon the magician executed a number of amazingly clever stunts, making the bill disappear through his palm, causing it to reappear in a lady's slipper, and so on.

Finally the fellow closed his hand over the note and held out both fists. "Which hand is it in?" he inquired.

"The left," declared the highly entertained visitor.

"May I keep it if it isn't there?" he asked smoothly.

"Of course," the victim agreed, never dreaming that he meant it.

That was too bad, for the bill wasn't in the left hand. It wasn't in either hand. It was under the lapel of his dinner jacket.

"Thank you," the magician had the gall to reply. He slipped the $5 into his pocket, bowed and departed.

The young man didn't mind losing the $5, but he very much resented being made the goat.

His act invariably includes sleight-of-hand stunts with baby chickens. He carries practically a dozen about with him, pulling them from his ears and eyes, and causing them to appear in the pockets of astounded guests.

He is a little fellow, very quick and sharp and apparently bubbling over with glee. But who wouldn't be happy with a windfall of banknotes fluttering into his pockets each evening?

New York, by the way, has always been a haven for mystics and seers who follow the stars. Right now numerology seems the most popular of the pseudo-sciences.

It was numerology that caused Carole Lombard to add that extra "e" to her name. Then she became a great star.

Another instance of its strange influence comes from a real estate man who owns a lot of tenements in the city. He reports that the tenants in one of his houses want to move because the numerologist warned them the street number of their apartment building failed to coincide with the powers ruling their destiny.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The democratic high command isn't announcing the fact, but it has turned thumbs down on any campaign speaking by Harry Hopkins.

It did announce the fact privately, however, to Hopkins himself.

"You're too closely identified with the spending end of the government," Sam Rayburn, chairman of the speakers' committee, told Hopkins quite bluntly. "If you begin making speeches, people immediately will say we are putting politics into relief."

Harry didn't argue about it, but apparently the veto has preyed on his mind. He thinks that he, too, should do his bit to re-elect "the Skipper."

And so on the Q. T. he has been going around fixing up a few speaking dates. He is going West with the president, and afterward plans to launch out on a little barnstorming of his own—without benefit of the democratic national committee.

Liberal Conference
It hasn't been announced yet but the liberal conference fostered by Senator Bob La Follette will be held August 29-30 (Saturday and Sunday) in Chicago.

Reason for the secrecy on the date is that La Follette has wanted to be certain of the attendance of Senator George Norris, and other congressional liberals, before making it public.

Norris has been none too keen about the meeting. When La Follette told him of the plan, the Nebraska expressed the opinion that such a gathering was unwelcome, that it would not attract a large attendance and that the opposition would use that fact to "smear" it. But the young Wisconsinite persisted and has issued the call. Norris will be present. The total attendance is not expected to exceed 100.

No More Hot Air
Not since 1814, when the British burned the capitol, has that structure been such a shambles as today.

Automatic drills are gutting walls and floors. A pall of dust hangs over the building. Rooms have been stripped of their furnishings. Rugs, desks, files have been dumped on the house and senate floors. Statues have been trundled aside and draped with dark white cloths. Eighteen trudge merrily through a building that looks like Rheims cathedral after the bombardment of German guns.

It is all for the sake of modernization. The capitol is being air-conditioned.

Chief of the modernization drive is Capitol Architect David Lynn, now striving desperately to spend $2,500,000 before January 3. His job includes not only the capitol building but the three office buildings—a total of 2,000 rooms. Lynn wouldn't want congressmen to come back and take me by surprise, says Lynn. "But if they'll wait until January, we'll have all the channels cut, all the galvanized ducts set in, and everything plastered up and painted so they won't know any difference. They'll feel the cool air coming from water pipes at 41 degrees. Lynn's only source of worry is Lemke. If the Union party candidate should capture enough states to throw the election into the house, there might be a special session before January, in which case the job wouldn't be finished in time.

