MOORE about... EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

Good to hear that Judge Clyde Garrett is improving right along after suffering a heart attack while flying back from Washington. Judge Garrett is at St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Worth if any of his friends care to drop him a note.

Hats off to the Cisco Lobos. The Lobos, in winning their first district championship since the 1920's, did so in convincing fashion. Eastland fans will be backing their neighbors to the west in the state playoffs, just as Cisco backed the Mavs in 1956 when Eastland marched to the state semi-finals.

Cisco's joy at winning the crown was well expressed Sunday in The Cisco Press. The Press carried a story telling of plans for the bi-district game. The headline read, "Have Football, Will Travel!"

Sorry we didn't get the statistics on the Ballinger game in Sunday's Telegram. For those of you who are still interested, here they are:

Eastland	Ballinger
11 First Downs	17
139 Yards Rushing	275
64 Yards Passing	89
4 of 14 Passes Com.	5 of 14
3 Passes Int. By	5
4 for 33 Punts, Avg. 2 for 35
1 for 5 Penalties	5 for 65
2 Fumbles Lost	0

Dr. H. J. Bulgerin has got a problem which medicine will not cure. The Bulgerins recently acquired a dachshund and before it became familiar enough with home to remember how to get back, the little dog chased a passing beagle down the street. Since that time Dr. and Mrs. Bulgerin have spent considerable time going up and down the streets of Eastland hunting the dog. Their two young sons, Stevie, four, and Donnie, 19 months, haven't given them much rest since, and unless Doc comes up with that dog they won't be much rest at the Bulgerin home.

So if you spot the dog, he is almost black, brown feet and light brown marks under each eye, please phone 1098 with the good news.

Jim Horton says a committee is a meeting of the unable, who have been asked by the unwilling to do the unnecessary.

There's nothing to the report that Perry Brothers is now stocking square hoola-hoops.

The Ranger Times has started their usual vicious attacks on the capability of the Eastland Mavericks. The Times is busy trying to re-bug that seven-jinx Eastland used on them last year. Times Editor Ronald Waters says this year doesn't end in "7" so the Mavs don't have a chance. Ranger fans are saying that Lee King, Tommy Wolford and Jake Basham could pretty well handle Eastland by themselves.

Eastland's Don January finishes nine strokes off the pace in Atlanta Open, but his finish good enough to make him 1. That last putt cost him a $150.

Game Preserve Meets Tonight

Veterans Day Observed Here

Most Eastland stores are closed today in observance of Veterans Day, the one day set aside to honor all American veterans of all wars.

Here in Eastland no special program was announced. In the past a wreath has been placed on the memorial plaque on the courthouse square, but no activity had been revealed as of this morning.

Eastland schools remained open as usual, but most teachers took a moment out of their usual classwork to remind Eastland's junior citizens of the great price paid for the freedoms they now enjoy.

Veterans Day, for those who didn't have to work or go to school, seemed to be generally a stay-at-home day. Business here was at a standstill, but few citizens made a trip on the one-day semi-holiday.

Around the square a flag could be spotted here and there.

Rev. Blair Is Buried Monday

CISCO — Funeral services were held Monday at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church at Cisco for the Rev. Hugh D. Blair, 80, retired Baptist pastor and missionary.

Rev. Blair died Saturday night at his home on Route 3, Cisco. Rev. Judson Prince of Fort Worth officiated with Rev. M. L. Agnew and Rev. Ed Crow, both of Cisco, assisting.

Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery with Hamner Funeral Home in charge.

Rev. Blair served as pastor of many churches in this area and was missionary for the Cisco Baptist Assn. for 27 years.

Surviving are one son, Wyman of Cisco; two daughters, Miss Mildred Blair and Mrs. Homer S. Lard, both of Dallas, two brothers, three sisters, and one granddaughter.

Eastland Asked To Have Day at Fort Worth Show

Eastland has been invited to have a "day" at the 1959 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, which will be held Jan. 30 through Feb. 8 in Fort Worth.

In a letter, W. R. Watt, president-manager of the show, suggested that Eastland select a cowgirl sweetheart who can be introduced at the Stock Show rodeo. Watt also invited the city to send its high school band so that the students may give a concert on the exposition grounds. Band members will be guests of the Stock Show at the rodeo performance.

