Officers For New Business Club Named

Charter To Be Presented At Banquet Session Next Tuesday Night

Officers of a new civic club in Big Spring—a local unit of the national association of American Business Clubs—were elected, and initial plans for a charter banquet were made at a meeting of young business and professional men of the city Wednesday evening.

W. D. Carnett was named president of the organization, R. J. Reeder was elected as secretary, and Curtis Driver was named treasurer. Members of the board of governors are Dr. Preston R. Sanders, Charles A. Frost, Lee Porter and Pete Sellers. These constitute the slate of working officers who will direct organization activities of the club; and two other positions, those of vice-president and sergeant-at-arms, will be filled later.

Dinner Tuesday Night

The clubs charter dinner will be held on Tuesday evening of next week, beginning at 8 o'clock, at Hotel Settles. It will be a ladies' night affair.

Charter for the new organization will be presented by Herman J. Smith of Ponca City, Okla., governor of the sixth district. Members will be pledged and officers installed by Ernest Northcutt of Amarillo, lieutenant governor of the district. Representatives are expected to attend the dinner from Business Clubs at San Angelo, Lubbock and Amarillo.

Sixteen members already have been signed for the new club, and those who are enrolled before next Tuesday will be received as charter members. Leaders of the organization said they expected an initial membership of between 20 and 25.

P. E. Neumann, a representative of the national association, has been here for several days directing the work of organization. He plans to remain here until after the charter banquet. This week he is working with a local committee in making arrangements for the Tuesday night affair. Members of the committee are J. W. Joiner, Charles Frost and Pete Sellers.

Says He Saw No Wrong In Gifts To Sons

Explains Use Of Brother's Truck In Hauling State-Owned Animals

AUSTIN, Nov. 21. (AP)—J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, underwent close cross-examination today concerning the use of a truck owned by his brother in the transportation of state-owned jacks and stallions, and concerning the presentation to his sons of two mares by a Kansas breeder from whom the state purchased animals.

Explains Use Of Truck

McDonald faces charges of official misconduct in office. The state had completed its case yesterday. In the hearing before the house of representatives.

McDonald said he used his brother's truck because he could not obtain the type of vehicle he needed elsewhere and that his brother allowed him to experiment with the truck to obtain an efficient type of hauler. He denied that he knew this was a violation of the state nepotism law.

"The official said he saw nothing wrong with Robinson (the Kansas breeder) giving his sons the mares, and could see nothing wrong with it now." Since the gift was made, only one load of animals had been purchased from J. C. Robinson, McDonald said.

Charges

Charges against McDonald include violation of the nepotism law by leasing a truck from his brother, permitting an agent to accept bribes, acceptance of two mares as a bribe from persons selling animals to the state, diversion of funds to unauthorized uses, commingling of public and personal funds, unlawful promotion of milk, cream and rice organizations and use of his office to aid private enterprises.

At a conference with the board of control it was suggested that the brother's truck be transferred to McDonald said he was told it had been sold to Jim Tate, an employee of his brother's.

McDonald said he insisted on a bona fide sale.

"If the deal was not bona fide, I had no suspicion," McDonald said. "I made it plain to my brother that it must be."

Did Not Profit

McDonald said he did not profit from the transaction and that the board of control, which now purchases the animals, found trucking more practical than rail shipment.

On the second charge McDonald said he did not know whether W. D. Thurman, who purchased animals for the department, accepted bribes as alleged by the state. Rangers have been unable to locate Thurman, the board said.

"If I had known it I would have fired him so quick he wouldn't have known which way to get out of the house," he said.

Roosevelt Gives Hint As To His Program For Next Year

Wants Tax Revision, Will Continue Relief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (UP)—President Roosevelt permitted the nation to peep at his administration's 1936 objectives as he cleaned his desk of domestic and international problems preparatory to his departure for the "little white house" at Warm Springs, Ga.

He let it be known that he looked for a short session of congress next year; that he planned to call a round table conference on tax revision late this winter; and that federal relief will NOT end next July.

Mr. Roosevelt chose a gathering of mayors of leading cities to set forth his aims and justify experimentation as a means of solving economic problems. He said:

Relief Not To Stop

"We have tried experiments, some of them have been very successful and some of them, like all experiments, have not been quite so successful. Through this process, we are building up a new relationship—a perfectly sound relationship—between the different branches of government—municipal, state and national."

Mr. Roosevelt added that he had been asked if the government planned to stop giving relief to the needy next July.

"That is the kind of thing—spreading the word around that everybody who is now on relief will be taken off relief rolls beginning the first of July—we have to combat," he said.

"My answer was that the federal government, and I am sure your answer will be the same for the city governments, does not propose to let people starve after the first of July any more than during the past few years."

Tax Problem

Swinging into a discussion of the $4,000,000,000 works program, he predicted that "some people are going to find in a few weeks that the program as a whole is going to be carried out before the end of November just as planned last spring."

Selassie Is Back In Capital After Giving Orders To Commanders

(By the Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini Thursday cut the Italian army by 100,000 for three months by granting leave for that period to that many men.

It was officially stated that the order has no "international significance" but is to release farmers for work and speed up Italy's industrial production temporarily.

Emperor Back

Emperor Haile Selassie returned to Addis Ababa today after a two-day tour of the Southern front, which he left just before two Italian planes flew over that section. It was believed the emperor went to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders to his army commanders.

The Italian army in the north smashed Ethiopian forces commanded by Ras Seyoum in a sharp battle. The number of casualties was unknown.

Meanwhile, anti-British rioting broke out again in Cairo, Egypt.

Wants A "Few Battles"

At Paris, French officials described Mussolini as being indifferent to Franco-British peace suggestions until Marshal Badoglio, the new commander of the fascist forces in Africa has a "chance to win a few battles."

From Makale It was reported that the Italian northern army was prepared for an Ethiopian counter-attack.

Headquarters officers said warriors of Emperor Haile Selassie are massing in southern Tigre province and may attack any time. Another official report said a strong column was marching on Selcote, only eight miles from Makale.

The officers explained they believed the Ethiopians intended to attack because they placed an exaggerated value upon numbers. A large group of the enemy was reported to be massing at Tzellemti, in the Semien area, which faces the Italian right flank.

