FOUR CHANGES IN TRUCKING RULES LISTED

Changes in four general orders for conservation of trucks and tires have been announced by the Office of Defense Transportation.

In announcing the change, ODT emphasized that the determination to achieve the objectives of the orders has not been relaxed. Such changes were made ODT said, have approved only to give the industries affected time to work out their own plans for attaining the objectives of the order.

In the major changes announced, the ODT:

1. Postponed from June 1 to July 1 the effective date of a provision of Order 3, 4 and 5 prohibiting the operation of trucks in over-the-road deliveries unless loaded to 75 per cent of capacity on the return trip.

2. Relaxed a provision of Order No. 6 with respect to newspapers and set up two alternate plans for conservation of trucks engaged in newspaper delivery services.

3. Extended jurisdiction of the local delivery order to 25 miles beyond the corporate limits of the municipalities.

4. Exempted trucks engaged exclusively in the pick-up or delivery of telegraph, radio and cable communications and the U. S. mails from the provisions of Order No. 6.

5. Relaxed Order No. 6 with respect to coal trucks and set July 1 as the effective date of the mileage reduction program for such vehicles.

6. Extended to July 1 the effective date of Order No. 6 with respects to trucks primarily equipped for the transportation of bulk liquids.

Postponement of the return load provisions of Order No. 3, 4 and 5 means that until July 1 trucks engaged in over-the-road operation may return empty to the point of origin, if there is no cargo available for transportation on the return trip.

This provision was postponed, ODT explained, to allow industry more time in which to work out practical programs for return loads and mileage reduction in their operations. Truck operators were urged to continue without their preparation for such programs.

Under the revised local delivery order, newspapers may adopt either of two plans for the conservation of equipment.

One plan sets a limit of deliveries a paper may make in one day, the number to be determined by the population of the area served, and also requires a 25 per cent reduction in delivery mileage.

The other plan sets no limit on the number of deliveries on the same day but requires a 40 per cent reduction in mileage. Under either plan, special deliveries and call back are banned.

China Gets Share In Post War Setup

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2—China today joined the United States and Great Britain in an agreement on adjusting lend-lease arrangements providing for post-war collaboration.

Nothing Trivial

Hitler's Hangman, Reinhard Heydrich, is more seriously wounded than the Germans would have had us believe. Justice caught up with this Gestapo killer on a Prague street in the form of bullets from high-powered rifles.

REAL BULLETS!

Flash of real bullets and explosive charges takes the sham out of battle for British troops drilling for invasion. Picked snipers fire tracer ammunition over heads of their fellow soldiers making an "attack landing." Note man in boat firing real sub-machine gun bullets toward shore.

STATE EMPLOYEES WOULD FLUNK ON CITIZENSHIP EXAM

AUSTIN (UP)—A test at the state capitol this week revealed that many a state employe and some officials would flunk if they had to take the examination given an alien who applies for U. S. citizenship.

That does not indicate that the state workers are below par in their knowledge of the American form of government and its history.

Before criticizing them, see if you can answer these questions that recently were put up to a citizenship application group:

When did George Washington become president?

When did the American Revolution begin and end? The Civil War? The War with Germany?

What is a Democracy? Is it the same as a Republic?

What is a dictatorship?

What was the cause of the Civil War?

What does "free speech" mean? How many electoral votes are there in Texas?

When was the United States Constitution finally agreed upon?

Baptist Ministers And Workers Will Meet On June 1, 4

FORT WORTH—Texas Baptist ministers and church workers, 1,000 strong, are expected at the Southwest Baptist Theological Seminary, June 1-4, for their annual evangelistic conference, Dr. W. E. Melton of Dallas executive secretary, Baptist General Convention of Texas, announced today.

Speakers Monday night will be Dr. L. R. Scarborough, retiring president of the Seminary, and Rev. W. E. Craighead, missionary from Bessarabia.

Dr. George W. Truitt, Dallas, will speak at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday. Robert H. Coleman, Dallas, will be one of the conference song leaders.

Dr. Melton announced that the quarterly meeting of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas will be held Tuesday, June 2, at 2:30 p. m.

Taking as its theme, "The Preacher at His Best," the conference will hear outstanding Baptist leaders discuss phases of the minister's task in present world conditions. Including among the speakers will be Dr. J. Howard Williams, Oklahoma City; Dr. W. R. White, Abilene; Dr. Perry E. Webb, San Antonio; Dr. W. H. Knight, Shreveport, La.; Dr. S. G. First Aid Kits A Part Of USO Unit Equipment In US

HOUSTON — First aid kits, and preliminary advanced courses in first aid, are a part of the equipment and activity to be found in many of the 695 USO units in the continental United States, Harry C. Weiss, State USO Chairman, reported today.

Wives of men serving in the armed forces of the nation, as well as the soldiers, sailors and marines themselves, are seeking the advanced instruction, given in cooperation with experts of the American Red Cross, Mr. Weiss said.