The capitol's air will be conditioned from basement to attic, including the corridors, statutory hall, the vast Rotunda and even the old supreme court room which no one enters any more. Only space which will preserve the ancient air of the past is the dungeon-like crypt where, behind iron grates two floors beneath the rotunda, there lies an empty tomb of George Washington. There will be no air-conditioning here.

Secretary and Assistant
Professor Raymond Moley, once a brain trust and assistant secretary of state, has summarized the faults and virtues of the new deal in the current issue of Red Book, where he describes the foreign policies of his old chief, Cordell Hull, as "undistinguished."

All of which recalls a hitherto unreported incident in the very early days of the new deal, when Roosevelt, Hull, Moley and Charles Tansig were discussing foreign policy. Moley said to Tansig: "When I give you the wink, you get rid of the secretary of state. We want to talk about war debts."

Absentee Voters
One of the big, although unbalanced, campaign jobs of both major parties this year is the wooing of the absentee voter.

In the past, such electioneering activities were confined almost entirely to the District of Columbia, where constant shifting of new deals has built up a large "non-native" population. But this year thousands of eligible voters are working on government projects scattered all over the country.

Some thousand out-of-state votes might mean the loss or gain of a doubtful state; so campaign strategists of both parties are busy. The republican absentee-voter organization is still in the formative stage, but the democrats have set up the absentee voters bureau, headed by Mrs. S. Jennings Aubrey.

Mrs. Aubrey keeps a large staff of clerks busy sending out thousands of letters to absentee voters urging them to be sure to cast their ballots. Free forms are enclosed and free notarial service is offered.

Mr. Aubrey estimates that there are 146,000 absentee voters in Washington alone, with at least 1,000,000 others scattered from Maine to California on PWA, WPA, TVA, AAA and other government projects.

The Serf room of the Waldorf... Peggy Fears, a study in tan and white, standing in the rain in Fifth avenue... Mildred Monson, a Kansas City lass, waiting for the light to change at 48th and Park avenue...

Merry-Go-Round
Post office department employees who bet that Acting Postmaster Howes would not move into Big Jim Farley's ornate office are out of luck. Big Bill is not only ensconced in his absent chief's office, but his secretary has taken over the room formerly occupied by Farley's secretary.

The Reverend Gerald L. K. Smith, asked to identify a Bible quotation that appeared on a banner at the recent Townsend convention, replied: "I don't know. To tell the truth I have not read all of the Bible yet."

The Home Owners Loan corporation has paid a total of $2,388,000 in delinquent taxes to Kansas counties—an important factor in balancing their budgets. The HOLC made the tax payments when it took over the mortgages of distressed home owners.

Major George Berry, chairman of Labor's Nonpartisan League, claims that 60 per cent of the membership of the A. F. of L. has signed up with the league to support Roosevelt in the November election.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, bitterly resents the commerce department's criticism of his report on the airplane crash that killed Senator Bronson Cutting. Copeland says that out of consideration to the department the report was tempered in tone, and that if attacks on it continue he will reopen the case and really give the department "the works."

Copeland's report charged the plane crash was due to inefficiency in the bureau of air commerce.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

Chapter 37 THE ANSWER

"Dear Inspector," the Sergeant's letter began, "I am sorry for all the official flapping there will be about this business."

"I don't know whether you are beginning to guess it or not, but I killed Arthur Burdett; an action for which I wasn't sorry at the time, but which I am inclined to regret now."

"Burdett was not only a miser but a rascal as well—I had reason to think some time ago that he got various women up to the Court on one pretext or another, but it had nothing to do with me and so I didn't take much notice. But lately he had his eye on my wife; twice he rang her up when he knew I was away and asked her to go up there to take a message for me. I thought, until today, that that was why she went up there, but I know differently now."

"It so happened that the second time she was there (or at any rate the second time I know of) I was on some of his land beyond Nyetown, seeing about a tree that had blown across the road and that had to be cleared away. I called at the Court on my way back and as luck would have it ran into Alice just as she was leaving."

