Cargo Plane Plan Has Approval Of Production Board

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Henry J. Kiser, West Coast ship builder, today told a Senate Military Affairs sub-committee that War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson had assured him of "full support" for his plan to build a fleet of 5,000 cargo-carrying airplanes as a means of beating the submarine menace.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

"Kamerad" was the cry of surrender of the Boche troops during World War I at the sight of advancing Yankee soldiers with fixed bayonets. The bayonet is a vital weapon in hand-to-hand fighting and every American infantryman must have one. The bayonet costs $5 and the scabbard $1.30 each.

We need millions of these weapons for our rapidly growing army. You can help pay for them with your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps. A $5 War Stamp will buy one bayonet. So invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday and become a member of the patriotic "Ten Percent Club."

SABOTEURS ARE DENIED CIVIL TRIAL

By United Press

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31 —The United States Supreme Court was unanimous today, in upholding President Roosevelt's authority to order trial of eight alleged Nazi saboteurs before a special military commission, instead of before a civil court.

The court revealed its decision in a brief, but far-reaching per curiam opinion which held that the charges involved were such as to permit the military trial. The charges against the eight saboteurs, seven of whom appealed to the supreme court for right to trial before civil courts, was described as sabotage.

Infrequently the court also upheld President Roosevelt's proclamation denying to saboteurs any other persons who enter the country for the purpose of damaging this country's war efforts, the rights of habeas corpus.

An Experimental House Is Being Completed At TSCW

DENTON — An experimental house, nearing completion on the campus of Texas State College for Women, may be an indication of how the Texas family in the low-medium income group can rent or buy an adequate house.

It is expected to show how—after the war is over—a family with an income of $1000 to $2000 can rent or buy without paying too much and how a landlord will find it possible to build, rent, and keep in repair an adequate house for a family with an income of $1200.

A cooperative project by students of TSCW and Texas A. & M. College, this semi-prefabricated house used materials available in any small-town lumberyard and could be built by any local contractor. The house is built on a floating concrete slab to make a stable building on clay land, and is so arranged that it may be enlarged simply by moving out sections of the wall without losing any of the material. It is designed for a family of three or four.

Art students are building furniture of plywood, doing nothing the average person can't do with hammer, saw, chisel and screwdriver.

A bulletin on the entire project to be issued in the fall is being planned by A. & M. College.

RED ARMY SMASHES NAZI ARMORED ATTACK IN ONE SECTOR OF DON FRONT

Rising Star Youth Reported Missing, Is Believed Alive

RISING STAR, July 31.—Bob Evans of this city, whose son, Arnold, was officially reported missing in action by the War Department a few weeks ago, has returned from San Antonio where he personally talked with a "buddy" of his son's who was also on the ill-fated U. S. S. Perry that sank after being hit by a Japanese torpedo.

The "buddy" told Evans that he knew his son and knew that he did not go down with the ship as he was among the engine crew that was blown clear of the sinking vessel by the explosion, and feels sure that he saw young Evans in the water after the explosion.

Sam Logan, Evan's buddy, was rescued after the Perry was torpedoed.

The elder Evans has persistently clung to the belief that his son will yet be found alive, and his belief, he says was strengthened by his talk with the San Antonio youth.

Ruling On Union Musicians Stands President States

NEW YORK.—James C. Feltola, president of the American Federation of Musicians, today by his order that will stop 140,000 union musicians at midnight from making any more phonograph records or radio transcriptions for commercial use.

He said last night that he had not answered Elmer Davis, director of the Office of Information, who had appealed to him to rescind his order, "as a patriotic duty."

Hollywood Writer Gets Eye Opener At Texas A & M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. —Norman Reilly Raine, Hollywood film writer had been many places and had seen many things, but it remained for the Texas Aggie cadet corps to give him an eye-opening reception here Thursday evening—and now Raine, who will write the Texas A. & M. motion picture, knows how it feels to be welcomed to Aggieland.

Cadet Colonel Walter Cardwell and Yell Leader Chuck Chalmers cooked up the little reception for Raine when it was definitely ascertained that he would arrive Thursday evening.

When the train pulled into the station, the platform was crowded by 5000 yelling Aggies and the famous A. & M. band. The cadet corps put on a typical welcome such as is received by the A. & M. football team when it returns from a game.