"Proficiency in first aid," said Mr. Weiss, "has virtually become a necessity for civilians today, and it is obvious that members of our fighting forces cannot be too expert in first aid. Naturally, USO is extremely pleased at this heightened interest in first aid training, and the increased use of the ever-growing facilities of USO."

Texas USO war fund drive, now under way, is seeking $1,110,000 as its share of the national fund for support of this and other USO activities.

Soldier Outfits Fight Over Little Eastland Dancer

CAMP WOLTERS, Texas—So many different outfits are fighting over Connie Canaris, little dancer from Eastland, that Chaplain John D. Boren, formerly of Eastland, is a bit bewildered by it all.

It started when Chaplain Boren invited Connie, whom he has known since childhood, to dance at a 64th Battalion show. The battalion named her their official sweetheart by acclamation, after the performance.

Then she appeared at recreation hall entertainments at the 63rd and 65th Battalions. She was also voted sweetheart of these battalions.

In this difficult situation, Connie played no favorites. She has appeared a total of eight times at the battalion shows and twice at the camp service club. She travels 130 miles each time she drives to camp from her home and thus has gone more than 1,000 miles to entertain men here.

The other night she broke one of her dancing shoes while performing here. But the officers of the three battalions, who also think Connie tops, chipped in and gave her two pair of dancing slippers. One was autographed by officers and men; the other she is using for dancing.

Now Wolters' battalions are faced with competition from Camp Bowie. Connie appeared there recently and the men at that camp voted her their official "best girl." Chaplain Boren has reassured concerned Wolters soldiers that she will remain loyal to them.

Balsa, a tropical, lightweight wood used as insulation material and in making motion picture props, also used to make ammunition containers for fighting airplanes.

Selecting Successor To Sadler Might Prove Confusing

AUSTIN (UP)—Considerable confusion exists about the selection of a successor to Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler when Sadler enters the military service.

Apparently the method will depend upon the time of Sadler's expected resignation. Should it occur before the State Democratic primary election (July 25) Governor Stevenson would appoint a successor to serve until a new commissioner was elected in the primary and November general election.

But if Sadler withholds the resignation until after the Democratic primary, the choice of his successor would, for practical purposes, go to the State Democratic Executive Committee. This committee would have the power to name a party nominee for the place and Democratic nominations are usually tantamount to election in Texas.

If Sadler withheld his resignation until after the November election, the Governor would appoint a successor who would fill out the remaining two years of Sadler's term.

All of which adds up to the fact that Sadler can to a considerable extent choose his successor. If he isn't satisfied about his successor he can withhold his resignation.

OHIO STRESSES IMPORTANCE TRAVEL THRIFT

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Billboards, magazines, automobile stickers, bread wrappers and even milk bottle tops soon will warn Ohioans to save thinning automobile tires, stop non-essential travel and conserve overtaxed wartime transit facilities.

"If the war lasts two or three years all of us are gravely concerned whether we will have tires and care to transport defense workers and carry on other needed victory activities," Gov. John W. Bricker said in requesting the conservation program.

Highway Director Hal G. Sours said limitations of motor speeds to 40 miles an hour would be the most effective single conservation measure.

Rubber, Leather And Steel Affecting Even Baby Buggy

CHICAGO (UP)—Priorities have struck for the second time at the infants of America and the perambulator may soon go the way of baby's rubber panties.

At a recent meeting of the National Defense Home Furnishings Market two of the country's leading baby carriage makers announced that they were forced to quit. Priorities, they said, have made it impossible for them to obtain rubber, steel and leather cloth.

The shortage will be more keenly felt because it comes at a time when an increased birth rate and the scarcity of automobiles has increased the demand for baby buggies.

County Pension Rolls Showing Steady Growth

In answer to the question, "Why doesn't every aged person draw $30 per month Old Age Assistance?" J. B. Green, Jr., Department of Public Welfare, points out the practical problem of financing such a program and the fact that Texas would lose federal grants-in-aid by which it is now paying one-half of the expenses if such a law were passed.

There are now 1,241 aged persons receiving Old Age Assistance in Eastland County, and increase of 15 over the previous month. Grants average $18.63 in the county and total $23,120.00. Eastland County has 22 blind persons receiving a total of $433.00 in average grants of $19.68.

The state and federal assistance program for dependent children is helping 86 families with 215 children in Eastland County. The first day of May grants average $21.59 per family and total $1,857.

"The 1940 census reveals that Texas has 345,120 aged persons over 65," he declared. "If each of these were paid $30 per month, without any allowance for administration costs, it would require $10,353,600 each month, or $214,243,200 per year. The 47th legislature appropriated money to supply one-half the amount needed each month to pay grants to aged persons meeting the laws qualifications, specifying that no more than $1,750,000 should be used in any one month. With the federal matching funds this makes possible a maximum expenditure of 3,500,000 for Old Age Assistance. This month $3,374,649 were distributed to 172,324 recipients and the rolls continue to grow despite losses due to death and ineligibility.

