Paulson Talks Economics Here

"The United States is currently experiencing the most serious economic and monetary crisis in its history. This crisis has now spread to a recession throughout the major nations of the world."

Using such government publications as the Statistical Abstract, The President's Economic Report, Survey of Current Business, Economic Indicators, Ag Statistics Year Book, and others, the economists proceeded to show how the nation has since 1950 increased its debt by $300 billion and at the end of 1970 the gross public and private debt stood at $2,100.2 billion. Simple five percent interest on this debt runs $105 billion per year.

In spite of this the American people have been led to believe that they have been living in the greatest period of prosperity the world has ever known. What appears to have been prosperity and affluence judged mainly by the rapid increase in gross national product, national per capita income and other charts and indicators does not begin to tell the story of how this illusory prosperity was created.

In reality, the nation has prospered by spending and living it up on the yet unearned income of our children and grandchildren. Our illusory prosperity has been based almost entirely upon debt exorbitant far above the limits in ratio to the nation's income, profits and savings. Yet, we owe every penny of the debt, and are constantly paying interest costs to service that debt. Nothing has been applied upon that debt since 1950 to reduce debt. The debt continues to increase at a faster rate than the total increase in national income and now has surpassed all profits and savings and payment on debt. The interest costs of servicing this debt now exceeds the total economic profit brought into being each year. The cause of our national economic and monetary problems has resulted from an almost unbelievable imbalance of income between the various segments of the economy. Over the past 20 years, as a result of excessive debt expansion we have created almost unlimited prosperity for certain groups as they have earned the profits from the expansion of debt, while at the same time we have created poverty and hardships for other segments resulting from the inflation forced upon them. There is no inflation for those who have kept pace with the increase in living costs. Inflation has only damaged those whose income has been dragging. Yet these are the masses of people business and industry depends upon for the sale of their goods. Consequently, as the buying power of the masses of people diminishes, and the collateral for credit runs out, unemployment sets in.

The dislocation of income between the segments of our economy has been increasing. For example, the 33 states whose annual income is generated primarily from raw material production averaged about $4,500 per family less in 1970 than the average income of those living in the industrial states.

The United States has every requirement necessary to operate a prosperous and stable economic system, both for itself

In order to participate in the 1972 feed grain set-aside program, an eligible producer must make the following choices: Qualifying production. In all cases, in order to participate a producer must set aside a cropland acreage of average productivity equal to 25 percent of his total feed grain base. He will receive a payment rate of 80 cents a bushel for corn, 76 cents for grain sorghum, and 64 cents for barley on the established yield of the set-aside acres.

In addition, he may choose one of the following two alternatives: (1) He may set aside an additional acreage up to 10 percent of his corn-sorghum base, at a payment rate of 52 cents a bushel for corn, 49 cents for grain sorghum, Barley growers may elect up to 20 percent additional set-aside at 42 cents per bushel. This is the only option that offers additional voluntary set-aside for barley. (If a producer with a corn-sorghum base wants to make maximum set-aside under this choice, he may offer an additional 5 or 10 percent of that base at the 52-cent rate for corn, 49-cent rate for sorghum, at the option of the Secretary of Agriculture who will announce at a later date whether he will accept this offer.)

OR

(2) He may set aside an additional 10 percent of his corn-sorghum base at an 80-cent rate for corn, 76-cent rate for grain sorghum, provided he agrees to reduce his corn-sorghum plantings from last year by twice the acreage of his additional set-aside. (If a producer wants to make maximum set-aside under this choice, he may offer an additional 5 percent of his corn-sorghum base at the 80-cent rate for corn, 76-cent rate for sorghum, at the option of the Secretary of Agriculture who will announce at a later date whether he will accept this offer. If the additional 5 percent offer is accepted, the producer must also reduce his corn-sorghum plantings from last year by twice the acreage of this additional offer.)

Also E. L. Short of Tahoka, Joe Spurlock II of Fort Worth, Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls and Bill T. Swanson of Houston.

Area Firemen Attend Barbeque

Visiting firemen representing the Panhandle Fireman's and Fire Marshal's Association were treated to a barbeque at the local fire station Friday night.

The occasion was a quarterly meeting for the association's business year. About forty firemen from Canyon, Friona, Tulia, Happy, Plainview, Hale, Center, Abertamy, and Dimmitt attended the meeting besides those representatives from Muleshoe.

The program was presented by Dye, Odessa. Dye is inspector for the State Fire Marshal's Office. He discussed new laws in fire prevention and fire safety.

Muleshoe's mayor welcomed the group to Muleshoe. This year is Muleshoe's first year to host the firemen.

