LET'S ALL say Thanks and a Job-Well-Done to the women down at the Old Rip Cafe who during the past week sold over $300 worth of flag pins to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. Mrs. Boustead and the women are to be commended. They could have sold more, they report, but they ran out of flag pins.

DETAILS ARE being checked out to see of a professional, Mr. George Jordan, Cleburne Chamber of Commerce Manager, formerly of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, can be brought to town to conduct a seminar on how to treat tourists. This would be beneficial to all, but especially to those in the businesses which deal directly with the visitors. If there's anything we need to be, it's nice to our tourists.

FISHERMEN: ALBERT: Comes this note from J.B. Leathers, 311 Crystal Hills Blvd., Manitou Springs, Colo., 80829. "Some ten years past I had the thrill of landing the largest bass I ever caught at Lake Leon. I would like to fish Lake Leon again. Please advise fishing conditions for Lake Leon. Thanks in advance from a former East Texas boy." Why don't we all see Mr. Leathers at least a post card advising him that it's never been better and we'd sure like to see him back on Lake Leon.

Michael Daniels, son of the Jack Daniels of Eastland, and graduate of the high school of this community, is among the 73 seniors in the 1973 commencement class graduating May 22 from LIFE Bible College, Los Angeles, announced Dr. Don McGregor, dean.

Pursuing a four-year ministerial course in the Bible training center of the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel, Daniles was active in the Fort Worth Foursquare Church prior to going to the West Coast. He plans to accept an assignment to pastor a church of his denomination in Texas following graduation, the dean disclosed.

Chamber Seeking Full-Time Manager

The Eastland Chamber of Commerce is presently seeking applicants for the position of Manager in a broad-range expansion program as the result of action taken this week by the chamber Board of Directors.

President J.T. (Buddy) Carter said that he will accept applications through the chamber office immediately. Full resumes are asked and these may be mailed to Mr. Carter in care of the Eastland Chamber office on N. Lamar St.

The Eastland Chamber has operated for a good number of years without a manager, but directors voted unanimously Friday to pursue the engagement of a manager to coordinate the chamber's busy activities. The ever-expanding growth of the business community in Eastland makes it even more necessary, directors agreed. Officers and directors have with the assistance of a secretary, conducted the chamber's business, but with the continuing growth picture in Eastland, the directors agreed that the time was now for the employment of a qualified person to properly service the membership and cultivate new members and activities in keeping with the expanding economy of the city.

Last full-time manager the Chamber had was Bill Ellis. Mr. Charles Terrell, retired, served the chamber on a part-time basis later, several years ago.

Motion to seek a manager came from Director Don Martin, seconded by Director and Vice President Bruce Pipkin. Vote was unanimous.

Persons interested in applying for the position should provide complete information, including all qualifications, and a photograph (if possible) to the chamber office.

In the directors meeting held at the Eastland National Bank Conference Room, President Carter presided and a number of topics was discussed.

A report by Director, and Immediate Past President Marcus O'Dell on the recent Post Office Mural plaque presentation in which the chamber participated was given, and Mr. O'Dell displayed a Southern Region Postal house organ which carried the Eastland mural story about Mrs. Marene Johnson-Johnson throughout the south. The directors thanked Mr. O'Dell for his work on the project which will serve in lieu of the chamber's annual Flag Day observance this year.

President Carter announced that the directors meetings will resume on their regular last Thursday basis in the future. The meetings had been off schedule due to the Centennial celebration in recent months, with the directors being called a needed.

The directors are optimistic that the chamber's activities can be improved and multiplied with the addition of a manager.

Present were President Carter, Don Johnson, Wade Freeman, Mrs. Marie Boney, O'Dell, Mrs. Ann Jernigan, H.V. O'Brien, Martin, Pipkin, Clint Bray, E.A. Connel and R.P. (Buddy) Haun.

