Confessed Spy Tells Of Letters To Germany

Sent Booklets To Mystery Official

Had Difficulty Over His Pay, Witness Says In Court

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Guenther Gustav Rumrich, 27-year-old confessed spy, told Federal Judge John C. Knox and a jury today the mysterious "Sanders" to whom he was supposed to turn over United States army and navy information was "very critical" of his progress.

Letters To Germany

Self-consciously avoiding the eyes of Fraulein Johanna Hofmann, Erich Glaser and Otto Voss, defendants in the government's biggest espionage trial since the World war, Rumrich resumed the story of how he exchanged letters with Sanders, reputed to be an assistant to the chief of the naval intelligence office at Bremen, Germany.

Rumrich, Chicago born son of an Austrian parent, was a U. S. army sergeant until he deserted. He was indicted with the others but pleaded guilty at the start of the trial.

Sanders, he testified, asked him to send him two catalogues of the U. S. government printing office with a list of all army and aviation publications.

Rumrich supplied the catalogues. "Sanders replied that I wasn't prompt enough in complying with his request," he said, "particularly in regard to booklets he requested."

The booklets, Rumrich explained, were confidential military publications. The first letter he received from Sanders, he said, was postmarked Hamburg, Germany. The others were postmarked from the New York metropolitan area and presumably were mailed after being carried here by someone other than Sanders.

Rumrich said he moved from Brooklyn to the Bronx and received a letter from Sanders sometime later asking why he had not written.

He said he was very anxious to contact Sanders, the witness said. Up to that time, he said, he had received only $40 for his work as a spy.

He wrote Sanders that he was "in straitened circumstances and would see SPY CASE, Page 8, Col. 1

Huey Sought In Houston

Reportedly Asked Judge For Order To Bar Arrest

HOUSTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The search for Arthur Huey, former tax assessor-collector of Hutchinson county, about whom a strange game of legal hide and seek revolves, was shifted here today.

Two instances where a man reportedly named as Huey were recorded in Houston.

A Texas Ranger was seeking Huey to return him to the penitentiary where he was released on a writ by District Judge H. F. Kirby of Groesbeck. District Judge Curtis Douglass at Stillmead in turn had held in contempt penitentiary officers who released Huey on Judge Kirby's order. Huey was convicted of embezzlement in Judge Douglass' court and sentenced to four years.

Part Of Nation Swelters In Record Heat As Heavy Snows Fall In Mountain Areas

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Middle westerners and easterners luxuriated in summer temperatures again today while residents of the plains and mountains to the west shivered.

Frost Forecast In The Panhandle

By The Associated Press
Texans who have been wondering when the weather is going to turn cool may find their answer in today's government forecast.

Beaches, parks and forest preserves in Chicago were crowded yesterday when the mercury reached 80 degrees. It was 87 in New York City, the warmest October 17 there in 30 years.

The weather bureau advised summer's passing was at hand in the north central states, however, and that rains would fall in the southern sector and snow flurries would reach northern Michigan tomorrow.

Some 30 inches of snow has fallen in sections of Montana and temperatures continued unseasonably low. Helena had seven inches Sunday and three more yesterday.

Yellowstone National park had six inches and Lander, Wyo., four inches yesterday. In the Rocky Mountain territory temperatures were below normal and freezing was reported.

Cities reporting broken records for heat so late in the year yesterday included Grand Rapids, Mich., 84; Indianapolis, 84; Boston, 86; Portland, Me., 82; Detroit, 84; Springfield, Ill., 84; St. Louis, 86; Albany, N. Y., 82; Terre Haute, Ind., 86.

Furnaces and top coats were forgotten as temperatures climbed to record breaking heights yesterday in many sections in the eastern half of the nation.

Montana's first snowstorm sent out hundreds of searchers for a 60-year-old woman, a WPA worker, feared lost in the hills, and two men missing on deer hunts.

The coldest overnight temperature reported in the region was at Cody, Wyo., where thermometers dropped to 16 degrees above zero.

Vital Chinese Defense Point Is Captured

Japs In Position Now To Sever Principal Railway Line

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Japanese army tonight announced capture of Yangsin, vital Chinese defense position 50 miles east of the Hankow-Canton railway, culminating a bitter 84-day drive up the Yangtze river from Kluikang.

Yangsin was the center of Chinese defenses southeast of Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital, and its fall would put the invaders in a position to smash toward Stenling and cut the Hankow-Canton railway, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's principal supply line.

Compromise On Rail Wage Is Foreseen

Fact Finding Board Must Make Report By Oct. 27

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Persons close to President Roosevelt's fact-finding board predicted today it would recommend a compromise adjustment of the proposed 15 per cent rail wage cut.

The board, appointed by the president in an effort to avert a threatened strike in the railroad industry, began work on a report which it must complete by October 27.

Board Chairman Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the North Carolina supreme court, closed three weeks of hearings yesterday with a statement in which he compared the wage dispute to the price which producers receive for eggs.

It is well, he said, for the producer to obtain the highest possible prices for his eggs, but if his chickens become sick, he is forced to devote some of his efforts to helping the chickens regain their health.

Some hearers inferred that Judge Stacy was comparing the price of eggs to the price of rail labor and the sick chickens with railroads in financial straits.

Representatives of the rail brotherhoods declared another statement by the chairman indicated the board would consider the workers' contention that rail wages should not be based entirely on "ability to pay" but on humanitarian and economic factors as well.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18 (AP)—Ruth Etting never sang a torch song so full of woe as this day held for her.

To add to the troubles of the radio singer, after her first husband shot her second mate, the latter's second wife sued Etting for $150,000 love theft damages.

Mrs. Alma Alderman, a willowy blonde, charged that Myrl Alderman, Miss Etting's one-time piano player, has been living with her as husband and wife "under a pretended marriage."

It was pretended, the plaintiff alleged, because her own divorce from Alderman does not become final until December 2.

JUST A BOOTLEGGER

AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Liquor board inspectors at least admitted the frankness of a man they arrested for hauling a truckload of beer into dry territory.

When stopped on the highway and asked if he had a manifest covering the beer he simply said: "No, I'm just a bootlegger."

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth of England will visit the Dionne quintuplets during their tour of Canada next year, Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe revealed here last night.

The quintuplets' physician made the announcement during a sports dinner at which he was a guest.

Club Conclave To Be Ended Here Today

Selection Of Officers, Next Convention City Scheduled

American Business club members of the sixth district went into the final business session of their convention here this afternoon, prepared to act on committee nominations for officers and the next convention city.

Action on these and other committee reports were to conclude the gathering. Another feature was to be a talk by Pete Neuman of Danville, Illinois, national executive secretary who Tuesday outlined the national organization's major project this year of cooperating in work with juvenile delinquents.

Following the morning session, ABC men gathered with members of the Big Spring Rotary club to present a model luncheon session at the Settles hotel. Final convention festivity will be a dinner dance at the Settles this evening.

Neuman stressed the importance of all clubs participating in the juvenile delinquency program, emphasizing the good which will result from individual effort toward making better citizens of young boys who have strayed on the wrong path. Although the program as a whole will be national in scope, Neuman said, each club will be permitted leeway in developing its own program to meet the needs of its individual city.

Club members will work with juvenile judges and probation officers in the various cities.

Reports on club activities also were heard at the Tuesday morning session, delegates detailing principal projects which have been undertaken during the past year. Projects included such work as assistance to FHA organizations, promotion of junior college attendance, establishment of playgrounds, and participation in safety campaigns.

The convention adopted a change in the constitution to bar voting on convention subjects by proxy. A club to have voice in business must have a delegate present.

Reports heard at Monday afternoon's session included a preliminary outline of the juvenile work by J. W. Joiner; a report on club efficiency efforts by Jack Newman of Ponca City, Okla.; discussion of the mileage awards at the national convention by Eugene Thomas, and a discussion of the secretary-treasurer's work by Hugh Duncan, holder of that district office.

Neuman told of preliminary plans for the national organization's convention in Washington next June, and urged representative attendance from this district.

Visitors were honored at a stag party at the country club Monday evening.