"She looked a bit upset and flushed, and I suppose she was frightened at seeing me there. Any way when we got home that evening she told me that he had rung her up on an excuse of having some message for me and asked her to go up there, and when she had got there there was no more talk about any message, he ended up by trying to make love to her. I suppose now that she told me all these half-lies because she was thoroughly scared by my turning up there unexpectedly and was afraid that I already knew something."

"I thought it over a day and decided to go up on Monday, when I knew his man would be out, to thrash the whole thing out with him and see where we stood. So as not to worry Alice, I told her I was going out on my usual Nyetown round after poachers."

"Actually, I went up to Enderton Court; I used the back drive. I got to the Court at about five minutes to seven, I should think. I knocked on the front door and the old miser came shuffling across the hall just like Lumsdale described. He opened the door as far as the chain would admit and peered out. I said 'I want a word with you Mr."

Burdett about a little matter.' "He hesitated a moment and then took the chain off and told me to come in. I followed him across the hall into that little study sort of place where he always used to sit. We sat down and he croaked out, 'What do you want at this time of night?'"

"I asked him straight out what he was doing with my wife."

"He burst out into the usual torrent of abuse which he used whenever he lost his temper. What the hell did I mean, and how dare I have the bloody impudence, and all that sort of thing."

"Of course I took no notice of that, except perhaps that it made me even angrier than I was already. When he had run short of breath I told him quite quietly that my wife had complained of being deceived up there under false pretenses and of having been molested, and that unless he had some satisfactory explanation to give I intended to make an official case of it and prosecute him."

"It was then that the whole atmosphere of the thing changed. I didn't speak at all for the next ten minutes, he had it all his own way. He told me, amongst a lot of other things, that if I really imagined my wife went up there unwillingly it was about the richest thing he had ever heard of; that his great difficulty had been to keep her away once he had first got her up there; that he knew well enough what I was after, that the whole thing was a plant—that I wanted money."

"I couldn't stand it any way and when he said that about Alice I lost control of myself (damned fool that I was). I had by truncheon out before I knew what I was doing. When he had said what he did about Alice he leaned across the table and spat at me. I had my hand on my truncheon as I've told you and when he leaned forward and opened that scrawling mouth of his I hit him without knowing that I did it."

"It killed him at once. I hit him on the head which I didn't mean to do. In a sense you may say that I didn't mean to hit him at all, it all happened so quickly and under the stress of temper. However, all those things don't matter. I did hit him and killed him and it was murder. "I lost my head for a few minutes, and damned nearly turned tail and ran, leaving everything just as it was, but, of course, that soon passed. I knew nobody could have heard anything and I was certain no one had seen me going up the back drive. My truncheon was the first snag. I thought I would provide a weapon to make it easy for everybody."

"Those two Indian Clubs took my eye so I jumped up on a chair and got one down (the second fell down with a hell of a clatter, it made me jump a foot, and I realized how nervy I was). "When that was finished I put the club back in its place (the club I had stood on to get the club) carefully brushed off any evidence of it having been stood on and had a good look around. "One club was on the floor and I picked it up and hung it on a nail on the wall. It just shows how mistaken a man can be about the state of his mind and how easy it must be for murderers to make silly mistakes; I could have sworn I was perfectly cool and collected and yet I never realized that I was putting that club back on its wrong nail; it just didn't enter my head."

"Halfway down the back drive I did exactly what you thought the murderer did. I stuck my truncheon well into the grass at the foot of the hedge and wiped all the mess off it. Then I slung it in place again and went on. There was no one about so I turned left and made off sharply through the lanes to Nyetown village."