A fundamental requirement of the federal government is that all grant shall vary according to the individual needs of an applicant, therefore if $30 per month were paid to all aged persons, the federal aid would be lost, Green stated.

Texas is now making monthly cash assistance payments to three groups of needy people. These are men and women over 65, blind people, and dependent children who have lost the care or support of one or both parents. Needy person receives is decided by the local welfare office after a careful and thoughtful study of each person's situation. Three general facts considered by the local office in making the decision are: the resources which the needy person has at his disposal, how much he needs to live on, and the statutory maximums which can be granted.

A Store Warden Designs A Wagon For A Bomb Raid

MILWAUKEE (UP)—A Milwaukee department store air raid warden has equipped the building with 15 portable air raid wagons of his own design.

Arnold Kuntz, the warden, designed a wooden wagon, weighing 500 pounds and small enough to fit into the passenger elevators, and fitted for emergency equipment piece for emergency equipment.

A wide shelf at top holds two pails of water and two of sand. At the sides hang two long-handled shovels, two fire extinguishers, a crowbar and heavy gloves. Candles, a Red Cross first aid kit and two axes are included. Inside the wagon are 300 feet of hose, nozzle and spray and sheets of canvas.

The wagon is mounted on wheels but has handles so that it may be carried if necessary.

BREEDERS CLAIM THERE IS GOLD IN RABBIT FUR

MALTA, Mont. (UP)—The Angora rabbit is one animal that has at last realized the oft-quoted expression of being "worth its weight in gold," according to local breeders.

The war-time demand for angora wool to line mittens, helmets and socks for high-altitude flyers and other war time needs has sent the price of the rabbit wool skyrocketing to $5.35 a pound for No. 1 grade.

A female angora rabbit, the breeders said, will produce about $5 worth of wool and will have an average of 21 youngsters a year who will do likewise.

George Miller, one of the local breeders said that his angora rabbits make him a net annual profit of $46.35 each after paying all costs of feeding and raising and that his profits on a small investment soared to 1,500 per cent in a year. The adult angora rabbits are sheared five times a year and yield an average of 14 ounces of wool.

40-Mile Speed To Be Urged As Limit For All Vehicles

AUSTIN (UP)—If you are one of Texas' more than a million registered drivers, you may expect to receive soon from Gov. Coke R. Stevenson this request for a 40-mile-an-hour speed.

"The United States of America is at war.

"The President of the United States is your Commander-in-chief "President Franklin Delano Roosevelt has requested, in the interest of winning the war and the conservation of materials for national defense, that you keep your motor car speed limit to 40 miles per hour or under.

"We feel sure that you will gladly co-operate in this as a measure looking towards ultimate victory."

A French Refugee Catches On Quickly

TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Corp. Marvin Dunn, 20-year-old French refugee, is an apt pupil. When he came to the United States less than a year ago, he couldn't speak English. The girl next door undertook to teach him.

Dunn learned enough English to ask his teacher to marry him. Miss Oletha Jean Cook, a high school senior, accepted.

Rationing Board Office Force All Swamped With Work

Callers at the County Rationing office in Eastland Monday were denied admittance and told to call "tomorrow" since the office force was behind with their work and had to catch up.

"You will have to come back tomorrow as we have more work than we can do and must get out some reports," the young lady in charge of the office politely told callers.

"What about the time limit for obtaining sugar for canning purposes?" one man asked.

He was told that there was no time limit and that he could get a permit any time the office force had the time to wait on him.

War Bond Sales In Nation Over Quota

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announced today that the May sales of war savings bonds and stamps totaled $634,357,000, exceeding the $600,000,000 quota by 5.7 per cent.

Teach Women To Handle TVA Jobs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority has begun expansion of its apprenticeship program, is training women for duties other than clerical work and is developing potential abilities of all present employees to meet the increasing manpower shortage.

The movement is in addition to the TVA's regular recruiting program, which in itself has been intensified.

Journeymen who do not meet the authority's standards for versatility in all phases of the trade, are being put to work at the journeyman level and are given opportunities to expand their versatility in the craft.

Through a means of training, increased employment of women not only for clerical work, but also for other positions, is being made possible. Twenty girls have been enrolled in an apprentice course in engineering draughtsmanship. Also, application files are being prepared for the recruiting of women as accountants.

Still another step the Authority has taken is raising the upper age limit for the TVA safety service from 36 to 50. Officers are now being recruited under this policy. About 1,100 employees of the authority have been inducted into the army. Of the 34,000 now in the TVA's employ 25,000 are engaged in construction, electric power production and chemical manufacture.

Deferrals from selective service have been asked for less than 750 employees since the draft began.

Eight Killed When Navy Bomber Falls

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 2—A United States Navy PBX Catalina patrol bomber crashed into the hills near here and the only survivor, Ensign G. H. Apitz, 22, reported that eight men aboard the plane had been killed.

