

Garner Group Campaigning In The Open

Will Be Candidate
Regardless Of FD's
Third Term Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Open campaigning by Garner for president boosters and republican discussion of a short, intensive drive for the presidency set the 1940 political ball rolling today, ending the truce which prevailed during the neutral-ity debate.

"Whirlwind" Campaign
A prediction that the Republican national committee would give serious consideration to limiting its major campaign to eight or nine weeks came from Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority floor leader. Under such a plan, the presidential nominee and party orators probably would not begin their speechmaking until September.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), a potential candidate for the presidential nomination, has expressed the belief that a rapid-fire campaign through September and October would be better than one started in July which might lag in late summer.

The plan also would permit the Republicans to hold their national convention later than the customary June session, if they desire. There has been some talk of delaying the convention until the Democrats choose their nominees.

An assertion that Vice President Garner would be a Democratic presidential candidate, no matter whether President Roosevelt might seek a third term, was made by E. B. Germany, director of the Garner forces.

Garner is in the race to win, said Germany, adding: "We have no interest in political trade." He disclosed that organizations to support the vice president's candidacy were being formed in every state.

Garner has been at his home in Uvalde, Tex., since the special session of Congress adjourned. He has made no public statement as to his candidacy, but the Dallas News said that, barring a change in plans, he would announce later this month that he would accept the nomination.

Like his running mate in the last two national elections, Mr. Roosevelt has kept silent as to whether he would seek a third term.

FOOTBALL TRIP ENDS IN FATAL CRASH

FARMHAVEN, Miss., Nov. 13 (AP)—An aerial football trip ended in disaster near here yesterday when three men crashed to death in flames.

The victims were Pilot Sydney Hall, 32, West Memphis, Ark., public utility executive; H. P. Thompson, 33, Los Angeles, Cal., business man, and Elkins Crawford, 32, West Memphis insurance broker.

The plane was one of three aircraft which left Memphis Saturday for the Alabama-Tulane football game at New Orleans and took off yesterday on the return flight.

One plane, piloted by Fred Lanier, reached Memphis. The other landed at Jackson, Miss., when it encountered poor flying conditions.

Controversial Issues Before Next Congress

ADDED TERMS FOR DR. SMITH

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13 (AP)—Dr. James Monroe Smith, former Louisiana State university president, liquidated 27 state embezzlement and forgery charges in district court here today by pleading guilty to four of the charges.

Judge Charles A. Holcombe imposed a sentence of from five to 15 years in the state penitentiary. The semi-bald educator previously had also entered guilty pleas to federal mail fraud and income tax evasion charges and received a 30-month U. S. sentence.

Nearly a dozen charges still are pending against him in the Orleans parish criminal court but his attorneys expressed hope they will not be pressed in view of his state and federal sentences.

The two dozen other charges, based on grand jury indictments, lodged against Smith here were not pressed by District Attorney Dewey J. Sanchez upon his pleading guilty to the four embezzlement and forgery charges.

PLANES DRIVEN OFF

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The admiralty announced tonight German aircraft made two attacks on the Shetland Islands today but were driven off by anti-aircraft gunfire. The bombs dropped did no damage, the communiqué said.

Reports from the Shetlands, however, said some bombs falling on land shattered farm house windows. The islands are north of Scotland.

Moisture Too Light To Aid This Sector

By the Associated Press
Clearing skies Monday spelled the end to rainfall which had broken the drought over most of Texas, but still left some areas with insufficient precipitation.

Big Spring, after experiencing a light drizzle that netted less than a tenth of an inch of moisture, had clear skies Sunday and lower temperature Monday morning. The 36 degrees at 8 a. m. was the second lowest of the season, being a point and a half above the Nov. 3 reading.

Wichita Falls reported a drizzle over the weekend was not enough to benefit grain. In the Borger area, there still was a lack of moisture. Fort Worth reported most farmers in Tarrant county will replant their grain because the one-inch rain was too late to help that already planted.

At San Angelo, 1.11 inches rain fell thoroughly soaked the ground and there was plenty of moisture for oats and other crops. Land was in fine shape for preparation for the next crop. Even there west to the Rio Grande, including a large area of the Big Bend, rains were general.

In East Texas, Tyler's 1.10-inch rain broke a long drought. At Bastrop, in south central Texas, where a six-months dry spell had prevailed, there was a 2.30-inch rainfall. Range and farm land were benefited. Another heavy rain, however, would be welcomed to supply stock water, farmers said.

T&P PLANS PURCHASE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Texas and Pacific Railway company asked the RFC today to purchase of 500 fifty-ton steel box trust certificates to finance the purchase of 50 fifty-ton steel box cars. Maximum interest would be three per cent.

Contrastive Issues Before Next Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Although Congress likes to wind up its work early in a presidential election year, a dozen time-consuming issues will confront the legislators in January.

Heading the list will be a record defense program and a probable showdown on the administration's reciprocal trade agreements.

Other major problems for the 1940 session are beginning to shape up as follows:

1. Neutrality—Some changes undoubtedly will be sought in the new neutrality law. There already has been criticism against provisions entailing shipping losses. Expiration of the Japanese-American commercial treaty in January will clear the way for consideration of a bill to embargo American exports to Japan.

2. Taxes—Leaders arranged last spring to overhaul the tax structure in 1940, but many influential legislators are urging that the revenue system be left alone until after the 1940 election.

3. Fiscal—The treasury has announced it would leave to Congress the question of boosting the present $45,000,000,000 ceiling on the public debt. The debt now exceeds $41,000,000,000.

4. Relief—Economy-minded senators hope to hold the work relief appropriation for the year beginning next July 1 to $1,000,000,000 compared with $1,477,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

5. Penalties—The administration may urge some minor changes in the social security act. Followers of the Townsend and other old age pension movements plan to resist their programs.

6. Labor—The Senate labor committee will conclude hearings early in January on far-reaching amendments.

One Missing And Some Injured In Bridge Collapse

River At M'Allen Dragged For Other
Possible Victims Of Accident

McALLEN, Tex., Nov. 13 (AP)—Sudden collapse of the international bridge at the head of the Nickel-Plated Road-to-Hell dumped nine persons into the Rio Grande last night.

Francisco Delgado, 30, of Edinburg, is missing and feared drowned. Eight persons escaped drowning or being crushed to death in the wreckage. Two cars were plunged into the water as twin cables at each end of the bridge snapped.

Firemen dragged the diver for possible victims after hearing reports that others went down with the span.

The $500,000 bridge, built in 1928 and reconstructed in 1933, connected Reynosa, Mex., with the American border.

It was the terminus of the costly 11-mile highway from McAllen to Reynosa, a rip-roaring border town in the days of Mexican prohibition.

Rio Grande valley residents facetiously called it the nickel-plated road-to-Hell.

Two men, passengers in the two cars known to have hit the mud-colored water, are near death. They are Abundino Amador of Hargill, Tex., and Anastacio Espinosa of Edinburg, one of Delgado's three companions. Four others were hurt slightly.

