We Miss Real Replies to Important Issues

It is beginning to look as if this presidential year would give us a new high in the evasion of issues—by men of both parties.

For the issues this year are not simple things that can be met by a plain yes-or-no answer. Each one calls for a definite, detailed reply, an explanation of underlying philosophy so forthright that there can be no misunderstanding it. And it is going to be very easy to seem to make such an answer without actually doing anything of the kind.

Consider, for instance, the much talked-of matter of balancing the federal budget.

A candidate will arise and declare flatly that he believes in balancing the budget; on the face of it, a perfectly plain and unmistakable stand.

But who, in heaven's name, does not believe in balancing the budget? Unless the speaker tells precisely how and when he aims to balance the budget, he has expressed a pious hope and nothing more.

Well, he will say, "I favor balancing the budget by reducing needless federal expenditures, abolishing unnecessary bureaus, and cutting down the army of federal employees."

Again, that sounds very definite—but unless the speaker goes on to cite chapter and verse, he has said nothing of the slightest importance.

Of course he believes in reducing needless expenditures and firing needless workers. Who doesn't?

The point is, which expenditures does he consider needless? Which bureaus are "unnecessary"? Which departments are cluttered with superfluous employees, and how many of them does he propose to get rid of?

Go on from there. A speaker will beat his breast and declare that he stands for the expansion of America's foreign trade. Fine; so do we all. Has he said anything unless he goes on to tell us precisely how he would expand it?

He will declare himself in favor of labor's right to the exercise of collective bargaining; does that mean anything unless he tells us just how he would insure that right?

He will declaim for a sound currency; does his declamation mean anything unless he tells us exactly when and how he would anchor our currency to gold?

The point of all this is that "How?" is going to be the all-important question of this campaign. More than ever before, it will be necessary for the stump speaker to answer it. Simply to say "I favor—" will not be nearly enough.

For we all want pretty much the same things: economy in government, restoration of prosperity, the end of unemployment, a balanced budget, orderly and non-political administration of relief, and so on.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist Holds Annual Meet

BOSTON, Mass., June 10.—An appeal to Christian Scientists to work for the demonstration of World Peace, the reading or reports by church officers on the various activities of the movement throughout the world and sustained demand for the writing of Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, marked the annual meeting today of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Election of Mrs. Elizabeth Cadwell Tomlinson of Boston as President of The Mother Church was announced. She succeeds Dr. Frank C. Colby. Mrs. Tomlinson was born in Bryon, Wis. After graduating from St. Helen's Hall, a well-known Episcopal private school, she received a remarkable healing in Christian Science which brought her into the practice of this religion. She was at one time a delegate appointed by the governor of Oregon to a conference of women's organizations in Paris. In 1914 she was in London, England, at the outbreak of the World War and did service under Mrs. Herbert Hoover in relief activities.

The addition of 22 new churches and eight new university organizations, making a total of 2751 branches of The Mother Church and 55 college and university organizations, was announced by the Department of Branches and Practitioners.

Among the new Societies was one formed by the natives in a mountain province of the Philippine Islands. They had been holding services over a period of years and this past year came to the point in growth where they were able to go forward as a branch of The Mother Church.

Approximately 6000 Christian Scientists representing every state in the Union and practically every civilized nation in the world attended the meeting. The main floor and the galleries were filled within a short time after the church doors were opened, the overflow being accommodated in the original Mother Church where amplifiers were installed.

Introducing the theme of World Peace, William P. McKenzie, for the past year chairman of the Board of Directors, told the audience, "There is a rising demand in the hearts of men for freedom and justice. Can it be met by fair dealing? This requires self-government, does it not? Instead of hating with others to set them right, let a man become right himself and influence his neighbor by his good example."

Mr. McKenzie designated the way in which peace can be realized, pointing out that "when in a branch church growth has been made to the point that members respect one another and show deference and courtesy, work is done in friendliness. May not a time be coming, he asked, "when in congress and parliaments good will of this sort will show like harmonies and results?"

"Our leader in his preface to 'Miscellaneous Writings' spoke of the 'spiritual glow and grandeur of a consecrated life wherein dwelleth peace, sacred and sincere in trial or in triumph.' Following her inspiring example, let us dignify this coming year by an enable Science; the Science of Being; that it is theology as well as a Science. It is man's business to be absolutely obedient to divine Principle, God, to express, or exemplify, the nature of God. Thus he is both religious and scientific."

