Miss Laneous Notes

Get out your red flannels, ear muffs, and mittens folks, because in case you haven't a thermometer in your home or if its frozen stiff, it's cold outside.

As for us we are advocating that the well dressed woman take to the long handle lingerie for the duration and that ear muffs immediately become the vogue—do you know where we can borrow any?

Also among other equipment that the ladies should have, we suggest a windbreak carried along like the Indians used to hold shrubbery to hide from the enemy. Behind such an affair, a gal could get to work with both ears and nose still planted on the face.

We say to fashion fanciers, this is no time to be so particular about how you look. Even if you resemble the fat lady in the circus with your six coats, two awateers and muffs, don't turn chicken hearted about how you look.

And remember, this is what you folks were wanting during the summer. Just a little cool air. Well, here it is, all and sundry, so just bundle up and look like a sausage until the crisis has passed.

To help you at a time like this, we suggest thinking of how hot you were in the summer, how you'd feel if you hadn't paid the gas bill, how much warmer it is here than other places, and be glad you aren't in the steps of Russia.

If such well meant suggestions don't help, just put on another coat, if you can get it on over the others, and remember, when winter comes, spring can't be far behind.

Grid Game Rough In Old Days? You Just Ought To See How They Play Today

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 6 (AP)—Marking back over nearly 60 years of college football, the gentleman from Lehigh University observed that if old timers thought the game was rough, they ought to be surprised at that? So were several of Rulemaker Walter Okeason's listeners, who always associated the so-called good old days with the flying wedge and massed offense, shin guards, handlebar mustaches, and a hospital.

"It was a hard game in those days," said the astute Okeason, present chairman and a member for 20 years of the national collegiate football rules committee, in session here. The group expects to conclude its meeting tonight.

"But in those days," he continued, "the man carrying the ball seldom ran more than two yards before he made contact with the opposing team. He had no blockers—his teammates were all behind him, pushing."

"And contrary to general opinion, a man seldom was hurt in the pileups, where there might be as many as all 22 players. Mole-skin vests and heavy pants protected the player against slugging or kicking if an adversary were able to move a muscle in the tangle.

"Today a ball carrier may get up full steam, and usually does, before making contact. He gets hit in the open far more than he does now. He has men clearing the path in front of him, and that contact comes at full speed."

The rules committee chairman said it was amazing that critical injuries and fatalities these days are negligible compared with yesterday's casualties. He attributed this to light, improved equipment and better developed athletes, trained in body coordination.

There was not a single college football fatality last season. Okeason recalled that one year ago about 1905, there were 22 deaths, and where there was one college team playing then, there are 100 today.

The toll that year brought down public wrath and almost ended the sport. Eighteen state legislatures had bills under consideration to make football either a misdemeanor or a felony.

It was in 1905 that college athletic officials were called together to consider abolishing the game—and wound up saving it. They organized what is today the National Collegiate Athletic association, laid down rules designed to eliminate injuries and restored football to good standing.

"I think, looking back over the years, that we have succeeded in building a fine sport," Okeason concluded.

The Lions and ABC club met again Monday evening—this time on the basketball court—and it was the same old story.

They were tied up tighter than at 17-17 and had to take a three-at 17-17 and had to take a three-minute over-time period to settle the issue. ABC took the nod, 21-20. Further carrying out the record of the two teams, the Lions had a half-time lead but blew it.

In the first fast league game, Crystal Cafe stormed over Carnett Radio by a 40-29 count, while in the other encounter, Cosden swamped Vaughn's, 46-13. Greer was the hot-shot for Cosden, pushing in 19 points.

Higony for Crystal and Dawson for Carnett shared high point honors at 11 in the other game.

Thursday Crystal meets Cosden at 7:15 p. m., Carnett and Vaughn at 8:15 p. m. and city and Radford at 9:15 p. m.

Steer Quint Will Tangle With Lamesa

Ahliene, Odessa And San Angelo Look Like Top Contenders

What promises to be another terrific race, no less so than the last football campaign, catapulta to a flying start on four sides this evening.

For an opening encounter of the District 3-AA basketball loop, Big Spring will go to Lamesa, Ahliene and San Angelo, two of the favorites, will tangle, Sweetwater and Colorado City will have it out, and Odessa goes to Midland.

In the books, Ahliene, Odessa and San Angelo are due to top the league in its first season. This year, for the first time, basketball championships will be decided on a league instead of tournament play.

Ahliene has Sam Stovall and Dub Winkles back from its crack team of a year ago. Don Cranfill and John L. Higdon are returning lettermen and Taylor Paul, a 6-foot 3-inch star, will round out the quintet with extra help coming from Gene Spires.

San Angelo lacks some of the Ahliene flash, but the Bobcats have a record for consistency on the court, and must be considered dangerous this year. At Odessa, Jon Cowser, behemoth veteran, Jake Green, nimble forward, and Keith Evans spark the line-up together with Ellis and Lee. With much the same line-up a year ago, Odessa was the great shakes in this area, and unless opponents are able to loose such speed as will reduce the Broncho size advantage, the boys from Ector may be paired with Ahliene as the team to beat.

Blount For Big Spring

Experts are not figuring Big Spring in the thick of the fight, and on records, there is no good reason to. But it must be remembered that Peppy Blount, towering Steer star, is at his best on the hardwood floor. In the opening game of the season against Forsan he pushed in six field goals and two free tosses and led a spirited assault the following night when Forsan turned the tables.

Horace Bostick, who handles one of the guards, and Billy Womack, forward, have shown some good floor work and look good feeding the ball to Peppy. Earnest Bostick-guard, and James Fallon, who have been showing considerable promise in the line-up, complete the regular starters for Coach DeWard Marcum.

At Lamesa Coach Lester Gregg is doleful. He has three veterans back from a team that was steady but not outstanding last year. Somehow they haven't snapped out of it in workouts and unless there is a miraculous change, Gregg can't see much hope for his charges. However, this evening they will be playing on their home court, and those Tornados are tougher than an old sinner on home grounds.

Second round of the campaign is set for Thursday evening when San Angelo comes to Big Spring (and that's one of those super-spirited affairs), Midland goes to Sweetwater, Colorado City to Odessa and Lamesa to Ahliene.

Angelo Holds Bowling Lead

San Angelo maintained its one game lead over Midland Sunday as the West Texas Traveling Bowling league clicked off another round at San Angelo.

It next swings into session here on Jan. 25.

San Angelo held its margin despite a 4-5 game record Sunday, the same held by Big Spring's Douglass hotel team for the day.

Ahliene and Midland each won 5 and lost four.

John Odcom, Ahliene, who last year rolled four perfect games, got hot with a 296, but the very next round Roy Talley, San Angelo, came back with 294 to take some of the edge off Odcom's feat.

Teams of the league are still so closely bunched that any unit might forge to the front in a single spurt if leaders collapsed for a day.

Cosden Team Bowled Over By Schlitz

Cosden's reputation of having never lost more than one game in an encounter during the current bowling season went to pieces before the onslaught of Schlitz at the local alleys Monday evening.