Four other automobiles at the American toll gate rolled down the river bank but stopped short of the water. At least seven persons in these machines escaped injury as the cars were damaged.

Baldemar Santana of Mission, Tex., suffered a sprained ankle. Hero of the bridge collapse was Toll Collector Ramiro Rodriguez. He heard the cables snap, ran to the center of the bridge and as the structure sagged downward, shucked off his clothing and dove into the water.

He snared Eusebio Lucio of Reynosa, Mex., and another pedestrian and kept them afloat until a boat from the Mexican side rescued the trio.

Mexican customs men said they thought they saw Delgado, clinging to a plank, swept downstream after the bridge crashed. Others said it was possible he was trapped in his automobile.

Rodriguez and Brad Smith, a McAllen newspaper man, said they examined one of the broken cables and it appeared covered with rust.

Dorothy Dublin Reported To Be Critically Ill

Dorothy Dublin, who was stricken with infantile paralysis on July 19 and who has been responding to treatment in an El Paso hospital since August, Monday was reported to be in a critical condition.

She reportedly suffered from a kidney involvement Thursday night and Sunday had to be placed in an oxygen tent. Monday morning attendants thought she might be slightly improved.

Her father, Charles Dublin, and her fiancé, Horace Garrett, who spent the weekend at El Paso visiting her, returned to the border city Monday on learning of her critical condition. Mrs. Dublin also was in El Paso.

Until Thursday Dorothy had been showing encouraging signs of recovery from the effects of the paralysis. She was removed from the Big Spring hospital and taken to El Paso for special treatment in August.

OTHERS ARE IDLE BECAUSE OF STRIKE

DETROIT, Nov. 13 (AP)—Chrysler corporation announced today the lay-off of 3,200 additional employees, including 1,400 office workers, and attributed the action to the prolonged dispute with the United Auto Workers Union (CIO).

It was estimated that approximately 58,000 Chrysler workers now are idle because of the labor stalemate. Other thousands of workers have been affected in allied industries.

SAFE IS ROBBED

ARCADIA, Mo., Nov. 14 (AP)—Burglars using an acetylene torch cut into the safe at the Arcadia Bank of Arcadia last night and escaped with an amount estimated by D. E. Fletcher, president, "of at least $10,000."

Mrs. Anderson suffered a broken foot and bruises and Anderson had a gash on one knee, a broken nose and chest bruises as a result of the collision. They had started the home when their car was struck.

There were three other smash-ups during the weekend, police reported, but none of them were serious. Officers were still on the lookout for the man suspected of rapping Don Mendoza, Mexican, across the face with the barrel of a .22 rifle. His nose was broken.

'In No Danger', Netherlands Premier Says

Threats To Frontier
Discounted In Address To Nation

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Nov. 13 (AP)—Premier Dirk Jan De Geer told The Netherlands today 'there is not a single ground for uneasiness' in the nation or empire despite "many rumors causing alarm" in the past few days.

"Fatal Error"
Making his first radio speech since he became prime minister last summer, De Geer said the fear of imminent dangers for The Netherlands was caused by reports circulated abroad and by "certain measures of our government."

De Geer said that Holland's own defense measures had been misinterpreted and "it would be a fatal error on our part to conclude from these measures that threats to our frontiers had increased."

Despite official reassurance, Netherlands and Belgians remained anxious over reported German troop concentrations along their borders with which Germany might conceivably attempt to outflank the Maginot Line and reach coastal bases for assaults on Britain.

This anxiety had been amplified by the strategic flooding of parts of The Netherlands and the mobilization of about 600,000 Belgian soldiers.

At least half of the French legion staff here had packed in preparation for speedy departure in event of an emergency.

United States citizens in Belgium were advised to be ready for any eventuality by arranging for transportation out of the country and by keeping sufficient money on hand to leave. It was said, however, that the advice was not the result of any new developments.

PARLEY HALTED
HELSINKI, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Finnish foreign office announced today that its delegation in Moscow would leave for home tonight, suspending the lengthy negotiations by which Russia had been seeking concessions from Finland.

The Russian office announcement was made shortly after 2 p. m. (7 a. m. CST).

Previously Foreign Minister Eljas Eriko had said that only "last minute" modification of soviet demands for territorial concessions could prevent recall of the Finnish from Moscow.

The negotiations were initiated Oct. 7 after Russia had won concessions from Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, strengthening her military position in the west and north.

FILM DIRECTOR DIES AS AUTO PLUNGES DOWN CANYON

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13 (AP)—George Nichols, Jr., 42, prominent motion picture director, plunged to his death early today when his parked auto slipped off a mountain lookout point and rolled 500 feet to the bottom of a canyon.

His sister-in-law, Miss Alice Barnett, 25, who had been seated with him in the auto, was thrown clear of the hurdling car about 300 feet from the bottom. Her skull was believed fractured, police investigators said. She lay unconscious for several hours before crawling to the top of the mountain and staggering more than a mile along the road to call for help.

Charges of driving while intoxicated were lodged against H. A. McCelvey, Lubbock, Monday as an aftermath to a car crash just outside the western city limits Saturday.

McCelvey, a former resident of this city, waived examining trial and had bond set at $300 by Justice of Peace J. H. Hefley.

Olivia Morris, Lubbock, taken with McCelvey following a collision with a car in which Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson were riding, was released Monday.

Mrs. Anderson suffered a broken foot and bruises and Anderson had a gash on one knee, a broken nose and chest bruises as a result of the collision. They had started the home when their car was struck.

SOCIAL SECURITY
OFFICE AT LUBBOCK
SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Opening of new offices of the social security board at Lake Charles, La., and Lubbock, Tex., was announced today by James E. Marley, regional director for the states of Louisiana, New Mexico, and Texas.

The Lake Charles office is to be located at the Woodley building, with Minton M. Snider in charge as acting manager; and the Lubbock office is to be located at the Lokey building, with Lang E. Tolt, in charge as acting manager.

ARMY MANEUVERS AT NINE POSTS TO Provide A Unified Fighting Force

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Buglers at nine scattered army posts signaled today the start of mass training of 40,000 troops to provide the nation's first sizeable, unified fighting force since the World War.

Five "streamlined" infantry divisions, one cavalry division, and auxiliary units will put through four months of field maneuvers ordered after President Roosevelt proclaimed a limited national emergency.

Meanwhile, intensified training of other regulars and of national guardmen is in full swing.

A pioneer anti-tank battalion will be among the new auxiliary units. Its 310 officers and men will handle 15 of the army's new 37 millimeter anti-tank guns.

The general staff expects that by March 15 the new smaller divisions of about 9,000 officers and men each will have been welded by drill and war games into fighting forces such as the United States never has had except in war.

Four of the infantry divisions then will concentrate at a central point, such as the DeSoto national forest in Mississippi or Fort Benning, Ga., for the first peacetime maneuvers as a corps.

When this training is finished, these divisions will return to their permanent stations, and four others, organized in the meantime, will be put through maneuvers.