From The Living Bible
 "You are the world's seasoning, to make it tolerable. If you lose your flavor, what will happen to the world? And you yourselves will be thrown out and trampled underfoot as worthless. You are the world's light—a city on a hill, glowing in the night for all to see. Don't hide your light! Let it shine for all; let your good deeds glow for all to see, so that they will praise your heavenly Father. Don't misunderstand why I have come—it isn't to cancel the laws of Moses and the warnings of the prophets. No, I came to fulfill them, and to make them all come true."

Gordon Spot

by DeMarquis Gordon

It will soon be time to spray pecan trees for the control of the first generation pecan nut casebearer. The development of the pecans as well as the insects is late this year. This is due to the April 10 freeze and cool temperatures we have experienced this month.

We are observing the insect development daily. It seems that the spray date will be sometime around May 25 to June 1. We will continue to keep a close watch so look for an article in the paper to tell you when to spray.

The insecticides that can be used for the control of these casebearers are Guthion, Thiodan, Malathion, and Toxaphene. Use these insecticides according to directions given on the label of the container.

Be sure to add zinc sulfate to your spray solution. Zinc is necessary element for pecans and improves the appearance of the trees.

Mild and wet weather has been beneficial for the development of heavy infestations of horn flies. Early summer infestations have been noted to range from several hundred to over 1500 per animal in Eastland County.

Adult horn flies suck small amounts of blood from the host animal causing irritation to the cattle. This nuisance pest can cause a reduction in milk production in dairy cattle and reduce weight gain on beef cattle. Heavy infestations of this pest on beef cattle result in the cattle swinging their heads, running under brush and against fences to dislodge the flies from their body. General thrift and vigor of the animals is also decreased. A good livestock fly control program may reduce possible flesh wounds and aid against screwworm invasion. Screwworm infestations are presently being reported in the South Texas area.

Horn fly control can be achieved with several treatment methods. Devices which provide for free-choice, self-application of insecticides to cattle for controlling horn flies are gaining popularity across Texas. These labor and time saving devices can effectively control horn flies and aid in reducing lice during the entire season with only occasional maintenance and recharging. Cable-type back rubbers covered with an absorbent material treated with an insecticide oil solution have been used successfully for several years. A newer innovation is the fabric dust bag partially filled with an approved insecticide dust. Either type of device affords effective horn fly control and partial to good louse control when strategically located where cattle use it regularly. Installations near water, feed or mineral sources or in gaps or gateways help assure frequent usage. A two to three week adjustment period may be necessary before cattle begin to regularly use self-treatment devices.

Several liquid and dust formulations are available for charging backrubbers, automatic sprayers and dust bags.

Insecticides for use in controlling horn flies are as follows: Ciodrin (Crotoxyphos), Co-Ral (Coumaphos), Delnav (Dioxathion), Ronnel (Korlan), Ruelene (Cruformate), Neguvon (Trichlorfon), Toxaphene, Malathion and Methoxychlor.

Follow explicit all label directions and precautions to avoid possible animal injury or pesticide residues in meat or milk.

Additional information on fly control programs is available at the County Extension Agent's office.

Dr. A. E. Pino Is Speaker

Plans were discussed for the work shop in June, which will be held in Dallas. Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Marsha Thomas, Vice-President, are delegates to this, which will be time well spent. We're glad for our younger nurses to attend these work shops, as they have an opportunity to attend two each year.

Mrs. Gene Cox, program chairman, announced that our state president, Mrs. Hannah, has accepted an invitation to visit our division in the near future. She has tentative plans to come in July. Knowing how very busy Mrs. Jessie Hannah of Denton, Texas, is in behalf of the Association we feel honored to have her and are looking forward to her visit. One of our members, Mrs. Shirley Frost, so graciously volunteered one of their beautiful sites at Valley View Lodge. So, again we were reminded of their hospitality.

Dr. A. E. Pino, M.D., of Gorman was the guest speaker for the regular monthly meeting of LVNA 64, which was held in the Eastland Memorial Hospital Conference Room. A large crowd of interested people welcomed Dr. Pino. He showed slides of some recent surgeries he had performed with the help of his partner, Dr. Canut, and other area doctors. Everyone enjoyed and appreciated the lecture with the slides. After the program was over, Div. 64 was called to order by President Mrs. Gertrude Wallace.

the Frosts' - as we know they have this guest suite for such occasions as this. Shirley received a "hearty hand clap" as a token of appreciation.

