Cisco Lions, assisted by the Rotarians, the Chamber of Commerce and all other civic organizations will make those visiting Lions wish that they lived in Cisco. Cisco has plenty to offer in the manner of recreation and otherwise. Well maybe Eastland will have a chance some day to strut her stuff. In the meantime we'll all join the good neighbors on the west side of our domain in seeing that the Lions of forty-three towns won't go away thinking anything else but that Eastland county is simply IT.

In Widening Probe of Terror Cult

Symbol of terror, this is the membership card of the Black Legion, who turned it over to Toledo according to a former member authorities.

Graduated Scale Of Farm Benefits Being Planned

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The New Deal, with the approval and aid of President Roosevelt, today was believed to be laying the groundwork for a proposal of a graduated scale of farm benefit payments to replace the flat rate payment scales. Adoption of such method of computing benefit payments, it was understood, was considered by administration leaders to be the best method of answering criticism against the invalidated AAA by Republicans.

CLEVELAND IS SCENE OF MUCH GOP ACTIVITY

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 3.—A lively movement toward campaign year coalition of Republican and conservative Democrats, today stirred pre-convention interest here, where the G. O. P. national convention will convene June 9. Gov. Alf Landon's boom echoed loudest on the presidential front. Flags were out. Hotel lobbies were filling and elevator service was beginning to lag under pressure of crowds in a hurry to get from where they are to somewhere else. Disputes are threatened over Chairman Fitcher's invitation to Herbert Hoover to address the convention. Protests were expected to be heard from Senator Borah's managers. There was evidence of a minority movement to nominate a constitutional Democrat for vice president on the Republican ticket.

Two Games Carded In Softball Tonight

Eastland soft ball schedule tonight cards Texas Electric vs. Piggy Wigzly and Highway vs. III-Y club. Games begin at 8:15 on the Fireman's Field. The team sponsored by Burr Department Store played their fourth game on the Eastland field Tuesday night against the girl team from Ranger, Eastland winning by a score of 7 to 1. Except for the first inning, when the Burr girls went on a hitting spree, the game was closely contested. Players on both teams pulled several surprising plays that brought the cash customers up out of their seats. These girls have something on the ball besides powder and lipstick, and if you are skeptical about it, just go out some night and look 'em over. And after the game is finished and your blood pressure returns to something like normal, the first question you will ask will be "when do they play again?" They really can play that game, folks, in a manner that will surprise you, and they take the game just as seriously as their big brothers, perhaps a little more so. It has been said that girls' softball games were long drawn out and tiresome to watch. That it took two or three hours to play a game. The five-inning game played Tuesday night took just 33 minutes. That is a mark for the all-stars to shoot at. In the first inning Eastland put together six runs on a pasc

Probation Officers Really Don't Hold Office After All

AUSTIN, June 3.—Probation officers in many Texas counties are holding offices by invalid appointment, according to a decision of the state supreme court here today. The ruling was made in the case of Hattie Dell Simpler, who sought to collect $100 monthly salary as probation officer in Potter county. Judge Richard Critz found that a legislative mistake has made a large part of the probation law void. The invalid section applies to counties with less than 75,000 population.

Home Owners Buy Outdoor Fixtures

CHICAGO.—Industries concerned with the manufacture of summer home furnishings such as porch and garden furniture, trellises, fiber rugs and fancy window shades, are experimenting production demands well beyond seasonal levels, a survey of wholesale outlets here reveals. Widespread revival of residence and apartment building, a noticeable increase in home owners "garden-consciousness" and vigorous newspaper advertising campaigns are cited as principal factors by manufacturers and distributors in the Merchandise Mart. Several major factories report they are working day and night shifts and employing more men than they ever had.

Exit of Zioncheck's Landlady

Suffering from a reported fractured hip, which she contended was a direct result of scuffles with Representative Marion Zioncheck of Washington, D. C., at the climax of a tumultuous 24 hours, Zioncheck several times forcibly ejected Mrs. Young from the apartment she leased to him furnished. Later Zioncheck was arrested on disorderly conduct charges preferred by the neighbors.