Schlitz swept the series, rolling 533 to 778 for Cosden in the first round, taking the second 814 to 783, and the last one 799 to 755 for a grand total margin of 2,416 to 2,318.

Making it a complete night for the under-dogs, R&R rolled Big Spring Motor out 3-1, and Clay's No-D-Lay rose up and gave Lee Hanson a 3-0 blistering.

Stanley Wheeler was high man for the evening with 571 and also had high single at 213. The teams meet again Monday.

Ponies Going After Purses In Florida

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Denied a shot at the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in March, Midland, Chalderton and Pistor will try to salvage half that amount in Florida.

With Santa Anita's $1,000,000 racing season finally cancelled because of war conditions, a few rich owners plan to ship their top stars to Miami, New Orleans or Hot Springs, Ark.

Charles E. Howard's Midland yesterday was topweighted at 126 pounds for the $50,000 Widener Stakes at Hialeah Park March 7. He Porter's Cap, W. L. Brann's Pictor and Chalderton, preparing for a comeback, and Gustave King's Cis Marlon are other Anita residents eligible for the Widener.

However, Warren L. Wright's Whirlaway and a score of other turf stars, along with hundreds of lesser steeds, will stay at Santa Anita for varying periods. Whirly and most of the other horses nominated for the hundred grand gallop weren't named for eastern or southern stakes. Most couldn't get there if they were eligible. There's a priority on transportation and

Buddy Baer Confident That He Can Handle The Bomber

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 6 (AP)—Jacob (Buddy) Baer is a simple soul with a simple philosophy.

So when he sits down for a chat and tells you, matter of factly, that he can't see what he has to worry about from Joe Louis, you have to come pretty close to believing him.

He tells you this, mind you, in a tone about as worked up and tense as a fellow asking "Please put a head on my beer." The big racing horse won't rate high among defense demands.

Howard also will send Porter's Cap to Florida. He, Brann and King had made prior arrangements to ship to Miami.

E. F. Woodward sent three cardinals of his Valdina Farms horses to New Orleans Sunday. He took care of the stable situation by having some constructed for his thoroughbreds. Howard, W. C. Stroube and the Millsdale Stable already had rented the few stalls available at New Orleans.

Over 300,000 people are employed in the cosmetic industry of the United States.

guy is no more scared than a Wake Island Marine.

This is definitely not a fighter giving his courage a shot in the arm with big talk. It's not brother Maxie Baer, loud-talking for weeks before his big flop-roo with Louis and then resting on one knee shaking his head as the referee asked him to get up. If Buddy is afraid of what might happen in his nose-battering feecles with Louis in Madison Square Garden Friday night, then he ought to have Barrymore's profile—because he's every bit the actor.

"Look," he explained today as he started tapering off for his second crack at the heavyweight title. "I took Joe's Sunday shots last May and I'm still alive. Right? Well, then, knowing that, all I have to do is go in there and toss punches, or if Joe tries to make a boxing match out of it, I'll dance right along with him. Only if it's that kind of a thing, it's going to be a real stinkeroo."

One way or the other, there's going to be quite a gathering of folks giving it the double-o. Promoter Mike Jacobs wouldn't be at all surprised if the Garden bulges its walls housing some 20,000 customers for this tea-party. Right now, he's shooting at a gate of more than $300,000.

Of this, the Navy Ketter fund will be the big winner. Mike and Joe are giving their shares, and Buddy, who figures to need a little ready cash for amuse and assorted liniments after it's over, is turning in a good chunk of his cut.

No one except a fellow named Buddy Baer is giving Buddy Baer much of a chance of making the bomber's 30th title defense his last.

FLASH PREVIEW OF "Jungle Book"

Highlights from Alexander Korda's Technicolor screen version of Rudyard Kipling's classic novel, starring Sabu.

Lost in the jungle as an infant, Mowgli (Sabu) is nurtured by a mother wolf.

He returns to his native village and meets Patricia O'Rourke, daughter of Buldeo the Hunter (Joseph Calleia).

When Mowgli discovers the treasure room of a lost city, Buldeo and his henchmen seek to steal the jewels.

Mowgli then quarrels with Buldeo, who accuses him of being a jungle demon.

And when the villagers threaten violence, he returns to the jungle with his friends.

ON THE SETS With REED JOHNSTON

Mr. Jack Benny, who on the airwaves and not too long ago let himself in for some raucous criticism through his determined rendition of "The Bee" on his violin, is in a fair way to stick his neck out again these days as a result of his equally dogged attempts to play Hamlet in the Alexander Korda screen comedy, "To Be or Not to Be."

In this instance Mr. B—or Mr. "Bee" as you might call him by this time—finds himself in the awkward role of a Polish actor named Josef Thurer who is trying to lay them in the aisles as the Gloomy Dane, in the face of constant interruptions from the Warsaw-involving Gestapo and the somewhat unwifely frivolity of his actress bride, played by Carole Lombard.

So it seems in the story that Mr. Benny's little helpmate and co-star in their production of "Hamlet" has the habit of using his "to be or not to be" line as the signal for one of her current admirers to leave the auditorium and ward his way backstage for a brief rendezvous in her dressing-room, while the hapless Mr. B is thrashing his way through his Hamlet soliloquy before the footlights. And this, as you might well imagine, is not at all soothing to an actor's—or husband's—vanity, particularly when the Nazi Gestapo are also on the loose.

Well, as the story goes, there comes a sequence in which Mr. Benny finds Robert Stack sleeping in his apartment and, to verify his suspicions, leans over the slumbering Stack and speaks the magic lines, "To be or not to be." This, as it turns out, has the expected effect on young Mr. Stack, who rises as one hypnotized and starts to move from the bedroom.

"Just a minute," says Benny. "How did you get in here?" "I landed from a parachute." "Who let you into this apartment?" "Your wife! Haven't she come back yet? I'm worried!" "You're worried!" shouts Benny. "What about me? You come into my house!" "Not so loud!" Stack answers. "They'll hear us! We're all in the same boat!" "Well," says Benny, with fine sarcasm, "as one sailor to another, could you tell me what ill wind blew you into my slippers?"

Considering the circumstances, this was certainly a fair question, but the answer unfortunately will have to wait until such time as "To Be or Not to Be" is unreeled on the screen. And speaking of fair questions, there's one query this puzzled observer would like to have answered before he gets a day older. Why is it, since Mr. Benny is himself a shortish man—why is it that his stand-in wears six-inch build-ups on his shoes?

Fashion Scene By MARGARET MCKAY

Merle Oberon, lovely star of "Lydia," gives us a bedroom secret that is well worth our attention. Too many of us, who look impeccable when we are outside our home, are inclined to be careless about our looks in the house. And concurring with Miss Oberon's remarks, we believe that when there's a husband about the place, it's an all-out necessity to present pretty uninteresting.

One of the average husband's pet peeves is the unflattering old-fashioned hatnet the little woman uses to set her curls in place. It destroys more romance in two minutes than has been built up in two years, they say. The old hairnet, while most necessary for covering a few stray curls before going out for a date, or for the whole night, does keep pins in, but looks pretty uninteresting.