"I was back home by half past eight and sat there pretending to read with my ears nailed to the door as you may say. "Just after nine Lumsdale knocked. I let him in and he told me his alarming news. I hope my face looked serious and official, enough, I tried to make it so anyway, and I walked up with him to the first murder of my life (but my second view of it). "I want to make it clear, Inspector, that I didn't want anybody else to be charged with the crime, but I didn't see how there could be any evidence to charge anyone else. I don't pretend to know what I should have done if the circumstantial evidence had gone on mounting against Ripley the way it did."

"However, you feel a damned fool, Inspector, when you've jumped into the river to rescue someone and it turns out to be a dummy. I found out today that what Arthur Burdett said about my wife was absolutely true—so I needn't have killed him at all really, which is a pretty good joke on both of us when you come to think of it. "Well, Inspector, that's the way of it. I know it all before; shut my eyes to it and have had it proved abundantly again: Go your own way in life and trust yourself, nothing else is worth while. If you hadn't come in when you did this evening I should have killed Alice. You saved her, and much good that will do the world. I shan't kill her now, I couldn't very well hope to get away with that, and yet if I let her live she'll get me caught over the other thing, somehow or other in the devilish way women have in their minds she knows."

"Well, she won't have that pleasure. I've always lived life my own way and I'll go out of it my own way."

James Clewly White."

Inspector Hylton read this remarkable and eminently lucid document through slowly and with a series of mingled feelings such as he had seldom, if ever, before experienced. When he had finished it to its last syllable he gathered the loose sheets together and took them into the office, not caring particularly to share the company in the kitchen any longer. "Poor devil" Hylton thought with compassion. Then lifting up the receiver, he asked in a weary voice for the Morechester Police Station. (Copyright, 1938, Laurence W. Meynell)

Georgia Tourists Cautious

OAKVILLE, Ont. (UP)—A service station proprietor says a party of tourists from Georgia stopped at his station for supplies recently with the temperature at 106 degrees and all were bundled up in heavy clothes. They even had two fur coats in the back seat. The driver said he was "heading for Canada," and did not want to take any chances.

Study Repeal Of Federal Luxury Taxes

Action Would Mean Saving Of $10 To $50 A Year Per Family

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. (UP)—The average American family may be given a saving next year of from $10 to $50 in luxury taxes it developed today as treasury and congressional tax experts studied proposed repeal of various "high collection cost" nuisance taxes. In the category tentatively it was understood are taxes on sporting goods, furs, theater admissions, club dues and jewelry. Virtually all of the scores of nuisance taxes expire July 1. Under the administration's present plan, congress probably would extend the bulk of them for at least another year.

The most efficient "nuisance" levies are those manufacturers excise taxes on products made by relatively few companies. Collection costs in these instances are relatively small compared with the yield. The gasoline, lubricated oil, automobile tires, cigaret and chewing gum levies might be so classified.

Approximately $50,000,000 in taxes of the nuisance variety are considered susceptible to revision or repeal by administration experts because of the high collection cost. Theater and cabaret admission taxes are examples. They returned

Agent Urges Planting Of Fall Gardens

Farm Women Encouraged To Produce Own Food For Coming Winter

Increasing food prices and prolonged drought which wrought havoc with spring gardens has led Miss Mayme Lou Parr, county home demonstration agent, to urge farmwives to plant early fall gardens with the view of yet having a good canning season.

Faced with the prospect of seeing average price of food articles rise 15 to 20 per cent this winter, and with a shortage of home canned materials on their pantry and cellar shelves, farm women are being encouraged in every way to raise garden truck which can be laid by for future use.

The green bean canning season is over, said Miss Parr, and practically all of the green pea canning is completed. The short garden crop has resulted in the smallest amount of that commodity being laid by in years. Other vegetables, with the possible exception of okra, have had short crops.

If gardens are put in shape for early planting, rains which usually visit this section the latter part of August may be timely enough to permit raising of a nice garden before frost, said Miss Parr. While lateness of the season may preclude as wide a variety as possible from a spring planting, a good harvest would nevertheless save farmers many dollars on their food bill.