Girls' Softball Game Which Ranger Loses to Eastland Convinces Score Man Feminine Sex Can Handle Sphere

T. H. Landon, Eastland softball scorekeeper, is convinced girls can play ball. This was indicated by the following report he wrote of an Eastland-Ranger game Tuesday night. Eastland won, 7 to 1. He wrote: Softball fans in Eastland are just waking up to the fact that as a game for girls, softball is anything but a farce. This writer confesses here and now that his previous ideas on this question were all wet. Baseball and softball have become our great national sport, because the many different angles and situations that can arise make every game a little different, and demand not only skill and speed but call for quick thinking and mental alertness. That girls could readily adapt themselves to a game that their brothers had been learning since they were able to run, seemed out of the question, but again I say, all wet. The team sponsored by Burr Department Store played their fourth game on the Eastland field Tuesday night against the girl team from Ranger, Eastland winning by a score of 7 to 1. Except for the first inning, when the Burr girls went on a hitting spree, the game was closely contested. Players on both teams pulled several surprising plays that brought the cash customers up out of their seats. These girls have something on the ball besides powder and lipstick, and if you are skeptical about it, just go out some night and look 'em over. Proposed Reform Of Constitution Is Now Predicted

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Proposed constitutional reform moved closer today as a campaign issue as a result of President Roosevelt's caustic comment on a recent supreme court decision outlawing New Deal legislation. The latest White House comment bore on the ruling which held the New York minimum wage law unconstitutional. It was described by the chief executive as creating a man's land in which neither federal or state government could function.

BLACK LEGION IS CHARGED IN NEW MYSTERY

DETROIT, June 3.—Death was decreed for Charles Poole, 32, by Col. Harvey Davis and other black legionnaires on hour before the WPA worker was kidnapped and assassinated by the vigilantes, their "trigger man" testified in common pleas court. Dayton Dean, stocky, curly-haired slayer of Poole, testifying voluntarily today at the examination of 13 legionnaires charged with the slaying, said Poole's death was to be the end of a "one way ride" for the man charged by the legion with beating his wife.

DETROIT, June 3.—Michigan's efforts to pin another killing on the Black Legion began today while a hearing for 13 Legionnaires charged with participation in the execution that led to the unmasking of the secret terroristic society, continued in common pleas court. Capt. Ira Marmon of the state police appeared before the Wayne county coroner to request exhumation of the body of Roy Pledcock, a Wyandotte, Mich., steel worker, whose body was found hanging in an abandoned shack near the Detroit river two days after the body of Charles Poole, a WPA worker, was found in a roadside ditch. The legion, Marmon charged, was as responsible for Pledcock's death as it was for Poole's. Thirteen of the legion members listed as the state built up a case that Poole was executed on gossip that he beat his pregnant wife. The state will complete its case today but because of the number of witnesses yet to be heard a ruling may not be made until tomorrow if the state has evidence to hold all on murder and kidnaping charges.

Chain Letters Seek Resignation of Marion Zioncheck

SEATTLE, June 3.—The chain letter business picked up today as cards spread through the Seattle district asking Congressman Marion Zioncheck to resign. "Keep this chain unbroken. Please mail one card to Congressman Marion Zioncheck asking him to resign. Then mail five cards to friends in the State asking them to do likewise." WASHINGTON, June 3.—Mrs. Marion Zioncheck, wife of the Seattle congressman, confined to Gallinger hospital for mental observation, said today she would stick by her husband. Zioncheck was reported resting nicely in the ward to which he was confined on police order after a series of disturbances climaxed by an effort to have Vice President John Garner arrested.

Nine Jurors Are Selected In Trial Of Rev. Eskridge

HOUSTON, June 3.—Only three jurors remained to be chosen in court here today to sit in the murder trial of Rev. C. Edgar Eskridge, slayer of Ed O'Reilly, police chief of Orange. Four jurors were accepted from a new panel of 175 veniremen summoned today after a special venire of 300 was exhausted yesterday with only five jurors approved. Although the jury may be completed today testimony probably will not begin until tomorrow. District Judge Langston King had excused witnesses until tomorrow morning.

Highways Become Campaign Issue In Two Speeches

AUSTIN, June 3.—Highways and old age pensions today became a drawn issue between Gov. James Allred and aspirant Tom Hunter. Almost uncannily administration statements on the two topics were issued at the same time with a speech which was the principal part of Hunter's campaign address. "The present administration, if kept in power, means to disrupt the state highway department," Hunter said. At Children, almost at the same moment Allred was saying: "The highway department should be free from executive interference and this administration has maintained a hands-off policy. I am still opposed to any state candidate or officer of the highway department trying to put the department in politics."

