Muleshoe Sales Tax Rebate Up For Years' Period

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday sent checks totaling $38.9 million to 967 Texas cities as their share of the one-percent city sales tax for July.

"These monthly rebates, and the retail sales they represent, continue to show increases over last year," Bullock said. The Comptroller pointed out that for the first seven months of 1982, sales tax collections are running 14.4 percent ahead

Muleshoe's net payment for this period was $9,304 .-81, down from the $10,290 of the comparable payment in 1981. Total 1982 payments to date for Muleshoe and Bailey County however reflect a 1.67 percent change with $105,024,99 for July this year as compared to $103,301.66 for 1981 payments. In Castro County, which has three towns reporting, the 1982 net July payment was $9,466.66; down from the 1981 figure of $11,340. Total 1982 payments to date reached $93,028,73, a minus 3.26 percent from the 1981 payments at the same time last year of $96,164.87. Dimmitt's total check was $7,648.29, Hart's $771.23 and Nazareth, $1.-047.14 for the payment period ending July 7, 1982.

With two towns in Cochran County, the county total cities sales tax for the July period in 82 was $3,-732.12, up from the same time last year of $1,780. Total 1982 payments to date are $31,012.30, up from the $28,592.54, a reflected change of 8.46 percent. Morton's net payment this period was $2,244.80 and the second town of Whiteface showed $1,487 .-32 for the period.

In Deaf Smith County with only the town of Hereford, net payments for the July period were $23,565 .-07, slightly lower than the $23,930 comparable payment from the prior 1981 period. Total 1982 payments to date for Hereford are $258,906.11, down by a minus 0.54 percent from

The Board of Trustees of the Muleshoe Independent School District met on July 19, employing and approving four new personnel: Lilly Snitker as the bilingual teacher at Mary DeShazo, who is a recent graduate of Texas Tech. She is married and lives at Enochs and was formerly employed as a teacher aid at Three Way. Also hired was Sue Mader as homemaking teacher at high school. A former graduate of Kent State University, Mader has completed certification requirements at ENMU. She is married and has three children. Stephanie Barrett has been employed as a math teacher at Junior High. She is a former graduate of Muleshoe and a recent graduate of Eastern New Mexico University with a degree in secondary mathematics. She is married and lives in the school district. Also hired was Pat Cox as a teacher aide in special education at Muleshoe Junior High. She is married and lives in Muleshoe. She and her husband Paul, have three children.

Resignations were accepted by the board for Jenny Oliver, Mollie Deg-Margaret Teaff. Donna Black and Pam Hancock.

Superintendent Harold Horne presented the initial draft of the total school budget and the total expenditure for all funds is $4,-103,220. For the first time, the budget must include food service and school activity funds. No action was taken and the Board announced a date of August 9 for a required public hear-

Wheat Insurance Deadline September

Wheat growers interested in All-Risk insurance for their 1983 crops should contact their insurance agent as soon as possible, according to F. W. "Ted" Crouch, Jr., All-Risk Insurance Field Operations Di-

Although the deadline to obtain wheat insurance isn't until September 15, Crouch suggests three reasons why growers should begin making their plans now. First, early consideration will provide additional time to develop a program of insurance coverage that best meets the individual policy-holder's needs.

Secondly, it can be useful to farmers to have their insurance arranged before they visit with their lenders about production loans. Insurance helps to minimize the uncertainty involved in the year-ahead cash flow projections that many lenders today require.

Third, an early application allows additional time for growers to verify yield records that may enable them to qualify for increased insurance protection.

Horne also gave the current tax collection report which indicated that 90 percent of the taxes have been collected from the current tax roll. This compares to 93 percent collected at this time last year. The board approved changes in the tax roll.

Herbert Brasher gave plans for the renovations of the high school, including energy conservation measures of insulation, lowered ceilings, rest room renovation, window closings, a new HVAC system, and a new roof. The board authorized the advertisement

Also announced was the board's endorsement of Kathee Lupton, board member from Shallowater ISD, as a candidate for the executive board of the Texas Association of School Boards.