First Natl. Bank 100 Pct. In Gifts To Salvation Army

The First National bank Tuesday had the distinction of being the first business organization in the city to report its personnel 100 per cent in contributions to the Salvation Army. Every person connected with the bank made a gift, it was reported by Thos. F. Clarke, director of the Army's annual campaign for funds.

Mr. Clarke reported response to date in the fund appeal is gratifying. Firms and individuals are making contributions, he said, but added, "We need more of those 100 per cent firms."

The Army is seeking to raise $3,500 to carry on its work here for another year. The funds campaign got under way Monday.

SINGER SEES HUSBAND SHOT

Ruth Etting, screen and radio singer is shown in the top photo at a Hollywood hospital bending over her husband, Myrl Alderman, who was shot in her apartment, police said.

Martin Snyder, Miss Etting's former husband, police said Snyder, pictured below, told her he shot in self defense. Miss Etting blamed Snyder's jealousy for the shooting.

At the same time Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman, said salary cuts made last winter would be restored.

The increase in employment, it was said, was in connection with expansion and production of 1939 models.

"Our new models have been well received," Sloan said. "There appears to be a greater interest than existed a year ago."

Sloan added the reception given new cars convinced General Motors officials "that the trend of consumer buying when retail deliveries in volume will be found to be substantially improved over that existing during the past few months."

"Therefore," he continued, "corporation feels justified in increasing its current production schedules by revising upward the plans made last summer, as well as in readjusting its general operating program to a higher level of volume."

The salary adjustments, it was explained, will take the form of restoring compensation of those receiving $300 a month or less to the level existing Feb. 28, 1938, when the reduction became effective.

Gen. Motors To Hire 35,000

Salary Cuts Of Last Winter Also To Be Restored

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The General Motors corporation announced today it would reemploy 35,000 additional workers within the next two weeks.

At the same time Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman, said salary cuts made last winter would be restored.

The increase in employment, it was said, was in connection with expansion and production of 1939 models.

Farmers' Loan Default May Make Uncle Sam Biggest Corn Owner

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Thousands of farmers pondered today a decision to default on their federal corn loans—a decision which may make Uncle Sam the greatest corn owner in the world.

Throughout the country farmers whose loans on almost 48,000,000 bushels are due November 1 debated the advantages of defaulting and giving their corn to the government or renewing the loans.

With prices lowest in almost five years, some farmers already have turned their grain over to the government. Loans on corn under seal in crisis averaged 48 cents per bushel. The Chicago market price is around 44 cents while on the farm corn is selling from 35 to 38 cents.

Statisticians estimated the volume of grain on which loans have been made has current market value approximately $7,500,000 less than the total of the loan.

Agricultural adjustment administration officials have voiced the belief most farmers would renew loans at 57 cents a bushel but they have set up headquarters here to direct the flow of corn delivered to the Commodity Credit corporation.

To retire a loan the farmer must pay the face amount plus interest or deliver the corn. To accept a new loan farmers either must find new storage space for their 1938 crop or sell the latter on the market. Loan rates for 1938 corn were expected to be higher than they were a year ago.

Corn turned over to the government, said officials of the Commodity Credit corporation, could be sold either to farmers at prices based on current market conditions or to the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation for relief distribution, or it could be stored for eventual merchandising as part of the over-normal-grain program.

10 THOUSAND BALES OF COTTON, ALL OF STRUCTURE RUINED

New Warehouse, Back Of Fire Wall Is Saved; Origin Of Blaze, Second Most Disastrous For City, Undetermined

The second most disastrous fire in the history of Big Spring early Tuesday destroyed the main warehouse and press units of the Big Spring Compress company, inflicting a loss estimated at a half-million dollars.

Breaking out suddenly in the western part of the original compress building, the flames raced across the whole of the structure which covered a city block at the north end of the Gregg street viaduct.

By the time the fire department could reach the scene, the walls and roof were collapsing. The entire building, as if a massive cauldron of oil, was a roaring inferno, billowing a 300 foot column of flames and smoke hundreds of feet into the air.

Fed by an estimated 10,000 bales of cotton, the intense heat drove fire-fighters back and virtually parched paint on one fire truck before it could be moved.

Warehouse Saved

Firemen fought valiantly to prevent spread of the flames, and only the absence of a strong wind prevented it from licking away at buildings on three sides.

Back of a firewall on a new warehouse immediately to the west, city firemen fought flames off the building where 15,000 additional bales of cotton were stored. Beyond that structure the T. & P. shops would have been in the line of the fire.

R. F. Shoemaker, operator of the compress, said the origin was undetermined. H. J. France, one of the compress night watchmen, was making his last round at about 6 a. m. when he came upon two bales of cotton blazing in the west end of the building. He turned and dashed to the office to sound the alarm.

France and another watchman ran back into the building in an attempt to remove the blazing bales. Before they got half way across the building, flames drove them back, forcing them to flee for their lives.

It was a matter of minutes until the whole building and its contents were wrapped in flames. The immediate intensity of the heat was great enough to crumble the frame and corrugated iron building.

While it will be weeks, or perhaps months, before the exact number of bales of cotton lost can be ascertained, Mr. Shoemaker estimated that the figure was around 10,000. "There were possibly between 10,000 to 12,000 bales in there," he said.

Destroyed also was the company's high density press which has pressed cotton for shipment for years. Its remnants stood gauntly above the massive bed of fire and stifling gray smoke.

City Fire Marshal E. B. Bethel, checking through insurance agencies, estimated the loss at around $500,000. Cotton, he figured, might be valued at approximately $400,000 and the plant at a minimum of $90,000 to $100,000, according to insurance.

However, Mr. Shoemaker could not confirm the plant estimate. "There is no way of telling immediately what it was worth," he said. "I couldn't begin to say."

He added that the company will rebuild. "Just as soon as we can get an adjustment," declared Mr. Shoemaker, "we are ready to start to work to replace it."

During the past year the compress has expended thousands of dollars in development of additional facilities and warehouses. One was the large warehouse a few feet west of the destroyed building, now containing around 15,000 bales of cotton. Two other warehouses have been erected on the northwestern slopes of town. A $12,000 firewall shielding the new west warehouse was credited with having saved it, and possibly from preventing spread of the flames to a point dangerously near the million dollar Texas and Pacific shops.

Pioneer Ranch Settler Of Area Dead

Joseph M. McKenzie Victim Of Long Illness

One of the area's pioneer cattlemen, one of the first to establish a ranch in Midland county back in 1880, had gone to the "last roundup" today.

He was Joseph Milton (General) McKenzie, resident of Big Spring for the past 15 years, who succumbed at his home, 1210 Johnson street, at 7 o'clock Monday evening. A native Texan and 81 years old, Mr. McKenzie was victim of an extended illness.

Moving into the then-frontier of Midland county before the days of the railroad, "General" McKenzie helped to establish the ranching industry there; and his eldest son, Thomas Newton McKenzie, is said to have been the first white child born in Midland county. Visiting Women Feted By A. B. C. Auxiliary

Supper, Lunch And Breakfast Among Affairs

Local A. B. C. auxiliary entertained the women guests attending the sixth district A. B. C. convention here Monday and Tuesday by taking them on an imaginary tour of Mexico with a Mexican supper at the Monterey Monday evening, breakfast in Hawaii at the Settles and lunch in Texas at 1 o'clock today.

Hawaiian music was furnished by R. B. Beal and Edwin Harris and provided an appropriate background for a breakfast at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The table was decorated with bouquets of flowers with coconuts appearing at regular intervals down the center. Favors were colorful handmade leis and miniature pot plants.

Clarice Petty in Hawaiian costume gave a hula dance followed by "Aloha."

Attending were Mrs. Jack Newman, Jr., and Mrs. R. G. Obermiller of Ponca City, Mrs. E. K. Hester, Mrs. Cecil Snodgrass, Mrs. R. B. Reeder, Mrs. C. O. Nalley, Mrs. Hugh Duncan, Mrs. L. R. One of the cleverest affairs of the convention was the Mexican supper. The table supported a centerpiece of cactus with Mexican hats and pottery on either side.