Japan Slowing Up On China Program

Becomes 'Hot' Issue; Autonomy Move Is Halted

(By The Associated Press)

Japanese political experts close to the government leaders asserted today that the North China situation had developed into an explosive issue in the Tokyo government.

The issue will be debated at a cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the autonomy movement, whereby five states in North China would be formed into a new state, came to an abrupt halt. Indications were seen in London that an imperial suggestion was responsible for the halt; a London source, on the other hand, said the delay was due to British pressure.

One official said the Chinese government had been "authoritatively informed" that the move for North China autonomy, favored by Japan, had unexpectedly "quieted" because the Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota, had insisted in Tokyo that creation of the new nation would harm Japan's cause in the naval talks.

The Japanese government recently instructed its delegates to demand full naval parity with Great Britain and the United States, and some observers said they believed the Tokyo authorities wished to run no risk of jeopardizing any chance of getting a much desired accord granting them the right to build a larger navy.

Mahon's Aide Views Local CCC Project

Croslin Shown Incomplete Work; Letters On Park Received

Lloyd Croslin, secretary to Congressman George Mahon, inspected the abandoned scenic mountain state park camp here Thursday morning in order to get first hand information on the condition of the park.

Since Mahon was designated as one of the official U. S. party to the Philippine inauguration, Croslin handled protests from Big Spring concerning removal of the CCC camp from here Nov. 1.

He was shown the incomplete concessions building, the caretaker's cottage, open ditches which were to have had water and gas mains laid in them, rough road beds and other portions of the park left uncompleted by the removal of the camp from here.

Letter From Nason

Before his arrival Thursday, the chamber of commerce had received two letters concerning the park. One was from George Nason, senior regional inspector for national parks service. The other came from Congressman J. N. Costello (Calif.), member of the house military affairs committee, who visited here briefly on November 1.

Nason's letter was largely a review of what had been done prior to the abandonment of the camp. He attributed the move to the fact

Johnson Case Nearing Jury

Attorneys Arguments In Murder Trial Being Heard Today

Closing arguments before the jury which will deliberate the fate of John Johnson, Lynn county deputy, were started at 11 a. m. Thursday when Judge James T. Brooks, special prosecutor reviewed the state's case. The case was expected to go to the jury by 6 o'clock.

Johnson is charged with the death of B. O. "Bunk" Best on May 24, 1933 seven miles north of Lamesa.

The state charged that Johnson fired on Best while he was being pulled back and while his hands were in the air. The defense countered with a charge that Best had both his hands on the leg of Dalton Barnhart, Johnson's companion, at the time, and that the officer fired in fear of his life.

Brooks repeatedly stressed the state's contention that Johnson took deliberate aim at Bunk Best as he was pulled back by his brother, Grady Best, and had his hands up in the air.

The prosecutor characterized this move, which was testified to by

Woodward Is Congressman President Of Kiwanis Club

With Other New Officers, Will Assume Duties At Next Meeting

Garland Woodward was elected president of the Big Spring Kiwanis club in the organization's annual election held Thursday. Succeeding George White, Woodward, with the other new officers named, will take office at the club's luncheon session next Wednesday.

Dr. C. K. Bivings was named vice president and Cal Boykin was chosen as treasurer. Merle Stewart will continue to serve as club secretary. New members of the board of directors are T. S. Currie, Nat Shick, George Gentry, James Little, W. B. Hardy, Carl Blomsheld and Roscoe Cowper.

The club abandoned use of a nominating committee this year, and election was made by open ballot, the tickets bearing names of all members.

Thomas J. Coffee, a speaker on the day's program, suggested that the club during the coming year set aside regular days for discussion on various governmental topics of the day. He said important questions should be studied, with perhaps two members discussing different viewpoints on the questions at club meetings.

Roscoe Cowper was chairman for the day's program. Visitors included C. L. South of Coleman, Lloyd Croslin of Colorado, Bill Tate, Ira Thurman and W. T. Strange.

Congressman South Talks Before Club

Says New Deal Should Be Compared With Past Administrations

In connection with next year's election, it would be fairer to compare accomplishments of the democratic administration with those of national leaders in the past rather than to put the present officials up against a standard of perfection, Congressman C. L. South of Coleman told members of the Kiwanis club in a short talk Thursday.

South, representative from the 21st Texas district, and one of the new members of congress, was here briefly today, stopping on his way to Midland where he will visit.

"Although President Roosevelt undoubtedly has made mistakes," South said, "I believe these mistakes were made in an honest effort in behalf of the welfare of the common man." The people were ready to turn to Roosevelt in 1933, the congressman said; and now that "we are able to walk again, some are throwing rocks at him."

South paid tribute to George Mahon, new representative from this district, as an able member of the Texas delegation in congress—a delegation, the Coleman man said, that is considered one of the strongest among the groups at the national capital.

Mustang-Cat Tilt Watched

Sweetwater, San Angelo Clash At Conebo City Tomorrow

Football interest in district 3 this week is centered on San Angelo, where, tomorrow afternoon, the Bobcats mix it with the Sweetwater Mustangs in the second of the district title games.

The contest will be played beginning at 3 p. m. It was originally scheduled as a night game, but Sweetwater officials requested the change. The tilt is expected to attract several fans from Big Spring. San Angelo is picked to win the meet, but an upset victory for Sweetwater would help to some extent to clear up the middle caused by the Big Spring-San Angelo tie game. Outcome of the race, however, cannot be definitely determined until after the Steers meet the Mustangs on Thanksgiving Day.

Sweetwater will have a large delegation at tomorrow's game. A special train will be operated, leaving the Nolan county city at 11:40 a. m. and arriving in San Angelo at 2 p. m. The Sweetwater high school's pep squad of 95 members will be aboard the train.

A special section has been reserved at San Angelo for the visiting delegation. Sweetwater is expected to have a large crowd on hand for the game, and a big turnout is anticipated.

State Replies To Bruno Plea

Supreme Court Urged Not To Review Conviction In Kidnaping

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (UP)—The state of New Jersey today urged the United States supreme court not to review the conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnap-murder of the Lindbergh baby. The request was in a brief filed in answer to an appeal for a review submitted by counsel for Hauptmann some time ago.

The brief said "it is respectfully submitted that the petitioner has not shown himself to have been deprived of any right accorded by the 14th amendment, and further has been convicted under due process of law within the meaning of the constitution."