In the Superintendent's report, a letter from the Education Service Center was presented stating that the Muleshoe ISD Board of Trustees was selected from nominations as the Outstanding School Board representing all the school districts in the entire region. The nomination is now in Austin where the board will be competing for the same award with other districts throughout the

Cotton Council To Help Farmers

While officials at the National Cotton Council in Memphis could not give any specific names of US-DA officials who will be involved with the farmer oriented meetings scheduled around this area next week, Emmett Robinson, Communications Coordinator for the NCC did promise that farmers would be given information which would enable them to bypass and not be caught up in the "red tape" which may be involved in getting their farm disaster payments.

"We will be explaining the procedures for computation of disaster payments due to farmers, as well as the procedures used when a farmer might not have a total loss on his crops," said Robinson.

The meeting which has been set up to explain details of the disaster assistance program to farmers will be held in Muleshoe on July 27, Tuesday, at the Civic Center Beginning at 2:30 p.m. according to National Cotton Council President, Ed Breihan of Lubbock and State Unit Chairman Rufus Grisham, also of Lubbock. The program will be conducted by teams of council staff members and representatives of the U.S. Department of Agriculture as well as local industry leaders. While the Muleshoe ASCS and ag of-

83 Wheat Program 'Loser'For Farmers

Texas Farmers Union President Mike Moeiler said today the proposed 19-83 wheat set-aside program proposed by the Reagan Administration "is telling the cancer patient to take two aspirin to cure the disease." Moeller said that while the disaster payments to producers who have been hard hit by natural disasters will be beneficial, "it is only temporary relief. It treats the symptoms of low prices but provides no actual cure for the economic depression of the farm sector.

Under the terms announced by Secretary of Agriculture John Block on July 14, wheat farmers who sign up for a voluntary 20 percent set-aside will be eligible for half their 1982 deficiency payment, estimated at $.25 per bushel.

In Texas, 60 counties are currently eligible to receive disaster payments as a result of the administration's decision on July 15 to declare the Texas Panhandle and South Plains a disaster area. Hail, high winds, flooding and cold weather have resulted in a loss between 50 to 100 percent of the cotton, wheat and feed grain crops in these areas plus other counties in New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Concerning the proposed wheat set-aside program, Moeller said "the USDA is telling the nation as well as farmers that their farm programs are not working." Those estimates by the USDA translate into an average 1983 wheat price of $3.80, far below current costs of production. The most recent figures indicated the parity level for wheat was $7.30 per bushel (USDA-June 1982). "For the fourth year in a row farmers are being told they are going to lose money on their wheat crop as well as on other commodities." Moeller stated. "Instead of having a good Cent. on Page 6, Col. 3 years experience in the field has been hired to teach the new auto body repair program beginning this fall at South Plains College here.

Joe Beesinger, body shop foreman for Levelland's three major car dealerships, will teach the fivesemester program, which focuses on straightening damaged auto parts, painting techniques, damage estimating, glass installation, welding, shop math, and human relations.

"I've taught numerous body repairmen the tricks of the trade in the 33 years I've been in the business," explained Beesinger, a Levelland resident since 1959. "The SPC program offers students the chance both to learn the basics about tools and equipment in a classroom setting and then work on actual damaged vehi-

He noted there is a current shortage of auto body repairmen, who consistently earn good high wages on a commission basis.

SPC recently purchased a Korek complete body/frame collision repair system manufactured by Blackhawk. The system features multiple pulls, multiple anchoring and hookups, reverse direction and sequence.

"When fully equipped, the system will be able to handle unibody type z cars, front wheel drive, and foreign made; we'll be able to handle total auto body repair," explained Bill Richards, chairman of SPC's occupational training division and professor of machine

Beesinger has come to SPC very highly recommended and respected throughout the South Plains area for his work in the auto body repair field," said Richards. "He has been employed by the three major car dealerships in Levelland, so he's been exposed to a wide variety of experiences; that qualifies Mr. Beesinger as an excellent person for the job, I feel," he added.