Watt expressed the hope that a delegation of citizens, wearing hat bands or badges proclaiming their hometown, would attend the exposition. A special section of seats at the rodeo also will be set aside if Eastland residents would like to sit together.

Dale Robertson, star of the TV Western series, "Tales of Wells Fargo", will be featured in all rodeo performances. He will star in a musical act designed especially for the Fort Worth Show.

Massegee Is Rotary Speaker At Luncheon

Charles Massegee, Baptist evangelist, was guest speaker Monday at the Eastland Rotary Club luncheon held in the White Elephant restaurant.

Massegee, a graduate of Ranger High School and Hardin-Simons University, was introduced by Bernard Hanna, program chairman.

Rotarians were told that new Rotary identification badges have been ordered.

Cisco Snuggles Crown As Mav-Dog Contest Nears

Biggest news in District 7-AA this week was the fact that the Cisco Lobos won their first district championship since 1927.

The Lobos did it in convincing fashion Friday as they froze the Winters Blizzards 30-6 for their ninth consecutive victory.

Cisco could possibly still end in a tie for the district crown, but would have to lose to Coleman to do it while Ballinger gets by Winters. A win by the Lobos will give them an undisputed championship. A loss would mean they would tie with Ballinger, but still would represent the district since they held a win over the Cats. In the only other last-week district game, Ranger and Eastland meet in Ranger to renew one of the state's closest schoolboy rivalries.

Cisco will meet Granbury in bi-district play. Officials from the two schools will meet this Saturday to determine the playoff site. Cisco will be a heavy favorite to win the Bi-District tilt, since the Lobos easily downed Comanche while Granbury had their hands full in doing so.

In the district individual scoring race, Ken Wington of Ballinger gained on Cisco's Randall Hess. His gain wasn't great, but any gain on the Lobo star is something. Hess now has 141 points to his credit for the year, while Wington has 80. Jerry Candler, Ballinger great halfback, is third with 73 points.

Last week's games saw Cisco down Winters, 30-6; Coleman beat Ranger 24-14, and Ballinger stomped Eastland, 33-0.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

Adults sure ought to be careful about what they say in front of growing children, especially those kids who're in the formative ages. One never knows how much emphasis a youngster might put on something one might say in front of a child.

Every grown person is being looked upon as an example by someone that the adult might never think of. So it behooves all of us to do the best we can in our language and conduct or we might set a bad example for a small child who looks upon us as something worth copying.

A year or so ago I had the pleasure of taking a couple of my girl friends, Marsha and Eileen Smith, and their lively brother, Russell, to the White Elephant for refreshments.

Russell, of course, wanted an elephant steak but I explained to him that that was the name of the place we were in but if Victor Cornelius had to serve an elephant steak he'd have to go out of business. He hasn't got an elephant steak, he hasn't seen an elephant steak, and he has no intentions of getting any elephant steaks in stock.

After all of this was explained to Russell, he willingly settled for something less pretentious. I thought that settled it there and I never gave the matter a second thought.

The next day, however, the "E's" mother jumped on me as if I were a criminal—or something. She met me on the street; "Joe Gray, you taught my little boy some naughty words."

Somewhat surprised at this accusation about all I could do was to meekly ask: "I did?" "You sure did."

"Naughty words?" I asked, wondering what in the world I had ever taught her little boy that could possibly be construed as "naughty" words. I keep talking to myself as a dodged her finger-pointing lecture but if the words I had taught her boy were so bad it would seem that she would have her husband, the preacher, discuss it with me instead of bawling me out herself.

However, she's not the first woman to do that. I've been bawled out by some of the finest women to shake a finger in the face of a man. In fact, I'm pretty well used to this being bawled out business.

Ad Lee Lume she pointed her finger at me I kept wondering when she was going to actually tell me what this was all about.

A fellow doesn't mind having a pretty gal shake a finger in his face if she'll tell what she's up to. "Wanda," I said, "I'm sorry if I taught Russell something he shouldn't have known, but tell me, what's this all about."

Things were sure looking bad for me then.

She said, "This morning he marched into the breakfast table like the army passing in review and sent himself at the table. I asked him what he wanted for breakfast this morning and he said your four words."

"He did?"

"The sure did!"

"Well, what in the world did he say?" I asked, expecting the worst.

