EASTLAND IS CELEBRATING JULY THE 4TH

Two-Day Program, Which Began On Saturday Night
To End Late This Evening

Eastland's July 4th celebration opened with a military parade along the flag draped streets in the downtown section. The parade, which was participated in by soldiers of the 167th infantry from Camp Bowie, Brownwood, began at 3:15 p. m. It was led by a military band from Camp Bowie. Hundreds of cheering spectators lined the streets as the parading soldiers marched past.

In addition to the infantry one platoon each of heavy and light artillery was in the parade and the equipment was later drawn up at advantage points in the downtown section, where, manned by regular crews, it was inspected by the civilian crowds. The soldier members of the various crews explained the workings of the guns, etc.

Saturday night a soldier-civilian street dance was the feature of the program.

Saturday night, the visiting soldiers, bivouacked at Hoffman Field in South Eastland where civilians were invited to inspect the complete field equipment and get first hand knowledge of how Uncle Sam feeds his soldiers.

Today's program, as heretofore announced, will feature patriotic addresses, band concerts, bathing revue and spectacular fireworks displays.

Committees in charge of the bathing revue, which is an annual affair, made no announcement of the names of entrants in the contest nor the names of any sponsors. Neither did they announce the name of the judges simply stating that they would be from out of town.

WRITER TELLS OF BATTLE IN EGYPT DESERT

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1942, by United Press
WITH A BRITISH ARMORED
car patrol in the front lines,
Egypt, July 3. (6 p. m.)—Gunners of the German Afrika Korps are lobbing shells into the dust bowl beyond the ruined railroad station of El Alamein.

American-made Douglas Boston bombers are roaring over our heads in greater strength than ever before, with fighter protection. A few minutes after they pass we can hear the blast of their bombs, striking into the enemy columns which are crowding the roads and camel tracks to the west, pushing up for the decisive battle.

This activity has been going on since yesterday when the British Imperial Army in a determined counter-attack frustrated one big German thrust. But its success naturally was not conclusive and the grave threat to the Nile has not been removed.

At a position in the front line I watched the massed British tanks, infantry and mobile artillery, supported by bombers, attack at 6 p. m. yesterday.

They moved west and south of El Alamein in a challenge to the enemy, for a frontal battle, and the enemy declined. Our artillery opened about 4 p. m. with a concentrated barrage. The tanks began moving up at 6 p. m. The order was given for a general advance.

Already we could see tanks burning on the sky line. The British forces showed perfect synchronization. Tanks, infantry, artillery and airplanes moved together like parts of a machine. The attack moved fast. One section of our force bit into the front tip of the German 90th division which was lying along the southwestern edge of the Alamein perimeter 60 miles from Alexandria.

Another section swept directly on a field headquarters of the German command. Other sections swept in from the south on the enemy flank. A big task force of tanks cut in behind a German tank force, turned back due eastward and compelled the enemy to withdraw to avoid entrapment.

The specific purpose of the Imperial attack was to cut off the enemy's tail by pushing beyond him to the coast, a reversal of the tactics the Germans had used against Tobruk. The British had expected an axis attack yesterday afternoon and Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck had planned to catch the Germans on the move. But they continued to dig in, and Auchinleck went after them.

Lying on my stomach behind a heap of stones heven from the rock to make pill box defenses along the coast I could check the progress of the British sweep by the fast moving sand clouds which the tanks threw up.

76 Heirs Claim A Big Texas Estate

HOUSTON July 4—Attorneys for 76 heirs living in 15 states, Mexico, and the District of Columbia, have filed a suit in federal district court claiming they are entitled to 15-16ths of a large block of land in Liberty, Polk, and San Jacinto counties.

The heirs claim they are entitled to the tract known as the Joaquin Fernando de Rumayor six-league grant, which was deeded to Rumayor by the Mexican government in 1831.

Defendants in the suit are Humble Oil & Refining Company, Frost Lumber Industries, Inc., and K. Moore of California.

Coyote Is Captured In Childress County

CHILDRESS (UP) — A touch of wild and woolly western life was added to Childress county by the bagging of a large coyote that killed a dog.

The coyote was taken alive by H. W. Fite, government animal trapper, and was brought to Childress in his specially equipped trapping car.

The captive will be used as a decoy.

THREE HELD IN A SHORT CHANGE DEAL

Three alleged "short-change" artists, who operated in Cisco, Eastland and Ranger, have been arrested in Ranger and turned over to county authorities in Eastland, it was revealed Saturday.

