Mrs. Grady Pipkin of Eastland will be presented in a vocal solo "The White Cliffs of Dover", with violin accompaniment.

Distinguished guests will then be introduced by the master of ceremonies, followed by one verse of "Star Spangled Banner" played by the band.

Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 50, have passed a preliminary physical examination and have letters of recommendation showing trade experience before being eligible to be interviewed.

This is the first visit of Ensign Gaffney to this district. Navy recruiters did not know if he would return at a later date.

EASTLAND TO BE HOST TO T-P SINGERS

The T-P Sunshine Singers, a state organization of singers organized in Eastland in 1926, is due to hold its annual convention in Eastland in Eastland June 13 and 14th.

Judge R. L. Rust of Eastland was the first president of the organization, which at first included only a limited number of West Texas counties, and served in that capacity for seven years. Retiring as president he was made honorary president for life, a position he still holds.

Judge Rust was succeeded in the presidency by T. H. Westbrook of Sweetwater, who served for two years. Dewey Niedecken of Snyder is the present head of the organization.

Since its organization in Eastland the T-P Sunshine Singers has become a state-wide organization and has conventions at Abilene, Sweetwater, Colorado City, Graham, Gorman, and possibly other places.

The Eastland Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of its secretary-manager, H. J. Tanner, is making ready to entertain a large crowd of singers and lovers of singing expected from over the state.

Commencement To Graduate Youths Almost Into Army

FORT WORTH, Tex., (UP)—Commencement at Texas Christian University as at hundreds of schools throughout the land, will sound an accolade for youths practically in fighting already.

Not all of them will be in the military service, but engaged in winning the war at some vital task.

Nine of the 73 boys who are candidates for degrees June 1 have finished their work and are in the service—mostly aviation. Thirty-two will lay aside their diplomas for uniforms. Seven medical students will continue their study for eventual military service and eight ministerial seniors exempt from service, mostly will enter as chaplains.

Four science students will become specialists for Uncle Sam, and five others, rejected because of physical disabilities, have jobs in war plants. Only eight male seniors are not sure where they will start.

The class of '42 will be graduated at 8 p. m. on June 1 on the campus with the Rev. Harry G. Knowles, pastor of the First Christian church of Houston, the speaker.

Knowles and Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth will be given honorary doctor of laws degrees, The Rev. Patrick Henry, Sr., and Rev. J. B. Holmes, both of Fort Worth and executives in the church missionary society, will receive the honorary degrees of doctor of divinity.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given at the morning service May 31 at University Christian church by the Rev. Perry E. Gresham. Bill Boren, Memphis, Tex., is class president, Al Wagner, Hutchinson, Kans., is vice-president, and Ruth Priest, Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer.

C Of C Managers To Meet June 4-6

AUSTIN (UP)—Organization of war-time efforts will be the principal subject here June 4-6 at the annual convention-school of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers.

Speakers will include Paul Vickers of McAllen, president of the organization; Jerry Debenport, of Odessa; Gov. Coke Stevenson; Mark McGee, Texas state administrator; Roger Miller of Dallas; Russell S. Rhodes of Tulsa, Okla.; Maurice W. Acers, FBI agent at San Antonio and C. J. Crampton of Houston.

COUNTY FAR BEHIND ON WAR BOND QUOTA CHAIRMAN SAYS AS DEADLINE DRAWS NEARER

Cyrus B. Frost, Eastland County Chairman of the War Stamp and Bond drive for the county, pointed out in letters to local committeemen this week that the county as a whole was far behind on its quota of $62,800 maturity value.

In his letter, dated May 26, the county chairman pointed out that only $40,000 maturity value of the $62,800 quota had been purchased, and that only a very few days remain for the other $20,800 in War Stamps and Bonds to be made in order that the quota might be reached.

At a meeting of the local committee, held Wednesday afternoon, it was decided that immediate action would be needed and work was to start immediately upon raising Ranger's share of the quota.

The letter from Frost reads as follows:

"We must reach our quota of Bonds and Stamps for the month of May by Saturday night, May 30th, 1942. This quota is $62,800 maturity value and up to this time we have only bought about $40,000.00 maturity value. If you have not bought your Bond and/or Stamps for the May quota, please rush to your Post Offices and banks and do the same before Saturday night.

"Our boys are not failing us in the Army, Navy and Air Corps. Our farmers are not failing to produce food to feed our boys and we must not fail them in buying our quota each month to pay for their food, supplies and the tremendous total expenditure necessary in this War.