Just before adjourning our President came up with another one of her "finds": "Constructive criticism is like a fertilizing rain,

"Destructive criticism is like a killing frost.

Now, all L.V.N.'s, if you are not attending our Division meetings you are missing some very worthwhile programs. Plan now to attend; you are needed.

COMPRESSOR STATION IN OPERATION

The Carbon Compressor Station of the Odessa Natural Corp., is now in full operation, reports Bill Shepard, superintendent.

The plant is the largest of a group of three plants recently installed in Eastland, Brown, and McCullough Counties to bring gas from fields in the three counties for use in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area.

The three modern plants cost as estimated $5 million dollars to install. In addition to the Carbon station, the company has a booster plant at Williams, in Brown County, and another in McCullough County. The plants in the two counties boost gas to the Carbon plant, where it is received at approximately 300 lbs. psi, then compressed to approximately 1,200 lbs. psi before it is put in the recently installed gas line running from West Texas into the Dallas-Ft. Worth area.

All functions of the Carbon plant are self-operating, with vital functions, such as pressure, bearing temperature, etc., being monitored in Eastland by special telemetering circuit at A-1 Answering service.

Terry Treadwell To Receive Doctor of Medicine Degree

An Eastland student will receive his Doctor of Medicine Degree from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School Monday, May 28.

He is Terry Allen Treadwell, who will do his internship at Scott and White Memorial Hospital, Temple.

The Eastland student is among a class of 104 graduating at Commencement ceremonies in McFarlin Memorial Auditorium on the Southern Methodist University campus.

Presenting degrees will be Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, a member of The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

Southwestern Medical School is one of three academic units of The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Rev. Marsh Gets Doctorate

The number of books bought by people on Eastern religions, Indian mystics, black magic - along with many special editions of the New Testament - is one sign "people are listening, still hopeful for something that makes sense out of this weary world," according to Dr. Rachel Henderlite. She delivered the May 13 Commencement Address to 112 graduates at Union Theological Seminary.

Degrees were awarded to Robert Wilson Marsh, B. A., M. Div., Th. M., Doctor of Ministry, during commencement exercises Sunday, May 13.

The largest graduating class in the 161 year history of Union was challenged by Dr. Henderlite, a retired Professor of Christian Education, Austin Theological Seminary. "We have the story people are listening for and must get it across in its wholeness," she told the graduates receiving professional and academic degrees. She also stressed "it is the job of the minister today to help his people know the whole of the glorious story of what happened and is happening and be caught up in the revolution the story tells about."

Speaking on "To a Listening Church and a Listening World" for the Sunday evening service at Ginter Park Presbyterian Church, Dr. Henderlite told the ministers they could not have a more demanding, and at the same time, a more rewarding time to enter the ministry. "People are hungry for what you have to give. They cannot face life today without something to make sense of it."

"...I am convinced that it is your job as pastor to make it clear to your congregation what kind of God they've come together to worship, what kind of rule he has established over the affairs of men, what kind of society he is working to bring about, what he requires of them when they have accepted His invitation into the Family. I'm calling on you to help your people think of themselves always as the People of God..."

"He has promised us his unending love. He calls every man and woman and child, and to each his promise is the same," said Dr. Henderlite stressing "To a listening church and a listening world this is both the affirmation that we can make with confidence and the invitation that we can deliver with His grace."

Earlier in the day, graduates were told "Liberation is Beautiful" by Dr. T. Watson Street, Executive Secretary for the Board of World Missions. Substituting the word liberation for salvation, Dr. Street feels the church has no higher calling than to tell people liberation is available, is possible through Christian faith. Dr. Street was guest speaker for Baccalaureate services.