At each plate was a handpainted sombrero containing the menu and a Mexican figure as a favor.

Mrs. Robert E. Lee, president of the local auxiliary, welcomed the visitors and introduced them to the Big Spring club.

Following the supper, an evening of bridge was enjoyed at the Settles hotel.

Guests were Mrs. Jack Newman, Jr., Mrs. R. G. Obermiller, Mrs. Amos, Mrs. Younger, Mrs. Kuykendall, Mrs. J. B. McKinney, Mrs. Robi, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. R. C. WRITING AND READING

"THE KING WAS IN HIS COUNTING HOUSE," by Branch Cabell (Farrar & Rinehart; $2.50).

Branch Cabell began writing shell-pink allegories a long while ago, when he had a James to his name and was a considerably younger man. Arrived at the age of discretion, around 50, he announced himself finished, and kept right on producing books.

He is back at his old stand now. He is writing an Italian romance (the word "Italian" should really have had quotation marks around it) in what he calls the Jacobean tradition, but which really is the tradition of "Jurgen" and the other Cabellistic romances.

Like the other and earlier fantasy-romances, this one can be read as an allegory six or eight ways from the middle. It is probably intended as a sort of roccoco warning to power politicians, none of whom will read it, very likely. So one must try to say what effect this suavely mannered book will produce on the long suffering public.

It will amuse the public, unless they are unsympathetic to Cabell's rhetoric. It is the story of the creation of a little Italian kingdom through the usual means—murder, lust and corruption, and of its course under a certain Ferdinand, and of the final absorption into its affairs of Cesarino, the poetic fourth son of Ferdinand who sojourns for a time in the enchanted land of the minor poets, Branlon.

This is removed one or two leagues from reality in the usual style of the author, and used as a kind of scaffold upon which Cabell hangs, shying poisoned cream puffs at the passerby.

The book will also instruct the public. It is true that the ideas are not new, and also true that no ideas seem new, Cabell's or anyone else's. But they serve. Finally, and perhaps most important of all, the book will provide still another lesson in the use of words to the younger generation of writers. These, especially those who consider themselves proletarians, will be disdainful, but if they will read, they will learn. Many will, like this reader, be driven almost to madness by the calculated perversity of the style.

Just the same, it cannot be denied that Cabell obtains with almost chilling deftness precisely the effect he aims for. That constitutes mastery, no matter how odd the result.

HAM LOAF DINNER
2 pounds pork ham (ground)
1 pound cured ham (ground)
2 eggs
1 cup crushed crumbs
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
1-2 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Method: Mix well, shape into crescent loaves wrapped in thin cloths, preferably cheesecloth. Place one pound whole green beans in bottom of vessel, add 6 to 8 medium carrots, then 8 to 10 new potatoes, season with salt and pepper, then place ham loaves on top. Add 1-2 cup water, cover closely and steam 1 1/2 hours.

ROAST HEN
Clean and truss one 5-pound hen, rub inside and out with 2 teaspoons salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Tie legs down and place chicken on rack in roaster with breast down. Roast with breast down first hour, this makes breast very juicy. Turn breast up and continue roasting until done. Roast at 300 degrees F. 18 to 21 minutes per pound. Requires no basting. Should dressing be desired, 3 cups of water may be placed in bottom of roaster below rack.

ORANGE SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES
Select 6 medium sized sweet potatoes and cook in boiling water until almost tender. Peel and slice. Put a layer of potatoes in a greased baking dish, sprinkle 3-cup sugar and bits of butter. Repeat until baking dish is filled. Squeeze the juice and pulp from 3 oranges and pour over potatoes. There should be enough orange juice to come almost to the top of potatoes. Sprinkle fine buttered bread crumbs over the top and bake in moderate oven until almost all of the orange juice has been absorbed and the top is slightly browned.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS
1 yeast cake
1-2 cup lukewarm water
1-2 cup Mrs. Tucker's shortening
1-2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mashed potatoes
1 teaspoon K C Baking Powder
1 cup scalded milk
2 eggs
6 to 8 cups flour
Method: 1. Mash potatoes, add shortening, sugar, salt and eggs, cream well. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water, add to lukewarm milk, then add to potato mixture.
2. Add sifted flour with K C Baking Powder to make a stiff dough. Toss on floured board and knead well.
3. Put into a large bowl and let rise double in bulk. Knead slightly. Rub over top with melted butter, place in casserole, cover tightly and put in refrigerator until ready to bake.
4. One hour before baking time, pinch off dough, shape into rolls, cover and let rise until light.
5. Bake 400 degrees in oven 15 to 20 minutes.

COFFEE SPICE COOKIES
3 cups flour
1-2 cup strong Admiration coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
2 eggs
3-4 cup Mrs. Tucker's shortening
1 3/4 cup brown sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons K C Baking Powder
Method: Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly, add well beaten eggs, beat until mixture is smooth and sift flour, spices, baking powder and salt together, add alternately with coffee. Chill, make into roll and slice or roll out in sheet 1/8 inch thick and cut with desired cutters, bake at 400 degrees F about 10 to 12 minutes.

VIRGINIA CHOCOLATE CAKE
1-2 cup Mrs. Tucker's shortening
2 2/3 cups flour
3 squares chocolate
4 tsp K C Baking Powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 2/3 cups sugar
1 cup top milk
4 eggs, beaten together
1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
Method: Cream shortening and sugar well, add well beaten eggs, then melted chocolate, add flour to which K C Baking Powder, spice and salt have been added, alternately with milk. Bake in loaf at 350 degrees F for 45 to 50 minutes.

STRAWBERRY JAM CAKE
1 cup Mrs. Tucker's shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk
4 eggs
2 tbsps strawberry jam
3 cups flour
3 tsp K C Baking Powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
Method: Cream shortening and sugar well, add beaten egg yolks and jam, beat. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices together, add alternately with milk. Lastly fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake at 350 degrees F for 30 minutes in layers. Ice with 7 minute icing to which 2 tablespoons strawberry jam have been added.

CARROT CAKE
Put in saucepan—
1-3 cups sugar
1-3 cups water
1-3 cups grated carrot
1 cup raisins
4 tbsps Mrs. Tucker's shortening
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Boil 5 minutes and cool 2 or 3 hours.
Add 2 cups flour sifted with 3 teaspoons K C Baking Powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix thoroughly and add 1 egg well beaten.
1 cup nut meats
Bake in layer cake pans 20-25 minutes in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. If baked in a loaf, more flour will be required and the time increased to 40 minutes baking. Frost with Marshmallow Frosting and decorate with candied pineapple and green citron.

MARSHMALLOW FROSTING
Heat 1 tablespoon butter and 2 tablespoons milk in saucepan. Remove from heat and add 1-4 teaspoon almond extract, 2 heaping tablespoons marshmallow cream

Catholics In New Orleans

Solemn High Mass Opens Eucharistic Congress

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Thousands of Catholic clergy and laity of the United States and abroad awaited today an outdoor solemn high pontifical mass with George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, papal legate, as celebrant, to mark formal opening of the eighth national eucharistic congress.

Pope Pius XI, speaking from the Vatican by short wave radio and the domestic chains (National) arranged to bestow the apostolic blessing. (12:30 p. m. Central Standard.)

Cardinal Mundelein arrived yesterday by train, participated in impressive ceremonies attended by thousands of worshippers, and was accorded a great religious and civic reception last night.

James A. Farley, postmaster general read to the congress the greeting of President Roosevelt to Archbishop John Francis Rummel of New Orleans.

"I doubt if there is any problem in the world today," the president wrote—"social, political or economic—that would not find happy solution if approached in the spirit of the sermon on the mount."

Cardinal Mundelein also spoke briefly at the reception.

"When this congress is over," he said, "I shall return to his holiness and tell him what I have seen—of your great demonstration of faith and devotion to the most blessed eucharist."

Warning against godlessness was given by Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit in a sermon prepared for delivery at today's pontifical mass.

