More Letters Are Written In Texas Than During 1941

AUSTIN, Tex. —Despite the summer heat, Texas letter writers are still on the job, as July postal receipts climbed 9.6 per cent above July last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Total receipts for 42 cities during July were $1,683,603, representing the equivalent of 56,120,100 letters each carrying a three cent stamp.

The increase over June was 6.5 per cent.

The gains were seen in all parts of the state, it was shown by reports to the Bureau from chambers of commerce of the 42 Texas cities, the only ones not increasing receipts over July, 1941, being DelRio and El Paso.

Americans Are Finding Religion Professor States

AUSTIN, Tex. —The American people today are again finding religion as a center of unity in their lives, are realizing again their values when they are doing any work that is honorable, they are doing the will of God, Dr. Edmund Heinsohn, pastor of the University Methodist church, told the 500 graduates of the University of Texas at August baccalaureate services.

Dr. Heinsohn pointed out three failures in the national social system and urged the graduates to think of these in the light of what might be done about them by the future leaders of the country.

"First of these is a wide-spread ignorance on the part of the great numbers of people concerning the spirit and meaning of their government. The second is the division between various social, cultural and economic groups," he declared, "while the third fault is the current belief that economic prosperity is more important than anything else in life—ethics, morals or character."

Two Liquor Raids Staged In Ranger

J. W. Morrow, state liquor board agent, and two deputies from Breckenridge, assisted by Ranger police, staged two raids in Ranger Thursday afternoon, it was announced today by Lee Ames, chief of police.

At one place, Ames stated, 35 half pints, 28 pints and six quarts of whiskey were confiscated and at another place 36 family style bottles of beer were obtained.

Investments Are Up In The State

AUSTIN, Tex. —Investment of capital in new Texas corporations rose during July to $827,000, a gain of 50.6 per cent over June and 51.7 per cent over July a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Number of new concerns granted charters by the Secretary of State also rose during July—56 as compared with fifty in June and only 38 in July last year.

Meantime, only four Texas firms encountered commercial failures during July, representing only $20,000 in liabilities, as compared with nine in June and 19 in July a year ago. The firms failing in June had a total liabilities of $186,000, while those bankrupted during July last year had liabilities aggregating $1,339,000.

SEPTEMBER'S BLUE STAMP FOODS LISTED

Blue stamp foods available during September to families using food stamps in Eastland County were announced today by Charles L. Howell, Fort Worth, Area Supervisor for the Agricultural Marketing Administration.

Foods for September are the same as those listed for August except that fresh plums, peaches and oranges, and butter have been removed from the list because conditions do not warrant additional market support for the items at this time. The complete list of blue stamp foods for the period September 1 through September 30 is fresh pears, fresh apples, all fresh vegetables including sweet and Irish potatoes, shell eggs, corn meal, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible pears, wheat flour, enriched wheat flour, self rising flour, enriched self-rising flour, and whole wheat (gram) flour.

Designed to help create necessary new outlets for farm products and enable farmers to increase production, the food stamp program also helps build up the health of the nation by making much needed additional foods available to underprivileged families, Howell pointed out.

Those Seeking a Commission Urged To Join the Army

DALLAS, Tex. —Because married men are now expected to be drafted, an unusual number are applying at the Dallas District Recruiting Induction office, under the command of Colonel Claude K. Rhinehart, looking for commissions direct from civil life, rather than going through the normal channels established for this purpose.

"The proper thing for these men is to enlist in the Army of the United States and immediately find their places," Colonel Rhinehart has directed.

Lieut. Colonel Steffen, Public Relations Officer, to inform the applicants who are besieging the office by personal calls and telephone of the proper procedure to be followed for both those who are commissioning officer material and those who are not.

"There is no doubt, said Colonel Steffen, that these men are to be inducted very soon. It is to their best interest to put their affairs in shape and order."

Commanding officers of all units have been directed by high authority to study all men under their command with a view of appointing those qualified for commissioning to a Volunteer Officers Training School to prepare them for leadership and responsibility.

