

Woman Held for Fatal Shooting of Husband

Orangethorpe, July 13.—County attorney James N. Neff today against Mrs. Thelma Sarber, 40, who shot her husband to death as he lay sleeping in his home at Vidor, near here.

Mrs. Sarber was lodged in jail here after she was alleged to have fired a bullet into the head of her husband, H. W. (Martin) Sarber, Vidor constable. She refused to make a statement concerning the case.

Neff said no date was set for a preliminary hearing. Henry Sarber, 14, a son, told officers he disarmed his mother before she could carry out a threat to kill four other members of her family and herself.

The constable was sleeping when Mrs. Sarber fired a pistol bullet into his head, the boy said. She then went to the side of a bed where her two-year-old daughter, Madeline, had been asleep.

Madeline began screaming and Henry ran into the room. "I saw mother standing over the bed with father's pistol in her hand," the boy told officers.

"I grabbed the pistol from her hand and called for help." Sarber was taken to a hospital in Beaumont, where he died.

Says Pen Scratch Would Get School Children $25,000

EDINBURG, Texas, July 13.—"My opponent, in his speeches, gloried in a situation that is costing the school children of Texas $250,000 a year when a few scratches of a pen would save that great sum," declared William H. McDonald of Eastland county, candidate for state land commissioner, in a speech here Saturday.

"He is boasting that the new Sabine river bed lease gives the state public school fund more money than the old lease gave—43 per cent more money and the oil companies are taking 300 per cent more of the school children's oil."

McDonald then propounded the following questions for his opponent to answer: "Doesn't the new lease give the land commissioner the power of 10 days' notice to increase the schools' share of the oil by 70 per cent?"

"Haven't you been acting like a commissioner?" "Why didn't you give the $250,000 a year to the schools?" McDonald said that, if elected, his first official act would be to add that amount to the school fund.

Austria Refuses To Join Warlike National Alliance

VIENNA, July 13.—Austria retains its independence and refuses to join any warlike combination, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg said today.

In an interview with United Press he explained the negotiations and their meanings. He said specifically that question of restoration of Hapsburg dynasty in Austria would remain dormant for present. Serious opposition to Hapsburgs by the Little Entente nations, he said, makes it inadvisable to raise the question.

District Judges Preside at Courts in Other Counties

Eastland county's district court were judges Monday. B. W. Patterson of 88th district court was in Palo Verde where he is conducting court. George L. Davenport of 91st district court was at Brownwood on similar duties.

What reminds me...

Governor James V. Allred will be in Eastland Tuesday in the last of his candidacy for Governor. Much abuse has been heaped upon his shoulders by his opponents. In a recent speech he answered them with the simple statement that carried a real wallop. He said: "I only know of perfect men. My opponents are simply a human subject to mistakes."

There is no question but what James V. Allred will be our next Governor. Whoever he is, he is a man of state he has been a trial figure. He knows how to make a speech and a good one, one of the largest crowds ever to see a candidate for governor is expected to be on hand when the candidate starts playing and the speaker waves his hand for the first time.

This is railroad week and it is being observed all over the country. The railroads of the nation are entitled to every fitting tribute that can be made and the citizens can well concentrate upon that will give you many ideas on how to improve the railroads.

Eastland entertained one of the largest Saturday crowds in history at the regular day Saturday. The regular trades day event, the iron man straining every muscle pulling heavy loads on the street by his neck and George Harper had on hand a special exhibit of the Star Tire company. Merchants report a good business for the season of the year.

Plenty hot and sultry. Thunderheads slipping over the sun from time to time but nary a drop of rain. The further western states that have been in the throes of one of the worst droughts in history have had some relief according to news reports for which we also can be grateful. Such suffering warrants plenty of prayers for relief and in gratitude.

Drinkers Get Prizes in Unique Contest

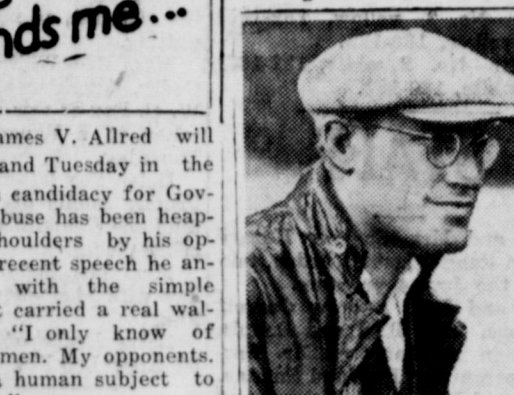

Following are the winners in the Coca Cola drinking contest held at the Eastland trades day Saturday in conjunction with the exhibition of strength by Jack Kern, "Iron Man":

Girls—Ava Lou Seainbar, Della Coy, Eva Rose, Boys—Oren Mathews, Leroy Huitt, Bob Sassen.