The brief added that "the summation of the state's attorney-general was based on evidence presented at the trial; that there was no variance in the theory of the baby's death; and that the court's charge was in accordance with the law and the facts."

These were answers to specific complaints made in the request for the supreme court review.

Mrs. Rodney McCraney has returned home from the Big Spring hospital and is doing very well.

Response To Red Cross Roll Call Likened To That Of War Times

Encouraged by the whole-hearted response—especially in the business sections—accorded the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, directors of the drive in Howard county Thursday continued their efforts to give every citizen an opportunity to enroll in the humanitarian organization for another year.

"The support given the roll call this year is reminiscent of World War days, in that people are with- out exception giving gladly to the Red Cross," one worker declared Thursday.

Sixty-four memberships had been obtained in one business block, and the canvass of that business had not

Past Grands To Be Honored By Rebekah Lodge

Past Grands will be honored by the Rebekah lodge Friday 7:30 p. m. from the L.O.O.F. hall.

Thirty-odd past grands of the lodge have been invited to take part in the ceremonies.

Four new members will be initiated. 2 will be re-initiated and J. H. Haller, charter member of the lodge, organized in 1912, will come back into the organization by default.

Members of the order have been urged to be on hand for the occasion.

SETTLEMENT ON HIGHWAY LAND SOUGHT

Efforts are to be made here this week to reach a settlement with Mrs. S. B. Ratliff for a strip of right-of-way on highway No. 9 in Glasscock county without necessity of a condemnation suit.

Dr. J. T. O'Bar, Glasscock rancher and owner of about 5 miles of roadway required for the rerouted track this week accepted the state's offer of $4,963 damages. His ranch was cut in four parts by the road.

The state highway commission has adopted a condemnation order on the Ratliff land and has authorized appropriation of money to pay for right-of-way for land needed to close a six mile gap in Glasscock county.

About a fifth of mile of right-of-way will be required across the Ratliff property. The road will cut off one corner of a section of her ranch.

As soon as all needed roadway is obtained, the highway department will let contracts for grading and surfacing.

CITY'S PARK PROJECT IS GOING AHEAD

Work is progressing on the WPA city park project since trucks were put on the job this week.

Caliche base is being hauled for the road around the municipal swimming pool and for the cut off road from the main drive to the driveway around the baseball diamond.

Walls of the concrete culvert were poured the forepart of the week and top slab is due to be poured Friday.

Hauling of chert will be started Monday and actual topping of the park drives is due to begin within ten days.

Attorneys are preparing a deed for a tract of land south of the present park. The city is purchasing the land for $4,000 and will use it in an enlargement program for the park. One portion of the new tract will be devoted to Boy Scouts as a camping ground and for the annual Round Up which attracts more than 800 boys and scouters.

Child Is Bitten By Rattlesnake

Hilena Nebarez, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Petra Nebarez of Stanton, was brought to Big Spring hospital late Wednesday afternoon suffering from a rattlesnake bite. The child was bitten on the left leg as she was playing in a cotton field near Stanton where the parents were working. An antivenom serum was administered, and the patient was reported responding nicely to the treatment Thursday afternoon. This is the third snake-bite victim in this area within the past six months, hospital attendants said.

COACH MEYER BELIEVES HORNED FROGS HAVE EVEN CHANCE

HOURS OF WORK SPENT ON OFFENSE; TACKLE JINX STRIKES AGAIN

FORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—"I don't see how Rice can be beaten." That's an unusual report for a football scout to make, but it is the news that Freshman Coach Howard Grubbs, who scouted Rice last Saturday, brought back to Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf.

The squad's answer to Grubbs' pleasant little bit of news was: "We don't see how T. C. U. can be beaten."

Coach Meyer, after three days of practice, opines: "I believe we have a 50-50 chance. The boys know a lot of football, and if they get a fair amount of the breaks, they're likely to go to town."

Hours and hours have been spent this week on polishing both offense and defense. Plays have been run as often as 20 times in succession in the effort to get every minute detail right. Blocking, tackling and all of the various fundamentals have come in for their share of intensive work.

The tackle jinx that has plagued T.C.U. all season made its appearance again this week, with Solon Holt, right tackle, confined to his bed the early part of the week with a bad cold. It is doubtful whether or not he will be available for work against the Owls.

Donkey Roberts, reserve fullback, injured a leg in the Texas game and will be unable to play Saturday. Aside from these two, the Frogs are in fine physical shape and ready to go.

The dope-sheet boys are divided in their predictions as to the outcome of the contest. Some pick T.C.U. to win; some pick Rice. It is the first time this season that the Frogs have entered a game sharing even part of the position as the underdog.

Another example of what a fine bunch of people live along the Concho is furnished by Bob Cooke of Sweetwater: "But we will say this, if San Angelo shoves the Sweetwater delegation off in the end zone amongst the colored fans, as we are told was once the experience there, then we would favor another 'no decision' ruling. But we don't believe San Angelo will treat her visitors that way again."

Cooke should not be surprised at anything over there. He's lucky if he gets a seat at all. A LOCAL fan tells us that he was threatened a couple of weeks ago for stopping in San Angelo to watch the Bobcats work-out. Those are hospitable people over at San Angelo.

IF BOTH S. M. U. and T. C. U. come through this week undefeated, their game the following week will hold the attention of grid fans all over the nation.

"STANFORD GRIDDEBS, in spite of their unimpressive season, are confident that they will 'take' California Saturday," pens a West Coast writer. "They are particularly enthusiastic over the prospective odds, which will find them on the short end of about 7 to 5, and are satisfied that they can play their best game as 'underdogs.'"

Bobby Jones Says

By BOBBY JONES
The only man who ever held the American amateur and open championships in one year.

Let clubhead go after maximum speed has been built up. While our winter golfer is swinging away trying to cause his swing to approach the ball from inside the line of play, there is another lesson of incalculable value he can be learning.

Many a good swing has been ruined because of that little extra something which the player has tried to add just at impact. Striving for all the length possible, the temptation is great, as the club nears the ball, to have one more dash at it with the hope of getting a little more distance.