"Be a patriotic citizen and do your duty at once. Your neighbor has done his duty.

"Cyrus B. Frost,
"Eastland County Chairman"

Prettiest Grandma Is To Be Honored

KERRVILLE, Tex., (UP)—Grandma Mattie Jones, 91, returns to place of prominence at the Bandera County Old Settlers' Jubilee June 6. Back in 1926 she was voted the prettiest girl over 65 in the county. Now confined to a wheel chair with a broken hip, Grandma Jones will be honored this year as a reward for the many services she had performed for folks here in past years.

AXIS ONSLAUGHTS ARE STALLED ON ALL MAJOR FRONTS OF WAR THEATRE

Fiddlers Contest For East Texas Is Drawing Near

By Clayton Hickerson
Athens, Tex., — It's getting near the day for East Texans to throw their hooves into fence corners, wrap the reins around the plow handles and bring ma and the kids to town.

The day is June 5 and the reason for the trek in the East Texas Fiddlers' Contest, which is expected to pack about 35,000 persons into the city for nearly 24 hours of colorful and corny entertainment.

But the farmer folks of the piney woods and the Trinity river bottoms are not the only customers the fiddlers draw to Athens.

Dallas and Houston millionaires, many of them former citizens of this region who have made their fortunes in oil, cotton and allied fields, show up in their big cars to take part in the fun.

Oil Man Clint Murchison of Dallas, Compress Baron Arch S. Underwood of Lubbock, and Judge Royal Watkins of Dallas hardly ever miss a fiddlers' contest here. Last year Gov. Coke Stevenson was on hand.

Everybody lets go when the "git-fiddlers" start their plaintive melodies. The whole affair starts mildly just before dawn when the first fiddlers registers in the dim corridor of the court-house.

From that moment, the tempo increases with each minute until the wee hours of Sunday morning. Candy stores, hamburger stands and soft drink peddlers do a land office business but other business houses in Athens close for the day.

No entry fees are charged but large cash prizes are given by the merchants and former Athens citizens. So far attempts to commercialize on the affair have always been halted by aroused and angry citizens.

A prominent Texas politician was ejected forcibly from the town a few years ago when he attempted to speak to the crowd.

"We like him all right," one Athenian said, "but we don't want our party ruined with politics."

Just as colorful as the day is short for fiddle devotees are the names of some of the bands. Example are the Texas Romeos Coon Creek Ramblers, East Texas Serenaders, Fatrelth Harmony Hounds, Irene's Fiddle Band, E-dome Play Boys, Cherokee County Club Boys, McGill's One Man Family and the Lone Star String Band.

"Yes," Athenians say, "it's corny but sweet. The boys around here kinda go for this cotton-picken music. And it does a lot of good."

"Why, folks in East Texas ain't ready to make a crop, war or no war, until they've been to a good fiddlin' contest."

Fort Worth Man Is Stabbed Seriously

H. B. Green of Fort Worth was stabbed seriously above the heart at a cafe in Mingo Tuesday night. He was taken to the West Texas hospital in Ranger, where he was given treatment for his wounds.

According to witnesses Green and a companion had stopped in a cafe in Mingo for a sandwich. As they left the cafe a stranger suddenly slashed him with a knife, inflicting severe wounds.

Witnesses of the affair, or the proprietor of the cafe, stated they did not know the assailant, it was reported here today.

Lewis Has Ousted UMW Vice President

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28—President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers today removed Phillip Murray as United Mine Workers vice president and named John O'Leary of Pittsburgh as his successor.

Gen. Somerwell Announces Agreement on Standardization of American and British War Materials In Coming Invasion of the European Continent.

MEXICO MAY DECLARE WAR ON THE AXIS

MEXICO CITY, Mex., (UP)—President Avila Camacho today called upon a special session of the Mexican Congress to approve a declaration of war against the Axis powers, including Germany, Japan and Italy.

Charging that Axis submarines were guilty of unprovoked aggression because of attacks upon Mexican ships, President Camacho asked for emergency powers to deal with a "state of war" in order "that this nation may defend itself" against further unjustified attacks.

"Diplomatic negotiations are ended and prompt decisions are necessary," President Camacho said in addressing the congress.

