

Area Misses Bad Weather; Aid Is Asked

Eastland County missed out on most of the severe weather during the past three days, getting instead up to an inch of badly needed rain.

As Dallas and other areas in the state suffered severe damage and loss of life at the hands of mother nature, about the worst thing that happened in this county was some hail and brisk winds.

In Eastland the two-day official rainfall total was .45 of an inch. Unofficial measurements went up to as much as .75, however. Rising Star reported .90 of an inch, Cisco had .60 and Ranger .20.

Although it hailed on a number of occasions during the thunder showers here, it never did get large enough to cause any damage.

There were reports of heavy egg sized hail at Morton Valley, but no serious damage was reported in that area.

Meanwhile, Eastland County citizens were urged by Stanley Webb, county chairman of the Red Cross, to give generously to aid families which lost all of their belongings in the Dallas tornado which killed 10 persons and injured 200.

Webb received the following telegram from the St. Louis, Mo. office of the Red Cross:

"Hundreds of families stricken by yesterday's tornadoes that swept Dallas and neighboring areas need immediate Red Cross help to restore their lives. You are asked to call an emergency meeting of your campaign leaders to launch an appeal to over subscribe your present campaign goal and every citizen should be invited to contribute to the funds which are urgently needed to enable Red Cross to assist your neighbors in distress."

Webb said contributions for the Dallas area would be received by Earl Woody, Mrs. Kenneth Jameson or himself.

Moore... ABOUT Eastland

By VIRGIL E. MOORE

We just can't imagine anyone doing it, but it seems that some of our Eastland citizens believe in clearing up their front yard and throwing the rubbish in the back. Not literally, of course, but for all practical purposes that's just what a person is doing when he hauls his trash out into the rural areas and dumps it in the ditch or some farmer's field. And that's what some of us have been doing.

We have had a number of calls from our friends near here asking us to ask you to refrain from dumping your trash on the rural roads. The city dump is the easiest place to get to that we know of here, and that's the proper place to take your junk if you are going to do the hauling yourself. Let's help the farmers and ranchers in their clean-up drive, too.

Well, the rain record this year is looking good. Of course we still need that good rain. And we are predicting it will come in the next two weeks. Close to two inches of moisture will be recorded, so get that leak on the roof fixed!

We received some clippings from the Amarillo newspaper this week telling about the storm damage in the Texas Panhandle. And written on the edges of this paper was this statement, "I read your editorial and thought you might like to see this. No laughing matter. This was a heart breaking tragedy. Many lives were lost, many thousands of cattle lost. I know, I was here. This news was really the truth this time."

Moore About has many friends in the Panhandle and certainly (having lived in the area) realize the hardships the citizens of that part of the state went through.

During one of the tensest moments of a murder picture at the Majestic Theatre recently an elderly gentleman began groping for something on the floor, greatly disturbing a lady in the next seat. "What have you lost?" she inquired testily. "A caramel," he replied. "You're going to do this for a measly caramel?" she asked. "Yes," was the reply. "My teeth are in it!"

One of the many things that we saw accomplished during the clean-up drive was getting rid of some of the grass that has grown up between cracks in the sidewalk downtown. That's something that should be watched all year long.

Wayne Jackson is coming along with plans for a soap box derby for Eastland. He tells us that he knows where kids will be able to get wheels for their home made cars real cheap, and that will be good news for a lot of the boys interested. Jackson tells us more definite plans for the project will be announced in the near future.

Game Preserve Men Explain Their Bill

A delegation of officers and directors of the Sabanna Valley Game Preserve Association Wednesday attempted to "set the record straight" over the controversial hunting and fishing bill introduced by Rep. Paul Brashear in their behalf.

Five members of the governing body of the Association announced that "not a man in the Association would support the bill as it is now written."

Speaking in behalf of the group, Berry Greenwood, secretary, said that they had asked Rep. Brashear to introduce a bill to include approximately 40,000 to 50,000 acres of land, which is almost entirely included in the Association at the present. Their intention, they declared, was to build up turkey, deer and quail in the area and to have controlled hunting.