Last year $17,112,175, but involved considerable collection difficulties. Treasury experts have avoided mentioning specific taxes which they think should be shifted because of the fear that interested groups will demand a stand on the administration's attitude regarding every tax.

The American Automobile Association has announced it will demand repeal of the motor taxes, which it estimates amounted to 72 per cent of all federal excise tax revenue last year.

Old Mining Area Booms LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Activity in the famous old Searchlight mining district in the southern end of Clark county, Nevada, has revived. A 150-ton mill is regrounding and treating tailings from the old Quartzette mill, among other operations.

Old Capitol Is Museum FILLMORE, Utah (UP)—Utah's first state capitol here is now a museum where relics of pompous days of state in pioneer days are kept. The building was completed for the legislature to meet Dec. 10, 1885, and was used only for two sessions.

City Dog Sales Taxed OAKLAND, Cal. (UP)—The plan of equalization has notified the city of Oakland it must pay the regular sales tax on every impounded dog it has sold the past year. The city has replied that as it is not officially in the dog business, the sales tax does not apply.

Mouse Wrecks Auto OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (UP)—When a mouse suddenly appeared on a steering wheel of an automobile, three summer residents were slightly injured. The sight of the rodent caused the driver, Frank M. Nettleton, to lose control of the machine, which crashed into a highway fence.

Individual Initiative

—has made America the world's richest nation.

PRIVATE enterprise has enabled the American people to enjoy advantages and comforts far beyond those of any comparably great population elsewhere in the world.

Private enterprise includes the individual farmer who helps produce the nation's foods, the "one man" building or manufacturing concern, the small merchant, the more sizable business firms and right on up to the greatest industrial and commercial corporations.

It is the primary function of the banks under normal conditions to give direct and constructive financial cooperation to all forms of business endeavor where conditions justify such action. In this Community are numerous instances of successful enterprises under individual initiative. This bank numbers many of them among its customers.

The Week

July report of the County-Wide Welfare association as submitted by the administrator, L. A. Deason, showed that of a total expenditure slightly in excess of $1,000, the sum of $883.25 went for hospitalization, professional services, and funeral expense. The pity of it is that people in need of charity will be coming back repeatedly for medical treatment because their circumstances will not permit the needed food, facilities and rest for proper convalescence. It's another good social problem to ponder.

The Salvation Army, seeking to reopen a post here, will conduct a drive for finances this week. There's this about the army; its program is more penetrating in the class which it touches than most any organization known. Too, the Salvation Army has a two-way object in feeding souls as well as bodies. By this means it tends to elevate as well as retrieve.

T. A. Harris, game warden for this district, made a plea in behalf of the prairie chickens here this week. The birds face extinction unless passed up by sportsmen this year, he declared. Accordingly, hunters will go after the chickens, but sportsmen will not. But here's a brighter picture: dove and quail are in greatest abundance than at any time within the past 10 years. This was a good year for raising and fields and ranges abound with the game birds.

Budget for Big Spring Independent school district was adopted last week. It called for a total expenditure of $142,901, of which about $30,000 is for bonded debt requirements. Looking at the figures, it is easy to see that it costs a pretty penny to properly educate children. By comparison at least Big Spring is getting value received for education dollars, for the local school system ranks high among the schools of the state.

SHOWERS FALL IN OKLA. PANHANDLE

GUYMON, Okla., Aug. 22. (AP)—Overnight rains in the dry Oklahoma panhandle and surrounding areas of Texas and Kansas eased the drought situation today.

While the precipitation was light, it brought hope for further rainfall that would permit growing late crops and put the land in condition for fall wheat planting.

Hooker and Optima, in Texas county, were splashed by .75 inch during the night. Spearman, Tex., reported a similar amount of rainfall.

Showers were reported at Liberal, Kansas.

Showers fell intermittently at Beaver, totaling .43 inch. It was cloudy there today.

