

Writer Compares Senatorial Race To A Horse Race And Offers Proof Three Candidates Are Good Runners

WRITER COMPARES. 18 dc. By GORDON K. SHEARER. United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, July 21 (UP) — It seems good policy in this year's state politics for candidates to know nothing about horse racing, but the people who are trying to pick the senatorial winner might take a tip from the racing fans and look up the form sheets.

W. Lee O'Daniel, Dan Moody, and James V. Allred all are being touted as men who have run whirlwind races. The form sheets may give some inkling of the outcome when they are entered in the same race.

The form sheet shows that Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel was elected governor in his maiden race in 1938. It was not only his first time to win but it was the first time he started, a distinction that is considerable in horse racing where entrants still can go into "maiden" races until they win, regardless of how often they have been also rans.

In that race O'Daniel got off to a slow start. Under the skilled jockeying of a successful advertising organization, he soon was drawing up on the pack and came ahead to win over Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw and Ernest O. Thompson who were running neck and neck, with Thompson finally coming in for second place and McCraw for third.

At the finish O'Daniel had 573,166 votes; Thompson 231,630; and McCraw 152,378. There was also a fourth good horse in this race, Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls received 117,634 votes. The rest of the 1,114,885 total went to a scattered field of nine.

The governor's race of 1940 showed O'Daniel gaining strength, for he polled 645,646 votes against Thompson's 256,923, and, besides defeating Thompson again, defeated Former Highway Commissioner Harry Hines (119,121); Former Gov. Ma Ferguson (100,576); Jerry Sadler (61,396); Cyclone Davis and R. P. Condon, a Rio Grande Valley man, were also on the ticket.

The death of U. S. Sen. Morris Sheppard resulted in a special election for the Senate. In this O'Daniel came out winner after a close race with Cong. Lyndon Johnson, Atty. Gen. Gerald Mann, Cong. Martin Dies, and others. The race was the first in which O'Daniel failed to get a majority vote. O'Daniel polled 175,590; Johnson 174,279; and Mann, 140,807. Dies had 80,653 votes.

Only direct comparison is between O'Daniel and Allred. Moody ran his races before either of them were factors in Texas politics. The comparison between O'Daniel and Allred is furnished by the voting for Tom Hunter when he was a candidate for governor.

As noted, Hunter received 117,634 when he ran against O'Daniel, Thompson and McCraw. Hunter polled 241,339 in the first Democratic primary of 1934 and went into a run-off with Allred who had 297,656. In the run-off, Allred won with a vote of 497,808 to Hunter's 457,785.

In 1936, Hunter and Allred were again candidates for governor. This time Allred won the nomination without a run-off. Allred

LAKE TULLY SITE INVOLVED IN LAW SUIT

A suit involving the land on which is located Lake Tully, one time Eastland's source of water supply, and in which the City is still interested, has been filed in the 91st district court by C. W. Hoffman. The Citizens Waterworks Company, a defunct private corporation formerly located in Eastland and the stockholders in same, are the defendants.

There are three tracts of land totaling 185.5 acres with an estimated value as set out in plaintiff's petition, of $1,468.16 for the surface, and $183.52 value for the mineral rights.

A number of small producing oil wells have been drilled on the land, but, according to plaintiffs petition were abandoned and plugged some 20 years ago.

Plaintiff's petition reads in part as follows: "C. W. Hoffman, hereinafter called plaintiff, complaining of the Citizens Waterworks Co., a defunct private corporation formerly located at Eastland, the unknown stockholders of said company, whose residences are unknown, Lucy S. Dennis, individually and as independent executrix of the estate of T. S. Dennis, deceased, who resides in Bandera County; Mrs. J. O. Whittington, a widow, and her son, Raymond Whittington, Potter County; J. Enos Butler Jr. Wichita County; E. Lois Sappenfield and husband, S. S. Sappenfield, Cameron County; Lora E. Rounds, and husband, A. C. Rounds, Dallas County; L. P. Cox, Caddo Parish, La.; Horace Davenport, Dade County Fla.; Jo Davenport Terry and husband, Frank Terry, Wichita County; Robert Catherine Davenport, whose address is unknown to plaintiff; the City of Eastland, a municipal corporation; Eastland, Texas; The United Investment Co., a common law trust of which J. W. Mingus and V. P. Mingus of Palo Pinto county are sole trustees and B. L. Hargus of Eastland.