It was expected that if Mexico voted to declare war on the Axis powers, no troops would be sent out of the country to engage in the war, but all axis officials in Mexico would be seized and all Mexican merchant vessels might be armed so they could protect themselves in case of renewed attacks.

Harry Bridges To Be Deported Soon

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28—Attorney General Arnold E. Biddle today ordered immediate deportation of Harry Bridges, Australian-born West Coast Congress Industrial Organization leader, because of his communist affiliation.

The attorney general ruled that Bridges had been affiliated with the communist party in the United States, and that that party had advocated overthrowing this government by force and violence.

Rayburn Opposes Rationing Of Gas

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn said today he had heard many reasons for rationing gasoline in areas where the supply is plentiful and "none of them appeals to me."

This was the second time in many weeks that the house speaker has expressed opposition to the proposed nation-wide gasoline rationing program.

JUNIOR COLLEGE TEACHERS TO MEET

AUSTIN (UP)—Junior college teachers and administrators of Texas will gather at the University of Texas for a "workshop course" in junior college problems, beginning June 4.

The "conference laboratory" course is planned to emphasize the problems of junior colleges in wartime.

Man Is In Marines Doesn't Know It

BEEVILLE, Tex., (UP)—There probably aren't many men who are U. S. Marines and don't know it but Bryan Adair of Beeville was in that category.

Adair registered for the draft. Then he learned he had never been served with the Devil dogs in the discharged from the Marines. He last war, was admitted to a hospital after his return to this country and the formality of a discharge was overlooked after his period of re-employment to the hospital ended.

Axis onslaughts were stalled against stubborn Allied counterblows in Libya, Russia and China today and American officials disclosed a gigantic program for standardization of United Nations arms in the coming invasion of Europe.

Gen. Somerwell, discussing preparations with British leaders in London, said that arrangements were being pressed for standardization of airplanes, tanks, and munitions so that American and British forces massing strength to strike at Germany, would be able to exchange implements of war to great advantage.

The program would be effective, too, in other theaters of war, such as the North African desert, where are playing an important role.

Dispatches from the other main fronts showed:

Libya—Gen. Rommel, using up to 450 tanks, advanced more than 100 miles across the Libyan desert to an area south of Tobruk, where his spearhead was repulsed by British forces. Fighting on the ground and in the air continues in the Tobruk area, with the German push meeting with stiff resistance.

Germany—Allied airplanes, believed to be Russian, renewed their bombing attacks upon East Prussia. It was not ascertained for certain that they were Russian planes, but because of the locality it was assumed that they came from Russia.

China—The Chinese are still clinging to their defense positions at Kinkwa, after repulsing repeated Japanese attacks. It was reported, however, that renewed attacks placed the Chinese in a dangerous position. Japanese on the Salween River Front near Burma, are reported to have been encircled in a Chinese counter-offensive.

First Armored Lake Ship Is Scrapped

ERIE, Pa., (UP)—The 98-year-old U.S.S. Michigan, better known on the Great Lakes as the "Wolverine," is going to war—but not in one piece.

It has been decided to scrap the old vessel—the first armored ship to sail the lakes—and divert the metal to the current war effort.

Some quarters had fought the move on the grounds that the one-time pride of the navy should be preserved as a historic relic. But it was pointed out that the "Wolverine" had been permitted to disintegrate in the mud of Misery Bay in Lake Erie for the past several years.

Helps Guard Our Good Neighbors

Rear Admiral J. F. Shaforth, Jr., has been named commander of U. S. Naval Forces in the southeast Pacific, presumably to be in charge of protecting the west coast of South America from possible enemy attacks.

Self-Appointed Monitors

Herbert Hoover's plea for freedom of criticism, in this war effort, can not be brushed aside cavalierly with the report that such freedom is under less restraint in this country than in any other.

That is true, of course. It is equally true that, except for a few instances where sedition appeared to exist, the Roosevelt administration has leaned over backward not to act against persons or publications which were bitterly hostile to almost everything that is done in Washington nowadays.

But to dismiss Mr. Hoover's discussion on these grounds is to miss his entire point.

Nowhere did the ex-president suggest, by remotest implication, that he felt that the federal government was using its power to squelch critics.

He did attack that "war intolerance at the hands of self-appointed persons and organizations" which "has already, in five months, risen to great heights." He denounced name calling and "the sadistic and higher art of abuse—that is, smearing."