Miss Oberon suggests a contrivance, however, that is becoming as well as efficient. She uses a two-yard length of veiling or tulle in a color to match her nightgown or housecoat and winds it about her curls ending it in a pert butterfly bow on top of her forehead. She has tulle hair coverings in pink, blue, peach and black. This way, observing husbands don't even suspect the goings-on beneath, and it's certainly easier on the eyes.

BEST DRESSED GIRL OF THE WEEK: Irene Dunne, who places in the race for the best-dressed girl about as often as anyone, does it again! Dining at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, in the Blossom Room, she wore the stunning new color, sage-green. Covered in crepe, the afternoon frock was cut on the Empire line, with a bolero top, a tunic almost to the knees, and a slit skirt. A bronze-green felt hat with lacey brown veiling was clipped, in the new way, to one side of her square neckline with a osany diamond neck.

AROUND TOWN: Mona Barrie wore some alluring new clothes in Monogram's new picture, "The Road to Happiness," starring John Boles. One papilion cut, white crepe jacket with long sleeves (for evening wear) was embroidered in white beads. It was so fetching, she is having it copied in a new winter idea—white frosting on black. In other words, a black crepe jacket with white beading for contrast.

Record Review By WAX MAN

Harry James goes to the Paramount picture, "Birth of the Blues," for one of the slickest musical novelties in a long time. It's the old tune, "Wait 'Til the Sun Shines, Nellie," smartly garnished with a "rustic" jump effect possessing an instrumental humor that is swell. This waxing earns a superlative rating for this one and we think he has another big seller. Companion is a brilliantly scored arrangement of "The Devil Sat Down and Cried." Harry's trumpet is delicious and the odd trio of Harry, Helen Forrest and Dick Haymes is something to remember.

Lionel Hampton, vibraharp and drum ace, whose brilliant young band is breaking records on its first Eastern theatre tour, has signed an exclusive two year recording contract with Decca. In addition to making a session of his own soon, the band will record six tunes with Fred Astaire, who will put his inimitable tap routines on wax.

Count Basie, who is making the listener gasp at the greatness of King Joe with lyrics sung by Paul Robeson, brings forth another fine example of his musicianship. It's a slow ballad, "I Struck a Match in the Dark," with vocal expertly maneuvered by Earl Warren. The harmonic blend is full-bodied, consistently even and romantic without the syrup. Flipover is in Platters, an original by the Count and saxist Tab Smith. Here, Basie unburdens the crew and there's much punch by brass and reed. Count also runs hotly over the keyboard.

Charlie Spivak's sweet trumpet and one of the sweetest men on earth, Papa Niccolini, make a great combination. It's smooth and tasteful, punctuated by Charlie's horn and the drums while Garry Stevens and the Stardusters lend fine support with the excellently worked lyrics. Plattermate is Dreamsville, Ohio, a super soft dance arrangement coupled in a fluttering setting of a distinct and pleasing warble by Jean Hutton. Charlie's trumpet is relaxing and the richness of the tune raises it as an ace possibility.

Taking life easy here, with one shoe off and one shoe on, is Marion Martin, platinum-blond lovely now under contract to RKO-Radio.

Reviews of Previews

Picking the outstanding picture previewed this past week in Hollywood was an easy task. Universal provided the film: the uproarious "HELLZAPOPPIN'" starring, of course, Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, aided and abetted by Martha Raye.

Ole Olsen, Chic Johnson and custard pie in "Hellzapoppin'."

Hugh Herbert, Mischa Auer, Jane Frazee and a jingny cast of topnotch players. When Universal announced that the studio had bought the screen rights to this screwball comedy which has a background of three years' success on Broadway, critics who had seen the stage version were a puzzled lot. How could anyone make a picture out of the assortment of zany gags that made up the best belly laugh show that Broadway had seen in many a long year? No one at Universal knows how they did it—they just did.

It's a three-ring circus, with Messrs Olsen and Johnson in each of the three rings at the same time. How they do it, your reviewer can't even guess. But to repeat: they do. Moreover the film is studied with music; but good, with four songs definitely hit material. You'll be humming them so here they are: "You Were There"; "Congeroo"; "Heaven for Two" and "What Kind of Love Is This."

When Chic and Ole are on the same scene nobody in the cast has a chance. But meanwhile Martha Raye does herself proud with four songs and two dances, displaying at the same time a plenty of Martha Raye, hitherto unrevealed. Excellent too is Hugh Herbert, playing a detective with a yen for phoney fligees. Banjo-eyed comedian Mischa Auer has never been seen to better advantage. He even plays one scene in shorts—all things. Big, good-natured Lewis Howard is a standout, and the romance side is effectively handled by Robert Page and extra lovely Jane Frazee. But it's not fair to mention names: everyone connected with the picture from the props and gripmen deserve a word of praise for bringing the cinema audiences of America this lay-em-in-the-aisle comedy, to miss which is your own hard luck. Personally I intend to see it at least three or four times.

THUMB NAIL PREVIEWS. 20th Century-Fox's "BLUE, WHITE AND PERFECT" starring Lloyd Nolan and Mary Beth Hughes. The latest in the Michael Shane series and by far the best to date; it's a story of Nazi saboteurs dealing with the smuggling of diamonds for industrial purposes. Lloyd Nolan does an outstanding job, but unfortunately Miss Hughes although very beautiful to look at has little chance to do much.

The new Wallace Beery film, "THE BUGLE SOUNDS," is as timely as the headlines in your morning paper. It's a typical Beery role and he plays a hard-bitten army sergeant for all he's worth, ably assisted by hoarse-voiced Marjorie Main, who, again teamed with Mr. Beery, turns in a smash performance. A top flight supporting cast headed by the polished Lewis Stone as an army colonel, with Henry O'Neil, Chill Wills, Tom Dugan and Greta Williams as his staff are extremely well cast. Bill Lundigan and the up-and-coming Donna Reed supply a touch of romance, while George Bancroft and Jerome Cowan attend to the inevitable dirty work. With such a cast and a good story to boot it's easy to predict that "THE BUGLE SOUNDS" will play to capacity houses.

Meet the Stars With VIC BOESEN

Henry Wilcoxon, whose sturdy and sensitive characterizations have repeatedly impressed you since his work eight years ago in "The Crusades," would likely never have succeeded as an actor but for the fact he was thrown for a fall first thing when he decided to leave England for Hollywood. There was a series of alternately sad and fortuitous misadventures that would have discouraged a less resolute man.

He was selling suits for a London tailor shop at the time, one of varied endeavors which had included public accounting and peddling flour, and the presence of an American customer in the shop one day, a spiritualist gentleman named Valentine, who was returning home forthwith, gave him the idea. Hollywood sounded considerably more promising than selling suits.

He could travel with Mr. Valentine and in order to avoid delay with the authorities, would go as his "chauffeur." Wilcoxon straightway uprooted himself, giving up his job and saying goodbye to his friends.

Outfitted in chauffeur's uniform on the day of departure, he heard himself being told by the man behind the wicket at the dock: "Really, old boy, we have nothing against you personally but there is a new law in America—something to do with labor from abroad."

