

TAX REMITTANCE BILL HELD INVALID BY MANN

Opinion Is Not Binding But Will Stand

Sheppard Says He Will Follow Rule Unless Contested

AUSTIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—A bill passed at the recent general session of the legislature and remitting to counties one-half of state ad valorem taxes for five years today was held unconstitutional by the attorney general's department.

In a conference opinion requested by the county attorney of El Paso county, Attorney General Mann ruled the bill violated the constitutional provision that no money shall be drawn from the state treasury except by specific appropriations.

"It will be our advice to the state comptroller to require the delivery of such funds to the state as heretofore," the opinion said.

The opinion declared: "The bill is not sustainable as a calamity grant nor as a Seawall grant."

Such money may not be taken from the state general fund and transferred to general funds of counties for county uses.

Other use of the money would require legislative appropriation. An appropriation bill must set forth the purpose for the appropriation.

Provisions of purpose in the act did not meet requirements of the constitution. It has been estimated the bill would remit about $4,500,000 to the counties.

Not Binding

An opinion by the attorney general is not binding but Comptroller George H. Sheppard said he would follow this one unless there is a court contest. The final voice in tests of laws usually is the supreme court.

The law affects taxes beginning in 1940. Ad valorem taxes are assessed in January and collection starts in October.

"We would first point briefly the nature of this enactment," the opinion said. "It would grant to the respective counties—except those whose taxes are already under grant to various state projects—one-half of the state ad valorem taxes for a period of five years."

"It does not propose to relieve the taxpayer of any taxes whatsoever. The act expressly provides that such taxes shall continue to be collected as heretofore. Only the

Defeat Of Allies Is Impossible, Claims Hoover

Says End Would Be Stalemate At Worst

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Herbert Hoover expressed the belief, in an interview with Roy W. Howard published today, that the defeat of Great Britain and France is impossible.

"If one surveys the whole front—sea, land, air and economic resources—I am convinced the allies can defend their empire," the former president said. "The end may be victory for them. At worst it might be stalemate. I do not see any possibility that it can be defeat."

The interview, published in the New York World Telegram, of which Howard is editor, was based on an expression of the editor himself that "a dangerous emotionalism is diluting American reasoning; that the idea is spreading rapidly in certain sections of this country that France and England are facing defeat and that in order to avoid catastrophe to civilization and to save ourselves the United States must sooner or later enter the European war."

The former president, who saw the World war at close hand as head of the Belgian commission, American food administrator, member of the war council and of the war trade board, responded: "It is true there is the utmost danger in war times of emotions overwhelming common sense. The most regrettable thing that could happen to us would be the building up of a war party in the United States. But the premise of the ideas you mention is wrong. "The war is only a month old. But the major factors are already emerging. The British and French can, and will, control the seven seas despite submarines and airplanes, and can sit there until their enemies are exhausted. "By their sea power the allies can protect England and all the outlying possessions of both empires."

HENRY FORD OF OPINION WORLD DISARMAMENT WILL COME OUT OF PRESENT EUROPEAN WAR

DETROIT, Oct. 3 (AP)—Henry Ford, long an advocate of the philosophy that "everything usually turns out for the best," said today he believed world disarmament would come out of the present European upheaval. Complete and permanent conversion of the world's implements of war into peacemakers long has been one of Ford's most cherished dreams. He said in an interview today he had not changed his conviction that there was something "phony" about the conflict on the Franco-German border. "It has been 'phony' from the start," he said. Ford reiterated his views on the futility of war as a means of settling any economic problem.

Struggle Over War Policy Is Halted

Adjourn Out Of Respect To Deceased Congressman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The senate struggle over this nation's policy toward the war in Europe was halted temporarily today by the death of Senator Marvel Mills Logan of Kentucky.

Today's session, lasting but a few minutes, was adjourned out of respect to the 65-year-old Kentuckian. Logan's death took one vote from administration forces battling for repeal of the arms embargo. Leaders had claimed 57 certain votes for repeal. The senate will take up the neutrality fight again tomorrow, with Senator Connally (D-Tex.) advocating the administration's neutrality measure and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) opposing it.

At the White House, meanwhile, a half dozen congressmen received an appointment to discuss neutrality and war profiteering with President Roosevelt.

Senate forces of embargo repeal counted heavily on the address of Senator Borah (R-Ide.) to arouse countryside support for their stand. Borah was loudly applauded when he closed the first day of the historic senate debate on neutrality yesterday with the assertion sale of munitions would mean sending American boys "back to the slaughter pens of Europe."

He followed Senator Pittman (D-Ore.), who opened the administration case by contending the arms embargo unfairly aided Germany. Although many senators warmly congratulated Borah after his two-hour address, even some embargo advocates said privately that unless an upsurge of public sentiment quickly developed, the administration would win its long fight to put all trade with warring nations on a "come and get it" basis.

Meanwhile, an authoritative source said Italy would still seek to limit the war by every possible means, while watching for a practicable opportunity to promote peace. This policy, the source said, was based on the conviction that in a prolonged war the most likely winner would be Bolshevism. Italians had been told not to "disturb the pilot" and to keep their silence until Mussolini chose to enlighten them. The morning papers were full of press comment from other nations, but first editions contained nothing about Italy's intentions.

Italians, privately eager to know whether Germany had demanded that Italy immediately fulfill her military pledges as axis partner of Germany, received no hint from published accounts of Ciano's week-end visit to Berlin. About all they knew was that he went, talked and returned—but they drew some tentative conclusions from the fact that no new military measures had been announced. Italy's desire to keep clear of the war seemed as strong as ever. Informal circles said they expected Italy to keep her present non-belligerent status as long as possible and at least for some time to come.

ASKS CATHOLICS TO SUPPORT FDR

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. William F. Cahill announced today the Diocesan consultants had selected the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop, as administrator of the Archdiocese of Chicago during the interregnum between George Cardinal Mundelein's death and appointment of his successor by Pope Pius XII. Last night Bishop Sheil dispatched a strong appeal to Catholics of the nation to support President Roosevelt in his course toward keeping America out of war.

It was an appeal spoken amid world-wide sorrow over the death of George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, and Bishop Sheil said it carried the cardinal's approval and constituted his "last message." Cardinal Mundelein died, at 67, of coronary thrombosis in bed yesterday. Bishop Sheil spoke over the radio (NBC-Blue) some 12 hours later, in his new position as temporary head of the Chicago Archdiocese.

HUMBLE CO. POSTS PRICE INCREASES HOUSTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Oil men were cheered today by announcement that the Humble Oil and Refining company had posted increased prices for crude in several fields, pointing out that it meant a further strengthening of the upward trend of the price structure in Texas. Humble made the announcement yesterday, posting the increase for several fields in South Texas and also including the Talco field in Northeast Texas, hiked a flat 10 cents to 65 cents a barrel. In addition, it was stated, due to improvement in the market for fuel oils, the price of Mirando and Refugio crudes has been raised five cents a barrel for all gravities.

DALLAS MAN NAMED TO LIQUOR BOARD

AUSTIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today appointed Dr. W. D. Bradford of Dallas as chairman of the state liquor control board succeeding J. W. Williams of Port Arthur. The appointment is for a six-year term beginning Oct. 15. Dr. Bradford is a member of the faculty of Southern Methodist university.

TO OFFER LAND ON SEALED BID BASIS

AUSTIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—The new state school land board, meeting for the first time today, decided to place on sale Jan. 2 by the sealed bid method all or part of approximately 600,000 acres of surveyed public school land. Although scattered over the state, more than half the land is located in Brewster, Culberson and Hudspeth counties of West Texas.

Interest On Farmers' Rate To Be Reduced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The interest rate to farmers on all commodity credit corporation loans will be reduced from 4 to 2 per cent, effective November 1. These loans, made on surpluses of cotton, corn, wheat, butter, naval stores and several other agricultural products withheld from glutted markets, now total about $500,000,000.

CHAMBERLAIN ASSERTS PEACE PROPOSALS WOULD BE TESTED

Americas Seek To Stay Apart From Conflict

No Peace Move Expected From Ciano Talk

Say Italian Leaders Not To Lend Selves To Futile Gestures

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP)—Well-informed Italian quarters said today it was unlikely that Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's conversations with Adolf Hitler would lead to any immediate peace move on Italy's part.

They said the Italian government would not lend itself to a futile gesture which promised no success under present conditions. They asserted it was difficult to conceive of any German peace proposals which would be acceptable to France and Britain.