Petition alleges that the plaintiff and the above named defendants are the joint owners of the real estate, they being all the stockholders of the Citizens Waterworks Co., formerly of Eastland. Plaintiff prays that the said real estate of the proceeds from the sale of same, be partitioned among its joint owners.

A former resident, he attended the Cisco High School.

Story Of Farming From 1900 to 1935 Has Been Written

AUSTIN, Tex. — The story of agriculture in the Southwest from 1900 to 1935 has been compiled statistically by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, in cooperation with the WPA. These two agencies have published a "Chronological Comparison of Agricultural Census Data" for Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, and New Mexico. A later supplement will contain statistics for 1940.

Army Trains Them Tough

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass. (UP) — America's soldiers are going to be in top-notch shape before they meet the enemy. Here's the way the army is conditioning them here:

The soldier grabs his rifle and 30-pound pack and marches to the 1,542-foot obstacle course. In 3 1/2 minutes he must:

Take off with yell, mount an eight-foot wall, slide down a 10-foot pole, leap a flaming trench, weave through a series of pickets, crawl through a water main, climb a 10-foot rope, clamber over a five-foot fence swing by rope across a seven-foot ditch, mount a 12-foot ladder and descend on the other side, charge over a four-foot breastwork, walk a 20-foot catwalk some 12 inches wide and seven feet over the ground, swing hand-over-hand along a 15-foot horizontal ladder, slither under a fence, climb another and cross the finish line at a sprint.

NAZIS STRIKE CLOSER TO GATEWAY OF CAUCASUS IN DRIVE TO GET PETROLEUM

WARTIME BOOM HITS HISTORIC SOUTHERN CITY

PETERSBURG, Va., (UP) — Historic Petersburg, scene of the South's last stand and famed for its well-kept Civil War shrines, today is over-run with thousands of troops and wartime workmen. "Splitting at the seams" was the way one social worker described the city after the boom created by the army's biggest quartermaster school at nearby Camp Lee had severely taxed civic and social facilities.

The city's normal population was 30,631 in 1940, but that was before an army of construction workers poured in to resurrect a vast army base on the site of old Camp Lee, a World War I cantonment named for Gen. Robert E. Lee, who once bloodily defended the land on which it lies.

Behind the workers came the soldiers—by the thousands. Camp Lee's strength has been variously estimated as high as 33,000 men, most of whom are undergoing training in the Quartermaster Corps Technical School's huge shops and sprawling buildings. Pre-draft shoemakers teach drafts the intricacies of their trade, as do mechanics, bakers, tailors, and the rest of the men that "Keep 'Em Rolling."

Six miles away, at Hopewell, Va., acres of buildings and scientifically tangled pipelines surge with capacity war production. The resultant war boom shook every stratum of the city's economic life. Wages were high and labor was scarce, although hundreds came in to take the boom-time jobs. Many camped in trailers on the former sites of World War I laborer-barracks. Rents rocketed and prices went up. Juke joints, cafes and amusement halls—all of films, temporary construction—went up overnight.

Guest homes that once catered to history-conscious tourists were crammed with army officers and defense workers. Houses rented at almost any price for any kind of house, despite efforts of the Federally-sponsored local rent committee.

Police and the ever-present M.P.'s report comparatively little disorder on the teeming streets. Two newly dedicated USO centers, one for white soldiers, the other for Negroes, have helped the recreation problem, but the khaki-clad enlisted men still pack the streets on week-ends, and line the highways to Richmond, 25 miles away. Camp Lee authorities say 4,500 men get week-end passes each week, on an average.