Wilcoxon was in rather a mess. With a few pounds rebate on his ticket, bought with borrowed money, he scanned the theatrical ads. One "Sidney Jay," an agent, was advertising for talent. Hurrying to the address given, Wilcoxon found a condition extending from the agent's door that resembled a bread line. The harried talent dealer was reaching out and spearing an odd one now and then. His paw fell on Wilcoxon, leaving a slip of paper in his hand.

The note instructed him to go to such-and-such address "ready-made-up at three o'clock." This had absolutely no meaning whatever. Wilcoxon remembered an old rule: "When in doubt, ask a bobby." He approached the nearest one. "I've just got a job as an actor," he began. "But these instructions, I don't understand them."

The bobby read the message, thoughtfully stroking his chin. "Ready-made-up" he repeated to himself. "Oh, I say," he said suddenly. "That must be that grease stuff they put on their faces!"

Wilcoxon hurried off and bought make-up in such quantities that he still has some of it, these years later. And when he arrived at the proper address, where a movie was in the making, it developed that the part stipulated no make-up.

And so Henry Wilcoxon went on from there to his new career. Barney Glazer of Hollywood's Paramount Studios saw him one night in "Eight Bells," and so he was brought to America, not as a chauffeur but as one of England's and the Continent's best known actors.

ERSKINE JOHNSON'S HOLLYWOOD

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Orson Welles, who startled Hollywood and moviegoers with a revolutionary motion picture technique in "Citizen Kane" going to surprise them again with his soon to be released. The boy wonder is going back to Hollywood's oldest technique—silent pictures. One-third of "The Magnificent Ambersons" is silent with Welles acting as narrator. Although not seen, Welles still will be one of the stars of the film. . . . Olivia de Havilland has a telephone date Christmas morning with Gene Markey. He's with the navy in Panama. . . . Watch for Ann Sheridan and George Brent to announce the wedding date some time this week. Ann, incidentally, really lives up to the oomph girl title in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Ironic twist to the honoring of Bob Hope and Rita Hayworth by Hollywood photographers as the most "photogenic" stars of the year on the air. Stars of the radio show are Joan Arthur and Fred MacMurrary, both of whom were candidates for the Hollywood Women's Press Club title of "least cooperative stars."

Bedtime story by Red Skelton: "Once upon a time there was a little island called Japan. . . that's all."

George Brent, who hasn't worked with Olivia de Havilland for three years, kissed her for the first time since then for a scene in "In This Our Life." "My," said George, "but you've grown up." . . . Frank Lloyd's new version of "The Spoilers" may find Marlene Dietrich getting mixed up in recreation of the famous fight. Script writers are hoping to toss Dietrich into the fray when Randy Scott and John Wayne mix it up. . . . Bob Gregory and Dorothy Sebastian were a new twosome at Leone's. . . . Joan Crawford is introducing the goofy hat to end all goofy hats. It's shaped exactly like a man's topper but is covered with mink, even to the small brim. . . . Joan de Havilland has a telephone date with producer David Hempstead another hit. And RKO a new star, Michele Morgan.

Talking about cancellation of the Rose Bowl game, Billy Gilbert said: "Never mind, those Japs aren't going to have any bowl of roses, either."

Add Hollywood millenniums: The leading lady, Sally Payne, capturing the villain instead of the hero, Roy Rogers, in a new western, "The Man From Wyoming." And they're even breaking a Gene Autry tradition on the cowboy's new western, "Cowboy Serenade." For the first time a woman, Fay McKenzie, rides Autry's famous horse, Champ.

Male students at UCLA have voted Betty Grable the girl they'd most prefer to be caught with in a blackout. . . . Since hurting his leg in one of his famous drunk routines, Leon Errol has notified RKO officials that he will drop "rubber legs" for all future pictures. . . . MGM has first call on galley profits of Rian James' new book "The Happy People." . . . In her first three pictures at Republic, Judy Canova eagerly sought but was refused romance, per the script. But now, in "Sleepy-time Gal," she goes on a kissing spree and has four boy friends—Skinny Ennis, Tom Brown, Jerry Lester and Billy Gilbert.

J. Carrol Nash told it between scenes of "Tales of Manhattan." Day after war was declared his Jap gardener didn't show up for work. But the next day he was there, busy in the garden, all smiles, and wearing a tremendous Mexican sombrero. Turning to Nash, the Jap beamed and said "Good morning, senor."

Virginia Weidler, the kid star who is growing up, has replaced her famous pigtails with an adult pompadour for her role in "Born to Sing."

Eleanor Powell is combining adagio and high-diving routines for a dance number in "Ship Ahoy." In exactly 2 minutes and 10 seconds she dances across a boat deck, climbs an eight foot springboard and swan dives from it into the arms of a male partner in the water below and is tossed to another partner standing on a raft 10 feet across the pool. . . . Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire were talking about possible opening of Santa Anita. "If the track doesn't open," Astaire said, "the state will lose $3,000,000 in taxes." "Yeah," said Crosby, "and if it does open I'll lose my shirt." . . . Paramount may retitlle Dorothy Lamour's new film, "Malaya," because of the war.

KEN MORGAN'S HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

As in the last war, the top personalities of the show world are offering their services to government agencies to give impetus to the sale of vital defense bonds. Understand the Treasury Department has approached Jack Benny with the request that he organize a troop of top radio names to tour key cities selling defense bonds and stamps. Jack will jump at the opportunity and Warner Brothers Studio, where the comedian is committed for a picture, has pushed back the start of the film so that the tour could continue through March.

Immediately upon publication of the news that Jane Withers would leave 20th Century-Fox Studios, the top star received offers from three other lots and another from a Broadway producer. The Withers studio certainly won't seem the same without Jane. She has grown from a little child to a young lady during her seven and a half years under the same banner.

Richard Arlen is in a quandary. He can't get a cook. A few weeks ago, his cook, a colored gentleman who had been satisfying Dick's palate for 18 years, had an acute attack of appendicitis and was rushed to the hospital for the operation. He'll be out for two months. The replacement had a stroke on his initial day's work and will be incapacitated for six weeks. In the meantime, word of the Arlen lull spread to the employment agencies and old debbil superstition walked in and Dick is forced to eat at restaurants.

THE GOOD RUMOR MAN: Mary Dees, who became well known in Hollywood while doubling for the late Jean Harlow, is flying to Columbus, Ohio, in a few days to meet Lyle Talbot and wedding bells peal. . . . Walter Brennan's part in "Swamp Water" allows him to wear his "store teeth." Most of the time, however, Walt plays in pictures as a toothless old man. One Vessel Is Sunk, Second Is Damaged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The hard hitting reappearance of U.S. bombers over the South Pacific gave the capital double grounds for elation today—a fresh blow had been dealt units of the Japanese fleet, and it offered evidence that American aerial reinforcements were arriving in the Far East.

There was a definite feeling that the united nations soon would be in a position to give a better account of themselves in the sky fighting. This expectation was encouraged by London reports from Burma crediting the American volunteer corps there with a two-day bag of 66 enemy planes at the cost of four of their own.