There were yells, speeches, the familiar strains of "Recall" the Aggie fight song by the band and 5000 lusty voices, and then a triumphal march down oak-lined college streets to the Aggieland Inn, with Raine accorded the honor of marching at the head of the procession.

"Hollywood could learn something about welcomes from the Texas Aggies," Raine proudly beamed when the shouting and tumult subsided. "Nothing like this ever happened to me, and I appreciate it."

One company alone has 1,750 research men hard at work in 16 laboratories hunting for bigger and better ways of blasting the Axis.

The Red Army smashed a Nazi armored ram attack battering toward Stalingrad and threw the enemy back across the lower Don River in another sector today but the Axis claimed a 112-mile gain toward the oil and railroad centers of the Caucasus.

Heavy Russian counter-attacks were reported by Moscow.

The German attacks were repulsed with heavy losses in eight days of fighting southwest of Kletskeya which lies only 70 miles northwest of Stalingrad, and Laer dispatches reported its way back across the Don in another vital sector, probably 125 miles southwest of Stalingrad. Thus the Russians appeared to be gaining strength and turning back the most powerful Axis attacks designed to close in on Stalingrad from both sides and trap the Red Army in the Don river bend.

These successful stands, however, did not lessen the peril to the Russian Caucasus and there was no indication that the Axis offensive toward the Volga and the Caspian Sea had been definitely stopped.

In Egypt, Nazi planes which previously had attacked the Cairo air-drome made a raid last night on Alexandria.

There was only patrol action and aerial fighting on El Alamein desert front.

In Far East, Japanese airplanes raided four points in northern Australian zone in attacks that indicated increasing offensive intentions.

In China, Japanese failed again to break through screen of Allied fighter planes over Hengyang, in Hunan Province.

Cement Stockpile Shows A Decrease

AUSTIN, Tex. —Despite boosted production, demand for cement from Texas plants in June forced heavy withdrawals from stocks on hand, a report of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research indicates.

Production last month totaled 1,045,000 barrels, up 29.7 per cent over June a year ago and 3 per cent above the May, 1941, output, but shipments of 1,321,000 barrels required a drain of 45.2 per cent from stocks that were on hand a month earlier.

Plants in this state have turned out 5,713,000 barrels during the first six months of 1942, a gain of 27.8 per cent over the first six months of 1941.

Your Pay Raise

Has your pay been increased by at least 15 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941? If not, apparently it is the will of the War Labor Board that you should have such a raise.

Nobody who gets four for an answer when he adds two to two, believes that everybody can have a 15 per cent raise without forcing prices through the ceilings which Leon Henderson is trying so hard to maintain.

What of that? If the cost of living goes up another 15 per cent, the War Labor Board will give you another 15 per cent pay raise.

Of course, your wages always lag in such a game of economic follow-the-leader. Prices go up, then wages are adjusted, then prices go up, then wages are adjusted, then—

Then what? Then we have inflation, which New Dealers and Old Dealers agree might be fatal to the American way of life. Since this is almost the only thing on which New Dealers and Old Dealers ever have agreed, it seems reasonable to assume that inflation really is something to be avoided.

It seems to us that the anti-inflationists in Washington ought to get together. President Roosevelt has said:

"Our standard of living will have to come down."

The War Labor Board says its 44-cent a day award to Little Steel employees is designed to protect "their established peacetime standards."

You figure that one out. Who is determining this nation's anti-inflation policy—President Roosevelt, or the War Labor Board he appointed? If it is the WLB, then why?

The argument seems to be between those who favor the virtual freezing of wages and those who favor "stabilization." The 12-letter word apparently means freezing modified by an allowance to those who are definitely underprivileged in their pay checks.

Certainly the Little Steel award is not "stabilization," since it went to one of the highest-paid strata of labor.

The award gave to 157,000 employees of Bethlehem, Inland, Republic and Youngstown a 44-cent a day raise. Inevitably, and quite properly, the CIO asks the same allowance for half a million who do the same work for U. S. Steel and miscellaneous independents.

There seems to be no fair reason why employees of Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, all now seeking raises, should be denied their 15 per cent increment.

If they get theirs, how about you and us and everybody else? Aren't we working for a living too? Haven't our living costs gone up 15 per cent?

What a swell time we're going to have, if the WLB has its way from now on!

Synthetic Rubber!