Six rules for "Making Marriage a Success" were enumerated Sunday night at the First Methodist church by Rev. E. R. Stanford.

May Steer Cornell

Tom Bolles, above, inspected Cornell's rowing facilities at Rhaca, and is reported in line for the post as head coach, succeeding the veteran Jim Wray, recently resigned.

Bolles turned out freshmen crews at the University of Washington that have been beaten only once in nine years.

Germany Fortifies Heligoland Island

LONDON, July 13.—Germany is re-fortifying the strategic island of Heligoland in the North Sea, Foreign Undersecretary Lord Cranborne told the house of commons today in reply to a question.

Lord Cranborne said official inquiries had been made and he understood fortifications of the island, demilitarized after the World War, is in progress, adding, "there is no right of inspection."

Four Are Killed in Torch Murder

SHEPHERD'S FORD, Va., July 13.—The bodies of a grandmother, her daughter and two grown grandsons were found in the smoldering ashes of their beds here today. They had been shot to death and their beds fired.

Pastor Becomes Convict No. 82677

HUNTSVILLE, Tex.—C. Edgar Eskridge, 45, was convict No. 82677 today—last year he was pastor of the First Baptist church at Orange, Texas.

The big, gun-toting minister who thundered from the pulpit last year that "crime does not pay" is serving a 5-year sentence in the Texas State Prison here for the shotgun-slaying of Police Chief O'Reilly of Orange.

Prison officials shook his hand when Eskridge was delivered into their custody. They recalled his last trip to the prison when he tried to interview Raymond Hamilton, Texas desperado, awaiting execution in the death-house.

Eskridge said he wanted to have a job in the prison library because he had studied that work in college.

"Whatever they give me I'll be a model prisoner," he said. Eskridge said he wanted to forget his trial—but one phase of the testimony worried him. He did not want people to think he shot the officer in the side and back of the head.

"He was standing there talking to another man when I slowed my car," the crusading minister said. "He was looking right at me. His hands were at his side then and he froze. I had to get my shot-gun through a window. He reached for his gun and his head turned just a little before I shot. I saw him fall. It looked like his hand froze to his gun."

RAINS BRING LITTLE RELIEF TO DRY AREA

CHICAGO, July 13.—Rains which scattered life-giving moisture over the western edge of America's great drought basin "simply evaporated," and the remainder of the nation will sizzle for several more days, forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the Chicago weather bureau reported today.

"The mass of cool air that was expected to spread eastward across the nation has spent its force," Lloyd said. "Relief did not reach farther east than the Dakotas, Nebraska and Northwestern Minnesota."

Montana, Wyoming and Colorado were the only states that were cooled by week-end rains of any importance, Lloyd said. "The rain fizzled out to scattered showers over North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. The general situation for relief from the drought doesn't look as good today as it did Saturday or Sunday."

Lloyd saw some hope in a fresh wave of cool air now moving in from the North Pacific and spreading over the Rockies. These clouds probably will reach Nebraska tomorrow, he said. Continued hot, dry weather is in store for Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri.

With the blistering sun continuing deaths attributed to the heat mounted to nearly 1,000, while damage to crops reached approximately $400,000,000.

Absentee Voting Increases to 61

Saturday afternoon and Monday morning's delivery of absentee ballots brought the county clerk's list to 62.

Additional names on the absentee voters' list were: Fleming Waters, federal housing administration clerk, Cisco; W. S. Poe, dentist, Eastland; O. F. Chastain, lawyer, Eastland; John J. Fox, service station attendant, Eastland; Edith Wood, bookkeeper, Eastland; Mrs. John Fox, housewife, Eastland; Mrs. Will M. Wood, housewife, Eastland; Will M. Wood, compensation officer, Eastland; R. E. Boucher, salesman, Gorman; Mrs. R. E. Boucher, postmaster, Gorman; E. H. Jones, Gorman; Mrs. E. H. Jones, housewife, Gorman; Helen Daniel, bookkeeper, Gorman; Glenn Morrow, student, Gorman; Mrs. Nettie Berry, teacher, Carbon; Charlie Garrett, teacher, Carbon; R. E. Sikes, federal housing executive assistant, Eastland; Claude Harris, tool dresser, Rising Star; E. D. Coe, chief clerk Magnolia Petroleum company, Olden; B. H. Power, carpenter, Eastland; Mrs. B. A. Yarbrough, housewife, Gorman.