For results, the No. 1 exploit reported in the final U.S. communications yesterday was the work of the army bomber flight which blasted an enemy destroyer to the bottom of Davao bay in the Philippines and scored three direct hits on a battleship in the same waters. All the bombers got back undamaged to their secret base.

The big thriller, however, was the stirring battle put up by the U.S.S. Haron, a small seaplane tender, which fought off a seven-hour attack by 15 Japanese bombers in the Far East. The doughy little ship destroyed one four-motored flying boat, badly damaged at least one other, and was able to make port safely despite the one bomb hit she sustained.

In the course of this fierce engagement, the navy reported, the attackers dropped 46 one-hundred-pound bombs and launched three torpedoes at the 840-ton seaplane tender. For the courageous way he fought his ship, Lieutenant William Laverette Kabler, the skipper, was awarded the navy cross and immediately promoted to lieutenant commander.

Split Between Hitler, Generals Grows Wider

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—A reliable foreign source tonight reported a widening split between Adolf Hitler and his generals over the backfiring offensive against Russia.

This source said that Field Marshal Gen. Walter von Brauchitsch was the third high Nazi army leader either to resign or be fired by Adolf Hitler.

The others were Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock, commander of the central front in Russia, and Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, who asked for his discharge even before the campaign began.

General Blaskowitz was said to be living in Paris as a private citizen. One of the main leaders in the Polish campaign, he arranged the capitulation terms for Warsaw. When Hitler decided to invade Russia, the general said he "wanted no part of it," this informant said.

Information from an "irrefutable agent abroad," also said that Gen. Oscar von Neidermayer, chief of the eastern department under von Brauchitsch and a staunch admirer of his superior, also had been dismissed.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (Wide World)—At least two of the proposals the football rules committee has under consideration were tried out in the Southwest last fall... In a good many college games subs were allowed to report to any official instead of just to the referee and witnesses say it kept things moving right along.

Coach Warren Woodson of Hardin-Simmons used intra-mural games to try out the stunt of allowing a score-on team to have its choice of goals and think it worked well... Pete Reiser will get the J. Louis Comiskey Memorial award as the outstanding 1941 rookie at the Chicago Baseball Writers' dinner tonight... Then he'll probably have to explain what he was doing on a stage fixed up like an old-fashioned saloon... California papers claim Chicago is in too big a hurry about bidding for the national amateur golf, scheduled for Feb. 10 at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Revelations, Inc.—In his stories in the Cleveland Plain Dealer on the career of Larry Lajoie, Eugene J. Whitney reveals that the Indians' first "cry baby" act took place in 1907, when Larry was manager... Several players decided in mid-season that the club ought to have a new pilot and when First Baseman George Stovall was suspended at a run-in with Lajoie he complained to President John Kilgoy... The complaint didn't get far.

Footman's paragraph—Fred Digby of the New Orleans item reports that his paper, as well as the Times Picayune, got out a big Sugar Bowl section and that the football game was a sell-out three weeks before either of them appeared... The item, incidentally, claims the Sugar Bowl as its own baby because it boosted the show when other papers laughed... W. George Blackley of Waterford, N. Y., who calls himself a "self-appointed soccer booster," points out that Victor McLaglen, Buff Donnell, Jimmy Wilson, Pete Reiser, Joe Triner, Nelson Rockefeller, and Charles Evans Hughes, 3rd, are just a few of the prominent names that have been connected with the game.

FSA Families Pay Off Loans, Start '42 In Good Standing

Howard county farm families cooperating with the Farm Security Administration have made substantial repayments on their loans advanced by this agency and are beginning 1942 with the best prospects in years.

Ur D. Kendrick, rural rehabilitation supervisor for FSA in Howard, Glasscock and Martin counties, predicted Monday that clients were "eager to do their part in the Food for Freedom campaign," and that by reason of liquidating obligations during the autumn are in a better position to make a real contribution to the food production.

More than $2,000 has been repaid on FSA loans the past year in Howard county, said Kendrick. He added that in this particular county, 95 per cent of the farm families have paid their 1941 obligations ahead of time, and 14 families paid their accounts in full and will be in no further need of the agency.

Amount repaid by the 60 farm families receiving aid in Howard county was $21,237. Glasscock county constituents paid off $2,845 and those in Martin county paid in $23,237, making a total of $47,319 received by the office. This was against total loans of $60,000 for the three counties— loans which were to be amortized from one to many years. Part of the payments, of course, was on maturing accounts.

Crude Production Gains During Week

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Daily crude oil production in the United States decreased 51,790 barrels to 4,029,700 for the week ended Jan. 3, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

California production was down 50,000 to 577,750; Kansas 14,450 to 242,200; Illinois 1,315 to 286,110; Oklahoma, 260 to 419,400, and East Texas 80 to 289,050.

Texas production increased 11,150 to 1,484,500; Michigan, 1,650 to 54,100; Louisiana 1,075 to 361,075; the Rocky Mountain states 640 to 112,260, and eastern fields 450 to 112,260.

Between the Heron and the success of the army bombers, attention was momentarily distracted last night from the grim, all-but-hopeless last stand General Douglas MacArthur was making on Luzon with his battle-tired American and Filipino veterans.

Even Italians Laud MacArthur

ROME, Jan. 6 (Andi Agency to AP)—The Turin newspaper La Stampa in an editorial today commended General Douglas MacArthur's "resistance, courage, energy and obstinacy" in the American commander's defense of the Philippines.

"Events have shown that, if he is not abandoned by his native troops, he will prolong his resistance," the article declared.

Editorial— Playing Safe Aids Cause Of Victory

If ever there was a time for increased safety consciousness and action on the part of the public, that time is now.

It is an indictment in normal times that we should lose so much in property and life through sheer carelessness and thoughtlessness; it is a crime of serious rank to permit it to go in time of national crisis.

We are now engaged in a total war, and that means that there is the greatest of demands on all resources. We cannot afford to foolishly and needlessly lose materials, time or life when they will be needed so dearly.

Hence, it behooves every individual, every community and every part of our society to consciously contribute toward the cause of safety and conservation of our resources.

This may take various forms. It may mean an increased effort to prevent fires. We have just seen how nearly $50,000 went up in smoke here last year. This was loss. It worked no good, only harm. Certainly every bit of property we save from destruction by fires might be used in some way toward our defense program.

Every car wreck damages materials and calls for replacements in metal that we cannot afford to divert to civilian use. Many of these mishaps take a toll of life when we sorely need the help of every person in the land. Many inflict injuries when we need all at their particular job.

Every wave of sickness causes lost time and lost production. We must be on the guard against loss of health. And so on it goes—we must be on the watch eternally this year. The time to make our domestic existence a safer one is now at hand. Something must be done about it—must be done now and done effectively.

NO TIME FOR LOVE

By WATKINS E. WRIGHT

Chapter Ten
OFF FOR ROMANCE

Lavinia closed her suitcase with a bang, and locked it.

"All right," she said, "I'm all set." She walked over to her aunt, put her arm around her. "Darling," she said, "if it's going to make you happy for me to have a fling at frivolous living, I'll try. I'll make your hair stand on end—but I doubt it."

"You'll get by," said Aunt Dorcas.