The three, who gave their names as Ben Scott, John Meyers and Miss Dean McCoy, were captured by patrolman Johnnie Boyd and Jimmie Jones of Ranger at a cafe on the outskirts of Ranger, after they allegedly had obtained $5 from a cafe in Ranger.

The two were reported to have taken $10 from a filling station in Cisco and $5 from a cafe in Eastland earlier in the night. According to the officers who made the arrest the three entered a cafe in Ranger about 4 o'clock in the morning and obtained $5 through "short change operations". The officers were called and began making the rounds of all places in town that were open at that hour.

The three were in a cafe just outside Ranger when the officers walked in. They did not see the officers, and were arguing with a girl attendant that the change was correct, while the girl argued that "something is wrong", since she was out $5.

When the officers walked up the man readily admitted that the girl was right and turned the money over to her, Boyd said Saturday. They also returned the money obtained at a downtown cafe, and were reported to have been identified by the filling station operator from Cisco and the Eastland cafe attendant. The money which was turned over to county officers.

Reports have been received here that the three were also in Big Spring, where it was alleged that they had operated the same confidence game.

Empty Saddles Are Feature Of Rodeo

STAMPFORD, Tex. July 4. Four horses, with empty saddles representing four men who died the past year, took the spotlight in the final rodeo performance of the Texas as Cowboy Reunion Saturday.

Simple tribute, in keeping with the traditions of the West, was accorded three past presidents of the Reunion Association—Ellison Carroll of Big Lake, Walt Cousins of Dallas, and Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton—and to the manager of the rodeo events—Rudolf Swenson, former manager of the Pitchfork ranch at Guthrie.

While the crowd sat in darkness, a rider on a white horse joined the riderless horses and sang, "Empty Saddles."

In the lore of the cattlemen, an empty saddle denotes a promotion—the rides has gotten a better job.

Tests show that music will soothe a wild bull—but we prefer running over singing.

REVUE PRIZES ARE DIVIDED BY TWO TOWNS

Miss Cleonna Moore of Ranger won first place in the annual Ranger Bathing Revue Friday night, in which a number of girls from Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Strawn were entered.

Miss Elaine Crossley, representing C. W. Hoffman of Eastland was winner of second place honors and Miss Catherine McHenry won third prize. Prizes awarded were a $50 War Bond for first place.

Eastland had a big part on the program, having more entries than any other town, with the exception of Ranger, and Mayor Hoffman aided in making the revue a success by a short address, in which he stated that Eastland was always taking part in Ranger events, and he extended a cordial invitation to the people of Ranger, including the bathing beauties, to enter the revue to be held in Eastland Sunday night.

All judges for the revue were from out of town. J. J. Kelly acted as master of ceremonies, and called upon Mayor Walker of Ranger for a short address of welcome, after which Mayor Hoffman made his brief talk.

The parading of beauties were under the direction of Mrs. Manie Ruth Hamrick, and showed that they had been carefully coached for the occasion.

Deserter Returned To Military Post After His Arrest

Ranger July 4, 1942. Patrolman Johnny Boyd of Ranger returned a deserter to Camp Barkley, Abilene, Saturday afternoon, after he had been apprehended and held pending instructions from military authorities.

After telegraphing Lowry Field Colo., where the youth was listed as a deserter, Boyd received the following telegram from Barclay Field headquarters:

"Regarding Howard F. Gordon, in confinement your city, return to military control either at Camp Barkley or Camp Bowie. If man is a soldier and absent without leave only you will be reimbursed for expenses up to twenty-five dollars for arrest and delivery to military control."

According to Boyd the youth admitted he had deserted from the Army. He said he was inducted in service in New Jersey, and that he did not like Lowry Field, he gave as his reason for deserting.

Just before leaving for Abilene Boyd received the following telegram from Lowry Field, Colo., stating that the youth had been declared a deserter.

"Pvt. Howard S. Jordan AWOL since March 3, 1942. Dropped as deserter June 25, 1942. Turn him over to nearest military post."

Saw Lumber At Record Pace PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — Lake county's lumber production probably will be the largest in history this year. The 1942 cut is estimated at 150,000,000 feet, as compared to 130,000,000 feet in 1941.

Labor-management cooperation has secured the laundries in Seattle as decontamination stations in the event of a gas attack. Plenty of hot water and soap make laundries ideal places to give quick relief to those affected by gas.

NAZIS SUFFER HUGE LOSSES IN ADVANCE

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
By United Press

MOSCOW, July 4—Tremendous German infantry, tank and airplane attacks forced the Red army back on one sector of the Kursk-Kharkov front, press dispatches said today, but the enemy is suffering frightful losses and Russian counter-attacks have regained several towns and a strategic river bank.