Candidates Agree on Date's Change at Rising Star

The committee in charge of arrangements for the speaking tour of county and precinct candidates of Eastland county, at a meeting the past week voted to change the date at Rising Star from a Saturday afternoon to a night speaking date and set the date for Thursday night, July 16th.

The speaking will be held in the Baptist tabernacle at 8 o'clock.

Nation Mourns the Death of Dr. Cadman

NEW YORK, July 13.—Followers from many faiths today mourned the death of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, one-time English coal miner, who became one of the most influential men in America. His body was brought here today from Plattsburgh, N. Y., where he died yesterday, a week after being stricken with appendicitis. He was 71.

14 Eastland County Talks Mapped by Congressman Thomas L. Blanton

Additional speaking dates, including 14 engagements in Eastland county, were announced from Abilene Monday by Thomas L. Blanton, candidate for re-election to congress from the seventeenth district.

The engagements begin at Dothan Monday, July 20, and conclude Thursday, June 23 at Frankell. Eastland will be visited for a talk at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 21 and Ranger 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, July 22.

Exponent of Open Living Stops on Way to Centennial

Proponent of outdoor living and nationally known for his crippled children and orphan work, Sampson McDonald, known as "Texas Mack," was a visitor Monday en route to the Texas Centennial celebrations at Fort Worth and Dallas.

"Texas Mack" has spent the past nine years in advertising the Centennial and in giving performances throughout the nation. Many remember the cowboy-actor for his announcement that he would marry a woman with a million dollars which she would spend in building a crippled children's home and an old actors and showman's home in Southern California.

Girl Joins Chorus To Find Out How Chorus Girls Live

NEW YORK.—"General" Sherman lines us up for the day's work out. I was fourth from the end on the back row, blushing at my scanty costume.

I knew my legs ought to be a few inches longer and struggled to stretch myself upwards. It was a real job—but fun. Annapolis and West Point men don't know anything about discipline that a music hall rockette does not find out during her daily work out. The "General" is Emelia Sherman. She is captain of the dance, but everybody calls her general on account of the Sherman part.

"All right, Beula, let's get going," said Gene Snyder, assistant to Russell Markert, the director. Gene gives us the works and Russell comes in to put on the finishing touches. Beula has been playing the piano for them for 8 1/2 years.

We did some preliminary patters, including Kicks, Knee Circles and Arm Swings. We worked at five steps from 9 a. m. until 12:30 p. m. when we got an hour off for lunch.

I had lunch with some of the girls in the cafeteria and was shocked at the quantity of food they ate. "Diet!" they gasped in response to my query as to how they kept themselves in shape. "We eat four times day—and you will too after you've been through this routine for a few days. You work it off faster than you put it on."

While we were waiting upstairs, after the performance, to start another round of practice, I made a list of the rules and regulations the chorines are required to fulfill. Here they are: Height: five feet, four to six inches. Weight: 116 to 118 pounds (some exceptions at 105). Waistline: slender and curving out to practically no hips. Age: 16 to 25 (this is not definite because some start very early and stay as long as they keep their figures—or until they get married). Education: high school. They would take a girl without this much if her intelligence and figure stood the tests. Angles, calf and thighs: The leg from toe to hip must be long and taper gracefully. Actual inch measurements do not matter. No jewelry allowed on stage. No drinking under any circumstances. Smoking and chewing gum are permitted. Must be on hand one half hour before schedule begins. Two latenesses and your salary is docked for a week.

MOORE QUILTS AS COACH OF RANGER TEAM

Otis M. Moore, for the past two years head coach of the Ranger High School football and basketball teams, has tendered his resignation to take effect immediately. It was announced today by F. P. Brashier, chairman of the athletic committee of the Ranger school board, to whom the resignation was given.

No action has been taken by the school board upon the resignation, though it was stated today that the board would probably meet Tuesday night.

In making his resignation known Moore stated that he had signed a contract to be head coach of the Sinton High School football team, and as teacher of mathematics in the Sinton school.

Moore came to Ranger from Snyder, where he had been unusually successful as a football, basketball and track coach, and assumed his duties as head coach during the last of three phenomenal football years for the Ranger High School Bulldogs.

During the 1934 season the football team he coached won the district title without losing a game and scored a total of 185 points in district play against 21 points by the opponents of the Bulldogs.

The 1935 season, however, was not as successful for the Bulldogs, who finished the season without a win.

Relics Are Shown In Chamber Display

Relics, some of which relate to pioneers of Eastland county, are on display at the Eastland Chamber of Commerce. They were collected by Ed T. Cox Sr., of Eastland.