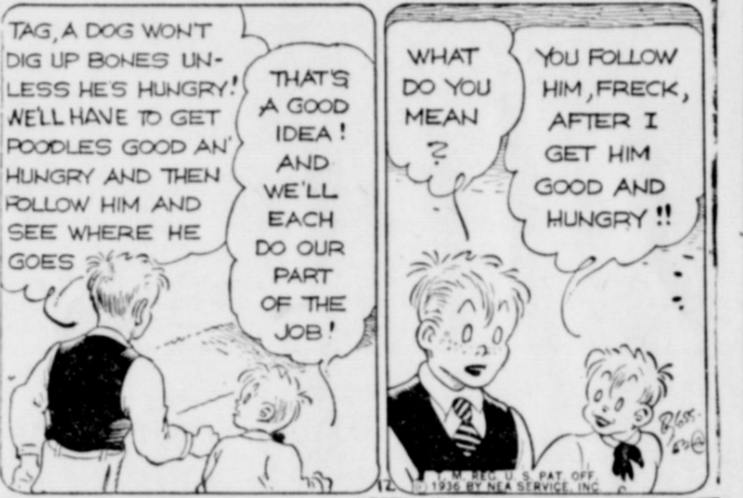

Following which he introduced Mrs. Elizabeth Cadwell Tomlinson as the new President of The Mother Church.

In her address, Mrs. Tomlinson spoke in somewhat the same vein as Mr. McKenzie, declaring that "the developments of this hour in world history are not disheartening to the thinker in Christian Science. These developments corroborate and fulfill our Leader's prophecy (Miscellany 281:28): 'War will end when nations are ripe for progress.' As humanity ripens in courage, in purity of purpose, in increasing virtue, in holiness, this ripening will hasten the day prophesied by our Leader when 'the Christ-spirit will cleanse the earth of human gore' (Miscellany 265:9). It is the life of men not the death of men, that determines the peace of nations."

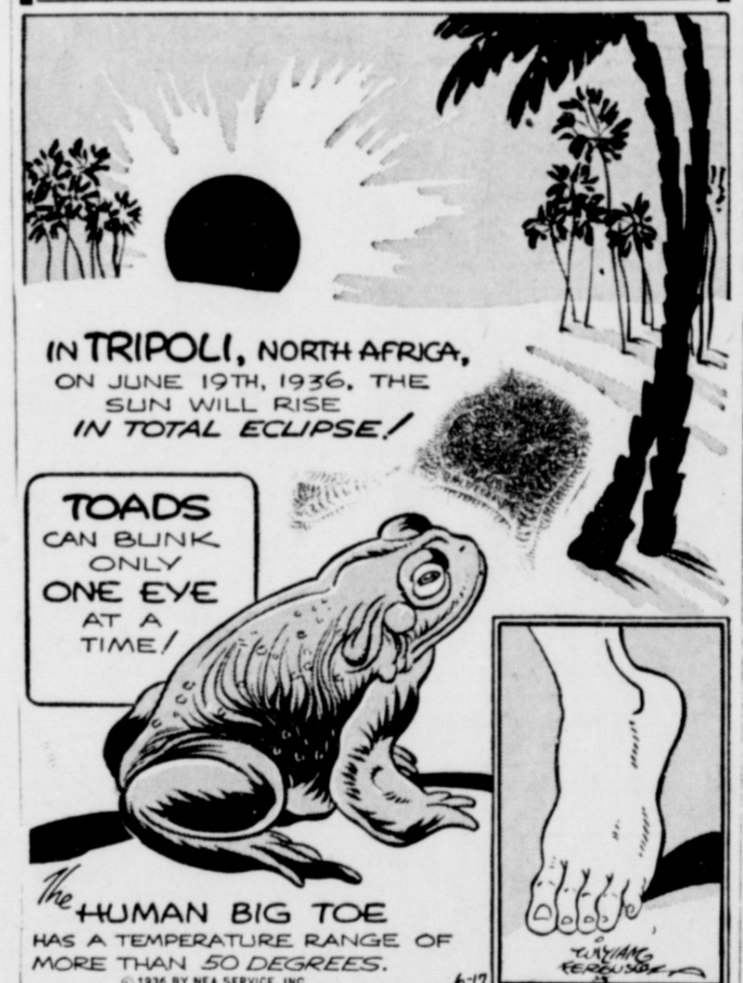

(Ephesians 4:3.)