Beesinger will attend a four-day advanced training seminar Aug. 10-24 in Milwaukee, Wis. on the latest trends in the industry, such as unibody repairs, noted

Apparently the SPC auto body repair program is the only postsecondary program of its kind anywhere on the South Plains. "We feel that our modern, upto-date equipment, plus Mr. Beesinger's experience and expertise, will help auto body repair develop into a superior program," he

Starting out as a 17-year old helper for a Lubbock body shop, Beesinger progressed to body man at Modern Chevrolet in Lubbock and later shop foreman at Gentry Ford (10 years), Frontier Dodge, five years; and the past nine years at West Chevrolet.

Beesinger has long been active in the community, serving as civil defense director for Hockley County, volunteer fireman for 18 years, reserve deputy at the sheriff's department for nearly five years, and a longtime amateur radio op-

He and his wife, Elda, have four children, daughters, Debra, Brenda and Pamela, all SPC alumni, and a son, Danny, oldest of the Beesinger clan.

Richards eyes the program not only as a training ground for young people, but also as a springboard for retraining older repair-"The industry is changing so rapidly, with the switch to smaller, unitized cars, that many veterans in the business may be unfamiliar with some of the latest sophisticated equipment, such as, work with fiberglass and plastic." said Richards. "We feel we will be able to turn out a graduate with the basics in all these areas."

Auto body repair, auto machine shop and the machinist programs are housed together in SPC's new metals technology building.

Courses will include auto body repair I, an introduction to auto body repair and painting techniques, procedures for removing minor dents, welding and introduction to the refinishing process; auto body repair II, intermediate body repair techniques such as welding, body filling, glass removal and replacement, straightening fenders and body panels; auto body repair III, major auto body repair techniques stressing fender panel, quarter panels, hood, minor frame repairs; and auto body repair IV, advanced techniques, including advanced frame straightening and alignment, skills for handling extensive fiberglass repair, advanced use of tools and equipment in repairing unit bedy and frame repairs, along with principles of business management, customer relations and other topics.

farm program which provides incentives to producers, we are going to see another year of low commodity prices, continued high interest rates and escalating production costs. Disaster payments were definitely needed this year, but what is really needed is a legitimate farm program," the TFU president

The TFU and the bipartisan Farm Crisis Group in Congress are supporting a mandatory set-aside with paid diversions following approval in a nationwide referendum. This would reduce the existing large surpluses while helping drive up prices on commodities. According to the Congressional Budget Office, such a plan would actually save the government over $900 million over the next four

Regarding the disaster payments of $400 million in Texas, Moeller said "it will be a shot in the arm for hard pressed cotton, wheat and feed grain farmers who have suffered from these natural disasters. The conditions are so bad financially for some producers that they are trying to jump out of the basement

Unless major changes are made in the farm program this year to reduce surpluses and increase the prices farmers receive for their crops, "we are going to see a record number of family farmers forced into bankruptcy or simply out of business," Moeller stated.

agencies may select local hunting season dates and options.

Species included in the early season proposals are mourning doves, whitewinged doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, woodcock, common snips, and gallinules; teal in portions of the Mississippi and Central flyways during September; sea ducks in designated areas of the Atlantic Flyway; experimental duck seasons in Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, and Tennessee in September; and sandhill cranes in portions of the Central and Pacific Flyway. The proposal includes an option for a falconry season in certain states meeting federal falconry standards.

Changes being proposed for this group of birds include a basic nationwide mourning dove season framework of 70 days with 12 birds daily and 24 in possession, with an option for a 45-day season with limits of 15 and 30, respectively. In south Texas, a 4-day white-winged dove season is contemplated. In Florida, 4 white - winged doves may be taken during the mourning dove season as part of the regular bag limit. A breeding white winged dove population has developed in Florida from birds that escaped from a propagator several years

The annual ground survey of breeding woodcock indicated a 20 percent decline from 1981 in the Eastern Region. Blame has been placed on a severe April blizzard and lingering snow cover that is believed to have killed many breeding birds. Thus, a delay until October 5 is propsoed for opening the woodcock season in Atlantic Flyway States.