FDR GETS RED CROSS BUTTON

President Roosevelt pays for another year's membership in the Red Cross and receives a button from Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, widow of the late Red Cross chairman, in the presence of Chairman Norman Davis. The transaction took place in the President's office in the White House.

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE LAGS, LEADERS RENEW APPEAL

Local Red Cross workers confessed some disappointment Monday in Roll Call results to date, but they weren't downhearted.

The disappointment comes from a showing that is far below that of last year—and other years. Only about 350 members have been enrolled to date.

But it was demonstrated that no discouragement exists, as leaders agreed to extend the membership campaign another week, to extend over the November 15 pay day.

"We feel sure that many who have not had the money will join the Red Cross when they are paid," said Roll Call Chairman J. H. Greene. "We know that Big Spring, with the big payrolls it has, is able to do more for the Red Cross than it has done yet. We regard our town as the 'Main Spring of West Texas' and we know that we're not going to fall down at a time like this, when the organization which helps so many people now needs our help."

Greene and his associates said that the drive must bring in an average of $100 a day for the next several days, if the needed amount is raised.

"Our volunteer workers are continuing their services," said Greene, "and we know that everyone will be contacted. The time has come for Big Spring to act. We are appealing to every citizen to do his part."

P. O. Basement Job In Sight

Possibility of an enlargement program for the federal postoffice building here was seen today in an announcement from George Mahon, representative of the 19th congressional district.

Mahon advised Nat Shick, postmaster, that plans for completing the basement area of the building to provide additional office space had been tentatively approved in Washington.

The work, he said, might be expected to approximate $12,000.

By finishing the basement which was roughed in during construction for such an eventuality, some six or seven office spaces could be provided. Only about half of the basement was built for immediate use when the structure was raised three years ago. At that time, however, window spaces were provided in the office foundations in event that the extra space would someday be utilized.

Although there has been no definite announcement as to what offices would be housed in the postoffice basement, it was assumed that it would be those of federal employees and federal aid workers.

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP)—A new system of stricter clothing rationing was introduced in Germany today, allotting men one suit, one shirt, and five pairs of socks annually.

Women are permitted one suit, one morning dress, and six pairs of stockings.

The ruling is effective as of Nov. 1.

MUSIC APPRECIATION
Campaign Should Be Undertaken Here!
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13 (AP)—Maybe the University of Southern California could use a spelling course.

Miss Vantella Engle of the school of music reports these gems from a recent batch of student notebooks:

"The Bartered Bride" was recorded as "The Bartered Bride" and "The Bartered Bride."

Mendelssohn's "Scherzo" was twisted to "Scherzo, Scherzo and Seared-S."

Brahms became Brone; Schubert, Shurbert and Lase; Liszt, Saint-Saens "Rondo Capriccioso" turned up as "Sanson's Handplachero."

But, she marvelled, Tchaikovsky didn't cause a bit of trouble.

War Aims Outlined In Replies To Wilhelm-
mina And Leopold

By The Associated Press
Britain and France today indicated their war aims against Germany called for restoration of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Austria—the three states which have fallen before German expansion.

This indication came in British and French replies to the mediation offer from Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians.

France stated unequivocally that "the injustices" imposed on the three small nations must be rectified before peace could be reestablished.

The British reply, outlining allied war aims in broader terms, was interpreted by authoritative London sources as meaning the same thing.

Such terms from the allies seemed to leave scant hope The Netherlands-Belgian mediation offer would meet with success at present. Adolf Hitler repeatedly has stated that restoration of Poland could not be considered.

German political quarters in Berlin accused Britain and France of "deliberately" sabotaging the mediation offer.

The foreign ministers of the two lowland countries met near their common frontier last night, possibly to consider the next step in the light of the replies from London and Paris.

Premier Dirk Jan De Geer told The Netherlands in a radio speech that there was no ground for "uneasiness" and discounted reports the nation was in danger of foreign invasion.

He attributed the reports to belittlements in the European war, who, he said, credit one another with the darkest plans.

Though there was no important military action on the western front, air raid warnings sent the civilian population of Paris to cover for the seventh time since war started. Military sources said German scouting planes had flown over the Paris area.

A month of tense diplomatic negotiations between Soviet Russia and Finland resulted in a deadlock.

PLEAS OF GUILTY IN COUNTY COURT

Three pleas of guilty were heard in county court Monday morning by County Judge Charles Sullivan, who assessed fines totaling $175.

Donald Gibson was fined $100 and costs on a count of selling liquor on Sunday while J. A. Whittington was fined $50 on his plea of guilty to a charge of drunkenness. Thomas Johnson, charged with aggravated assault, was given 60 days in jail in addition to a $25 fine imposed by the court.

FASTER PLANE IS DEVELOPED

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Nov. 13 (AP)—The world's fastest airplane powered by the world's most efficient air-cooled engines will emerge soon from the laboratories of the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

Research workers here regard present military and transport airplanes as about as crude as early cars compared with new designs of wings and engines now being developed. In an emergency these designs could be put into production quickly, officials say, to assure American supremacy in the air.

A knife-like wing, a strict military secret, will enable an airplane to fly at speeds of 500 miles or more before it will nearly eliminate the "shock wave" which develops in a wing surface when the speed of sound approaches the speed of speed (about 740 miles an hour).

The new engine will have three times the power of present engines. This development, which required eight years of research by the committee's engineers, is merely a different arrangement of the fins, or strips of metal lining the outside of the engine cylinders to carry away excess heat.

Such terrific power increase created another problem—new propellers. The committee's engineers are at work on propellers of larger diameter. They may have four or six blades instead of the present two or three.

A new factor of safety in flying is expected to be added by the development of safety fuselages which have the power of present fuselages but which are designed to absorb impact by being crushed except in an extreme crash.

Few Veteran Leaders

A review of the great names associated with the second world war suggests that the nations involved are not conspicuously provided with leaders who have had experience with problems resulting from conflict.

Great Britain, it is true, has Winston Churchill, recently returned to his former position as first lord of the admiralty, and David Lloyd George, still active in Parliament. King George VI and his brother, the former King Edward VIII, now returned home from voluntary exile, both saw service in the struggle of 1914-1918. But only a mere handful of the famous soldiers of that time survives.

The same observation, unhappily, is true with respect to France. Foch, Joffre, Gallieni, Clemenceau, Poincare, all these are gone. So, too, are their German opponents, Hindenburg and Von Tirpitz, and their friends, Venizelos of Greece, Masaryk of Czechoslovakia and Pilsudski of Poland.

Hitler, it is true, saw service in the field; Goering was commander of the so-called Flying Circus; Mussolini, though a Socialist, had an army career. But most of the followers of the axis captains are men too young to have been to school in the cataclysm of a quarter century ago. Fascism and Naziism are, in effect, youth movements of a sort. Similarly, the Communism of today is a thing apart from that of Lenin and his "old comrades."

Turning to America, the picture is seen to have altered no less notably. President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, General Bliss, Colonel House, Secretary Lansing, Secretary Baker, Admiral Sims, Ambassador Page, Senator Lodge, Henry White, George Harvey, Thomas A. Edison and scores of other celebrities of the period of Armageddon No. 1 have departed to their rest—an immortality shared by King George V, Earl Grey, Earl Balfour, Lord Northcliffe and Lord Reading.