The questions most frequently asked are: "What are the qualifications for a commission," and "what vacancies exist in the various Arms and Services." This question cannot be answered off-hand. The needs of the various Arms and Services differ, and this question can be more satisfactorily answered after a man has enlisted, arrived at a Reception Center, and has been classified as to his qualifications.

Among the two hundred and fifty speakers, conference leaders and students on the program are Chester Swor, Dean of the Mississippi College, Clinton Mississippi; Mrs. Jessie Burrall Eubank, nationally known youth leader, former head of the department of Religious Education, Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, and contributing editor of the National Geographic Magazine; William Hall Preston, South western Baptist youth leader of Nashville, Tennessee; and Dr. E. D. Head, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Five college presidents will be on the program: Dr. Pat M. Neff, Waco, Baylor University head who is also president of the Southern Baptist Convention; Dr. H. D. Bruce, Marshall, College of Marshall; Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, Brownwood, Howard Payne College; Dr. Gordon G. Singleton, Belton; Dr. W. R. White, Abilene, Hardin-Simmons University.

Rangers Take to the Warpath

Uncle Sam's hard hitting Rangers look for trouble on an "enemy" shore as assault boat carries them in for a landing. Explosions help simulate actual battle conditions. Such rehearsals primed the troops for raid on Dieppe.

Many States To Use Tax Stamps To Register Cars

Many states plan to use tax stamps in 1943 for the registration of motor vehicles, a survey conducted by the Ohio Department of Highways indicates. Standard metal plates are unavailable because the War Production Board has limited metal plates to four square inches.

States planning to use windshield tax stamps, of approximately the same size as the federal $5 use tax stamps now required on all motor vehicles, include Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Nevada, North Dakota, and Oregon. Georgia plans to use tax stamps both on the windshield and the rear window.

Other states now considering motor vehicle tax stamps are: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma and Utah. Texas considered using tax stamps, but its law requires metal plates.

Three states, Florida, Virginia and Wisconsin—plan to use both tax stamps and metal tags.

Small metal year tags to be used with present 1942 plates will be used in Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, West Virginia, Washington, and the District of Columbia. Other states are considering the use of a year tag.

Rhode Island and South Carolina are using one 1942 plate now and reserving the other for 1943. Wyoming's 1943 plates were made before the war limitation on metals. Connecticut has been using permanent aluminum plates since 1937.

Baptist Students To Meet Sept. 4-9

DALLAS, Tex. —Four hundred Baptist students from forty Texas colleges and universities are expected to attend the annual state Baptist Student Union Conference meeting at the Lone Star Camp at Irving, Texas, September 4-9, according to J. W. Bill Marshall, Dallas, State Baptist Student Union Secretary.

Among the two hundred and fifty speakers, conference leaders and students on the program are Chester Swor, Dean of the Mississippi College, Clinton Mississippi; Mrs. Jessie Burrall Eubank, nationally known youth leader, former head of the department of Religious Education, Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, and contributing editor of the National Geographic Magazine; William Hall Preston, South western Baptist youth leader of Nashville, Tennessee; and Dr. E. D. Head, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Bruce, Marshall, College of Marshall; Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, Brownwood, Howard Payne College; Dr. Gordon G. Singleton, Belton; Dr. W. R. White, Abilene, Hardin-Simmons University.

Survivors include Mrs. Landreth, three sons, Jess, Bob and Arthur Landreth, two daughters, Mrs. Wade Stell and Mrs. Roscoe Ford, and several stepchildren.

More Electricity Is Used in State

AUSTIN, Tex. —Industrial use of electric power in Texas rose 15.2 per cent during July, to push consumption to a point 44.2 per cent above July a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced.

Total consumption of electricity in the state in July was 12.2 per cent above June and 20.2 per cent above July 1941. Commercial use was the only bracket that showed a decline, being 50.5 per cent below July, 1941.

Camp Reports a Big Increase in Soldier Weddings

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass. —(UP)—Uncle Sam's soldiers are marching to the altar in increasing numbers and, more often than not, it's the girl friend who decides to take the big step.

According to Lt. John L. Clancy, chaplain of the 181st Division, the girl friend figures that she prefers waiting for her soldier sweetheart as a Mrs. rather than a Miss.