People in oppressing situations can find liberation for what they face today and every day, he emphasized.

care formerly available only in hospitals. It's a half-way house between hospital and home for people who need intensive nursing supervision, but who do not need the critical standby equipment found in the hospital. The patient receives the convalescent and rehabilitative care he needs without paying for services he doesn't need and doesn't use.

Cost is a major factor in HEALTH CARE. Hospital charges already are averaging close to one hundred dollars a day in many areas of the country. Charges in extended care facilities, or ECF's as they are called, average less than one-fourth the cost of hospital care. Obviously, the potential for ECF's to hold down costs is substantial. Just to give you an idea, by using ecf's for convalescence rather than HOSPITALS, THE MEDICARE PROGRAM ALONE SAVES SOME THREE TO FOUR MILLION DOLLARS A DAY—OR ABOUT A BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR. However, the retroactive denial of care has caused a near collapse of the ECF program nationwide. Only about 5 percent of Texas Homes are participating.

Under new public law 92-603, the secretary of HEW is authorized to establish, by diagnosis, minimum periods of covered care. This provision of

Under Department of Public Welfare standards, "Skilled Nursing Care" is individual care of complex nature requiring professional nursing techniques and or medical therapy of intensive degree. Special procedures, sterile techniques, judgmental decisions and the application of such judgment by professional nursing personnel on a 24-hour day basis must be evident to achieve the medical care plan. Nursing homes are reimbursed at a rate of $14.10 per day or $59 per hour.

3 Countians To Get Degrees At NTSU

Some 1,303 students from 36 states and 11 foreign countries have applied for degrees to be awarded at spring commencement Saturday evening (May 19th) at North Texas State University.

Presenting the commencement speech to some 1,007 bachelor's 193 master's and 33 doctor's degree candidates will be A. M. Willis Jr. of Longview, chairman of the NTSU Board of Regents.

Among the candidates for graduation are three students from Eastland County. They are Mrs. Pamela R. Persful, Route 2, Eastland, who is applying for a master of science degree in clinical psychology; Calvin Brian Lewis, son of Mr. Jessie H. Lewis, Route 1, Desdemona, who is applying for a bachelor of science degree in industrial arts and Robert Clayton Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Wilson, Rising Star, who is applying for a bachelor of business administration degree in accounting.

Preyberians Sunday Subject

The pastor, Robert W. Marsh, will preach on the theme "Two Kinds of Ignorance," based on Exodus 16:20 (Samson) and Exodus 34:29 (Moses). Worship begins at 11:00 a.m. in the church building at the corner of Walnut and Valley. A nursery is provided for small children. The church is air-conditioned. Sunday Church School begins each week at 10:00 a.m. On Wednesday at 9:30 a.m., the Women's Association will meet to conclude their study of Acts with the pastor as leader.

the law may interest many homes in getting back in the program. Also, the "ECF" label will be dropped and extended care facilities and skilled nursing homes will be called skilled nursing facilities.

The effects of the new law on Medicare and Medicaid will be better known once the Department of HEW has issued interpretations and regulations of many of its sections.

Another distinct type of facility is the skilled nursing home. This level of care is correlated to the government's Medicaid program. Generally speaking, skilled care is very similar to extended care, with the exception that the degree of nursing supervision is not quite as intense. Patient stays in skilled nursing homes are generally longer than in ECF's, largely because their disabilities are a chronic, long term nature. And, by the same token, because less intensive nursing supervision is required, the cost of the care is less. Once again under new public law 92-603, Medicare and skilled care will be more closely related. Just how close, we will have to determine when the regulations and interpretations are issued.

Under Department of Public Welfare standards, "Skilled Nursing Care" is individual care of complex nature requiring professional nursing techniques and or medical therapy of intensive degree. Special procedures, sterile techniques, judgmental decisions and the application of such judgment by professional nursing personnel on a 24-hour day basis must be evident to achieve the medical care plan. Nursing homes are reimbursed at a rate of $14.10 per day or $59 per hour.

The third major type of nursing home is called the intermediate care facility - or ICF. It usually provides a combination of some nursing care with personal care, such as bathing, eating, dressing, taking medication - things which you and I take for granted. In Texas, there are two levels of intermediate care.