Guymon had 21 inch while Boise City and Goodwell reported fairly heavy showers. Texhoma had a sprinkle.

JAPANESE KILLED BY BANDIT HORDE

TOKYO, Aug. 22. (AP)—A thousand bandits killed 32 Japanese subjects and two Manchoukuan in a raid on the walled town of Fusing, near the Korean border of Manchoukuo, Domei News Agency dispatches said today.

The reports said the well organized and heavily armed bandit army advanced into Fusing last Sunday, overpowered the small Japanese garrison and razed more than two-thirds of the buildings. The bandits carried off hostages when several Japanese army bombing planes from Sinking forced them to retreat from the walled town of eastern Antung province.

The bandits apparently singled out Japanese or Koreans for their victims. Of those killed three were soldiers, two policemen and 27 civilian residents.

Land Measuring May Start Monday

Measuring of farm lands in Howard county, delayed at the last minute two weeks ago, may be started Monday morning, it was indicated by County Agent O. P. Griffin Saturday.

Notice that budgets for the work were being mailed out of College Station was received by the agent Thursday but had not been received here Saturday.

Griffin's office was assorting maps on the farms which were prepared last year during compliance checking.

Crops the county over were still in a hard way Saturday but were showing signs of revival due to slightly cooler nights.

Griffin, who has been surprising accurate with his production estimates in the past, said Saturday he was not quite ready to make his prediction this year. Others, basing their estimates on present conditions, predicted a top of 15,000 bales.

FORMER POLICEMEN WIN IN TOM GREEN

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 22. (AP)—Hed Lowe and Henry Alexander, two city policemen worrying along on $80 a month until a change in the city administration cost them their jobs, Saturday romped away with the sheriff's and constable's races in Tom Green county.

Lowe defeated Arch Bengt for sheriff by a vote of 3,383 to 1,971 while Alexander ran away from Jack Nabors for the constable's post, 2,657 to 1,530.

Ben Le Fever And Mrs. Green Married Here Saturday Evening

Mrs. Waldo Green became the bride of Benjamin L. Le Fever at a lovely home ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shins Phillips Saturday evening at 9 o'clock. Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church, read the ring ceremony.

The couple pledged their vows in a setting perfumed with roses and gladioli, in the presence of a group of intimate friends. After the ceremony they were feted with a dinner given in their honor by the wedding guests.

The bride was modestly attired in a frock of white crepe and carried a corsage bouquet of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Le Fever is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Matthews of Abilene. She was reared and educated in that city and obtained her college education at McMurry. She has taught in the Big Spring schools for the past two years.

Mr. Le Fever has made his home here for the past six years. He is superintendent for the American Maracabo company.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Fever will reside on the American Maracabo lease sixteen miles south of town. The list of wedding guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sellers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reed, Miss Elouise Haley, Mrs. Ellen Wood and Miss Dorothy Le Fever; Messrs. Buster Bell, Earl Ezzell, Dick Le Fever, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Broughton.

62 OLDSTERS TAKEN BY DEATH BEFORE PENSIONS GRANTED

The Grim Reaper is slashing down many a would-be old age pensioner in this district.

Since February 14, when applications for old age assistance were first made available, 62 persons 65 years or older have died in the 13 counties of the district.

Of the number, 19 were residents of Howard county. George White, district supervisor, disclosed Saturday. With bulk of the applications now submitted, White estimated that death would keep pace with new applications, tending to make the district total fairly stable.

Life Saving Course To Be Given Here

Red Cross To Sponsor Classes Beginning Monday Of Next Week

Local chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct its annual life saving course at the municipal swimming pool, beginning Monday, August 31. First meeting of the class will be held at 5:30 or 6:00 p. m., it was announced Saturday by Walton Morrison, director.

The purpose of this course is to instruct good, fair and even mediocre swimmers how to take care of themselves in the water and how to save the lives of others in water accidents and emergencies.