One tragic architect of the first world war, however, remains available to testify to its horror. The former Kaiser Wilhelm II still walks the garden paths of Doorn in restless protest against his destiny. What a pity it is that the present master of the German people did not consult him before it was too late!

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—The western front was quiet, if by quiet you mean there was no shooting, and later there was plenty of that.

No shooting, but lots of shouting. There has to be, when a company of soldiers has to go charging over some shell-pocked terrain up a hill into German artillery fire.

The terrain, besides being shell-pocked and dotted here and there with gruesomely dismembered "bodies," was brilliantly lighted for these night shots of "The Fighting 69th." The Warner ranch, part of which had been torn up into a facsimile of a no-man's-land of the first world war, is a calabazas, which gets very cold at night. The audience, however, was large. It included some stellar spectators along with a hundred-odd of us movie war correspondents. Genevieve Tobin was there (she's Mrs. William Keighley and he's the director of the present offensive) and Pat and Mrs. O'Brien (Pat's in it but came out this time only to see and show off the sights to his mother and aunt) and the Warren Williams.

The shouting was about serious things. Movie wars are very serious business, in which casualties unforeseen must be guarded against. It's real powder they use, and it's real explosions that send the dirt or loose cork, which looks the same but is less dangerous—flying. The battle-field was wired for sights and sounds of battle "explosions" carefully placed, the advance of the troops carefully planned. Through several rehearsals there was shouting rather than shooting.

"Be a little bit scared, boys," yelled the loud-speaker. "Don't act as if you were charging into creampuffs. Keep your heads down!"

The real thing came at last, and the boys didn't act as if they were charging creampuffs any more. They really acted. Over the hilltop, beyond the barbed wire entanglements, flashes of light silhouetted the shell-ravaged trees. The ground erupted with flames and explosions, and smoke puffed and rolled while the machine guns spit fire. The boys of the 69th—Jimmy Cagney supposedly somewhere among them—charged, scrambled into protective shell-holes, over fallen comrades, and they got there, up the hill, past the grotesque up-ended tank from which half-a-dummy dangled gruesomely....

It was exciting business, especially when the explosions sent showers of cork over the spectators, and when it was over the shouting began again—because movie battles have to be won several times before the camera is satisfied.

A little way behind the lines I ran across Richard Berg who's in the technical department on the film. Berg is a quiet chap, leanly middle-aged. He was in the German air force during the world war. "I'm on the right side now," he said. "Once I was in an airplane dropping bombs on Paris. My mother was French, my father a German Jew. He's a refugee now—escaped to Switzerland. We dropped bombs on Paris for what? It was orders. What does a man think about dropping bombs on a city? He can't think about it. He mustn't feel...."

Chapter 30

'I KNOW TOO MUCH'

"I'll begin at the beginning," said Miss Lissey. "The night school closed. I had been at a party. It was a very stupid party, and I hadn't been enjoying myself, but I stayed late. Very late. It was after two o'clock when my taxi dropped me at the University, and I started to walk through the back path." She must have seen the interrogation in Michael's glance, for she interrupted herself to say, "I had dismissed the taxi there, because I didn't want anyone to know how late it was when I got home. People are always looking for something about me to make gossip about—especially that little cat next door."

"Mrs. Murchison?"

"Yes. So—you can see that if I didn't want to be seen or heard coming home in a taxi at that time of night, certainly I wouldn't want to be caught walking through the woods. And just after I passed the fork in the path and turned this way, I heard someone coming, distinctly. I slipped off the path, and hid behind a tree."

Michael's eyes were dark. Tuck was leaning forward in his chair. Bunny was pale as death.

"For a minute I couldn't make out what I saw or who was coming. It didn't sound just right—there was a sort of squeaking noise, and as it got opposite me I realized that it was the wheel of a barrow squeaking. The moon was low, but there was just enough light down the path to make the outlines clear. The man wheeling the barrow was in a hurry."

"The man?" Tuck gasped.

"Yes. A man....we all know. I knew him by his figure. But then I wasn't what you call my eye. It was....what I saw in the barrow."

"By his figure—?" Michael repeated strangely.

Miss Lissey shuddered.

"I didn't realize then what I was seeing. It was such a strange mysterious business, I almost believed I was dreaming it, when I saw that man, bent with the load, that heavy barrow, with man's legs dangling from the end, and one white hand over the side near me. I thought....I thought someone had had too much to drink. I didn't stop to wonder where, or who he was....that was the thought that flashed into my mind. The man and the barrow turned off and went down toward the river....and I slipped out and ran home."

"The next day I heard that Professor Murchison had gone away on a trip....and for a minute I believed it, until I remembered that thing I had seen the night before. When it was dusk I went out, and looked at the Murchison gate, and there were the marks of the barrow, clear and deep in the path. So I knew."

Michael started to speak, but she held up her hand. "I'll tell it in my own way," she said. "There's a lot else you must understand first." She looked at him. "Where did that barrow go?" she asked sharply. "I've tried to find the path. I can't. She rubbed her head again with that same nervous gesture."

"The Murchisons weren't happy," she began after a minute. "I was next day I heard that Professor Murchison had gone away on a trip....and for a minute I believed it, until I remembered that thing I had seen the night before. When it was dusk I went out, and looked at the Murchison gate, and there were the marks of the barrow, clear and deep in the path. So I knew."

ing. You can see that. That's why she hates me. She knows that I know what she was when he married her."

"A lady's maid?"

"Yes. That was it. He met her in Williston, when he was a student. I saw her there, too, in a friend's house. It was humiliating for her to come here as a Professor's wife, and live next door to me, when I knew her secret. She's as common as dirt. If she'd tell the truth it wouldn't be so bad....I'm wandering again. Where was I?"

"Spill His Life"

"You were saying they weren't happy. But—I want to ask one question very much, Miss Lissey. How does it happen that Mrs. Murchison was a servant? The Devoes surely might have helped her."

She looked at him sharply. "Why the Devoes?"

"Her relatives?"

"Humph. They're not her relatives."

"What?"

"Not a bit of it. She's always been scared stiff I'd tell that too."

"But....they say they are related, Miss Lissey."

"Well, they're not. You won't catch old Mrs. Devoe owning to any such relationship. It's just some other tie, that's all, and Devoe and she have some devil's business together. She lived in fear that her husband would find out she'd lied to him."

"Proof. It isn't very sweet," Michael said.

"Not very."

"Does Duncan know that?" asked Tuck.

"He may....He....I've got to get on. I want to tell it. I've some kind of queer feeling that I must hurry. There's something about him—Duncan. I must make it very plain. It will surely come up later. I wasn't the only one who heard him....I had been in a room never told....never told. Duncan....he's a fine boy....this will spoil his life for him...." she stopped.

"Please go on, Miss Lissey," Tuck begged, almost in tears.