ENDURANCE FLIERS FINALLY COME DOWN

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 18. (AP)—Russell Morris and Robert McDaniels, 24-year-old aviators who flew 120 hours for a new unofficial world's endurance record for light airplanes, went back to their job of running the airport here today while this city planned a celebration in their honor.

They landed their tiny 40-horsepower cabin monoplane here about 5 p. m. yesterday. They had been in the air 24 hours longer than Merrill Phoenix and Harold Allen, who set the old record last month at Syracuse, N. Y.

The Effects Of Liquor Cannot Be Repealed

Showing the younger generation of today why alcoholics start out is a better argument against drink than showing them how they end up.

The horrible example of the "evils" of excessive drink, showing the end some drunkard has reached for years has been the method of trying to convince young men and women that drinking is wrong. But today psychiatrists give us a better argument.

Alcoholism, say the psychiatrists, is an escape from reality, nothing more nor less than a refuge for the person who can't take it—who feels that his personality makeup is inadequate for meeting everyday social situations.

A sermon on the evils of drink is more than likely to leave your son or daughter cold. It is asking almost too much of a young person to believe that he could possibly degenerate to the position of the town drunk.

But he will listen to an argument that the average drinker drinks to escape from his own inadequacy. Inadequacy is a very real thing to the average young person. He tries to cover it up and fool others, but he is never quite able to convince himself.

Show him that if he drinks just to be with the crowd he admits his own personality is insufficient to win him a place with his associates. That is a challenge he'll more than likely accept. (Submitted by, and published at the request of the local WCTU).

The Story of OD and AD

and the AUTOMOBILE

OD and AD were machinists many years ago. One day, at a fair, they saw a buggy with an engine in it. They saw many ways to improve it, and each decided to build an automobile. But when it came time to sell their first cars, OD and AD had different ideas.

How OD Tried to Sell His First Automobile

OD invited all his friends and neighbors to his house. He drove his automobile around the block and gave them a ride. They were thrilled. They wanted to buy it. But when they learned that it cost $3,000, not one of OD's friends could pay such a high price.

How AD Sold 10 Automobiles

AD had also spent nearly $3,000 in building his first car. He knew that only a few people could afford so high a price, and to find them he must show his car to a great many. So he advertised that he would demonstrate his car the following Saturday afternoon. People came from miles around. AD ran his car up and down the street. Afterward, ten men wanted it. AD told them that by making ten cars he could cut costs and reduce his price to $2,500. So he hired several men, rented a building, and started making more and better automobiles.

How OD Finally Sold a Car

OD heard that AD had sold ten cars, so he decided to try again. When his second car was finished, it had cost him almost as much as the first. He showed it to as many people as he could see and after a long time sold it for just about what it had cost him. In the next five years OD built several more automobiles, but always by the time his cars were finished AD was making better cars for lower prices.

How AD Sold 10,000 Automobiles

AD decided that if he could make cars by the hundreds, he could lower the cost and add still more improvements. So he appointed agents and advertised in other cities. In this way he was able to tell the story of his car to thousands and thousands of people neither he nor his agents had ever seen. The more agents he appointed, and the more he advertised, the more people came in to try his car, and the more cars he sold. And the more cars he built, the better he built them, and the less they cost.

By 1911, AD was making such a good car for $1,500 that he sold 10,000 that year.

Why OD Gave Up Trying to Sell Automobiles

OD now saw that he could not possibly make cars at low cost by building only a few each year. Nor could he sell enough to make more by telling people about them one at a time. So he decided to go back to work as a mechanic. He applied at AD's factory and was promptly employed.

How AD Sold Millions of Automobiles

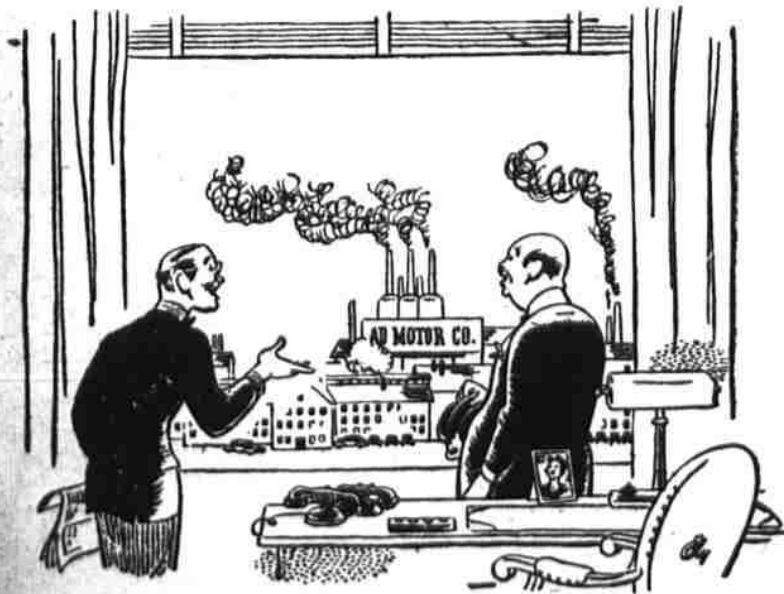

AD now realized that there were millions of people who would buy his automobiles if the prices were only lower. He also knew that if he could build hundreds of thousands of cars a year, he could make them better and at less cost. So he enlarged his factory, employed more men, and advertised to millions of people all over the country. By 1921, he was making a fine-looking car with a six-cylinder motor and a self-starter. And the price had been reduced to $1,000.

AD's profit per car was now very small. But he sold so many cars that his business was successful. And, as prices became lower and lower, millions of people who had never dreamed they could afford automobiles were able to own and enjoy them.

By 1938, AD was making the best and finest looking car he had ever built—and the price was only $750.

AD Tells OD How It Came About That So Many Families Now Have Automobiles

ONE DAY OD went into AD's office at the factory. OD said, "Remember the time we saw the horseless carriage at the fair? Who would have believed that in 30 years almost every family would have an automobile!"

AD said, "It never would have been possible without advertising. All the advances in manufacturing would have been futile without advertising to tell the story. As it helped us to sell more and more cars, we were able to make them still better and sell them at lower prices. As a result, the advantages of an automobile are now enjoyed by people of small means just as they are by the well-to-do."

"But you spend millions for advertising," said OD.

"Yes," said AD. "But we sell so many cars that our advertising costs only about $15 per car. That is not much when you remember that in 30 years the average price of a car has been reduced by more than $1,500. So, advertising has really helped to reduce prices and year after year has helped make it possible for millions of people to have better cars for less money."

[Car prices given above for 1911, 1921, and 1938 are the approximate average of new car prices in those years.]

Record Throng Is Expected For Final Session Of Cooking School

Grand Prizes Will Be Awarded At Close Of Wednesday's Lecture

736 Women On Hand To Hear Mrs. French On The Opening Day

The Herald's free cooking school went into its second session at the city auditorium Tuesday afternoon, with even larger crowds appearing to hear Mrs. Arreva D. French in another lecture on food planning and kitchen economy.

The school builds toward its big climax Wednesday, when, at the concluding session, a number of grand prizes, including a Magic Chef gas range, will be given away.

Registered attendance at the opening session of the school Monday was 736. So pleased with Mrs. French's instruction were the housewives of Big Spring and the surrounding area that they were back Tuesday with their friends and neighbors, and today's crowd appeared to be even larger. Attendance at the final day is expected to set another record, and a capacity crowd at the auditorium is anticipated.

Mrs. French's lively, entertaining and instructive talk of Monday brought a highly favorable response. This was indicated by the great throng of women who packed the stage of the auditorium after the lecture, going up to confer with the kitchen economist on individual problems of kitchen work, and to get first hand information on various items of food preparation and hints for making household tasks a bit easier.

Favorable Comment

They remained for an hour or so after the conclusion of the formal program.

Comment at the end of the program was, practically without exception, very complimentary. Mrs. French herself said she felt the first session of the school had been an outstanding success. "It was a very large and very attentive crowd," she said. "I think the merchants of Big Spring and the national merchandisers are to be complimented on the fine way they have cooperated with The Herald in providing such excellent arrangements for the school."