Great Britain's Royal Air Force dumped 3,000 tons of bombs on the huge Krupp Arms Works at Essen Germany early today in the fourth devastating attack on a German war center.

Using 1,036 bombers, the British armada apparently smashed the Ruhr Valley industrial center as effectively as it previously had blasted Lubeck, Rostok and Cologne.

The second devastation attack in four days cost the British but 35 planes, a little less than 9.5 per cent of those engaged in the bombing raid. A loss of 10 per cent in a big raid is considered a nominal loss of planes.

At the same time the buoyant attitude of the British people was increased in reports that fighting in the Libyan Desert, where the battle of Tobruk was still in progress, seemed to be developing in favor of the British.

Reports from other battle fronts showed— Russian—Russian forces push the Germans back in sharp fighting on the northwestern front between Moscow and Leningrad, downing 47 enemy planes near Leningrad. New German local attacks were repulsed on the Khar-kov front.

Britain—An Allied convoy fights its way through to a Russian Arctic port, possibly Nurmansk, after a five day battle with German submarines and more than 100 planes. The Admiralty indicated that six, possibly seven, of the ships in the convoy were sunk. The German claimed they had sunk 18 ships.

Australia—Allied planes bomb Japanese bases at Rabaul, Salamau and Lae and down or damage 30 enemy planes attacking Port Moresby.

China—Japanese spearheads push northward nine to 12 miles on the Canton-ManKow railroad, in the new South China offensive.

West of Knightsbridge, in Libyan Desert—New American tanks known as "General Grants" and mounting high-powered 75 millimeter guns, were credited today with pulling victory out of the bag for the British forces that stopped Gen. Rommel's drive for Tobruk and Cairo.

Mexico City—Mexico formally entered the war against the Axis today when President Manuel Avila Comacho signed a declaration of war, recently passed by the Mexican congress.

Pressure Victims

The standing of Congress with the public seems to sink lower almost day by day. From an attitude of tolerance we have shifted to one of disrespect and, of late, contempt.

Individual members of both houses stand out above the general low level. We know, from personal acquaintance, that congressmen represent a fair cross section of the American body politic. Yet as a nation we tend to have light regard for Congress as a body.

That is one reason why we re-elect members whose conduct has offended us grievously. Except now and then, voters take the attitude it doesn't matter whom we elect. We have seen so many apparently good men degenerate in Congress' craven attitude that, when election time rolls around, we follow the easy course, and let the rascals stay in.

There are many reasons for the sad decline in the repute of our Congress. Most immediate of the superficial excuses, perhaps, is its long subserviency to the presidency.

But Congress would not have become a rubber stamp for the White House if its members as a group had not already ceased to be statesmen and transformed themselves into $10,000-a-year messenger boys.

For years now congressmen have walked the slackwire among pressure groups.

Beginning with a presumably sincere desire to further the interests of unfortunate or oppressed groups, congressional blocs have drifted inevitably into becoming servants of the alleged "leaders" of special interests.

But too often these "leaders" are phonies, self-seeking or misguided or both. So the bloc congressmen—which includes most of them—have been misled into working for special interest benefits, antagonistic to the general welfare, which often the special interests do not really seek or want.

Illustrations? Plenty.