There is perhaps not a single golfer who cannot recall numbers of instances when, hitting easily to avoid reaching a cross hazard, you have surprised himself by knocking his ball squarely into it. On these occasions he simply hit the ball better than usual because he was swinging quietly, and because he let the clubhead go.

So, when you are swinging your club, indoors or out, without a ball, try to get this feeling of letting the clubhead go. Build up its speed—then release it. Stand aside, and see what it will do! If you can do your job right, then relax. Your club will carry you right through to that sweeping, graceful finish which has been trying so hard to pose.

Baugh's Educated Arm Is Accurate

FORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—The cold statistics of Sam Baugh's work in the nine games that the Horned Frogs have played to date speak for themselves in telling what his educated arm and toe have done for T. C. U. in passing and punting.

In the nine games, Sam has thrown 136 passes, 65 of which have been incomplete, 12 intercepted, and 59 completed, for an average of 434 on completions. The total yards gained on those 59 passes is 828. Fourteen touchdowns have been scored from passes, passes, and several others made possible, Sam has punted 53 times this season, for an average of 41 yards, a record as remarkable as his passing when one recalls that these 53 punts include many short ones kicked out of bounds intentionally when in enemy territory.

Sam's poorest passing work was in the first game of the season. In the seven major games since the conference competition opened, his percentage of completions is 49, or practically half of all he has thrown—53 out of 108.

The record by games: T. C. U.-Howard Payne, Fort Worth, 9-21-35. Attempted 21 passes; one intercepted; four completed for total of 62 yards, two of these four touchdowns. Punted two times, average 40.

T. C. U.-Denton Teachers, Fort Worth, 9-25-35. Attempted seven passes; one intercepted; two completed for 24 yards. Punted four times for average of 38.

T. C. U.-Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark., 10-5-35. Attempted six passes; one intercepted; four completed for 65 yards, one for touchdown. Punted six times for average of 41.

T. C. U.-Tulsa, Tulsa, Okla., 10-12-35. Attempted 12 passes; one intercepted; 11 completed for 122 yards. Punted five times for average of 37.

T. C. U.-Texas A. & M., Fort Worth, 10-19-35. Attempted eight passes; completed three for 81 yards, two for touchdowns. Punted nine times for average of 45.

T. C. U.-Centenary, Shreveport, La., 10-26-35. Attempted 28 passes; three intercepted; 13 completed for 112 yards, two for touchdowns. Punted six times for average of 49.

T. C. U.-Baylor, Waco, Tex., 11-2-35. Attempted 18 passes; one intercepted; 10 completed for 156 yards, three for touchdowns. Punted four times for average of 41.

SWITCH MADE BY CHEVIGNY IN BACKFIELD

Go Into Pass Defense Business Very Thoroughly

AUSTIN, Nov. 21.—The prospect for the invasion from the Ozarks of Arkansas of one of the most dangerous passing attacks in the Southwest has prompted the University of Texas Longhorns to go into the business of pass defense more thoroughly this week than ever.

No rest was in store Monday for Jack Chevigny's men. Coach Thomson's Razorbacks are coming here Friday in search of their second conference victory of the season, leaving the Texas eleven one day less to make preparations.

Last week, while the Texas pass defense was being riddled by the sensational Sammy Baugh of Texas as Christian, the Razorbacks were losing 48 forwards at the Mustangs of S.M.U. and completing 13, a fair indication that a revamping of the Texas defense might be in order.

With this in view Chevigny Tuesday made a switch in the backfield which is calculated to add strength on offense and defense alike. Bill Pitzer, Longhorn fullback, was shifted to the left halfback post to allow him more freedom for passing and wide running, while Judson Atchison, sophomore left halfback, was sent to the fullback post to take full advantage of his drive and speed.

Capt. Joe Smart received a cut lip in the Horned Frog game last week, and the starting assignment at the right guard post against the Razorbacks this week will go to John Henderson, junior from Fort Worth. The understudy to the Longhorn captain has demonstrated exceptional defensive work in recent games and should fill the gap in fair fashion.

With the revamped lineup Chevigny plans to employ mostly running plays against the Arkansas eleven. The passing attack failed to click last week and will be reported to only sparingly Friday.

Mustang Team Is Improved

Spent Time In Perfecting Offensive Maneuvers For Game
SWEETWATER, Nov. 21.—The Sweetwater Mustangs have been working long hours each afternoon this week perfecting offensive maneuvers to throw against the San Angelo Bobcats Friday in the Ponies opening conference game.

Judging from the Mustangs' scrimmage against the B team, the Ponies will try a varied attack on the Conchocats, including plunges, passing and a running game.

Work On Defense
The coaches have not neglected to check up on a defense to be used against Harry Taylor's team. The B team, equipped with the fundamental plays of the opponents Friday, have been running them against the regulars.

Have Big Line
The Conchocats have a fairly heavy line to throw against the Mustangs. The lightest men on the Bobcat forward wall are, incidentally, the outstanding players in the line.

SYRACUSE HAS GREAT ELEVEN THIS SEASON

Hanson's Team Has That 'Never Say Die' Spirit

(By The Associated Press)
The team which Coach Vic Hanson has fashioned at Syracuse may not be a great eleven, but it has at least one attribute that will carry it a long way on the football high way. It is that "never-say-die" spirit which enabled the Orange clad warriors to pull four of their first six victories of the present campaign out of the fire with second half rallies.

Against Cornell, Ohio Wesleyan, Penn State and Columbia, Syracuse flashed a brand of fighting spirit unequalled by any Orange eleven of the past decade. Slow starting, they suffered from their own lack of experience in the early stages of each of those contests but when the chips were down and a score or two was needed, they rose to the occasion.

The second "dixie rally" against Columbia, which erased the 2-point margin Lou Little's team enjoyed at half-time as the result of a safety, was perhaps the most pleasing to the followers of Syracuse. After four years of dire famine in which Syracuse could not score even a single touchdown against the Blue and White, their impressive triumph atoned for past defeats.

On their two scoring drives against Columbia, one a 55-yard march and the other 90 yards, Syracuse presented a well conceived passing game, as Ray Rekmack, the 200-pound junior halfback, tossed strike after strike into the arms of Vannie Albanese and Walter Reklis. In both cases when the ball had been carried to the shadow of the enemy goal line Albanese took it over for the score just as he had done on every other occasion this season when a touchdown was needed.