Special Sessions Cost Taxpayers Nearly a Million

AUSTIN.—Appropriations totaling $875,000 for the regular and two special sessions of the 44th legislature have been exhausted and some of the bills for operation of the last legislative session remain unpaid. The large sum represents merely the cost of having the legislature in session—not what it appropriates for running the state government. The regular session appropriated $550,000 for its own expenses. This was not sufficient, so an additional $150,000 was appropriated when the first special session was called. The expectation was that the special session would cost $100,000 and leave $50,000 to pay off the debt remaining from the preceding session. But the expectation proved to be only optimism. The second special session appropriated in additional $175,000.

Runaway Heir Eats Hamburgers And Is Satisfied

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 3. William Theile, 15, who some day will inherit a million dollars or more, had hamburgers for dinner last night and promise of a job today, and so was at peace with the world. The manner in which his financier father, society mother and junior brother received him after his 31-day journey to Chicago, also had a lot to do with his peace. He was found in Chicago selling magazines because he wanted to get away from the social whirl.

Patterson to Sit At Aspermont Court

FOUR ESCAPE FROM SHERMAN JAIL TODAY

SHERMAN, June 3.—A spoon, a bar of soap and several blankets brought freedom today for four prisoners in Grayson county's "escape proof" jail, picture of which is on page three. The four used the spoon to dig out a steel bar in the concrete ventilator shaft. They greased their bodies with soap to force themselves through the seven-inch space and with a rope made of blankets lowered themselves four stories to the ground. They were brought to the new jail atop the county courthouse three days ago despite a warning the ventilator ship barred by an iron pipe sunk little more than an inch in concrete was impracticable. Four other prisoners did not attempt to escape.

Old-Time Tough Guy Turns To Hollywood

Quantity production of very tough muggs has always been one of the things this country has prided itself on. From colonial times down to the present it has turned out its full share of hard guys, and some of them have been very hard guys indeed.

But it comes as a bit of a shock to learn that the hardest guys of all, these days, are to be found in Hollywood—Hollywood, home of the matinee idol and the Grecian profile!

Testimony to this effect is offered by Richard Rosson, movie director. Rosson recently went up into the white pine forests of the great northwest to make some lumberjack sequences for a new film. He wanted to show how the hard-boiled lumberjacks broke log jams, rode falling trees, took logs through the rapids, and otherwise acted in the catch-me-death tradition of their calling.

But he could find no one willing to take the necessary chances; and in the end he had to send back to Hollywood for a crew of stunt men to go up and perform the tricks that were too risky for the real lumberjacks!

This probably will come as a blow to all of our old traditions. But its point is, not that the country is producing a race of softies these days, but that its daredevils are simply going into other lines of work. The routine of ordinary industry is growing safer and the hard guys aren't needed as they once were. So they are going to the places where they are needed, like Hollywood.

And if it seems odd to find them there, it ought to be remembered that the American tough guy has always had a good dash of theatricalism in his makeup.

The legendary ruffians of the Kentucky backwoods in the early 1800's—those ferocious chaps who gouged, bit and kicked in their frontier brawls—called themselves "half horse, half alligator"; and what is a self-chosen title like that but a means of advertising to the world a hardihood of which the owner is highly proud?

The rip-snorting pioneers of the wild west were the same. They gave their towns names like Hangtown, Whiskey Gulch, and so on. Their gunmen elaborately carved notches in pistol butts to record their killings. They scornfully called the eastern visitor a tenderfoot. Does it take a psychologist to discover that they were glorying in their roughness as truly as any dressed-up actor on the stage?

You could cite a dozen similar examples. The American roughneck always did have one eye on his audience. Miners, cowboys, Conestoga teamsters, lumberjacks, trappers and backwoodsmen—underneath it all they were playing a part, for their own eyes if for no one else's.