"Just about," said Lavinia. "And that will be all."

"All you've got to do is forget Armsworth's Department Store," Miss Dorcas said. "Forget that and the fact that you are a fairly successful young woman from Manhattan, and lead an attentive ear to whatever young men say to you."

"Suppose there are no young men?"

"Of course there'll be. Harbor Head is full of them."

"I mean suppose there are no young men for me?"

"Nonsense! You're an attractive young woman, and the men will be quick to see—and get busy."

"Which will be just ducky," said Lavinia, with a touch of sarcasm.

Miss Dorcas gave her a sharp look. "And don't talk like that to the men," she warned. "If there's anything in the world that shags a wet blanket on romance—it's sarcasm, and what you modern young people call wise cracks."

"Goodness!" said Lavinia, trying to speak gayly. "You sound like advice to the lovers. Don't tell me you are speaking from actual experience?"

"Maybe."

"Tell me about it, Aunt Dorcas."

"There isn't time. But please remember, Lavinia, that I wasn't born in a jungle or a buried city."

"I've always suspected you of having had a romance back in the old home town. Am I right?"

"All girls—even a girl as plain as I was—get attention," said Miss Dorcas.

Presently the buzzer rang. Miss Dorcas went to the speaking tube.

"Yes!" she said.

"It's the taxi you ordered, ma'am," said a masculine voice.

"Then come on!" said Aunt Dorcas, picking up her suitcase. Lavinia picked up hers—but she hesitated. She stood in the center of the room, looking about at all her little possessions. She had a sad sort of feeling that nothing was ever going to be the same again. It made her feel like crying—made her wish she could drop her suitcase, make a flying leap for the bed—and there bury her face among the pillows.

And then the taxicab was moving off—down town. The first lap of Lavinia's journey had begun. Grand Central Station. A streamlined train speeding northward. To Maine. To Harbor Head. To a gay hotel. And then what?

Now they were turning into East Forty-second street. Now they were getting out of the taxi. Aunt Dorcas was paying the fare, and tipping far too generously. A red cap came out. He picked up the two suitcases.

"What train, lady?"

"The Boston Express," said Aunt Dorcas.

"Yes! Right this way, lady," Aunt Dorcas hurried after the man. Lavinia fell into step with her.

Aunt Dorcas looked at her.

"Stick up your chin," she said. "You look like somebody on the way to the guillotine."

"Then I look exactly like I feel," said Lavinia.

And a sudden wave of homesickness for the quiet little spot in Connecticut swept over her. . . .

A Little Frightened

Three days later Lavinia Frenchie was standing on a high rock upon the rugged coast of Maine. She was alone, and had never before in all her life felt so alone. Aunt Dorcas had stayed over night, had seen that she was comfortably settled in a room at the Cliffside Inn, had gotten the hair properly introduced to the hostesses, had sampled the meals—and then departed.

"Here I go for the musty Plunkett!" she said ruefully. "Be a gay girl, my dear, and see what you can do to masculine hearts while I see what I can do to a dead whale's innards!"

"Oh, Aunt Dorcas," Lavinia wailed, "I do wish you'd stay here with me!"

"Nonsense! You're on your own now, Lavinia. Remember, your mother was a heart-breaker, even if your father was rather dull. Try being your mother's child for a while. You've been your father's quite long enough."

"Yes'm," Lavinia promised, very meekly.

Then Aunt Dorcas's Portland train coming along—taking her away.

And now—the rugged coast of Maine—and Lavinia, lonely, miserable, gazing out to sea. "I feel," she told herself, "like I imagine Napoleon must have felt when he was left upon the Isle of St. Helena."

Then, seeing some bathers upon the stretch of sand down at the foot of the rocks, she decided upon a swim. At least it would give her something to do. Perhaps the icy water would shock her out of her feeling of depression.

She walked slowly back to the inn, conscious of people glancing at her as she crossed the wide veranda. She knew that they looked at her as she crossed the lobby.

"I'm just another new girl come to the inn," she thought, "and they're all curious." She got into the elevator, still thinking. The people who eyed her didn't know, of course, that she was a dud socially. But they'd soon find out, when they played bridge with her, or when they asked her to dance.

Oh, well, after the first bout with her bridge playing and the first skirmish with her dancing, they would leave her alone. Then she could sneak out the book about advertising out of her suitcase, find a secluded spot on a tall rock, and do as she pleased.

"Remember," Aunt Dorcas had said, "you're to put thoughts of business completely out of your head."

"Yes'm."

"You're to act like an attractive girl on a vacation—not like a student cramming for exams."

Well, here she was at her room. Now for the swim. She got out the brief swimming suit, and the gay beach robe. Then, taking a deep breath, she prepared herself

THE BOY WHO WAS LATE CALLING ON THE NEW GIRL

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— Prescription For Girl Trouble

HOLLYWOOD—There are some things I'm afraid we don't take seriously enough. We harken our hearts and overlook the inner sufferings of some of our movie people, just as if they weren't folks like the rest of us, with feelings.

You, now, did you ever give a thought to the woes of the "other man"? Did you suspect that being the other man—the one who is out when the hero is in, the gink who almost makes the grade romantically—can create a psychosis?

Let us study the plight of Les Bowman, who in 10 movies, has romanced with a luscious heroine only to lose her, by script decree, to the "better man." The class may take notes on this interesting case history, and file same under "Bowman—Cause and Cure."

His testimony: "It was getting me down. I was beginning to doubt myself. I would woo a girl right up to the altar and then—there I stood holding a bouquet in one hand and feeling pretty silly while somebody else married the heroine. I started wondering if this would happen to me in life. It worried me until I began to lose weight. I took stock of myself. I had two arms and two legs, just like anybody else, and children never ran screaming to their mothers at the sight of me."

On The Beach

Reaching the beach she tested the water with her toe, and decided to wait a while. The sun felt wonderful to her back. It was better to enjoy that, than to torture herself by plunging into the frigid air in the apartment back in New York.

She found a spot a little way from a group of young people, and sank down upon her beach robe, leaving her legs and body exposed to the sun. She began to feel relaxed—and began to doze—now and then hearing scraps of conversation that came from the group of young peoples he had passed.

"I wanted to go to a livelier spot than this," a girl said. "But now I'm glad I didn't."

"Why?" asked another girl.

"Didn't you hear? We're so close to Canada, they say the most fascinating-looking prisoners are escaping right over the border—only a little way from Harbor Head."

"Not—really?"

"Yes—really."

"So what?" said a masculine voice. You don't mean there's anything to get excited about—prisoners from internment camps escaping?"

Of course it's something to get excited about. I heard that some of the men in the camps are simply devastating."

And you'd flirt with them immediately, I suppose?"

"Naturally!"

"You wouldn't report them—and see that they were sent back to Canada?"

"Well, maybe—only—"

"A consistent girl you are—knighting me!"

Washington Daybook— Auto Quotas Hit Uncle Sam's Bankroll

By JACK STEINMETZ

WASHINGTON — The rationing of tires and tubes and the elimination of new car production may eventually give the public fallen arches but it already is giving the tax experts on Capitol Hill one of their worst headaches.