In this big army camp, soldier romances are keeping the chaplain so busy that he already has tied more nuptial knots this year than he did in all of 1941.

Like their fathers before them, soldiers are marrying at a rate nearly double that of peacetime, and as a rule it's with the steady girl friend, says Chaplain Clancy.

From a study of the many couples he has married, he has found that the boom in war time marriages is not the result of high-speed romances, but stems from steady company dating from long before Pearl Harbor.

The chaplain confesses that solving the romantic problems of the soldiers is one of the biggest duties in his 15-hour day.

"They've usually made up their minds when they come to me for advice and my part isn't so important," he declared, "I merely help them to see both sides of the question more clearly."

Accident Victim To Be Buried In Dodds Cemetery

Funeral services for B. K. Landreth, who died in the West Texas Hospital in Ranger as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred between Mingo and Gordon, will be held here after arrival of relatives, with burial in the Dodds Valley cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Landreth were enroute to visit a daughter, Mrs. C. J. Biggs, of Gordon, at the time of the accident. Mrs. Landreth was injured slightly.

Survivors include Mrs. Landreth, three sons, Jess, Bob and Arthur Landreth, two daughters, Mrs. Wade Stell and Mrs. Roscoe Ford, and several stepchildren.

RIOS MAY AIR CHILE'S VIEWS TO ROOSEVELT

By LAWRENCE S. HAAS
United Press Latin American
Editor

NEW YORK, N. Y. (UP)—Admirers of the Good Neighbor policy foresee an era of closer cooperation between Chile and the United States as a result of the official visit of President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile, scheduled for October.

Rios, a follower of democratic principles, accepted an invitation from President Roosevelt to come to the United States, and is expected that the chief executives of the two American republics will hold important conferences at the White House.

The invitation was sent shortly after the return to Washington of Chilean Ambassador Rodolfo Michels, who flew down to his country to explain to his government the state of official and public sentiment with regard to Chile, which is one of the only two Latin-American countries that have not severed diplomatic relations with the Axis. The other is Argentina.

Chilean officialdom apparently has felt that a rupture of relations with the Axis would not necessarily contribute to the benefit of the United Nations cause, and might, on the contrary, add to the already heavy military defense burdens of the Western Hemisphere.

Chile has an extremely long coastline to defend, a small and obsolescent navy, an air force that is anything but strong, and within the country's borders are many thousands of Germans and residents of German descent with definite Nazi leanings and undoubtedly well organized if not secretly armed to undertake dangerous subversive activities.

There is little doubt that should Chile and Argentina, or either, break with the Axis, they would be in a position to crush Axis espionage activities and wipe out the last vestiges of Nazi-Fascist propaganda and intelligence operations in the Western Hemisphere.

A break in relations would thus be of extreme value to hemisphere defense even if no military measures were to be undertaken by the American Republics.

Careful observers of the international situation refrain from predicting that the Rios visit will result in an early break with the Axis. Other circumstances and developments might have a great influence in bringing about a change in Chile's policy.

The torpedoing and sinking of the five Brazilian coastwise steamers, with heavy loss of life has provoked bitter and indignant official and press reaction in Chile as well as well as in most of the other American republics. Chilean officials are watching Brazil's moves in connection with the sinking, and events on the East Coast could have an important bearing on any Chilean action.

Censorship

Perhaps the Office of Censorship looked a little silly, tearing pages out of a national picture magazine after the article in question had been examined and approved in advance of publication.

Probably there was a bit of misunderstanding involved. But actually the censors were following a consistent course which had been thoroughly considered and which is not illogical.

That course depends upon the theory that censorship in wartime divides into two dissimilar functions. This one is defensive designed to prevent the domestic dissemination of war secrets which might be smuggled out to axis capitals. The other is offensive—designed to beat Germany in the contest for Latin American co-operation.

Apparently there was some mixup as to whether Canada is domestic or foreign. Perhaps the nature of the censored article placed in on the borderline in determining whether Canada should see it.

The article in question painted a gloomy picture of Detroit's war production and discussed such causes for the trouble as the bitter hatred between employers and unions; the Coughlin-Smith-Ku Klux Klan influence; the serious housing shortage; and the inadequacy of raw materials supplies.