"Well, I asked him if he went to his bedroom and he said 'No.'"

"Well, what do you want for breakfast?"

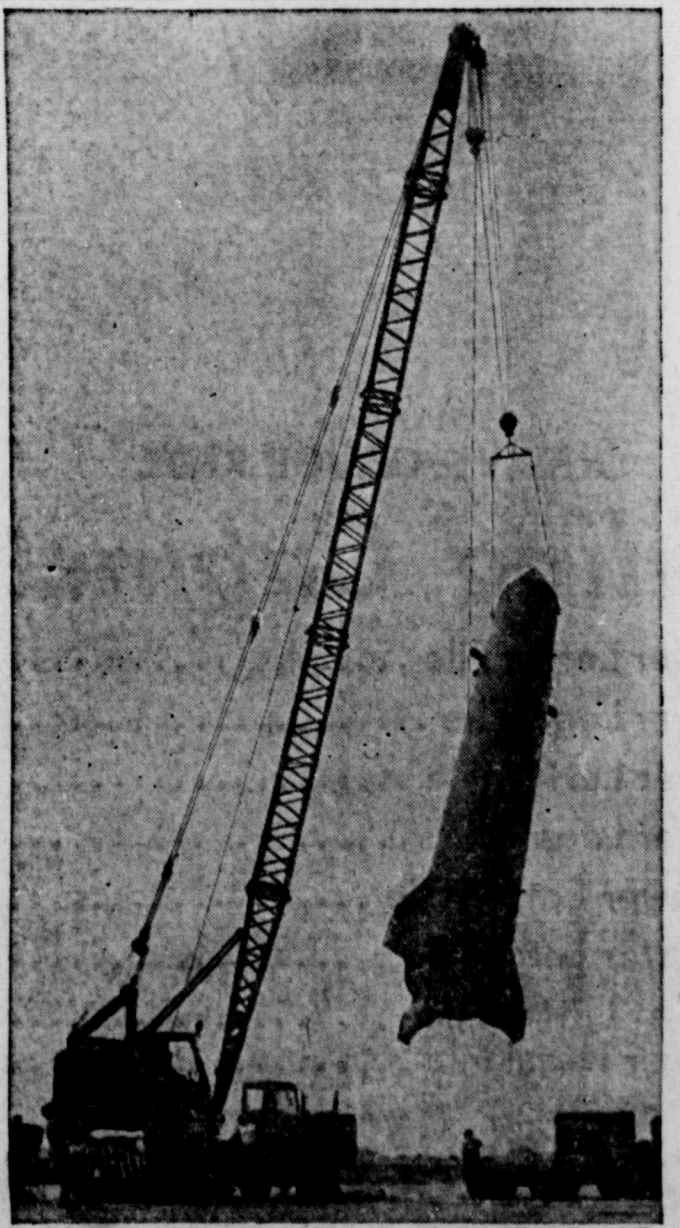

"He said where I used to make those four words before unknown words he had never used before."

I said, "Chocolate ice cream soda."

Farm Program For Next Two Years Okayed

Eastland County Commissioners Monday approved a State-Federal Aid Farm to Market Road program for the next two years. Two projects were outlined in the program, setting expenditures in Eastland County for 1959-60 at $270,000.

Under the program, 13.8 miles of Farm-Market highway will be built during the next two years.

The projects as outlined by Gordon Smith, resident engineer, are:

1. From State Highway 6 in Pumpkin Center east to a road intersection. Total mileage: 8.5 miles.
2. From Farm-Market Road 569 at Nimrod east to Highway 183. Mileage: 5.3 miles.

The Farm-Market road from Nimrod to Highway 183 will connect at approximately the same point that the F-M road now being built from Carbon west to 183 connects. That will give county citizens a hard-surfaced road from Nimrod to Carbon running parallel with U. S. Highway 80, approximately 10 miles south.

In other action Monday, commissioners canvassed votes of the General Election and approved monthly bills.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

At the State Capitol in Nashville there is a bronze statue of Edward Ward Carmack, one of the most brilliant men of the South in his day. He was a member of the United States Senate from 1901 to 1907. I did not move to Tennessee until 1910, which was two years after Carmack's assassination.