For many years the Red Cross has encouraged this educational program in an effort to lower the death rate from water accidents.

"In this dry country it is felt that particular attention should be given to swimming and life saving activities, because our people have not been accustomed to much water," Morrison said. "Since the new pool has been opened here, it is believed that more people, both young and old, will take up swimming for exercise and recreation. Therefore, it is believed that every person who swims should know about Red Cross life saving methods, not only for his or her benefit, but for the benefit of some other person who might at some time need assistance."

The course is open to swimmers of all ages. Eight hours instruction are required, followed by examination for those who desire to qualify as a junior or senior life saver.

Those who will assist in instruction will be J. B. Hodges, Jr., Merrill Creighton, A. W. Cocker and Morrison.

Housing Official Back To Ft. Worth

R. E. Sikes, with the federal housing administration, left here Saturday after maintaining offices in the Petroleum building for more than a week.

He requested that those who are desirous of securing more information contact the office of the Federal Savings and Loan association in the Petroleum building, or write to the FHA offices in Fort Worth.

Sikes said he would return here at a later date to check on progress of prospective home owners in obtaining housing loans.

Meeting Held By Elbow H. D. Club

Council reports were given, and recipes exchanged between members, at a meeting of the Elbow home demonstration club last week at the school house.

Plans for a pantry achievement day were discussed.

Attending the meeting were Meses. C. M. Grissam, Rose Hill, Duke Lipscomb, and Jack McKennon, and Miss Charline Grissam.

TRANSPORT GROUP TO MEET MONDAY

The Howard County Motor Transportation association will hold its regular meeting in the district court room at 8 o'clock Monday night, officials announced Saturday.

Delegates to the recent convention of the Texas Motor Transportation association at Fort Worth will give reports on the sessions, and all members of the local organization are urged to attend.

POSTAL RECEIPTS MADE GAIN IN JULY

A recheck of the records today revealed that July postal receipts showed a substantial gain instead of a decrease as was reported at the beginning of August. Postmaster Nat Shick said the figure should have been $5,240.31 instead of $4,344.30. This represented a gain of $896.01 over June and kept the record of sustained gains since 1932 intact.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE APPROVED AT FORSAN

Voters of the Forsan common school district Friday gave approval to a proposed $10,000 bond issue by a vote of 54 to 29.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to finance a new building for the Forsan school unit. The building will house classrooms, library and home economics laboratory and will cost approximately $7,000.

J. A. Smith To Receive B. B. A. Degree At Tech

Mrs. H. H. Smith has gone to Lubbock to visit friends and to be present for the commencement exercises of Texas Technological college to be held Tuesday evening. At these exercises her son, J. A., will receive his B.B.A. degree (bachelor of business administration). Alvin Smith will leave Friday for Lubbock to attend the exercises.

J. A. Smith expects to go to the University of Texas this fall to begin work on his law degree.

LOCAL MAN'S COUSIN DIES AT PLAINVIEW

H. L. Rix was in Plainview Saturday to attend funeral services for a cousin, Mrs. Johnnie Rix Powell, who succumbed at her home there Friday night at 10:15. Rix and another cousin, Byrd Buchanan of Colorado, left for Plainview Friday afternoon, upon receipt of word of Mrs. Powell's critical illness. She died a short time after they arrived.

Mrs. Powell was interred in a Plainview cemetery following services at 5 p. m. Saturday.

Thompson, McDonald Win Big Majorities Here

Howard county went for incumbents "in a big way" in the two state contests involved in Saturday's runoff primary.

Local voters gave Col. Ernest O. Thompson a majority of approximately two and one-half to one over Frank Morris, in the contest for the railroad commission.

The Howard vote was: Thompson 2,216, Morris 927.

J. E. McDonald, seeking re-election as state agriculture commissioner, was accorded a two-to-one majority in this county, winning 2,110 votes to 1,092 for George Terrell.