A pitcher on display was taken from the Spanish warship "Reina Mercedes," which it is said was sunk in the entrance of the harbor at Santiago, Cuba, supposedly from a shot from the U. S. warship "Texas." Cox secured the pitcher in 1898.

A hoop skirt worn by Miss Jennie Covington, pioneer known as "Aunt Jennie," is also on display. The saddle in the chamber window was used by J. F. White, who came to the count in 1881.

An ox yoke, used by Uncle George Hazard, who came to the county in 1881, is another feature of the display. Other items in the window are a powder flask and candle mold.

Outraced Chimp in Movie Debut

Probably never will forget how her comely legs served as more than a screen attraction on her first appearance on a Hollywood movie lot. She is Dorothy Lamour, who took to her heels to escape a chimpanzee which became enraged at her shawl. The animal clawed and bit a studio electrician before being subdued.

The 1935 season, however, was not as successful for the Bulldogs, who finished the season without a win.

Prospects Good For Fall Grazing, Reports Indicate

AUSTIN, July 13.—Prospects are good for summer and fall grazing in most sections of Texas the government statistician reported today.

"Cattle ranges are still in good condition for the state as a whole, but rains are needed in the northern and northwestern part of the state," reported F. E. Finley, livestock statistician for the federal department of agriculture.

"The late May and early June rains were very beneficial to ranges throughout the state. These rains gave grass a good start and helped much in resodding ranges affected by the 1934 drought. The hot, dry weather during the second and third week of June was very detrimental to the young grass in the northwestern and northern portions of the state."

Suggested Farm Sites Inspected

Dr. D. A. Conner, head of the experiment station at A & M with four members of the experiment station board, spent Monday in the vicinity of Rising Star inspecting sites for the location of an agricultural experiment station to be located in accordance with a bill passed at the last session of the legislature somewhere within the territory covered by the western cross timbers belt. According to the provisions of the bill the farm is to be located in one of four counties, Brown, Comanche, Eastland or Callahan.

The committee is made up of Jos. Kopecky, Hallettsville, Chairman; R. V. Davis, Plainview; Dr. J. T. Lawson, Bowie; and Dr. Conner of A. & M. The committee was accompanied by Dr. W. T. Carter of the U. S. Soil survey commission, who made tests of the soil on the farms shown.

According to Kopecky, chairman of the committee, it is likely that a definite location can not be made until the legislature meets in January at which time an appropriation for equipment and other things will be made.

SON TELLS OF ATTEMPTS ON OTHERS LIVES

Constable Dies Shortly After Reaching Hospital

ORANGE, July 13.—County attorney James N. Neff today against Mrs. Thelma Sarber, 40, who shot her husband to death as he lay sleeping in his home at Vidor, near here.

Diplomats Are Found Holding Hot Potato

If you will keep a close watch on the diplomats of the English-speaking world these days, you will discover that they are making every effort to perform an undignified act gracefully. They are trying to get their fingers off a very hot potato.

For England, the potato was grown in Ethiopia and dug up by that spirited agriculturist, Benito Mussolini.

Mussolini sent troops down into the ancient homeland of the Queen of Sheba, and the British lion began to bristle and growl. A fine spirit of international idealism swept the British Isles, a spirit fused with the traditional anxiety lest outsiders poach on British preserves.

The fleet was sent to the Mediterranean and the air was filled with solemn warnings about the terrible things that would happen to an upstart nation that dared defy Great Britain.

But Mussolini filled the air with more potent things—to wit, up-to-date bombing planes, from the cockpits of which keen-eyed young Italian pilots could peer down on a singularly helpless British fleet. And it wasn't long before the British discovered that it wasn't their day to fight.

Mussolini blandly defied England's fleet and ignored her threats, Ethiopia today is solidly his—and British statesmen are trying to find a neat way of retreating from a position they cannot possibly hold.

But if their plight is pitiful, consider the situation at Washington.

A few years ago the Japanese marched into what is now Manchukuo, bayoneted the nearest inhabitants, and said that they had come to stay a while.

The American State Department announced solemnly that it was all wrong and contrary to public morals, and that America would never, no never, recognize any ill-gotten gains that had been acquired by force.

A good many things have happened since then. For one thing, the Japanese have dug in securely in Manchukuo and have gone on to take a sizable slice of China as well. For another, Mussolini has gobbled up Ethiopia.

The sacred treaties under which our state Department took it valiant stand are as full of holes as a piece of mosquito netting.

And sooner or later our diplomats will have to take their hands off the hot potato which they no nobly picked up. Already they are preparing to give Mussolini's conquest a back-handed sort of recognition. That similar recognition of Japan's conquest must eventually follow is extremely likely.

For a high moral attitude in international politics does little good, these days, unless you are prepared to go to the mat with horse, foot, and guns to support it.

