Lamar Bridge Marks Site On Which A Famous Texan Stood To Pick Site Now Occupied By The State Capitol

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Tex. —President Mirabeau B. Lamar of the Republic of Texas stood almost on the site of Lamar Bridge crossing the Colorado River when he recommended Austin for capital of the Republic.

Lamar Bridge was opened July 15, with many of the descendants and relatives of Mirabeau B. Lamar attending. The bridge connects Shoal Creek Boulevard (renamed Lamar Boulevard) with the Fredericksburg Road, and it was recalled at the bridge opening that President Lamar had spent the night at the cabin of Jake Harrell at the mouth of Shoal Creek before designating Austin as the "seat of future empire."

Lamar at the time was on a buffalo hunt with his secretary and a party of Texas Rangers. After the night with Harrell, they found Buffalo all about them in the morning. On horseback they chased the buffaloes, following them into a trail that now is Congress Avenue, Austin.

Herbert Pickens Gambrell in his life of Mirabeau Buonaparte Lamar, whom he calls "troubador an crusader," relates that after the hunt, Lamar walked to the top of the hill, gazed at the valley below, the mountains up the river, and the charming view to the south and exclaimed: "Gentlemen, this should be the seat of future empire."

When Lamar became president shortly after, a commission was appointed to select a capital site. Lamar suggested they go to Jake Harrell's cabin and look carefully at that area. They did and Austin was selected. It then was known as Waterloo.

Lamar, apparently, had a penchant for hills. A lithograph of 1840 shows the first capital building erected on a hill west of Congress Avenue, approximately where Austin's Municipal Building now stands.

Lamar's residence was on another hill, east of Congress Avenue, now occupied by St. Mary's School. Another attractive hill site was selected for the French Embassy.

The French influence then was strong in Texas. Lamar, however, was not French. He was in the sixth generation of the family to live in America, as settlers in Virginia and residents of Maryland and Georgia.

Gambrell says that Lamar's given names were picked by an uncle, Zachariah, who had named other boy members of the family, Lucius, Quintus Cincinnatus, Jefferson Jackson, Thomas Randolph, and Lavoisier Legrand.

Lamar was probably the most scholarly of the men who established the Republic of Texas and his first message to Congress recommended land grants for the University of Texas.

Part of the message is printed on University publication as a frontpiece: "Cultivated mind is the guardian genius of Democracy and while guided and controlled by virtue, the noblest attribute of security which freemen desire."

Lamar County, of course, takes its name from President Lamar.

Quite a number of his descendants and relatives live in Texas today. Among those invited by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas to the bridge opening were: Mrs. E. H. J. Andrews, of League City; Mrs. Mary Estes, San Antonio; Mrs. Tom Nelson, Round Rock; A. F. Lamar and A. Osborne, Austin; Lavoisier Lamar and Lucius Lamar, San Antonio.

All Wages Should Be Recorded On Quarterly SS Report

ABILENE, Tex. —All wages paid for services rendered, regardless of the length of time involved should be reported on the regular quarterly Social Security tax returns, Mr. W. O. King, manager of the Abilene office of the Social Security Board, announced today.

The announcement was made to correct the false impression of many employers that work of a short duration need not be reported.

"Temporary, part-time, intermittent, or casual labor, which is in the course of an employer's trade or business should be reported, even though the amount of wages involved is small," King said. "Employers should record the name and Social Security account number of such worker, and the required information should be reported the same as that for regular employees who work steadily for one employer."

Mr. King added that night watchmen, janitors, and others who may be employed by several firms at the same time are entitled to the old-age and survivors insurance benefits which are provided by the Social Security Act. The benefits are computed on the basis of the total wages received from all employers who are covered by the Social Security Act.

Music Building At University To Be Opened Nov. 8

AUSTIN, Tex. —Dedication ceremonies for the University of Texas' new $475,000 music building—scheduled for the week of November 8-15—will be the occasion for a seven-day "concert season." Dr. E. W. Doty, dean of the College of Fine Arts, has announced.

