Man Gigs Frog In His Back Yard. GONZALES, Texas.—Tired of a continual "jug-a-rumming" in his back yard that kept him awake, R. A. Renschel, Gonzales lumber dealer, went frog-hunting one night recently.

SCENE OF PLANE CRASH

This is all that was left of a huge plane which caught fire Friday afternoon when it was 7500 feet above the earth carrying, besides a pilot and a co-pilot, Jesse Jones, Houston capitalist and head of RFC (inset), and Ex-Governor of Texas W. P. Hobby and Mrs. Hobby, and D. J. Toomey of Washington, Jones' secretary. The pilots, Ed Hefley of Shreveport and Eugene Schacher, Houston, brought the flaming craft to earth near Ferris, Texas, soon after it took off from Dallas, Texas. Schacher, co-pilot, died Saturday afternoon of his burns. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Hobby and Toomey escaped with cuts and bruises. Hefley is seriously burned. The picture of Jones was made Friday morning as he came to Dallas with President Roosevelt and his party for the Texas Centennial celebration.

CONFEREES TO DECIDE UPON TAX MEASURE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Conferees on the new tax bill failed to break their deadlock today but reported hope certain concessions could be made to permit passage of the measure by Saturday.

We May Be Misjudged By Our 'Legends'

Imagine a serious scientist of the year 2136 grubbing around in the dusty achievements of some museum trying to find out what American life was like in the year 1936.

He stumbles by ill chance, on a collection of popular detective novels and wild western stories, lugs them off to his library, studies them in all seriousness, and then emerges to announce:

That Americans of 1936 were forever holding house parties, yatching trips, or other get-together at which someone was always getting murdered. That the murdered person was invariably someone who had it coming to him, so that everybody present was a logical suspect.

That everyone west of Chicago wore a 10-gallon hat, carried a six-shooter, and rode a horse—which last he addressed constantly as "Pard," or "Old Pal." That half the population worked on cattle ranches while the other half lived by stealing these cattle, and that on Saturday night the good and bad alike repaired to a Wild West dance hall for an evening of poker and gunplay.

Now a scientist who would deduce all these things about regular, every-day American life in this era, simply because he found such things described in our detective stories and Wild West yarns, would be set down as a complete underhead.

And yet, says a distinguished anthropologist—Dr. Ruth Benedict of Columbia University—our own scientists who study the folklore of vanished races, to draw conclusions about the everyday habits of those races, make an exactly similar error.

For the myths and legends of primitive peoples, says Dr. Benedict, were simply those peoples' detective stories and cowboy thrillers. They were tall tales, designed to appeal to the imagination.

They never pretended to reflect life as it was actually lived; they were the "pulp fiction" of the day, and the scientist who takes them too seriously is apt to deceive himself prodigiously.

All this, somehow, is a highly entertaining and revealing sidelight on history. We tend to read the record of the past with the book too close to our eyes.

We forget that the old-timers were very much like ourselves, after all; that the ancient bard who chanted a long epic about the thunder god, the sun maiden, and the spirit of the cornstalks was merely the S. S. Van Dine or the B. M. Bower of his day.

That bit of knowledge is worth getting. Human history is a most absorbingly interesting subject; and it becomes more interesting when we get our perspective adjusted as Dr. Benedict adjusts it.

And it is wholesome, too, for us to reflect that our own proud generation, with its ambitious plans, and its lofty dreams, might some day be judged by what its writers of melodrama produced to amuse it!

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

Advertisement for 'This Curious World' featuring a globe, a map of Newfoundland, and a car. Text includes: 'IF THE EARTH WERE THROWN OUT OF THE UNIVERSE, ITS GOING WOULD HAVE NO NOTICEABLE EFFECT ON ANYTHING IN THE SKY, EXCEPT THE MOON WHICH WOULD BE DRAGGED ALONG WITH IT!' and 'THE MODERN AUTOMOBILE IS ONLY 3 PER CENT EFFICIENT, WITH REGARD TO ENERGY IN FUEL PUT TO USEFUL WORK.'

ACCORDING to science, the present-day automobile is far from perfect when it comes to getting energy from fuel. About 40 per cent of the fuel energy is used in cooling water, alone. Transmission and engine friction use up about 12 per cent, some 20 per cent is lost through incompletely burned fuel, and another 20 per cent is lost through still other causes.