He had made a race for governor, a bitter contest which he lost. The Memphis Commercial Appeal, which he had formerly edited, opposed him in that campaign, and I recall that a schoolmate in Central High quoted the headline which "The C. A." had carried next morning after Carmack and his opponent had debated in Memphis. Carmack, who had red hair, was an eloquent and vigorous speaker—sometimes scathing, and had been given the nickname of "Red Wolf."

One day when Sterling and I were in the Cossitt Library, we looked in the old newspaper files and, sure enough, clear across the top of the front page, were the words just as he had quoted them, "Red Wolf goes to Bed Supperless."

When I was a reporter on the Commercial Appeal in 1916, as we sat around at 1:45 a.m. waiting for the first copies of the final edition, an oldtimer related that when Carmack was the editor, he was for Bryan and silver and the owner was for McKinley and gold. Father than write editorials which did not represent his own convictions Carmack resigned.

The foreman of our paper had held a similar position with Carmack's journal in Nashville in 1908. The editor had incurred the censure of a political leader—probably because of the recent bitter campaign—and this man sent word that, if his name appeared in the column again, he would kill Carmack. The latter immediately wrote an editorial using the man's name. The foreman, realizing that if the article appeared, it might prove to be Carmack's death warrant, threw the type away. But the editor discovered this, ordered the editorial re-set and it was published. (So our foreman related the story.)

Next day, Carmack met the political leader and his son on the street and was shot to death. The father was tried and convicted, and when the highest court denied his appeal, he was immediately pardoned by the governor, Carmack's former rival.

I was visiting in Memphis in 1909 when one of the great Confederate reunions was held. The governor rode in his carriage; there were no cheers—only mutterings. He was nominated for another term but so great was the antagonism that he did an almost unprecedented act: he gave up the nomination.

Senator Bob Taylor, the most beloved man in Tennessee, was persuaded to come down from Washington to make the race for governor but not even genial, story-telling, fiddling, eloquent Bob could bridge the chasm. The Republicans elected a governor and re-called him to a second and a third term.

The brilliant career of Carmack's rival ended, utterly and abruptly. Some years later, he attempted a comeback but it was in vain. I heard him speak twice in that campaign and am convinced.

Mav Guards Are Featured This Week By Sandy

Recognition goes this week to the guards of the Eastland Mavericks. They are Charles Chaney, Jerry Chaney and Michael Lisenbee.

Charles Chaney, number 30, is a senior and is vice-president of the senior class. He is also a member of the H-Y. Charles and his brother, Jerry, moved to Eastland just last year and because of this were ineligible for "A" team last fall.

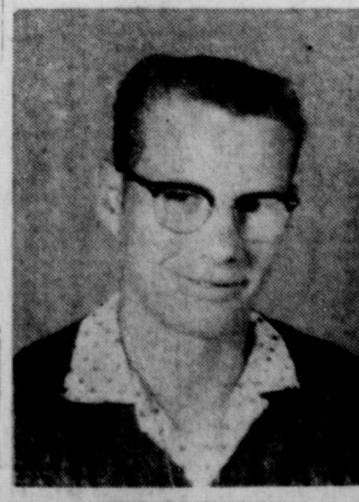

Jerry Chaney, number 18, is a sophomore and is fireboy of the Sophomore Class. He is also a member of the H-Y and Future Farmers of America and is vice-president of the F.F.A. Michael Lisenbee, number 34, is a senior and has also played golf and runs track in high school. Mike is an honor student and is planning to become a Baptist preacher.

The next article will be the final one of this series and will feature the backfield of the Maverick team.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Possibly the most mystifying of all traffic rules to the average driver are those relating to "Right of Way" at an intersection. In reality, however, these rules are quite simple.

In trying to understand the laws regulating intersecting traffic, it is best to start off with the premise that all streets are of equal dignity, legally speaking. Traffic signs and signals may vary this rule somewhat, but when in doubt it is safer to assume that all drivers crossing your path have a claim to the right of way equal to your own.

Obviously, however, in many cases one driver or the other will be legally entitled to the right of way. When it becomes necessary to determine right of way in a particular situation, the driver who reaches the intersection first, or who is going to set there first, is ordinarily favored.

But when two automobiles are an equal distance from the intersection, thus one approaching from the other driver's right normally has the right of way.