Count Ciano returned by train from Berlin today and immediately motored to Premier Mussolini's office, where he conferred with Il Duce. Then he attended a cabinet meeting. In Italian quarters the next move was expected to come from Hitler's reichstag speech this week. Meanwhile, an authoritative source said Italy would still seek to limit the war by every possible means, while watching for a practicable opportunity to promote peace.

This policy, the source said, was based on the conviction that in a prolonged war the most likely winner would be Bolshevism. Italians had been told not to "disturb the pilot" and to keep their silence until Mussolini chose to enlighten them. The morning papers were full of press comment from other nations, but first editions contained nothing about Italy's intentions.

Red River County Timber Fire Is Under Control

CLARKSVILLE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Fire in the north Red River county pine timber belt which threatened for several hours to reach major proportions, was reported under control today. P. Y. Creager, field representative of the Southern Pine Lumber company, owner of the 700-acre tract where the blaze started yesterday afternoon, said 115 lumber employees at a logging site and 50 Bogata CCC enrollees checked the fire during the night.

WEALTHY POLE IS KILLED

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Polish telegraph agency reported today that Prince Janusz Radziwill, leader of the conservative party and member of one of Poland's most prominent families, had been killed at his castle at Olyka in Wolynia. He was one of the richest men in Poland.

HINTS REDS TO MAKE DEMANDS UPON FINLAND AS WELL AS SMALLER BALTIC STATES

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—A strong hint that Soviet Russia is preparing to make demands for military and naval bases upon Finland as well as the smaller Baltic states was given today in the government newspaper Ivestia, which gave the first intimation of Russia's intention to march into Poland last month. The newspaper, tracing relations of the Soviets with Finland, Estonia and Latvia since 1920, said "aggressive European countries that concealed themselves under a mask of 'peace loving' have tried to convert these countries into their vassals and into a zone of operations for execution of their aggressive plans in the basin of the Baltic sea."

Bids Tabulated On Water Project

The complex task of figuring bids on new phases of the city's waterworks development program was under way this afternoon, as bids were opened at the city hall at 3 p. m. The work includes that to be done under a PWA amendatory application. After the bids were tabulated, city commissioners were to meet again late in the afternoon to award contracts. Twenty bids were received. Included in the letting are such items as a 100,000-gallon reservoir, covers for this reservoir and for two existing ones, moving of water mains from Gregg to Lancaster street, installing a master gate meter from the well supply south of the city, and other work. The entire program represents a $45,000 outlay.

Declaration Is Being Given Belligerents

PANAMA, Oct. 3 (AP)—Twenty-one American republics, having outlined a western hemisphere safety zone to insulate them from the European war, today started formal notification to belligerents of their action.

At the suggestion of United States under-secretary Sumner Welles, President Juan Demostenes Arosemena of Panama was requested by the inter-American conference to communicate to warring nations the neutrality declaration adopted last night.

The republics voiced their intention of "remaining apart from the European conflict," but declared they would demand their "proper rights" as neutrals.

The declaration asserted neutral American republics "have the indisputable right to preserve free from all hostile acts" the waters adjacent to the American continents.

Would Bar Enlistments The declaration of "general neutrality" provided that American nations should not permit their inhabitants to jeopardize the neutrality of the western hemisphere by their activities, nor permit enlistments or preparation of expeditions in favor of belligerents on their soil.

Others measures said the nations should not permit their territories to be used as bases for belligerent activities.

2. Shall bar belligerent warships from their ports or waters in numbers of more than three at a time and permit their presence for not longer than 24 hours.

3. Shall demand that belligerent craft seeking hospitals in American zones respect neutrality laws and regulations.

4. Shall hold flights of belligerent aircraft over American territory to be a neutrality infraction.

5. Shall be authorized to station guards aboard belligerent merchant vessels in American ports and intern such ships for excessive delays in port.

6. Shall permit transfer "in good faith and without realce" of belligerent vessels to a neutral American republic.

7. Shall bar armed merchant vessels from entering their ports when the boats carry more than six-inch cannon on their bows.

8. These vessels shall not have reinforced sides or other offensive equipment.

9. Shall exclude belligerent submarines, or admit them on the condition they enter afloat flying the flag of their nation.

All measures adopted yesterday were to be strengthened by a general economic program to be drawn up by a permanent advisory committee to be located in Washington.

The neutrality zone begins at Passamaquoddy Bay at the United States-Canadian border in the Atlantic, takes in the Caribbean area and Panama Canal approaches in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

In the Pacific, it includes Guadalupe Island 200 miles off the coast of southern California and extends as far as Juan de Fuca Straits at the United States-Canadian border. Territorial waters of foreign possessions in the Americas are not included.

The session was to close today.

DEATH VICTIM

SEN. M. M. LOGAN

Sen. Logan Dies Suddenly In Washington

Chandler Talked As Successor to Solon, FDR Supporter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The unexpected death of Senator Marvel Mills Logan of Kentucky took one of President Roosevelt's supporters from congress today and brought an interruption in the tense struggle over neutrality legislation.

The 65-year-old Democrat, who had been a member of the senate since 1913, died of a heart attack early in the morning. He missed yesterday's session, the start of neutrality debate.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, announced the senate would meet only to adjourn out of respect to "this statesman of the highest quality."

Political observers speculated on the possibility Gov. A. B. Chandler might resign in favor of Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson and then be appointed to the senate vacancy.

Logan was among the foremost fighters for President Roosevelt's court reorganization program of 1937.

He was the ranking member of the senate military committee, chairman of the claims committee, and a member of the judiciary committee. He was listed as a supporter of the administration's neutrality bill.

Tentative arrangements called for funeral services at Bowling Green probably Thursday and burial at Brownsville, Ky., where he was born.

Surviving are a widow, three sons and a daughter. Logan's death was the second in the senate this year, Senator Lewis (D-Ill.), having died April 9.

Claims Allies Not To Yield To Any Threat

Bitterly Assails Statement Peace Offers Refused

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today that Britain would "examine and test" any German peace proposals, but added that "no mere assurances from the present German government can be accepted by us."

Britain and France, the prime minister told a wildly cheering house of commons, will not yield to what he termed a "searcely veiled threat" of Soviet-German collaboration.

"No threat would ever induce this country to abandon the purpose for which we have entered upon this struggle," he said.

Replying to the plea of David Lloyd George that the government not be in too much of a hurry to reject any serious peace proposals and thereby alienate Italy and Russia, Chamberlain said:

"I entirely agree. I see no reason why we should be in a hurry to give an answer to a proposal which really requires serious consideration. The prime minister's speech referred to the Russian-German agreement which partitioned Poland and made a peace gesture with the alternative of Nazi-Soviet 'consultation.'"

Guilty In Past He declared "no mere assurances" from the German government could be accepted because that government "too often in the past have proved that their undertakings are worthless when it suits them that they should be broken."

He then added that "if, therefore, proposals are made we shall certainly examine and test them in the light of what I have just said."

Chamberlain told the house that the Soviet-German agreement by no means meant Germany would receive any lasting benefits and contained nothing to swerve Britain from "what we are doing now—mobilizing all the resources of the British empire for the effective prosecution of the war."

Bitterly Chamberlain assailed the Russian-German statement that if the western powers refused peace offers they would bear the war guilt.

"The responsibility for the war rests upon those who have conceived and carried out this policy of successive aggression and it can

Tax Notices In The Mails

Big Spring residents were reminded yesterday that it's tax paying time as they received through the mail statements from the municipality. To make matters more emphatic, the statements carry levies from an increased tax rate, but the increase is represented altogether in the waterworks improvement bond issue voted last year.

Tax statements also were being prepared in the county offices by the Big Spring independent school district. It was believed that both agencies would have all statements out before the end of the week.

The school district tax office reported that it already was receiving some tax remittances, by property owners who want to take advantage of the three per cent discount offered during the month of October.

The city offers no discount, but does provide split-payment methods. Taxes may be paid quarterly, provided the first remittance is made by October 31. One-half payments are permissible, if the first is made by November 30 (second half due by June 30). Those who pay their taxes in a single check have until January 31 to remit without penalty and interest. The books were open to taxpayers on October 1.

The city's total levy this year is $107,160.18. Final figures showed an increase of nearly $27,000 from last year. This is accounted for in the rate boost and also in a slight boost in valuations. With the rate at $1.70—40 cents higher than last year—valuations aggregated $6,303,949. This included $4,666,090 in real estate values, and $1,637,859 in personal property values. Last year's valuation total was $6,172,115.