London and Washington made the mistake of adopting the attitude without having the faintest notion of using force to make it good. A dignified retreat now is their only choice.

All they get out of it is a new sense of realism in international relations.

In one convention item, "a grin lit up Farley's face." Which is quite a feat of illumination, considering how far back his face extends.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—This year's political conventions resemble religious revivals for many of the delegates.

In Cleveland there were those who believed very sincerely that they were sitting in on a rebirth and moral regeneration of the Republican party.

Here in Philadelphia the speakers kept insisting that the New Deal was embarking on a holy crusade against the hosts of darkness and that only its victory could preserve the welfare of the common people.

It would be much easier to believe in the altruism of those politicians if you didn't know who they were.

One of the biggest differences between the two conventions is the fact that the Republican meeting was crowded with ex-office holders gazing wistfully at the feed-box. Whereas, among the Democratic delegates, the postmasters, little cabinet members, senators, governors, bureau chiefs, mayors, U. S. marshals, district attorneys, sheriffs, and other officials—grimly determined to hold on to their jobs—were conspicuous in their preponderance.

THE Democratic party is such a hodgepodge of differing types of groups and individuals that no one can give any single explanation of how it is possible to keep such a group together.

Contrary to popular opinion, however, it isn't anywhere near so much the desire for a $5000 or 10,000 job which keeps most of these people driving on toward political preference, but rather the desire for power and honor—the satisfaction of being a big shot in the old home town or state.

The Democratic party, which professes a greater idealism than the G. O. P., is the party of...

Senator George Norris of Nebraska, elected a Republican, but most independent of all senators.

All the outstanding Washington lobbyists, including the several ex-national committeemen who have made fortunes these last years by selling their influence with Democratic officials—and all of them came to Philly.

Rex Tugwell, whose heart is in the right place, no matter how screwy you may think he is.

The assorted characters of the late Huey Long's machine in New Orleans, some of them until recently under criminal income tax indictments, but all basking under the White House smile since they promised to go along.

And so on for a long time, not forgetting many others who see the New Deal as a great moral-political awakening.

ONE thing most of the delegates didn't get too enthusiastic about was the extent to which the party seemed to be the party of Farley. In radio speeches, platform speeches, press conferences, and all over the place, Farley was enjoying his big moments.

Word went around that his ears would be cropped after the convention, but many wondered whether it wouldn't have been best not to let the country get the idea that the New Deal was synonymous with "Farleyism."

Life of the Saint Of the Day

By REV. S. E. BYRNE

St. Eugenius

The episcopal see of Carthage had remained vacant 24 years, when in 481, Huneric permitted the Catholics on certain conditions to choose one who should fill it. The people, impatient to enjoy the comfort of a pastor, selected upon Eugenius, a citizen of Carthage, eminent for his learning, zeal, piety, and prudence. His charities to the distressed were excessive, and he refused himself everything that he might give all to the poor. His virtue gained him the respect and esteem even of the arians; but at length envy and blind zeal got the ascendant in their breasts, and the king sent him an order never to sit on the episcopal throne, preach to the people, or admit into his chapel any vandals, among whom were several Catholics. The saint boldly answered that the laws of God commanded him not to shut the door of any church to those that desired to serve God in it.

Huneric, enraged at this answer, persecuted the Christians in various ways. Many nuns were so cruelly tortured that they died on the rock. Great numbers of bishops, priests, deacons, and eminent Catholic laymen were banished to a desert filled with scorpions and venomous serpents. The people followed the banished ones, all crying out with tears, "Going yourselves to your crowns, to whom do you leave us? Who will baptize our children? Who will impart to us the benefit of penance, and discharge us from the bonds of sin by the favor of reconciliation and pardon? Who will bury us with solemn supplications at our death? By whom will be Divine Sacrifice be made?"

The Bishop Eugenius was spared in the first storm, but afterwards was carried into the uninhabited desert country in the province of Tripolis and committed to the guard, who treated him with the utmost barbarity. Gontamund, who succeeded Huneric, recalled our saint to Carthage, opened the

Lingo of Drug Addicts Reveals Tortured Minds

NEW YORK.—The strange position occupied by the drug addict in American underworld life is revealed by David W. Maurer of the University of Louisville after years of what he calls "academic snooping."

In a publication by the Columbia University Press, Maurer makes the distinction between addicts and other underworld characters.

The lingo of the addict provides insight into his psychology and his underworld life, according to Maurer. "Coasting," "floiting," and "to go on a sleigh ride" are all expressions to denote the exhilarating sensation produced by cocaine. "All lit up" also indicates the state of being under the influence of narcotics.