A quick glance at the revenues anticipated from motor transportation in this country will make this clear.

In 1941, the 1 1/2 per cent federal tax on gasoline and lubricating oils was made permanent to give the treasury an estimated revenue of $430,000,000.

Tires, tubes and other federal vehicle taxes are supposed to yield approximately $110,000,000. The new $5-a-year automobile use tax, slated to become effective February 1, is supposed to bring in around $100,000,000.

In other words around three-quarters of a billion dollars was to roll into the treasury coffers in 1942 as result of taxes on new cars, tires and fuel.

Just how much that is going to be cut is anybody's guess. The revenue won't disappear entirely any more than cars will disappear from the streets, and highways but with the rationing of tires and tubes; the slash in new car production; and the proposed repeal of the use tax, because of the expense and difficulty of collection, the revenue getters in Congress were worried plenty.

In their frantic search for new source of revenue for the next fiscal year, the automobile was to play an important role. It is an open secret that they were eyeing the gasoline and lubricating oil tax for a substantial boost and already were ready to point out to any objectors that England imposes a gasoline tax of around 15 cents a gallon.

There also was a plan to slap a tax on the sales of used cars.

Now, with no tires or new cars available, Congress is faced with two problems. First, an increase in these taxes would fall primarily on those whose cars and trucks are considered vital to public health and safety. Second, any great increase in tax might cause such a shortage of transportation facilities, in sections where buses and trolleys are not available as to disrupt completely the American way of life.

The first possibility would be bad enough, Congressmen say, but the second might be tragic in its results. Consequently, Congress observers are predicting now that the lawmakers will swallow the bitter pill and point to it as one of the major reasons why the country will have to turn to a federal sales tax on practically all commodities to raise funds for even a portion of our war effort.

This loss of millions in revenue is only one of the many critical results of the use of motor transportation. It isn't the only thing, however, that is worrying Congressmen, government officials and the heads of automobile associations.

Another is the lack of concern with which the public has taken announcement of the new priorities. One government official said: "They (the driving public) seem to think we are trying to put over another gasoline shortage scare."

Thomas F. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association, says: "Motorists are faced with the stark reality that unless they prolong the life of present cars and tires through careful driving and lower speeds, they will eventually be without individual transportation."

The war is hitting home, and aside from those in the armed forces in the battle lines or now being moved into them, the motorists of the United States may be the first to realize it.

Good Report Made By Colorado Bank

COLORADO CITY, Jan. 6—The recent bank call, for a statement of condition at the close of business on December 31 found the City National bank of Colorado City with one of its best reports in a decade.

Deposits were above those for a year ago by $431,812.20, and cash on hand was $326,771.98 more than a year ago, the report showed. Loans and discounts were also up by $36,069.02.

Figures released for December 31, 1941, were: Deposits, $1,744,437.96; cash on hand, including producers' cotton loans, $1,182,892.09; loans and discounts, $407,232.44.

The forthcoming garlic crop of Mexico is expected to be 25 per cent greater than last year, the department of commerce reports.

Man About Manhattan— One Brass Bed Has Jinx On Durante

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There's an old brass bed in storage in the basement of the Astor hotel. When Jimmy Durante leaves his funbyones to town, this bed is resurrected and sheeted for his benefit whenever he is in town.

Jimmy is in town now. And this hideous token of a vanished elegance is in its place at the hotel. "I love it," the clown says. "Best sleepin' bed in town."

James Durante, who came to fame through the open door of the lower East Side, with an assist from his nose, is a funnyman who is indulging in the serious business of a professional comeback. His appearance in the city at this time was dictated by the opening of "You're in the Army Now," a film, and said to be a very funny film. I haven't seen it.

On the way to New York he stopped off in Chicago to do a benefit that was witnessed by 28,000 people. His reception was so enthusiastic that Jim reverted to his form of other days and began breaking the furniture. During the process he broke off the legs of an expensive Steinway piano. Next day Ashton Stevens, noted drama critic, commented on the breakage editorially; it was well worth it, said Stevens. What's a few pianos when the crowd got such a laugh.

Mr. Stevens is a man after Jimmy Durante's own heart. Only Jimmy would say it this way, "What's ANYTHING matter . . . when you can get a few laughs."

Sergeant York Says— Democrats, Republicans Now United

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5—The Knox County Democratic Women's Club asked me to speak at their Wilson Day dinner here. One part of my talk I didn't exactly know how the ladies would take, but I said it anyway because it was the way I felt.

Since we were attacked by the Japs, I said, democratic clubs like this one, republican clubs, and all other organizations had joined hands and become American clubs, pure and simple. It turned out that this part of the talk got more notice and applause than any other.

Later I found out that the ladies of the democratic club had been studying along the same row as I had. They had beat me to the point. Some invited republicans were sitting out there at the tables at the Wilson Day dinner. And a few places down from me on the platform who should be sitting but the chairman of the Knox county republicans.

They're all still Republicans and Democrats of course, with their separate beliefs, but they're Americans first of all.

ing for the British, and flirting with their enemies.

"Constancy," said a second masculine voice, "is not one of a woman's strongest points, my dear lad."

"Oh, come on," someone cried, "let's have a dip. The water's probably warmed up some."

Lavinia sighed. Such gay young things. They made her feel a million years old. Girl, able to get excited over escaped prisoners, willing even to flirt with them.

And young men who tried to think seriously about such things, and—

"You'd better not take too much sun all at once," someone said at her side.

Started. Lavinia looked up. Margaret Lindsay, the Inn hostess, was smiling down at her.

"Oh, thank you," Lavinia said. "I felt so relaxed. I hardly noticed the sun at all."

"That's the way it works," Margaret said. "You feel relaxed, and the sun gets in his dirty work."

She sank down upon the sand. "I'm so sorry your aunt couldn't stay. She's adorable. I've heard of her, you know."

"Yes," said Lavinia, "lots of people have." "But Aunt Dorcas says she's through doing the things that made people hear about her."

"Do you have ambitions to be like her?"

"I did have."

"Meaning you've changed?"

"No," said Lavinia, "meaning Aunt Dorcas has changed."

Development Of Guayule Studied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — The house agriculture committee announced today that public hearings would be started Wednesday on legislation for development of guayule as a source of rubber.

Guayule, a rubber-bearing shrub native to Mexico and West Texas, has been cultivated successfully in recent years in California.

The committee's hearing will be on a bill by Representative Anderson (R-Cal) to authorize the agriculture department to plant 75,000 acres of guayule. Anderson said his bill has been approved by the department of agriculture, the Office of Production Management, the war and navy departments and the budget bureau.

He said he was convinced the plant could be developed to such an extent that within five years the nation would not have to depend on imported rubber.

Higher Prices Encourage Farmers In National 'Food For Freedom' Drive

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—With first effects of the "Food for Freedom" drive of American agriculture already apparent, the more than 6,000,000 U. S. farmers enrolled in a unique effort to fight the war with plowshares today were greeted by highest general price levels since 1930.