Greenwood said Brashear agreed to introduce such legislation, and that the Cisco legislature planned from the start to amend the bill in committee so that it would include only land in the Sabanna Valley.

H. A. Lovell, Ted Underwood, Fred Burfield and W. R. Ussery were other members of the committee which gave their side of the story in an interview with a reporter from this newspaper.

"We are 100 percent opposed to the bill as it is now written," they declared. "We didn't want to interfere in anyway with fishing or hunting in any part of the county except on our own land in the Game Preserve."

'Y' Executive Board To Meet

There will be a meeting of the newly appointed "Y" executive board Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Horace Horton.

The meeting will begin at 7:30. Several new members will be added to the Board at that time, Mrs. Horton said.

Cancer Drive Plans For City Announced

Mrs. Roy Turner has been named general chairman of the Eastland Cancer Crusade drive.

She announced plans for a kick-off on the drive Tuesday. Mrs. Turner said it is hoped the drive can be completed by Saturday, April 13. A meeting of all volunteers will be held Saturday in the First Christian Church annex. Volunteers will be given maps showing their area of the town at that time.

Drive captains include Mrs. LeRoy Arnold, west; Mrs. Carl Garrett, north; Mrs. Dave Fiensy, east; Mrs. Virgil Moore, south; Mrs. Lupe Paramo, Latin-American section; and Rev. O. B. Shaw, Colored section.

This year's drive will be in memory of Mrs. H. R. Garrett and Miss Mabel Hart.

Mrs. Turner urged volunteers to complete their work before Palm Sunday if possible.

Yarborough Wins Senate Seat; Is Tops In County Local Voters Give Dies Biggest Vote

Eastland County voters joined the Ralph Yarborough bandwagon in Tuesday's special senatorial race, giving Yarborough a scant 94 vote lead over his nearest opponent, Martin Dies.

Yarborough polled 1339 votes to Dies' 1245, while Republican Thad Hutchinson picked up 494. It was strictly a three man race in this county with Searcy Bracewell, the fourth running candidate, getting only 51 votes. John White had 46 and James Hart had 35. No other candidate got over seven votes.

Statewide Yarborough got 353,923 votes, Dies had 284,881 and Hutchinson 218,417. Incomplete returns reveal. The three finished exactly in the order in the state race, that they did in the county.

It was clearly a race of a liberal Democrat against a conservative Democrat in this county. Conservative strength was divided since Hutchinson got a lot of votes which would have ordinarily gone to a conservative Democrat.

Yarborough carried 17 of the 25 precincts in the county and Dies carried the other eight. Yarborough also led in absentee voting, getting 21 for 11 for Dies, 11 for Hutchinson, three for Hart and one for White.

Dies carried the city of Eastland, leading in both boxes. His combined vote in Eastland was 238 for 174 for Yarborough. The winning candidate led in Ranger, however. Yarborough got 277 votes there while Dies got just 222, with Yarborough leading in both boxes. At Cisco, where Dies led in one precinct and Yarborough in the other, Dies led in the combined vote by a margin of 446 to 403.

Voting in the county was heavier than anticipated. A total of 2256 cast their votes, complete, unofficial returns revealed. That was just about as many qualified voters as the county was supposed to have had.

Dr. Price Ashton Is Lions Club Speaker Tuesday

Dr. Price Ashton, president of Ranger Junior College, told Eastland Lions Tuesday that one of this nation's biggest problems is "how to teach America's youth to appreciate the wealth it has."

He said that all of the strife in the world is caused by the strife between nations which have and nations which do not have. Pointing out that in all of the world except the United States, two out of every three persons are hungry, he declared that there is no reason why any person in America should go to bed at night with an empty stomach.