Out from town, Camp Lee sprawls across acres once trampled by warring Confederates and Yankees. Now, field maneuvers take southern farmhand and northern millhand squarely alongside Petersburg National Military Park, where the history of the South's last stand is peacefully enshrined under watchful Federal care.

Already choked with the Camp Lee boom, Petersburg is bearing part of the brunt of another. Construction of Camp Pickett at Blackstone, 35 miles west, has brought more hundreds of workmen to seek living quarters here. And now, thousands of trainees of the army's medical corps are housed in permanent buildings at Camp Pickett, swelling the total even more.

Although it's World War II that has boomed her economy and crowded her streets, Petersburg hasn't forgotten her share in other wars.

Most of all she clings to her historic role as a last citadel of the crumbling Confederacy. Visitors are still reminded of, and taken to the Civil War Shrines. More aptly than any other single action illustrated the spirit of Petersburg, when Camp Lee soldiers trooped in for this year's today, and yesterday, were led by army day parade, the soldiers of Homer Atkins — an aging, but still spry, leader in the fast-thinning ranks of the Confederate veterans.

Nine Shutdown Days Due During August

AUSTIN, July 21 — State Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler announced today that the Texas oil fields will have nine idle days in August under a production order being prepared by the commission for issuance.

By United Press. The Axis offensive to isolate the Caucasus struck at the gateway city of Rostov and edged closer to Stalingrad today in a drive that sharply revived prospects of an Allied second front in Western Europe.

German official claims were that Rostov was being attacked from three sides after being set afire by dive bombers and that an advance of 90 miles had been made by an Axis spearhead striking into the Don River bend to within 85 miles of Stalingrad on the Volga. Nazi air squadrons were reported pounding the Russians on the lower Don front, destroying bridges and ranging for south of Rostov to break communications lines.

This Nazi picture probably was exaggerated but Moscow dispatches renewing emphasis on the need for Allied help, reflected a desperate situation and London sources again suggested that Japan, with more than half of her best troops shifted to the north, might be ready at any moment to strike at Siberia.

The necessity of censorship and secrecy made second front developments highly uncertain and it was emphasized that tremendous difficulties must be overcome.

About all that was known was that Prime Minister Churchill and his aides and American representatives had reconsidered the situation in London in the light of the threat to the Caucasus and of the agreement with the Soviet Union on the urgent necessity of a second front in 1942.

On the other hand, it was emphasized that a cautious attitude should be taken toward the prospects of a second front until development are more definite.

We feel sorry for Leon Henderson. We think that the record, considered dispassionately, will show that he is getting a raw deal.

We have disagreed with much that Mr. Henderson has said, much that he has done, much that he believes. Obviously he has made mistakes. But if ever a man stood on a keg of dynamite in the midst of a fire, and tried to save his fellows, the price czar is that man.

All that Mr. Henderson has to do is prevent inflation. The simple task handed to him is that of keeping retail and wholesale prices down while wages, raw materials and transportation go up, without destroying the nation's mercantile fabric by bankrupting its merchants.

If the price czar lets prices go up, he has failed on his job.

If he suggests "stabilizing" wages, he is an enemy of the working man.

If he advocates an effective ceiling on farm prices, he is the farmer's foe.

The War Labor Board can approve a pay raise for steel workers—and later perhaps for all in similar jobs. But Mr. Henderson can't let prices go up to absorb such raises.

When gasoline distribution among dealers works undue hardships, and a plan is evolved by Mr. Henderson's staff to correct the evil, he must get WPB and Petroleum Administration approval and co-operation—if he can.

It was obvious to some from the beginning, and to most before now, that ceiling prices can not be maintained without subsidies unless we are prepared to let all but the biggest businesses go out the window—to ruin small and medium-sized manufacturers and merchants.