Market statistics showed that at the start of the new year prices of livestock ranged from 1.50 to 42 per cent higher than a year ago; grains from 18 to 41 per cent higher; butter-fat 16 per cent higher and eggs 70 per cent higher. These are statistics farmers are weighing as they formulate 1942 operating plans along with advice received from farmer committees representing Uncle Sam who are compiling results of the most unusual canvass in agricultural history, recently completed.

THE WAR TODAY: Hitler At Crucial Point In Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Wide World War Analyst

The crucial stage of the German retreat along the ice-bound Russian front is rapidly approaching. If indeed it hasn't already been reached, and Herr Hitler is now at eastern army headquarters struggling to stabilize his retreating lines, which are in precarious position.

Navy Ceases Operation Of Shipyard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced today that the Kearny, N. J., plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company would be returned to its owners at midnight tonight after 134 days of navy operation.

The return of the ship yard, which held $493,000,000 in naval and merchant ship construction contracts when the navy seized it on August 25 after a CIO strike, was authorized by an executive order signed by President Roosevelt yesterday, Knox said.

The Navy secretary, in a formal statement, said that "any unsettled issues between the company and the union should be settled by negotiation and agreement."

Freezing Weather Continues Here

Rising temperatures today marked the probable end of the coldest snap experienced by Big Spring in several years, but the thermometer had not reached the thawing point in early afternoon.

the Nazi chief. It cannot yet be said that he will be unable to meet this threat. However, it can't be said that he can meet it, and that's an important fact.

The Soviet army newspaper "Red Star" sums it up well when it declares that the Russians "have a chance of depriving the Germans of all advantages they now possess." That chance does exist.

There could be no greater indication of the plight of Hitler's armies than his two recent appeals to his people—one for all possible warm clothing and the other for skins.

It is now clear that it was this unpreparedness, and the consequent perils, which brought about the split between Hitler and his high generals and forced him to assume command himself.

From the military standpoint Von Brauchitsch undoubtedly was right. But only history can say whether Hitler wasn't right in making his colossal gamble in trying to take the Red capital.

Today Dr. Otto Dietrich, Nazi press chief, tells us of "the enormous burden of work resting on the Fuehrer's shoulders" and says that "the commander in chief of the German army the Fuehrer is unable to leave headquarters for more than a single day."

From Leningrad on the north to the Crimea on the south the German forces have been rocked back on their heels with terrible casualties. Their lines have given way to a depth of a hundred miles or more in places.

Whether Hitler succeeds in averting a great debacle, his Russian campaign has weakened Germany immeasurably and has raised havoc with his once well-nigh perfect fighting machine.

shown what they can do best to share in the 1942 program. This outline, coupled with the fact that poultry feeding for eggs and livestock breeding and fattening for meat and dairy products have become much more attractive than last year, on the basis of price trends, will guide them in translating their efforts into commodities for the larger of democracy.

Production goals of some commodities, originally outlined several months ago, may be increased in the light of recent developments. Producers generally realize there is a surplus of feeding grains, largest in 20 years, but that feed is essential for production of meat, milk, butter, eggs and the like.

Furthermore, government officials have indicated they are not averse to permitting prices of certain commodities to exceed even 110 per cent of parity limits provided in pending price control legislation, if this is necessary to stimulate production.

Reservists To Get Tickets To Army Station

Reservists being called back into service may secure transportation aid to the nearest district recruiting station at Lubbock, Sgt. Troy Gibson, local recruiting officer, said Tuesday.

He was advised Tuesday morning that transportation funds were being dispatched to cover cost of travel by reservists from this station to the district office.

With certain exceptions, all enlisted men of the national guard of the United States not now in active federal service have been called to active duty during the period January 6th through Jan. 28 on order of the secretary of war.

In Texas there are approximately 1,200 falling in this classification, some of whom have been released recently because they were 28 years or older, because of dependency and other reasons.

Where practical they will be sent to join their old units, and in other cases will be pressed into service where feasible.

Three Report For Navy Duty

Three youths left Monday evening for Dallas to be enlisted in the U.S. Navy, the local recruiting station reported Tuesday.

Those clearing through the Big Spring office, said S. L. Cooke, officer in charge, were Aubrey Van Riel, an ex-surferman of the coast guard; Carl Wilhelm Kaster, Big Spring; and Truman Elbert Lawrence, Lamesa.

So far as Cooke knew Tuesday, H. P. Jones, who opened the recruiting station here in July, would be transferred to Amarillo at the end of the week.

Oil Groups Will Convene Soon

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 6 (AP)—Charles Orr, secretary of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, announced today that two new groups named at the recent organization meeting in expansion of the commission's program would meet within a few weeks.

Installation of George White, stockman-farmer and former public official, as a member of the Big Spring school board was completed as trustees met Monday night.

White was named to serve out the unexpired term of the late C. W. Cunningham, Dr. M. H. Bennett continues as acting president, Cunningham having been chairman of the board.

Trustees went through the familiar routine of accepting more teacher resignations, those of Davis H. Fisher, math instructor, and Myrtles Ahlley, west ward, having been approved.

Mrs. F. M. Purser was given the formal title of district tax assessor-collector. She has served in this capacity as a part of the tax office work.

Weather Stalls Airport Work

Cold, cloudy weather has all but stopped the municipal airport project.

After operations were halted for several days due to severe cold and snow, men were reassigned to report Tuesday morning. They were put to work digging drainage ditches.

As soon as weather moderates, said officials, work on stabilizing base for the runways will be resumed. It is due to be finished in a month, barring interruptions.

First People Sign Up For U. S. Stamps

The Herald news carrier distribution of Defense stamps was off to a fast start Tuesday, as first citizens signed coupons ordering a certain number of stamps to be delivered at their homes each week.

The newboys signed pledges of cooperation with the treasury department and received badges designating them as "U. S. Defense Agents" Monday night, when they were treated to a dinner at the Crawford hotel. The 20 lads, all of them Herald route carriers, immediately started signing order blanks on their own, and 14 of the group agreed to purchase a total of 61 ten-cent stamps each week.

Meanwhile, the first family to respond to the weekly home-for-livory proffer was that of Pierce Patton, 902 West 17th street, where the carrier boy will leave five 10-cent stamps each week.

Coupons may be clipped from issues of The Herald and the orders left with the carriers as they call any day this week. Next week, they will begin delivery, leave albums and collect for the first stamps.

The newboy plan is expected to attract wide response, since it represents a convenient and systematic way of accumulating the stamps. Boys will deliver each week any number of 10-cent stamps the patron authorizes.

Enemy Planes Over Corregidor Downed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—At least seven enemy planes were hit by terrific anti-aircraft fire from the fortifications of Manila Bay during a four hour attack, the war department reported today.

The fortress of Corregidor Island and the forces of General Douglas MacArthur were attacked by 50 planes yesterday, the department said, but material damage and casualties to the defenders were called light.

Trucks Want To Raise Rates Too

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6 (AP)—The trucking industry served notice at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing today of its intention to ask for higher rates comparable to any increase authorized for railroads and water carriers.

The ICC hearing began yesterday on application of the railroads for a 10 per cent hike in freight and passenger rates to offset increased operating expenses, principally an estimated annual total of $221,711,900 in higher wages.