Mr. Price has not told us, but we have reason to believe that for domestic use he would welcome the telling of such unpleasant truths to keep us on our toes, to prick our complacency, to needle us into correcting the maladjustments and doing a better job.

In any event, it is his expressed belief that unless such materials betrays to the axis war secrets that otherwise might be kept, it is no business of censorship to interfere with its publications.

For export purposes, however, news is conceived of as a valuable weapon in total warfare.

There is a keen contest between Germany and the United States to determine just how wholeheartedly Latin America shall co-operate with the United Nations. One immediate prize, of course, is Chile's decision whether to declare war on the axis.

Rightly or wrongly, the Office of Censorship is determined to see that no articles shall be sent to Latin America which by their pessimism, might help Germany to convince the Latinos that our cause is lost and that the sister republics should play ball with the winners.

That is why many news stories which are passed unhesitatingly for domestic use are clipped from publications mailed abroad.

Japs who take a look at their navy these days only see all of it.

THE PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Things are so tough with the Philadelphia Nationals that Gerry Nugent can't even sell anybody.

Not that he hasn't anyone to peddle, for in the spring he could have collected plenty of cash for Pitches Tommy Hughes, Rube Melton, Johnny Podgajny and Frank Hoerst and Outfielder Danny Litwiler.

Attendance and the future of professional baseball being what they are, Owner Nugent no doubt is sorry he didn't make a sale that would have bailed him out, especially in the case of Flychaser Litwiler, whose batting average tumbled from the .305 of last year to .276.

But major league clubs are not paying boxcar figures for athletes at the moment, although promising recruits are so scarce in the minors that President Nugent himself is participating in the search for someone capable of improving the Phils' position, which happens to be 46 1/2 games off the pace.

The situation is so bad that Honus Lobert will be satisfied if the Phils finish the season.

When Gee Walker knocked out

Bob Lobert for 10 minutes in a plate collision in Cincinnati, Hans Lobert saw himself without a catcher. Stony Livingston had been called to Newberry, S. C., by the illness of his wife.

So Manager Lobert called for volunteers. Danny Murtaugh and Merrill May, infielders, spoke up immediately. Then Shortstop Bobby Bragan remarked that he had caught for an American Legion team and in high school.

Being the only one who had had actual experience, Bragan got the job.

In his first National League start behind the plate, Bragan caught Earl Naylor, an outfielder being converted into a pitcher, and they beat Bucky Walters and the Reds, 4-2.

"Lonnie Frey attempted to steal in the first inning, and Bragan threw him out by 10 feet," explains Pilot Lobert. "The Reds took no more liberties with Bobby. Bragan's catching action is remarkable. He likes to catch, handles pitchers well, has the arm and judgment. He hustled like a blazer, but did not cover enough ground at shortstop.

"Perhaps we have something in Bragan, the catcher.

"Anyway, we can't be any worse than we were."

A FULL scale modern war—the Battle of Midway—has at last been filmed in Technicolor. It took a Hollywood ace to do it—John Ford, the man who directed "Grapes of Wrath," "The Informer" and other prize pictures. He is Lieut.-Com. John Ford now, having given up his several-thousand-dollars-a-week salary for the Navy pay of several thousand dollars a year and the right to wear a uniform with gold braids on it. But he has shown that actual battle can be recorded as a moving picture, and this Battle of Midway film will probably be rated as one of his greatest. Dive bombers race toward the earth and drop their loads or are hit by the anti-aircraft guns and crash in flames. Naval vessels get hit, shells explode, men are wounded, killed. It is real war, for civilian consumption.

Edson

Commander Ford is working out at the Department of Agriculture film laboratory, editing his film, waiting for the Navy brass hats to make up their minds as to how it shall be released. The Navy both does and does not want to sponsor it. If the Navy doesn't sponsor it, maybe Office of War Information or somebody else will. While the bureaucrats wrangle, the public is being kept from what is probably good propaganda medicine for domestic and foreign consumption.