HOME FROM HONOLULU TRIP

MISS EVELYN MERRILL

Miss Evelyn Merrill Returns Home From Hawaiian Voyage

Even a war scare couldn't dampen the spirits of the group of Beta Sigma Phi sorority girls who sailed from Vancouver for Honolulu, according to Miss Evelyn Merrill, who returned Monday from a voyage to the Hawaiian Islands.

Miss Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Merrill, left here Aug. 23 and went to Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif., where she said they were "royally entertained." In Hollywood the sorority girls were the guests of Penny Singleton at a luncheon. From there the group of 26 girls went to Seattle and then sailed from Vancouver.

Third day out at sea the S. S. Aorangi received word that war had been declared and from then on it was a strange journey according to Miss Merrill. No one was allowed to show a light at night and smoking was prohibited on the decks. Even lights in the cabins were not allowed. The ship steamed ahead at full speed on a zig-zag course that kept the passengers in ignorance of their location.

The ship arrived 14 hours ahead of schedule and therefore missed the customary welcome to Honolulu but the 12 days that Miss Merrill spent there "more than made up for that." The group went to a Hawaiian feast where they ate, or tried to eat, with their fingers and tasted raw fish, poi, a bread substitute, and a roasted pig. Ceremonial dancing was performed for the guests and something of the history of the people was told.

Miss Merrill, on a short plane trip from Hilo, saw some of the other islands and the volcanoes which she says are now extinct. She went surf boat riding and swimming at romantic Waikiki beach which "was more beautiful than I thought it would be."

On the return trip which was scheduled to be on the S. S. Niagara, an English boat, permission had to be secured from Cordell Hull in Washington before the Americans could sail and even at that Miss Merrill told that "only 13 of the 26 girls would come on the boat. The rest waited over for an American boat."

Miss Merrill sailed the 16th of September from Honolulu and until an hour before sailing time, the group was not told when the ship would leave. Their baggage was put on the ship and the girls were left to wonder just when the sailing would take place. Finally some 48 hours after they expected to leave they were told to board the ship and in greatest secrecy sailed away.

The boat docked at Victoria and Miss Merrill then took another ship to Seattle, went to San Francisco, Calif., and Santa Monica, Calif., through Arizona and then home. Outstanding in her mind were the leis of which every girl had several each night while in Honolulu. Made of hibiscus, gingers, gardenias, and carnations, they take the place of the box of candy more common to the beach here.

Then sitting outdoors under the palm trees and watching the native dances was just as beautiful as it is pictured in the movies," said Miss Merrill. "It was cool each day we were there and during the afternoon what they call liquid sunshine which is really a mist, would appear and cool off the air."

Miss Merrill, who said in an interview in Honolulu that she "wanted to see if Hawaii was half as wonderful as people said it was," came home convinced. "It was a wonderful trip," is the way she summed it up.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Herr Hitler has continued to push his peace offensive vigorously, despite Anglo-French rebuffs, with the rapid approach of the final showdown as to whether there shall be an end to the conflict or war to the bloody end.

The German forces on the western front have remained on the defensive, awaiting the outcome of the peace overtures.

Yesterday Berlin's tone softened sufficiently for government circles to insist that the Reich has no desire to "Germanize" people not of German origin. This assertion caused observers to believe the Nazis might be willing to concede some form of cultural autonomy to the Poles.

There can be no doubt that Herr Hitler vastly prefers peace, though there can be no doubt that he doesn't intend to bend the knee much to get it.

Observers incline to the belief that the Nazi chieftain isn't too happy with the way affairs have been developing.

His new bunk-mate, Soviet leader Stalin, pulls the blanket off him. It is difficult to see how any peace proposals coming from the Nazi government could succeed.

Barring miracles the war must continue. That being the case one would expect the so-far comparatively passive warfare to enter a much more active state in the near future.

This is true if for no other reason than that Herr Hitler cannot afford to sit down behind his westwall—even though it be virtually impregnable.

That would be to submit to possible strangulation of the Reich by the British naval blockade.

Hitler must take the offensive. His offensive, however, needn't be an assault on the powerful French Maginot line with his army, but the air fleet.

Naasdom has for weeks been talking about its "invincible west-

PUTZI HANFSTAENGL SAID INTERNED BY BRITAIN

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Dr. Ernst (Putzi) Hanfstaengl, American-educated publicist and one-time close friend of Adolf Hitler, was said today by acquaintances to have been interned by the British government.

Hanfstaengl, former head of the Nazi press bureau, left Germany in 1937 and had been living since then in voluntary exile in England, ignoring official invitations to return to Berlin.

There is another offensive weapon which the Nazis have been using with considerable effect and have threatened to employ more intensively—the U-boats.

Increasing Employment

More than 500,000 workers have been re-employed since the middle of August, the federal labor department tells us. This is only about one in 20 of the unemployed but it is a start in a movement that may easily gain momentum.

One hopeful thing about it is that private industry is putting these men back to work and not government relief. It is true, perhaps, that the war in Europe is responsible for some of this re-employment and the war may not last and, if it does, will be hurtful to business in the end.

But the re-employment trend started before the war started. It was given added impetus by the war. The war brought a raise in prices generally and the raise brought more buying. If the war alone had been responsible for this buying would likely have stalled, prices would have sagged and the re-employment trend have slackened. None of these things have happened. Buying has been sustained, prices generally have been held up and the upward trend in employment has continued.

Perhaps the raise in prices that marked the beginning of the war had some good as well as had effects. It brought buying from consumers who expected prices to go higher instead of lower. Merchants found themselves understocked rather than overstocked. They called on the wholesalers who began placing orders with manufacturers. The manufacturers employed more workers. Now the workers can buy more goods and start the whole cycle over again. At least that's the way we hope it will operate.

Anyway the talk now is of opportunities for investment, new and bigger business, more jobs and better times and less of government relief and subsidies. That is what we have long needed. Once the country's thought is centered on real business and real jobs instead of government aid and relief and defeatism, the battle will be half won.—(Wichita Times).

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—They say Toscanini shakes his head regretfully when someone mentions that Jack Jenney is leading a swing band. Jenney came out of nowhere one night to do a favor for Toscanini, and Tosny has never forgotten. He needed very badly a trombonist to play a very high and difficult passage from one of Schumann's symphonies, and had just about decided to withdraw the number from his concert when he heard Jenney on a radio program. Sure, he would give it a try, Jenney replied to Toscanini's request, and he did, to Toscanini's immense satisfaction.

Some months ago Paul Whiteman nominated his All-America swing band for Colliers, and Jenney was selected over such men as Skinnay Ennis, Bunny Berrigan, and Harry James, all of whom are well known because they play with name bands. Until that time he was known to conductors but not to the dancing public. He appeared on as many as 20 radio programs a week, but always as a trombonist in studio orchestras.

Jack Jenney's real name is John Elliot, and why he changed it or thinks Jenney is a better one I wouldn't know. Jenney to me sounds too artificial and too deliberately theatrical. What does a name matter anyway if you are good?

There may be something to Guy Lombardo's idea of musical horns for motorists in various states. Lombardo would like to see every car in New York equipped with a horn that would blast out eight bars of "The Sidewalks of New York." Instead of frightening pedestrians out of their wits with the drum-shattering blasts of regular motor car horns, Lombardo thinks the idea would lessen metropolitan confusion and add to the general gaiety of the nation.

For Texas he recommends "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You"; for California, "California, Here I Come"; Maine, "The Stein Song"; Illinois, "Chicago, Chicago, That Tiddling Town"; then there's "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "Alabama Bound," "The Missouri Waltz," "Hall, Pennsylvania";...the possibilities are endless. It is said that one major motor company is going to act on this suggestion and equip its new cars this fall with horns that play strains from the songs of 16 different states.

Our useless information department today notes that the Post Shelley's favorite pastime was sailing toy boats on the Serpentine in London. He used five-pound notes for sails. This information comes from Dave Eilman, the hobby man, whose favorite pastime is digging up stuff like this.

Other items which will place in our interesting-if-true department concern (1) Cardinal Richelieu who is supposed to have invented mayonnaise; (2) Alexandre Dumas, who in addition to the "Three Musketeers" also wrote a cook book, in which were included 56 recipes for cooking eggs; (3) and Frank Lutz, the composer, who invariably wore green gloves when he went out. Green gloves were a fetish with him. He collected hundreds of pairs.

Life's Darkest Moment

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—So great is the superiority of coast defense over naval power in attack that authorities here discount almost 100 per cent the persistent stories that the British fleet may attempt to force a landing on the north German shore.