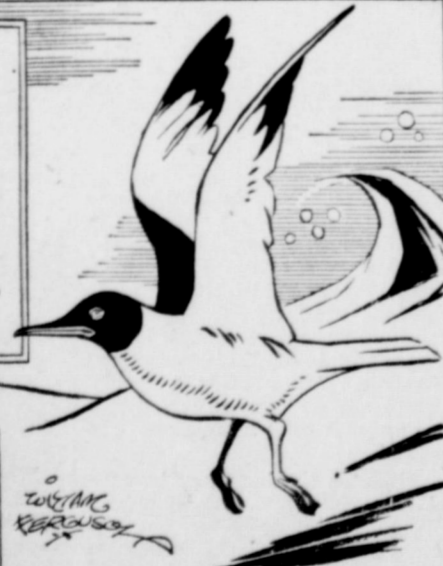

And if at last they have emigrated to Hollywood—well, they are simply going where they belonged in the first place.

HIGHLY MAGNIFIED PICTURE OF A FLAGELLATE, A TINY ONE-CELLED ANIMAL THAT LIVES IN THE INTESTINES OF TERMITES AND DIGESTS THEIR FOOD FOR THEM.

THE MATTAPONY RIVER, IN NEW YORK, GETS ITS NAME FROM THE FOUR SMALL RIVERS... THE MAT, TA, PO AND NY... ITS TRIBUTARIES.

TERMITES feed on wood, but they cannot digest it. By placing a termite in an atmosphere of pure oxygen, it can be deprived of its little flagellate assistants, the tiny animals which digest the wood, and then the termite starves to death, even though it continues to devour a normal amount of wood. Neither the termite nor the flagellate can live when separated from each other.

Cliff Day To Be A Candidate For Agricultural Post

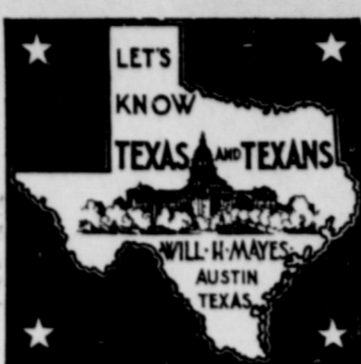

PLAINVIEW.—Cliff Day, 47, of Hale county has announced his candidacy for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture. Day became a national figure in agricultural circles when he organized and led 4500 farmers of the nation to Washington a year ago in support of the national farm program.

A native Texan, Day has done farm work as a day laborer, a tenant farmer and now owns and operates a farm near Plainview, Texas. When the AAA program was launched Day was elected a member of this community committee, county committee, and was chosen by the farmers of his district to represent it on the State Cotton Advisory Committee of which he was made chairman.

In making his announcement Day says: "I doubt if there is another individual dirt farmer in Texas who has talked and advised with more farmers than I have in many trips throughout the state. I have never before been identified with farm organizations except as a member, but have felt it my duty to give my time, even somewhat to the neglect of my own farm, in the common interest."

"I believe that the contacts with the national and state administrative agencies of the farm programs and with the actual farmers, together with my own experience, qualifies me to know and understand their wishes and needs. "The farmer's plight for the past several years in my opinion has been one of the major contributing causes of the unprecedented conditions that the country has been struggling to overcome. I think the efforts of the Federal Government to improve the former's condition have greatly strengthened his position, not only in Texas, but in the farming districts all over the country, and if elected to this office, I pledge my unqualified support and energies to the furtherance and betterment of agriculture in Texas and those who are engaged in this laudable profession. In Texas when the farmer prospers, all prosper."

"I haven't a lot of pre-election promises to make the public, knowing full well that no one can foretell upon which this important office will be required to pass. But I earnestly promise that I will, if elected, strive to administer the office according to the laws relating to it and with a full understanding of the interdependence

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

A Texas Tournament

There was not much room for books in the crowded covered wagons that came into early Texas; but of the few that were brought in, one of the most popular was Scott's Ivanhoe. Small wonder that attempts were made to recapture its spirit of knightliness in flower. Our pioneering ancestors were more romantic than we. They were "dreamers on horseback," and to me their attempts to reenact the medieval tournaments celebrated so magnificently by Sir Walter seemed particularly fine. These tournaments persisted up to the beginning of the new century. It was my good fortune once to witness one, and it is the most vivid early recollection I have.