THE war Ford got into this picture makes an interesting story. The idea of putting Ford into the Navy with a Hollywood camera crew was Ford's, but when he couldn't sell it to the Navy, he sold it to Col. William J. Donovan's old outfit, the Office of the Co-ordinator of Information. With Donovan backing, Ford was permitted to let his crew be enlisted in the Naval Reserve. That was supposed to be quite a concession, for many of the detail didn't know an anchor from a marlinpike, and to give such people the rating of a chief petty officer was against all the rules, and supposedly quite disrupting to Navy morale. Also, the Navy was against having people who were just supposed to take pictures and do nothing else. What the Navy wanted was people who could also stand watch or man a gun or maybe even swab a deck.

Finally all these objections were overcome and the Ford crew was mustered into service. Playing a pure hunch, Commander Ford and his men got permission to go to Midway. When the Japs came over in their big effort early in June, there were the cameramen on the job to grind away.

In the three-day battle the fancy sailors from Hollywood stood around and took it. They were put on land when the Jap bombers came over, they rode in American planes on bombing mis-

Health Checkup on School Children Is Being Urged

AUSTIN, Tex. —The State Health Department urges all parents to have their children undergo a thorough physical examination before entering school next month.

The importance of such examinations can not be over-emphasized according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who declares that the health of a child has a direct bearing on his progress in school.

It is advisable to have school children examined several days or even weeks before school begins," Dr. Cox asserted, "so that minor ailments can be corrected and any possible serious ones placed under treatment."

Dr. Cox also advised parents to take their children to a dentist for a thorough dental check-up and cautioned that an examination of the eyes be not neglected.

"In the old days it was considered only necessary to have school children provided with necessary books and some new fall clothing," Dr. Cox said, "but today we recognize that it more important to be sure that his health has been properly safeguarded."

Immunization for protection against communicable disease should be effected before a child enters school, where he spends most of his time indoors with a large group of children, which facilitates the spread of infectious diseases. The student who has been immunized and whose health is under the observation of the family physician, whose eyes have been examined for corrective treatment, and whose teeth have been cared for by a competent dentist stands a much better chance of success in school than does the student who is handicapped by one or more physical defects.

Girl, 11, Gives Her Hair To War Effort

MILTON, Mass. (UP) — Little Judith Grosse gave the war effort a lift by having her hair cut.

When the 11 year old heard that blond hair was used in the manufacture of vital precision instruments, such as gyrographs, she had a barber clip her 12-inch tresses and turned them over to civilian defense officials.

Now she holds a certificate testifying her contribution to the war.

A Single Phone Call Organizes A Crash Alarm

MINTER FIELD, Cal. (UP)—A new crash alarm system whereby a single telephone call places every department into emergency action has been developed at the Air Force basic flying school here.

Crash reports, received either by phone or radio from another plane, are relayed immediately to a dispatcher, who takes down all information and rings the post operator on special line.

The operator in turn presses a master switch which rings 10 phones simultaneously, setting up a crash alarm conference. All parties on the line automatically are disconnected from other calls and hear only the operator repeating "Crash, crash, crash."

When a light indicator shows that all 10 operator cuts in the dispatcher, who gives details of the accident, simultaneously. Ambulances, fire equipment, flight and operation officers, the guard, the control tower, public relations men and photographers are thus routed to assigned rescue and press-contact work in less than five minutes time.

SERIAL STORY

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

BY BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kinsey is secretary to the president of an airplane factory. Her employer is sending her to the factory's west coast branch to investigate a "leak" in the organization. Boarding a westbound plane Judith sees Tom Burke, whom she loves and with whom she has quarreled. Tom is also bound for the west coast factory with plans for a new bomber. Before the plane leaves Judith sees two men watching Tom intently.

CHAPTER II

"COMFORTABLE!" inquired the air hostess, bending over Judith and smiling pleasantly.

"Oh, yes," she answered cheerfully, even though she felt depressed at the moment.

The pretty girl turned to the man across the aisle and repeated her questions. Judith started at the sound of his voice. He spoke with a heavy accent, gruffly, as if he resented being bothered. When the hostess passed on, he looked at Judith. She smiled, and for a moment it seemed he would not return her greeting. Then he grinned, breaking the stern expression of his face. But his eyes did not smile, only his mouth. Judith had heard of cold-blooded people and now, she was sure, she had met one.