They don't discount the possibility that the British fleet may break into the Baltic sea and shut off German trade with Sweden, so important because of rich Swedish iron. But even that would be a hazardous task and might cost Britain half its navy.

Attempting to land an armed force in the face of German power along the Baltic or North sea would be one of those tasks no navy would undertake if any other avenue of attack remained. Authorities always leave one avenue open. A British hard pressed in other quarters might make the desperate attempt at a shore landing. Odds against success are high.

Long ago Germany saw the possibility that a British fleet action might be launched against her in the Baltic. She took protective steps. Taking Danzig was one important step. As a free city Danzig was not strongly fortified against naval attack. Polish forces there failed to beat off one German battleship. You can almost bank on it that by now Danzig is well fortified.

A PORT WOULD HELP

More than a year ago Germany crowded Lithuania out of Memel. That is another Baltic seaport that undoubtedly was only lightly armed until Germany took over.

An undefended port would be an ideal spot to make a landing. Under a naval barrage, troop ships could sail right into port and unload men and cannon. That is a dream situation for a navy.

Breaking into a fortified port is another thing. Shore guns have tremendous advantage over naval guns. They are concealed. The navy is in full view. Sighting and ranging devices for shore guns are greatly superior to those that can be installed on a ship.

Take Pearl harbor, Hawaii, as an example. The water all around is zoned off. The coast guns know in advance what ranges and deflection to set off to hit a ship wherever it may be seen. Land guns, on fixed bases, are far more accurate than naval guns rolling at sea. Their range normally is equal.

Any landing the British navy would attempt likely would be along some unfortified shore. It would be necessary for the heavy ships to stand offshore and lay down a barrage to keep defending forces back while troops landed. Troop ships, conveyed by destroyers and cruisers, would crowd closer into shore, put men out in small boats, and trust to naval fire to keep enemy light and heavy artillery fire and machine gun fire to a minimum.

DANGEROUS WORK

But for a navy to stand offshore and pound away at land troops is risky business. Undoubtedly every submarine in the German navy would be concentrated on the fleet. Half dozen, breaking through the screen of destroyers and cruisers, could ruin the British navy in a half hour. And they would try to break through even if it meant that nine of every ten submarines would be sunk.

Moreover, a force once landed would be the target of all the defense mechanism that could be brought against it. Japan made a landing at Shanghai with considerable difficulty against a defense that was nothing compared with what Germany would build against a British attack.

The moral of this would seem to be: The war won't be decided in the Baltic.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Mr. Kay Kyser from Rocky Point, North Carolina, isn't going to be any movie clothes-horse.

Mr. Kyser, by reason of making his movie debut in the same picture with Adolphe Menjou, was square up against the dressing problem the first day he faced the camera.

Adolphe, by virtue of his years of fame as a best-dressed actor, was quick to dispense advice to the newcomer, who has become famous, at 33, as conductor of a band and an air "college of musical knowledge." Adolphe's advice, summed up, was "See my tailor."

Now Kay Kyser is a plain-looking blonde chap, who wears specks and smokes a cigar and draws homely smiles and metaphors.

Said Kay: "I can't wear any fancy clothes. There's just some people who can't—and I'm one of 'em. Why, if I get myself duded up in tailor-mades, the folks in Rocky Point might tar and feather me. They'd say, 'Look at the hundred-dollar saddle on that tender mule.' But I'm agreeable. I'm going to try his tailor. I don't think it'll do any good. Look at this suit, now—"

The plain brown number he wore—the upper buttons of his trousers loosened for comfort—was not exactly a tailor's dream.

"I've got this suit, and two others," he said. "Both the others are blue. I never cared much for clothes—besides I don't have any time to get myself dressed up. Always rehearsing, or playing, and most of the time I wear an old sports jacket and a pair of slacks—both ready-made. For a New York opening once I thought I'd get me a new tuxedo. For once, I'd do it in plenty of time, I had all the fittings, and the usual thing happened—just before the show I got a call from the tailor. He was sending the coat, but he'd need a little more time on the pants. I had to dig out my old frayed tux trousers, race with 'em up and down the hotel hall to air the mothball smells, and at opening time I took the stand wearing 'em—mothball smell and all."

The lad who has built his 13-man orchestra into one of the nation's leading attractions has not, however, been entirely thoughtless of clothes. Ever since he arrived, all during musical recordings for "That's Right, You're Wrong," Kay has been reminding Dave Butler, the director-producer, of his wardrobe short-ages.

"I'd tell him," said Kay, "and he'd say, 'H-mm, yes. Now about that line in the script—'. Then I'd tell him again, and Dave would say, 'H-mm, yes—now about that spotlight, Jack—'. And I'd keep telling him—but some day I guess I'll get a '1 to show up in a suit I haven't got, and then they'll know I'm telling the truth: I've really got just three suits, no more. But maybe that's Hollywood. The boys in the band, too, they haven't anything to wear. We've got to figure on that, or they'll be getting up on the stage in their shorts."

On the first day, opposite the veteran Menjou, novice Kyser departed himself with poise which he assures you he didn't feel. It appeared, however, that the lines prepared for him in the script would not stand as written. Kay Kyser was to be allowed to ad lib—which is all right as he's playing Kay Kyser.

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

Chapter 25 The Drama

Buff hated her task. Her open, forthright nature rebelled against what amounted to spying upon Iris. But Tim, she reminded herself again and again, had to be saved from this second and far more dangerous plot.

"And after I've yanked him out of her clutches, he can't sink or swim, lose his way or keep to the straight and narrow path," said Miss Carroll with a fine scrambling metaphor. "He'll hate me even more than he does now if he knows I've snatched him from the burning. Well, that's all right too. Just so I spring the trap before it closes on him, it doesn't matter about me." She rather spoiled the poetically altruistic sentiment she was trying to express by a sigh that seemed to rise from her small custom-made brogues.

She had known Iris from the first to be almost pitifully lacking in brains, entirely lacking in subtlety. She was like a movie extra who went through her small part with conscientious accuracy. For two days she was very much the engaged girl, staying close to the hotel save when she appeared radiant and shyly happy in Tim's car. Buff kept doggedly behind them, feeling herself to be a cross between an international spy and a jealous schoolgirl.

But the third morning brought important results. Tim's car was parked near the hotel when Buff arrived. Evidently he had left it there for Iris to use. About ten she came out, wearing the new fur coat which had made its appearance in the last few days, and headed for Denver. Buff trailed her excitedly.

Iris drove in character, the younger girl thought: putting on little spurts of speed exactly at the wrong time, slowing down in the midst of busy traffic, making use of hand signals which would have puzzled the most expert motorist; but eventually she drew up in front of a small hotel in the city, miraculously finding a parking place.

Buff was not so fortunate. By the time she had disposed of her car and entered the lobby, Iris was nowhere to be seen. There was nothing for it but to wait for her. Buff selected an inconspicuous spot behind a clump of dusty palms and kept one eye on her watch, the other on the elevator. She suspected her quarry was in a parlor on the mezzanine, but felt it was too dangerous a business to follow her.

It was nearly half-past one before Iris came down. There were two men with her, one unmistakably Latahew. Buff silently bled George Weeskes for his clever sketches. There were the pouches beneath the eyes—eyes coldly gazing now—the little jut to the big nose, the thin lips. He kept close to Iris, not a word nor gesture of hers lost to him.

The other man was bluff and genial. Only the expression of his face betrayed him to the watching girl. There was a sly triumph in it, the look of having put something over on a woman; a sly and un-suspecting woman, at that. Buff's feminism almost rose in revolt at what she read in his eyes, his full-lipped mouth. For a moment even Tim's safety hung in the balance.

Then Iris turned her head with the coquettish smile, and Buff hardened her heart.

The Curtain Rises

She was uncertain of what to do. It was patent that she could not follow Iris about Denver. Yet she felt the crisis of the situation to be upon them. Unwittingly it was Iris herself—stupid Iris—who could not even obey orders without blundering! Was Buff's acornful thought—who gave her the help she needed.

"Shall we all lunch together and then meet at Nesbit's office? It's late," she went on plaintively, "and I'm starved. And"—this time her arch glance rested on Latahew who returned it without expression—"I do think I've earned something rather special in the way of food today."

"Where?" demanded Latahew. "Oh, the Shirley-Savoy!—the kind of luncheon that's a real celebration."