Some intersections are known as "courtesy corners," having a stop sign or a flashing red signal facing each direction of approach. The first driver reaching the corner and coming to a complete stop will normally have the right of way over other vehicles not already in the intersection. However, don't depend too much on the other fellow's courtesy, and be sure to keep a "proper lookout" and your car under "proper control," as explained in an earlier column.

At intersections involving one through street and another street having a stop sign and coming to a full stop is ordinarily said to have the right of way over vehicles approaching on the through street but not already in the intersection.

However, this last rule must be qualified by saying that you should not proceed, cross or turn onto the through street until you can do so without interfering with oncoming traffic. In other words, if an approaching car will arrive within the intersection before you are completely clear, wait just a little longer. The same rules apply to entering a highway from a side road containing a stop sign.

Many drivers violate the rules of right of way covering left-hand turns at intersections. When turning left, you should always be on the inside (or center) lane, displaying the proper hand signal. You must allow all cars coming from the opposite direction, already in the intersection, to pass through before completing your turn. Even when the intersection is cleared, do not proceed unless other oncoming traffic is far enough away to be able to see your signal and slow down to allow you to turn with safety to all concerned.

Stay in the inside lane until your left-hand turn is entirely completed, and only then move gradually over to the right-hand lane if you wish. When turning right, stay in the right-hand lane at all times. Do not swing wide into the center lane, as to do so is unnecessary, unlawful and dangerous.

Many detailed rules and suggestions for safe driving are included in the official "Texas Driving Handbook" which is available to any person requesting same from the Department of Public Safety, Drivers License Division, Austin, Texas.

(This column, based on Texas law and prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Plowin' Under the "Sorry Land"

This is the "sorry land." As rancher Dolph Briscoe says, "We'll either turn this country into a desert or we can make it the most productive grass land in the world."

This is the giant root plow. Specially designed and mounted on Allis-Chalmers tractors it cuts deep into the earth to uproot the brush.

Today rich, new grass has replaced the brush that covered the 100,000-acre Briscoe Ranch.

All in one operation the tractor's dozers knock down the brush, root plows sever the brush roots and new grass seed is planted.

Tall, cattle-producing grass is growing again in South Texas. The reason? A pioneering soil conservation and reclamation project called root plowing and rangeland seeding is plowing under and seeding hundreds of thousands of acres of South Texas.

It could mean that an area in Texas as large as the State of Tennessee will be plowed and seeded. An area, much of which has never before been broken by a plow.

Years of drought, decades of overgrazing and the resulting jungle-like infestation of brush brought 25 to 30-million acres of South Texas the title of "sorry land."

But today in areas where ambitious cattlemen and construction machinery contractors have gone to work with new ideas to lick the long-standing problem of the brush, they have succeeded. The brush is gone and cattle stand thigh-high in a sea of tall, rich grass.

Experiments began several years ago when cattlemen realized the drought and resulting brush infestation had nearly eliminated the growth of native grasses and turned the soil into a baked, eroded rangeland that would support only one steer for every fifty acres.

Many remedies were tried. Heavy cable chains were attached to teams of crawler tractors to chain the brush down in huge swaths. Big rotating steel-bladed implements six-feet in height were drawn by tractors to chop the brush down. Deep discing was tried. So was burning. They all failed. Then, after a number of modifications, construction machinery contractors and an Allis-Chalmers dealer, working with cattlemen and conservationists, developed a wide-angled root plow.

They proved this plow, pulled by powerful tractors, could bite through the baked earth to the depth necessary to completely uproot and kill the mesquite and cactus.

On the Briscoe and Gates ranches near Catarina, Texas in the heart of the "sorry land" this plow, together with a new combination of grass seeds, has brought about a dramatic transformation in the landscape of South Texas.

Almost a year ago on these two sprawling ranches, big Allis-Chalmers crawler tractors equipped with dozers, 12-foot wide root plows and unique grass seeders went to work on the first large scale job of this immense soil conservation project.

On the 100,000-acre Briscoe Ranch, 70,000-acres have now been root-plowed and seeded. To do this giant plowing job Southwest Construction company used six crawler tractors and two crews of tractor operators working around the clock, six days a week over a period of several months. Likewise on the adjoining 83,000-acre Gates Ranch, four more crawler tractors and eight operators plowed under and seeded a 15,000-acre test plot.