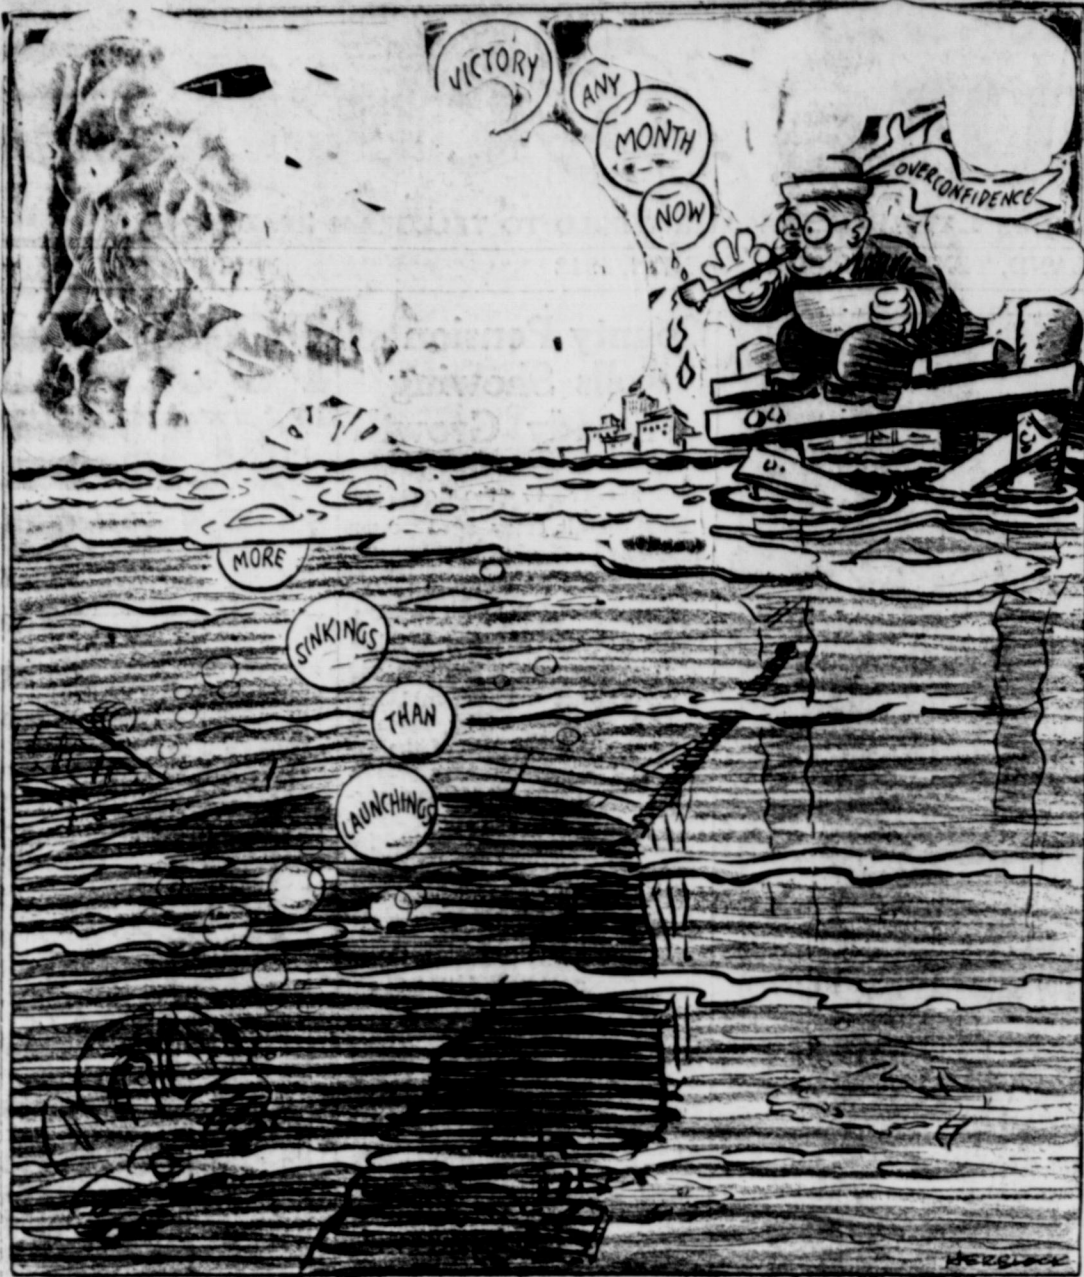

Much labor legislation. Workers are willing to sacrifice to the limit to win this war, but timid Congress has heeded misrepresentative "labor leaders" and given workers unasked "protection" at the expense of the war output.

Farmers are willing to sacrifice. But a rabby Congress listens to so-called "farm spokesmen" and refuses to treat farmers as loyal, give-until-it-hurts-like-hell Americans.

Industry is ready to sacrifice, and taxpayers, tradesmen and consumers. But Congress lingers scandalously far behind and consumers. But Congress lingers scandalously far behind this nation's war fervor.

The success of democracy rests on a workable legislature. We might almost as well lose this war as lose Congress.

Old Grid Coach May Be Recalled Because Of War

EUGENE, Ore. (UP) — The University of Oregon's first football coach, 70-year-old Cal Young, studied the rule book today and considered the complexities of the "T" formation on the chance that he might be summoned to active duty this fall with the Webfoot grid forces.

Young declared his availability after the Oregonians lost two head coaches in two days and settled down warily under a third who may yet be placed in uniform.

G. A. "Tex" Oliver, the Phi Beta Kappa hired by Oregon after his Arizona eleven upset the Ducks some years ago, reported for naval duty this spring.

His assistant, Vaughn Corley, was elevated immediately to the top coaching assignment, but a day later followed his chief into the naval service.

"Honest John" Warren, Oregon freshman coach and varsity assistant, got the nod next. Warren did not expect to be called for some time, if at all.

But just to be on the safe side, the University began surveying the field, and Young volunteered. The white-haired veteran coached the Duck gridgers in 1893-94, their first season. He drew no salary at that time and says he wants twice as much now.

800 Bird Species Found In Texas Are Nest Building

AUSTIN. —The 800 some odd species and sub-species of birds in Texas—more kinds of birds than any other State or region possesses—are busy nest building or raising young these days, and so the bird's worst predator, worse even than the hunter, is having a field day.

The predator referred to is the ordinary house cat.

The tame little pussy cat slumbering on the doorsteps in the sun looks innocent enough. But let a cardinal, a wren, a cedar waxwing, a beautiful male redwing blackbird, a mourning dove, quail or any other bird get within reach of its scratchy paws—and there's one less bird "deep in the heart of Texas".