Intermediate III care is individual care of such nature to require services, on a day-to-day basis, either by or under the supervision of, licensed nursing personnel. This supervision is necessary due to mental or physical impairment or a combination thereof. The impairment may range from judgmental defects with concomitant disturbed behavior, or inability to adhere to outlined medication schedule, up to and including the type of care requiring licensed nursing personnel services for daily management on non-complex medical treatment plans. These homes are reimbursed at a rate of $11.70 per day or $49 per hour.

Intermediate II care is personal supervision, protection, and assistance in daily living activities. These individuals must have a medically recognizable physical or mental impairment, or a combination thereof, precluding independent living. The supervision may be supplied by ATTENDANT PERSONNEL.

For this level of care, the custodial home is reimbursed at a rate of $8.25 per day or $34 per hour.

Services to patients-recipients under Medicaid, in Texas, embrace the Total Care concept. That is to say that care includes, under a fixed rate, all such Care, regular, special or supplemental diets, non-legend drugs, medical accessories, equipment and supplies necessary to meet the current health needs of the patient-recipient.

NO CHARGES are permitted by the nursing home to the patient-recipient, to his family, guardian, sponsor (s), or any other source, over and above the fixed rate, except for oxygen if prescribed in writing by the physician.

The long term care situation is quite different from hospitals where the national average for a day in a hospital, according to the American Hospital Association, is about $95.00 a day and is expected to be around $200.00 a day by 1975.

When Medicare first came into being, the Social Security Administration estimated that 2000 nursing homes could qualify as ECF's. But Social Security Officials were wrong. In July, 1967, after the Medicare ECF program was operating for only six months, more than 4,000 ECF's were participating in the program. The fact is that nursing homes, over a long period of years, had been upgrading themselves to provide the kind of care needed, and wanted, at realistic rates.

What Medicare and Medicaid did was to focus attention on nursing homes. These programs were made possible, in fact, because nursing homes had developed the techniques and staffing that could be used by people of all ages for convalescence or for long term chronic illness.

Of course the upgrading process has been many years in the making. Most experts agree that it began in 1949 when a group of nursing home owners and administrators got together to establish what's now known as the American Nursing Home Association, to which more than 7,350 homes belong, of which 520 homes, with over 40,000 beds, are members of the Texas Nursing Home Association. The original purpose for getting together was to help establish legal standards for licensing of nursing homes. In 1960, many states had no licensing laws. The field was fragmented. Many nursing homes were little more than old private dwelling that once were boarding houses. As guests aged, the boarding houses, of necessity, became small nursing care homes.

Today, all this has changed. Through the work of the American Nursing Home Association and its state Associations, every state in the union has a nursing home licensing law. In addition, states have now adopted nursing home administrator licensing laws.

The Texas Nursing Home Association was extremely involved in developing the Administrator Licensure Law in this state. All administrators had to have a license by July 1, 1970. The Texas Act was signed into law on June 2, 1969, by Governor Preston Smith, who appointed the licensure board on November 5, 1969. As Don Brewer, President of the Texas Nursing Home Association, stated, "Our administrators had to complete a comprehensive course covering a minimum of two hundred hours, and pass a state board exam. I am certain that our profession will be upgraded and that we will gain the professional status we have long worked for." Administrators are required to take continuing education courses to keep their licenses valid and to stay abreast of new techniques. An administrator-in-training program has been initiated to qualify new persons to hold administrator positions.

The Texas State Board of Licensure for Nursing Home Administrators is composed of eight (8) members. Three (3) members are administrators of proprietary facilities and the fourth administrator member is from a non-proprietary facility. One member is an educator, one member is a physician, the commissioner of health and the commissioner of welfare for Texas, or their designee, complete the board composition.

It is significant to note that long before the administrator Licensure Law was created in the state the Texas Nursing Home Association was concerned with educating its members since 1967, TNHA Workshops have educated over 15,000 persons. Our state association and its members have long realized the importance of education in attaining professionalism.