It took place in Limestone county, this Anglo-American interpretation of the tournament of feudal times. We learned about it in advance and drove far into the hinterland to witness it. The people came from miles around. There was a track about 200 yards long that contained two goal posts about 10 feet high, placed on the right-hand side of the track. From the top of each post extended an arm from which hung a wire crook, holding a ring about two inches in diameter. Each "knight" carried a ten-foot pole, tapered to a fine point, which was his "lance". Mounted on his fiery charger, he ran the length of the track, the object being to spear as many rings as possible. The runner made three trips at full speed, guiding his steed with the left hand and holding the lance with the right.

The knights were gaily bedight in tight-fitting trousers, high boots, blouses and sashes. I remember how fascinated I was by their broad-brimmed black hats, romantically caught up at the sides with long ostrich plumes.

As the prizes were announced, the winners rode forward on prancing steeds to receive them; each then turned and presented his guerdon to the lady of his choice. Here a note of practicality entered into the proceedings; for the prizes were not crowns or wreaths, as in the medieval tradition, but new spring millinery. Yes, each knight crowned his lady fair with a new spring hat.

This practice, in fact, accounts for our having knowledge of the event. Were not the hats purchased at my father's general store, and had I not watched Miss Susie, the milliner, as her deft fingers fashioned the delectable head-dresses? It was not necessary in those days for a woman's hat to be individual or becoming, but it had to be elaborate. And these crowns for the tournament were truly marvelous concoctions, each bearing about a pound of flora and fauna, not to speak of ribbons, furbelows, and lace.

Boulder Dam's Big Lake is Spreading

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—The world's largest artificial lake is in the making behind the Boulder Dam, which stems the Colorado River as it roars through Black Canyon between Arizona and Nevada.

The body of water, named Lake Mead in honor of the late Federal Reclamation Commissioner Elwood Mead, already contains 5,000,000 acre feet, about eight times the total capacity of all 24 reservoirs supplying New York City.

An acre foot of water is the amount necessary to cover one acre of ground to the depth of one foot. When Lake Mead is entirely filled it will contain 30,500,000 acre feet. With the Colorado River's flood season barely underway the lake is filling at the rate of about 119,400 acre feet a day. It now is 85 miles long, about half the length of Lake Ontario, is 303 feet deep and covers 42,000 acres.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GAIL EVERETT, winner of a prize for costume design offered by a large silk manufacturing company, comes to New York to find work. She is hired—due to a stroke of luck—by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

DEREK HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail, and offers her friendly advice. Frequently Gail sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, ROSEMARY, was her roommate at school.

Merriville, in Arizona, MARK CHAPMAN, long a wanderer, returns to find his old home in the hands of the Traverses Mining Co. Mark suspects the deal is crooked. He does not know the whereabouts of his niece, Gail, rightful owner of the property.

DEX HALL, Madame Lizette's son, is representing the Traverses company.

Gail goes to spend the weekend at the Searles' home. Dick asks her to marry him and again she refuses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIII

NATALIE PRESTON swung into step with Gail. "Hello," she said, "you look as though you'd won a fortune! Did you have a nice time over the week-end?"

It was late Monday afternoon and both girls were coming home from work.

"Gorgeous!" Gail told her.

"I want to hear all about it," Natalie urged as they entered the club house. "You certainly look pleased about something. Have you had any other excitement?"

"I should say I have!" Gail's voice was jubilant. "Madame Lizette couldn't come to the shop today, and I had to run things myself. Madame had an accident—not serious, though she cut her foot rather badly when she slipped and fell with some glasses in her hand. I don't think she'll be down for a day or two."

Gail smiled as she thought how well things had gone that day. Maybe it wasn't just right for her to feel that way, but she hoped Madame would remain at work for several days.

"Well, with that on top of your week-end I don't suppose you'd care to dine with me tonight and take in a movie?"

"Natalie! You know I'd love to go with you! It's sweet of you to ask me."

WHEN they met in the foyer later Natalie said, "I know a jolly little place just off Madison avenue where they serve delicious meals. The cooking is Swedish. Do you think you'd like that?"

"I'm sure I would."

A short walk brought them to their destination, and once again Gail felt as though she had been transported to some other land. The waitresses were dressed in peasant costume, and the decorations were typically Scandinavian.

After they had consulted the menu and given the waiter their order their talk drifted to Gail's visit at the Searles' home.

"You went to school with young Searles' sister, didn't you?" Natalie asked.