As retiring President Dr. Frank C. Colby declared it "encouraging to find that Christian Scientists are realizing more fully and more keenly that Christian Science is something more than a glorified theology; that it is a demonstration. Edward L. Ripley, re-elected Church Treasurer, expressed gratitude that the indebtedness of a year ago, resulting from the remodeling and refurbishing of the former publishing house to serve as the Church Administration Building, had been met in full through the active co-operation of the field together with the earnings of The Christian Science Publishing Society. "There is no debt of any kind on the new Publishing House and other property owned by The Mother Church or its af-

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ON THE MORNING OF JUNE 19, the path of the eclipse from Africa, across Asia, Japan and into the Pacific, will be strewn with scientific expeditions. Many of them will have traveled half way around the world for a two-minute look at the totally eclipsed sun.

Also re-elected was Ezra W. Palmer, Clerk of the Church. One of the principal duties of the Clerk and his co-workers is the handling of applications for membership in The Mother Church.

His report included information as well on the relief work done by the church. The Relief Fund of The Mother Church alleviated distress caused by hurricane in Florida; by earthquake in Montana; continued work at the Veterans' Hospital, Osteen, N. C.; aided those whose property was damaged by tornado in Mississippi and North Carolina; and assisted sufferers from floods in southern and eastern states. Relief was dispensed among Christian Scientists in 14 states. In the course of this work assistance was given to or through a number of ministers of other denominations who have expressed much appreciation for the assistance and the spirit in which it was administered.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, in the recommendation for the appointment of postmasters, it has been the method of our congressman to go in person to a mass meeting called by him for the purpose of selecting a postmaster and in the convening of such mass meeting, he would inform the persons present that the postmaster would be elected for his recommendation by vote, but no one would be permitted to vote in such election for postmaster except voters who had supported him and voted for him in the last two campaigns for congress, and who lived within one mile of the post office, thus eliminating one half or more of patrons of the post office besides evading and ignoring entirely the Civil Service Law which provides that the postmaster must be one of three who has made the highest grade in a competitive examination. Whereas this county and the surrounding counties composing the 17th district, are practically all Democratic and no Republican opposition to a congressman has ever developed; Therefore, be it resolved by the Democratic Executive committee of Callahan county, Texas, that we declare the actions practiced by our congressman, Thomas L. Blanton, to be undemocratic to the highest degree that it thwarts the wishes of the people in its absurd unfairness, being detrimental to the well being of the patrons of such post office, creating dissension between neighbors and is con-

Old Peace Stones Go to Museum

AUSTIN.—On Dec. 10, 1850, a peace pact was made between the United States government and a number of Indian tribes at the head of Wallace creek, near the site of the present Texas town of San Saba. Two treaty stones, acknowledging the pact, were set up at the head of the stream.

Today, these two stones important in Texas history are in the hands of skilled technicians preparing them for exhibition in the University Centennial Exposition on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin from June 1 to Dec. 1.

Each of the stones is much the worse for wear. Carving on them is fairly visible, except in spots. Each limestone slab is about three and one-half feet in height, two feet wide, and six to 10 inches thick.

On one of the stones is engraved the name of J. H. Rollins, Indian agent. On it also are the names of the Indian tribes with whom he made the treaty. They are the Comanches, Lepans, Caddoes, I-on-Is, Ana-Du-Cas, Tah-Wah-Canos, and Wacoos. On the reverse side of the Stone is a crude sketch of Indian peace pipes crossed, and around this is carved the date and a star. Below this symbol of peace is the legend, "Friendly Indians present—Delawares, Shawnees, Cherokees and Quapaws."

On the second treaty stone carving was done on one side only. It gives the names, Major H. W.

Merrill, 2nd B Dragoons, and J. Delaney, Engr. No historical record has been found relating to the name Delaney, and it is believed that the abbreviation "Engd." indicates he was a civil engineer attached to the 2nd Dragoons.

Merrill's name has been found in army records. At Fort Riley, Kans., the records show that the Second Cavalry left Fort Martin Scott near Fredericksburg, Texas, in November, 1850. The detachment returned in December of the same year. During its absence the expedition are supposed to have been in the San Saba region in the interest of the treaty. Mayor H. W. Merrill, 2nd B Dragoons, was with the detachment. Delaney's name is not mentioned.

The representative of the Indians at the peace conference was an Indian agent, Capt. J. H. Rollins, whose name has also been spelled Rollins. He had come either from New Orleans or from Fort Concho near San Angelo.