There is an enormous diversity of opinion, among our 130 millions, as to what we ought to do and how we ought to do it. That is democracy. Its suppression would be totalitarianism.

There are those who thought, very sincerely, that we should not get into this war. Some felt our very venture into Europe's quarrels had resulted disastrously for us and, in the long run, had done no good for anybody. Others felt we could defend ourselves, if attacked, but could not turn the tide of battle against the axis.

Once the die was cast, almost without exception those isolationists united with the rest of us in willingness to venture all to win the war.

But certain elements on the other side refuse to forget, and mind their own businesses. They are determined to ruin everybody who differed with them before Pearl Harbor.

These believe, or pretend to believe, that in addition to the few actual traitors and crackpots in our midst, there is "a great group of Americans somewhere in some dark corner who want defeat."

Like Herbert Hoover, we have not heard of a single American who wants defeat. We all want victory.

So the next time somebody differs with you on anything about this war except as to the one vital issue—victory at any cost—why not pause, before you brand him as an appeaser, compromiser, defeatist, fifth columnist, sixth columnist or pro-Nazi, and ask yourself two things:

First, could it be possible he is right?
Second, since he is wrong, could it be that he is merely the victim of an honest error of judgment?

The Old Man Of The Sea

The Payoff

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Thirty years ago Honus Wagner, then the No. 1 star of the National League, visited a little boy who was suffering in a hospital from infantile paralysis. The little boy's name was Jimmy McGill. The greatest all-around ball player of all time autographed a baseball for him.

The little boy recovered, grew up, became a professor at the University of Rochester, then president of the city's Board of Education. He passed away about a month ago, aged 42.

The friendship that started in 1912 between the famous Honus Wagner and the little boy in the hospital was a lasting one.

They're going to put up a memorial to Dr. McGill.

Honus Wagner's autograph on a baseball helped the boy get well.

His autograph on a check has helped the fund being collected to immortalize Dr. McGill's useful life and public service as an educator.

BILL McKECHNIE again walked the streets and sat up late in the park following the Giants' 10-run outburst—eight runs after two were out—against the Reds the other afternoon.

"You go crazy trying to figure this game," says the veteran manager of the Cincinnati.

"Here's sawed-off Danny Murtaugh of the Phillies leading the league and fellows like Dolph Camilli and Arky Vaughan of the Dodgers batting around 230."

Some trace Elmer Riddle's difficulties to second year trouble. The young man who won 19 last season and had an earned run average of 2.24 has been knocked five times already. The one decision he holds was a 6-5 squeeze against the post Phils.

"There have been a lot of pitchers like that," points out Johnny Allen of the Brooklyn. "Everything goes along smoothly for them. They get everybody out without knowing how they did it. Then the following year when they get pasted, they go to pieces."

You Should Not Register Any Surprise When You Have to Register for More Rationing

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

THOSE wails of anguish you're now hearing from one-third of the American motorists who are having to get along under gas rationing are just a whisper. Extension of gas rationing to other areas is not necessary from a petroleum point of view, according to Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes, though from the rubber conservation point of view it may be necessary to limit gas consumption all over the country. Just listen if that should ever happen.

But gasoline and tires and automobiles and sugar and bicycles aren't the only things that can be rationed, and typewriters, kitchen stoves, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, new houses and such items are not the only ones on which production can be frozen with rationing the eventual result.

It would be a fallacy to say that the back-room boys of the Office of Price Administration have a lot of R-days marked on the calendars, with new plans all drawn up and ready to issue for rationing half the commodities in the store, or even a quarter of them or 1 per cent. Officially, OPA won't even admit that it knows the date for the second sugar registration. Nor is the form of the next rationing book decided on, nor the quantity of gasoline to be allowed in the rationing areas after July 1. The policy now is to see how gasoline and sugar rationing work out, learn whatever lessons there are to be learned from this experience and by thus feeling the way, go on from there.

To announce now a list of items that might be rationed would simply be to start a lot of runs on the stores, and that is just what must be avoided. Almost every shortage that has been specifically mentioned thus far has brought on one of these buying sprees, as, for example, the silk stocking and razor blade stampedes. It would be naive indeed, however, to think for a minute that the United States could get through the war with no more rationing.

YOU can therefore expect to stand in line every so often for another registration. If the next rationing book were to be issued immediately, standing in line might not be necessary, for the names and addresses of all sugar consumers were taken on that first registration and new books could be mailed out. But if the next registration isn't called for six months or so, there will have been so many shifts in the population that the first sugar registration will be worthless.