"It was one day I went over there through the back gate for something. I heard loud voices in the study....I listened. It was Duncan talking to his sister-in-law. It nearly broke my heart. I thought—I never thought she could make him look at her. I was saying....Marie, Marie, this can't go on. I can't stand it. We've got to end it somehow. I'll kill him. I tell you. That's one way out!"

Bunny's head went down slowly, as a flower droops on its stalk.

"I....I must have a glass of water," Miss Lissey said queerly. Her eyes were strange. She held a hand to her heart.

Tuck ran across and touched her hands. They were as cold as ice. "Hurry, Michael. She's fainting!"

Michael came with the water. He forced a few drops between the woman's clenched teeth. Her breath came in gasps. Her forehead was wet with perspiration. She opened her eyes and looked up at him. "Maybe I know....too much...." she muttered faintly.

"Miss Lissey! Miss Lissey!" Tuck shook her shoulder in terror.

"The....hat," she breathed, and her hand dropped back against the chair.

"The....hat," she breathed, and her hand dropped back against the chair.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—The American Federation of Labor has promised to lobby in congress next session to rescue Dave Beck's Seattle labor domain from the wrath of outraged Washington apple growers.

Beck, shrewd and hard but no roughneck, has been labor king in Seattle for a dozen years or more under a tacit agreement with local industry. He takes no nonsense from his subordinate labor groups. There are few "quickie" strikes among outlaws labor organizations in Seattle. In turn, Beck exacts from industry an extensive code of cooperation.

Beck is head of the teamsters union. In Seattle that is a broad term. The big Washington port city is not surprised when stenographers, waiters and beauty operators are listed as members of the teamsters union.

BECK HAS A FRIGHT

But a rebellion of eastern Washington apple growers gave Beck and his organization a fright last year. Here's the story as it is told here. So iron-clad was Beck's control of the trucking business that farmers from the upland part of the state could not drive their own produce-laden trucks into Seattle. At the three main passes through the mountains behind Seattle, Beck's men stationed patrols. Farmers with their trucks were stopped, compelled to seat a driver and pay him a day's wages for the final few miles into Seattle, even though the farmer continued to drive his own truck.

It was a jolly arrangement for the truck drivers, but the farmers rebelled. They advanced a piece of initiative legislation last fall so restrictive in its nature that strikes—as they are practiced on the Pacific Coast—would have been vastly handicapped. By such a narrow margin was it defeated that Beck's advisers warned him that he had better placate such farmer opposition before it really hit him.

HE SEES THE LIGHT

Beck is belligerent but not stubborn. He quickly saw the light. To the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, of which his tightly-knit organization is an affiliate, he conveyed his wishes.

The apple growers of the state of Washington wanted the regulations against apple spray residue modified. So did Beck, the convention was told.

The apple growers of Washington wanted support for the bill by Senator Schwelbenschach of Washington authorizing $300,000,000 of additional farm credit refinancing. So did Beck, the convention was told.

The convention did not include the items specifically among its formal resolutions but the wishes of the Washington farmers, supported by Beck, were made a part of the legislative program which the AFL will sponsor in congress.

Cooperation with potential foes is no new diversion for Beck. He started out years ago by organizing the laundry drivers in his own particular way. To the big laundry operators of Seattle he went with his proposition. He wanted better terms for the drivers. In return for better conditions, he offered to help freeze out cut-rate laundry owners. The thing worked. Subsequently he applied it to the dairy industry and to taxi companies and a full-fledged of other groups, including the all-powerful teamsters union, which now is the backbone of his organization.

The industrial operators, in turn, have helped freeze out opposition to Beck's labor organizations. So tightly woven is the cooperation that complaints have arisen that business in Seattle is almost strait-jacketed. Beck's people flatly deny this, insisting that business benefits hugely by assurance of peaceful relations with labor, which Beck enforces.

From time to time reports come from the Pacific coast that a concerted movement is under way to break up Beck's tightly-knit system. Only lately we have received such a report. Each time heretofore the movement has been met and liquidated by Beck, just as he is seeking now to quiet the opposition of the Washington apple growers. Each time new doubt is expressed that he can survive, but he always has.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Big Red always lived such a sane life and took such good care of himself that it was a shock to hear that he was dead. Red was a man of no consequence around town, but he was well known and well liked. He used to turn up at the scene of fires, or accidents, or murders, and invite the newspapermen down to the restaurant which he owned with his brother and give them a free helping of hash. He used to tell them they were foolish for staying up at all hours of the night, eating irregularly, and smoking so many cigarettes.

"Look at me," he'd say. "I haven't smoked in 15 years. I walk five miles every morning. I live clean. I get eight hours' sleep every night."

But Red would say this in a way that you liked didn't resent. They called him Big Red, but that was a misnomer, because he was only five-six. He was strong, though, and clear-eyed, because he lived right. But he is dead now, out-lived and mourned by his careless, irresponsible newspaper friends, who sit in smoky restaurants all night, eating improperly, keeping awake by drinking strong coffee, and living the life that robs you of pep and makes you an old man before your time.

Red's case makes me think of a little two-bit lawyer I used to know in a small town out in Nebraska, who never would wear a coat in winter. He used to stand out on the corner in freezing weather, in his shirt sleeves, showing off, and professing to be perfectly comfortable.

"It's merely a matter of conditioning yourself," he'd say. "If you're healthy, you don't have to wrap yourself up like an old woman. What you need is blood—plenty of rich red blood."

In time he became quite a character, and he was known also for the fact that he never hesitated to neglect his practice to sneak off and play chess. Chess and fresh air, they were his gods. But for all his zeal for healthful living, he went out one day and shot himself. He must have got just one whiff too much of that fresh Nebraska air.

Roark Bradford has left his banana trees and his Cape Jasmine in his old French courtyard in Toulouse street, New Orleans, to spend a long, busy, interested interval on Broadway—readying his musical drama, "John Henry," which Sam Byrd is going to produce.

Roark came in for the final casting, and he will remain throughout rehearsal. Outside of autumnal visits to New York, you seldom see around the man who wrote "The Green Pastures." He likes his plantation, made famous in his Saturday Evening Post stories, and his "Frenchtown" home.

It was the first time I'd seen Roark since I sat with him by a gurgling fountain in that old courtyard of his, watching his kid whoop 'em up with a new cowboy suit. Roark was planning the premiere of "John Henry" then—the story of a negro of giant strength who runs into competition with the machine-age, and is destroyed.

Need Laxative? Take All-Vegetable One

Don't let impatience lead you into harsh measures for the relief of constipation!

There's no use. A little spicy, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAGHT, taken by simple directions, will gently persuade your bowels. Take it at night. That should give you plenty of time for sleep.

Morning usually brings punctual, thorough relief from constipation's symptoms—headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, loss of appetite and energy. BLACK-DRAGHT's main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps to tone the intestinal muscles. It's economical, too. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.—adv.