When Mr. Henderson asked Congress to authorize such subsidies he was turned down.

The OPA is expected to do one of the biggest jobs of administrative policing in history, and is given a very inadequate appropriation with which to do the job.

If Mr. Henderson fails, who gets the blame? Organized labor, the farmers, Congress, the WLB, the WPB, Mr. Ickes—or Leon Henderson? That's right, Leon Henderson is the goat.

Mr. Henderson and the public.

Eastland County is blessed with good schools and good colleges.

Now Eastland County has, in addition to good high schools and good junior colleges, a good busi-ness for a student to follow is to graduate from high school, take a good-ness college. The natural course business course, then attend an in-stitution of higher learning or take a position.

They usually run out of money after one, two or three years in college and have to attend a business college at last or take a job on a level with the untrained. Some, after getting a college de-gree, work at menial tasks or take a business course in order to get a better job.

The logical thing to do is finish high school, follow that with one year in a good business college, then attend college or university. After a business course the col-lege student can take notes of the college lectures, transcribe them on the typewriter, thereby saving time besides making a better grade from neat typed lessons submitted to the teacher.

Many students work their way through college by mowing lawns and washing dishes. A business course, before entering college, often enables the student to earn more while in college by securing an office job as typist or stenog-rapher.

The owner of Victory Business College enrolled a student who had had two years in university yet she was waitress in a cafe at $7.00 per week. After finishing her business course Uncle Sam gave her an office job at $1444 per year. Victory Business College is now ber of his opponents immediately fixed Moody in the eyes of the people as a vote-getter.

After one term in the attorney general's office, Moody announced as a candidate against Miriam K. Sma, hamLS,shdldmm A. Ferguson, who sought the usual second term. The resulting race still is a classic in Texas politics.

Mrs. Ferguson, who had defeated Felix Robertson in the Democratic primary and Dr. George Butte in the general election to get her first term as governor, did not even lead in the first primary against Moody. Moody had 409,733 votes to her 283,482, but there was a big enough vote for Lynch Davidson (122,429), and aattering vote for other candidates that required a run-off for a majority nomination. Moody won MORE . . . MORE . . . MORE . . . the run-off with 495,723 votes to Mrs. Ferguson's 270,595.

Moody's nearest opponent in the Democratic primary election two years later was W. J. Wardlaw of Fort Worth who got 245,508 votes to 442,080 for Moody.

Moody's race with Mrs. Ferguson had been in the days of Ferguson power. Ross Sterling barely managed to get into a run-off with her in the next election, but defeated her in the run-off 473,371 to 384,402.

Two years later, Mrs. Ferguson turned the tables, winning over Sterling by a vote of 477,644 to Sterling's 473,846.

She was not a candidate when Allred, after serving as attorney general, announced for governor.

That the three candidates for Senate will be bunched closely at the finish, was the general view around the state capitol. Persons could be found ready to pick each of the three as the leader. The candidate some would pick for leader would be put in third place by others, and predictions were being made that there will not be 100,000 votes difference between the leader and the low man of the race.

Moody supporters reported his campaign is gathering strength as the voting time is neared. One of them attributed this to a spreading belief that Moody can beat O'Daniel in a run-off but that Allred can't.

He explained that confusing statement this way: "Many who would be willing to vote for Moody and prefer him to O'Daniel will not vote for Allred because they have sympathetic attitude toward O'Daniel's anti-strike policy and would vote for him rather than Allred on that ground."

One capitol occupant who says he knows only what the candidates say announced there is no issue in the senatorial race. He offered to prove it. His proof was:

"O'Daniel says the war is not an issue.

"Moody says old age pensions are not an issue.

"Allred says labor is not an issue.

"What other issue is there?"