Indians in the San Saba sector had been stealing horses as well as white boys and girls. The treaty was an effort toward stopping such raids. The spot at which the stones were set was an old Indian campsite. Deep mortar holes work into the limestone in that vicinity indicate that the campsite had been used long and frequently. The stones, set up there in 1850, remained standing until recently. About 10 years ago one of the stones came into possession of J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology at the university. He placed it in a vault along with other historical relics.

The other stone, which was more

Spencer Tracy in a scene from "Fury"

"Your face is kinda familiar," the dance hall girl tells Spencer Tracy, who has escaped from prison. The scene is from M-G-M's new picture, "Fury," a powerful indictment of mass lawlessness and mob hatred. It is the current attraction at the Connellee Theatre.

Let the rest of the family go in for politics if they will, but Nancy Jo and John Cobb Landon prefer baby chicks. Here the governor's children are shown at the Topeka railway station as they poked exploring fingers into an intriguing crate containing a shipment of chicks.

Dr. J. C. Hardy to Celebrate 25th Year As College Prexy

By United Press

BELTON, Texas. — Dr. J. C. Hardy, 72, will celebrate the beginning of his 25th year as president of Mary Hardin-Baylor College at Belton June 24.

The noted chairman-educator has been a college president for 37 years. For 13 years prior to his acceptance of the Mary Hardin-Baylor presidency, he headed the Mississippi A. and M. College. His first college teaching was to boys only. Mary Hardin-Baylor is for girls only.

Dr. Hardy's administration has seen the Belton school rise from a two-building institution with less than a hundred students to one of America's leading girls' schools, with membership in the American Association of Colleges. The development has been through a program sponsored jointly by Dr. Hardy and Dean E. G. Townsend. It includes re-arrangement of the curriculum, modernization of the business system, and the addition of new departments.

Seven new buildings have been added to the two original structures since Dr. Hardy's arrival; the campus has been increased from 20 to 75 acres; and expenses of students have been reduced. The college owns and operates its own dairy, meat market, creamery, laundry, heating plant, and truck farm.

Dr. Hardy is a well-known member of the Baptist church. For three years he served as president of the Baptist General convention of Texas.

He was born Dec. 24, 1864, in Newton, Miss. He went to public school in that city and afterward to Mississippi A. and M., where he graduated with first honors. Afterward he earned a master's degree from that college, a law degree at Millsaps college, and did graduate work in Cornell and Chicago universities.

Shortly after his graduation from college, Dr. Hardy became principal of the Carrollton (Miss.) Male academy. In succession he became principal of the Jackson (Miss.) high school, superintendent of schools in that city, and president of Mississippi A. & M.

In 1900, Dr. Hardy married Miss Kate Whitfield. Four of the couple's five children are still living.

Paris Dangers Rise at Dusk

By United Press

PARIS.—Late in the afternoon—when drivers and pedestrians are tired and at the ebb of vitality—is the most dangerous time to be abroad in Paris. More deaths from traffic accidents occur between 5 and 8 p. m. than at any other time of day—141 out of 463 for 1935. The least accidents occur at night.

Most accidents are due to fast driving and failure to slow up at crossings—19 per cent. Carelessness of drivers in other respects accounted for 16.9 per cent, and 9.7 per cent were attributed to automobilists who didn't want to cede the right of way to the persons who legally had it. Dozens of other causes accounted for the rest.

It is most dangerous in Paris to be a pedestrian. Bicyclists are next.

As for the vehicles which caused the deaths, private cars head the list. Next come trucks.

Just before the guillotine dropped, a French criminal was presented with his tax bill. He greeted it with a detached sneer.

Henry Ford predicts that auto materials will be grown on a farm in the future. In fact, from the highway, even now, parts can be seen lying in the fields.

BEHIN HERE TODAY
 THE EVERETT, ambitious to me a designer, comes to New York due to a stroke of luck. He is invited to the store of an exclusive shop-keeper, proves temperamental himself to work for.

THE HARGREAVES, young and interested in Gail and a her friendly advice. Presently she sees DICK SEARLES, a sister, ROSEMARY, was roommate at school.

MARK PRAN, long a wanderer, returns to his old home in the town of the Travers Mining Co. appears the den is crooked. Does not know the whereabouts of his niece, Gail, the owner of the property.

MADAME LIZETTE, representing the Travers company, confides in his friend, old KROKIER, and writes a letter to GILES HARDING, New York lawyer.

