That Double Taxation

Sometimes people can't see the forest for the trees.

Consider this inequity:

The Congress which met last year eliminated a small part of the discriminatory double taxation of dividend income. Now efforts are underway to persuade the current Congress to repeal both the $100 dividend exclusion and the four per cent dividend credit.

These efforts certainly can't be justified on either economic or ethical grounds. Shareholders in American industry are the people who make possible new jobs, new opportunities, new and better living standards for us all. And these people have long been treated, taxwise, with great inequitability. The profits earned by business are heavily taxed before any dividends can be paid. Then they are taxed again when the money is paid to individuals. No other kind of income is subjected to double taxation of this nature.

The argument that dividend income is only of interest to the wealthy is totally untrue. A survey made some time ago showed that 31.6 per cent of shareowners had family income of less than $5,000, and that 44.4 per cent were in the $5,000-$10,000 bracket. Less than a quarter of the shareowners enjoyed family income in excess of $10,000.

Almost countless billions of investment will be needed in coming years if American enterprise is to expand as it should. Every reasonable move which encourages such investment is of direct service to the entire nation as a rising population calls for greater production and increased tax revenues. Most important, it broadens and strengthens economic democracy and political democracy alike.

congressmen and representatives urging them to consider and take whatever action deemed favorable for peanut farmers:

Be it resolved: That We, the directors of the Eastland County Farm Bureau, due to drouth confours years in the Southwestern area, request that you ask the Secretary of Agriculture to increase peanut allotments in the states comprising the southwestern area, to equal the 1947 acreage of these states, for the purpose of increasing southwestern peanuts, as required by law.

In a reply to this proposal, the Hon. Omar Burleson, has asked that the Secretary of Agriculture immediately declare a shortage of Spanish type peanuts. As evidenced by the fact that peanuts are being imported. He also asked that allotments be increased to levels provided by law. This should be a means of help to increase the acreage here in our own vicinity as well as adjoining counties.

Announcement of an advertised 50 per cent divdend by Southern Farm Bureau Casualty Insurance Company means a savings of $7,-473.50 to farmers of Eastland county, according to Mitchell Campbell, Bureau president.

The farm leader said that 300 or more Farm Bureau members in the county would receive dividend payments, the amount each receives to be half of the amount of his premiums paid during the one-year period ending March 31, 1955. Dividends will be paid in semiannual payments, as policies come up for renewal, he stated. This is the second year that Farm Bureau members in Texas have received 50 percent dividends on their auto insurance premiums, Mrs. John Love, service agent for the county Farm Bureau said.