Old Stove—

The automatic top-burner control prevents overcooking as well as undercooking and gives constantly good deep-fat frying, boiling or griddle cooking without separate appliances. It actually makes automatic appliances out of ordinary pots and pans.

But the "Burner With A Brain" is only one of the many fine features available on today's gas ranges. Some models have automatic clock controls for oven cooking and special oven heat controls. Also available are automatic timers that shut off the gas and signal when food is done. Other developments that make today's gas range as efficient as it is modern and attractive are one-piece burners, double ovens, removable oven doors, disposable drip pans, lift-off tops and many others.

The advantages of gas cooking have been proved by the millions of American homemakers who use gas today. Only gas can meet their rigid standards of cleanliness, cool cooking and convenience and still give them economy and efficient automatic operation.

Cool cooking is emphasized in the new ranges. Tiny pilots that consume only a small portion of gas keep unnecessary kitchen heat to a minimum. Modern ranges also produce no "hangover heat," heat that lingers in a cooking element and continues to heat the kitchen.

—and burn the food—after the homemaker has turned off the burner.

Colorful displays featuring the robot-head symbol of the "Burner With A Brain" mark the appliance dealers participating in the campaign. Distinctive signs, streamers and window-stickers add to the gala appearance of their showrooms.

The striking beauty of today's gas ranges make every dealer's showroom a veritable wonderland. These fashionable ranges are available in a variety of styles and colors, they add distinction to the home and make the kitchen as beautiful as any other room.

Free Range for Recipe
An added feature of this year's range campaign is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Home Economics Department of Lone Star Gas Company. The home economists have asked appliance dealers to help them celebrate this anniversary by finding a special birthday cake recipe. To the woman who can provide this special recipe will go a new 1957 gas range of her choice.

Entry blanks will be available for all who visit the participating dealers. The entrant does not have to bake a cake. She only has to submit her own favorite cake recipe or one she thinks would make the best anniversary cake.

Anniversary Cookbook
To mark their first quarter century, the Home Economics Department has published a Silver Anniversary Cookbook. This beautiful book will be given away free by the home economists the day they visit an appliance dealer's showroom. They will also demonstrate the "Burner With A Brain" and the many other new gas range features as well as answer all questions. Refreshments will be served at these special showings.

The home economists will visit customers in their own homes after the new gas range has been installed. During these individual visits they will give additional information about the care and operation of the new appliance and will distribute special recipes.

Dealers are offering an attractive finance and insurance plan during the campaign along with their usual low down-payments, high trade-in allowances and a special discount. One of their plans can be scaled to fit any budget.

Special advertising both by Lone Star and the individual dealers will also highlight the campaign.

TELEPHONE TALK

TEXAS GAINS 146,000 TELEPHONES

Some figures I saw the other day showed that 146,000 telephones were added in Texas last year.

It occurred to me that this is enough telephones to supply a city of 400,000 people.

What does this mean to you? Well, it's important to you because you can reach more people by telephone here in Texas than ever before. And it's also good evidence that the telephone company is working to keep pace with the progress of the state.

Right here in Eastland, we added a number of telephones last year, and we're planning to add even more this year to make telephone service more valuable to you and your family.

KEEP UP WITH THE FASTER PACE

It's no secret to anyone that life is moving at a faster clip. All around us there are more things to do and see. People everywhere, it seems, are wishing there were more hours in the day as the pace of living gets faster.

Well, one good way to keep up with the pace is to use Long Distance frequently. For business or social calls, save yourself time and trouble by keeping in touch with out-of-town customers and friends by telephone.

And when you place your Long Distance calls, you can speed them by giving the operator the number you want. You'll find that your calls go through twice as fast when you call by number.

HAVE FUN WITH THE PHONE

From time to time, some of our customers have kept a "diary" of telephone calls—calls they make and calls they receive.

At the end of a week's time, they have been surprised to find the number of errands their telephone ran for them, and the miles covered by the calls.

There were calls to friends, the grocery store, the dry cleaner, the drug store, and maybe the dentist or the doctor.