Numerous changes are proposed in the Sandhill crane frameworks for portions of the Central Flyway in terms of hunting areas, season frameworks, and season lengths. These extensions based on increased crane numbers and improved information on crane biology, migration, and habitat use, implement some of the objectives of the Mid-Continent Sandhill Crane Management Plan.

Two experimental seasons are proposed for sand-

The USDA quarantine laboratory at Temple, Texas is designed and equipped to receive shipments of beneficial living insects and other plantfeeding arthropods from foreign countries.

It is the newest one of five in the U.S. which contain quarantine greenhouses for the conduct of research, using living plants. Approval for operation was granted in June 1981, after an on-site inspection by the Plant Protection and Quarantine Program of Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (USDA, APHIS).

The objectives of this facility are to: 1) hold and rear exotic organisms while conducting scientific research; 2) remove undesirable pest insects, parasites, and pathogens from imported material: and 3) distribute parasite and disease free beneficial insects to entomologists and weed scientists for futher study and release.

Current research projects include studies of the biology and host specificity of potential biological control agents of rangeland weeds.

County Agents Plan Statewide Meeting

Discussions aimed at professional improvement will be among highlights of the annual meeting of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association in Tyler August 1-4.

Headquarters for the event, which should attract some 400 county agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, will be the Sheraton Inn of Tyler, points out Rayford Kay, TCAAA president and Harris County Agent.

Among featured speakers during the four-day program will be U. S. Rep. Ralph'M. Hall of the 4th Congressional District, who will address the Distinguished Service Awards Luncheon Monday noon; Dr. Perry L. Adkisson, deputy chancellor for agriculture, Texas A&M University System, who will speak during the special awards luncheon Tuesday noon; and Frank W. Naylor Jr., under secretary of agriculture for Small Communities and Rural Development, who will address the Tuesday evening banquet.

Dr. Zerle Carpenter, meats researcher who will assume duties as director of the Extension Service September 1, will speak during the Wednesday morning general session.

In addition, five key representatives of Texas commodity organizations will address the conference. They include Don King, secretary-general manager for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association; Carrol Chaloupka

Another highlight of the meeting will be the recognition of seven outstanding county agents at a noon luncheon on Monday, August 2. Honored as recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, the highest award given by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents, will be Joe E. Wise of Dawson County; Odis A. Lowe, Rockwall; Joseph L. Winstead, Brewster-Jeff Davis; Rayford A. Cagle, Burnet; Billy M. McCutchen, Milam; Edmundo E. Martinez, Zapata; and Vernor E.

Bippert, Wilson. In addition, Gary Bomar, Camp County, will be honored as the recipient of the National Achieve ment Award, designating him as the top county agent in Texas with less than 10 years of service.

The first day of the meeting will be devoted to registration, a memorial service, a reception for retired agents and their wives, golf and bass tournaments, and a session for officers and directors. A rose tour is planned for the following day, along with other special activities for wives and children.

A host of special awards will be presented at the Tuesday noon luncheon. Special recognition will be given to county agents for excellence in result demonstration handbooks, public information, and several other program areas. Agents who have retired during the past year will also be recognized.

A reception for "Man of the Year" award winners and recipients of the Distinguished Service Award and Achievement Award will precede the Tuesday evening banquet.

On Wednesday morning, the program will conclude with the installation of new officers and directors.

Firefighters,

At the Wednesday night meeting, firemen discussed equipment, the upcoming Mule-Arama, the weather and for five firemen, the excitement is building toward Saturday when they will travel to College Station and the 53rd Annual Fireman's Training School. This is the largest school of its kind in the United States. They will participate with some 3000 other trainees in eighteen different fields of training and instruction. These people will represent some 80 cities, from 26 states, some provinces and other countries. Also, over 450 highly qualified, experienced instructors and speakers will see to it that each man gets a full thirty hours training in his course. This is very good training, and hard work, but safety and concern for one's town or community are two things firefighting

Even a tiny pebble leaves behind an ever-widening circle of ripples when it is cast into the water. Every act of our lives also leaves behind it an ever-widening circle of after-effects in the lives of others. Children are especially subject to the power of others in their tender, formative years, and thus we parents want the best possible influences for them. No child should be without the regular helpful influence of a Sunday School teacher and a minister. Religious training can start an ever-widening circle of good after-effects which will last a lifetime. Sunday is Church day; don't miss it!