Musicians of the entire state and directors of music from ten or 12 Midwestern colleges will be invited to attend. One of the outstanding attractions will be several concerts by the Roth String Quartette, Dean Doty said.

STASSEN PLANS AID TO SOLDIER AFTER THE WAR

By JOHN KELLY

United Press Staff Correspondent ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The state of Minnesota is preparing to provide financial aid for its soldiers when they return from the war.

State officials are considering the creation of a $10,000,000 soldier rehabilitation fund, which Gov. Harold E. Stassen said would "refit returning service men for civilian life."

The program still is in a formative stage, and it requires legislative approval. The rehabilitation proposal was outlined by Stassen as part of a 10-point program designed to prepare the state for readjustments which will be necessary in the post-war period.

"Minnesota recognizes its debt to those of its men now serving in the far corners of the world," Stassen said.

"It is the responsibility of the state to formulate a program which will aid returning soldiers to start again in civilian life with the minimum of disruption."

Under terms of the governor's proposal, the fund would be financed from the state's general revenue reserves and administered by a special commission authorized to make loans or outright grants in aid in individual cases.

"It is essential that the administration of the fund be flexible, and that the type and amount of aid granted vary with the individual need," Stassen said.

"And it is especially important that such aid be immediately available upon the soldier's return in order that there be no extended period of dislocation."

Stassen predicted that some form of Federal grant, probably a bonus, eventually would be made to soldiers after the war, but he said there probably would be a time lag between the soldier's return and the time the Federal grant would be made available.

The state fund, he said, would be a bridge between the time the soldier leaves the army and the time Federal funds will be available.

Resources of the state fund, he said, would be used to provide an educational training program through which training in the respective branches of the service could be adapted to civilian pursuits while provision likewise would be made to grant special farm loans, special re-employment bureaus, and to provide transportation to employment areas.

"Disbursement of funds, if the program is approved by the legislature," Stassen said, "would rest largely at the discretion of the administrative commission."

Hand Made Nails Become Souvenirs

AUSTIN, Tex. —Many people for the first time saw a hand hammered square nail when wood en floors in the fourth floor of the state capitol were torn up as a part of plans to make the old capitol less likely to go up in fire some day.

The nails, in common use a half century ago when the capitol was built, were taken as souvenirs by many visitors to the building.

Civilian Pilots Can Take Up New Training Program

NEW ORLEANS, La. —Civilian airplane pilots who are not eligible for Naval Aviation Cadet Training because of age or marital status may now take advanced civilian pilot training to qualify for commissions in Class A-V (T) of the Naval Reserve, the Navy announced today.

To be eligible for this advanced training, applicants must have at least a private pilot's certificate with approximately 100 hours flying time and be technically qualified to take either the civilian cross country course or instructor's course. Applicants should have at least a high school education. Preference will be given those under 32 years old, it was pointed out by Lieutenant-Commander L. C. Priestman, senior member of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, where application should be made.

Qualified applicants are originally commissioned on a probationary status and immediately assigned to an advanced Civilian Pilot Training course. Upon completion of the subsequent instruction they are commissioned with appropriate rank in Class A-V (T) of the Naval Reserve.

Applicants who do not successfully complete the training may apply for any other commissioned branch or enlisted grade for which they may be qualified.

While taking civilian training, applicants are furnished subsistence, quarters and transportation to and from the airport and are required to devote their full time to the training.

It was pointed out that applicants for a A-V(T) commissions who already have the necessary flying qualifications do not take civilian training but are commissioned from civilian life and assigned to "refresher" training at one of the principal Naval air stations.

Age Limit For V-1 Program Is Being Increased

NEW ORLEANS, La. —The maximum age limit for students enrolling in the Navy's V-1 program has been raised to 26 years, it was announced today by the Eighth Naval District Public Relations Office. The top age limit previously was 20 years. This means that many college sophomores and freshmen will have the opportunity of becoming Naval officers whereas in the past they were unable to qualify because of being over the age limitation. The minimum age limit is 17.