Latahew opened his thin lips to protest, thought better of it, and the three moved toward the revolving door. Buff flew toward the telephone, praying silently that George Weeskes had returned from his own luncheon, and that he was not out on a surveying job. To her vast relief his cheery voice answered.

"Hello!" "George, this is Buff," she began rapidly. "Will you do exactly what I ask you to do?" "Yes, I suppose so. But where are you?"

"Denver," she snapped. "And don't begin asking questions. I'll do the talking. You get Tim—handcuff him and gag him if you have to, but get him!—and drive here as fast as you can. Park where you can watch the front entrance to the Shirley-Savoy. Or if you can't park, get out and stand around until you see Iris and Latahew and another man come out. Then—"

"Latahew?" George howled. "Ho-ly smoke! Buff, you're—" "Will you listen?" she demanded coldly. "You all but shattered my eardrum then. Watch till you see them come out, then follow them. They'll head for Nesbit's office. If by chance you lose 'em—I mean if it gets to be about three o'clock, you go on to Nesbit's anyway. Iris has just started out for what she called a celebration luncheon at the Shirley-Savoy. From there the three will go to call on Nesbit. Need I be more specific?"

"You needn't," was the solemn assurance. "The game is in the bag; or would be," he added on a sudden uneasy note, "if I knew how certain I am to get Tim to Denver. He'll certainly balk at spying on Iris."

"Get him here by telling him she's in trouble and going to need him," said the graceless child at the other end of the line. "And heaven knows that's going to be true as soon as Latahew finds what is happening. If he begins to get restless about waiting for her at the hotel, or suspects something amiss, then bully him into staying. Tell him it's your right to know what's going on; that there's such a thing as loyalty to one's friends and business partners as well as to—Iris. Your tongue is nimble enough, George. Use it!"

She was oddly exhausted when she turned away from the booth. She had had an early breakfast, the strain of her discovery was beginning to tell upon her. She longed to head her car back toward Boulder and leave the rest of the affair to Weeskes. But Buff had sacrificed her pride, given up her

Ruffing To Take Hill Against Reds Despite Arm Ailment

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

The Big Spring Golf association is sponsoring a three reel golfing talking movie depicting the styles of several of the nation's leading golfers Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, Oct. 10 in the Settles hotel.

Action shots of the professionals were taken as they competed in the Augusta Masters tournament staged annually in Augusta, Ga.

Among the players whose games have been filmed are Ralph Guldahl, the former National Open champion who incidentally is making several personal appearances in this sector at the present time, Johnny Revolva, Sam Snead, Gene Sarazen, Denny Shute, Jimmy Hines and Harold "Jug" McSpaden.

Part of the film is dedicated toward scenes showing the manufacture of golfing equipment.

There will be no admission charge and all golfers, whether members of the association or not, are invited to be in attendance.

O. F. Griffin, Howard county agent, said recently a certain type of scrub plant especially favoring the nesting of young quail was being planted in this area.

Neal Rabe, who shined off with an all-star baseball team for South America Friday and is scheduled to arrive in Venezuela today, took neither Johnny Taylor or Al Carr, Lubbock players, with him. Both had been signed to go.

Bobby Decker, second sacker, represented Big Spring on the exhibition jaunt.

Whenever Billy Capps, Baron third sacker, corresponds with Decker he addresses Robin as "227" and signs off with "337." Those figures represent their respective batting averages.

Incidentally, neither Capps or Decker dropped a pop fly during the 1939 playing season.

Some of the Abilene folk are said not to have liked Obie Bristow's recent radio "panning" of Dewey Mayhew, Eagle mentor, least bit.

Bristow's original plans were to expose several of the underhanded tactics being used in promoting the game in this sector and may yet make the faces of other well known coaches very, very red.

Bristow's treatment of Mayhew was quite mild. The giant oil man simply related that he could very well reason from Abilene Current losses as in former years that the importation of players from outlying communities into the Eagle system had been stopped by league chiefs and the home town boys didn't realize yet that they could come out for the game.

50,000 Slated To See First Two Games

Gomez May Not Get To Throw; Hildebrand And Hadley Ready

By JUDSON BAILEY NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Charley (Red) Ruffing, big right-hander, definitely was named today by Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees to pitch the opening world series game against the Cincinnati Reds, National league champions, tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A pitching problem, of all things, had the New York Yankee masterminds fretting today as the world champions and the Cincinnati Reds rehearsed for tomorrow's opening act of the 1939 world series.

Charles (Rufus the Red) Ruffing, rugged right-hander who started the first game of the series last year, has had an arm ailment. He vowed he was ready, but Manager Joe McCarthy has not decided whether to lead with his ace.

Ruffing has not thrown a business ball since the middle of September, when the last place St. Louis Browns chiseled 13 hits off him in less than nine innings. Ruffing has made at least one recent trip to a muscle specialist in Brooklyn.

If the Yankee skipper should decide to hold back Ruffing, he undoubtedly would open with Monte Marcellus Pearson, the chunky Californian who won one game in each of the last three world series for the Yanks.

Lefty Gomez, just out of a hospital and still taped on the back and side where he strained a muscle, did not rate consideration for the first two games, and his appearance at any time during the series was in doubt.

Oral Hildebrand and Bump Hadley, well-seasoned performers, were in line for a starting call somewhere along the line. Rookie Atley Donald and Marius Rooka, a southpaw, likewise were potential starters. It seemed likely that Steve Sundra, Johnny Murphy and Spud Chandler would be held strictly for relief.

Derringer Sure Thing The Reds arranged to follow the Yankees onto the stadium field this afternoon for a final workout. Manager Bill McKechnie already had settled on Paul Derringer to hurl the first game.

Bucky Walters was certain of the second game assignment. These two and Gene (Junior) Thompson, 22-year-old rookie, were also the choices to work the two or three games in Cincinnati starting Saturday.

Lefty Lee Grissom, Milt Shoffner and John Niggeling headed the relief corps. The uncertainty surrounding the Yankee pitching caused bookmakers to put the three-time champions from a 3 against 11 proposition to 5 against 16, and on the Reds were laying 13 to 5 instead of 14 to 5, which they gave yesterday.

Crowds in excess of 50,000 appeared assured for the two games tomorrow and Thursday. Rain fell more or less steadily Sunday and Monday, but the weather bureau said clear skies and slightly warmer temperatures could be expected tomorrow.

Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis announced umpires for the series would be Bill McGowan and William Summers of the American league and John (Beans) Reardon and Ralph (Babe) Pinelli of the National league.

Must Not Let Cincy Score In 1st Frame

Do's And Don'ts Are Cited For Yanks' Benefit

By JOHN FYKE CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Not that they'll do Joe McCarthy any good, but here are a few do's and don'ts for earnest consideration if his Yankees are to make a habit of the championship business.

There is no reason in revealing these items, for if they start to happen again they will just happen and there'll be little that the Yankees can do about them.

1—Don't let the Reds score in the first inning. They won their National league pennant that way. The Reds scored at the start in 45 games this year, and of these they won 37.

2—Don't let the game go into extra innings. The Reds played 17 overtime games this year, anywhere from 10 to 13 innings, and won 13 of them. Red pitchers get mad when they have to work after the whistle.

3—Don't think you have the game on a two or three-run lead in the ninth. There are seven managers in the National league who can tell you that the Reds' 1939 drive was studied with stop-spangled finishes.

4—Your pitching paragon probably never do such things anyway, but don't let them walk anybody to get to anybody. A lot of the Reds are only 250 hitters but the time you get to them may be the time they're due.

5—Don't get worked up just because you get a lot of hits off Paul Derringer. Paul gave 321 hits all year but his earned run average was under 3.5.

6—Don't run bases as if you were playing the Bushwicks. You may not know it but a couple of the boys, Ernie Lombardi and Ival Goodman, have 30-30's with telescopic sights up their sleeves.

Those are about all the don'ts and here's the only do—play ball!

TEKANS DEFEATED ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 3 (AP)—Georgia and North Carolina had the advantage today as eight teams from six states lined up for the second 36-hole round of the Southern four-ball golf championship. Results yesterday included: Charles Daniels, Jr., and Alvin Everitt, Georgia, defeated Ed Heron and Bobby Rigels, Texas.

Marberry Hurl Cats To Win Over Vols

Stops Nashville In One-Hit Show; Starr To Work Tonight

By FELIX MCKNIGHT FORT WORTH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Old Fred Marberry's masterpiece, a one-hitter that warmed 4,000 chilled fans, threw the Dixie series into the seventh, and payoff, game tonight.