Johnny Ballew, Plainview, is president of the Panhandle Fireman's and Fire Marshal's Association. Ballew is with the Safety and Health Department in Plainview.

One of the most important purposes of the Fireman's Association is to help area firemen become acquainted. Then, in case of disaster in neighboring communities, they will be able to co-ordinate their efforts to bring relief to the victims.

Meetings like this give the firemen a chance to plan and talk with their co-workers in neighboring communities.

Mandatory Filing Fees Established

Annual Spelling Bee Date Set

About 25 students are already studying their spelling bee books in preparation for the annual Bailey County Spelling Bee. The bee will be held on March 29 at 1:30 p.m. at the Muleshoe High School Auditorium.

Students from grades four through eight are eligible to participate. Contestants from Bula, Threeway, Mary DeShazo Elementary and Muleshoe Junior High School will compete for a chance to spell in the annual Regional Spelling Bee that will be held in Lubbock at a later date. Twenty-five counties will send representatives to this bee. The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal sponsors the regional contest.

Mrs. Eldon Davis, former teacher in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades here in Muleshoe will be the pronouncer for the Bailey County Contest. Mrs. Davis replaces the late Fred Johnson, longtime friend of local spelling bee contestants and pronouncer for the spelling bee.

If your child is in the fourth through eighth grades and would like to be a contestant this year, a copy of the word practice book, "Words of the Champions," can be obtained at the Journal office or from Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, curriculum director for the Muleshoe Schools.

First place winner in the county contest will be eligible to spell in the regional bee at Lubbock. He or she will also receive $15 from the Muleshoe Journal, a blue ribbon and a pen from the Lubbock

Avalanche Journal.

Second place winner will receive $7.50 from the Journal, a blue ribbon and a pen from the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

Third place winner will receive $2.50 from the Muleshoe Journal, a blue ribbon and a pen from the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

The fee order, mailed to all election officials in Texas, gives prospective candidates until Feb. 28 to come up with the filing fee money, or until March 6 to file nominating petitions if they don't have the money to the fees.

The fee schedule will apparently replace the old schedule knocked out Jan. 20 by a three-judge federal court. That same court gave Bullock the authority Wednesday to set rules and regulations governing the primary operations, including establishment of

Final Family Living Seminar Held

The last in a series of four Family Living Seminars was held Monday night in the Bailey County Electric Co-op Meeting Room.

Guest consultants for the seminar were Jim Jenkins, psychologist, and Bill Dillard, executive director of the Central Plains Community Comprehensive Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center. The center is located in Plainview.

Monday's seminar was sponsored by Muleshoe's Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority. Fifteen people who attended participated in a question and answer session led by Jenkins and Dillard.

Questions were written down and turned in to the consultants. Topics of Family Living were discussed. Since the questions were not signed, inquirers could remain anonymous.

The question and answer session was not limited to any specific kind of questions and the full scope of family living and its problems were discussed.

Other topics discussed during former seminars were prenatal care, adolescence problems and brother and sister relations. One session was a lesson in group therapy, another was a lecture.

Before the fourth Family Living Seminar was held, a meeting of the advisory board of the center was conducted. Recently, the center has received grants from the Federal Government to set up "satellite" offices in the surrounding communities. In October, one of these new referral centers was set up in Muleshoe. The office is located at 211 E. Ave. B Mrs. Rowna Watson is the office secretary.

Each county in the area has members on the Central Plains Community Comprehensive Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center's Advisory Board.

Board members present at the session were Mrs. John Watson, Rev. Larry Henry, Judge Glen Williams, Rev. J. B. Fowler, Mrs. Bernard Phelps, and Mrs. Jack Rennels.

Mrs. Watson reported to the group that the Muleshoe referral center had referred twelve adults, one teenager with emotional problems, and entire family of seven and nine students to the center in Plainview. But Mrs. Watson reminded the board members that many more go to the Plainview Center without being referred by the local office.

Food Stamp Changes Will Affect Texas Grocers

Three important program changes will directly affect Texas grocers who participate in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food Stamp Program. Changes include a slightly different 50-cent coupon which will be used by food stamp families soon as well as a new type of redemption certificate to be used by grocers and the elimination of cash for change in food stamp transactions--the latter two of which will go into effect on March 1, according to Martin Garber, southwest regional administrator of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, the agency which handles federal responsibilities for the Food Stamp Program.

Mrs. Mardis Dies At Childress

Sarah Francis Mardis, 83, died at 12:25 a.m. Wednesday, February 2, at Childress, Texas.

She was born January 2, 1889 in Alabama. She was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church of Childress.