IMPORTANT GRID GAMES LOOM ON ALL FRONTS THIS WEEKEND

The Sports Parade

BY HANK HART

Big Spring high school's leading candidates for all-conference honors—Harold "Lefty" Bethell, Bobby Savage and Battle—strengthened their respective bids for the all-conference last weekend with sterling performances in the vines' moral victory over the San Angelo Bobcats. It was Bethell's punting, running and general all-around play that played a major part in Big Spring's offense. It was Savage's and Battle's defensive work that denied the other scores. Savage forced the Angelo quarter, J. Stewart, to seek to penetrate the Big Spring line at other points. Battle, injured in third quarter play, refused to go the sidelines and worked the 60 minutes. Bethell continued to add to a glorious record. Final record might not reveal he is the district's leading offensive player but he should be somewhere near the top. A check-in season's play shows he has gained a grand total of 558 yards in 82 running (exclusive of the Minnells game on which no stats are available), has tied 59 times for a grand total of 2192 yards, has made four of 11 passes for a total of 66 yards and has tied six passes for a grand total of 76 yards.

His average gain on running would be seven yards, his average punt 37 yards. In conference play exclusively, rougher than he carried the team for a grand pickup of yards, an average advance of paces. In circuit punting, he tied 37 times for 1,371 yards, average of 37 yards.

U. Burrus, Big Spring prodigy, fast gaining recognition as a Texas' better college end, tying his first year of varsity at Hardin-Simmons, Abilene, did not get his chance until Tempe Teachers game but through with flying colors, as one of the three touchdowns that beat the Arizona team against West Texas. In a game played at Abilene, he scored two second quarter touchdowns that enabled the team to edge the Canyon 13-13.

Representatives of the old conference certainly had their Saturday. Harry Hays, the flash who completed his school eligibility in 1938, repeated headlines at New Orleans as he galloped 69 yards for a touchdown that enabled the Tulane Wave to defeat Alabama. Another San Angelo player, Brown, performed quite well for the Southern Methodist against Texas A&M in College Station game but turned the tide. Aggies won the game when Kimbrough, the old Abilene Aggie outfit that also defeated Moser, Stephenville, Thomas and Tommie, both of Brownwood, Odell, another Abilenean, and Smith, San Angelo, to a 6-3 victory.

Aggies Ignore Passing Game In March

Norton's Crew Could Well March Into Big Ten Loop

By GAYLE TALBOT

BRYAN, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Texas Aggies are bringing a new type of football to the Southwest conference, a hard-hitting, bone-crushing variety that is the very antithesis of the pass crazy game associated with this section the past 10 years or so.

The ponderous and orthodox team that shoved Southern Methodist aside on a muddy field Saturday and registered its eighth straight victory could move right into the Big Ten tomorrow night if it would be a little hard on the other members of that conference.

Coach Homer Norton, frankly, is making the experiment with some trepidation. A generation of fans has grown up in Texas to like its football rich, rare and racy, and Homer still isn't sure the customers are going to fancy this new close-to-the-vest play.

But he need not worry too much. Victories have a way of making themselves popular, however they are accomplished, and Norton has come up with a bunch of crushers who are likely as not to dominate the Southwest again next season, despite the fact conference history does not list a repeater.

Though there is nothing at all spectacular about its offense, unless it is the vicious blocking ahead of John Kimbrough and John Conatser, the A. & M. team is an impressive outfit. It is big, exceptionally fast for its size, and it hits like a pile driver. Without much doubt it is one of the year's really fine teams, and it will lose only one regular by graduation.

Revolutionary
Previous to this team, it has been explained by several Southwest conference coaches in recent days, it has been plain guide for one of them to play for a single touchdown and then try to protect it. They learned through sad experience.

"Seven points don't mean a thing down here," one of them said. "We might be able to hold a lead like that but it is too risky with the other side scattering passes all over the field. So we've had to go out and try to get two or three touchdowns, even if it sometimes meant passing in our end of the field when we were leading."

Third DiMaggio Is Sold To The Boston Red Sox

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Bespoke Little Dominic DiMaggio, voted the Pacific Coast baseball league's most valuable player last season, goes to the American League Boston Red Sox next year—climbing into the majors from San Francisco and lots just as his two elder brothers did.

Sale of Dominic's contract, along with that of Larry Powell, young left-handed pitcher, was announced by the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league. Powell will report in 1941.

Sooners Face Major Test In Missouri

Cornell, Duquesne, A&M And Vols Boast Perfect Records

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—It appears likely that more things will be settled definitely about college football teams next Saturday than on any one day all this season.

The center of power shifted suddenly toward the midlands last weekend with Oklahoma and Missouri in the leading roles. Decisive games this week should give some definite sign as to where that center will wind up or at least show which teams will have a hand in the final decision.

The elimination of Notre Dame and Catholic University from the unbeaten and untied list were only incidents in the shift of power, which saw Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa, Ohio State, Georgia Tech, Clemson and Santa Clara move to threaten the powers that be.

It was Iowa, which stopped a great Irish winning streak back in 1921, that did the trick again Saturday, 7 to 6. Catholic U. lost 39-13 to little St. Anselm.

These defeats reduced the list of unbeaten and untied leaders to Cornell, Duquesne, Texas A. and M., and Tennessee, with San Jose State of California, winner of ten straight, and Colorado Mines thrown in for good measure. Tied but undefeated are Georgetown, Rutgers, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tulane, Richmond, Southern California, and U.C.L.A. They're mostly looking better with every game, but so are a lot of once-beaten teams. Duke, Mississippi, Baylor and even Southern Methodist might be added to this list although they didn't prove it last week.

This week's program of decisive battles in various sections shapes up, briefly, something like this:

East: Cornell-Dartmouth is this week's biggest eastern game, by all odds. Cornell hasn't added to its stature much in two successive close calls, just skimming by Colgate, 14-12. Dartmouth took its first defeat, 9-7, at Princeton's hands. Both are aiming to come back to the "ivy league" title. Duquesne takes the week off after its 7-0 win over North Carolina State.

Georgetown, seeking its second straight undefeated season, follows its 20-0 win over Maryland with an encounter with New York University, 20-7 victim of Missouri. Holy Cross whips Temple 14-0 and faces Carnegie Tech, 6-0 victim of Pitt. Army, routed 15-0 by Harvard, plays Penn State.

The Princeton-Yale rivalry takes its usual leading spot even though the Elis were only good enough to tie the Brown 14-14.

In the intersectional line, Pitt takes on Nebraska; Pennsylvania, 10-0 upset victim of Penn State, meets Michigan. Fordham, 13-0 winner over Indiana, has its annual tussle with St. Mary's of Columbia, which beat Navy 19-13, bumps into mighty Tulane, which defeated Alabama 13-0.

South: If the Southern Conference title isn't decided by this week's Duke-North Carolina game, it probably never will be, for Clemson and Richmond have chances to tie the survivor. The Blue Devils warmed up for the crucial contest by beating Virginia Military 20-7 while the Tar Heels whipped Davidson 32-0.

Clemson, 20-7 winner over Wake Forest, takes on Southwestern of Tennessee, while Richmond, after stopping Virginia Tech 13-0, meets Hampden-Sydney. Only other conference game is at Oklahoma.