Tame cats are bad enough, when they stray from home and become wild creatures, they live almost exclusively on birds.

All persons interested in the rich birdlife heritage of Texas should kill all stray housecats, the Game Department advises.

Tame cats desired in the home should be kept there and fed regularly, so they will not prey on birdlife in spare moments.

No less than 50 wild housecats were observed recently by a field biologist of the Game Department on a trip from Austin to Mineral Wells. And all along the highway young mourning doves were so thick the biologist had to drive well under the standard 40 miles per hour to avoid running over the birds, which were feeding on weed seeds along the road. Many of the doves, as well as many other species of birds observed, undoubtedly were devoured by the cats.

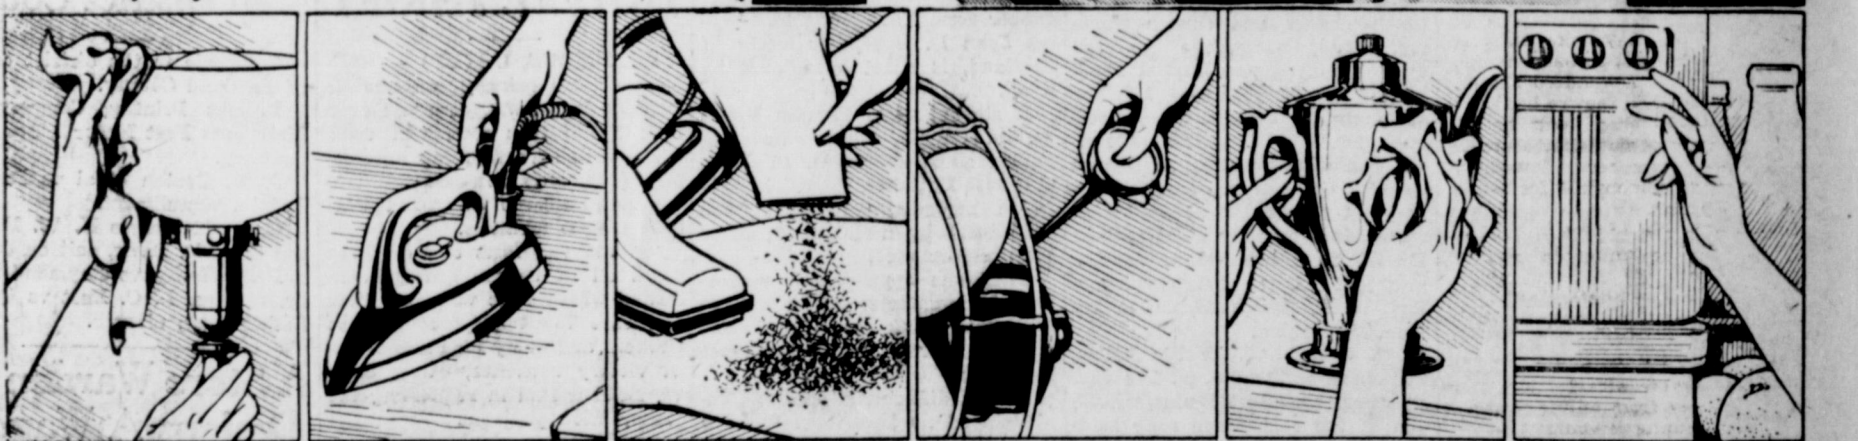

Keep your tame cat penned up, especially at this season; and kill all wild housecats if you like birds.

Here are 6 Timely Tips On How to Get the Most Out of Your Electric Appliances!

1. Wipe lamp bulbs and glass diffusing bowls with a damp cloth, and dust shades to get full amount of light from lamps.
2. Keep plugs of irons, roasters, percolators and other appliances tightly connected. Loose plugs make contact points corrode.
3. Your electric cleaner will clean faster and better if you'll empty the dust bag after each use, as dust hinders air flow.
4. Motor driven appliances, such as fans, cleaners, mixers and others will operate better and last longer if oiled regularly.
5. Use only a damp cloth to wipe electric appliances such as percolators, waffle irons, toasters. Water may cause them to burn out.
6. Your electric refrigerator will operate more efficiently if you defrost the freezing unit every week, or when 1/4 inch frost collects.

Your electric appliances represent a valuable investment that may be difficult to replace. Timely repairs by a qualified electrician will protect your appliances and save you money.

These tips may be an old story to many homemakers who already know how to use electric appliances properly and keep them in good condition, but pass along these ideas to others who may not be so experienced.