Battles unprecedented in size and ferocity are raging on a front of about 150 miles as the Germans attempt to break through the south-central sector, seize vital communications lines and divide the Soviet armies.

(The German communique today claimed a "gigantic" break through and said that German rapid troops were dashing toward the river Don, about 135 miles east of Kursk, presumably in an effort to turn the Russian flank and push southward toward Tostov and the Caucasus.)

The region east of Kursk was still the scene of the most intense fighting, the newspaper Izvestia said, but dispatches asserted that the enemy had made only insignificant advances in six days of fighting that cost the Axis 15,000 dead, 250 tanks and much other material.

There have been several Soviet tactical withdrawals, front line dispatches said, but there also have been a number of counter-attacks that destroyed dozens of enemy tanks and "ground hundreds of Germans" to death under the tracks of Russian tanks.

"The Germans who had forded a river in one sector after huge losses were beaten back and three villages were recaptured," the Red Star army organ said.

It was acknowledged, however, that enemy pressure was vastly increased on the Kursk, Kharkov, Belgorod and Volchansk sectors and that, with enemy air fleets leading the attack, several Soviet fortified positions were abandoned to prevent a German breakthrough by retreating to better defensive positions.

Columns of 200 and more tanks are participating in various German onslaughts, but the enemy has been forced to change tactics because of heavy losses and now has concentrated the bulk of his mechanized forces on a central sector, with his flanks depleted, the Red Star said at one village, the Russians repulsed 10 attacks by tank columns and airplanes coming "from all directions" the dispatch added.

Don't hoard. Don't Over buy. That is what the enemy wants you to do.

Hitler On The Spot

We have pointed out that the United Nations' current military setbacks are no more than inevitable incidents in the process of beating an enemy who, not long ago, was supposed to be invincible.

Here are some further thoughts which are not wishful thinking. By keeping them firmly in mind, we can maintain a sane perspective.

The United States is the greatest industrial nation in the world. The resources of the United Nations, in materials and plant, infinitely surpass anything to which the axis has access.

For that reason, as of today, we cannot lose this war. We could have lost a few months ago. We should, in all logic, have lost in the autumn of 1939 and the spring of 1940. Then the United States was asleep. Britain had just awakened, to find herself naked and unarmed in front of a murderous maniac with every conceivable weapon at his command.

We might easily have lost in 1941, if brave Serbia had not ruined Hitler's schedule and Russia had not refused to be beaten.

When Hitler did not win in 1940 or 1941, he gave us an opportunity to retrieve ourselves.

Up to late last year, all we possessed was potential power, unusable against Hitler. It was like a safe fence, a long way off, with a mad bull chasing us through a pasture. The fence would stop the bull, but how could we reach it before we were gored to death?

Then the bull permitted himself to be diverted. Hitler stopped to polish off Russia, and caught a tartar. We kept racing toward the fence—toward building the armies and armaments which would make us, and not Hitler, invincible.

Now we know we can make the fence. We're not out of danger. We may yet stumble and fall. But if we do, we can blame only ourselves.

In 1940, General Marshall told us frankly we should have to spend 100 billion dollars to put our military might on a parity with Hitler's. Thus far we've spent less than 35 billions. Meanwhile Japan's entrance has raised the ante. We may have yet to spend another 100 billions.

We're pouring out war material at the rate of four billion dollars' worth a month, while Hitler fiddles in front of Moscow and daren't slip.

We won't beat Hitler this year. He can't beat us after this year. Therefore he is putting everything he has into a knockout attempt. He is hurting us. But while he grows weak, we grow strong.

In his desperation, he is going to hand us setbacks. If we take them, temporarily, without making major concessions, our immense preponderance of economic and industrial strength will be translated into armies and weapons. Then we shall win.

States Election Law Is Like The Leaky Roof And Nothing Is Done About It

Present Texas election law date back to 1906. There have been amendments from time to time, but the general election structure that was pushed through the state legislature in 1905 by W. A. Terrill still is a major part of the law. Terrill, later U. S. Minister plenipotentiary to Turkey, was a member of the House of Representatives, and to this day the election law is generally called the "Terrill election law."

The Payoff

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK.—Yankees' slump in the west is additional evidence that their American League rivals give up too easily. It also shows why the New Yorks pour it on while they are going well, when the cry, "Break up the Yankees," is at its loudest.