Syracuse completely disarmed Columbia of its air attack. The fact that the Orange intercepted seven Columbia passes indicates how alert the Syracuse secondary was in defending its territory against passes. Columbia's passes were well enough directed, but time after time an Orange-clad athlete literally took the ball out of a waiting Columbian's outstretched arms.

You've got to take off your hat to Vic Hanson. Early season workouts promised little for his Syracuse squad. Sixteen lettermen had been graduated. All-America Jim Steen and Joe Vavra had gone. So had Nevins, Stark, the Singer twins, DiNunzio, Ginter, Merz, Johnson—all regulars for the three seasons past.

Hanson had to build his offense around Vannie Albanese, a sophomore sensation last season. This 175-pounder was placed at fullback where he blossomed out as the greatest line-bucker Syracuse has flashed in several years. Fortunately, Albanese has proved a hardy athlete, and has been available for full-time duty.

Ponies Go Thru Another Drill Of Pass Offense
DALLAS, Nov. 21. (UP)—The Southern Methodist university Mustangs, fearing that Baylor may give them a dose of the same medicine they received last year at Waco, will go through another drill of pass offense and defense today.

Catch Matty Bell is still working with Bob Finley, Bob Turner and Shelly Burt in an effort to develop one of them to fill the position left vacant by Harry Shuford.

Hard luck struck the Mustang camp again yesterday when Kenneth Goodson, whose injured knee was practically well, injured it again and probably will be out the remainder of the season.

Cage Prospects Report At Texas

AUSTIN, Nov. 21.—While the hum-drum of the last two games of the football season is still in the air, University of Texas basketball candidates have already begun to get the feel of the ball and the floor. A group of men have been working out since early this month, but with the first official call by Coach Marty Karow early this week a dozen candidates are reported.

The men out during the first few days of practice are: forwards Capt. Jack Taylor of Austin, Jerry Sparkman of San Antonio, Bill Baxter of Lamesa and Bill Tate of Stephenville; center Henry Chaves of Fayetteville; guards James Sturgis of Hillsboro, Sidney Peltzman of Houston, Stanley Sullivan of San Angelo, James Lawson of Newton, Don White of San Angelo, and Warren Osborne and Art Moers of Houston.

Another dozen men are slated to report at the end of the football season to bring the Longhorn squad up to about 24 men. Of the men now out for football, Jack Collins and Tarleton Jones, centers, and Morris Sands, guard, are the leading candidates.

Letter men who will be available when the full squad reports are: Capt. Jack Taylor, forward; Morris Sands and Jack Collins, centers; Sidney Peltzman and James Lawson, guards.

Members of last season's undefeated freshman squad who are slated to win berths on the Varsity this season are: Bill Baxter of Lamesa, Warren Osborne of Houston and Jerry Sparkman of San Antonio, forwards; Henry Chaves of Fayetteville and Tarleton Jones of Vernon, centers; and Don White and Stanley Sutton of San Angelo and Warren Wiggins of San Antonio, guards.

With the exception of Jack Collins and Tarleton Jones, who measure 6-4 and 6-6 respectively, the squad will be somewhat short of the average Southwestern team. An average height of about six feet and one inch will apply for the remainder of the team.

The possible return to eligibility at the semester of Henry Clifton, Port Arthur squad man, and Joe Roach, lanky Decatur center, will add strength to the Longhorns for the conference schedule.

Injuries Bother Rice Institute Grid Squad

HOUSTON, Nov. 21. (UP)—Injuries bothered the Rice Institute football squad today, with Capt. Sam Mays, tackle, and Bill Wallace, ace back, on the casualty list.

Mays received a sprained ankle in the game with Texas A. & M. last week and Wallace suffered from a bruised side. The latter, however, was expected to be ready for the weekend's contest with Texas Christian University.

REGULARS MAY STAY ON BENCH

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 21.—Harry Taylor may have three of his key men out of the Sweetwater game to be staged here tomorrow afternoon.

Those likely to be out are Nick Pappas, a Greek guard, J. W. Teague, the boy who booted the ball over the goal line in a game with a San Antonio team, to cover it for a Bobcat touchdown which won the game. The other Cat who may be on the bench is Bill Davenport, giant tackle.

BRONCOS HOPE FOR PECOS WIN

Comparative Scores Give Speedy Eagle Team The Edge

PECOS, Nov. 21. (Sp.)—Football fans of District 7, Class B are eagerly awaiting the clash here Thanksgiving Day that is due to go far in deciding the sector championship. The Eagles clash with the strong Wink Wildcats.

Each team has dropped only one game this season. Pecos lost to the Odessa Broncos in the season's biggest upset, while Wink was smothered by the Class A Boyle Bears of El Paso.

Comparative scores give Pecos the edge. Kelton, young Eagle speed merchant, is expected to be fully recovered from injuries, and Mendinhich will be back in harness.

Knight, Chaney, Garlington and Ezell form the backbone of the Wink team.

A Pecos win will put Coach Brooks Conover's Odessa Broncos back in the running and throw the district into a three-way tie. The district winner will meet McKinney for the bi-district title and the right to play in the regional. Midland may be the play-off site.

Scores last week saw Wink turn back Crane, Midland broke back in the win column to take Monahans and Odessa copped an inter-district game from Iran of district 8.

Games this week find Stanton at Monahans Saturday, Midland at Odessa on Thanksgiving and Wink at Pecos on the same day.

The game scheduled between Fort Stockton and Crane for Friday night of this week may be cancelled.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Loss Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises. There's a reason why so many people find dieting play and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about 54 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace. Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way. Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

Liquor Drinking At Football Games, Athletics, Is Criticized By Speaker

EL PASO, Nov. 21. (UP)—Lobbyists and the state legislature were charged with blocking legislation sought by the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers at the annual congress convention here.

Dr. J. J. Brown, state public health officer, accused the congress of failing to do its duty by allowing Texas to rank fourth from the bottom in its public health program.

"The P. T. A.'s have worked diligently for health measures," Mrs. A. F. Wood, state president, told Dr. Brown. "We have supported every public health measure that has come up. We worked hard for the child labor amendment. We have been balked at Austin by lobbyists. The legislature is to blame and not the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers."

Criticizing liquor drinking at football games, Dr. Joseph Artman of Chicago said, "If I were a college president I would not have a football team."