Recipes Listed

Mrs. French described in detail the various recipes she prepared on the stage, demonstrating dishes that were near-perfection. Basic recipes, including some she did not prepare at the school, appeared in today's paper, and a final list will appear Wednesday. It is recommended that women clip these recipes for future use.

Much interest was shown in the awarding of merchandise prizes at the close of the lectures. Twenty-three gifts were distributed to as many women. As many more were to be awarded today, and there will be even more on Wednesday, when the grand prizes are awarded in addition to the daily list of gifts.

Urged To Register

All women attending were reminded again to register each time they go to the auditorium.

Mrs. French appeared on an attractively arranged stage. Products she recommends and uses, and the latest in kitchen equipment, including gas ranges, electric refrigerators, model kitchen units, etc., provided an attractive background for the culinary demonstrations.

Wednesday's program, as did those of the first two days, starts promptly at 2 o'clock. Women are urged to be prompt.

A large proportion of overweight people between the ages of 30 and 65, hitherto diagnosed and treated as diabetics, can be cured by weight control, according to studies made at the University of Michigan hospital.

Budapest Students Demand Arms To Back Hungary

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15 (AP)—Thousands of university students demonstrated on Budapest boulevard today demanding arms to enforce Hungary's territorial demands on Czechoslovakia.

The demonstrators asked "everything back" from the republic created out of the pre-war Austro-Hungarian empire.

Renewal of conversations between Czechoslovakia and Hungary—broken off last Thursday when negotiators were unable to reach agreement—was expected today because of pressure Hungarian sources indicated had been exerted by Rome and Berlin on Czechoslovakia.

It was understood Hungary would insist on return of Bratislava, at the juncture of the Czechoslovak, Hungarian and German Austrian borders, and the cession of approximately 5,000 square miles which Budapest negotiators insisted is of predominantly Hungarian population.

At the disrupted Komarom conference Slovak delegates, representing Prague, indicated willingness to cede 2,000 square miles of territory.

Some compromise between the two positions seemed probable though the question of Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia's autonomous eastern region, still was complicated by pressure of Hungary and Poland for cession to Budapest.

ALLRED GETS DEER

GUNNISON, Colo., Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred of Texas left Gunnison for Denver today with a four-point buck—the trophy of his first deer hunting trip in the Colorado Rockies.

The governor particularly wanted an elk, he said, but was unsuccessful.

An airplane came from Denver to pick up Allred, who is to talk over a radio net-work tonight.

MAN DROWNED AS BOAT CAPSIZES

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Oct. 14 (AP)—His rowboat capsized by a brisk wind, Lester Sparks, 36, of Crystal City, was drowned late yesterday while fishing on Estanoso Lake, near here.

Sparks, formerly of Lubbock, had been camping on the lake shore with his wife and two small children.

Boy On First Date Advised To Be Polite And Entertaining

AP Feature Service Writer

How should a boy behave on his first date?

The answer is: Be as polite, charming and entertaining as possible.

You may make a few mistakes, of course. But don't worry too much about them and don't draw attention to them.

The chances are your girl is just as much in doubt as you are. For removed both arms, be sure to arrange the coat across the back of her seat so it can't slip down and get wrinkled. Then sit with your own coat and hat across your knees—or put them in a vacant adjacent seat.

After the movie, if you like, you may offer to take her to get something to eat or drink. But don't keep her out until all hours. When you get her home don't stay too long.

And—final hint—whether you had a good time or not, tell her you did. You don't have to ask her for any more dates, but you do want to leave her feeling happy about the evening. For remember, she may be as worried about her first date as you are.

SUIT TRANSFERRED

In a suit transferred here from Upton county Tuesday, E. E. Cannon asked $25,000 damages from F. D. Belcher for a car-truck collision in Ector county between Odessa and Crane in February.

Her Parents

She—and her parents, too—will judge you by all sorts of little things. The way you open the door to let her go out first; the way you rise when her mother enters the room; the way you address her father as "Sir."

Have the evening planned before you ask her for the date. Ask her if she's busy Friday night. If she isn't ask her if she'd like to go to a movie...or the class dance...or the club entertainment.

If your parents agree to lend you the family car, don't drive up in front of her house and honk the horn. She'll find out you have the car soon enough. Help her to her seat in the car before you get in.

If you go to the movies and there's a line at the ticket booth, suggest that she wait in the lobby for you. Then as you enter the lobby take off your hat and throw your coat over your arm.

The Coat Problem

When you are seated, offer to help her take off her coat. Hold the left side of her coat collar with your left hand, and the right side with your right hand. When she has

matter of speculation. Fire Marshal Bethell said he would not be surprised to see the entire credit removed and as much as 15 per cent penalty imposed effective next February. This, he pointed out, was purely conjectural, since the state fire insurance commission will settle that matter after the first of the year.

Casualties in the blaze were restricted to two fine bred dogs Mr. Shoemaker had been keeping in part of the compress office. Firemen succeeded in saving a portion of the office building, and, according to Mr. Shoemaker, no records were lost since they were protected in a fire proof vault.

Fire Chief Olie Cordill said it would burn itself out and workmen could begin to clear away debris. He had part of his staff playing streams of water around the edges of the fire, thus preventing spread of the flames. Ed Foster, one of the firemen, continued his efforts despite a badly blistered shoulder.

When the fire first gained headway, several hundred feet into the air and wafted over a wide territory. Fortunately, none produced another fire. Cordill was still apprehensive lest a high wind set in to blow the burning lint into surrounding cotton. He felt that the city was lucky that winds of the past few days had quelled and that Tuesday was an unusually calm day.

Only one other blaze in the history of Big Spring topped that of Tuesday. It was in February of 1929 when the T. & P. shops were destroyed. Then, as on Tuesday, flames from the inferno cast a glow and pall of smoke that colored the horizon and could be seen for two score or more miles.

Several thousand people visited the scene of the fire during morning and afternoon, and police closed the Gregg street viaduct from West 1st street to North West 3rd street.

and truck loads of police patrolled streets outside the old city's walls. (The new city, grown up since 1858, lies chiefly to the northwest of the ancient citadel.)

Other troops guarded every approach to the city.

Outlying garrisons deployed to recapture insurgent-held towns, preliminary to a punitive offensive by the full strength of 2,000 British troops and police to crush the estimated 10,000 Arab forces. They protest Jewish immigration by Britain under her League of Nations mandate to govern Palestine.

Some observers saw peace of the whole near east at stake in the punitive campaign against the Arabs, stirred to press their claims to be the dominant population of Palestine by the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

ing was erected in 1924 and the compress had been in operation continuously since. Only two other fires of consequence had visited the compress in that length of time. One was several years ago when box cars loaded with cotton were consumed by flames, which the fire department prevented from spreading to the compress proper. The other was in July when 100 bales of cotton on a platform were consumed. Ironically, cotton on the platform was all that was saved there Tuesday.

Completion of additional warehouse space recently was credited with having resulted in the saving of thousands of bales of cotton. Mr. Shoemaker said that in the past few weeks around 12,000 bales of cotton had been removed from the original building.

However, since the new crop started moving to market, between 2,500 to 3,000 bales of lint were estimated to have been received at the warehouse.

Theory that a "hot" bale of cotton from one of the gins could have caused the fire was exploded by the point of origin. It was in a section where old cotton was stored.

The loss was virtually covered by insurance. All except a small part of the cotton in the warehouse was under government loan, and therefore insured. Mr. Shoemaker said that the uninsured cotton likely was confined to receipts Monday which had not officially gone into the loan. The building, press and other equipment were insured.

What the fire would do the city's good fire credit rating, now at the maximum of 25 per cent, was a

Green Urges CIO Members To Come Back To AFOL

BEAUMONT, Oct. 18 (AP)—Organized labor today had before it the strong plea of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor that the C. I. O. rank and file membership desert John L. Lewis and "come into the house of the American Federation of Labor."

Green, addressing the Texas State Federation of Labor's 41st annual convention, invited the C. I. O. rank and file to come back to the AFOL in his last speech delivered in Texas, where he was elected to his fifteenth term as president of the federation at the Houston convention. Immediately after addressing the convention he left for New Orleans, La.