MARK PRAN asks Gail to marry him she agrees. A few days later she is in a rage of jealousy, and Lucette discharges her. Gail and Lucette discuss over a successful search for work. Gail's home, and she is offered her $10,000 for the same.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXI
 EREK," said Lucille in the soft tones she affected on him, "won't you let me give you a minute? Every time in my body feels cramped I know if I can even move."

"I'm sorry!" Derek pushed aside salette and brushes and held her hand to her. "I didn't realize how long you'd been sitting there. Didn't you speak before?"

"You looked so desperately serious I was afraid to speak."

"Come on down now," he said, "don't believe I can rise."

"Here," exclaimed Derek, lifting her in his arms and setting her down on the couch. "Stretch for a bit and you'll feel all right."

"He turned again to his work."

"It's not very nice of you to your back on me like that," he complained. "Why can't you come and speak to me? I've you are a woman hater!"

"There—even if one girl has had you badly I don't see why I should be so mean to every girl you meet."

"What's that you say?" Derek asked quickly across the room.

"Well, everyone knows you're crazy about Gail Everett and sure she led you on, but—"

"Stop," he said. "I don't want to hear any more of that."

"So you still worship her?" he laughed softly, tantalizing her. Then, slipping her hand in his, he said, "Derek, I want to tell you I've known Gail for years, and she's not worth worrying about. She loves admiration, when the time comes when she's ready to settle down every- one knows she'll marry Dick."

"You're sure about that—quite sure?" asked Derek. The night before he had seen Gail and Dick together. He writhed as he remembered how her sunny head had almost touched the other man's. Derek had called Madame Lizette's shop that morning and learned that Gail was no longer connected with the firm. He'd called the club, too, only to be told that there was no one of that name there. He did not know that a new telephone operator was on duty—one with small sense of responsibility.

"Yes, Derek," Lucille went on softly. "I hate to say it, but I know it's true."

GILES HARDING'S secretary stepped quietly into her employer's office. Here's a special delivery for you, she said, handing him a letter.

"From Arizona! I was just beginning to wonder if Mark Chapman had decided to come east instead of writing," Harding took up a paper knife and slit the envelope.

Quickly his eyes raced across the closely written pages. A moment later he was pressing a button, summoning his secretary.

"I wish you'd call up Madame Lizette's shop," he told her, "and get Miss Everett on the line."

"Mark Chapman says he's heard that an offer is on the way to the girl," Harding explained. "It's the Travers crowd who want the place—he's given us authority to head them off, but we must get hold of Miss Everett at once."

"Oh!" exclaimed Miss West, rapidly dialing.

But when she got Madame Lizette's shop she was curtly informed that no Miss Everett was associated with the concern.

"Not there now!" Harding jumped from his chair as he heard the news. "By George, she surely hasn't accepted and gone west to close the deal! Get Miss Cranston's letter from the file. I think I wrote Gail Everett's address on it. Seems to me she was staying at some club."

GAIL was in her room. For the first time since Derek and she had become engaged he had failed to send her a letter. She could not think what had happened, and had finally called him up. There was no answer. Gail decided she would call again in the afternoon if she did not hear from him before 5. She could not dream that, though Derek was in his studio, he had resolutely determined not to answer the telephone because he had a feeling that, since he had not written, Gail would surely call him. Loving Gail, he could not doubt her, and yet—

The telephone tinkled. Was it Derek, she wondered, as she lifted the receiver. "A gentleman to see you," announced the operator.

It must be Derek. Gail glanced in the mirror, smoothing her sunny hair, and adding a delicate touch of lipstick.

But when she reached the foyer Derek was nowhere in sight. She walked to the desk. "You called me a moment ago and said someone wished to see me."

"Yes, that gentleman over by the window."

It was not Derek! Gail's spirits sank. Had something happened to him?

"You wish to see me—Gail Everett?"

"Yes," replied the gentleman, rising. "I'm happy to meet you again, Miss Everett, though I don't suppose you remember me. I was a friend of your father's and attended to business affairs for him when you were at Miss Cranston's. I am Giles Harding."

"How d'ye do, Mr. Harding? I remember the name, though I cannot say I remember you."

GILES HARDING smiled. "I hardly expected you would. And now, I suppose you'll wonder what I'm doing here. I have some important news for you, but first, I wonder if you have had an offer for some property in Arizona?"

"Yes, I have. Isn't it all right? Don't tell me I'm a Cinderella once again, for I lost my job and this would be a perfect Godsend to me!" she asked eagerly.