Scanning Social Security

Social Security came into being because someone took responsible action. A feature of Social Security that we all can count on is that it will continue until death as long as we meet all requirements of eligibility. However, speaking of death, this too requires responsible action.

In a way, Social Security and responsibility are almost the same thing. It is not enough that someone be responsible. All of us must be responsible -- from the time we apply for a Social Security number till the day we die. Then, after death, there is still a need for responsible action on the part of relatives, friends or neighbors.

There have been instances where benefits continued to come after the death of the beneficiary and the checks were cashed by persons who had no right to receive them. Such occurrences could be quite costly to the overall Social Security program. We don't need to allow costs to increase nor benefits to become less.

When a Social Security beneficiary dies, someone who cared about the deceased and the smooth running of Social Security must report the death to a Social Security representative. It is true that reporting the death of someone you cared about to his or her bank, attorney, or to the post office will often result in a report to the Social Security office. However, you could be performing a very valuable service to survivors of the deceased and help reduce Social Security Administrative cost if you youself report the death of a beneficiary to a Social Security representative. This may be done by contacting the social security office nearest to you.

False statements and a failure to make a required report to the Social Security Administration have netted a 25 year old Baton Rouge man a three year sentence in federal prison.

According to Laura B. Purcell, manager of the Lubbock Social Security office, Benjamin Williams of 3605 Chippewa in Baton Rouge had pled guilty to several counts of making false claims with regard to his full-time student status and of failing to let SSA know that he had stopped attending school. Williams had been receiving Social Security benefits as a fulltime student on the record of his deceased mother, Purcell said.

Williams was also sentenced to serve five years on probation following his confinement on a related charge of illegally receiving U. S. Treasury checks.

Also, a Dallas woman faces up no five years' imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both after pleading guilty to federal felony charges of defrauding the Social Security Administra-

According to Ms. Purcell, Vanessa Owens of Dallas admitted she willfully failed to notify SSA she had stopped attending school, so that student benefits paid on her deceased mother's record would continue.

Another Dallas resident, Bentley Palez Jr., has also pleaded guilty in Federal District Court to misdemeanor charges also involving the illegal receipt of Social Security Student Benefits, Purcell said. Palez faces a maximum sentence of a year in prison, $1,000 fine or both.

If you receive monthly Supplemental Security Income payments, you are required to report events or facts which may affect your eligibility or payments.

Failure to report changes can result in penalty deductions of $25 to $100. In addition to a penalty, failure to report events or facts affecting eligibility or payments may constitute a crime punishable under

You must notify the Social Security Administration if you move to another address or if someone moves into or out of the house in which you live.

You also are required to notify the Social Security Administation if there are any changes in your income your spouse's income and/or your family's income.

There are several other changes you are required to report. If you do not know what your reporting responsibilities are or to report a change, call, write or visit your local Social Security office.

EDITORIAL About Social Security

It's vitally important today that more Americans understand the purpose of the federal social security system. It's not what so many assume it is--a means to confortable retirement.

Social security was initiated in this country (late) by President Franklin Roosevelt, who made it quite clear the system was to provide a means to prevent older Americans from becoming destitute in their final years.

The government (Congress) recognized that the system was not a retirement plan by agreeing to supply about four-fifths of the money. So it's welfare, for the most part. That should be made quite clear to all Americans, who often today talk about a "right" to social security retirement. The social security payments one makes to the government over the years amount to only about a fraction of what is usually

What ruined the system--it's about to go bankrupt-was well-intended but excessive spending by Congress, by members seeking to please, and win votes. A mistake was providing for cost-of-living increases based on some factors which don't figure into the average retiree's life (such as increasing mortgage payments, etc.--since most retirees own their homes). But the worst mistake was that Congress, in effect, accepted the notion social security was a retirement

If it is to be that, worker contributions must probably be quardrupled--and few want that. So the need today is for all Americans to accept a truth which has been lost sight of: our social security system is one to prevent destitution, not a retirement program.