The V-1 program of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, offers college sophomores and freshmen the opportunity to serve their country by enlisting in the Naval Reserve provided they meet the qualifications.

The student is allowed to continue his course in college at least through his sophomore year and if he desires, through the entire four years of college when he will then receive training leading to a commission as an Ensign with deck engineering duties provided he is in good standing. To qualify for commissions in Class A-V actual training after his sophomore year.

Corinth Man Is Making Money On Leghorn Flocks

According to Wyman Blair of the Corinth Community his flock of White Leghorn hens paid him during the month of June $159.27 income for his labor and investment.

Blair vaccinates his flock against fowl pox. This costs him very little and not only controls the sore head of chickens but builds up their resistant against some of the other common diseases such as roup according to County Agent Floyd Lynch.

Lynch advises all poultrymen who have had trouble in the past with an outbreak of fowl pox to vaccinate their pullets and old hens if they have not been vaccinated previously, as soon as the cockrels are disposed of.

Sob Sisters Are Called A Weakness Of The Country

BROWNWOOD, Tex. —Konrad Bercovici, teller of Gipsy tales, believes that "sob sisters" constitute America's "greatest weakness." Here for a series of lectures on European conditions to soldiers of Camp Bowie, Bercovici bitterly denounced "sob sisters" and said they will block a lasting peace for the world unless they can be silenced at the close of the war.

Bercovici recalled an interview he had with Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, in 1928 in which Goebbels predicted that Germany's "superior race" would conquer the United States by arraying all the various races against each other in America and letting the superior German race come out on top.

This coup, the writer predicted, will be attempted through a "blitz-peace."

"For twenty years the Prussians have prepared their blitzkrieg, and for 20 years they have prepared for a blitzpeace."

Adolph Schickelgruber, the lance corporal, is a "figurehead" in a "diabolical plot," said Bercovici.

"At the proper time they are prepared to do away with him and elevate Goering to power. Goering—the great organizer, the real power behind Hitler.

"It is a most diabolical plot, and if they pull the wool over our eyes, our freedom and everything we possess, including our lives, will be gone. If you want to know what will happen to us then notice what has happened to the people in all of the conquered countries."

Bercovici believes that five years or more will be required to win the war for the Allies.

Teach Democracy In Public Schools

Educators Urge

AUSTIN, Tex. —Democracy must be taught throughout the public school system, particularly in a time of grave danger to national existence, insist members of a conference course in education at the University of Texas.

Several participants in the conference work have spent the past six weeks in special study of the problems of teaching democracy. Results of their work are embodied in teaching units on freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of religion, and justice before the law.

The units, or study outlines, will be distributed to all members of the Texas State Teachers Association this fall, it has been announced.

Their Own Petard

The story of occupied Europe's gallant resistance to Nazi oppression, pieced together by the Office of Facts and Figures in "The Unconquered People," emphasizes anew how deeply the love of liberty has engraved itself in the human heart.

Truly, there are things they can't do to us who have known what it was to be free.

Under the iron heel of the most sadistic military power of modern times, with death for self and loved ones the price of any misstep, the people of France and Holland, Norway and Greece, Serbia and Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Poland achieve telling sabotage against their Nazi conquerors.

Even the few highlights which trickle through rigid censorships demonstrate that the Liberty Front is acquiring more than a token nuisance value.

The ever more drastic measures which Hitler and Himmler are taking against such underground activities proves that these experts in fifth columning recognize the importance of the Liberty Front.

When Lieut.-Col. Holtz was killed last October by patriots in Nantes, the Gestapo shot 50 Frenchmen in reprisal. When an S. S. (police) official was killed at Waer in December, every fifth Polish male in the village was shot—a total of 167.