Anyway, there were many calls made and received, and lots of miles covered around town.

The telephone in your home is there for you and your family to use. Use it often and make all the calls you want to make. In other words, have fun with the phone.

Eastland—

were shown on a screen showing the different features offered and, as each car was shown, the dealers representing that make were introduced. Donald C. Bennett of Dallas, marketing manager for Magnolia, told the guests from the 62-county area that, "Every business must remain alert to the change in customer's needs. If they don't then there's only one penalty to pay and that is extinction in the business." The speaker paid special praise to the automobile industry, saying, "We are saluting an industry here tonight that is not only keeping up with the changing trends, they are creating the changes."

H. G. Hobbs of Abilene, district manager, welcomed the visitors to the meeting. The district includes the area from the Red River on the north to the Big Bend and Rio Grande on the south and from Ranger on the East to Pecos on the West, covering 24 percent of Texas.

Final Figures On 1956 Traffic Toll Are Released

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced the official figures today for the 1956 highway traffic death count. Garrison said that with the official closing of the 1956 books on traffic deaths that 2,611 persons had been killed during the year and the economic loss in the state amounted to $229,685,450.

He said his figures, compiled by N. K. Woerner, chief of the department's Statistical Division, show that 111,501 persons were injured during the year of 1956 and that there were a total of 228,832 motor vehicle accidents. The state police director said the 1956 death count represented an all time high with 64 more deaths than were placed on the books during the record breaking year of 1955 with 2,547 fatalities. "Actually," he said, "there was a three per cent increase in traffic deaths in Texas last year in comparison with 1955 and our death rate per 100,000,000 miles of travel raised only slightly to 6.5 as compared with 6.4 deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel in 1955."

Garrison said several factors must be considered in the fatality figures. "We have more automobiles than ever before in our state and we are driving more miles than ever before. But that is no reason to expect an increased number of deaths in traffic accidents."

"With more driving we have become lax in our attitudes toward breaking traffic laws, and we have become selfish in our driving habits. The traffic officer can do only so much in removing dangerous drivers from the road; we need the full cooperation of the motorist in making 1957 a safer year on our streets and highways." The final count of traffic fatalities is withheld until March 15 each year because of late deaths that occur as the result of traffic accidents during the calendar year.

Cut Small Item Farm Costs for More Profits

College Station.—Modern farming is an expensive business requiring a high maintenance outlay as well as a large initial investment, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist. A careful "budget analysis" to uncover small leaks of the quarter and dollar size will pay sizable dividends over a year's time. Check your operations today, he advises, it may mean increased net income and better family living.

Since prices of many farm products are now depressed, Bates urges farmers to use every practical means to reduce costs. Raising products of higher market value at or near the same cost is a good start, says the specialist. Cutting costs of specific jobs and doing more at the same cost are also effective weapons against the "price-cost squeeze."

Bates encourages farmers to use individual thought in applying such general practices on their farms, but says that many applications are standard. For instance, a soil test tells a farmer the basic nutrients needed on his land, enabling him to spend his fertilizer dollar more efficiently. The specialist lists several handy, money-saving hints which may be applied to most Texas farms. Consider odd-size seed corn kernels, he advises, and plant with suitable plates since they usually cost less per acre planted and yield as well as others. Lower fertilizer rates over many crops across usually give greater total returns than higher rates on fewer acres, he adds.

Other "universal" tips include: combined field operations such as pulling harrows behind discs to reduce time and power costs; rubber flaps on press wheels to aid in quick seed germination; feed buying at bulk or volume prices; better tractor fuel utilization by using long row patterns to reduce end travel; taking advantage of price breaks by having machinery overhauled done during serviceman's slack season; and practicing "tax-wise" farming by using all legal means to reduce taxes.

For a detailed list of such tips, see your county agent or write the Agricultural Information Office at College Station and ask for MP-191.