"Yes, Rosemary was my roommate at school. Dick says she's coming home soon. I'm sure you'd like her. Maybe we can have lunch together some day."

"I'd love that. I suppose lots of wealthy girls go to Merrywood Hall."

"Yes, I wouldn't have been able to stay after Dad died if it hadn't been that Miss Cranston was an old friend of my mother's and she insisted on keeping me there."

"I'm sure no one would ever grudge doing anything for you. I know I wouldn't."

"That's sweet of you to say so," answered Gail, wondering if her estimate of Natalie had not been harsh.

"You must have felt dreadfully when you found you were penniless," Natalie said, "I'm awfully glad we met her. She can do heaps for you. And you know if you want to get ahead you've got to cash in on all the publicity you can get. Grab it every time. Take that from someone who knows."

"I guess you're right," Gail answered, remembering something Derek had said. Then, in a burst of confidence, she added, "I'm only a babe when it comes to the business end of things. You see, I've never had any business experience, though, of course, I didn't stress that too emphatically to Madame." She laughed.

It was almost midnight when they returned to the clubhouse, but as they passed the desk, Gail saw something in her box.

"Oh, you've got some letters," Natalie remarked as the girl at the desk handed Gail two.

"No," Gail answered, recognizing the clubhouse stationery. "They must be sending the bills out early this week."

When she reached her room she opened one of the envelopes and drew out a small slip on which was typed: "A telephone call was received for you at 8:15. Please call Schuyler 4927." The other contained a similar slip, but the time was 9 p. m.

"Derek's number!" Gail murmured. "What can he want?"

ing relative I'd be, oh, so happy!"

For an hour the girls dawdled over their food, comparing their likes and dislikes. As they rose, Natalie insisted on paying. Gail remonstrated, but the other girl paid the check.

As they approached the movie theater, Natalie suddenly exclaimed, "There's someone you should know—Rita Cordell. She's fashion editor of one of the newspapers." Hurrying after her, Natalie called, "Rita!"

"Oh, hello, Natalie!"

"I want you to meet the winner of the John S. Larne prize—Gail Everett. She's Madame Lizette's new designer."

"Oh, I'm delighted. It was only a few days ago that I asked Mr. Larne about the prize winner. He said he understood a society girl had won it and probably she wouldn't do anything further with her art."

"I'm a working girl," Gail answered. "I called at Mr. Larne's office but he was in the south, so I just went ahead and got this job."

"I'm due at Lizette's some day soon. Maybe she'll let me have one of your designs for my column. I'm ever so pleased to have met you. Be seeing you soon."

AS Rita Cordell hurried away, Natalie said, "I'm awfully glad we met her. She can do heaps for you. And you know if you want to get ahead you've got to cash in on all the publicity you can get. Grab it every time. Take that from someone who knows."

"I guess you're right," Gail answered, remembering something Derek had said. Then, in a burst of confidence, she added, "I'm only a babe when it comes to the business end of things. Procedure For Handling Bonds Sent Postmasters

The recipient will have to sign a registry receipt.

Bonds are cashable on and after June 15. Only the veteran owning the bonds may present them for payment. He must sign an indorsement on the back exactly as his name appears on the face of the bonds. The veteran will be required to furnish proper identification to the post office employee, who will then certify each bond by signing his name and title.

The postoffice employee will issue an interim receipt to the veteran, listing the serial number of each bond presented for payment. The postal employee will be held responsible for proper identification of the veteran presenting the bonds for payment. For use in exceptional cases, a space for fingerprint is provided on each bond.

In the event that a veteran has survivors or family should write to the Division of Bonds and Currency, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., for information as to how the bonds may be cashed.

Postmasters have made special arrangements to take the indorsements of veterans who are ill or who are so physically incapacitated as to be unable to go in person to the post office to turn in the bonds. Designated clerks will be sent to a veteran's home or to a hospital to receive his indorsement.

Checks in payment of the bonds will be drawn on the Treasury department by designated postoffice

Boy Scout troop found an old pine boat in the sand of the San Jacinto river.

Len White, negro, who says he is almost 100 years old, recalled such canoes were used in this section of South Texas when he was a boy.