He learned that a "circuit" is a feigned spasm enacted in public in the hope a physician will administer narcotics.

Other words having related meanings are "Brody," "cartwheel," "figure eight," "twister," "wing-ding." To "make a croaker for a reader" is to persuade a physician by one means or another to write a prescription for narcotics.

Nonaddicts, people with no criminal connection, and taxpayers are "do-right people," and are also designated by the term "square John." A person, not a confirmed addict, who indulges in an occasional shot of dope is called a "joy-popper." However, "joy-popping" is usually the beginning of rampant addiction, comments Maurer. An opium pipe is a "joy stick."

"A panic man" is an addict who is desperate for narcotics because of deprivation.

"Deadwood" is the thing an addict fears most. It means to be trapped by an agent posing as a "panic man." Many addicts find it difficult to resist a plea for dope from another addict who is desperate.

"A bang in the arm" is a shot of narcotic, most commonly morphine or cocaine, injected directly into the vein, as contrasted to "skin shot." The term also appears to be generalized, however, and may indicate any injection of narcotic.

"When morphine is used, the addict is usually conscious of an unusual and very satisfying clearness of the mind. Cocaine and heroin produce tingling sensations of varying degrees, usually of great intensity and extending over the entire body. This type of shot is not used as a rule by the amateur; the hardened addict uses it almost exclusively."

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK sets out to drive to the lonely mountains home left her by her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK. Claire is trying to decide whether to marry NICK BAUM, to whom she owes money. She also hopes to find a valuable and mysterious jewel owned by her uncle and believed to be hidden in the house.

Her car is wrecked by a log across the road. PAT MAGAN, an old friend, and BOB STEELE, young engineer, arrive on the scene and take Claire to the mountain house where EB SPRAAT and his sister, SUSIE, are the caretakers and DAN DALLAS is the hired man.

A strange series of events begins. The watchdog is shot. Claire sees a curious arrow carved on the wall of a bedroom and follows it to the cupola. The lamp in her hand is shattered by a mysterious bullet. EB sprang disappeared. Bob starts for the village and is found seriously injured.

HANNAH, Claire's housekeeper, arrives. Pat, trying to solve the mysteries, wanders into a deserted mine shaft where he is attacked by an unseen opponent and falls. When he regains consciousness he hears a tapping noise and follows it.

Nick Baum comes to the mountain house. Later Claire sees him take Susie in his arms and kiss her.

Claire goes again to investigate the roof cellar. She hears a noise and, terrified, runs up the stairs. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER X

THE swift twilight of the mountains was beginning to fall as Claire gained the open air. Everything about her seemed normal and peaceful, and already she was beginning to feel ashamed of her fright.

She put down the empty lamp and walked resolutely through the aspen grove to the tool house.

After securing a crowbar and a can of kerosene, she passed the open kitchen door. She could see Susie, moving about getting supper and talking to Dan Dallas who sat by the table peeling potatoes. Claire paused as their voices came to her.

"Um," grunted Dan. "How do you explain the cap with the blood marks?"

"Say, you ain't tryin' to work up a murder mystery 'round here, are you? I never see such a scary crowd! Eb probably banged his head on something or other and come in and got his other hat. It's gone out of his room, anyway. I looked to see."

"It is?" Dan glanced up at her quickly. "And you figure Mr. Steele was hurt in an accident, too?"

"Sure. I heard the Doc say he probably slipped and fell against something. It's easy to do on them pine needles."

"What's Miss Fosdick up here for, anyway?"

"How should I know? Susie's voice sounded sharp. Then she turned with a coquettish smile. "Try one of these fritters. If I do say so, as I shouldn't, I can sure make 'em."

CLAIRE waited a minute longer, but they did not return to the subject, so she went on to the cellar. Queer that Dan Dallas should be quizzing Susie.

She walked to the farther wall of the cellar, where she had heard the tapping sounds. Experimentally she struck the wall with the crowbar. Almost at once there was a response, like a big pulse beating with horrible regularity back there in the darkness.

Awkwardly she began digging, and after several minutes had quite a sizeable hole.

At last she was forced to stop, and once more she put her ear against the wall. Certainly something was stirring behind there. She must go on.

CLAIRE'S nervousness by this time was beginning to get the best of her, though she still worked on steadily. When next she stopped for breath, she thought she could hear a new sound against the wall. Like someone breathing heavily—or was it only her own laboring lungs and pounding heart?

Wearily she started in again, and the very next stroke thudded with a different sound. Claire stopped in fright and listened. Dead silence.

Now the crowbar was cutting through an opening. There could be no doubt about that.