One idea is that the next ration book might contain a lot of blank-colored coupons, issued in variety.

A Prize For The 'Handsome Soldier'

Corp. Joe Reith of Company A, 58th Training Battalion, Camp Wolters, whose home is in Glendale, California, receives his prize, a carton of cigarettes, after having been selected as the handsomest soldier Saturday night at a dance at the Catholic Community Center in Fort Worth. Miss Geraldine Moore, Fort Worth, presenting the prize. Other girls, like Miss Moore are members of the Victory Girls Dance committee and acted as judges in the "handsomest soldier" contest, are, left to right, Miss Arene Rupprecht, Miss Mary Clement, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Clement of Eastland, and Miss Rebecca Hembree of Fort Worth.

Game Department Gets Out Pamphlet For Texas Anglers

AUSTIN.—(UP)—The Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission has published a handy guide for fishermen, a tackle box manual with words and pictures to identify common varieties of fish and the law that govern the taking of them.

It reveals that there are more than 130 varieties of freshwater fish in Texas. "The angler catches about 5 of these," the booklet adds, disregarding completely the experience of most fishermen. All who would settle for 25 fish, let alone 25 varieties, please raise their right hands.

There is considerable interesting information in the publication. It says, for instance, that the more a spot is fished, the bigger the fish (that are not caught) will grow. An average acre of water supports about 500 pounds of fish, which may either be in the form of many small fishes or a few big fellows. You can tell the age of a fish by looking at his scales, if you know how.

the bag and shake it around until it is covered with breading. This is supposed to be better than using meal or flour. A tablespoon makes an excellent scraper for fish scales, if you catch any fish.

Things Get Easier For Navy Bugler

CORPUS CHRISTI (UP)—Add changes in modern war: When a new loudspeaker system goes into operation at the U. S. Naval Air station here, all the bugler will have to do is roll over in bed, push a switch and go back to sleep. An elaborate hookup, with a central control board, does the rest. Reveille will be sounded by transcription.

Big Demand For Texas Tomatoes Seen For The Fall

COLLEGE STATION.—Civilians will have difficulty in buying processed tomatoes over the grocery counters this fall and winter, forecasts Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning of the A. and M. College Extension Service. An abundant crop in Texas is indicated, but advance orders from Quartermaster General's department of the United States Army will absorb practically all of the 100 million cases of tomatoes processed in the nation this season.

In view of this, Miss Camp says, "every patriotic housewife, institutional manager and dietitian; every school lunch room supervisor, and restaurant and hotel dining room manager should collect and get in readiness immediately every available glass and second-hand tin container, and see that sealing supplies for these are on hand. They should obtain the latest approved recipes, improve bath containers for processing tomato products, and supply themselves with some kind of efficient juicer and puree-making equipment so that as many persons as possible may have tomatoes 'some way every day,' unless citrus, melon, raw cabbage or strawberries are available as substitutes."

Miss Camp suggests that farm housewives and other buyers should pool their needs under the neighborhood, community and county agricultural Victory leaders, interview local wholesale and retail vegetable distributors and contract with them to supply the high quality tomatoes they will need in addition to what their own gardens will produce. Ripe or green tomatoes are a rich and cheap source of vitamin C which prevents bleeding gums, loose teeth, sore joints, and loss of appetite and weight. Ripe tomatoes have abundant vitamin A which guards against "dry eye" and night blindness.

BULLFROGS ARE BECOMING SCARCE

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—The delectable bullfrog is dwindling in Texas.

Uncontrolled gigging of the tasty providers of frog-legs is causing wrinkled brows at the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, which has prepared a booklet on bullfrog culture so landowners can keep the supply at its highest peak. Texans consume an estimated 300,000 pounds of bullfrogs annually. And the demand is increasing. The Legislature has been called upon several times, never successfully, to pass a law closing season on frog-hunting during the propagation season. Frog farms have been started but experience has proven that bullfrogs do not thrive in captivity.

Selling Equipment Of State A Tedious Task, Survey Shows

AUSTIN (UP) — The procedure for selling used equipment belonging to the state is tedious. The merchandise must be listed, and the state department notified. The department head then asks the board of control to call a sale. Notices are posted, and on the given day the material is sold at auction.