Three Conference Battles On 3-AA Books Friday; Herd Meets Abilene

MIDLAND AND CATS COLLIDE IN ANGELO

All District 3-AA teams swing into action this weekend with three conference battles booked.

The loop leaders, Sweetwater's Mustangs, face an improved Lamasa crew in Sweetwater Friday night. Larry Priddy and company may have plenty of trouble with a team that almost beat Midland last weekend.

Big Spring will invade Abilene Friday afternoon seeking their first victory in history over the inept Eagles. Dewey Mayhew's crew has been improving steadily during the past month but will be the underdogs in the tussle. The Bovines looked to advantage in playing to a deadlock with the San Angelo Bobcats last week.

The War Birds have not won a game this season, having dropped conference games to Odessa, Sweetwater, Lamasa and Midland.

The family's feature fracas will pit Midland against San Angelo in San Angelo. Jay Francis and his mates will be favored to stop the Cats.

Odessa, which last weekend lost to Sweetwater, 22-19, meets Wink in Odessa Friday night.

LIONS UPSET BY CHICAGO BEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP)—It begins to look more and more like a photo finish in the National Professional Football league.

Five teams still are in the running with only three weeks remaining in the season, including the Chicago Bears, thrice-beaten but still having an outside chance to tie the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers for western division honors.

The Bears got up off the floor to administer a beating to Green Bay Philadelphia, tied for first place in the western division. The Bears 23 to 13 victory over Detroit's are a half game behind.

Washington and New York maintained their dead heat for eastern division honors. The Redskins stormed over Brooklyn, 32 to 0 and the Glants turned back the Chicago Cards, 17 to 7.

There's No Great Mystery about Cigarette Tobaccos

THERE ARE FOUR TYPES of tobaccos found in the more popular cigarettes, namely... Bright, Maryland, Burley and Turkish.

ALL THESE TOBACCOS except Turkish (which is bought direct from the planters in Turkey and Greece) and Maryland (which is bought through sealed bids under government supervision) are bought at public auction, just like any other auction where you might have bought in a table or a chair.

AT THE AUCTION SALE the tobacco is piled in baskets weighing from about 100 to 500 pounds and each purchaser buys all of his tobaccos by competitive bidding for the particular piles he wants.

THE CHESTERFIELD BUYERS buy the best of these mild ripe tobaccos for the Chesterfield blend. And it is Chesterfield's Combination... the right amounts of Burley and Bright... just enough Maryland... and just enough Turkish—that makes the big difference between Chesterfield and other cigarettes.

Tyler-Waco Game Headlines State Hi Card; Bucs Oppose Kingsville

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Staff

Corpus Christi's buffeted Buccaneers make their stand this week in the battle for the Texas schoolboy football championship.

The 1938 state champions, kicked around except where it counted the most this season, will face an omnibus Robstown team Friday and the upper bracket title in District 18 hinges on the result.

Both are unbeaten in conference play, Robstown smashing Kingsville 34-7 last week. Corpus Christi previously had taken out Kingsville.

A crucial game at Childress and Waco, which rolled over all its conference opponents in convincing fashion in District 16, will be the test that will show whether it's true what you hear about Tyler. Waco and Tyler are the state's high scoring teams, Waco with 500 points and Tyler with 243. Waco lost a game but Tyler has not been defeated, although twice tied.

Spotlight On "14"
Another important game is scheduled in District 14 where unbeaten, untied South Park takes on its fellow towns-teams, Beaumont, now in a tie with Port Arthur for second place.

Sulphur Springs, which clinched the District 9 championship last week, will have its unbeaten record severely tested by Adamson (Dallas) in an interdistrict game. Other interdistrict games should come through without much difficulty.

Of the unbeaten, untied clubs, Sweetwater meets Lamasa, El Paso High plays Bowie (El Paso), Gainesville engages Bonham, Breckenridge, clashes with Vernon and Austin plays St Edwards High (Austin).

There are 46 games on this week's schedule, 22 of them conference affairs. The conference games by districts:

1—Borger at Amarillo; 2—Electra at Quanah, Wichita Falls at Childress; 3—Big Spring at Abilene, Midland at San Angelo, Lamasa at Sweetwater; 4—Bowie (El Paso) vs. El Paso High; 5—Paris at Sherman, Gainesville at Bonham; 6—Highland Park (Dallas) at Greenville, McKinney at Denton; 7—Arlington Heights vs. Masonic Home, North Side vs. Riverside, Paschal vs. Fort Worth Tech; 8—North Dallas vs. Forest, Woodrow Wilson vs. Dallas Tech; 9—Mineral Wells at Stephenville; 10—Cleburne at Bryan; 11—Athens at Texarkana, Longview at Marshall; 12—Jacksonville at Lufkin, Texarkana at Marlin; 13—San Jacinto vs. Jeff Davis, Lamar at Corpus, Reagan vs. Milby; 14—Livingston at Orange, Port Arthur at Galveston, Beaumont at South Park; 15—Harlandale vs. Jefferson, Laredo at Brackenridge; 16—Robstown at Corpus Christi, Edinburg at McAllen.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Baptists by the thousands were pouring into San Antonio today for the annual Baptist general conference of Texas which begins Tuesday night. Hundreds were attending various group meetings today.

Members of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union of Texas met this morning in municipal auditorium.

Delegates to the conference represent 700,000 white Baptists of Texas.

Also meeting today was the state pastors' and laymen's conference and the state board meeting.

The meeting of the W. M. U. was opened with address of welcome by Mrs. Perry F. Webb, wife of the pastor of First Baptist church.

A pageant was to climax a young people's meeting in the municipal auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

Group meetings will end Tuesday afternoon, with election of officers, in preparation for the general convention which continues through Friday.

During the general convention, Rev. Charles E. Madry of Richmond, Va., executive secretary of the Baptist foreign mission board, who has just returned from the Far East, will give a report of the mission work in the Orient.

Dr. J. B. Tidwell, head of the Bible department of Baylor university, will speak on the denomination's strong opposition to union with other Protestant churches.

'ISMS' ASSAILED IN PASTOR'S TALK

A theme which might be described as "Down With Isms in Our Country" was followed in services Sunday night at the Fundamental Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. W. Eugene Davis, preached a special sermon, and at the conclusion of the service, the American flag was raised as the red banner of communism and the black symbol of nazism were burned.

Said Rev. Davis:

"The greatest menace that faces true Americans is the menace of Russia's Communism and Germany's Nazism. These two 'isms' are working hand in glove together in this country to undermine the very foundations and to establish on wreck and ruins of our present government that of a soviet republic. The 38th chapter of Ezekiel is very explicit in portraying conditions prevailing in the last days. The alliance between these two outstanding nations, namely that of Russia and Germany, is pictured elaborately in this chapter.

"Shall we as free Americans sit idly while Communism and Nazism come with the kiss of betrayal and at the same time with the price of treachery in their hands, or shall we rise in the face of this deadly foe and as the followers of Co. Travis who participated in the fall of the Alamo, and rise and fight that Americans may remain free? I sincerely believe that we are ready to join hands and in the spirit that so moved our forefathers to fight and leave this country our noble heritage. We shall not rest until we have driven back into the pit this hydra-headed beast."