S. Wilburn, Dayton scoutmaster, said the canoe was approximately 100 years old and was hewn with stone axes. Overall length of the craft is 14 feet 10 inches. It is almost two feet deep and is more than three feet wide.

Wilburn said the canoe had been well preserved by the sand camping trip recently, the Dayton and water.

Grayson's new county building at Sherman, dedicated in a two-day program May 29 and 30, is shown here as it is floodlighted as a part of the city's street lighting system. Erected, equipped and furnished at a total cost of $307,000, the Texas limestone building has 50,000 square feet of space. Three courtyards have oak paneled walls and corridors are of white marble, from floor to ceiling. The structure replaces a stucco courthouse erected after fire in 1930 destroyed a building more than a half century old.

U. S. to Publish Official Story of Uncle Sam Origin

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—WPA workers are on Uncle Sam's trail and they believe they have removed all doubt as to the identity of the venerable gentleman of the high hat and striped trousers.

A score of research workers throughout the nation, directed by the Federal Writers' Project headquarters here, traced the legend from coast to coast and pinned "Uncle Sam" upon Samuel Wilson, a Yankee inspector during the War of 1812.

Findings of the research workers confirm the opinion of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who recently erected a statue to Wilson commemorating him as "Uncle Sam," the name given him by his contemporaries. Almost a century ago, according to facts gleaned in the survey, an early writer originated the nickname as a "joke," adding: "Who knows but, a hundred years from now, some 'learned commentator' may puzzle his brain to furnish some ingenious explanation of the origin of the national appellation."

A picture of the original "Uncle Sam" (Samuel Wilson) tentatively was traced by the WPA workers to California and from there to

Kansas City, where it is believed to be in the possession of the great-grandson of Wilson. It probably will be published this fall, embodied in the American Guide, as the story of "Uncle Sam and His Origin."

Experts have not decided whether the picture should be an early tin-type or a portrait by a contemporary artist. They are certain, however, that the original "Uncle Sam" will not be wearing the high hat, long-tailed coat and striped trousers so familiar to present-day newspaper readers.

Starving Islanders Get Food From The Coast Guard

By United Press

HONOLULU.—The 175 inhabitants of lonely Swain Island, 200 miles north of Pago Pago, Samoa, probably owe their lives today to the U. S. coast guard cutter Itasca.

Returning here from a two months' sweep of the South Seas, principally on an aviation survey, the Itasca's Commander Francis Brown revealed the vessel landed rations and supplies on the island, where the population was found to be virtually without food following a hurricane.

It was the first time in the history of the South Seas that a U. S. coast guard vessel performed such relief service.

Public Installation
Brilliant Affair

The public installation of incoming officers of Order of Eastern Star on Monday night in Masonic Temple was marked by brilliant effects observed in decorations of garden flowers, bouquets of roses, and star point stations, decorated each in own appropriate color.

The service opened with the grand march by retiring officers, and invocation following by Clyde S. Karkalits.

The incoming worthy matron, Mrs. J. A. Kahrs was duly installed and complimented with a voice solo, "My Task," Mrs. Vera McLikoy.

Piano solos were given by Mary Page and Ruby Lee Pritchard.

The retiring worthy matron, Mrs. W. W. Kelly, was impressive in her farewell address to the officers.

Mrs. Kelly was presented the worthy matron's pin by Mrs. Kahrs on behalf of the chapter. The pin was a lovely gold jewel of star and gavel.

Her star points presented Mrs. Kelly a boudoir lamp, with gift by Mrs. L. G. Cagle, and Mrs. L. J. Lambert on behalf of her officers and committees; a handsome flower bowl.

The retiring officers were formally retired, and the new officers advanced in a procession.

Mrs. D. J. Fiensy installing officer, was conducted to the East by Mrs. W. J. Thomas, installation by Miss Mabel Hart.

Officers wore white evening formal excepting the worthy matron, Mrs. Kahrs in formal pink lace and Mrs. Fiensy in a beige.

Lead fruited punch was served by Mmes. Lambert and W. F. Wyne, from a long table wreathed in roses and lighted with pink candles in rose holders.

U. S. Will Sell "Proof Money" at Slight Premium

PHILADELPHIA. — Twenty years of famine among coin collectors are being followed by the proverbial "feast," according to officials of the United States mint.