Funeral services were held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Calvary Baptist Church of Childress with Rev. Berd King and Rev. H. T. Harris officiating. Burial was in Olympus Cemetery.

Survivors include six sons, Robert Mardis of Mangum, Oklahoma, Roy Mardis of Colorado Springs, Colo., Ray Mardis of Odessa, Ralph Mardis of Canyon, Fred Mardis of Muleshoe, and Randall Mardis of Amarillo; five daughters, Mrs. Ida Kindie of Childress, Mrs. Bertie Mitchell of Childress, Mrs. Lillie Boyd of Sayre, Okla., Mrs. Bonnie Bradshaw of Spreckels, Calif. and Mrs. Lucille Stephenson of Germany; 26 grandchildren; 28 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Mr. Garber outlined specifically the changes which will be involved:

--The new redemption certificates to be used beginning March 1 will be in card form which will be read automatically by a computer. The familiar yellow paper certificate will no longer be used. The card is to be filled out by the retailer and submitted to the bank or wholesaler along with the food stamps being redeemed.

--Beginning March 1, retailers can no longer give cash for change in food stamp transactions or accept food coupons as payment for bottle or other container deposits.

--Credit slips or tokens not to exceed 49 cents per transaction must be used for any change due of 49 cents or less. The food stamp customer still has the option of trading out change due in eligible foods or paying the difference in cash. Bottle and other container deposits must be paid for with cash.

--The orange colored 50-cent coupons will look slightly different. The coupons will be a lighter shade, will have square instead of round notches along the left side and the lower left-hand corner will bear the legend, "Series 1971A."

The 50-cent coupons currently in use are valid so long as they are in circulation. Fifty-cent coupons are the only coupons which may be used in making change of more than 49 cents.

Texas grocers authorized to accept food stamps will be mailed further details on the changes within the next few days, said Mr. Garber.

The Food Stamp Program in Texas is administered by the State Department of Public Welfare in cooperation with USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

Congressman Bob Price

As the new session of Congress begins, we are already voting on major pieces of legislation. Most significant vote last week was the one of the "Foreign Assistance Act of 1971"--in other words, the foreign aid bill. I voted against it.

I voted against this foreign aid bill as I've voted against all foreign aid bills since coming to Congress. The only type of foreign aid I am in favor of is military aid to our proven allies in order to maintain a strong strategic defense in the face of the Soviet Union's continual buildup.

Most of this foreign aid bill was not for military assistance to our allies, however, and although some of the money is designated as military assistance to foreign countries, I seriously question giving money to some "allies" who act more like our enemies than our friends.

Of the $3.7 billion included in this bill, more than $2.2 billion is for "economic assistance."

I simply cannot support that kind of expenditure when we have only about $11 billion in gold in this country with $42 billion held in claims against us by foreign nations plus $27 billion more in foreign aid still in the foreign aid pipeline plus a $23-plus billion deficit last year plus a predicted $32 billion deficit for this fiscal year.

Especially this year when we have just experienced the largest balance of payments deficit since 1888, I did not feel that we should have passed it, but it passed the House over my objections by a vote of 203-179.

I regret to have to report to you that the Democrats on the Senate Agriculture Committee killed the Strategic Grain Reserve Bill by a vote of four in favor of the bill and 10 against. Six of the 10 against the bill were Democrats.

I voted for the Strategic Grain Reserve Bill when it was up for vote on the floor of the House last fall, even though two amendments I tried to add, both of which would have improved the bill significantly, were also killed by the Democrats--that time in the House.

I wanted to make sure that the storage facilities contemplated by this bill were located on-farm as much as practical, and I wanted to prevent the government from selling the grain for less than 100% of parity. Even though those two amendments failed, I voted for passage of the bill because our grain farmers deserve a better price for their grain. This would have been a step in the right direction toward raising grain prices, and I'm sorry the Democrat majority killed a bill vitally needed by the hard-pressed farmer of the nation.

I am now in the process of perfecting new legislation which I will introduce this session, which will hopefully pass Congress, and which will significantly increase farm income. As an example of such legislation, I point out the amendment I introduced to the 1970 Agricultural Act which raised the feed value of grain sorghum 85% to 95% of the feed value of corn and which has meant more than $39 million to grain sorghum producers this year.

HECE Month Proclaimed

Home Economics Cooperative Education is an employment program in Vocational Home-making Education which prepares students for employment in occupations requiring knowledge and skills in one or more home economics subject areas including clothing, textiles, foods and nutrition, home management and consumer education, housing and human development and the family.

The gainful employment program is designed to supplement, but not replace, homemaking education. The curriculum is based on job analysis of specific occupations. Emphasis is placed on the development of attitudes, behavior and skills necessary to secure and hold a job. The students spend one hour in related classroom study and three hours on the job.