The 40-year-old veteran of 16 years in the majors and baseball in general since knee pants days, put Fort Worth back into the series last night with a cunning 11-0 triumph over a Nashville team that was literally mad enough to fight before it was all over.

Ol' Firpo, strictly a warm weather pitcher they were saying, saw his perfect game ruined with one out in the ninth when Woody Williams singled to right. Sadly enough, the next batter, Chapman, tapped into a double play.

Only four batters reached first base, none touched second, only four drove balls out of the infield, eight struck out and never was there a smell of a base hit until Williams' blow.

It would have been Marberry's second perfect game had he pulled through. He blanked Galveston without a hit while with Dallas in 1937.

Marberry, driving the Vols daffy with his unorthodox delivery and careful handling of each pitch, got into a violent argument with Vol catcher Charlie George in the second inning. Marberry three times challenged the husky receiver but never got past the conversation stage.

But Firpo hadn't forgotten on the last out of the ball game. He threw down his cap and leaped straight for the Nashville dugout. George stalked out and met him half way but players separated them.

Walter Cazen, the Polish better, personally took care of Marberry's triumph, knocking across six runs with two doubles and a single. Both two-basers came with the bases clogged—the first whamming the left field fence after Johnny Stoneham had been intentionally walked to get to Cazen.

The immediate cause of that bit of strategy wasn't determined by heavy thinkers, for the Cazen boy has been poison throughout the series. His two home runs and a double the other day drove across five runs in one game.

Nashville paraded four pitchers—but they saved Ace Adams for tonight. Fort Worth will depend on Ray Starr, winner of one and loser of one in the series.

Hogs Crippled For TCU Game

By The Associated Press The Texas Aggies traveled toward California today for an important intersectional game but other Southwest Conference football squads continued work on their home fields with Arkansas, which opens the championship race Saturday, finding its line riddled by injuries.

The Aggies, 33 strong, left yesterday for San Francisco where they meet Santa Clara university Friday night.

Three lettermen were out of the Arkansas line-up for the conference opener against Texas Christian university at Fayetteville—Howard Hickey and John Freiberg, ends, and A. J. Yates, guard. The Frogs returned from their game with U. C. L. A. without an injury among the first team.

Texas, which has an important intersectional clash with Wisconsin at Madison, probably will be without the services of fullback Pete Layden, injured in the Florida game last week.

James Witt, letterman end, nursed a sore shoulder in the Baylor university camp. Odell Griffin, guard, will be out at least two weeks with a twisted knee. The Bears play Oklahoma A. and M. at Stillwater Saturday.

Southern Methodist university had no injuries to worry about as the Mustangs prepared for North Texas State at Dallas Saturday. Rice had Captain Ed Singletary, J. P. Matthews, Olie Cordill and Bob Brumley on the injury list but expected the first three to be ready to play Saturday night against Centenary.

LONGHORNS HOLD SECRET DRILL

Odessans Will Be Bidding For Title

Mentor Pat Murphy locked the gates at Highland park stadium for the first time this season and ran his Big Spring high school football charges through a two-hour secret drill in preparation for the Friday game with Odessa in Odessa.

The collision with the Broncs will be the Bovines' first conference game of the campaign and Murphy indicated that he expected to employ every power within his means to upset the smooth clicking charges of Joe Coleman.

The Broncs will be heavily favored to trample the Herd, having scored victories over some of the most powerful teams in this sector in their early starts.

The Longhorns will be at full strength. No serious injuries resulted in the tussle with Lubbock here last week.

Lefty Bethel, whose kicking toe sparkled against Lubbock, will be prepared to start along with Johnny Miller, D. R. Gartman and Owen Brummett in the secondary.

The Bovines must be prepared to stop a versatile attack. The Broncs have looked to advantage in passing as well as running to date and with such boys as Howard Wyson, who scored twice against Austin high school last week, Fred and Al Caudle and Paul McCracken in the secondary are going to be difficult to stop.

The Bronc coaches don't mind letting it be known that the Odessans are title bound and don't intend to let Big Spring slip up on them in their first step toward the title.

BROMWICH STOPS EUROPEAN IN FINAL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3 (AP)—John Bromwich of Australia emerged from the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament today, holding the men's singles title and sharing with his countryman, Adrian Quist, the doubles crown.

Bromwich defeated Franjo Puncec of Yugoslavia, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4, to take the singles title. Paired with Quist, he downed Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, fellow Australians, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-0, 6-4, in the doubles event.

Alice Marble won the women's singles event, defeating Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, 9-7, 6-1.

St. Mary's End Around

By Jim Crowley

One of the top ranking intersectional games in the East for several years has been the Fordham-St. Mary's of California contest. And St. Mary's Gaels have often fooled the Rams with this sneaky end-around maneuver. The strength of the play lies in deception gained by lining up in right formation, faking to the weak side, and finally striking at the strong side. The ball goes to the left halfback, who spins and fakes it to the fullback. Then, as the fullback charges to the left, the St. Mary's left end races past the left halfback and grabs the ball. St. Mary's right halfback blocks the left end and the Gaels' left guard joins the quarterback to run interference.

Grid Board Is Explained

A new type of board which pays no attention to the score, minutes to play or yards to go, but which shows which man blocked properly and which man failed in his assignment was explained here Tuesday by W. B. McKenzie and Claude Collins, who are interested in the football blocking chart.

The board was invented by Felton T. Wright, Ballinger high school coach, and proved successful in one season of operation there. Wright said it had the effect of promoting blocking efficiency and spectator interest.

According to McKenzie and Collins, the blocking chart is placed at a vantage point at one end of the field and is high enough that operators can readily see play from any spot. The board is 20 feet in breadth, 14 feet in height and four feet in depth.

Along the upper floor are figures of seven players with neon numeral letters showing. On the lower floor four backfield figures, similarly equipped, are lined up. Each figure has an individual operator who watches none but the corresponding player on the field. When the player executes the block successfully, a green light flashes on his numeral. If he fails, the red light goes on.

Thus, said Collins and McKenzie, the man who makes the gaping hole in the line no longer goes unrecognized by fans. Neither is his failure to carry out interference assignments unnoticed.

In addition statistics are kept by each operator and provide the coach with a definite record of player participation, and permit the ready correction of blocking weaknesses.

Gets Own Way

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 3 (AP)—Because the home coach gets his way in the matter, a regular brown football will be used when Santa Clara meets Texas A. & M. in San Francisco Friday night.

Coach L. T. "Buck" Shaw said to take the white football usually used in night games for greater visibility would give the Texans an advantage because they wear white jerseys "and the Texas boys would have us running all over the lot trying to locate the man with the ball."

Colonels Lose To Red Wings

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3 (AP)—You might knock a good man down, but it's difficult to keep him down. For example, take a look at the junior world's series between Rochester of the International league and Louisville of the American after being held to 14 hits in the first three games, Rochester, league batting champion, had a field day last night, bombarding six

Louisville pitchers for 20 hits to win, 13 to 3, and square the series at two games apiece.

Fare Set At $1; 250 Reservations Must Be Made

Local school officials made plans today toward running a special train to Odessa Friday to the Odessa-Big Spring District 3-AA football game.

Round trip rate as established by railroad officials will be $1 but as many as 250 tickets have to be disposed of to guarantee the train. The tickets have already gone on sale and are available at the high school. Reservations should be made as soon as possible.

The train will leave here at 8:30 and arrive in Odessa at 7:15, according to the present schedule. Game time is 8 o'clock. Departure for Big Spring is scheduled for 10:45 p. m.

Garcia Is New Welter Champ

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—The long trail has ended for Ceferino Garcia, the two-fisted whirlwind from Los Angeles, but not at the original destination.

Trice thwarted in bids for the world welterweight title, the somber-faced Filipino won the world midweight crown, New York and California precincts, last night by scoring a technical knockout over Fred Apostoll in San Francisco after 2:07 of the seventh round of a bitter slugfest match.

Garcia carried the message with a machine-gun series of rights and lefts which sent the befogged titleholder down twice in the seventh before Referee Billy Cavanaugh, with Apostoll down a third time, waved Garcia away and ended the fight.

The bout, the first of the indoor flat season, drew 11,465 spectators who paid a gross of $35,433.83. Garcia is recognized as champion only in New York and California. Al Hostak of Seattle is recognized in the other states.

Garcia weighed 153 3/4. Apostoll weighed the limit of 160.

Louisville pitchers for 20 hits to win, 13 to 3, and square the series at two games apiece.

pires from invasion. Their main power can defend France unless they blunder in taking wild adventures in military offensives and exhaust their main power.