During the Legislature's 1941 session, it was discovered that the highway department had at many of its section warehouses heavy mesh wire that had been used for highway curve guards. A better type of guard was developed and much of the mesh wire taken up.

The legislators learned that their local schools could use the guard wire for fencing athletic fields and for other purposes, so they began passing "guard wire resolutions" by the dozen. It was easier to pass an act of the legislature than to hold a sale, and it didn't hurt the law-makers to show the folks back home visible results of their work at Austin. Much of the guard-wire was kept by the highway department, however, when the war program a year ago began to show a shortage of steel for highway building materials.

Grasshopper Are Threatening Crops

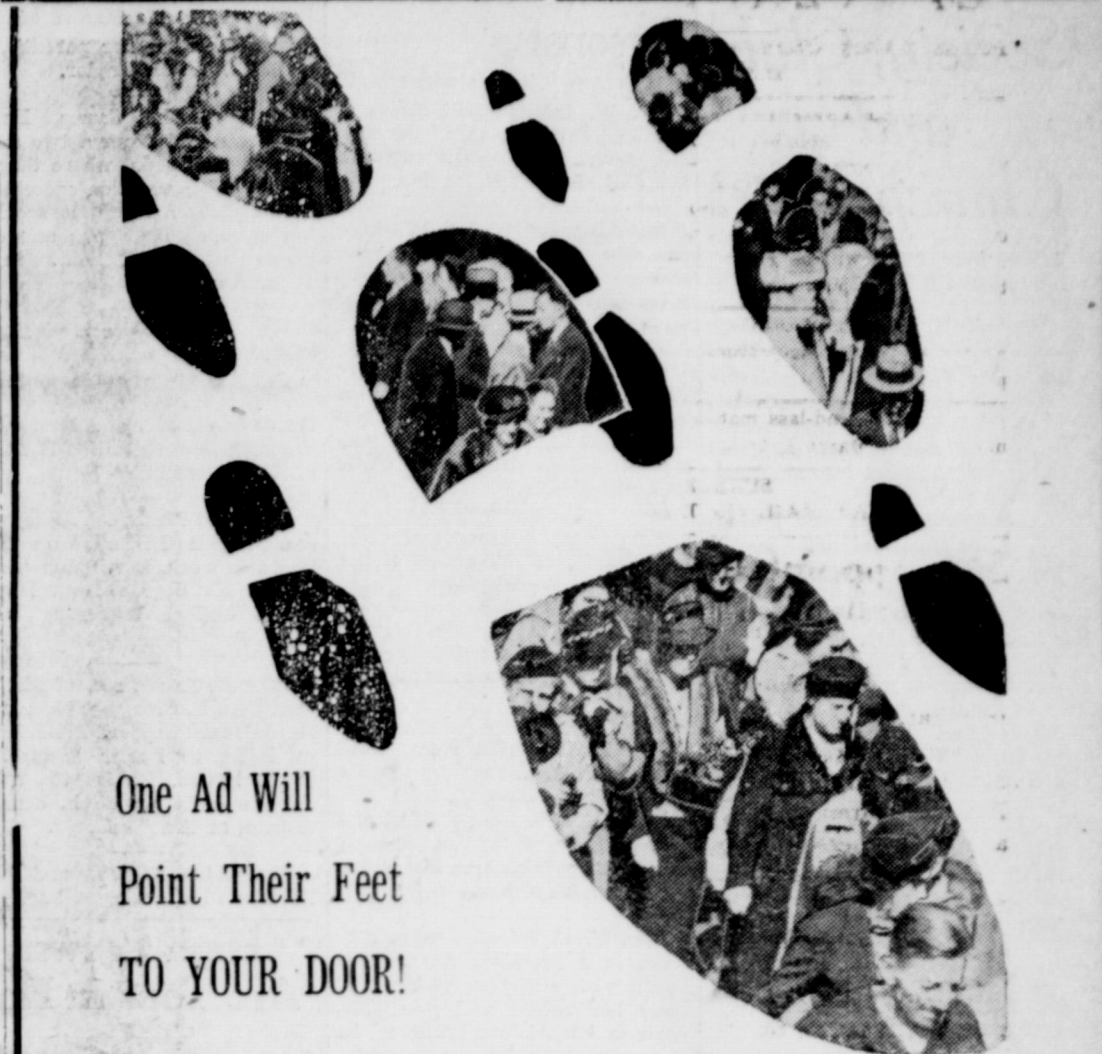

LUBBOCK, Tex.—An infestation of Rocky Mountain grasshoppers, in the largest numbers since the 1890's, is threatening crops in an area extending from Lubbock County north to Goodwell, Okla.