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

ECONOMICALLY speaking, and from the point of view of the average citizen, the coming winter is going to be the coldest this country has experienced since Valley Forge.

Being a prophet of gloom is not nice work, though it is easy to get in these days of disaster. But this winter outlook is no secret, long-range weather forecast that must be kept from the enemy. It is hard fact that has to be faced.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson called the tune for this situation before the Small Business Committee of the House, whose chairman is Wright Patman of Texas. According to Henderson, the profit level reached its peak in March, and from here on smaller profits can be anticipated by business as a whole.

There is no real shortage of goods on the shelves now, as merchants are selling from inventory. But within five or six months shortages will be general. Some 15 additional items probably will be under rationing. If the necessary anti-inflation measures are taken, wages may be under control, though not necessarily frozen. And small business will be up against it, right to the point of being forced out of business.

THE effect of the various limitation orders issued by the War Production Board have been felt principally by manufacturers, and many of them have been able to get war orders, or to keep going somehow. So far, all the worrying has been done about the 185,000 manufacturers, 169,000 of them are usually considered small. The two principal metal limitations orders, the second issued only a few days ago, cut off raw materials for the manufacture of some 600 items. Included in this second list were such insignificant items as perfume atomizers, book ends, cigaret lighters, compacts, door stops, finger bowls, jelly molds, letter openers, match boxes, mop wringers, necktie racks, pen holders, and wastebaskets. Gradually, therefore, the war's effects will be trickling down below the manufacturing level, and when they do the real small businesses will begin to feel it something awful. Small business isn't only these 169,000 manufacturers, but in addition 72,000 wholesalers, 1,614,000 retailers, 638,000 service organizations like laundries and dry cleaning establishments, 200,000 building construction companies, 40,000 places of amusement and 25,000 hotels—a total of some two and three-quarters million business which normally employ over eight million people. What happens to them?

MANY won't be hurt—food wholesalers and retailers, for instance, and the amusement spots and hotels. All will be hit eventually by labor and transportation shortages and the rationing programs. But by and large they'll get by. Where the pinch will hit hardest is on the specialty stores—dealers who have built up a clientele in one principal item. For instance, the 33,000 auto dealers and the 228,000 filling stations. For them, this war is anything but fun, and the service establishments will take it on the chin.

The question is whether all these little businesses should be saved, or should be permitted to go down the drain pipe as casualties of war. Mr. Henderson still leans to the Canadian theory that the deserving cases should be saved by some sort of subsidy. Not every small business need be saved by subsidy, even if subsidy is adopted. Over 450,000 business enterprises fail anyhow during the course of an average year. The important thing is that the subsidy idea isn't dead and congressmen may listen to this subsidy siren song for a program of business bootstrapping that will beat anything done by WPA in its best leaf-raking days.

THE PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Pennsylvania is now completely surrounded by race tracks—New York, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, and finally New Jersey.

"What suckers we are," remarked a Philadelphian who returned with us from the Camden opening. "We contribute to the taxes of a half dozen states—furnish a good share of the taxes they want to keep Pennsylvania clean and nice."

The shore line train which runs right through the parking lot does not serve the new Garden State Park, four miles out of Camden. Special buses are out. You can ride a taxicab from Camden, but not from Philadelphia.

The last of many obstructions was a terrific thunderstorm. But all this did not prevent 31,682 people from charging the windows for a chance to lose their money.

IT was additional proof of the old adage, "Give the people a good race track and they will find their own way," and "The shortest distance to a race track is a bee-line."

The customers didn't get there in parachutes. While many walked miles, you only had to look at the spacious parking lots for the bulk of the answer. More stringent gas rationing may lessen the number of automobiles at tracks, but I doubt that it will reduce attendance perceptibly. Playing horses is a mental disease and it's in the country's blood.

Garden City was a bit disappointed in its rapid handle for the curtain-raiser—$569,341, but this will pick up with crowds to come and the schooling of the men at the windows.

GARDEN CITY is as fine and modern plant as you would care to see with every possible convenience for the sucker. It can't miss, even though news of it has to be lugged by carrier pigeon. There being no direct wire communications.

Eugene Mori, picturesque head of the group of Vineland, N. J., Italians who put the $2,000,000 plant over despite hell and high water plus the added headache of religious, newspaper and business opposition, says he would tear it down bit by bit if he thought it would tip the war effort.