After much effort she again brought the lamp, for now the opening was large enough to put her own head through.

Apparently she had cut into another small tunnel. The air seemed fresh and cool. Piles of fresh dirt lay before her, and on one side a piece of wood. Then she gave a start. Something black was crumpled close to the wall just below her.

A man! Though he was so covered with dirt he looked hardly human. He was lying face down in the soft earth, quite motionless. Claire watched for a terrified moment, then spoke to him, though her voice sounded strangely cracked and unnatural.

"Pat—why it's Pat!"

He did not move, so she reached her hand through and touched him on the shoulder. Was it a corpse or had he just dropped unconscious? She must go for help. Quickly Claire started to back out of the hole, when her attention was caught by another sound before her.

SHE stopped, listening and holding the lamp ahead of her to throw as long a light ray as possible. Something or somebody was certainly stirring on the other side of the opening.

Without warning and for the second time since she came to the House of Long Shadows, the lamp in her hand shattered into bits. There was a sudden rumbling, and then darkness closed about her.

But not for long. Almost immediately from behind her another circle of light swept the opening and there was a deafening report. Claire collapsed in a frightened heap. Then, finding she was not hurt, she turned to see Dan Dallas, flashlight in one hand and a still smoking revolver in the other.

He leaped to her and drew her back into the cellar, being careful to keep out of range of the hole.

"Hurt, Miss Fosdick?"

"No. I guess not. But what—?" Claire began.

"Another close call. You aren't due to be shot, evidently." His tone sounded relieved. Without waiting for further explanation, he crept back into the hole, his gun ready.

But now there was only silence. Then Susie's frightened voice called from the steps outside.

"Dan! What is it?"

Claire ran to her and grasped the housekeeper's arm as she came down into the cellar.

"Hush!" Claire commanded tensely.

After what seemed an endless wait, Dan crawled back. "He got away again."

"But he was on the floor—he didn't make it even touched him," Claire gasped.

"On the floor?" Dan turned and went back into the opening.

"There's someone here. Can you hold the light for me while I make the opening large enough to drag him through? Keep to one side. There was someone else in there, too." Then, seeing Susie, he told her threateningly, "Don't you dare make a move."

Claire held the electric torch while Dan dug with quick, strong movements. Then he reached down and dragged the inert form through the hole. Claire held her breath, while Susie made queer little clucking noises in her throat as though she were half-dead with fright. Carefully Dallas turned the man over on his back. Claire gave a gasping cry.

"Pat—why it's Pat!"

Houston Sets New June Marriage Mark

By United Press

HOUSTON, Tex.—An all-time record for June marriages was made in Harris county last month as 639 couples were issued marriage licenses to wed. The previous record was 594 licenses issued June, 1929. During the depression marriages decreased considerably with only 269 licenses issued the "Bride's Month" of 1932.

Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 31, 1836—events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32-page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36," telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936.

The booklet will be mailed postpaid for

Q. Who was Joanna Troutman? R. G. S., Raymondville.

A. She was a young Georgia woman, who presented a Texas flag to Capt. William Ward as he left Georgia for Texas with his Georgia battalion. It was unfurled when the battalion reached Velasco and sailed at Galoliad. It was of white silk with an azure star of five points. On one side were the words, "Victory or Death," and on the other in Latin, "Where Liberty Dwells There Is My Country." Her body was moved to the State Cemetery at Austin in 1913, and an imposing monument erected over her brave.

Q. When was the present Texas flag adopted? R. G. S., Raymondville.

A. It was adopted by the Congress of the Republic, Jan. 25 1839, and afterward became the State flag. The act adopting it provides "It shall consist of a blue perpendicular stripe of the width of one-third of the whole length of the flag with a white star of five points in the center thereof, and two horizontal stripes of equal breadth, the upper stripe white the lower red, of the length of two-thirds the length of the whole flag."

Q. When was Austin College moved from Huntsville to Sherman? C. E., Longview.

A. In 1876.

The young people and their guests are to meet at the Eastland high school at 9 p. m., following hand practice, and leave in a body for their destination.

Ruth Hart Entertains Club Miss Ruth Hart was a charming little hostess Saturday afternoon to the Socialites, a group of the younger girls.

The session was opened by their president, Miss Marjorie Moore, and an invitation was extended by her to the club to hold their next meeting at her home on Saturday.

After a social hour the youthful hostess served a refreshing iced fruited punch and small cakes to Misses Nina Mae Seale, Lucy May Cottingham, Louise Cook, Helen Rosenguest, Marjorie Moore, Ruby Lee Pritchard, Barbara Blythe, Wilma Williams, Geraldine Harris, and Mildred McGlamery.