He characterized football as one of the "glamor" evils of the day. "We set ourselves back in the character race when we brought liquor back," he said. "I saw more drinking at the Rice homecoming game at Houston than I have seen at any ball game in 10 years."

He said schools are working up their athletics for chambers of commerce.

WASHINGTON—Among the inner hierarchy of the republican national committee, two conclusions have been reached regarding Herbert Hoover:

- 1. That he is definitely a candidate for the 1936 nomination. 2. That he has a secret organization, amply supplied with funds and energetically pushing his campaign.

The GOP moguls—privately hostile to the ex-president—credit Ogden Mills, secretary of the Treasury in the Hoover cabinet with being master-mind and chief financial "angel" of Hoover's drive to stage a coup d'etat.

According to republican national committee reports, Hoover is pursuing two lines of strategy in his push for the nomination.

One is to encourage rival candidates, such as Colonel Frank Knox and Governor Alf Landon, to believe that if Hoover cannot get the nomination he will throw last minute support to them.

In confirmation of this it is reported that several hours before Landon made his recent Cleveland speech, he conferred over the long distance phone with Mills.

Second, in states where Hoover himself would not stand a chance of getting delegates, "straw men" in the guise of "favorite sons" are being put into the field.

This strategy is behind the recently developed presidential bid of Walter Kohler, bathroom fixtures manufacturer and ex-governor of Wisconsin.

About a year ago Kohler was on the front pages as a result of a bloody strike in his plant. When Hoover was in the white house Kohler was one of his close friends.

GOP foes of the former president are now saying that Kohler has no hope of getting the nomination and that once he gets control of the budget state delegation, he can be swung to Hoover at the last moment.

Tough Jim Farley Job-seekers still crowd into the waiting room of the democratic national committee in Washington. In an unbroken stream, from nine to five, they come, sitting patiently, staring at a sign which reads: "Please approach desk of receptionist one at a time."

Conspicuous in the crowd recently was an oldster with a nervous manner. Across his knees he held a leather case. Protruding from the case was the butt of a double-barreled shotgun.

The hopeful who sat next to him stared hard. After a time he said: "Pardon me—but will a shotgun help me get a job?"

The armed gentleman whispered back: "I understand it takes more than this!"

Old Rivals Behind the election of Orval V. Adams, violently anti-new deal-Salt Lake city banker, as second vice-president of the American bankers association is an interesting story of a long-standing feud.

For years a hot rivalry has existed between Adams and Marriner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve board. Both fought for leadership of Utah banking—with Eccles always a lap or two ahead of his older and more orthodox opponent.

HIGH COURAGE

Chapter 2 THE JUDGE WRITES Anne quickly all open the envelope and read the closely typed pages Ansel Kellogg had written: Dear little Anne: You may have been by the papers that the big bad wolves are eating out of Uncle Ansel's hand. You see, my dear, they aroused my anger. A good thing, my system needed stirring up. I feel ten years younger since that talking down match with Mrs. Farnsworth. I won, I dare say, established a record. Poor Les stood by tongue-tied providing he has a tongue, and marveled at me. Your clothes and other things will be delivered with this letter, and I have a check for nine hundred dollars which I will send you as soon as I hear from you. This was the best Harney and I could do. I'm glad you've found such a haven. I remember meeting Tecla Sorik, when you were little. I'm sure Luke and Lucinda trusted her implicitly. Anne, I listened to the reading of the will and I'm more than ever convinced that Luke had some deep-laid plan. There is little to tell you that you don't all ready know. The house was left as I said, salaries were raised somewhat in the case of Lee, Tom and Crocker. Your allowance was stipulated. Everything else, insurance, dividends from the fisheries, and other interests, was to be turned back to the general estate to be held as such for a period of five years. At that time it is to be distributed "among my kin-folk, according to instructions to be made public at that time." Aside from that there was little of importance. Some mention was made of the way Luke wanted the canneries handled; something about fishtraps, I was distracted at that moment by something, I don't remember what, but I'm sure it wasn't important. Lee was left in charge of the canneries and Edison Martin, of the Tri-National Bank, made administrator. Referring to Luke's plan, I only need it, I believe you staying on among the fishermen may be a good thing. Whatever the trouble was, it centered down there. Perhaps as one of them you will learn something which might be used as a clue, uncovering the mystery. If you will let me know I may be able to follow things through for you. Did I mention that I had retained myself as your attorney? Would you mind verifying this in writing? You know you need someone to look after your affairs and I fancied myself in that place so I told Martin to send your allowances through my office. Write me your plans and remember I am here to serve you and to serve the memory of Luke and Lucinda. Affectionately, Ansel Kellogg. P. S. I have intimated that you are in a private sanitarium, recovering from a nervous breakdown, and will probably be there six months or more. You may have to help me break into heaven for this whopper. Speaker: "That's fine. Now everyone who believes in the principles of Senator Long, stand up. Everyone stands again. Speaker: "Now, everyone who has two suits of clothes, stand up. This question brings gales of laughter. No one stands. Speaker: "Everyone who believes that Standin and Dear (opponents of the Long machine) have more than two suits of clothes, stand up." The audience laughs again and everybody stands. At length there comes this question: "Everyone who pledges his support to the Long candidates—the men who supported Senator Long and who are going to carry out his program—stand up." The speaker by this time is shouting. The audience cheers wildly and everyone is having a good time. Then the speakers begin in earnest. Invariably they are bombastic. They boast of their own achievements and assail the program of their opponents. Biblical quotations are used freely and by the time the meeting is over the audience is highly enthusiastic. However, despite the apparent enthusiasm for the Long machine which is manifested in these political meetings, leaders are frankly worried. Will these people, who constituted the bulk of the support of Long, continue to back the machine, or will they become again disinterested in politics and drop back into political apathy? Two Tickets Entered There are just two tickets in the field—the machine's and the anti-Long. With harmony prevailing in both camps until election day, no run-off primary will be needed. The machine is running Appellate Judge Richard W. Leche for governor; Speaker of the House Allen Ellender for the U. S. Senate, and Earl K. Long, the dictator's brother for lieutenant-governor. Congressman Cleveland Dear is the anti-Long candidate for governor, and Congressman John N. Sandlin seeks the senate seat. If it wins, the machine will be established in every state office for another four years and the empire built by Long will proceed without him. BITTEN BY SPIDER TYLER, Nov. 21 (UP)—Mrs. M. E. Tisdale, of Van, Tex., who was bitten by a black widow spider that

Process Yielding Low Cost Gasoline Sought At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21. (UP)—Research, prompted by the rapid depletion of oil reserves, will be started here upon completion of a proposed machine that will squeeze gasoline and motor oil out of coal. The machine, advocated as a new resource by scientists and natural resources experts for many years, will be among the first of its kind ever built.