IRA's, pension plans and other savings programs are proper retirement program vehicles.

Flat Rate Tax?

Much is now being heard about a flat rate income tax. Many in Congress favor such a tax--liberals and conservatives. They believe a flat rate would end many of the inequities in the present system, which allows clever maneuverers to escape taxes while the average worker has his taxes withheld from his pay check.

Those with clever lawyers and dodges and a high tax-free income might oppose a flat rate. It would make them pay taxes for the first time.

It's true also, however, that those who earn larger incomes would pay less than now. Today a man who earns ten times as much as the average pays perhaps twenty times what his average neighbor pays--since the tax rate is progressive. The successful citizen pays a higher rate than the average citizens.

Progressive rates penalize profits and business success, and have created a whole industry of lawyers and controllers steering individuals and corporations into shelters and other tax escapes.

The usual figure bandied about for a flat rate tax is 13 percent. That's because if everyone today paid 13 percent, the revenue collected would about equal what is now collected under our progressive rate tax laws.

The biggest danger in the flat tax rute idea is that Congress would begin at 13 percent and inevitably raise rates back again to 20 and 30 percent, for everyone. That's what many in other countries have to pay today--because overspending politicians take all they can acquire with taxes and spend more and more.

As a first and immediate step, Congress should enact a minimum tax for all successful individuals and corporations. That would create a considerable new flow of revenue, and special advantages for the clever and could be the first part of broad tax reform, leading to a flat rate.

to our exports as agreements are reached. However, we are not relying solely on reaching new agreements with foreign nations. Texas is participating in an exciting program to allow American producers to compete better in foreign markets. The program involves creation of U.S. "Foreign Trade Zones." A Foreign Trade Zone is an area within the United States that is considered to be outside U.S. Customs territory. Foreign or domestic merchandise or raw materials may be brought in this enclave without payment of customs duties or excise taxes. These materials then can be assembled, used in a manufacturing process, stored, tested, repackaged and displayed. If the final product is exported from the United States, no U.S. Customs duty or excise tax is levied. If the final is shipped to another place within the United States, duty and excise taxes are due only at the time of its physical removal from the foreign-trade zone.

How does this benefit U.S. business? A business can use imported materials to construct a product and export it without having to factor import fees into the price he charges customers. Obviously, this makes his products more competitive.

Use of foreign trade zones creates jobs within the United States. Favorable tariff and Customs regulation treatment encourages investment in the U.S. instead of abroad. More than 11,000 people already are employed in Foreign Trade Zones. Indirectly, a domestic or foreign company operating in a U.S. zone is likely to substitute U.S. -made components for foreign-built ones where possible -creating still more jobs.

Since the companies within the trade zone pay the cost of operating the zone, the federal cost of the program is Already five areas in Texas have foreign trade zones: Brownsville, Dallas-Fort Worth, El Paso, Galveston and McAllen. Houston and San Antonio have pending applications. I have urged prompt approval of these applications by the Foreign Trade Zones Board and anticipate no problem in obtaining the necessary permission.

I am pleased to see Texas participating so actively in this effort to boost U.S. international trade. Not only does export trade create jobs at home, but also it helps our balance of payments. As more Texas cities become more active in the foreign trade zone system, I believe we will see them become substantial contributors to an even healthier state economy.

the Department of Public Safety show that in 1980 there were 6,694 reports of rapes of individuals 17 years or older in Texas, and in 1981 there were 6,816. Such figures do not include rapes or other cases of sexual abuse of children under 17 years of age.

These reports are only the tip of the iceberg of the actual number of rapes that occur each year. Many rapes are not reported to the police, and therefore they are not included in the statistics.