A baseball club taking a long lead usually is like a horse with early foot. It will come back to the field like plugs come back to Whirlaway.

The chicken-hearted Cleveland outfit might have beat out the Yankees last season had it not gone to pieces during Joe DiMaggio's amazing 56-game batting streak. The Indians could have made it had they pulled themselves together when DiMaggio and the Yankees cooled off. But the Tribe lived up to its reputation by not being in position to take advantage of the situation when the Bombers went into the inevitable dive.

Yankee rivals forget that a 154-game schedule is a great leveller. National League teams do not. That is why the elder circuit is famous for races involving two and three and more clubs right down to the wire.

The American League trouble is that the Yankees' opposition sets altogether too much like so many of Joe Louis' opponents. It quits before the first shot is fired.

WHILE Army Relief gets close to $90,000, thanks to the sale of advertising in an elaborate program, all that can be said for the 1942 edition of the National A. A. U track and field championships is that New York prefers to leave the boys in the abbreviated costumes alone.

Of course, the inaccessibility of Randall's Island Stadium had something to do with the case, but one of the classiest fields in history proved no magnet.

The deer shooting privilege at Randall's Island could have been purchased for a phony nickel.

Maybe the sport should be placed under the jurisdiction of the New York Racing Commission.

There's nothing too wrong with any sport that pari-mutuel machines will not cure.

Numerous conflicting portions of the election law have led to ignoring one section and following another, but the most difficulty found about the election law today is some definite means of getting a court ruling when there is a dispute.

The gyrations in attempting to decide whether Jerry Sadler's resignation created a railroad commission vacancy to be filled by election illustrates the situation. A district court and two courts of civil appeals were heard questions in regard to the situation and then it was bundled up into four questions referred to the state supreme court to answer.

Every two years (after each statewide election) there is a hearty demand for a rewriting or a codification of election laws.

Usually the campaign has just developed a lot of bitterness and by the time the legislature meets there is a spirit of "let's bury the past and all be friends." Efforts to change the election law are frowned upon.

Investigations of campaign expenditures are made and smothered in the interest of harmony. It isn't raining any more so nobody wants to fix the roof.

Bridegroom Nelson's WPB Honeymoon Ends As Truman Committee Steps Into Picture

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WAR Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson is scheduled to go before Senator Truman's committee investigating war production some time before the end of June and give a progress report on what he has done in the six months since he took over. The formal report itself will probably be pretty dull going. Much of it will be a mere making public of information prepared previously for an executive session of the House Appropriations Committee, when Nelson appeared to estimate the sums needed to finance WPB operations during the coming fiscal year. That part of the report will be a mere chronology of WPB operations. Production figures, if they could be made public, would make an interesting chapter, but that's all restricted information. Nelson's appearance before the Truman committee can be a pretty lively session, however, if the senators have a mind to follow up their report on conversion, in which they lambasted the War Production Board for keeping dollar-a-year men from big business in key WPB positions. This is becoming quite a row, and it is a beautiful example of difference in the way things are done in government and the way they are done in private business.

Edson

Some of the WPB braintrusts who are Nelson's advisers privately bemoan the fact that the boss's one blind spot is his continual backing up of these dollar-a-year men who are his principal assistants. Nearly all of the senators on the Truman committee still mistrust dollar-a-year men. They believe Nelson, to save himself, should divorce the WPB organization from all these dollar-a-year boys.

NELSON'S first reaction to the Truman report on conversion was to issue a statement expressing full confidence in Philip D. Reed, $120,000-a-year chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, now on leave and serving as a dollar-a-year as chief of the Bureau of Industry Branches in WPB. The committee singled out Reed for criticism, declaring he "did not take the necessary action to obtain the maximum conversion of private industry to war production in the shortest possible time," and that "the committee has not been impressed with Mr. Reed's ability or accomplishments."

As to whether Phil Reed is guilty or innocent, you're as good a judge as anyone. You have the report of the Truman committee that he isn't so hot. A few days before, a House sub-committee on military affairs, investigating the same set of facts, found that dollar-a-year men were okay and vindicated Reed in particular. Nelson shares the latter view.