"Oh, the property there's all right, but it is very valuable and I want to see that you don't give it away for a song. Before I go further, let me assure you that I have no interest in this affair except that, as a friend of your father's, I want to see that you are not fleeced. Also, your uncle has commissioned me to find you."

"My uncle!" Gail exclaimed. "But I haven't a relative in the world! Surely there must be some mistake."

"No. I have the proof right here."

"Well, you just caught me in time," Gail said after the lawyer had talked for half an hour. "I was going to write tonight and tell this man to send me the money. But I can't understand this. You say the Travers company wants the property, but they haven't made me an offer. It is some other man who wants it. I'll get the letter and show it to you."

Gail hastened to her room. She had an uncle; she was no longer all alone in the world! And the Rancho Angelo which had been her mother's home was hers.

Political Tidings From the Capitol

One of the slowest campaigns the state has known in years, 1936 is expected to develop real momentum when Gov. James V. Allred delivers the opening speech in his drive for re-election. Tom Hunter recently fired his first gun and other gubernatorial candidates have been busy for some time.

Interest has been engendered in a contest that ordinarily attracts little note—that for State Land commissioner. The race has narrowed down to W. H. (Bill) McDonald of Eastland, first to announce, and J. W. Hawkins, land office deputy.

Originally, Commissioner J. H. Walker was an entry and those backing Hawkins are reported regretful that Walker didn't make the race instead. Hawkins is nearly as advanced in years as Commissioner Walker and has been in the department nearly as long—more than 30 years.

Rumor has it that a recent tour into North Texas was far from comforting to Hawkins because his candidacy has been coupled with proposals for using convict crews in drilling for oil and in favor of having the state enter upon a gigantic oil hunting campaign that might prove very costly. Furthermore McDonald sought to give his rival's trip a boomerang effect by contending that Hawkins, being a State appointee ought to stay on the job and not campaign at the public's expense.

A change that is being advocated

Make sure that baby sleeps in Cool Comfort

Little folks need lots of restful sleep . . . naps in the afternoon and ten or twelve hours every night. And in the summer time, it's a problem. Stifling heat makes them roll and toss and it's impossible for them to relax completely as they should.

Comfort Cooling is the answer to this . . . a cool and soothing breeze, not too draughty but just right, is constantly brought in from the outside and over their little beds. They sleep in undisturbed restful slumber even on hottest days and nights.

The buffet table, flower centered, was graced at one end with a big silver platter of assorted cold meats, and at opposite end a similar tray of individual vegetable salads. The menu included, in addition, browned potatoes, green beans, deviled eggs, beet pickles, rye bread, whose wheat and white bread and butter sandwiches; fresh pineapple, spiced iced tea with mint, and last course of brick ice cream, served with assorted home-made small cakes.

Science Ends An Age-Old Fear Of Volcanic Eruption

HONOLULU. — The Science of predicting volcanic eruptions has become so accurate, that Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, Jr., State park service in Hawaii, has been called to the West Indies to ascertain when the next eruption may take place on the island of Montserrat.

The trip, investigation and prediction is being made at the request of the Royal Society of London. Dr. Jaggar expects to complete his work by late summer. For more than a year earth tremors have alarmed the people of Montserrat and the Royal Society of London sent Dr. Jaggar to survey the scene and to recommend any precautions that might be taken for the safety of the population. It happened that the invitation came at an opportune time, for Dr. Jaggar declares he is certain the volcanoes of the Hawaiian group will remain quiet for the next two years. His qualifications for making such a statement are accuracy in forecasting eruptions.

Hawaii's latest display of volcanic activity started Nov. 21, 1935, and ended March 15 of this year. During the period, lava flowed from the side of Mauna Loa in the national park until in early January, after which the activities consisted of smoke pouring from the mountain's crater. Almost two years earlier, Dr. Jaggar had predicted this eruption. Not only did he fix the time, but he set the point where the lava would burst from the side of the mountain and the direction it would take. As activity started

Church of Christ Gospel Meeting In its Final Stages

By John G. Bills, Minister
Three more days of Church of Christ meetings. This effort that is being put forth to the saving of souls will soon be history. We should be glad that you visit us and hear Bro. Banister while you have opportunity, as the Sunday evening service concludes these services.

Bro. Banister discussed last evening a subject that is greatly misunderstood, the purpose, mode and the order of "baptism" in the plan of salvation.

Plan to be with us at every remaining service, 12:15 to 12:45 noon and 8:15 p. m.
In his latest bout, Carnera quit in the ninth, claiming an injured ankle. Why not a rule preventing his opponent from hitting him on the head?