Science confirms the truth of the popular phrase "For Digestion's Sake... Smoke Camels". Camels promote well-being by stimulating the flow of the digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids...necessary for good digestion. Often fatigue, worry, excitement, nervousness—all interfere with this digestive flow. Camels restore and increase it, thus assisting digestion to proceed normally and healthfully. With their finer, costlier tobaccos, Camels give mildness a new meaning. They do not get on your nerves or rasp your throat. Make Camels your smoke—for their cheery "lift"... for digestion's sake. BEGIN HERE TODAY
GAIL EVERETT, ambitious to become a designer, comes to New York and ends in a stroke of luck as hired by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop, and she proves temperamental and difficult to work for.
LUCILLE TRAVERS, young girl, is interested in Gail. She has a girl friend, DICK BARKER, whose sister, HOWEY, was her roommate at school.
Meanwhile, in Arizona, Gail's sister, MARK CHAPMAN, returns home after years of wandering, and finds his old home in the hands of the Traverses. Lucille suspects the deal is crooked and gets in touch with GILLEN, a New York lawyer, intending to locate Gail.
BARKER asks Gail to marry him and she agrees. Later a misunderstanding comes between them and LUCILLE TRAVERS, who is in love with Gail, tells him she will marry him.
GILLEN heading comes to see Gail and tells her about the Traverses' company's plot to buy her land.
BARKER, who is in love with Gail, is dismayed by the fact that Gail has come from New York.
GAIL GOES ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIII
MARK CHAPMAN glanced around the ranch house. "Well," he said, "this doesn't look bad, but I guess we'd better look some woman to come in and see things up a little before our company arrives."
"I say it's just fine," Jed Hoser stopped to light his pipe. "There's the postman and, by the way, he's putting something in a box. See what it is!" exclaimed Mark.
"Just the paper, I guess," Jed tossed the newspaper on the table. "It doesn't get any bigger, notice."
"I reckon it's big enough to hold the news that comes down this way," Mark tore off the wrapper. "By gosh," he exclaimed as he looked at the headlines, "here's a tough news to keep everyone looking for a spell. The Traverses' company has gone smash! Mark read the story of the spectacular finish of the mince company. ## FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

POODLES, AREN'T YOU EVER GONNA LEAD US TO THE SPOT WHERE THOSE SABER-TOOTHED TIGER BONES ARE BURIED?

BY GOLLY, I KNOW A WAY TO MAKE HIM MOVE! MY GOOD OLD CAP PISTOL!!

"It's too bad she didn't marry that count she was bragging about, for her father would probably have settled a fortune on her," remarked Rosemary.

"Perhaps she'll take up designing seriously now," suggested Gail.

"And step into your shoes at Madame's," asked Natalie.

"But, girls, maybe Madame Lizette's shop is gone, too. She was backed by Mrs. Travers, you know."

(To Be Continued)

NOW LOOK WHAT YOU'VE DONE! YOU SCARED HIM SO, HE MAY NEVER COME BACK!

GEE, FRECK, I DIDN'T MEAN TO SCARE HIM THAT MUCH! I PRESSED THE TRIGGER JUST AS QUIETLY AS I COULD!!

Timber Growth Exceeds the Drain

WASHINGTON, D. C. — That the United States is cutting off its forests many times faster than they are being replaced has long been the impression of the average American citizen. With this idea in mind many people have purposely aimed to specify materials other than wood in an effort to display their "American spirit" in conserving our forests. This erroneous public attitude, according to P. A. Rayward, chief of the Forest Products division of the Department of Commerce, has done more damage than good since it had aided in weakening the consumption of products produced by what was once America's greatest industry. As a result thousands of former workers are looking for employment.

Even by making the most extreme assumptions Mr. Hayward states that any shortage of timber for lumber and allied products could be only at some far distant time. What is more likely is that there will always be sufficient forest in the United States to meet all reasonable needs and that the immediate and pressing problem, according to Hayward, is that of expansion of markets for forest products, as without adequate markets our forests resources would be largely an economic waste. Moreover, timber as a national resource is an exception, since it is reproducible. Timber should therefore be considered as a crop, and unless it can be utilized

Every Federal Reserve District, scenes like this were being enacted as preparation for payment of World War veterans' bonus was being rushed. Close to $2,000,000,000 of bonds and checks were being registered for delivery beginning June 15. Every envelope in those long piles in front of the delivery clerks at New York (top) contains bonds to settle some veterans' bonus claim. And the boxes the big pile above are containers in which $150,000,000 of bonus bonds were shipped to New York from Washington, symbols of the flood of cash soon to be released.

For Made Golf Clubs Bring Profit

By United Press
ARILLO. — Walter Sikes, national at the River Drive course, is making a bid for industry—making "tailor-made" golf clubs, built for the individual golfer.
clubs will be ordered from the Professional Golf Club company of Chattanooga, Tenn. The exact specifications which appear to Sikes to be needed by the golfer will be followed to a letter by the manufacturers.

When the clubs are delivered in Amarillo, Sikes will trim them to the length required by the man or woman who orders them.
Thus it is possible to straighten out the ever present problem of golfer being unable to get the clubs which he needs.
Equipment is already on hand for the finishing process at the River Drive Course.
CEDAR CITY, Utah. — High school and agricultural college girls here are studying farm repairs, woodwork, furniture repairs, elementary plumbing, electrical work and painting. The girls draw the line at vegetable gardening, however.

Grapevine Springs Will Be State Park

By United Press
DALLAS—County Commissioner Tom W. Field has announced that work on converting historic Grapevine Springs into a state park will begin July 1 and he completed three months later.
Donors of land for the 14-acre park already have given deeds. Within the boundaries of the tract is the site where Gen. Sam Houston signed a treaty with the Cherokee Indians Sept. 28, 1843. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thweatt gave 11.5

acres and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Miller 2.5 acres.
Pat M. Neff, Waco, chairman of the state parks board, has given assurance that the state will accept the park and maintain it after Dallas county has finished its beautification and improved a road to the entrance.

YOUNTSVILLE, Cal. — The state has installed six new incubators to supply the sportsman's demand for game birds. They turn out pheasants and partridges as fast as mother birds can lay eggs. The present output is 600 a day.