In the same operation a specially attached seeder utilized draft from the tractor's fan to blow seed over the plowed earth. This unusual seeding operation spread a combination of blue panicum and buffel grass seed at the rate of four pounds per acre. The seed combination was also the result of much experimentation. Neither grasses were native to Australia, buffel to South Africa. Within a few months the grass proved its virtues of quick germination, its ability to develop deep root-systems.

Today, both quality and quantity range grass that will hold the soil and the moisture, reproduce itself and prohibit the recurrence of the "sorry land" covers the root-plowed rangelands of the Briscoe and Gates ranches.

The transformation has meant that instead of grazing one steer for every 50 acres under brushland conditions, the South Texas cattlemen will be able to graze one steer for every eight to ten acres.

When it is considered that 25 to 30-million acres of South Texas could be subjected to this conservation treatment — plus great areas across the Rio Grande in Mexico and others spread across Southwestern United States — it proves the statement of H. H. Cook of the Soil Conservation Service at Laredo, Texas, "This is the biggest soil conservation program ever undertaken in this country."

Rangers In 3-Way Tie for First Place

Ranger College Rangers came up against a set of strange rules on a "foreign" field Saturday night as they fell victims to the New Mexico Military Institute Broncos 47-21.

Federated Rules puzzled the Rangers. As some of the players commented, it seemed more like a soccer game than football at times. Coaches could talk with the quarterback during time-outs, and the center could run with the ball—according to reports.

In Texas Conference games, Paris downed Blinn Junior College 26-6 and Henderson County Junior College defeated Navarro.

Rangers To Meet Blinn
The Henderson win threw Ranger into a three-way tie for first place in conference standings, tied with Henderson and Navarro. (Ranger holds a win over Henderson and a loss to Navarro; Henderson holds a win over Navarro and a loss to Ranger; and Navarro holds a win over Ranger and a loss to Henderson.)

Thursday, the Rangers will travel to Brenham for their last conference game of the season with Blinn Junior College. Due to their victory over Paris, the Ranger team will be favored to win this one. They are expected to return to Ranger Friday morning.

The Broncos jumped off to a 20-0 lead in the first quarter, almost before the Rangers realized what was happening, and then starved off a strong rally to take the decisive 47-21 victory at de-Bremont Stadium.

It was victory number eight for the Institute against no defeats, and moved the Cadets another step toward what they hope will be a bowl bid. The Rangers are also eyeing a bowl bid, on the strength of their conference games.

The following was taken, in part,

from the Roswell Daily Record.

Scrappy Rangers

The scrappy Rangers put doubt into the air during the third quarter when they narrowed the Bronco lead to 20-14, but as the Rangers were beginning to roll on the NMMI 24-yard line after recovering a bobbled kickoff return by the Broncos, end Gil Federico made what was probably the key play of the game when he intercepted a Ranger pass and headed 80 yards for a touchdown.

After that the Rangers had had it and the Broncos went on to post another 20-point scoring spree in the final quarter.

The Broncos leading ground gainer, Joe Hernandez, found the going pretty tough as the Rangers shifted to a nine-man line with three defenders bunched on each end to half the sweep canters of the Jackrabbits.

However, although Hernandez did not score a point, it was the defending of his running which enabled Dan Gilbert and Arnie Duncan to break through the middle to pile up the yardage. Even as soundly defended as he was, Hernandez was able to go for 161 yards on 25 carries.

Aerial Attack
Ranger struck through the air for two of its scores and it was their potent aerial attack which set up their third touchdown.

The Broncos marched 70 yards the first time they got their hands on the ball with halfback Arnie Duncan doing the honors with a two yard sneaker for the score. The little halfback then added to the PAT to start the 20 point surge.

Taking the kickoff, a Ranger pass went astray and into the waiting arms of Bronco defensive halfback Fritz Wolf on the Ranger 37.

Duncan then on a cross buck moved to the 27. Hernandez cracked over left tackle gaining to the 15, where as he was being hauled down, handed off to Duncan who finished the trip. With 2:40 remaining in the first quarter, the Broncos Duncan took a Ranger punt at midfield and returned to the Ranger 32.

Five plays later Dan Gilbert smashed the middle from the six. Duncan added the extra point.

But the goose-egg hit the Broncos in the second period as Ranger took to the airways for its first score.