The insects, which are the smallest migratory grasshoppers, nest of 25 to 100 square years in the infested region.

O. B. Howell, professor of Horticulture at Texas Technological College, said the number of insects is increasing. For best results in combating them, he advocated the spreading of poison before June 1 in order to reduce the number of eggs laid. Poison bran bait is being furnished farmers by the government, cutting eradication expense to the cost of the mixing and spreading. Oil bait, made with oil instead of water, is more expensive but not dry out for three to five days.

After Graduation WHAT? TRAIN for VICTORY. Eastland and adjacent counties can now patronize a home business college, thus saving rubber, gasoline and transportation costs. "Victory Business College" is now open at Eastland and day and night classes are being conducted. The school is in charge of a successful, experienced business college man. Instruction is offered in STENOGRAPHIC, SECRETARIAL, ACCOUNTING courses. GREGG SHORTHAND, TOUCH TYPEWRITING and COLLEGE ACCOUNTING are offered. The head teacher has developed a plan all his own for streamlining the shorthand course during the war emergency. He can develop a stenographer in six months day school course. Special stress is placed on training for civil service examinations. The management now has pupils in Civil Service employment in Washington, D. HAPPY LANDING

CHAPTER XXIII

BALDY stirred in his sleep, brushed the handkerchief from his mouth, and sat up with all the alacrity of an anemic hippopotamus. The sun was warm, his nap had been pleasant, and he felt lazily prepared to cope with any and all conspiracies against him. As for Peggy, now—

He looked around for her. No Peggy. No canoe. No one, a shambling search revealed, on the island. The lake was annoyingly calm under a noon sun, with no sign of life on any of its shores, no one on the wharf.

Not pleasant to Baldy the crafty, Baldy the shrewd, was the teasing thought that Peggy had double-crossed him. All the while she had been pretending to work with him. And all the while she had been plotting with that bunch of deadheads. The little so-and-so! I'll give her a chance, he thought viciously. I'll give her a chance to break her nasty little neck, and that's all.

Fay... ah! he thought sorrowfully. She'd never have done this to him. No, it was the others. After all he had done for Fay, she'd never have the nerve to do this to him. But by the saints, he'd get even with those others if he had to take that little so-and-so to New York and break her spirit!

As time wore on and he got hungrier, his thoughts became progressively blacker. Eventually they reached the murderous stage as he paced hungrily around the confined island. He was hotter and hotter as the afternoon grew heavy with humidity and little trickles of perspiration glistened on his bald head. He began to speak his thoughts aloud. Fortunately, only the trees were within range of his mutterings.

At last he saw a lone figure on the wharf and then a canoe wobbling dangerously as someone paddled toward the island.

Baldy stopped his muttering and stared. It was the sister! He groaned as he thought of Myra's skill with a canoe and shuddered at the thought of the waterfall they had nearly died on.

As the canoe came nearer, Myra steered it with dangerous incompetence toward the island.

"I've brought you some sandwiches and a bottle of beer," she said cheerfully, without any attempt at explanation. Baldy forgot about explanations. The sight of food and drink was like a beacon to a shipwrecked sailor. He caught the edge of the canoe and stepped in.

"Hey!" yelled Myra, "Don't do that!" She was too late. She was in the water, so was Baldy, so was the food and the beer, and the sandwiches disintegrating slowly. Baldy groaned and floundered ashore with Myra who dragged the canoe with her and emptied the water with difficulty.

Baldy sat down and held his head in his hands, his sports suit dripping around him shapelessly.

"Now," said Myra, "step in carefully this time." "No," said Baldy, "Not if I have to live here the rest of my life! I ain't going to risk going over those falls again... or drowning in the middle of this lake. I can't swim."

"Too bad," said Myra. "What are you going to do?" "You try and get back and send someone who can work one of those things."

"All right," Myra spoke quite cheerfully, but with a lurking smile in her eyes. "It might take some time."

An hour later the bedraggled Baldy climbed up the path to the house with Ferd. They passed the rockery and Baldy's neck went red with a sudden desire to commit murder when he caught a view of Peggy suddenly releasing herself from the arms of Nigel.