A deluge of orders from numismatologists (known as "coin cranks," followed the recent announcement of the Treasury Department that the practice of issuing "flawless money" would be resumed.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is said to have been prompted to this move by the late Louis McHenry Howe, an ardent numismatist. The last issue of proof money, as it is technically termed, was made in 1916.

The coins are being struck under the most careful conditions to insure the perfection of the product. Each coin is individually treated, stamped from polished dies with shining, new dies, and closely scrutinized for flaws. Collectors, it is said, are "quoting on the draw" when it comes to spotting the most microscopic flaws.

Collectors will pay, in addition to postage fees and face values of the coins, the following charges for the souvenir pieces: 25 cents for 50 and 25-cent pieces; 10 cents for dimes; and 15 cents for nickels and pennies. All coins will be dated from 1936.

No one at the mint would say why the premium on dimes should be less than that on pennies and nickels; but everyone agreed that there was enough extra work entailed in the processes to make the fees "quite all right."

Al Jolson Company Hunts Mineral Riches

DEADWOOD, S. D.—A company headed by Sid Grauman, owner of Hollywood's famous Chinese Theatre, and having as vice president Al Jolson, will begin drilling operations at the Black Hills Exploration Company's property soon.

The company's 800 acres of mineral properties lie six miles from Deadwood. The diamond drill to be used is the largest of its kind in the world. It is capable of drilling to a depth of 5,000 feet and may be adjusted to any angle.

The results of the preliminary explorations will determine the extent of future operations.

CHICAGO.—Lon Warneke has a sore arm, so Charles Herbert Klein is back home in Philadelphia.

Even with Warneke in condition to pitch, Charley Grimm wasn't sure that the Chicago Cubs had sufficient hurling strength to repeat in the National League.

When the long lad from the Arkansas hills was unable to get going, there was nothing else for Grimm to do but give the Phillies Klein, Fabian Kowalik, and $75,000 for Curt Davis and Ethan Allen. Under the circumstances, it should be a good deal for both clubs.

Klein returns to the Quaker City stamped as a "Philadelphia ball player." At the close of his career with the Bruins it was obvious that he missed the bandbox that is Baker Bowl.

Klein's hitting was not the only thing affected by his having to play in Wrigley Field, where he never did strike anything appearing in his old stride. In Philadelphia, Klein was adjudged the National League's most valuable player in 1932, when he led the loop in runs, hits, and stolen bases. He led the wheel in batting in 1933, when he again made more hits than any other player.

THE striking fact born out by the Cubs-Phillie deal is that even championship clubs rarely can stand on a lineup two years in a row.

This spring the Cubs chose to bank on the same heavy-hitting and sterling pitching that won the gonfalon in the National loop last season. And look what a shellacking the pitchers have taken, and how the mighty maccemen of that team have fallen.

In camp last spring it was suspected that all was not well with Warneke's arm, injured in the world series last fall. But club officials took great pains to impress upon sports scribes that the Ozark mountain boy's whip was as good as ever.

But just take a peak at the records. Warneke has taken sound thumpings this year, having won only two games. It's a known fact that the arm that used to blaze down hitters isn't what it used to be.

About the only change the Cubs chose to make at the start of the year was the benching of young Philavarretta and the insertion of the aging Grimm into the lineup. Everyone but Manager Grimm thought the move a foolish one, and so it has been proved.

Billy Herman, Frank Demaree, and Chuck Klein were about the only players who stood up for Grimm this year. And those three outers couldn't carry enough of the load to keep the team from hitting a slump.

INJECTION of a new star into a team's lineup acts as an inspiration. A striking example of this is shown in the New York Yankees. The addition of Joe DiMaggio to that list of veteran performers, Crockett, Lazzeri, Gehrig, Chapman, Dickey, Gomez, and the others, and the starring of that young man in the field and at bat, has made a bustling, bustling bunch out of the Yanks again, and they're mighty hard to beat.

Mickey Cochrane knew something when he acquired Al Simmons last winter, even though the Pole has not yet lived up to his Philadelphia reputation. Nor did any grass grow under Cochrane's feet when Hank Greenberg was injured. The top Tiger didn't hesitate, although he was forced "to pay through the nose," as Rogers Hornsby explains, when he purchased Jack Burns from the St. Louis Browns.

Ordinarily, clubs have to be jacked up from year to year.