Taking the ball on their own 29 after forcing NMMI to punt, the Rangers gambled on fourth down and one for a first down moving to their own 41, from where quarterback Dick Maxwell fired a long toss to Jim Clark who had slipped behind the Bronco defense and carried to the NMMI 16.

A try through the middle picked up a yard, then Maxwell zeroed in on Clark in the endzone and Clark made a diving catch for the TD.

The Broncos picked up "fumble" during the halftime break, for they bobbled the kickoff with Ranger recovering, and driving to the NMMI 17 before halted to lose the ball on downs.

The Broncos started to move, going to their own 44 where another fumble stopped the march with Ranger taking over.

20-14
This time the Rangers went the distance on two 18-yard pass completions from Maxwell to Clark and a two yard smash through the middle placing the ball on the Institute 5. Maxwell tried a sneak over the middle but was tossed back a yard as the cadets dug in, but fullback Jerry Blakely took to the outside for the score. Again Leo Savell converted, narrowing the NMMI lead to 6 points (20-14).

The Broncos, their composure a little bit shaken, bobbled the kickoff and the Rangers pounced on the loose ball with first and ten on the NMMI 24. The fired-up Ranger team was ready to roll again, but on the first play, Maxwell's pass was snatched by end Gil Federico on a dead run and he didn't stop until he had rambled 80 yards and a touchdown. Duncan slipt the bars.

This drenched the Ranger fire and the Broncos came back to life, to score three times in the final period.

Taking a Ranger quick kick on their own 34, the Broncos marched 66 yards as Hernandez clicked for eight. Zeigler hit for eight more, Hernandez swept right end for five, Zeigler hit the middle for 10, and Gilbert finished the drive with a 35 yard run as he knifed through left tackle, cut to his right and went over standing up.

Ranger had not given up the ghost, however, and with the NMMI kickoff going out of bounds, plus a 15-yard penalty the ball was placed down on the Bronco 45. Maxwell again took to the air with a 30 yard strike to Clark to the NMMI 15. But that was it. Four straight passes could net only four yards and the Broncos took over.

With their backs on the goal line, the Broncos Piezentkowski quick-kicked to the Ranger 32.

On third down, another of Maxwell's passes missed the mark and Bronco guard Ed Morton picked it off on the Ranger 20 and carried over. Duncan hit again from placement.

The Broncos ended their scoring with quarterback Tom Zeigler polishing off an 83 yard drive when he faded to pass, saw a hole and cut toward the left sideline for 10 yards and the score. Tackle Ken

Thursday Afternoon Club Hears Discussion 'Library Workshop'

'Library Workshop' was the title of the panel discussion presented as the program for the Thursday Afternoon Club as the members met in the Woman's Club Thursday for their regular meeting with Mrs. Iral C. Inzer, president, presiding during the business session.

Mrs. Fred Davenport was leader for the program and acted as moderator for a panel discussion on "Library Workshop." Those participating on the panel were Meses. Frank Crowell, Arthur Murrell, and Cecil Collins.

Mrs. Crowell discussed "Clean Reading for the Community" and had a display of reading material that is available for the public to buy. Mrs. Murrell told "The Art of Story Telling." Mrs. Collins subject was "Spotlight on Public Library Service."

Mrs. Turner Collie, treasurer of the club, gave the treasury report. A report was made by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Davenport.

Mrs. Milburn Long, club house board member, reported the need of repair for the club house. The club voted to assume their part in repairing the club house.

The club also voted to donate a sum of money to the establishment of Nursing Scholarship, which is the state president's project for the year. Mrs. Ben Boyd is president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The club received an invitation from the Music Study Club inviting the members to a tea honoring Mrs. Joseph Perkins on Wednesday, November 19, at 3:30 p.m. in the Woman's Club.

Plans were made to have a covered dish Christmas dinner on Willis kicked the PAT.
Still fighting, the Rangers got a break on their last score. Taking the kickoff with less than a minute remaining in the game, quarterback James Brock threw to Clark who went high into the air with the NMMI defender, but the ball glanced off their hands into the waiting arms of Dean Faulkenberry who turned and carried into the endzone with the play covering 59 yards. Leo Savell booted the extra point and the game ended.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH
 A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.
HENRY A. MOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," goes an old truism. This is especially true in health matters.