Well, they could always wager on the pigeons.

But would they provide the morale that race track people claim lugs do?

Regulations For Hunting In Texas This Season Are Now Outlined

AUSTIN, Tex. — Regulations governing hunting of white-winged doves, mourning doves, waterfowl, geese and coot in Texas were clarified today by the Executive Secretary of the Game Department upon receipt of official copies of the Federal regulations, which often conflict with State laws pertaining to hunting some of these species.

The Legislature as long ago as 1933 gave the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission authority to make laws concerning ducks, geese and coot conform to Federal regulations. The commission at its regular quarterly meeting July 17 assented to the recently issued Federal waterfowl regulations and so there will be no conflicts in laws regarding these species this year, it was pointed out.

But conflicts exist in the dove laws, the Executive Secretary said, principally because the Game Commission has no legislative authority to reconcile them.

The white-winged dove open season this year, according to Federal regulations, will be September 16 to 25, inclusive, thus on the surface giving hunters 10 days of white-winged shooting. It is a fact, however, the Executive Secretary said, that virtually all white-winged doves in Texas concentrate each season in Webb, Starr, Zapata, Hidalgo, Cameron and Willacy Counties, and a special State law applicable to those Counties forbids shooting of white-winged and mourning doves except on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays during the open season, and then only from 12 noon until sunset.

White-winged hunters in this concentration area thus will be allowed their favorite sport this year only on September 17th, 20th, and 22nd and 24th, between the hours of 12 noon and sunset according to Federal regulations and State law.

Another white-wing country State law makes it unlawful to shoot white-wings or chachalacs between the Rio Grande River and U. S. highway 83 from the Zapata-Starr County line to the west boundary of the City Limits of Brownsville.

Culberson and Hudspeth Counties, in far West Texas, will have no dove season under the provisions of another special law.

Where no special shooting hours are prescribed, white-winged and mourning doves may be taken from 7 a. m. to sunset only, the Executive Secretary said.

Complete dove and waterfowl regulations for Texas this year, after all conflicts have been ironed out, were announced by the Game Department as follows:

Daily Bag Limit—10 a day of South Zone—September 16 to October 27, inclusive. (South zone includes remainder of State with the exception of Culberson and Hudspeth Counties, which have no open season on doves.)

DUCKS, GEESE, COOT
Open season—November 2 to January 10, both days inclusive. Shooting hours—sunrise to sunset.

Bag Limit—10 a day. Possession limited to 20, including not more than six singly or in the aggregate of redheads and buff-heads, not more than one wood duck.

SERIAL STORY SPORTING BLOOD

BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Hunter Dent, who manages wealthy Strickland Ballard's farm, is suspected of being involved in the robbery and murder of a bank messenger, through his protection of Ballard's dissipated son, Junior. Hunter found Junior lying unconscious beside a satchel containing $17,000, the amount taken from the messenger. Hunter had put the boy to bed, discovered next day that Junior had not been drunk, but shot and seriously wounded.

Hunter hides the money, next day finds it gone from a safe to which only he knew the combination. The tires of his car match the tracks of the "death car" which Junior drove and crashed on the estate, and which Hunter is hiding. But the sheriff examines Hunter's tires, finds there is no dust on them.

and haul the car out. He could use the big truck. Where he would secrete the car was another question.

RED was gone when Hunter returned to the house. He asked Warwick, "Where did Miss Bella go?"

"To town, sir, I believe."

A sudden question, which overshadowed all the others, popped into Hunter's mind. Red standing there ruminating, making what amounted to an alibi for her brother. She named all present at the party except herself.

Hunter decided, "One thing seems sure. Red didn't know, couldn't vouch in her own mind, that Junior wasn't mixed in the stick-up, the killing. She suspects. She is afraid. She is beginning to be convinced that I am mixed in it, deeper than any one believes. But because she was not with the gang she can't know for sure, and has no way so far for finding out. Am I stupidly slipping a noose around my own neck?"