"You like flying?" he asked, and his voice made her think of someone with a mouth full of mush.

"I think it is the only way to travel," she answered. She decided if the man thought she was easy to talk to, then she would not be taking too great a risk in speaking to Burke later and warning him to watch out for this fellow.

After a moment the man in the seat in front of her craned his neck to look at her. She tried the same winsome smile on him and it worked.

"Everybody on this plane will believe I am an easy pickup," she told herself. "But so much the better." She instantly averted her eyes and looked out the window.

As the miles flew swiftly by, Judith thought over the situation. "Those men watching Tom know about the plans he is carrying. The blond one is a foreigner, and the one to fear. I don't know about the heavy man in front of me. He may be just a curious passenger."

She opened her purse and felt the small automatic there. Then her hand came in contact with a tiny package. She pulled it out to have a look and her eyes widened.

"Ye fishes!" she thought. "Helen's sleeping medicine she had me buy for her this morning. She lifted her eyes and looked at the back of the man's head in front of her."

"If he should make trouble and I got the chance, I could put him to sleep with this." She smiled at her childish plan and dropped the package back in her purse. She was supposed to be an intelligent investigator, not a silly girl.

SHE turned again to stare at Tom's seat and as she did, he turned his head and glanced backward. His dark eyes met hers in astonishment. A bright gleam flickered in them and died as she chose to ignore him.

He faced the front abruptly and she smiled, satisfied with the turn of events. The man across the aisle grinned at her, thinking probably that she had tried to flirt with the young man and been snubbed.

"At least, Tom knows I am aboard the ship. That will give him something to think about," she decided.

At sundown the hostess informed each passenger the next stop would be half an hour and there was an airport cafe if anyone cared to have a bite. Shortly after that, a light in the front of the ship flashed "Please fasten safely belts."

Judith was lighting a cigaret, when a hand was put to her elbow and she was pushed toward the plane.

runway without a bounce, taxied back to the building and rolled to a stop. Judith was the first passenger off. But she lingered nearby to give Tom Burke an opportunity to reach the cafe first.

She followed him in and sat down at the counter next to his stool. "Please continue to be indifferent, but listen to me," she whispered as the other two men took places at the far end of the counter by the door.

Burke turned his head and stared at her serious face. There was inquiry in the lift of his brows and disturbing sparks in his eyes that made her heart beat unevenly. He toyed with the glass of water before him while he asked from the corner of his mouth:

"Why are you here, Judith?"

"On business—not following you," she said curtly.

"Oh!" The way he said the word was maddening.

"You're horrid, Tom," she said, her cheeks burning. "Mr. Watson is sending me to the coast to check on the office force there. But that's beside the point. I'm sure one or both of those men at the end of the counter are interested in you or the plans of that bomber. I thought you might like to know."

But he did not bother to glance where she indicated. "One sits behind you and the other across the aisle."

Between bites of food he said, "Thanks for the warning, darling. I more than appreciate your interest." There was a twinkle in his eyes that infuriated her.

"I don't want anything to happen to the plans," she said sweetly.

He deliberately turned and grinned at her. He was so much better looking when he smiled. She gave her stool a spin and slid to the floor. Without a backward glance she walked to the cashier, paid her check and left the cafe, red head in the air.

SHE paused outside the ship to have a smoke in the crisp evening air. She was just lighting it when a hand was put to her elbow and the cigaret taken from her mouth. Before she realized what was happening, she was pushed into the cabin of the plane. "Just what do you know about the plans and who told you it was a secret?" Tom's voice was low and his hand was warm and firm on her arm.

"Mr. Watson told me. He thinks there is a leak in the company and I'm on my way to investigate the office force at the factory." She looked squarely into his face, chin up. "Something tells me the foreigner knows you have the plans."

"Well, don't worry your beautiful little head, honey," he told her, and his own head bent towards hers.

She stepped back instantly. "I am merely minding my job," she said cuttingly and sat down.

"Then I'll ignore you." Burke moved on to his place, but turned and looked back at her before he sat down. Their gaze met and held until Judith pulled her eyes away.