Don Brewer, President of the Texas Nursing Home Association, said, "The Texas Nursing Home Association members are realistically attempting to embrace the theory of peer review. We think this is a professional approach to self-improvement through self-policing. We have activated a group in our association for this purpose."

"We know that the future of long term care in nursing homes, as we desire it to be, will necessitate a constant upgrading of standards of environment and patient care and this is one of the primary objectives of our organization. Upgrading of standards and services must parallel adequate reimbursement."

To emphasize the point, President Brewer stated, "In the State of Texas, we are delivering skilled nursing care, total care, at a rate of 59 cents per hour, and our intermediate care at 49 cents and 34 cents per hour. This leads us to believe that the health care dollar from the private segment of society and the state and federal dollar is truly being well utilized in the long term care spectrum."

Nursing homes today find themselves in a real dilemma. There exists within the nursing home profession, the desire and necessity for maintaining high standards of physical environment and patient care. The nursing home profession has promoted high standards and has worked closely with state agencies to this end. The public and the patients expect and deserve the highest possible level of quality patient care. The state and federal government expects high levels of care and have set the standards accordingly. The dilemma exists because of the maintenance of high standards and the rise of health care costs.

Nursing homes are the only provider of health care that has controlled health care costs.

Also, in data regarding the utilization and cost of providers of health care, it is significant to note that only nursing home costs have increased in direct correlation with actual cost of living increases. Other health care costs have increased at a much larger percentage. The value of the nursing home in curtailing the cost of health care was recognized by the federal government in the Medicare program. This program specifies that the patient can be removed from the hospital to the nursing home in order to convalesce and yet continue to receive skilled nursing care at a substantial reduction in cost.

We recognize the efforts of the federal and state governments to reduce health care costs. We share the concern for health care costs and feel an obligation to help find solutions to the problem. Our profession would like to see the highest possible degree of patient care provided at the lowest possible cost, consistent with the current realistic economic situation. Today's continued inflationary price trend, and the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar, has caused nursing home cost to rapidly increase. Everyone must realize that to continue to provide a quality level of care, standards and regulations must be correlated with reimbursement for services.

Another problem we face is one shared by all health care professions - a shortage of trained nursing personnel. Economists, urban planners, and health care planners are looking to nursing homes as models for future development of health care services. Many new kinds of health care facilities will begin following the nursing home example of keeping available - all the personnel and equipment needed, creative new facilities for specific needs, and offering levels of care directly related to the level of need of the patient.

Regardless of future developments in chronic care delivery, our main objective will remain the same - to take care of an take an interest in each one of our patients or residents.

The percentage of elderly in this country is increasing yearly and, as science gives us the ability to live longer, there will be a greater need for nursing homes in the years ahead.

We feel we are doing a good job and that we are the only profession qualified to provide a "HOME AWAY FROM HOME" for our senior citizens and at moderate costs.

While described three distinct types of facilities it is important to note that a single nursing home may, and often does, provide more than one type of care. That is, a home may have a wing devoted to ECF patients, a wing for skilled care patients, and a wing for ICF patients. Just as the levels of care vary, charges to the patient, or his family, or the government agency responsible for the patient, will vary according to the services provided. Public funds are available for patients in all types of facilities and programs. Of course many patients or their families pay for their own care.

ECF's are used in the Medicare program, a federally financed hospital and medical insurance plan for people 65 or older. Skilled nursing homes are used in the Medicaid program, a system of medical assistance for persons of all ages, financed jointly by federal and state governments. Intermediate care facilities are used for the aged, blind or disabled also under Medicaid.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

Prayer is either a force or a farce. To the one who is prayerless it is a farce. But to the one who is prayerful it is a force.

It was a force to David. Whenever he was affected by a word, a wound, a wrong or a want, he said in Psalm 109: 4, "I give myself unto prayer."

Sometimes man may be too little for our great needs, and other times he may be too big for our little needs. But that is not true of our Lord. He is as wonderful in minuteness as He is in magnitude.