She ran to meet him. "Oh, Baldy," she cried. "Did they only just get you? They said they'd go right after lunch."

Baldy eyed her with a glittering hatred. "You little..." Then he paused as he saw Nigel's fist close significantly.

Peggy's eyes warned him to keep quiet. "I've fixed everything," she said. "Not a word."

She pushed Nigel back and walked with a suspicious Baldy. "I've got a new idea. I've fixed everything," said Peggy confidently. "Maybe you weren't born in a large family like I was. If you were you'd know that when they get tough the only thing to do is to string along with them for awhile and then get your own way later. It is the easiest way in the end."

"So what?" grumbled Baldy rudely. "You go and change and I'll be waiting for you with a Collins," she said.

"Make it three, and six sandwiches," he growled.

A LITTLE later Baldy emerged in a suit and loose jacket in a pale rose shade, beautifully pressed, with a shirt of deeper hue, almost maroon, as a final improbable touch. Baldy took a deep draught at one of the four glasses in front of him and bit deep into a sandwich. His eyes did not meet those of Peggy, who sat deep in a chair swinging one leg over the arm.

"It's this way," said Peggy. "You've got to handle families gently. So I thought if I became engaged to Nigel..."

"That mutt?" muttered Baldy, his mouth full. He felt he was beyond caring.

"He is not a mutt! He's terribly strong too," said Peggy. "But that isn't the point. If I became engaged to Nigel the family would think I was settled and then when he went overseas I could come down to New York..."

Baldy took a long drink and tackled another sandwich. "Then I thought," continued Peggy, "that if Mike proposed to Fay and they were engaged she would be in the family and I could persuade her when he went overseas to come with me back to New York."

Baldy sneered at the thought of a topline like Fay Ransom, mixing it with a mere lieutenant.

"So I suggested to Mike that he should drive her into Montreal by himself, and at least try..." Baldy sat up as if shot.

"She's gone? Where's she gone?" Peggy soothed him by pushing the third drink, invitingly nearer. "They drove away about an hour ago, just the two of them..." She paused while a hint of apologetic crimson darkened Baldy's neck and then spread over his domelike head. He gulped the third drink and grabbed the fourth.

"But I've got the best idea of the lot to bring it all in the family. Daddy couldn't very well object to me being managed by a son-in-law..." Baldy got up and looking at Peggy queerly, he backed away. Peggy rose from her chair and followed him.

"So I thought if you proposed to Myra..." She stopped suddenly. Baldy had turned and was disappearing rapidly. Myra came into the room.

"I've found a husband for you," said Peggy with an eager smile. "Isn't it wonderful, at last!" Myra's lips tightened on an unamused line. She glared at her young sister, green eyes bright and cheeks flushed with excitement.

"Hear that car?" said Myra. "That's Baldy getting out as quick as he can. Get your things packed. We're going before you try to marry Ferd off to his aunt!"

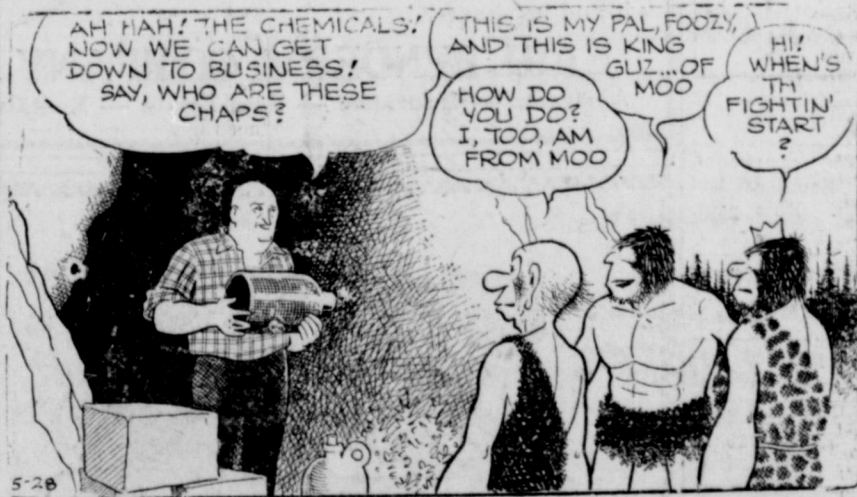

Peggy was unperturbed. "Isn't it wonderful?" she murmured. "We'll be driving back in Nigel's car."