Entertained House Guests Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Arnold entertained at their home last week Mr. Arnold's brother and daughter, F. W. Arnold, and Miss Ardith Arnold, and their sister, Mrs. Flora Snider of Logansport, Ind. Informal motor trips to the nearby lakes and visits to Ranger and Cisco were entertainments for the guests.

Eastland Personal

Friends of Mrs. Ben Hill will be happy to learn that she and her son will not leave Eastland for Healdton, Okla., their future home, until about Aug. 1.

Mrs. M. H. Lobaugh has returned home from extended visits with her sons in Gladewater in other oil fields.

Miss Louie Nell Searles, secretary of the Texas Electric Service Company, at the Leon power plant, has returned from a week's vacation, spent between Fort Worth, Dallas and Cisco.

Miss Belle Wilson of the faculty of Eastland High School, will return today from Abilene Christian College, where she took the summer course since May.

Mrs. Ira Whately of Strawn visited her mother, Mrs. John Matthews, this week-end.

Burettes Win Double Header

Burr's Burettes won their twelfth and thirteenth games out of 15 played when they took both ends of a double-header at Breckenridge Friday night. They won the first game from the Breckenridge Advertisers, 10 to 6, and the second from the Throckmorton girls, 14 to 5. Both games went the full seven innings and were played in 50 and 55 minutes.

In the first game the Advertisers put up a stiff game but they could not overcome the steady barrage of hitting and sparkling field play of the Burettes.

Hale, who is showing great improvement in hitting in the last four games, got a home run in the second with one on, Jimmie Mitchell and Pee Wee Jennings got three for four to boost their batting average.

In the field, Edith Rosenguest brought the fans to their feet in the second when she raced back.

Try Our Want-Ads!

and over to the right field line to rob Offield of a hit; and in the sixth, with runners on first and third, two runs in, Roark smashed a hot grounder to short which Pee Wee took and after bluffing the runner back to third base, threw the batter out at first and Jimmie shot the ball home to get the runner coming in. It was a wov of a double play that would be a credit to any man's team, and broke up a threatening rally. The Advertisers were easy, one-two-three in the seventh and the Burettes tucked another game in their hip pocket and sat down for a 15-minute rest while the Throckmorton team warmed up for the second game.

After catching a fine game in the first, Butch Fry stepped out to the pitcher's plate to pitch a five-hit game in the second. Twice she roared over to the screen near the players' bench to make sensational putouts on foul balls. In each instance it was the third out. But it was in the second inning with the Burettes at bat that she climaxed a great night of play. Hart and Lawrence had already scored and Hale, Kellett and Mitchell were on the bags on three successive singles when Butch ankled to the plate to sew up the old ball game. She fouled the first one for strike one; the next two were wide. Then Butch took an extra hitch on the belt, shifted her Wrigleys over to the northwest corner and stepped into a fast one that sailed far out over the center fielder's head and rolled to the fence. A home run with the bases loaded is every player's dream. If Butch was dreaming, please don't wake her up.

Pee Wee got a home run in the fourth and Edith Rosenguest one in the fifth. They were both clean hits that the fielders never had a chance to get.

Throckmorton made one run in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in the sixth, but in their last time at bat, with the head of the batting order up, it was one, two, three when Brazil flew out to Jeannie at third. Jeannie then threw Swagerty out at first and Pee Wee stepped over and took Wilkinson's hard grounder and threw to Jimmie for the final out. And so the Burettes tucked game No. 13 in their hip pockets and headed for Eastland.

Nude Smugglers Are A Border Problem By United Press BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—Nude smugglers are giving United States Border Patrolmen no end of trouble along the Rio Grande.

The patrolmen frequently "nab" naked men on the banks of the river. Recently T. E. Phillips, border patrolman, arrested two men—both nude—and then was faced with the problem of bringing them to town.

The men were stripped in order to swim the river with stolen goods.

Two Weeks with Pay. Vacation time is here. The family car is piled high with baggage and you're off for two weeks . . . to the seashore, the mountains, the lakes . . . or maybe you'll play gypsy and wander the world with a road-map. But no matter what you do, or where you go, you'll need to stock up before you leave. There'll be many things to buy—sunburn lotion, bathing caps, a traveling bag, a new tire. There'll be many things to plan—places to see, and places to stop. Read the advertisements first—the travel advertisements which mention hotels and comfortable places to eat and sleep. Read the advertisements of Vacation Specials—equipment that you must have if you're going to enjoy every day away. It's surprising what a help the advertisements are. They tell you of savings . . . they post you on the newest improvements . . . they remind you of things you might have forgotten . . . and they make your two weeks with pay, pay MORE!