There is no definite place for prayer. Men have prayed to God through Christ in many places—on a storm-tossed ship, like Peter; in a prison, like Paul; on a cross, like the penitent thief.

For there is power in prayer. It has divided seas, quenched the flames of a fiery furnace, shut the mouths of lions, made the sun stand still, burst open prison gates, destroyed the armies of the wicked, supplied the needs for the bodies, solved problems for the minds, stilled passions of the soul and turned sinners into saints. No condition is so desperate that prayer cannot conquer.

Therefore, I will "give myself unto prayer." Will you?

Onions, Hybrids Grain Have Common Bond

Texas' bustling grain sorghum industry has - or should have - a special place in its heart for the onion.

For it was this both loved and shunned vegetable of pungent taste and odor that helped develop hybrid grain sorghums.

The hybrids completely changed the face of the grain business in Texas and other states and led to new prosperity undreamed of only a few years before.

J. Roy Quinby of Pioneer Hybrid Seed Company and former member of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station told the tale Wednesday at A & M University in the second of a three-week series of lectures on grain sorghums.

He said the quest for hybrids received a big impetus when horticultural researchers found within the onion's odoriferous innards a genetic property known as cytoplasmic male-sterility. Here was a possible key for sorghum plant breeders.

Breeders searched for and discovered the same thing in sorghums in 1952. The race was on.

Quinby, a leader in hybrid grain sorghum development, said research began in earnest shortly after World War II. Events moved so rapidly that farmers had started commercial production of the hybrids in the late 1950's.

He said about 20 years were needed for hybrid corn to take over the nation's corn acreage. Yet, after the cytoplasmic male-sterility factor was found, only five years passed before hybrid sorghums were in the fields.

Enough hybrid seed had been produced to plant 15 percent of the U.S. sorghum acreage by 1957, and by 1960, an estimated 95 percent.

Quinby marveled at the "faith" that farmers had in hybrids during those early years, even though most of them had never seen a plot of the new sorghums.

The speaker emphasized that the overall hybrid project was blessed with sharp, hard working researchers and "more than its share of good fortune."

luck, out of thousands of sorghum varieties in Africa and Asia, only a few were introduced into the U.S. Two of these, milo and kafir, were widely used on farms - - and male-sterile-inducing cytoplasm was found in milo. Male-sterile genes that, in combination with sterile cytoplasm cause cytoplasmic male-sterility, were found in kafir.

"So research activities with plants over many years, and the intelligent use of information from that research, has made it possible to use the hybrid vigor that exists in the sorghum species," Quinby said.

Hybrid vigor, irrigation and fertilization have boosted the U.S. sorghum crop from 250 to 800 million bushels a year since the advent of improved types - - with very little increase in acreage.

Crude Totals 123 Million Since 1917

In the face of unprecedented demand, Texas oil fields last year produced almost 1.3 billion barrels of crude oil, an all-time record for the state. This figure was tops among the nation's oil-producing states and represented some 38-percent of total U.S. production, according to statistics compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

These figures show an increase of more than 67.8 million barrels over production in 1971. They reflect that during the last nine months of the year, the Texas Railroad Commission maintained a maximum efficient production rate for Texas fields. This marked the first time Texas wells had produced all-out since 1948.

Last year's crude oil production, recorded in 203 of the state's 254 counties, was valued at some $4.5 billion.

In 83 years of recorded production, Texas has produced nearly 37-billion barrels of oil and 36-percent of total U.S. production.

Eastland County, which has had recorded production since 1917, last year produced 299,308 barrels of oil at the rate of 818 barrels a day. Production in 1972 boosted Eastland County's production total through the end of the year to 123,126,973.

Dendy-Jones Vows Said

Miss Denise Dendy of Abilene became the bride of Van Murry Jones of Abilene Saturday evening, May 19, at 8 p.m. in the Elmwood West United Methodist Church in Abilene.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy of Abilene and is the granddaughter of Mrs. Florine Miller of Eastland. Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie A. Jones of Abilene.