In most medical diseases here are warning signals, often recognizable by the untrained eye, which give ample time to consult your physician for treatment. And thus avoid spending costly time in a hospital.

The same applies to mental illness, with the difference being the inability of the untrained person to recognize the signs of an approaching mental disorder.

We are all blessed with varying amounts of the wisdom of hindsight, but a recently published research project of the Division of Mental Health, Texas Department of Health suggests ways to put his hindsight to work.

How many mental patients were previously known to local community health and welfare agencies? Have certain types of agencies been in touch with certain kind of patients before they are admitted to the State Hospital? How many of their families have had these and related questions about 148 residents of Travis County admitted to Austin State Hospital during a single year, were answered by the study.

The study concerned patients who were admitted for cure for the first time.

Dr. Wallace Mandell, research consultant directed the study, assisted by Isabel Cromack.

By checking the records of 11 agencies ranging from the City-County Hospital to the Salvation Army, they found 46 percent of the newly hospital patients had direct or indirect contact (through their families) with one or more of the agencies.

In addition several other facts were discovered opening new vistas of study in mental illness prevention. For instance, it was found that half of the 148 first admissions to the State Hospital had eight years of schooling or less. However, only one-fifth of all Travis County residents had schooling.

What does all this and other new-found facts mean?

Debeak Poultry To Prevent Cannibalism

COLLEGE STATION — Even in the best of poultry families, a bad actor may develop. And once the cannibalistic habit is acquired, there's trouble ahead unless the delinquent is given immediate attention, says Ben Wormeli, extension poultry husbandman.

There are several things which may cause feather-picking or cannibalism in a poultry flock. Limited feeding and watering space, crowding, lack of proper ventilation, irritation caused by lice or mites or the energy level of the diet and the form in which it is fed, may all be factors in causing the trouble.

At this season when pullets are being housed, a careful watch for feather-pickers or for those being attacked should be kept, advises the specialist. There are some management practices which will tend to keep the trouble at a minimum and these are listed by Wormeli as a comfortable, well-ventilated house; plenty of well distributed feed and water space; no external parasites; feeding diets higher in fiber, and the feeding of mash instead of an all-pellet ration.

The surest way to combat the trouble is to debeak the birds. Wormeli suggests that the local county agent be contacted for details on carrying out this operation.

Soup's Surprise Ingredient for Stuffing Recipe

Soup in any of several varieties is a fine first course for the holiday meal. Surprise for the family is a new taste treat supplied by use of soup in stuffing for the turkey.

For your holiday turkeys and poultry, try stuffings that use condensed soups as a major ingredient. They're surprisingly delicious and certainly new.

Mushroom Stuffing

One-half cup chopped onion, 1 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sliced, ripe olives; 8 cups dry bread cubes, 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1/4 cup milk.

In skillet, cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Combine with olives, bread cubes, and poultry seasoning. Stir 1/2 can soup with milk until smooth; pour over bread cube mixture; mix lightly.

This makes about 8 cups stuffing, or enough for an 8-pound turkey. Use remaining 1/2 can soup to make gravy by blending soup with 2 tablespoons drippings; heat.

Corn Bread Stuffing

This makes about 8 cups stuffing, or enough for an 8-pound turkey.

One-half cup chopped onion, 2 cups chopped celery, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 5 cups corn bread crumbs (one 12-ounce package corn muffin mix baked as directed), 3 cups dry bread cubes, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup, 1/4 cup milk.

In skillet, cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Combine with corn bread crumbs, bread cubes, and poultry seasoning. Blend soup and milk; pour over bread mixture and mix lightly.

FAVORITE RECIPES

Mrs. O. A. Harrison of Wichita Falls sent the recipe of an "eggless pineapple pie" which is just the ideal for any occasion. The pie takes the children's eye when it is decorated with m&m candy.

Mrs. Harrison says that you can also make a cherry pie in the same manner but add one teaspoon of red food coloring.

Ingredients

- 1 can pineapple
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup corn starch
1 teaspoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter

Mix sugar, salt, flour, corn starch and butter. Drain pineapple and heat juice. Sift in mixture into juice while heating and stir constantly. When mixture begins to thicken add pineapple and cook slow until thick. Cool mixture in baked pie crust. Cover with shredded coconut.

To make party treat decorate with candies.