J.R. WILLIAMS 6-1

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Each of the candidates for U. S. Senator in Texas may spend $17,276.37 legally to achieve his ambition. The expenditure is limited to that amount by the federal statute on corrupt practices. It is usual to quote $10,000 as the maximum expenditure permitted in a campaign in Texas for U. S. Senator and that is the amount set as the limit by the Texas legislature. The statute fixing that limit, however, has been held by the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, San Antonio, to have no application to a candidate for an office whose qualifications are set by the Constitution. The qualifications of a senator are named in the Constitution of the United States and the U. S. Senate is authorized to pass on eligibility of its members. The Texas race for United States Senator is receiving comment in other parts of the country. The Philadelphia Bulletin in a story from its staff correspondent at Washington devotes nearly a column to the race and illustrates the story with pictures of Senator O'Daniel and James V. Allred. "From the Washington angle," writes the correspondent, "Wilbert Lee O'Daniel comes perilously close to being a dud. He promised a lot but his performance has been little. "He seems to be just another politician who talked himself into the United States Senate. "He is no more a second Huey Long than Bilbo of Mississippi and Holt of West Virginia, who also reached congress by contracting to reform the Senate and let the President know where to get off." The correspondent concludes that Texas may have a different impression. He writes "But the Ohio-born flour salesman who swung and swayed himself into the governor's chair at Austin and capped that performance by succeeding the late Morris Sheppard, may appear very differently in Texas. "Here, impeccably dressed according to the tailors' charts, he has sung low and with caution, leaving upon the record little trace of the two-fisted "Pappy, pass the biscuits" guy whose campaigns intrigue the nation. "However, the Senator, an expert in publicity and in the use of the radio, has kept in close touch with the home folks. He has been talking to them over the air at least once a week. "Naturally, his reports are that Texas was never better represented on Capitol Hill than by himself and that progress is being made toward achieving the reformation of the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government." The article predicts that the administration will favor Allred, if anybody. You could build a four-engine bombing plane with the aluminum in 20,000 1-pound skittles. If you are under 50, you are young enough to join the navy reserve.

CARIBBEAN CRISIS

BY EATON K. GOLDTHWAITE

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

On a little Dutch island in the Caribbean, Bill Talcott is to be relieved of his branch manager job with an American chemical firm and join the Army. His successor, Halsey, arrives with an auditor who immediately charges Bill with a $155,000 shortage in his accounts. Bill, innocent, is furious. That evening June Paterson, cousin of Bill's college roommate, goes for a walk with Halsey, whom she has met on the boat. Bill warns her it is not safe, but stays behind with a stranger named MacDowell.

MacDowell hesitated, hefting the revolver. His eyes masked his thoughts now, the veiled, cunning eyes of the paid manhunter.

"YOU'RE A DETECTIVE" CHAPTER III Talcott was at the door when MacDowell moved suddenly, blocking his path. "Let 'em go," the mustached one grunted. "If I know my women, that one can take care of herself." Talcott stood tensed, glaring down. "You may be a very smart man where you come from, Mr. MacDowell, but you don't know Abas Island." MacDowell shrugged. "Why all the ruckus? She's got Halsey with her. And believe me, he's the kind that don't scare so easy. Or maybe," MacDowell sucked at his teeth, grinned knowingly, said, "maybe you go for her yourself, huh?" Bill ignored the thrust, stepped back and slapped his hands. In immediate response a shadow loomed from the darkness of the terrace behind MacDowell and the mustached one turned defensively. Bill said quietly, "Buckra white man and missy go out against my orders. Make Sebastian follow them." The black boy nodded, said, "Yes, baas," and disappeared into the night. MacDowell exhaled with relief,

Chemical and you're not an auditor. I might have thought you followed his opening swiftly. "If Halsey pocketed those vouchers were a traveling companion, but I doubt if Halsey and Struthers are seeking company just now. So what is your connection?" Sweat showed above the mustached one's collar and the cigar revolved in his mouth. His face, for a moment, became even grayer. And then, unexpectedly, he laughed. "That's pretty good!" he chuckled. "You claim you don't know why I'm here. For a minute you had me goin'."