Students currently enrolled in the program are Kathy Pena, employed by St. Clair's Department Store; Tracy Cowan, employed by Cobb's Department Store; and Peggy Carter, employed by Harvey Bass Appliance. Mrs. Wanda Gramling is teacher-advisor for the program.

Pioneer Natural Gas Shows '71 Increase

Consolidated net income for Pioneer Natural Gas Company and subsidiaries amounted to $8,971,091. This compares with net income for the year 1970 of $7,496,016 before an extraordinary item which reduced the net income to $6,396,016. Earnings per share for 1971 were $1.20 per share compared to $1.01 per share in 1970 before the extraordinary item and 86¢ per share after the extraordinary item.

The Board of Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 20.5¢ per share on the outstanding common stock payable March 1, 1972, to stockholders of record on February 16, 1972. This represents an increase of one-half cent in the quarterly dividend rate.

John Tower
United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

At this moment I am attending a NATO defense study conference in Munich as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee; but I have taped this report before leaving Washington.

About ten days ago, President Nixon laid before the American people the facts involving his private efforts over a 30-month period to negotiate with the North Vietnamese an end to the Vietnam War. He made public a new peace proposal which was generous indeed. The proposal offered the so-called National Liberation Front in Vietnam an opportunity to achieve through the election process what they and the North Vietnamese have not been able to achieve through force of arms.

Our government has offered the North Vietnamese an 8-point proposal. The plan called for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces within six months of an agreement; the release of all prisoners of war; a political future for the South Vietnamese determined entirely by themselves and free of outside forces; mutual respect for the Geneva Accords of 1954 and those of 1962 on Laos; settlement of Indochinese problems by the Indochinese people themselves; a general ceasefire throughout Indochina; international supervision of the agreement; and an international guarantee for fundamental national rights of the Indochinese peoples and lasting peace in that area of the world.

It did not take long for the Viet Cong delegation at the Paris Peace Talks to denounce the proposal; but the President stated that he remains flexible on the details of his proposal and is willing to negotiate further. Hopefully, the North Vietnamese will see the advantage of agreement to end the war and will negotiate seriously toward that end either in public or private.

If not, the United States will continue its Vietnamization policy which is proving to be a success. Under this program, there will remain in Vietnam only about 69,000 uniformed personnel by May 1. Already, the dangerous ground fighting activities which remain are being carried on fully by the Army of South Vietnam.

But without a negotiated settlement, a residual force will remain in Vietnam so that we may obtain the release of all of our prisoners of war.

The facts now show that our government has made every possible effort, and is continuing to make every possible effort, to achieve a negotiated settlement. The steps that some of my colleagues in the Congress have advocated, were the very actions our government was taking in private. Had various end-the-war proposals debated in the Congress actually become written into law, our negotiators' hands would have been tied and private efforts which then seemed to be possible solutions would have been negated.

Our negotiators, not only on the Vietnam issue, but on all foreign matters should be able to deal from a position of strength. This is particularly true with respect to our efforts to negotiate an arms limitation with the Soviets. It already appears that some of the nations of the world now feel that the United States is no longer going to persist as one of the greatest powers in this world. And, therefore, they are preparing to make their accommodations with somebody else. This is a danger signal we should take very seriously.

Given their present momentum, the Soviet Union will be militarily superior to the United States in a very short time. Right now, we maintain the strategic edge but it is a tenuous edge indeed.

The Soviets continue to advance in the field of military technology, in the field of naval shipbuilding, in the field of development of sophisticated high performance aircraft.

F. Edward Hebert, Chairman, House Armed Service Committee:

"There can be no doubt that the armed forces in general face monumental challenges to their existence as fighting forces."

They are increasing their number of intercontinental ballistic missiles and they have already deployed an anti-ballistic missile defense.

The one thing that ties other nations to us is the strategic deterrent that lies with us. If that can be neutralized, then the United States can no longer be a force for the preservation of stability and peace in the world.

The chances of a negotiated peace in Vietnam, of a negotiated end to the arms race, and of all the many negotiations which are going on or we would like to have begin, depend on whether our negotiating position is going to be supported by strength. But our strength has been dwindling by comparison with the growth of Soviet strength, and world events have tended to contribute to a psychology among other nations that our strength is dwindling.

This is why I was encouraged that the Congress is being asked to support this year an increase in defense spending. As we seek to achieve and maintain peace, in Vietnam and elsewhere, we simply cannot afford to deny our negotiators the strength required to support their efforts. A strong defense is the best path to successful negotiations and the achievement of lasting world peace.