Air Force Ups Age Limit For Reserve Program

Hensley Field, Tex. — The Air Force Reserve has increased the age limit for its non-prior service enlistment program from 18 1-2 to 25 years, Brig. Gen. Jerry W. Davidson, commander of the 448th Fighter Bomber Wing at Hensley Field, said today. Formerly, only high school seniors and recent graduates between the ages of 17 and 18 1-2 could enlist in the program. The new age limits are 17 to 25 years of age. Enlistees do not have to be in school.

Young men qualifying under the program serve six months of active duty in Air Force basic and technical training schools, then are released to civilian life. They complete their enlistments as "week-end warriors" in the Air Force Reserve while following their normal civilian pursuits. In the Dallas-Fort Worth area, they can fulfill their military obligation through membership in the 448th, or Lone Star Wing, which trains at Hensley Field. After six months of active duty they become members of the wing, training one week—end a month and for two weeks each summer.

CARD OF THANKS We wish to extend our sincerest thanks to our friends, relatives, the good doctors, and nurses for the many wonderful cards, letters, flowers, and gifts received during her extended illness. We will always be grateful. Charles and Mrs. Mac Levey

E. H. S. School Views

By Ellen Whatley

After missing a week from school because of the flu, the E.H.S. students are really having to double up in order to get their work finished. Every thing seems to be happening this week.

The tennis team went to the district meet in Abilene Tuesday.

David Carothers and Jaye C. Jarrett represented the school in senior boys doubles. Stan Blevins, as senior boys single, Sue Day as the senior girls single, and Betty Westfall and Ellen Whatley as the senior girls doubles. Eastland came back with one ribbon—that was second place in the senior girls doubles. The members of the Eastland team all played quite well and the games were very close. Clyde walked away with all of the first place ribbons. Coach Tate accompanied the team to Abilene.

The autobiography tea will be given Thursday at Miss Johnson's house. All of the autobiographies will be on display and everyone is invited to come see them. Some of the books are beautiful and all are very interesting.

The F.F.A. is planning a banquet to be given some time this week. A special program is being worked up for the banquet and it should be quite nice.

Young Slatton placed fourth in the high hurdles, low hurdles, high jump and the discus throw. Dickie Corbell placed third in the 220 and fourth in the 100 yard dash. Ronald Robertson and Jimmy Jiminez also placed with a fourth in the 440 and fourth in the 880 respectively. On the whole, Eastland made a very good showing and we wish the team good luck in the meets to come.

Insects Fight Other Insects In War On Pests

Fighting insects with insects not only saves millions for the nation's farmers but lessens worries about growing dangers from chemical poisons, Peter Farb reports in the April Reader's Digest in an article condensed from the Rural New Yorker titled, "Biological Control vs. Insect Pests."

For instance, 15 years ago Japanese beetles resisted spraying, burning and trapping as they ravaged crops from New Hampshire to North Carolina and westward to Ohio. Then U. S. Department of Agriculture entomologist found a bacterial disease was killing herds of beetles in New Jersey and that as the infected grub died, it left billions of spores to infect other grubs.

Mass produced in the laboratory, these spores were planted in 150,000 colonies in 14 states. As a result the beetles no longer rate as a serious pest.

About 50 U. S. entomologists, working with foreign scientists, have developed such "living in-secticides" to stop about 75 percent of the world's most noxious pests.

Such biological control may be as simple as placing goldfish in a pool to eat mosquito larvae or as complex as the program planned to eliminate the screwworm fly, which has wiped out whole herds of livestock in the Southwest. In this case, the male screwworm is sterilized by atomic radiation and, as the female mates but once, release of the sterilized male in millions, whittles down the pest population.

Tests have proven value of biological control in fighting the codling moth in apple orchards, pine sawfly in Canadian forests (a pest which six years ago was killing seven times as much timber as fire), corn earworms and alfalfa caterpillars. Tests on the pink bollworm, unstoppable cotton pest, also hold promise.