It comes to buying these necessities, therefore if I have not seen you personally do not hold this against me as I have tried my best. I have had experience in dealing with the public to the extent that I believe I can make you a good sheriff. I am not the tool of any particular group or clique of people. I have made no promises as to who will be my assistants if I am elected. I have endeavored to conduct a clean campaign. If you see fit to elect me as your sheriff next Saturday, I promise to cause you no reason to regret it, and I shall be grateful for your confidence thus expressed.

various birds, over-ripe peaches and bananas. In each instance the result was the same—thoroughly spoiled and contaminated food.

Maj. Paul S. Parrino, assistant medical inspector, paid tribute to the high motives which prompted the sending of food to soldiers, but warned that "the practice of sending perishable food products through the mails is potentially a very serious threat to the development of food poisoning."

"This threat is increased greatly during warm weather," he added. "In addition, the spoilage of food is a waste which we can ill afford at this time."

To prevent additional shipments of well-done rabbits and chickens, Major Parrino urged soldiers to request that they not be sent any perishable foods through the mails except well packed cakes and candies.

Royal Neighbors Buy Federal Bonds

The board of Supreme Managers of the Royal Neighbors at a recent session, took action in the purchase of government securities in the amount of $1,000,000, it was pointed out here today by Mrs. Carrie Henry. The check signed by the Supreme Recorder, Miss Bartel, was for the amount of $1,000,274.72. The additional amount over one million dollars was for the interest accruing between May 14, the date of issuance, and May 8, the date of purchase.

These United States treasury bonds of the 1962-67 drawing two and half per cent interest, are issued under the authority of the Second Liberty Bond Act. The society now has $1,734,750.00 invested in government securities. This figure includes two defense or war bonds of $50,000 each, purchased in 1941 and 1942, the limit that could be purchased in one year.

Keep Long Distance VOICEWAYS clear for VICTORY!

The weight of war on the long distance telephone lines grows heavier every day. We can't build new lines to carry it because materials aren't available. We've got to make the most of the service we now have.

To keep our lines free for calls essential to fighting the war, we need your help and sympathetic understanding.

In general, of course, we are able to handle fairly easily calls over shorter distances. But remember always that if your call goes to a large city where war work is under way, or must pass through such cities, it may add to an already dangerous congestion. This is especially true in the rush hours from 9 to 12 in the morning, 2 to 5 in the afternoon, 7 to 9 at night.

On calls to more distant points during those hours, we are sure you will feel that your personal interests must give way to official messages that constantly are flooding our lines.

By thoughtful use of telephone service civilians can help to win the war. And we know you're glad to help.

MARTHA DORCAS CLASS REPORT

Mrs. W. A. Martin gave the opening prayer at the Sunday morning session of Martha Dorcas Class at the First Methodist Church. Mrs. Angie Robinson was pianist for the song service which was led by Mrs. Robert Vaughan.

Mrs. W. H. Mullings read the lesson, which was taught by Mrs. W. P. Leslie.

During the short business period, conducted by Mrs. Geo. E. Cross, president, the class voted to use ten percent of all the class earnings from serving luncheons and dinners to purchase War Stamps, and they announced that their first $50 War Bond will be bought this week by the class.

Present: Ames, Geo. E. Cross, W. H. Mullings, W. B. Harris, C. W. Young, Robert Vaughan, C. E. Owen, J. E. Watson, A. J. Trendwell, Angie Robinson, visitor: Guy Quinn, Annie Cook, Craig, W. A.

Martin, Ella Ligon, Walter Grey, W. P. Leslie, Clint Jones, Humphries, J. L. Cottingham, Claude Strickland.

PERSONALS

C. G. Uffelman and Mrs. Uffelman visited relatives in Fort Morgan, Colorado, just prior to Mr. Uffelman's departure for Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Annie Cook is in receipt of a letter from her son, Leslie, stationed at Brooks Field, stating that he is confined to the hospital for a few days because of a minor ailment.

Mrs. W. H. Jones of Hazelhurst, Miss., and Mrs. I. H. Bass of Brookhaven, Miss., and Mrs. Bass' son, Claude of Hazelhurst, have returned to their homes after a visit to Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Bass' parents.