When Reinhard Heydrich, the butcher, was killed in Prague last month, more than 800 Czechs were slain in vengeance.

These were not punitive executions of murderers, actual or alleged. They were frankly preventive orgies, designed to estop patriotic resistance by making the price unbearably high—by assuring brave Frenchmen, Poles, Czechs, who might place no value upon their own lives, that any act against the Nazis would bring death to hundreds of innocents.

Such horrible repressive measures have proven futile. Resistance continues and increases. Having conquered most of the European continent, Herr Hitler has a deadly bear by the tail, and it has become equally disastrous for him to hang on or to let go.

The Nazis know how fatal an active fifth column can be. They used such to win almost bloodlessly over most of their neighbors. Now the shoe is on the other foot. They are becoming victims of their own methods.

When Nazism falls, the Liberty Front will deserve a big share of credit.

Saying a person is one of your oldest friends may not be a compliment.

Sitting In On The Second-Front Talks

Says Children Are Dependable In War Emergency

By CORINNE HAIDESTY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—Irene Wicker, who as radio's singing lady has entertained thousands of children in peace time, said today the best way to handle youngsters in the excitement of war is to give them something to do.

Miss Wicker, who has been amusing children and grown-ups since she was 12 when she played in summer stock, recently augmented her experience in dealing with the young with courses in child psychology and day nursery routine.

"It has been shown through studies made on children in war areas," Miss Wicker said, as she sat in her sunny apartment relating her experience in settlement house work where she put her talents to wartime uses, "that children rapidly mature in wartime.

"The best thing to do, to keep them from going to pieces from emotional strain, as many children did in England under the early bombings, is to give them small tasks to work at."

Miss Wicker said the smallest child in the settlement was given some chore, even if it was nothing more than bringing a candle to blackout drill.

"One five year old boy was delighted to be a salvage worker."

Miss Wicker related, "He collected twice as much rubber as some of the adults, and he insisted on being paid his penny for every pound of it."

"Children in wartime tire of their usual games. They don't want to play blind man's buff. They want to learn elementary first aid. The older ones enjoy learning how to help the younger ones."

Miss Wicker said she belongs to the school of thought that believes in explaining war dangers to children, but not frightening them.

"Children can be given courage and taught to take care of themselves," she said "if adults explain the dangers of war emergencies without frightening the wits out of the little ones."

"Many times the young are more dependable in an emergency than older people. They are nearly always clear thinkers because they are not inhibited by a lot of old thought patterns."

Miss Wicker taught a settlement house group a number of songs and stories to use in amusing younger children during raids or blackouts.

"The children like best the familiar stories", she said, "such as Jack and the Beanstalk, Sleeping Beauty and Snow White. We also taught them many singing games".

Miss Wicker pointed out that the mistake made in England, of separating children from parents, should be avoided. She said day nurseries which keep children near their parents, working in war industries, was the course being followed in England now and the one to be used here.

Teaching Called Primary Duty Of Junior Colleges

AUSTIN, Tex.—Teaching, not research, is the primary duty of junior colleges, believe members of a conference course in Junior college education at the University of Texas.

The conference group recently completed its work, and announced the result of its study in a "Junior College Credo for the Southwest." Among the recommendations in this report were suggested improvements in training of junior college instructors and administrators, continued state financial aid for junior colleges, and an expanded curriculum.

The junior college, the conferees declared, should offer general education to meet the problems of democratic education, vocational training for students who will not carry their education beyond the sophomore years, and adult education for the betterment of the community.

There were 34 participants in the conference, which was led by Walter C. Eells, executive secretary of the American Association of Junior colleges.

Among the participants in the course was Miss Gladys Louise Maddocks, instructor in commercial subjects at Ranger Junior College.

In offering myself as a candidate for re-election to the Office of County Judge I want to thank each and every voter for the support they have given me in the past, for which I am deeply grateful.