Insects have built up such a resistance to chemicals that today's horsefly can tolerate a dose of DDT, 1,000 times as great as that of his ancestors of 10 years ago. This has led to use of poisons in such frightening amounts that three federal agencies are now preparing controls to protect consumers.

Thus, the establishment of some 90 foreign parasites and predators whittling away at our insect pests holds hope for less dangerous, more effective and less costly pest control.

SPRING FIND

Cotton jersey knit goes high fashion for spring. Fitted bolero is worn over sleeveless princess sheath, which is fully lined to retain its sleek, molded look. Costume, designed for early or late-day wear, is by Alfred Werber of St. Louis.

eye is farsighted. The strain of keeping it in focus becomes too much for the child when he is weary, so his brain gives him a rest by using only the better eye. The signals from the other are blanked out and it is left to wander.

One baby in every 50 has some such trouble, the article says. Most of them can be set straight with simple measures, but only if help is given early. Most tiny boys and girls who need glasses can be fitted with them by one year of age. Comfortable, unbreakable lenses let them discover the world, whole vistas at a time.

Such care wards off crossed eyes. It wards off the one-eyed, flat vision that often follows when the brain ignores for years the signals from one out-of-line eye.

Many a father has been offended when his own child didn't know him. Sometimes the trouble is just that the baby can't see very well, says the article. A normal new baby sees about as well across the room as you do across a football field.

By the age of two, he should see well enough to spot a favorite toy across the room and to guide his hand directly to a small object he wants. By the time he's four, things have to be only twice as close to him as to an adult with average vision, before he sees them well. By age six, this difference decreases.

Close vision is another thing. Most children are born farsighted and only gradually get to see up close. The power to focus is strong when you are young, though. For short periods of time, a four-or-five-year-old can do amazing things with farsighted eyes, but he has to strain hard to do it.

Eyestrain in young children often affects their digestions. Too much eye use leads to loss of appetite, nausea, and vomiting in three out of five preschool cases.

When using his eyes makes a child restless and irritable or excessively tired, eyestrain may be at fault. A child very seldom complains about headache. He acts cross and goes off someplace to rest. Even if you ask, only about a third of preschoolers with eyestrain ever tell you they have pain, according to the magazine.

A child's behavior while he tries to use his eyes may give some clues to eye trouble. Notice whether he squeezes his eyes down to slits with a furrowed brow and pained grimace. Notice whether he leans toward things he is trying to see or juts his head forward on a craning neck. Notice whether he gets very close to books and handwork, or holds them off at an uncomfortable distance while reading or working. Notice whether he tries to brush away blur, rubs his eyes, or blinks frequently. Red, crusty, or swollen lids or frequent sties also may mean trouble. The symptoms of watering eyes and headaches come to the fore after close work starts in school. Sometimes a youngster closes or covers one eye when he is reading.

How to Protect Child's Eyesight

By the time your child is in the first grade, the chances are almost one in four that he will need eye care. By the time he's in sixth grade, the odds are even higher: one in three.

There is no simple test which will show whether your boy or girl needs eye treatment. The usual Snellen test—in which your child is told to identify letters or symbols from a chart—shows up eye problems only about half the time, according to an article in the April issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine. The rest are discovered because a parent or teacher is watchful, and knows what to watch for.

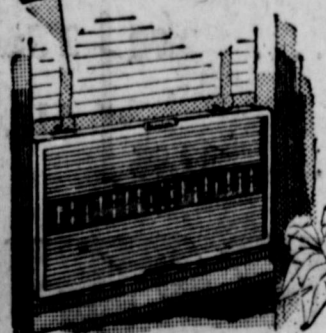

Every child has trouble getting his eyes to move together perfectly during the first four months of life. If the eyes stay in the same crossed or walled position all the time, you should check with your doctor.

After six months of age, a tendency for the child's eyes to stray away from each other deserves care, even though the conditions occurs only when the youngster is tired. Often this means that one