However, even when cases of rape are brought to the courts, convictions are few and far between. One reason for this is that inadequate language in our laws has provided loopholes. I am glad to report that the 67th Legislature amended the Texas Penal Code to close some of these loopholes.

House Bill 364 redefines the compulsion element of the aggravated offenses of rape, rape of a child, sexual abuse, and sexual abuse of a child. New language makes it clear that an offender is forcing the victim if he/she uses words, acts, or deeds to threaten the victim with death, serious bodily injury, or the kidnapping of the victim or someone else, or if by acts, words or deeds the offender places the victim in fear of any of the same.

The Speaker

To use or exhibit a deadly weapon in the course of the episode is not defined as a threat but it is considered as compulsion. A further change in previous law expands the definition of "deviate sexual intercourse."

Another important bill, Senate Bill 126, further addresses the problems of child sexual abuse and child abuse. Based on a survey of police departments, DPS has estimated that there were 7,800 reports of child sexual abuse in 1981 in Texas. Again, this is the tip of the iceberg.

SB 126 expands definitions of aggravated rape and aggravated sexual abuse to include rape and sexual abuse of a person younger than 14 years of age. This crime has a first degree felony penalty.

Defenses of prior sexual conduct of the victim and a two-year age difference between victim and offender are not applicable. However, in the offense of indecency with a child, a two-year age difference is an affirmative defense. An offense of indecency with a child which involves sexual conduct is made a second degree felony.

Moreover, the bill increases the penalty for injury to a child committed intentionally and knowingly which results in serious bodily injury, serious physical or mental deficiency, or disfigurement, to a first degree felony. If this crime is the result of reckless or negligent conduct the offense is a second degree felony. Injury to a child committed intentionally and knowingly which results in bodily injury is made a second degree felony unless the result of reckless or negligent conduct in which case it is a Class A mis-

SB 126 is a response to the growing number of child abuse cases that occur in our state. The legislature wants to make it clear that these crimes deserve the harshest penalties available.

I believe that these two new laws will aid the courts in deciding rape cases and child sexual abuse cases, and that justice will be well served.

How the paths of Winston Churchill and an American town crossed is one of those unexpected turns history

Originally, in London. THEN: In the spring of 1946 the world was returning to peacetime pursuits after six long years of war. In those days, Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri, held a series of lectures on topics of international

Dr. Franc McCluer, then president of the college, invited former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill to come to speak. Churchill accepted the invitation to come to America, joining President Harry Truman in Washington, D.C., for the

the church was transported piece by piece to America.

NOW: In 1961, Westminster College President Dr. Robert Davidson decided that moving a small, bombscarred church in London to Fulton, would be an ideal way to both commemorate Churchill's 1946 visit and replace the college's own decaying church. Each piece was numbered, so the church could be reconstructed exactly as famous architect Christopher Wren had designed it. Today, the church is the site of interdenominational services and is used, because of its spectacular organ and favorable acoustics, as an arena for musical performances. Outside the transplanted church stands a statue of the great man who started it all,

Winston Churchill. This article is excerpted from Panhan@e Magazine, a publication of Panhandle Eastern Corporation, a multi-faceted energy company.

FUTILE SEARCH

Precautions before completing the purchase of a home include searching public records for matters that could adversely affect your interests as buyer and those of your mortgage lender. As important as this step is, it does not provide complete assurance that all title hazards have been found. In (ie example, a buyer

McAuliffe insufficient to meet the minimum country requirement for building a residence. This happened after a title search of local county records revealed no evidence of the problem.

It later was disclosed that the innocent buyer's lot lay in two adjacent counties. The portion in the neighboring country was lost to another purchaser in a foreclosure sale as a result of unpaid taxes. No title search of court judgment records was made in the neighboring county. Since the buyer had no warning of the tax debt, he did not learn of the court foreclosure judgment in time to protect his ownership.

In this instance, the buyer was protected by owner's title insurance and the title company purchased the portion of land lost through foreclosure so construction of his home could proceed. The matter was settled with-