Hunter got the paper and read the fairly meager details. A girl and her boy friend were on their way home from the neighborhood picture show not far from the river front about midnight. This region of town was of fairly ill repute. Old frame houses, sorry little corner stores, dark stairways where dangerous characters lurked. The couple heard cries, shouts, a string of oaths, and some pistol shots. They darted into the dark doorway. A young man with hat drawn low over his face walked and ran past. He had something under his arm. Later it proved to be the leather bag with the money. Or that was the supposition. Another young man, in tails and silk hat, came along. He had a gun. He was running pretty fast after the young man ahead. He shouted, "Hey, stick 'em up!" It all happened so fast the couple hardly knew just how the details came. Anyway, there seemed to be two more people. Men. They just appeared. From nowhere, it would seem. The shots came fast now. When the girl screamed her boy friend clapped his hand to her mouth, telling her to keep it shut. They didn't want to get mixed in what was going on. So the rest of the doings were blurred. She didn't see the two again. The man in tails after shooting once seemed to have disappeared. She could hear running steps. The echoes jumped up and down in the cobbled street. Then the police showed up and by that time the bank messenger, as he later proved to be, was lying in the middle of the narrow street, shot. The bag was gone. The girl and her boy friend couldn't run. The boy friend, however, escaped by running up the dark stairs, and not coming to her rescue when the police nabbed her. The name was Sarah Kiker, and she worked part time at the munitions plant.

That was the jumbled story of an eye-witness. Sarah Kiker now was in jail. She declined to divulge the identity of her friend.

HUNTER went down to the barn. The time was almost dusk. He had to get Junior's car out, but what he would do with it afterward he could hardly think. He could put it temporarily here in the barn. He got out the heavy truck, some chains, and made ready for the wrecking job.

He ate supper. There was a small dining room attached to the servants' quarters for his use. By the time he was ready to attack the job in the woods cars bearing the guests were arriving. Hunter went out and stood in the shadows, so slashing headlights would not readily show him watching. The crowd was quiet. They entered the house without much talk and no laughter at all. Red didn't seem to be about. It struck Hunter with an ominous portent that he might be included in the topics to be discussed; for there was no question their purpose was with Junior.

Hunter went through the shrubbery and shadows around the west side of the mansion. Here the low-branched magnolia trees made the dark into ink. He crept up to the window, open to the blind evening. He could see the group. Hankins Temple, the McDougal girls, Mrs. Ballard's brother, Neal Frazier, the Gifferts twins. Red and her fiance were not present. Frazier was leaning against the mantle, finishing a cigaret. He crushed it out in an ash tray. He was a short but powerful man. A bachelor hurrying into his late 30s, with a pretty watermelon belly, he nevertheless had a bulldog face and pugilistic build. He occupied the advantage of being the oldest member of this rather cultish group that made sportsmanship their battle cry.

"I'll wager you're the real culprit is not far from where we are," he said. "All of you read the Kiker girl's story in the afternoon paper. Without going into details at this moment, but speaking from some inside dope, which in turn is made up of many small things, I'm willing to lay odds on the killer's being right here. I mean on this place."

There was a hush. He finished. "I'm speaking of Hunter Dent, the manager here."

FIRST SERVICE

The first worship service, held at eleven o'clock, will explore how to get the most out of our religion. The Junior Church Choir will sing a special number. So far this summer our sanctuary has been comfortable. You will find the service to be helpful. You will be helpful to the service. When you miss you miss and are missed. When you are present you help and are helpful. No other place merits our presence more.

SECOND SERVICE

The second service, held at eight o'clock, will continue the study of biblical characters. "Noah—the Value of a Good Man" is the subject. You will find this vesper service rewarding. You return home in the twilight. Your presence will add much to the richness of our fellowship.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

Inasmuch as we did not have our third quarterly conference at which time the delegate and the reserve delegate to the annual conference are elected, it is necessary to take about five minutes after the service Sunday morning for an adjournment session of the quarterly conference to attend to this official item.

WAR BONDS

This is the last day (Friday) in July on which to purchase war bonds for this month. Mr. Cyrus B. Frost, director of the sales for the county, reports that we shall have to pick up considerably if we reach our part of the national goal of one billion dollars for the month. If you possibly can, buy some or some more bonds today.

CONGRATULATIONS

Our summer congregations have been comparatively large which has been an inspiration to the entire church and its pastor. During August let us keep the good work going. It is not as easy to attend church this season of the year as other times but it is even more important. Put forth that extra effort and you will derive additional good from it.

VACATION SCHOOL ENDS

The vacation church school ends a successful term this morning.