Green reiterated his statement that the AFOL had kept open the door to labor peace, and said:

"We ask the C. I. O. rank and file, we beg them, we plead with them, to come back and refuse to follow the leaders who have brought about this dual movement in labor."

County Teachers To Meet Oct. 29

First meeting of the county teachers is scheduled for here on Oct. 29, it was announced at the county superintendent's office Tuesday.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a. m. in the district court room. Organization of a county teachers association and possibly formation of the county interscholastic league will be considered at the parley.

Core Tests Made At Dam Locations

Core tests were being made in and around several prospective dam sites in the county Tuesday.

City Manager E. V. Spence said that Simon Freese, hydraulic engineer of the firm of Freese and Nichols, was conducting an exhaustive survey of dam sites, drainage area and the soil at prospective sites.

It will be at least two weeks before any sort of a report is submitted and possibly much longer before final data to guide the commission in designating a site for a city lake will be compiled.

Jury Being Chosen In Murder Trial

AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Selection of a jury neared an end today in the trial of five men charged with the alleged feud slaying four years ago of three Lower Rio Grande valley men.

Eight jurors had been chosen as attorneys exhausted a venire of 150 men and an additional venire of 150 had been instructed to report at 2:30 p. m.

The defendants, on trial here because of change of venue from Starr county, were Amado Vera, Jr., Martin Solis, Elias Solis, Benigno Ramirez and Benito Saenz. They were special deputy constables when a blaze of gun fire on the old military road near Rio Grande City resulted in the deaths of Eulalio Elizondo and Jose Cantu, former Starr county deputy sheriffs, and Ramon De La Cruz, a Starr county deputy.

Urges Acceptance Of Wage-Hour Law

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, appealed today for universal acceptance of principles of the new wage-hour law.

The new law, which becomes effective next Monday, applies to industries in interstate commerce but Andrews told newsmen today he thought it would not "be a catastrophe" if an intrastate business conformed to the act.

Asked why an industry should do if it was uncertain whether it came under the act, Andrews said: "I'd say for them to let their conscience be their guide. It would be very wise to conform to the law because if they made a mistake it would be too bad."

GENERAL ELECTION BALLOTS DRAWN

AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Machinery for the general election November 8 ground on today.

Throughout the state county election boards, composed of the county judge, the county clerk and the sheriff, made up the ballot, in some instances placing names on the ballot as a result of court orders which declared last minute contests.

Absentee balloting also began and will continue until November 7. Virtually all state officials will call such ballots or go to their home counties to vote.

One of the last election contests decided by the supreme court was that for the democratic nomination for county superintendent in Scurry county. The contest was won by W. E. Iles.

Forsan Goes To Sterling City; Garden City Idle This Week

PSAA six-man football conference games this week-end will send Garner to Westbrook and Forsan to Sterling City. Garden City may remain idle since the sixth team, Courtney, has withdrawn from the loop temporarily.

The Garner-Westbrook encounter is outstanding in that both teams retain excellent chances to cop the association's bunting. Each team has lost one game thus far this season but today it remained doubtful as to whether the Garner team, a 12-7 reversal suffered at the hands of Forsan, would remain on the books.

Results last week: Courtney 28, Garden City 0; Forsan 12, Garner 7; Westbrook 27, Sterling City 0.

EDUCATION OR PUNISHMENT

Two schools of thought—should we say of articulation—having radically different ideas on the subject, endeavor to impress their systems on the treatment after conviction of offenders against the law.

One holds that imprisonment or other penalty is imposed as punishment for misdeeds—that the law has been violated and the Mosaic doctrine, in possibly a modified form, of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, should be followed.

The other takes the position that crime is the result of lack of education, or of circumstances over which the offender has little if any control, and that while confinement or other penalty is perhaps necessary, the confinement or payment of money as good citizenship for the purpose of educating the offender and leading him to abstain thereafter from violation of the law.

This latter school holds that penal institutions should be educational—that the inmates should be so treated and instructed as that when their term ends they will be sent back to freedom as good citizens. Just why they should believe that instruction, or a specified course of treatment, in a prison would be more effective as a deterrent of crime than knowledge before the crime is committed is not made clear.

There is no person having normal powers of mind who is not aware of what is law violation—at least such violations as call for prison sentences. Serving a term in prison may determine that person to refrain from other violations, but experience shows us that this is not always the case. Those who come out and stay out may do so from fear of punishment or because of education that law violation is wrong. So far, neither school can rightly claim its system is effective or superior.

On The Record

By Dorothy Thompson

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

THE CASE OF CARDINAL INNITZER

The case of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer is of the greatest significance, because its sensational aspects, and the political background of the cardinal make clear what is the essential struggle in the Third Reich.

As a citizen, Cardinal Innitzer was national socialist. He went so far as to advise his flock to vote for union with Germany in the plebiscite which ratified the fait accompli of the German conquest of Austria, secured, as was the conquest of Czechoslovakia, by the threat of invasion.

He told his people that one could not disregard ties of blood. He has therefore shown himself willing to render unto Caesar, and in full, the things that are Caesar's.

But the modern Caesars recognize no limitations whatsoever to any renderings, whether of the human body, soul or spirit. National socialism, like communism, is a secular religion. Unless these two movements are thus understood, nothing about them is understood. The tenet of both of them is a demand for the breaking of the First Commandment: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

And this is why the most formidable opposition to both communism and national socialism inside and outside the countries that they rule today comes from the religious.

It may be possible to harmonize communism or national socialism with some intellectually supportable view of economics, or forms of state administration and structure, or system of social organization.

It is absolutely impossible to harmonize either of them with either the Old Testament or the New. In Germany, members of every previous political credo have thrown in their lot with the Nazis without any serious inner struggle.

To others, some of the teachings of Nazism may be silly or fanatical, or transitory phenomena to be treated lightly. But to the Christian conscience they are sinful. And that the conviction of sin has not disappeared from a largely agnostic world is testified to by the most heroic struggle going on, not against Caesar but for God.

It is not important that the leader of the German Confessional church, Pastor Niemöller, and the prince of the Catholic church in Vienna, Cardinal Innitzer, were both, at the outset, friendly to the political and economic ideas of national socialism and have become its most intractable enemies?

The attitude of Stalin, and before him Lenin, to Christianity and the attitude of Hitler are very different. Communism is an open foe of Christianity. Time and again Lenin in his writings has emphasized that Marxism is incompatible with Christianity.

In Russia a prodigious propaganda against religion goes on unceasingly. All churches are ousted from administrative posts, and from the teaching profession. No party member may be a church member. The church has been virulently and terroristically persecuted.

On the other hand, Russian communism makes no attempt to corrupt the church. Early in the Soviet regime, there was a movement to establish what was called "The Living Church." It held a congress in Moscow in 1922, but the whole idea was later abandoned. Lenin regarded the church as a superstition and an instrument of the owning classes, and believed that communism and rationalism would destroy it, of themselves. Neither he nor any of his followers have ever tried to hang the Hammer and Sickle above the altar. And the church in Russia survives, in an amazing fashion, on the search of the "freed" masses after the comforts of the Christian faith.

Life's Darkest Moment

THE BOY WITH A WEAKNESS FOR APPLES

words, "Protect us by thy might, great God, our King."

The ethos of Nazism is in itself, not in any other conception whatsoever, and that self is consciously armed idolatry, and though Hitler wants to make his people "prosperous, free and strong," there is not in a single one of his published speeches the slightest indication that he wants to make them righteous.

Those who have made the deepest, most careful studies of national socialism are aware that it is here that national socialism is most intrinsically at war with western civilization, which is founded on Judeo-Greek-Roman and Christian culture.

Hitler likes to compare himself to Cromwell. But it is a mistake to consider the analogy for an instant. Cromwell was a passionate Christian whose last prayer was "Make the name of Christ glorious in the world!" Hitler seeks to capitalize against the Catholic church, the anti-clerical feeling, and the old movement to cut the church loose from Rome, but his attitude toward Luther, and who, in Germany have been a truly national church, reveals that his hostility is not toward the form of church organization but to Christianity as such. He wishes none of the brakes, implicit in the Christian conception, to be exercised over his totalitarian herd.