MISS LANCET'S NOTES

By Mary Whaley

One of the better feats of human ingenuity is being able to read the morning paper at breakfast over someone's shoulder and do it with such finesse that the owner of the paper never finds out what you are up to unless you have to nudge him and ask him to turn the page.

Of course, some of these readers are not very subtle. They lean their chin on a person's shoulder and breath down his neck. Sometimes, if the headlines are startling, he will murmur, "Look at what that old Hitler did." He is the obvious type and not looked on with much favor.

But still he gets the job done and the paper read, for nine times out of ten the annoyed reader will hand him a section of the paper just to make him keep his distance.

The other type, the old smoothie, who has been reading the funny papers, headlines, and continued stories over other people's shoulders for years can read as he eats, find out the ball scores, betting odds, and know what the Gumps are doing and never interfere with the other's reading.

This can be done by arching the neck, twisting the eyes, and sometimes calling attention to something else in the room while stealthily turning a page.

He can keep up with the fast readers and peruse with the slow readers. He can even match his breakfast eating so that he finishes just as the reader gets to the classified ads. However, it takes years to get this down to a polished art but you can see people practicing at it every day.

Blood Donor Sought To Give Child A Transfusion

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP)—A distraught mother clung to the slim hope today of finding the one person in 5,000 whose blood might save her eight-year-old daughter.

For four months Catherine Felt has been weakening steadily from the ravages of acute lymphatic leukemia—a malady in which the white corpuscles destroy the red.

Fifteen transfusions have thus far failed to stem the disease, but the child's physician said she might survive if she were injected with the blood of person who has recovered from the disease. He estimated only one in 5,000 recovers.

The appeal of Mrs. Charles Felt was carried last night over a nationwide broadcast.

O'Daniel Puts In A Boost For The Film, 'Mr. Smith'

The governor of Texas, W. Lee O'Daniel, is one of those who would like for his friends to see "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," because he finds something personal in the picture.

The Frank Capra production, starring James Stewart and Jean Arthur, is currently at the Ritz theatre here. It also is playing at the Texas theatre in San Angelo; and to John D. Jones, San Angelo manager, the governor wrote a letter giving the film a boost. Copy of the letter appeared in Sunday's San Angelo Standard-Times.

O'Daniel wrote that he had "plugged" the picture on a radio broadcast, and that the Austin theatres reaped a benefit. Now, he writes, he would like for all his friends to see "Mr. Smith" because "Mr. Smith" had some experiences as a senator which reminds me of some of the experiences I am having in Austin as governor."

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN WINS HONOR

National recognition for his personal production record last month has been won by H. R. Freeman, Big Spring district agent for the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, according to word received here from the home office in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Freeman was named on his company's list of national leaders in number of applications written in October. This honor was won in direct competition with the company's more than 1,200 sales representatives throughout the country.

CAYUSES GO TO BAT AGAINST ARKANSAS

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
DALLAS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Over the big hump, unbeaten Texas A. and M., a lusty giant murdering its way to a great season, had just one thought in mind today:

Next Saturday it plays Rice Institute, the cumberstone team that was supposed to do the very thing the Aggies are doing.

Weeks before the season opened the experts looked over the Southwest conference field and decided there was nothing you could do about the Rice Owls. They would be too strong; too well equipped with man power.

But something happened and Rice stumbled. The Aggies picked up the rave notices about Rice and made them their own. Eight straight victories are theirs and the handicappers will make them two touchdown favorites over Rice. But the Aggies know better. You put your eggs in the Southwest conference basket one at a time.

True, they showed power that would dispose of most any football team in licking a great Southern Methodist crew 6-2, in the rain and mud at College Station last Saturday.

But they don't trust Rice, with its potential greatness that might crop out against an Aggie team that would be the most choice victim in football right now.

Price Hobbles
Good fortune still rides with the Aggies. One of the best conditioned teams the conference has ever known, it is going along from Saturday to Saturday with its first string practically intact. Only serious injury is the bad knee that bothers Walemon Price, senior quarterback. But he is expected to be ready for Rice after being held out of the S. M. U. game. Two fine reserves split duty on his job, Marion Pugh and Marland Jeffrey, two very prominent thorns in the Methodists' side last Saturday.

Last year the Aggies gave Rice the most humiliating defeat of the Jimmy Killa's regime, 27-0. Two other conference games are scheduled for the weekend. Southern Methodist, a grand team that traded lick for lick with the Aggies and came very close to winning a football game with only three seconds to play, meets the Arkansas Razorbacks at Little Rock. Arkansas played a 12-12 tie with Rice in the rain at Houston.

Baylor, its two swell running backs, Jack Wilson and Jimmy Witt, turning in the usual good running game, picked Texas, 20-0, at Waco. The big Baylor line and the rain stopped Cowboy Jack Crain Dead. Saturday Baylor plays Centenary at Waco, and it should be a walk.

Texas Christian, 16-0 winner over Tulsa, is playing its regulars again and meets Texas and Jack Rabbit Crain at Austin. The Christians are trying to salvage something from Leo Meyer's worst season, one plagued with injuries.

FT. WORTH THEATRE ROBBED OF $3,000

FORT WORTH, Nov. 13 (AP)—Gunman, who have a penchant for robbing Texas theaters on Sunday nights, were sought today in the $3,000 holdup of a downtown theater last night.

It was the third successive Sunday night Texas theaters have been robbed by holdup men. The first was at Austin and the second at Denton.

Three armed men staged the robbery last night.

Farm Prices May Rise In 1940

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 13
A stronger consumer demand plus some improvement in prices in store for farm products in 1940.

This report was made by Zetha McInnis and J. A. Scofield, district agents of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, who attended the national outlook conference sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Farm products will benefit only indirectly from war activity, for export demand for agricultural commodities will affect only a few items. The big lift will come through increased industrial activity, re-employed workers, larger national income, and a corresponding increase in demand for cereals, meats, fruits, vegetables, fibers, and other things the farmer produces.

Cash income for agriculture should be materially higher in 1940 than in 1939 because a slightly larger total volume of farm commodities will be disposed of at somewhat higher prices.

Farmers and ranchmen are warned, however, that no "boom" is in prospect; any advances in price will come gradually and in an orderly manner.

O'DANIEL'S SPEECH URGES AMERICA TO STAY OUT OF WAR

AUSTIN, Nov. 13 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel abandoned state governmental issues entirely in his radio program yesterday and urged Americans to stay out of the European war.

The program was freely sprinkled with music by the governor's Hill Billy band for the first time in many Sundays. It rendered sentimental and patriotic numbers while O'Daniel read poems.

The governor insisted America's soldiers had not died in vain in the last war, because the lesson Americans learned then would keep the nation out of future entanglements as recommended by George Washington.

O'Daniel reiterated his belief that the road to permanent peace lies in active practice of democracy and religion.