BUT Nelson's troubles with the politicians now seem to be beginning. Reported to be in the works is another big reorganization of the war production setup—the fourth in two years. Nelson's own internal reorganization may correct some of the things the politicians don't like. What some of the Truman committee forces fear is that Nelson is being taken over by the Army and the Navy, transferring too many of the WPB functions to the services, to be run along conservative lines. What the senators want Nelson to be is rough, tough, free-swinging boss of the whole war production job. Telling the Army and Navy what they should do, instead of being told. It all gets back to the question, "Is Nelson tough enough for the job?" His six months' honeymoon as the happy bridegroom is now over.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN FERRY COMMAND

BY A. W. O'BRIEN

NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Lemoy Statter has been hanged in Newfoundland for the murder of two men. But Statter was a spy as well as a murderer, and Clyde Dawson of the Canadian Intelligence Department must find Statter's confederates in a fifth-column operation against the R. A. F. Bomber Ferry Command. All he has to do is find a snapshot of a girl who looks like a famous movie actress and a cryptic note about a broken "rotation date" which the hanged man gave him just before the execution.

DISCOVERIES

CHAPTER II

AFTERWARDS Clyde Dawson wondered what prompted him to attend the formal inquest that followed the hanging. There was no apparent need for him as a member of the Canadian Intelligence Department to attend—in fact, he had plenty of reason not to go because in the pre-execution period he had developed a sincere liking for the condemned Lemoy Statter.

"This Statter fella hurt his heel on a bit of plaster and caused what he called a bone bruise," one of the guards declared. "He asked me to get him a bit of steak about the size of his heel—said it was the only way to fix it!"

Rose, formerly with some Illinois college—an all-round athlete and a topnotch instructor. Within an hour, Rose was in the chief jailer's office. Dawson seated him at the desk and explained the purpose of his request: "If you aren't squeamish, sergeant, there's a job to be done here and I believe you are probably the only man in Newfoundland qualified to do it. . . . The sergeant smiled appreciation. "A few rooms down there lies the body of a man who was hanged this morning. I learned that he had bruised the bottom of his heel yesterday and ordered a piece of beefsteak to place against the flesh. That indicated to me that he had at some time taken part in major athletics, because it is a trick used only by topnotch trainers."

"That's so," agreed the sergeant, "you no see the fingers on his left hand are intact because he must have worn the glove on this one."

"Yes, yes, what is it?" cut in Dawson. "Well, sir, in the heel of the dead man's right shoe between the sock and the flesh, was a piece of beefsteak."

"A piece of beefsteak?" exclaimed Dawson. "Was anything hidden in it?" "Nothing that I could find. It was just a good piece of sirloin cut to the exact shape of his heel. Of course, it might be poisoned."

Dawson told the undertaker not to remove the body until he had further orders. Slowly he walked back to the dining room, his mind in utter confusion.

"There are more goofy twists to this case than a pretzel," he muttered to himself. "Now why would a condemned man hide a piece of beefsteak in the heel of his shoe?"

The chief jailer knew nothing about it but summoned the six guards who had alternated in pairs on the Death Watch for eight-hour shifts. The answer to the riddle was almost ridiculously simple.

"This Statter fella hurt his heel walking in his stocking feet on the wash basin yesterday," one of the guards declared. "He stepped on a piece of plaster and caused what he called a bone bruise. He asked me to get him a little bit of raw steak about the size of his heel—said it was the only way to fix a heel hurt that way."

Dawson's eyes were beginning to sparkle. "Any of you ever hear of that remedy before?"

The chief jailer and guards all shook their heads. "That's because, gentlemen, you were never athletes. This has been a great help to me—thanks a million to you all."

DAWSON actually felt cheerful as he phoned the American colonel. The first ray of light had poked through the mystery. The colonel listened attentively to Dawson's request. Yes, the U. S. Army force had a physical instructor with them, a Sgt. Del-

ably the only man in Newfoundland qualified to do it. . . . The sergeant smiled appreciation. "A few rooms down there lies the body of a man who was hanged this morning. I learned that he had bruised the bottom of his heel yesterday and ordered a piece of beefsteak to place against the flesh. That indicated to me that he had at some time taken part in major athletics, because it is a trick used only by topnotch trainers."

The sergeant interrupted: "Perfectly true, Mr. Dawson. I have met many doctors who didn't know that trick."

"Fine! Now, sergeant, here is the job. Could you examine that body and give me any hint of what particular sport or sports he played in—judging solely from signs of any old injuries that may still be evident?"

The sergeant remained silent for a full minute before replying: "I believe I could make a good stab at it."

"My initial observation would be that the man has all the exterior signs of a former athlete," said Rose, looking intently at the body. "That was a white back but not so very far—perhaps 10 to 15 years ago. He isn't flabby as non-athletic men of his size often are. Again, it is fairly obvious that his left shoulder had been broken at some time—it is larger than the right and of rather awkward shape."

Dawson pointed to an obvious suture marking on the dead man's right side.