How can you help? The answer is on this page. I hope every American citizen will read it and act on it.

W. H. Nelson
D. M. NELSON, CHAIRMAN, WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

A crisis exists in our war production program which can be solved only by the patriotic cooperation of the American people.

We are faced with a serious shortage of steel scrap, rubber and other vital materials.

This shortage must be filled.

By "scrap" we mean the ordinary Junk which today is lying in the barnyards and in the gullies of farms; in the basements, attics and garages of homes and stores throughout the country.

The steel industry operates on the basis of half-and-half—about 50 per cent metal from pig iron and 50 per cent remelted scrap metal.

Therefore, about 50 per cent of every tank, every ship, every submarine and every gun is made of scrap iron and steel.

The steel industry has been rapidly stepping up its production—from 67,000,000 tons in 1940 to a record-breaking 83,000,000 tons in 1941. Production in 1942 is already ahead of 1941, but we need to get production up to the industry's full capacity of 90,000,000 tons—a total equal to the output of the rest of the world combined.

This volume of production cannot be attained or increased unless an additional 6,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel is obtained promptly.

We are faced with the fact that some steel furnaces have been allowed to cool down and that many of them are operating from day to day and hand to mouth, due only to the lack of scrap.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber.

We are collecting every possible pound of scrap from the factories, arsenals and shipyards; we are speeding up the flow of material from automobile graveyards; we are tearing up abandoned railroad tracks and bridges; but unless we dig out an additional 6,000,000 tons of steel and great quantities of rubber, copper, brass, zinc and tin, our boys may not get all the fighting weapons they need in time.

Fortunately, the material exists in America's great "mine above the ground."

Beauford Jester Announces For RR Commission

Pledging efficient operations of the Texas Railroad Commission in gearing Texas oil and transportation systems to the war effort, Beauford H. Jester of Corsicana is entering the final phase of his first primary campaign for the unexpired term on the commission.

"We are rolling along at a fine pace," Jester says in surveying the work which has been done in his less-than-a-month of political life. It is the first campaign for public office for the Corsicana lawyer who was an infantry captain in the first world war and who has announced he seeks the railroad commission post to render a war time service to his State and Nation.

Eastland Workman Loses An Eye By Flying Steel Chip

"Doc" Justice, an employe of the Eastland Iron and Metal Co., sustained an injury to one of his eyes while at work a few days ago, that resulted in the loss of the member.

Justice was operating a steel shearing machine, it was stated, when a piece of metal hit his eye penetrating to such an extent that the eye had to be removed. He was taken to Dallas where specialists did all they could to save his eye but to no avail.

Mrs. Andy J. Taylor and Sandra Lynn have returned home after a weeks visit in San Angelo with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haic.

Buddies In World War Meet Again At Plant Pass Gate

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UP) — Vernon Hollinshead, a deputy sheriff on guard at a California defense project, asked a worker to show his pass before permitting him to enter.

Recognition flashed simultaneously on the faces of the motorist and Hollinshead when the pass was produced. The driver was Manuel Maciel of Sacramento, Hollinshead's buddy in France 25 years ago.

Both were buglers in the Seventh Division, 247th Field Artillery. They had not seen each other since their war days.

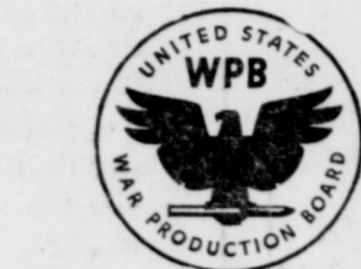

Henry Pullman and family have returned from a 10-day trip to the Gulf coast. They visited Port Arthur, Beaumont, Galveston, Corpus Christi and other places. Mr. Pullman stated that they encountered extremely hot weather and that the mosquitoes were almost unbearable.