Two great poets, decades before the outbreak of the Russian and Nazi revolutions, prophesied their and their effects on the whole Christian structure of ethics and morality.

What Dostoevsky did for the Russian in "The Possessed" Heine did in a monograph on Germany over a hundred years ago. "It is the greatest merit of Christianity," he writes, "to have assuaged the joy of the German in brutal bellicosity, but...when, one day, the Cross of Christ is broken, the savagery of the old warriors, the wild Berserker wrath, will break forth anew in all the barbaric fury of which our Nordic poets tell in song and saga. Even today the tally of Christianity has begun to rot, and the day will come when its power will pitilessly collapse. Then will the old stone gods arise from the accumulated rubbish of the past...When that day comes...take good care, Frenchmen, and do not interfere with those affairs which we are settling among ourselves. Take care neither to fan the fire nor quench it...Do not laugh at my advice...the advice of a dreamer...German thunder is admittedly German: it is not very agile...but it will come one day, and...you will hear an explosion such as has never yet occurred in the history of the world."

"The hour will come, when, like spectators in an amphitheatre, the nations will crowd around Germany to watch the great tummy. I warn you, Frenchmen, keep quiet, and above all do not applaud...Take care! I wish you well, and for that reason I tell you bitter truths...You have more to fear from a liberated Germany than from the entire Holy Alliance, with all its Croats and Cossaks...Never disarm..."

Heine's admonitions to western civilization need to be heeded today by this country as well as the French. "Do not interfere...Never disarm..." "For instance, F. A. Voigt, diplomatic correspondent of 'The Manchester Guardian,' for many years its correspondent in Berlin, who has as complete a knowledge of post-war Germany as any English-speaking man alive, and whose book 'Unto Caesar' has been previously quoted in this column. Hollywood

Sights And Sounds by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Lucille Ball was in a sorry state. Sinus trouble. Black-and-blue marks on her legs. Hangover from a cold. Hangover from "Trailer Romance." Hangover from being stung, repeatedly, by the "B's."

The last-named complaint was worst. After all, sinus trouble is fairly temporary. When Lee Bowman finished the water-squirting scenes, which sent a good deal of high-pressure moisture directly up her nostrils, the sinuses might begin to clear. When Lee Bowman finished the rough-house stuff for the picture, the leg bruises would begin to disappear. But the "B's"—"I'm kept so busy in the B's that I don't have time to improve myself," she said, sitting patiently while hairdresser worked on the rich, brownish red curls that used to be platinum blonde.

That called for elaboration. Elaboration: "Oh, I'm lucky enough, I guess. Only I don't know much about acting yet, and I haven't had much real chance to learn. We work too fast." Lucille's been working steady the past ten months. "You see," she said, "I got out of high school—Jamestown, N. Y.—and I had to go to work. My father died, and I didn't have a chance for college, finishing school, or anything. Didn't care about a finishing school, anyway. I went to dramatic school, looked for the theatrical work. Got in as a showgirl. You don't need to act for that, just be tall enough and wear clothes right. I didn't learn anything."

She became a model in New York. Fashions and advertising. Sam Goldwyn brought her to Hollywood for "Roman Scandals." She'd been selected as a cigarette girl, when Sam was looking for well advertised faces. She followed this with bits at Columbia and went to RKO as one of the twelve models in "Roberta." "So you see," Lucille finished, a shade despondently. "I've never had a chance to learn anything, really, about acting."

The part she wanted most — in the movie "Stage Door" — was one of the director, Gregory LaCava couldn't see her. In she got it, finally, by helping Andrea Leeds with her test. She didn't know then that she too was being tested. "I'd be happier if I could do parts like that—characters in big pictures instead of leading ladies in lesser ones. I'm not the leading lady type—my voice is too high, I could use some diction lessons, and I could take on some polish."

Listening to all this, I had to fight against groaning. That girl sitting there, her good hearty individuality more impressive even than her new "glamour girl" personality, wanted to improve her diction? She wanted to lower her voice? She wanted some "polish" and I guess she wanted a little broad-A accent too? All this she wanted—when just as she is she's the nearest thing we have to what Jean Harlow was at her best!

CALL WITNESSES ON SIT-DOWN STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The house committee investigating Un-American activities called witnesses from Ohio and Michigan today to testify about possible links between communist activities and sit-down strikes.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex) said the committee would study such strikes "insofar as they were communist inspired and communist directed." "Air tactics," as a result of testimony yesterday about communist activity in Minnesota, committee members may go to St. Paul or Minneapolis later, Dies said. Seven Minnesota students testified communists had tried to wedge into — a gain control of the farmer-labor party, labor unions and veterans' organizations in their state.

ship like a crazed mob, but then, after all, he has led them only to easy victories, and all the time will be, in the end, a great blessing for us all... If Germany were to wait another 10 years I don't think that we could ever compete... If she starts this trouble now—well, in the long run, I should say that her present ruler is making as wicked a mistake as the Kaiser did in '14."

The parallel becomes even more impressive when one remembers those urgent voices which said: "something was coming, and since it seems to be inevitable, why not fight it now rather than give Germany additional time to gird and strengthen herself?"

In the Oppenheim novel the representative of His Majesty's government observes: "... if these two troublesome countries really carry out what seems to be their present intention, I think it will be, in the end, a great blessing for us all... If Germany were to wait another 10 years I don't think that we could ever compete... If she starts this trouble now—well, in the long run, I should say that her present ruler is making as wicked a mistake as the Kaiser did in '14."

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

Chapter 19: Angus and Beatrice. Donald's cousin, Norman MacDonald, had accompanied his aunt. He was a year or so older than Donald; with his looks and without his arbitrary manner, he fascinated both girls. But he concentrated on Bridget.

In fact both young men did, leaving Kathleen with Mrs. MacDonald, a slightly bewildered Kathleen, unaccustomed to being ignored in so pointed a fashion. "I can't blame them," she thought. "She is lovely and as dear as she is lovely, only—" The wistful look he had cast eyes won the woman who was watching her. This wasn't the hot headed young spit-fire her son had forewarned her to expect. That is what she thought then, she changed her mind soon after dinner was over.

Donald, going to the rear of the house for more logs, came in frowning. "Kit-Smyth's coming up the drive. Or drive if you please. Now what is he up to?" Kathleen and Bridget exchanged glances of alarm which were promptly misinterpreted by the MacDonalds.

"You don't have to worry this time," Young Donald advised. "I'm going to handle that baby as he should be—" "Son," interposed his mother as he strode towards the door. "This is thanksgiving and this is my home. I'll be here." At her bidding Kit-Smyth entered, a perturbed Kit-Smyth who twisted his hat in his hands. He wanted to see the young ladies. He wanted to talk to them alone. Well, all right then, he'd talk right here.

"Listen," he began, "you and your patients have got to get out of that house right now. I'll fix you up at the hotel. I'll fix you up and get out quick. The Gregorys are in town and they intend moving in pronto." "What Gregorys?" interposed Donald unbelievably. "Young Angus and his... well I guess it's his sister name's Gregory."

Kathleen swallowed. Her throat had become very dry. "Why can't they stay at the hotel?" she asked. The sound emitted by Kit-Smyth resembled an explosion. "You should hear him!" he cried. "You should hear what he says about the place!" Bridget's laugh rang out. "He owns it, doesn't he? Cheer up, Mr. Kit-Smyth, we'll move. And we'll have to send our patients to Carsted. Lucky they're all recuperating. You're in rather a tight spot aren't you?"

Kit-Smyth ran a finger around his collar. "Sure nice of you. I'll make up for the inconvenience somehow. If you'll come over now and toss your things out the rear way, I'll have Jerry-wide-eyes pick them up and carry them to the hotel." "But that is foolish," interposed Mrs. MacDonald. "Norman, you and Donald can stay at our hotel and the girls can come in here with me. They'll be much more comfortable." "Infernal hole!"