Not Conclusive

"Aerial warfare may be destructive, but that works both ways and, so far as all experience goes, is not conclusive of any war."

"German shipping is already driven off the seven seas in 30 days. Italy would have the same fate if she joined in, which at the present time appears also improbable.

"The submarine may be troublesome, but there has been great progress in methods of detecting submarines since the last war, and this type of warfare is less dangerous than formerly.

"On the military front the sole point of attack is on continental France. France is protected by very much more powerful fortifications and armies than in 1914.

"Germany has a population of about 80,000,000 Germans from which to draw main power. The allied armies have about 115,000,000 white population and 30,000,000 more of fighting races which they can draw from to protect France.

"And their possessions contain another 450,000,000 people that can aid in food, raw material and munitions production. The allies can put more men on the front and support them better than the Germans.

"In view of events, Russia and Italy must also be considered in this army picture. While the entry of Italy with a population of 41,000,000 is highly improbable, even in such event the allied main power on defense is still superior. I do not include Russian main power because I am convinced that Russian troops are most unlikely ever to reach the western front.

"That is inhibited by transportation difficulties, shortages of materials, internal weakness, a lack of any national purpose for the Russians, together with the risks to the Germans of such a guest."

This latest campaign for more concessions in the Baltic area opened while the Latvian and Turkish foreign ministers were here and Lithuania's foreign minister, Juozas Urbys, was expected later in the day. Ivesta's article failed to mention Lithuania, but that country was expected to receive demarcation lines with Latvia and similar to those made upon Estonia.

Conversations with Latvian Foreign Minister William Munters began last night.

manner and purpose of the expenditure would be changed."

Regarding the calamity clause in the constitution, Mann said the framers of that document never intended to "provide a vehicle for the wholesale transfer of money from one constitutional fund to another," but wanted to make it possible to extend relief to areas which might be stricken by such "calamitous visitations as fire, flood, tempest or disease."

He asserted the legislature had attempted to give county commissioners courts "blank checks" on half of the state ad valorem taxes for a period of five years.

"Telling them in effect they could use it for any purpose in the world not expressly prohibited in our constitution was equivalent to designating no particular purpose whatsoever," he said.

Motion In Anderson Suit Against KBST Under Adversement

ABELENE, Oct. 3.—Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson had under advisement today a motion to remain in the case of V. T. Anderson, et al. vs. the Big Spring Herald Broadcasting Co. suit for damages on contract. Judge Davidson said a ruling would be made on the motion by 2 p. m. Friday.

Defendants contended the case involves interpretation of the Federal Communications act and asked for trial in federal court. The suit had been moved to the U. S. court here from 10th district court in Howard county. The plaintiffs asserted the matter was a breach of contract, in asking removal to the state courts.

Anderson is asking $25,000 damages for injury to his reputation as a stockholder in the station because officials of the station allegedly discriminated between speakers in an election issue.

The motion to remain was argued before Judge Davidson Monday when the court term opened. Among other matters before the court were the cases of the National Electric Signal company vs. the cities of Abilene and Big Spring, two actions, which were passed to the end of the docket. They had been continued from the April term of court.

Pension Cases To Be Re-Investigated

With pensioners wondering about future amount of old age assistance checks, with state funds curtailed, a further check of the rolls has been ordered.

George White, district director here for the Texas Old Age Assistance commission, said instructions had been received to press a re-investigation of all cases, the work to be completed before July 1 next year.

The re-investigation is in line with the federal social security board's policy of ordering a renewed investigation each year of all pension recipients. This year's cases include all those put on the rolls prior to last July 1. Continued need must be shown by each case, in order to warrant continued assistance.

COMMUNIST RECORDS ARE SUBPOENAED

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Chairman Martin Dies of the house committee investigating un-American activities subpoenaed records of the Illinois communist party for a closed hearing today.

Dies, a Texas Democrat, began his investigation in Chicago yesterday, heard several witnesses and said they confirmed reports Chicago was a "hotbed" of foreign agents.

He issued subpoenas for additional witnesses, all unnamed. Important testimony obtained here, he said, would be repeated before the full committee in Washington.

Chamberlain

neither be evaded nor excused," he said.

Coincidentally the arrival in London of a Turkish military mission and British attentiveness to Spain showed the intensity of the diplomatic struggle over Europe's neutrals.

The house roared its approval of Chamberlain's avowals that Britain could not be threatened into peace and that she would examine peace proposals in the light of Germany's past record.

Labor and liberal leaders concurred. Laborite Clement Attlee said "we must carefully examine every kind of a proposal for peace, but we must deal with realities, and there is no good saying there is peace when there is no peace."

"A mere reversion to the situation of the last year or so would not bring the world back to peace."

Faced With Problem

Liberal Leader Sir Archibald Sinclair said: "So long as Germany is governed by Hitler and the people who surround him, we will constantly be confronted with a choice between submission to his will and the dread alternative of war."

"This country wants peace, but is not prepared to buy it at the price of freedom and the moral values of civilization."

David Lloyd George, speaking in commons for the first time since the war's start, declared: "If peace depends on the word of Hitler we shall have no alternative but to proceed until we get some other and more assured guarantee."

Referring to the German "dispositions" with Italy, "at the invitation of Herr Hitler," the World war premier added: "I do not think Signor Mussolini has shown much hostility to this country in the last few days—he has on the whole shown a friendly disposition."

Lloyd George continued that "it is clear that somebody is going to submit detailed terms for the consideration of this government."

"I think it is important that we should not come to a too hurried conclusion. It needs very careful consideration."

"If there comes a document from the Italian or Russian governments it is vital that we should regard them as neutrals. We do not want to double our enemies."

WOULD CALL SPECIAL SESSION TO DISCUSS SOCIAL SECURITY

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—Arlon B. "Cyclone" Davis, Jr., head of the Texas social security league, said today a letter had been sent E. E. Germany, chairman of the state Democratic committee, for transmission to Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, asking his cooperation in calling a special session of the legislature to discuss with the social security obligation.

Davis said pension forces, which will meet in Tyler on next Saturday for discussion of pension problems and a proposed march on Austin, favored taxes on natural resources for this purpose. They recommended, he said, a six-cent additional tax on oil—three cents a barrel at the well and three cents through the pipe line—and a "reasonable" tax on sulphur, carbon black, natural gas, pipe line gas and helium gas.

He announced that the march on Austin on Oct. 16 would be known as "the second common citizens' homecoming."

Garden City School Man's Home Is Damaged By Fire

Fire badly damaged the residence of N. P. Taylor, superintendent of the Garden City schools, at Garden City Monday. Origin of the blaze was believed to have been from a heater in the bathroom.

Interior of the house was badly burned, Taylor said, and the roof also was damaged. Furniture suffered smoke damage, but walls of the house were not badly burned.

A pressure tank on a truck, Garden City's only fire-fighting equipment, was put to good use in combatting the blaze, which occurred about noon.

Keith Appleby, teacher in the Garden City schools, suffered an injury as he assisted in fighting the fire. A tendon in his arm was severed as he broke a pane of glass. He received emergency treatment at the Big Spring hospital here.

FINDS TWO SLAYINGS COMMITTED WITH THE SAME GUN

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 3.—Efforts by police to solve a second "Duck Island" murder mystery were spurred today by discovery of a major clue based on evidence that the two slayings were committed with the same shotgun.

The Mercer county prosecutor's office announced yesterday that ballistics tests of firing pin markings on shells showed the same gun was used to kill a married woman and married man last Sunday and a girl and her married escort at a nearby spot last November.

Mrs. Katherine Werner, 36, mother of two children, and Frank Kasper, 28, an auto mechanic and father of a five-year-old boy, were found dead at the desolate spot in Hamilton township last Sunday.

Victim of the unsolved slaying on election day last year were Mary Mytovich, 16, and Vincenzo Tonzello, 20, both of Trenton.

Before she died at a hospital, the Mytovich girl told police a negro shot her escort when he refused demands for money and that the negro then raped and shot her and fled.

Burgunder Is Back In Death Chamber

FLORENCE, Ark., Oct. 3.—Robert Burgunder, youthful condemned murderer, who has contended since his conviction that he would go to the lethal gas chamber on schedule to "get it over with," was back in death row today, after an unprecedented session before the state supreme court in which he gave assent to an appeal.

Burgunder finally told the justices that he had clouded the appeal situation in the hope of gaining a reprieve.