Parents are invited to visit the departments of their children during the following periods this (Friday morning): Beginners 9:00-9:30; Primary 9:30-10; Junior 10:10-10:30; Intermediate 10:30-11. The Nursery may be visited any hour. This plan, rather than a general assembly for the school and the public, was thought to be more practical.

JUNIOR CHOIR

The Junior Church Choir had 27 in robes Sunday morning in the worship service. It will meet at 10 Saturday morning for rehearsal on a special number to be given next Sunday. Let none be absent. This is important. A picnic is planned for this choir.

JUVENILE CHOIR

The beginners choir will meet at 9:30 Saturday morning. Their robes will soon be ready, we hope, and this choir of our little people will have a place in the church.

MYF

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet on the parsonage lawn at nine Sunday evening, following the vesper service at the church. It is good to see several of our youth in the vesper service and we trust we shall see all of them there this Sunday.

WEDNESDAY PLAY

The youth are permitted to play on the parsonage lawn on Wednesday evenings. Their activities are unplanned, informal, self-directed. Twenty-three of them dropped in for the occasion last Wednesday evening.

WOMAN'S SOCIETY

All three circles of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet at 12:45 noon Monday for a luncheon and yearbook program. Mrs. Ammer's circle will be table hostess. Mrs. Frank Crowell will lead the program and Mrs. W. P. Leslie will give the topical discussion.

Industry Hums In Rockies While Tourists Decline

By JACK V. FOX
United Press Staff Correspondent DENVER, Col. —It's midsummer in the Rockies, time for vacationists to come streaming into cool mountain resorts, but the war not only has cut down severely on the visitors this year but it is smaller Colorado Springs, and Pueblo where military and war industry activities have started boom conditions with high school boys obtaining jobs as common laborers at $53 a week.

Even in the lofty heart of the Rockies at Tennessee Pass, the war has had its effect. The road because of the fast-growing camp for the training of army troops in over the pass is barred to civilians skiing and other winter maneuvers at Pando, Colo.

Mines of the area are going full blast with the vanadium mines on the western slope of Colorado's mountains and the molybdenum mine at Climax, Colo., turning out new production records daily. The molybdenum operators carry a daily advertisement in Colorado papers asking for workers.

In New Mexico, the Chino copper mines have reached their greatest output since the last war. Wyoming ranges are taxed to raise enough cattle to meet the nation's food demands.

Boats can now be sent full speed astern without either reversing the engines or shifting gears. A reversible pitch propeller has been developed by the industrial research laboratories of one company.

Irene Dunne and Patrick Knowles are co-starred in the new comedy drama, "Lady In A Jam," playing at the Lyric today and Saturday.

as many are entering the State this year.

But, if tourist trade has fallen off, industrialization has reached a record peak in the region.

Denver, once the capital of the vacation region, has taken on new metropolitan atmosphere and is humming with business. Four army bases—housing more than 40,000 soldiers—two munitions plants, construction of a bomber plant and an arsenal combined with hundreds of government workers in regional Federal offices have swelled the city's population.

Apartment and hotel rooms are scarce, street cars are jammed, restaurants turn away customers.

The situation is duplicated in smaller Colorado Springs, and Pueblo where military and war industry activities have started boom conditions with high school boys obtaining jobs as common laborers at $53 a week.

Only One Texas County Without Oil Or Gas

DALLAS, Tex. —All but one of Texas' 254 counties now have oil or gas activity, a Statewide survey just made by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association shows.

A total of 165 Texas counties today produce oil or gas or both, much of which is used to fuel our program. An additional 88 Texas counties have land under lease for oil or gas exploration and development. This gives a total of 253 counties with oil or gas activity. The 254th county, Rockwall, has none.

More than one-fourth of the total land area of Texas is now leased from Texas farmers and ranchers and other land-owners by petroleum operators, the association found.

Oil is not only found all over Texas but also is refined in every part of the State. There is no county in Texas more than 75 miles from an oil refinery, making it easy to supply gasoline and every section.

The great live oak near Lamar Akansas County, is frequently referred to as the largest tree in Texas. Its trunk two feet above crown roots has a circumference of 29 feet, six inches. Maximum spread of limbs is 102 feet. It is known as the Lamar Oak and also as the Taylor Oak, from General Zachary Taylor who camped under it during the Mexican War.