It was thus arranged and Kathleen, Bridget and Mrs. MacDonald hurried over to pack and move. They would carry things to the rear veranda and the boys would move them over to the MacDonald side. For the next hour the Gregory house hummed with activity. Kit-Smyth would call for the visiting Gregorys the moment the house was clear. He had told them he was having it cleaned, aired and warmed.

The girls were making their last trip downstairs when footsteps sounded on the front veranda. The door was swung wide and in stalked Angus Gregory, Beatrice in his wake. "Of all the infernal holes," he was orating. "To think it bears the name of Gregory. I'll fire that man! I could run a better hostelry with one finger." Behind him came Beatrice Gregory, stopping to stomp out a cigarette. Kathleen looked down at Bridget. Angus Gregory's former secretary was trapped on the lower stairway. Beyond her was Mrs. MacDonald, her face alight with interest.

"Here," thought Kathleen, "goes our identity in one fell swoop. How can I stop it?" "Aloud she caroled. "Try running it with one finger and see what it's like to run it on nothing at all like that poor fellow is doing." Her ruse succeeded for only a moment. Angus looked at his daughter, then Bridget moved and he looked at her. The massive Gregory hands met behind the Gregory back. The Gregory feet rocked in their shoes; then, properly warmed up, the Gregory voice bellowed, "What in... what are you doing here?" Kit-Smyth, who had heard the Gregorys arrive, rushed in just in time to hear the question. "Yes, yes, Mr. Gregory," he hastened to explain, "these young ladies are the two I had brought up from the package to prepare the house for you."

"Just a couple of working girls trying to get along," affirmed Kathleen, striving to check the tirade she felt Angus was about to turn on Bridget. Angus Gregory looked at his daughter, sputtered, then turned his wrath to a safer subject. "That infernal hotel," he began. "Only one bathroom in the whole place. No heat in the rooms. Not a thing fit for a man to eat in that hole they call a grill room—" "So you can't take it?" queried Kathleen, and blocked Angus as Bridget slipped past her and out of the door. Beatrice Gregory, who had been lighting one of her chain of cigarettes, found her voice. "Take it, she snapped. "Young lady, someone should have taken you when you were small and used a hair brush." Kathleen smiled at her aunt. "You should know," she observed lightly. "If good little girls stay small from pats on the head I know what made you so tall." She escaped from the room.

Mrs. MacDonald, who had remained in the shadows hurried after Kathleen, convulsed with laughter. Reaching her own living room she said to her son, "Donald, this child doesn't need anyone to defend her. She's completely capable of handling her own battles." Donald looked at Kathleen with a teasing, admiring glance. "I was afraid of that," he admitted. Kathleen's mood of the afternoon changed in the twinkling of his eyes. She was wary, audacious, seeking some outlet for the sudden joyous excitement which possessed her. She found a baby-grand piano in a far corner of the room and made it ring with popular selections. She sang her own accompaniments in a low, throaty, chuckling voice and flirted with Norman so outrageously that Donald deserted Bridget to join her. And then they sang together, sang to each other while the others beat in rhythm to their melodies, a rhythm Kathleen didn't hear because she felt for the moment that the two, she and Donald, were alone in a fairy circle. The midnight chimes of the clock stopped them. The two young men left for the hotel and Kathleen, in the room assigned her, contrarily threw herself onto the bed and burst into tears, muffling the sob with her pillow. She had been ashamed of her people. And she loved them so. Mrs. MacDonald wouldn't know that Angus wasn't really gruff and unjust; that he was really worried, terribly worried and thoughtful. And Mrs. MacDonald couldn't know that Aunt Beatrice would not have been rude to a stranger; particularly a maid; that when Aunt Beatrice rubbed against her niece there were always sparks flying. "But why," she mopped, "does Bea always have to look like a coal burner on the upgrade?" Kathleen quivered in fear. She hoped her father would keep an eye on those cigarettes. At home the servants were trained to follow their trail, retrieving lit cigarettes and putting out fires in smouldering upholstery. She sat up, dried her eyes and felt better. Some good might come out of this trip. At least Angus could see she hadn't exaggerated in her letters. He would unquestionably build a new hotel. And just let Beatrice get one good look at the inside of the coat and there would be new ones. After all they were Gregorys. She wondered if the conquest she had made before coming to Neutrality had been won by the glamour of The Golden Girl background rather than by her own individuality. "I'd like to work to make Donald notice me. Bridget just sits and acts her age and he hangs around her like a love-sick pun. What has she got that I haven't?" Donald had bid Bridget a long-suffering good night. He had merely given Kathleen a smart salute. "And I can't fight Bridget," she mourned. On next thought she felt it might not be necessary. Angus might win the information he wanted from Old Baldy and her work would be over; at least her need of winning Young Donald. She went to sleep with an ache in her heart and a heretofore unknown sense of personal defeat. Awakened, she knew she must find some way to see her father alone and without the MacDonalds or even the Gregorys knowing. Tomorrow: Disclosure

Man About Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — In a moon of sharp-eyed clairvoyance, almost indeed as if he were some ghost reporter taking notes on future events, E. Phillips Oppenheim has written a novel whose action so closely parallels the recent European crisis that it leaves your heart tripping like a taxicab meter. This is "The Spymaster," now being serialized by a great national weekly, in a conversation with a trusted advisor, says: "I do not think that these two nations were ever made to be allies. I don't think they would ever be able to fight a winning war against the empire. The people who as a nation are giving us the most trouble are disposed to follow the man they wor-of War with England. So eager are they to set the drums rolling that they can scarcely conceal their impatience, believing, as they do, that the empire is in no condition to wage a grueling war. Is not this the opinion expressed recently by many of Great Britain's highest executives? In his recent and moving broadcast to the entire Prime Minister Chamberlain said: "I am myself a man of peace to the depths of my soul." In Mr. Oppenheim's novel the prime minister declared: "You know I am a man of peace."

Before the four powers met at Munich many rumors were abroad that Italy, at the zero hour, would jilt Hitler, leaving Germany like a forlorn bride at the altar, as she did in 1914. The prime minister in "The Spymaster," in a conversation with a trusted advisor, says: "I do not think that these two nations were ever made to be allies. SPANISH CONFLICT AT A STANDSTILL

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Oct. 18. (AP)—Insurgent preoccupation with international politics caused a virtual suspension of hostilities in the Spanish Civil war today.

TO EARN HER NEW RANK as a fight promoter in Cleveland, Mrs. Mary Erne, 65-year-old relative of the famous John L. Sullivan, put on the gloves and playfully mixed a bit with Harry Fendak, 193-pound heavyweight, and he takes it on the chin, possibly because he's going to fight for her. She's in the promoting business in earnest, plans a card a month.

VAN MUNGO TO GET $10,000 PAY SLASH

BY EDDIE BRIETZ NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—Note to Van Mungo, Pageland, S. C.: You probably haven't heard it yet, but that bum arm you developed last season is going to cost you a two-thirds slash in salary... In other words, the Dodgers will offer you $5,000 instead of the $15,000 you drew last season... Every time Army hears where "Broncho" Brunner of Tulane ran wild in the south it gives them a headache, for "Broncho" turned down an appointment to West Point last summer... Hack Wilson, who used to hit all those homers for the Cubs, is working in a Brooklyn floor show for coffee and cake money.

That stuff we had last week about Wake Forest farming out some of its football players led one North Carolina sports editor to call up down there and get a denial... The boys around town are wondering how Jack Coffey and Jim Crowley, Ltd., ever let George Stirweiss escape from Fordham Prep to North Carolina... So does Dr. Mal Stevens, coach of New York U., and everybody else who saw Saturday's game between the Violets and North Carolina.

Apparently that Rice team (Lain and all) has folded.

Why doesn't some major league club grab a smart base-baller like Frankie Frisch right quick? ... All-America pickers should keep their eyes glued on Bill Dwyer, halfback on the New Mexico university team... If you don't believe the boy's good, ask Dixie Howell, the former Alabama star, who is coaching down that way... The word from Detroit is that Schoolboy Rowe is on the way back, better than ever. Let's all hope so, for the Schoolboy is a regular.