Rev. Richard Payne, minister of the church, officiated. Mrs. Bob Watson was organist; Jeff Walter, soloist; and Miss Bonnie Schroeder read a selection of poetry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Sata Peau. Venise lace edged the high neckline, bordered the entire skirt and was in double bands down the front of the dress. Appliques of the lace were at the yoke and on the bishop sleeves. A chapel-length mantilla edged in the matching lace formed the train.

Miss Dianne Dendy, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judie Jakska of Houston and Miss Colleen Puckett of Midland, cousins of the bride, and Miss Linda Branum of Abilene. Miss D'Lynn Dendy, sister of the bride and Miss Susan Adrian of Abilene were junior bridesmaids.

Bridesmaids' dresses were fashioned like the bride's gown. All were in lavender ceepe with chiffon bishop sleeves and white lace trim at the high waist, except that of the honor attendant. Her gown was in purple. They wore white flopprim hats and carried white baskets of orchids. After the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents at 1526 Wishbone.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones are honor graduates of Abilene High School. The bride is a junior at McMurry College and is employed in the office of Dr. David F. Pugh. Mr. Jones, who is employed by Abilene Reporter News, will begin his senior year at Abilene Christian College.

As I sit here, trying to word this letter, only one thought comes to mind, "Be kind to dumb animals."

We cajole, belittle, and, yes, even brainwash this and several other analogies into our children. Yet as adults we see no reason why we should respect them.

I have just spent the better part of a lovely spring evening trying to explain this "hypocrisy of adults" to my young daughters. They were witness to the heart-breaking injury of their small pet by a speeding motorist. (Take note the puppy was sitting at the side of the road; well out of the way of traffic, yet it was still hit.) Although the motorist slowed down she did not stop. Just shrugged and went on her way.

Thanks to the quick action of local police and thoughtful citizens, we were able to find out who the motorist was. We also found out, that unless the puppy was a pedgreed animal, it would cost more to prosecute than to have the animal cared for.

When the motorist was faced with her actions her only comment, "I feel no responsibility."

Now this lady comes from a nice home, drives a late model car, and can well afford to give her children all the comforts and luxuries of life, including pedgreed pets. She also strikes me as a person who has taught her children how to be good citizens. I hope also lady, you taught them, that after the age of 21, they no longer have to live by these rules.

Because, like or not this is the way we live. "Do as I say, not as I do."

It's very easy to live with the statement, "I feel no responsibility," but, it takes more than most have to face them. If we don't practice what we preach, why do we preach???

I REMEMBER

By Dick O'Brien

On a May 13, Sunday, as of today several years ago I preached in what was then called College Heights Baptist church in Abilene. It had been announced in the Abilene papers that I would be there on that date, and Paul Poe called me and suggested he and Mae Broughton wanted to meet me there and get married. These were two young people from two of the finest families Eastland county ever boasted. I married them in the pastor's study that Sunday morning. Then we got to talking family histories: and it turned out that 75 years before this date my grand-father, who was a Baptist preacher in Arkansas, had united in marriage Paul Poe's grandfather. And on the same occasion Paul's grandfather, who was a justice of the peace, married my grandfather to his second wife. Nowhere we were 75 years carrying on the same custom that had been observed since God made people male and female.

Incidentally several years later Paul passed away and I conducted his memorial service and he was buried in the Long Branch cemetery, which is located on ground which my father and mother pre-empted from the government in the late 1860's. So that custom is still going on and is to continue until the trumpet sounds and "Time is no more." May we all be as ready as Paul Poe was, and leave as fine a record as did he!

How to make your electric payment the same every month.

As temperatures go up and down during the year, your electric bills do, too.

That's why we offer our residential customers a Level Pay Plan — an option that lets you pay for your electric service in equal monthly payments.

Here's how it works: Based on an analysis of all the information we have regarding your account, we estimate your yearly electric costs and your monthly average — and if you agree, that's what we bill you.

During periodic reviews, if we find you've used more or less electricity than first estimated, we'll work out an adjustment.

If you think you'd like the convenience of "Level Pay," give us a call, or simply let us know on the comment portion of your electric service bill.