"Yes, I noticed that," commented Rose. "It certainly isn't a post-operative incision. I'd say it was made by some knife-like point—say, like a hockey skate. There are also marks of blows around the mouth, deep ridges that have almost disappeared with the years. They are more likely hockey injuries than any other type."

EACH man picked up one of the stiffened hands and unclenched the fists—an extremely difficult task.

"Uh-huh," said Dawson. "Is-Now let's look at his hip. . . . no doubt about it. Mr. Dawson, you note there is a patch of oddly colored skin on his left hip. That's the result of what we call 'strawberries' in baseball—bruised, torn patches of skin caused by sliding into bases."

There were no suture marks on the fronts of the deceased's legs but they noted a slight one over the Achilles tendon at the rear of the ankle bone.

"Might have been done either by a skate or a baseball cleat," murmured the sergeant, but "he leaned over the right foot, 'here is something positively definite. You see this suture marking along the inside of the foot? Well, that was almost 99 per cent certain to have been caused by a skate tip."

Dawson cut in: "Okay, sergeant—now in what sports would you say Lemoy Statter specialized?"

"Baseball and hockey beyond a doubt—and quite a bit of it. But I agree with you that he hasn't the appearance of injury marks of a man who had been through the professional mill. Was he an educated chap?"

"Very much so," answered Dawson. "I wouldn't be surprised if he had been a law student, because of his chance remarks about the trial."

"He was likely an athlete at some university," Dawson concluded, "where they play a lot of hockey and baseball. There can't be so many of them in Canada and the Northern States. If the department at Ottawa sends out circulars containing the photo of Statter taken after his arrest to all such universities and mentions that he was likely a prominent university athlete specializing in hockey and baseball about 10 or 15 years ago, there is an excellent chance that we'll learn his identity from one of them."

Dawson turned to the undertaker. "Carry on with the funeral—and be sure to replace the piece of beefsteak on the heel. I hope it helps poor Lemoy as much as it helped me!"

SENATE GROUP PREDICTS FUND FOR PROGRAM

By JOHN R. BEAL, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4—Members of the senate appropriations committee predicted privately today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson will be granted additional funds to carry out the administration's anti-inflation program.

They said the price chieftain, who estimates that $62,000,000, 000 (b) in war costs can be saved if prices are held at present levels, made a "favorable impression" during two days of secret hearings in which he appealed for more money to enforce curbs on living costs.

Seeking restoration of $86,000,000 which the house cut from $161,000,000 recommended by the budget bureau, he contended that the entire price and rent control program would be in jeopardy unless the full amount is provided.

He also reportedly argued that widespread stabilization of wages must be invoked immediately to bolster the entire program and indicated he was prepared to "go to bat" at once with the war labor board on the issue.

On another front in the anti-inflation battle—that relating to parity prices for farm products—senate conferees on the $680,000,000 agriculture supply bill gave up their Independence Day holiday in an attempt to solve the deadlock which has kept the department technically "broke" since start of the fiscal year on Wednesday.

President Roosevelt took a hand in the fight yesterday when he made public a letter blaming "pressure tactics" by "selfish and power-hungry" groups for the dispute over disposition of government-held surpluses. He said the maneuver endangered the vital wartime farm and food effort.

"The only real issue involved here," the president wrote to a group of farm, labor and religious organizations, "is whether the government should be free to use its feed resources to produce food for the war-time effort."

"When this fact becomes clear, I am certain that pressure group tactics will not prevail and that the action taken by the congress will reflect the nation's needs."

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D. Ga., of the senate conferees, said that under the house bill not only would the government be prohibited from seeding grains for feed, but it could "not utilize a pound for alcohol for explosives or for synthetic rubber, although there is a crying need for both of them."

"Under the senate bill," he said, "the government can use any amount at any price for these purposes—and there is no reason why it shouldn't."

Japs Are Driven From One Town By The Chinese

CHUNGKING, July 4—Japanese forces have been driven from the town of Wuchen, in inner Mongolia, with loss of more than 400 men, three armored cars and 12 trucks, the Chinese communique said today.

The enemy is retreating eastward, the communique said, after failure of some 2,000 troops to hold the Wuchen area north of the Yellow river, where they may have sought to cut China's supply line from Russia or gain a base for future attack on the Soviet Union.

On Wednesday, the Japanese on the Southern Kwantung front, attacked Chinese forces on the Hengchang highway but were repulsed in an all-day battle, the communique said. Fighting continues on the central eastern front in Kaingsi Province, with the enemy attacking Pelayu, west of the Fu river, where it has been repulsed so far.