According to Dr. H. H. Storch, who is in charge of the work, 100 pounds of pulverized coal, poured into the machine, will emerge in the form of crude oil—90 pounds of it. By distilling this thoroughly, the scientists can get as much as 75 pounds of gasoline.

The cost of the gasoline will be about 14 cents a gallon, Dr. Storch believes, however, that the cost may be reduced to 10 cents a gallon or less after a year's research.

Rising Prices Seen According to present standards, of course, such a price would make the cost prohibitive, inasmuch as gasoline is now produced for about five cents a gallon.

Government officials who have authorized the work, however, are convinced that the price of crude petroleum will rise gradually during the next decade or so due to depletion of the present rich oil fields.

They point out that should the United States become involved in war, or if the states should decide to conserve their petroleum supplies.

RESULTS OF 1935 ELECTIONS OFFER POLITICAL EXPERTS DATA FOR 1936 'WAR MAPS'

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington) With 1936 almost here, and the local election returns of 1935 available for analysis, the political strategists are hauling out their war maps and taking up more intensively their study of political geography.

Theoretically, candidates for national office are supposed to campaign on national issues, addressing their appeals to the country at large. Actually, that seldom happens.

A look at the election returns for past years demonstrates the point clearly. The country votes by sections. Instead of carrying scattered states here and there, a candidate for the presidency carries blocs of states, usually on the basis of some sectional issue.

A map on which the territory of one party is shown in black and that of the other party in white never presents the appearance of a checker board. Instead, great areas are solidly one color or the other.

So political calculations are based, in the main, not on what individual states will do, but on what the large geographical sections will do.

Three Political Sections Most calculators recognize three general sections—the East, the West and the South. Some add a fourth—the Midwest—but its limits are hard to define and usually the Midwestern states are incorporated under the general heading of the West.

In the southern group are included customarily the 12 states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In the eastern group are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont. Roughly, this is the territory east of the Ohio and north of the Potomac river.

In the western group is all of the others, from Ohio to the west coast, including for the purposes of this classification the border states of West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri.

These are the three grand divisions of American politics. When the arrangement is reduced to political mathematics, the result is this: In the electoral college, which chooses presidents, there are 531 votes. Of this total, the southern group has 155, the eastern 151, and the western 245. A majority, or 266, is required to elect.

It is apparent that no one of the three sections can elect a president by itself, but that any two of them, combining solidly or even with some losses, can make up the requisite 266.

A further important element is the fact that the few remaining vestiges of short-lived boom towns, lured by quick and easy money from the new-found "black gold," thousands of persons—promoters, oil workers and undesirables—thronged to the new field in 1926 and 1927. Towns that blossomed overnight from nothing into teeming communities died out as quickly in the inevitable post-boom deflation.

Borger alone of all of the mushroom towns survived and thrived. Crime ran rampant, reaching a climax in 1929 when martial law was declared and troops were sent to rule the town after District Attorney John A. Holmes had been assassinated.

A two-story brick shell, originally erected to house a bank, is all that remains at Signal Hill, one of the most notorious of the "ghost towns." Started in the fall of 1926, it soon became a rendezvous for outlaws, saloons and "hot" dance halls flourished. Mat Kimes and Ray Terrell, Oklahoma badmen now serving terms in prison, frequented the town. It and Borger were favorite hangouts of "Whitey" Walker, convicted Texas killer and bank robber who was fatally wounded in an attempt to escape from the "death house" of the state penitentiary.

Kimes and Terrell once escaped unrecognized while Signal Hill was surrounded by Texas Rangers. It was the Rangers, under orders to clean up Borger in 1927, who started Signal Hill's downfall. After they had weeded out undesirables few persons remained and buffalo grass began to sprout from once-graded streets.

Seven pupils now attend school in one room of a 14-room, $18,000 brick school building, at what once was the town of Oil City. Electric City's 2,000 residents are gone. Only a school house remains to mark the townsite. GoWhitt, which boasted several hotels at the height of the boom, today has a single filling station.

Nothing remains at Pantex, Bell Plains, Bevo Mills and Burnett City. Each had from a few hundred to 1,000 residents during the boom. Borger was founded March 8, 1926, by A. P. (Ace) Borger, who later was to be shot down in the post office of the town which bears his name. Buying the townsite property for $12,000, Borger sold $25,000 in lots the first day. The city drew heavily of underworld characters as its population climbed to 20,000, with about 15,000 others living nearby. Self-appointed "laws" strapped on six-guns and assumed control. So many persons were arrested on one occasion that they were fastened to a long chain and spread over a vacant lot. Although its population is but one-third of its previous high, Borger still enjoys good business. Several of the nation's leading oil, gas and carbon black companies maintain general offices here.

Hutchinson County Dotted With The 'Ghost Towns' Of Oil Boom Days

BORGER, Nov. 21. (AP)—"Ghost towns," reminders of a sensational oil boom of nearly a decade ago, dot the rolling hills of Hutchinson county, center of early development in the prolific Texas Panhandle field.

Against a background of carbon black smoke and among towering oil derricks that rise from prairies where wild buffalo roamed little more than half a century ago, can be found the few remaining vestiges of short-lived boom towns.

Lured by quick and easy money from the new-found "black gold," thousands of persons—promoters, oil workers and undesirables—thronged to the new field in 1926 and 1927. Towns that blossomed overnight from nothing into teeming communities died out as quickly in the inevitable post-boom deflation.

that no formal recommendation for extension had come through national park service from the state park board. An informal recommendation for retention of the camp had been sent to Washington sometime before the CCC company was transferred to Sweetwater. Nelson called attention to the fact that the camp was kept here a month over the scheduled time.