Mrs. Angie Robinson of Victoria, Texas, is visiting in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vaughan.

An Emergency Statement to the People of the United States

There is enough iron and steel on farms alone, if used with other materials, to make:

Twice as many battleships as there are in the whole world today, or Enough 2000-pound bombs to drop three per minute from big bombers incessantly for more than three years.

Locating and collecting this scrap is going to require a canvass of every house and every farm. Even one old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

We have set up the machinery for this, but it is not perfect. It is a problem that can be licked only by American resourcefulness, American organization ability, American muscle and American will to win!

We now have in every state a State Salvage Committee of volunteers working directly under the governor.

Under these state committees we have county committees and local committees. We have special industrial committees working with executives of plants in 421 industrial centers:

In rural communities we have the County War Boards. These committees can tell you the quickest way to get your Junk into action!

In behalf of the governor and the state committee we urge every committee to organize itself into a band of "Salvage Commandos."

You can either sell your scrap to a Junk dealer or you can give it to a charity, which in turn will sell it to a Junk dealer who performs an important function by sorting it, grading it, packing it and shipping it to the right place:

We urge local charities and civic organizations to cooperate with the Local Salvage Committee and devise a plan of action and collection!

We urge the scrap dealer to cooperate as fast as he can in the collection and shipment of materials:

We urge industrial executives to appoint Salvage Managers who have both the responsibility and authority to salvage obsolete machinery, tools and dies:

We urge every farmer and every householder in America to act at once.

Go over your premises with a fine tooth comb. If you have already turned in your scrap, look again—you'll probably find more.

If you do not have enough of your own to warrant someone coming after it, form a neighborhood pool, or take it yourself to the nearest collection point:

If there is an old heater or boiler in your basement too heavy for you to move, get your neighbors to help you.

This is a People's job. It is something you can do without interfering with other war work or personal duties.

It is not enough to pile up a little stuff and expect somebody to come and get it. Most of the work is being done by patriotic volunteers with inadequate facilities. They need your help in collecting scrap material in the largest possible amounts and in getting it to the right place:

It is a direct and personal obligation to all of our boys on all fronts.

You may think, "My little bit" won't help, but your "little bit" multiplied thousands and millions of times can create a mountain of raw material which can actually turn the tide.

The situation is serious. Your help is needed now.

HOW SCRAP IRON AND STEEL GO TO WAR

The steel used in our war machines is made by melting together

1. Pig iron (about 50%)
2. Scrap generated in the steel plant in the process of steelmaking (about 25%)
3. Scrap purchased from outside Junk sources (about 25%)

We have plenty of iron ore to make the pig iron needed. But our furnaces operate faster when there is plenty of scrap to mix with the pig iron.

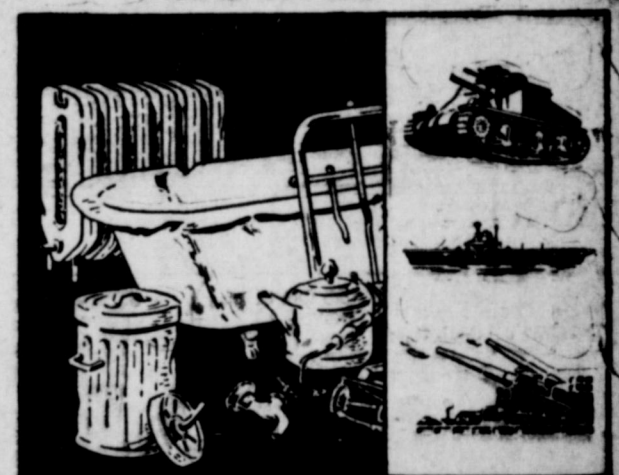

This so-called "scrap" which goes into the furnaces to make the steel for tanks, ships and guns is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed. Some of the finest quality steels are made 100% from scrap.

The iron and steel scrap which you collect is bought by the steel mills from scrap dealers at established government-controlled prices.