"Oh!" she breathed to herself angrily. "He knows I don't hate him and he's trying to make me admit it. Well, I can be just as stubborn as Tom Burke."

She picked up her purse to repair her make-up.

"You are a fast eater, young lady." She looked up quickly to see the heavy-set man pausing by her chair. "Or maybe you were not hungry."

"I can eat when there is no flying to be done," she replied pleasantly.

"Or a young man to flirt with?" he grinned knowingly.

"He won't flirt with me," she remarked and pouted her lips. She spoke loudly and her voice reached Tom Burke. He turned and scowled at them both, playing his role well. "See what I mean?"

The large man nodded with an understanding wink and sat down. The other passengers took their places, and in a moment the voice of the hostess came to Judith's ears from outside. There was curious concern in the tone. "Changing co-pilots? What happened to Bill?"

Judith did not hear the answer but she turned to see the two flyers come through the door and make their way to the control room up front. As they passed her an uneasy feeling swept over her like a warning.

Peanut Growers of Wilson County Get Problem Solved

FIORVILLE.—The best way to get something done about the labor shortage is to do it your self.

Evidently, that's the theory Wilson County peanut growers used when they set about solving the labor problem which threatened to impede the Food for Victory peanut production program.

Under the leadership of the County U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board and its chairman, A. D. Richardson, Wilson county farmers have organized a number of small informal cooperatives to thresh this year's record peanut crop of 45,000 acres. Richardson believes at least thirty such cooperatives, with from ten to fifteen members each, will be formed.

In return for a pledge by co-op members to conserve their tires to the utmost, L. F. Spruce, chairman of the Wilson County War Price and Ration Board, agreed that the public interest demanded that the board do its best to provide the necessary tires for the harvest.

The basic idea behind the co-ops is as old as farming—farmers banding themselves together to exchange their own labor and to harvest all their crops. Since it takes about fifteen men to make up a crew for a peanut thresher, generally the co-ops have about that many members. In that way, the members can do the work without having to hire any outside labor.

The first peanut-threshing co-op was organized at a meeting of growers in the Sunnyside community. The growers elected a secretary who will keep a record of the time put in on each farm to and the amount and kind of work each growers does. Other agreements included provisions that the work of each member be done on an hourly basis, that time be stopped after a thirty-minute forced stop or break down of the thresher, and that each member bring his own dinner to the job.

Commenting on the co-op plan as operated in Wilson county, B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War Board, declared: "cooperative steps, such as this action by Wilson county farmers, can go a long way towards solving the farm labor shortage which could do serious damage to the Food for Freedom program."

"The growers of Wilson county, and especially Mr. Richardson, have shown their farsightedness and have exercised their initiative of the time put in on each farm to ened both their incomes and agriculture's war effort. If the Department of Agriculture made awards for excellence in the War effort, I feel sure that Wilson County would receive one."

Four Big Free Shows To Boost Bond Sales

FIRST ONE TO BE SATURDAY NIGHT AT 9:30

Members From Medical Corps At Camp Barkley, Abilene, Will Compose The Cast.

It is announced by a committee, headed by Cecil Barham, that during the next few weeks Eastland is to have four big outdoor shows, the talent being picked from members of the military units now stationed at the various nearby army camps. This city is not unfamiliar with the success but recently scored by like performances held at the Connellee theatre, and will therefore doubtless welcome a return of this form of attraction.

The difference in the plans for this series of entertainment from those previously shown, however, lies in the fact that the forthcoming performances will be given out of doors and from the south side of the courthouse where a temporary stage will be built, and lighting effects installed. There will be no charge for admission. The street will be roped off and seats erected such as used for political speakers and other public gatherings.

The first of these "Big Bond Shows" will be staged this coming Saturday night, August 29th, the performance starting at 9:30 o'clock.

The announcement of such a program of entertainment will undoubtedly bring out a large crowd as there is no admission charge.

These four performances will be put on in the interest of Eastland's War Bond Drive, and during the evening young ladies will pass through the audience and offer War Bonds and Stamps to all

The Methodist Broadcaster Weekly News of First Methodist Church

J. Daniel Barron, Editor Eastland, Texas

FIRST SERVICE

The first service of worship at eleven o'clock will have as its theme "The Accomplishment of the Heart." Join the large congregation and enjoy this service.