Costello merely expressed his opinion of leaving the park in its present incomplete state. He indicated that to leave it now it would constitute an "enormous waste."

Croslin, back to West Texas for just a few days, said he planned to return to Mahon's Washington office Monday. He arrived in Colorado a week ago.

Mahon, his secretary said, is expected back about Dec. 20, having already sailed from Manila.

B'Spring Man Wins Prize On Sales Record

E. L. Curb Presented Ring By Founder Of The Maytag Company

A Big Spring salesman, E. L. Curb, received recognition from his "big boss" this week. Curb attained the distinction of having sold the greatest number of Maytag washing machines during the year; and for this record he received personally from F. L. Maytag, founder of the Maytag company, a handsome gold ring.

The presentation was made at Sweetwater, where over 300 Maytag salesmen and dealers in West Texas gathered to meet Mr. Maytag, in the state on one of his regular business tours. Although the founder of the biggest washing machine company in the world is 78 years of age, he still takes an active part in the organization.

The ring presented Curb was offered as a prize to the first salesman to sell 100 units in 1930. Curb passed the mark in nine months, a record for the company in the nation.

Maytag reported at the Sweetwater meeting that more units had been sold this year than at any other time in the history of the company, founded in 1893. October, according to the official, was a record month for the state of Texas, 43 carloads of machines having been shipped into the state.

Three generations of Maytags are now in the business. F. L. Maytag is now chairman of the board; his son, F. H., is president, and his grandson, F. L. II, is in charge of sales.

I. A. Fuller Gets Ten-Point Buck

What may be one of the largest bucks of the season was killed by I. A. Fuller southwest of Kent this week, when he brought down a 10-point buck that weighed 150 pounds dressed.

Fuller accompanied a party of Van Horn men, Luther Curtis and Drew Atherburn. Oscar Young of Allamore was in the party. The men hunted on the B. Wallace ranch.

The deer was shipped home. Fuller came home Wednesday.

State Head Of Pythian Sisters Is Visitor Here

Mrs. H. C. Carson was hostess to members of the Pythian Sisters Wednesday afternoon for a social session, complimenting Mrs. Elsie Beas Hemphill of Mineral Wells, grand chief of the Pythian Sisters.

Mrs. Hemphill addressed the women on various phases of the work, after which the hostess served a sandwich plate.

Roosevelt

The president declared that "taxes have grown up like topsy in this country."

"We haven't had a revision," he said, "and I think the time is coming—not at this coming session of congress because we hope that will be a very short session—but by the following year, when all of us can get together and sit around a table and work out a better system of taxation, state, municipal and federal."

"Late this winter we are going to ask you to come down and talk about that subject around the table. I suppose this meeting will be dignified by the name of a tax conference, but I would rather keep it informal and have it become a continuing study which will bring forth an intelligent report before the close of the year 1936."

Mr. Roosevelt left last night aboard a special train for Warm Springs, where he will take a Thanksgiving holiday for the next two and a half weeks, alternating work with recreation. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, members of the white house secretariat and a small office staff.

Johnson Case

Grady Best and Hazel Hancock, nephew of Bunk, as "a plea in action not to shoot."

Arguments, scheduled to start Wednesday evening, were delayed when attorneys for state and defense objected to portions of the court's charge. The charge was revamped and the arguments begun at 11 o'clock Friday morning. Brooks finished his argument before the noon recess.

Judge Charles L. Klapproth limited the defense and state to three hours each in closing arguments. Clyde E. Thomas was due to lead off for the defense counsel in the closing arguments with Carl Roundtree, Lamesa-a-torney, following. District Attorney Cecil Collings was to be the second man for the state. Final arguments, which were due to start about 3:30 p. m. were to be by Tom Gurrard for the defense and George Dupree for the state.

Testimony in the case was concluded late Wednesday.

Ellsworth Tries Again On Flight

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. (AP)—The New York Times reported today that Lincoln Ellsworth had hopped off on a second attempt to span the Antarctic continent.

He was forced to abandon his first try, started yesterday, when his motor leaked oil. Ellsworth's project flight of 2,000 miles would take him across an unknown part of Antarctica.

Clever Mrs. Pierce SHE LOST 50 POUNDS OF FAT

Feel full of pep and possess the slender form you crave. You can't if you listen to gossipers—Mrs. Pierce has a mind of her own.

To take off excess fat go light on fatty meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets—eat more fruit and vegetables. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning (tastes fine with juice of half a lemon added)—Kruschen is as low as 40c.

Mrs. W. L. Pierce of Tiffin, Ohio, writes: "I've taken off 50 lbs. with Kruschen in 6 months. I was 238 and intend to continue till I'm 154."

No more cathartics—no more laxatives, and no constipation when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen. Collins Bros. Drug Co., and druggists everywhere—adv.

'Virginia Judge' Comedy Playing At Ritz Today

The showmanship and philosophical justice as dealt out by a real judge in Virginia a generation ago helped to determine the career of an unemployed shipyard worker who went to the court room habitually to hear the judge's sarcastic but humorous remarks when he heard the cases of negroes who appeared before him.

Walter C. Kelly was the listener, and he made his "Virginia Judge" act famous for years in vaudeville. He has brought the portrayal to the screen in the comedy drama "The Virginia Judge" which plays today at the Ritz.

The negro comic, Stepin Fetchit, is seen in the play, and Marsha Hunt, appearing on the screen for the first time, and Johnny Downs are others in the cast.

The film deals with the many laugh-provoking cases which confront the judge in a small Southern town, as well as depicting the life in the small community itself.

Former Pastor Is A Visitor Here

Rev. W. G. Buchschacher, former pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church, visited here Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. He returned Thursday to his home in Temple.

He had accompanied John Hershback, Sr., John, Jr., and Fred Hershback to the Davis mountains on a deer hunt. The Hershbacks are interested in oil development in the East Howard pool.

City Awaiting PWA Funds For Swimming Pool

Although the municipal swimming pool is complete in every detail, it probably will not be turned over to the city for a few weeks yet.

Both city and contractor are waiting for PWA to pay the 30 per cent grant promised on the project. When this is paid the city likely will accept the job.

In the meantime, plans are being made to move Charles Akey and family into the caretaker's quarters within the next few days to protect the pool. When this is done the present golf shop will be moved to the downstairs portion of the bath house.