HEROES ARE MADE - NOT BORN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

THERE'S an amazing, knock-down, show-down fight being waged behind the scenes in Congress these days. Its outcome will determine for the time-being who has the most influence in shaping the wartime farm policies of this country—the U. S. Department of Agriculture or the American Farm Bureau Federation, most potent of the big farmer organizations.

Edson

The issue over which the battle is being fought is whether the U. S. government, through its Commodity Credit Corporation, shall be permitted to sell some of its grain at less than parity prices. The idea behind wanting to sell the grain at less than parity, which is backed by Secretary Wickard and the Department of Agriculture, is that this surplus grain should be used to feed poultry and livestock, thus increasing the production of meats, dairy and poultry products needed in wartime not only for U. S. troops, but for the armies and civilian populations of the United Nations as well.

The American Farm Bureau insists that none of this surplus grain shall be sold at less than parity, war or no war, price ceilings or no price ceilings. The Bureau, in other words, takes the stand that it is bigger than the government and will dictate to the Congress what shall be done on this issue.

Assurance is supposed to have been given that a presidential veto would be forthcoming if Congress should pass a bill preventing sale of surplus grain at below-parity prices for feed or the production of grain alcohol. Either way—whether Congress or the President takes the responsibility for permitting below-parity sales—the Farm Bureau chiefs stand to be discredited before their membership. But don't sell 'em short. Ed O'Neal, who is the backslapping fixer with the cotton bloc, and Earl Smith, who represents the corn and wheat men and is the brains of the team, both pack more weight in Washington than John L. Lewis ever did.

SCHOOL BOARD'S PLANS FOR RETRENCHMENT IN EXPENSES ANNOUNCED

The Eastland School board, through its secretary, has issued the following statement regarding the condition of the schools in the Eastland Independent district.

The statement follows: "The Local Board at two recent meetings, has been wrestling with the problems arising from the war activities and resulting migrations of Eastland residents and school patrons.

The scholastic census has disclosed that there is a marked decline in the number of children of school age, since a number of parents have left to accept temporary employment in defense projects. With this resulting reduction in enrollment, there will be a corresponding reduction in the amount of funds allotted for school maintenance by the State School Board. Some loss in tax collections is also anticipated unless the citizenship responds patriotically to the appeals of the Equalization Board now in session.

Various plans of retrenchment have been suggested to and surveyed by the trustees. They first considered reducing expenses by combining the two ward schools. This would result in the saving of about $3,500.00 per year in teachers' salaries, janitor hire and utility bills. However, this plan was finally rejected because of the resulting inconvenience to the small first and second grade pupils whose parents were without transportation facilities.

Since some economy had to be effected, it was finally voted to do without a football coach, a band leader and a music teacher for the coming year. In so doing, about the same saving is accomplished as the closing of one ward school.

For the past several years the school's football schedule has resulted in a loss, the expenses exceeding the gate receipts by several hundred dollars. As much as the Board hated to eliminate this very popular and worthwhile activity, it was felt that perhaps this would cause the least inconvenience and affect the general school work less than any other plan.

The school board has recently worked out a refunding of the bonded debt whereby a substantial saving in interest charges has been obtained. The Board authorizes us to say that if the citizens will respond to its appeal for a liberal and sympathetic program of tax reductions and tax payments within the school district, and will bear with the board in its retrenchment, there is no reason why our public school work cannot be continued on the high plane it has heretofore occupied."

"They also serve who only stand and wait" is cold comfort for the American woman of 1942 whose fighting spirit and love for her country make her look with longing eyes toward the battlefield where her brother, husband, son or sweetheart is stationed.

Her chance to help is here! Besides her hours at the Red Cross, her production work at a factory bench, her job as Air Raid Warden or seller of War Bonds, she carries a little white ration book in her purse—badge of an American housewife who is re-arranging her menus to include less sugar, conserving gasoline by walking instead of riding and stands ready to accept with a cheerful smile any other restrictions that are necessary to bring Victory. Hats off to the lady—she's in the Army now!