Startling as it was, the change of front served only to increase Bill Talcott's cold wrath. "I doubt if it has occurred to you," he said icily, "that this frameup of the missing vouchers is as weak as water. By merely lifting a finger I could have the lot of you tossed in jail. Have you ever seen one of our tropical jails, Mr. MacDowell? They have no roofs, and the sun boils down and there are rats and scorpions—" "Threatenin', are you?" Ugly red crept through the gray of MacDowell's cheeks. "And I thought you looked like a decent kind of guy. Why, you cheap crook!" "Be careful how you talk," Talcott said calmly. "It happens that for every one of those vouchers there are two facsimiles. One is in the possession of the steamship lines that carried the nitrates, the other with the Netherlands government official who collects a tax on every pound taken from the island. The remittances have all been made to New York and the bank in Willemstad has a complete record." Bill Talcott leaned forward and his long fingers closed in a steel-like grip on MacDowell's knee. "You and your friends haven't a leg to stand on. Now, who are you and what is your game?" "Leggo my knee!" MacDowell yelled. Bill Talcott's strong fingers released with a disdainful movement and the mustached one rubbed vigorously. The words had brought to his face a mixture of doubt and surprise, and Talcott wiped sweat from his face, bit off the end of a cigar and remained in place before the door. "What is this?" he drawled. "Mean to tell me nobody can take a walk around here?" "You may take all the walks you like. It so happens that there are several hundred blacks on the island, and they're bad sometimes. Miss Paterson will be the first white woman that some of them have ever seen. I wouldn't care to be responsible for what might happen." MacDowell's face became gray and the unlighted cigar sagged. "Good Lord, man, why didn't you tell us before? If I'd known it was like that, I wouldn't've stopped you!" Talcott smiled icily. "I presume you were afraid I might prevent Halsey from telling Miss Paterson something I wouldn't want her to hear." "Maybe," MacDowell hedged. He found a match, popped it into flame and dragged on the cigar. "Who's this guy Sebastian that you sent after them?" "My overseer. He's half native. Under usual conditions the men will obey him." "Under usual conditions—?" MacDowell frowned and glanced uneasily at the terrace. "Suppose we ought to follow them?" Talcott didn't answer. Indicating a chair he said, "Sit down. It's time you and I had a little talk. In my correspondence with Federal Chemical, Halsey and the auditor are accounted for. Your name was never mentioned. I want to know who you are, and your purpose on Abas Island." The directness of the attack caught the mustached one completely off guard. His eyes rounded, his facial muscles sagged and his mouth made an O. "You mean," he said, wetting his lips, "you don't know who I am?" TALCOTT leaned forward until his calloused big-knuckled hand rested on the other's knee. "You are not an employe of Federal

The Payoff

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—No other class of athlete bobs up with alibis as readily as baseball players. That is what made Mickey Owen so unusual when Hugh Casey's inside pitch, which would have given Brooklyn a second victory in the world series, slithered off the butt of his glove. It was an epic of the diamond when the catcher said, simply: "I missed the ball."

Once when a ball went between Smead Jolley's legs as the White Sox outfielder squinted into the sun, he explained that he lost it in the glare, added that he never could play the sun field. Many a fine ball player offers excuses when there is no need for them.

SAM RICE, the grand Washington outfielder of years back, was this type. Once Rice forgot to close the gate, as the ball players say, and a well-hit ball to right field got through him with the tying run on second and the winning run on first.

Bucky Harris, then playing second base, dashed out into short right field and shouted: "To the plate! To the plate!" Rice picked up the ball, whirled and threw as Harris turned and squatted to watch the play at the plate. The ball struck Harris on the back of the head.

"Why," Harris asked Rice, after he had cooled off in the clubhouse, "didn't you throw that ball to the plate?"

"I did throw it to the plate," replied Sam.

"Then tell me," came back Harris, "if you intended that ball for the plate, how come it nearly knocked my head off?"

"It was this way, Bucky," explained Rice. "Those fans in the right field bleachers spit. When I got hold of the ball, it was covered with spit. And the spitter broke!"

Bucky Harris fell off his stool.

Foreign Trade May Boom After the War, With Hull's Pacts a Leading Factor

BY PETER EDSON NEA Service Washington Correspondent

THIS is supposed to be "Foreign Trade Week" and if in the same breath you ask "What foreign trade?" or "Why?" at first they might seem natural though leading questions. Exports and imports are now under strict government control and licensing. The dollar volume of exports for this year is estimated at $7 billion as against $5 billion for 1941, giving the United States a $4 billion favorable trade balance, but the only stuff going out is lease lend aid and the only stuff coming in is raw materials for war production. Priorities are over everything. Shipping space is practically unobtainable. Freedom of the seas doesn't live here any more. Foreign trade in its usual meaning is knocked out for and by the war and no one knows when she will come to. So why celebrate?

But there is life in the old girl yet and while there's life there's hope, and it's the future, post-war potentiality that makes this year's observance of Foreign Trade Week more than a mere weeping at the bier.

World trade analysts in the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce who have watched foreign trade rise and fall ever since before the last war see in the present world situation, lousy and messed up as it is, the makings of some real business. And they are realists enough to believe that they are not just whistling in the dark to keep their jobs.

Foundation of the whole thing is the fact that trade agreements under Secretary of State Cordell Hull's program are still being made with those nations with which the U. S. still maintains diplomatic relations. This long-range U. S. policy, which is Hull's pet idea for solving the world's commercial wars by permitting the free flow of international trade, is also set forth in principle in the Atlantic Charter of war aims and it is therefore the declared basis on which business between nations will be re-established after the war.

BUT aside from this matter of principle a number of economic changes are taking place during this war and they all point to expanding markets for good merchandising, which is the making of bargains that are good for the buyer as well as the seller. Among them, these: Nations that were once largely colonies, producing raw materials, have been forced into increased industrialization. Australia, India, even China, have had to start manufacturing some of their own war supplies. As these industries grow, in a post-war period they will be capable of absorbing a larger part of their labor force.