SECOND SERVICE

"Isaac—Man of Peace" will be the pastor's subject in the second service of worship at eight in the evening. You will like the beautiful twilight service.

MYFATNINE

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will have its forum and fellowship service on the parsonage lawn at nine Sunday evening, immediately following the second service.

YOUTH PLAY

The intermediate youth will play on the parsonage lawn from 8-10 Monday evening and the senior youth from 8-10 Wednesday evening.

YOUNG ADULT FELLOWSHIP

The church is offering its young adults (those under 35, married and single) an opportunity to form and carry on an organization which may desire to purchase them. It is hoped that every one will see fit to buy at least a stamp of some denomination from ten cents up.

Those comprising the cast that will stage the first performance here, are members of the Medical Corps from Camp Barkley and from reports of those who have seen the show it is a good one.

There is no expense incurred by the local committee other than the transportation to and from Camp Barkley of the members of the troupe and this will be borne by the Interstate Theatres of which Mr. Barham is local manager.

organized group among themselves. While the response to this enterprise has been less than anticipated, the church continues to invite this group of its young adults to avail themselves of its opportunities. The pastor has been teaching the membership still they found them a permanent teacher. This fellowship will be the one which the men in military service naturally will belong when they return home. Every church ought to have its program and organization in operation.

CHOIRS MEET

The Beginner Choir meets at 9:30 and the Junior Choir Friday morning.

WORLD SERVICE

When you contribute to the $751 World Service offering of your church for this year, here are some of the things you do: You aid missions and church extension in America and in fifty countries of the world. Your gift preaches the gospel in 125 languages and dialects, supports 731 foreign missionaries and the schools, colleges, hospitals, missions, and churches, through which they are serving.

When you contribute to World Service, furthermore, you invest in guiding the future, educating young Christians in 40,000 church schools, helping maintain the service of 121 schools, colleges and universities. You also help support nine theological schools of your church which train ministers and enable your church to continue their training. You likewise aid your church in making small provision for dire necessities of its needy retired clergymen, their widows and orphans. In addition to all these things, you help maintain 83 Methodist hospitals, 49 homes for children, 46 homes for aged, 24 homes for working young men and women. Finally, you help the cause of world peace, temperance, and the world-wide distribution of the Bible. Where can you give a dollar today and spread its good works farther than by investing it in Methodist World Service?

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

If you are not attending the services of your church you are missing more than you have a right to deny yourself. You are with holding more from yourself. Every time you miss, you miss. What you miss can never be gained: You live forever without it.

EXCUSES

Some of you soon will be invited to take a position of leadership in the church school. You will find it easy to excuse yourself. You will find it rewarding if you accept the place of opportunity and measure up to it by a steady and efficient application of yourself to it. The most pitiable thing in the world is a half-hearted church school teacher who slights the work. This service requires continuous training and study and application. You ought to respond not to a small job but to a challenging task, for that is what any position in the church school is.

Our board of education ought to meet monthly. So ought our Adult Council. So ought the Fellowship Councils of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. So ought the Board of Missions. So ought the Children's Council. So ought the organized classes in business session. Without these administrative and planning agencies, the activities of the several groups drift; with them, they drive. What do you say that during the coming year we tackle the task of doing the work right? It will be fun.

SEPTEMBER PROGRAM

During September the church will be doing these among other things: Perfecting its church school organization for 1942-43. Receiving its many prospective new members. Completing its World Service offering. Increasing attendance in its school and worship services. Resuming a full program of work in its Society of Christian Service. Keeping expenses paid.

COUPONS FOR CLASS

The Martha Loreas Class lacks about 60 Magnolia Coffee coupons having enough to secure needed kitchen equipment. Anyland.

NEW MEMBERS

There are forty or fifty Methodist families in Eastland who one having these coupons will favor this class by turning them in. Send them either to Mrs. George E. Cross or Mrs. Claude Strickought to be affiliated with this church. Will you find the one nearest to you and let them know your church would be happy to give them a church home? Invite them to join.