The youth was suddenly brought to a realization of the seriousness of his predicament by Chief Justice Henry D. Ross, who declared: "If this appeal is dismissed, the judgment of the lower court will be executed next Friday morning."

For Burgunder that meant death in the gas chamber. He almost immediately gave authority for the appeal.

Burgunder was convicted of the slaying of Jack Peterson. He was accused of luring Peterson and another salesman, Ellis M. Koury, to a lonely desert spot last April and killing them.

91 Cases Disposed Of During Last Court Term

Cases disposed of during the recent term of district court here totaled 91, a checkup of the records in District Clerk Walton Morrison's office showed Tuesday. These disposals were in addition to a score or so preliminary orders, etc., entered by District Judge Cecil Collins in connection with other hearings.

Cases wiped off the docket included 56 civil matters, this figure including divorces; 18 tax suits, and 17 criminal cases.

Last order issued in connection with the term which closed Saturday was that granting Virginia Adams a divorce from Melvin Adams.

Judge Collins and District Attorney Martelle McDonald are in Midland, where a term of court was opened Monday.

AMERICANS' DUTIES FOR PEACE TALKED BEFORE ROTARY

The duties of American citizens today in maintaining their democratic freedom, when Europe is at war, were discussed before the Rotary club at its luncheon session at the Settles Tuesday noon by Dr. J. O. Haymes, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Our first duty, said Dr. Haymes, is "to make up our minds that we are going to think with our minds and not with our emotions." We must evaluate every report we read and hear, he said, remembering always that a war cannot be carried on without propaganda, and we must attempt to think with unbiased minds.

American people also must practice the principles of democracy, the speaker said, and they must give the other person the privilege of saying his say, "as long as he says it out in the open."

"We don't have to listen to those with whom we heartily disagree," said Dr. Haymes, "but we must defend their right to voice their views. When you deny freedom of speech and the press you take the first step toward dictatorship."

The minister also urged "let's keep hate out of our hearts—that is, hate for people. We may have certain diabolical principles, but we do not have to hate people."

C. C. Redding of Clarksville, Ark., was a visitor. Other guests of the club were Mrs. Tracy Smith and Mrs. E. M. Conley who made an announcement of the lecture here October 19 of Mrs. Grace Nell Crowell, poet laureate of Texas and named as most outstanding poet here under auspices of the South Ward Parent-Teacher association.

Judge Hears Views Of Child In Murray Custody Case

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Twelve-year-old Koran Mdivani was called upon today to express behind closed doors his views in the court hearing by which his mother, actress Mae Murray, seeks to obtain his custody.

State Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan recessed the public proceeding to hear the boy's own story in his private office after defense counsel announced intention of calling him to the stand.

Miss Murray seeks to obtain custody of Koran, son of Pripes David Mdivani from whom she was divorced in 1933, from Miss Bessie Canning and her brothers, John and Cortland Canning, of nearby Averill Park. The boy has resided with them since January, 1936, when he was taken there to recuperate from a double mastoid operation.

Wrong Kind Of Help

DENVER, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Katie Fay heard a man crying for help, ran from her house with a broom and soundly whacked three men who were beating a fourth.

Just then police arrived. The aggressors said they were bakers who had surprised a thief and captured him after a three-block chase.

By that time, of course, he had fled again.

After A Man's Heart

By JEAN RANDALL

By as he could with safety. Buff felt oddly breathless when she got her own car from the parking lot and drove it toward the big building which housed Neah's modeling office. The delay was sufficient to show her the first party going in at the entrance. She waited until she saw Tim, white and plainly furious, and George, anxious but stern, follow; then she circled the block and turned back toward Boulder.

It was her hour of triumph, but no victor ever experienced less excitement than she. Her very flesh seemed sore and bruised, and her heart, she decided with a gulp of misery, was merely a cold, aching lump in her breast. She wanted nothing but a hot bath and a bed. We'll bring her a tray at supper-time perhaps, and to answer the telephone and doorbell with the information that Miss Carrol was what? Ill? Gone to Lido America? In the hospital at Denver with a fractured skull and critical internal injuries? Anything anything that would keep Neah away!

She hated him as a fellow conspirator in what she now felt to be a piece of treachery on her part. "Be cause, look!" she adjured herself. "Why should I offend all my principles, practically starve and freeze myself, run the risk of being arrested for vagrancy in Denver, miss a couple of motor accidents by a half of a split hair, just to prove to a dumb-bell that he is a dumb-bell? Especially when he'll probably come around and mind brain me when I have proved it."

MARKETS

Wall Street
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The stock market turned around today after a mild preliminary rally and leaders slipped back with gains badly cut or turned into losses of as much as 2 points or more at the finish.

The small runup came shortly after a quiet opening and had about an hour's duration before buying dried up and prices began to slip. There was some recovery from extreme lows before the close. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

European and domestic news held the main interest, and Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the house of commons today was closely studied. An unknown element, leading traders to caution, was the speech Reichsfuehrer Hitler is to deliver late this week, and which some think may contain definite peace terms.

Sweden Has A Problem With Sea Commerce

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sweden strove desperately today to continue her sea commerce and at the same time maintain her precarious neutrality.

As Nazi sailors lightened their grip on the Baltic, apprehensive Swedish officials studied the World War convoy system in those days.

The admiralty ordered all Swedish vessels not to venture into the open sea, but to follow coastal waters. Ships bound for the North sea were expected to pick up convoys off the western coast of Norway.

The order followed upon reports of yesterday that Germany had seized eight Swedish ships and had interfered with a ninth inside Swedish territorial waters.

The admiralty announced today that none of the eight was a Swedish craft, but that five were Finnish, two Estonian and one Norwegian. Four were carrying lumber consigned to England.

The admiralty said one Swedish ship and a sixth Finnish ship had been stopped, but it was not known what happened to them.

German activities have been particularly intense since Sunday between the Swedish islands of Oola and Gotland, a course followed by many ships carrying timber and woodpulp from eastern Sweden to England.

Swedish fighting planes were reported yesterday to have fired warning shots at a German warship which halted one of their boats in Swedish waters. The warship was said to have moved away and permitted the steamer to continue on her course.

When the Panama canal was opened in 1914, many New York newspapers took no notice of the event.

The Polish legation, meanwhile, denied reports the German legation had asked delivery of its archives, and said the government of Poland remained legally constituted.

Bucs Boast An Ideal Eleven

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Take eleven boys who average 171 pounds, among whom are three who run 100 yards in 10 seconds and one who averages 45 yards on his punts—and you have what Breckenridge fans say is a football team due to be around when the at schoolboy championship is decided.

Coach Eck Curtis says little about the team but there are plenty of spokesmen in this oil city who vision Breckenridge's great team—and that would be quite a team because Breckenridge long has been noted for its gridiron aggregations.

Nine lettermen are on the squad but only four were regulars last season. However, those four include Ralph (Gabby) Hamill, a 187-pound halfback who runs with the ball, punts 45 yards and can "thread that needle" with his passes. A depressing note may be added for rival teams that Hamill will have another year after this one.

Ten-Second Man Hamill is a 10-second man and so are Carl Rusk, the fullback, and Melvin Pardue, a 175-pound tackle playing his first season.

And speaking of spirit, Bill Hotman, local newspaperman gives this inkling:

"The boys argue over who is to do the blocking and tackling." For those who know little about football, it can be explained that blocking and tackling are the "drudgery" of the game.

Breckenridge has played two games and run up 101 points. Harold (Spot) Collins, 185-pound guard last season, is the quarterback this year and ranks with Hamill when all-state prospects are mentioned.

Collins, famed as a line-backer, is playing his third year. Edgar Cain, 172-pound halfback.

Soph Duel In Chicago To Be Watched

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two of the country's outstanding sophomore football players — whether they like it or not — will be squarely on the hot spot Saturday when Oklahoma and Northwestern clash at nearby Evanston.

The long-awaited debut of Northwestern's Bill De Correvont, most highly publicized prep player in football history, is set for this battle.

But he might have to take a back seat to another sophomore—Oklahoma's 185-pound Indian, Jack Jacobs, superb punter, passer and runner.

Young De Correvont, also a triple threat and prep sensation at Chicago's Austin High, has been looking better and better in recent workouts.

Jacobs was the outstanding figure in Oklahoma's 7-7 tie with Southern Methodist last week.

It was not a regular last season but is that with plenty to spare this time.

Young Wragg, 171-pound center, is the other letterman who was a first-teamer last season.

Although it has its outstanding stars, the team owes its power to its machine-like play.