U. S. Gives Private Companies Gigantic Job Of Selling WDC Bomb Risk Insurance

BY PETER EDSON, NEA Service Washington Correspondent.

THE biggest—not fire sale—but fire insurance sale ever held in the United States will be held in the next few days. Fire insurance salesmen will become busier than the proverbial brush salesman, and when the man knocks on your door the chances are even he won't ask, "Any bonds today?" but, "How about some nice fresh bomb insurance, lady?"

It's all part of the government's new War Damage Corporation, the billion-dollar baby of the Jesse Jones-RFC family. At midnight on June 30 the government will fold up the blanket and tent which have been protecting all property in the United States against possible damage by enemy action—bomb, bullet, shell or incendiary. After that date, if you don't have one of these new War Damage Corporation policies, it's simply your tough luck. You won't be able to collect damages from anyone.

The job of peddling this new insurance has been turned over to the regular fire insurance companies. To date, some 500 private companies have agreed to participate in this program and they, with their 175,000 salesmen, will be out to sign up the customers. Eight million sets of rules and regulations have been printed as an initial order, and three and a half million application forms and policies.

The business of turning all this over to private insurance companies instead of setting up a huge government machine to do it is the typical technique of the Jesse Jones-RFC boys at their best. The mere thought of how this might have been kicked around as a political football, with another huge government agency hiring 175,000 salesmen, is enough to scare you to death. Subletting the job to the private fire insurance companies who have their customers already in the card index, is not only good business, it's good government as well.

THE War Damage Corporation, which is nothing more than the government holding company for the entire operation, has worked out a deal with private insurance companies which really isn't so hot for the companies, though the government also stands to lose a lot if damage is heavy in any sizeable area. The insurance companies will assume 10 per cent of all losses in excess of net premiums collected after expense, with an aggregate loss to the companies of $20 million. Government loss may run into billions.

The companies will be paid 3 1/2 per cent of all premiums to cover costs and overhead, with a minimum of 40 cents a policy and a maximum of $700. The insurance salesmen will get 5 per cent of the premium collected, with a minimum of $1 and a maximum of $1000 a policy.

Compare those percentages with the average 25 per cent of premium paid agents as commission on regular sales of fire insurance policies. The rates for WDC insurance are higher than ordinary fire insurance in some cases, but are considered lower than the national average of the private companies, which is around 60 cents per $100 valuation.

FOR the average house of $10,000 valuation, the cost of the war insurance is $10 a year. You can insure your household goods, your jewels, paintings, stamp collections and the manuscript on your unpublished novel, up to $5000 on the item, with a maximum of $10,000. You can insure your bills, your money four deeds or your stocks and bonds.

The Methodist Broadcaster Weekly News of First Methodist Church

J. Daniel Barron, Editor

Eastland, Texas

CHURCH SERVICES

The first church service of worship is at 11 Sunday morning. The pastor will speak further about how to get the most out of religion. The great hymns and special music led by the choir will enrich the hour together. The magnificent words of the Bible will fall upon our souls. The desires, hope, and needs of the people will be lifted up in prayer to him who death all things well. Christians will share their lives. You will find the day more meaningful and your days for happier if you do not waste these holy hours of worship but spend them under the influence of the eternal spirit.

LARGE CONGREGATION

The congregation last Sunday morning was a little larger than usual. Next Sunday we want to make it still larger, for the more people we have present the more people are blessed. Then, too, the more people we have the more inspiration the service gives. You, therefore, can serve and be served by attending the services regularly. You give encouragement and backing to your pastor when you accept his ministry. Nothing hurts him quite so much as for the people to turn their backs upon him while he is attempting to minister unto them. On the other hand, nothing "glorifies" him quite so much as for the people, as you have been doing, to fill the sanctuary for the greatest hour of the week.

SECOND SERVICE

The second service of worship will be held at eight o'clock Sunday evening. The pastor will speak on History's Four Greatest Lessons. Old and new hymns will be sung. An informal, friendly atmosphere will greet you.

JUNIOR SERMON

A new feature of our morning church services will be a Junior Church Sermon by the pastor as a part of the regular services. It will be a brief sermon designed for the junior church choir group and those of their age.

PASTOR WRITING

The pastor is writing an additional three-months series of illustrations for the Wesley Quarterly and a series of opening services for the Adult Student. He also writes a weekly column for the Southwestern Advocate and gives a Central Texas report once or twice a month, with an Eastland Gate line, for the Chicago Christian Advocate.

WOMAN'S SOCIETY

The Woman's Society of Christian Service, all circles, will meet for a covered-dish luncheon at 12:45 noon Monday, with Mrs. Claude Bales' circle acting hostess. Mrs. H. H. Durham will discuss the Social Influence of a China College in a Changing Environment. The ladies will note the change of the luncheon hour.

VACATION SCHOOL

The vacation church school for all children and intermediate youth will open on the morning of July 19 and be continued for two weeks. All preparations are being made for an interesting and helpful school.

JUNIOR CHURCH CHOIR

There were twenty-seven in the Junior Church Choir in the morning service last Sunday. The director reports that more than forty are enrolled in the choir. All of which points to the fact that this is on its way to becoming a really great choir. It will meet for rehearsal at 10 Friday morning. As soon as robes are provided a picture will be made and published in The Southwestern Advocate. Other good things are in store for this group.

MYF ON LAWN

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet on the parsonage lawn at nine o'clock Sunday evening for a discussion of aids to spiritual growth and some interesting recreation. We had a happy meeting Sunday evening and look forward to another one next Sunday.

YOUNG ADULTS

Are you a young adult, say under thirty-five and above high school? If so, and you are not identified with any other class in a church school, we are attempting to build up an organization for you. It is called the Young Adult Fellowship. Presently it is meeting in the room above the pastor's study with the pastor temporarily in charge of it. You have an opportunity to render a service in this group and to find in it an association you need. It meets at 9:45.

FIRST RATE

Our church easily could be a second or third rate one but it is a first class church. Why? Its good people who are loyal to it and its work. Were they a shoddy type of people with no vision or interest in their church it would not be maintained at its high level. This is not to say we have attained perfection. It is to rejoice that our virtues are as numerous as they are. Let us keep increasing our strong points and making fewer our weak ones.

GOOD TO HEAR

Two of our laymen, at different times recently, have mentioned to their pastor the fact their church meant very much to them. Both of them said they had rather be in the church service than anywhere else. It is right and good to find people who have abundant delight in their church relations. The church ought to be the source of our highest joys. If it is not, something is wrong, probably wrong with us.

APPRECIATED

The pastor naturally does not expect it and has no right to ask for it, but he is deeply appreciative of all those members who when they know they will not be in the services take time to call him and tell him they will not be present. Such action reflects a spirit that is wholesome and expresses a consideration that is delightful.

FLOWERS IN CHURCH

Our services each Sunday are always aided by the flowers provided by Mrs. Cyrus B. Frost and Mrs. James Horton. The church thanks these dependable and efficient ladies for their ministry.

COMMUNION STEWARD

The quarterly conference last year elected Mrs. Bert McGlamery communion steward. Her duties include providing the elements and arranging for the communion services. This is no little task. Mrs. McGlamery is to be complimented for her work.

UNCLE SAM'S GIANT SEARCH LIGHTS ARE HELPING OUR ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTERIES TO SPOT THE ENEMY MORE THAN 5 MILES ABOVE THE EARTH. THE PRODUCT OF AN ELECTRICAL MANUFACTURER, EACH OF THESE POWERFUL LIGHTS DEVELOPS 800,000,000 CANDLEPOWER!

Huge searchlights that can cut beams of blinding light five and a half miles above the earth are now being turned out in quantity by one company for army anti-aircraft crews to use in spotting enemy warplanes. Groups of such lights placed close together and used simultaneously can throw up a light barrage of such intensity that alien fighters and bombers find it extremely difficult to escape detection.

The searchlights are sixty inches in diameter and are so big that they are mounted on rubber-tired wheels to make it possible for them to be moved quickly into position. They develop 800,000,000-candlepower, and electrical engineers report that it is sometimes possible to read a newspaper by the light of one of them placed 12 miles away and pointed toward the reader.

In spite of their huge size, the lights are easy to handle. Their beams may be shifted and tilted in any direction with no more effort than it takes to steer an automobile.

While censorship hides many features of these new night piercers, it is known that they have already proved their effectiveness in actual warfare. They are the same type that is being used by the British in London and other English cities to pick German planes through darkness and send up in beams of light while allied fighter planes and anti-aircraft gunfire try to knock them from the sky.

Searchlights of this type are always operated along with an optical airplane finder that looks something like a pair of binoculars. The finder spots the plane and enables the man who operates the light to catch it in the beam.

Charles Bush has joined the Boy Scout camp at Richland Springs.

Miss Jean May, and Miss Nina May are visiting in Comanche this week end.
