MOORE about... EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

We gave some serious thought today to having our typesetter set a couple of lines saying the editor was too tired to write a column and having him insert them in between a lot of white space to fill up this column.

Then we got to thinking about some of our critics who are always saying there's nothing in the Moore About column, and we figured we weren't going to give them a field day.

Writing a column when you do feel up to it is like trying to convince the fellow who just stepped on your toe and drove your corn five inches into the ground. To put it in common words, it just "ain't" easy.

Joe Gray, who scribbles a few of his opinions for this paper once a week, is always telling us how he gets inspired to write a column. If we fooled around here waiting for inspiration we wouldn't ever write another line.

We sought some suggestions for today's column from some of the folks we had coffee with this morning. Two or three people suggested we write a good crusading article. The only thing we could find to crusade about is the gravel they are using to fix the roof over at the courthouse, and after thinking that over, we decided the Fort Worth Press has crusaded the gravel business to death already. Actually we don't know anything about the local gravel situation which you could crusade about, but that seems to be the trend.

We would like to start a crusade about all of these local businesses closing on Mondays and/or Saturdays. We don't think Mr. Dick would let us work just five days a week even after a crusade, though, so there is no need to start a fight there.

The weather might make a good topic, but before we will be able to get this column in print it will be doing something else.

Golf would be a good subject, but everytime we think of golf we recall the biggest blunder we ever made in our life. For three years we would slip out and play golf when we didn't feel up to working. Then we talked the publisher into playing a round with us and since that time we can't go to the course during business hours. There's too big a chance we will bump in on O. H.

We would write some more about people and their diets, but we lost 16 subscribers the last time we mentioned that subject. And you should have heard all the dirty remarks we had to take about being skinny. Skinny, indeed! We might be a little underweight, or thin, or built, but not skinny.

Had some notes somewhere on my desk about the advantage of keeping a straight desk. The information we had said a man could do twice as much work in a day if he kept everything in order, and could put his finger on things he needed at a moments notice.

To us that sounds wonderful, and you can take our word for it, we would have written a column clean desk keeping except for the fact those notes got mixed up with the rest of the junk on our desk and we can't find them.

You can see we are in a lousy situation. Five minutes ago someone yelled to us that it was past our deadline, and we haven't written a word on this should-be two page column yet.

We are sorry as we can be about it, but it just looks like we won't be able to have a column today.

Medics' Victory Over Comets Good For First Place

The Medics made it two wins in a row over the powerful Comets in Eastland Little League play Thursday night, handing the first half champions an 18-7 setback in first round action of second half play.

The Lions gained a tie for first place in the second round with a 13-4 win over the Bulldogs. The Medic victory evened the series between the Medics and the Comets to two games each for the year. The Comets' two losses to the team sponsored by the Eastland Medical and Surgical Clinic, are the only two setbacks on their record.

Again it was Terry Treadwell who turned in the winning performance for the Medics. He scattered six hits in going all the way, and his teammates overcame a three point deficit. The Medics won the game in the final frame, getting 16 runs.

Winning pitcher for the Lions was Gregory.

Local Guardsmen Parade at Fort Hood Saturday

NORTH FORT HOOD—The Proud 49th Armored Division today, with local Guardsmen participating, paraded its armored punch before some 1,500 Central Texas and military dignitaries.

Many Eastland men serve in the two county Guard units, at Ranger and Cisco, as citizen soldiers. It was the annual Governors Day review for the National Guard unit which honored former division commander, Lieutenant General Albert S. Johnson of Dallas.

The vehicles—ranging from jeeps to lumbering tanks—rolled past the reviewing stand for two hours in a stirring show of military might.

General Johnson inspected the 9,100 Lone Star Division Guardsmen before the parade. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Clayton P. Kerr of Dallas, Division Commander.

Special guests at the parade included top Army brass of Fort Hood and the Fourth U. S. Army plus civic leaders from the 81 home towns of the division units. Maj. Gen. L. S. Griffing, Deputy Commander, Fourth U. S. Army and Maj. Gen. K. Berry, the Adjutant General, State of Texas.

General Kerr also crowned the 1959 division sweetheart—Miss Sandra Melroy of Denton—and presented trophies to the finalists of this year's beauty contest.

The 49th major commands moved down the parade field in this order:
Division troops from Dallas and Fort Worth, Combat Command "C" from Houston and South Texas; Division Artillery from Wichita Falls, Temple and other West Texas Cities; Combat Command "B" from Dallas and East Texas; Combat Command "A" from Fort Worth and North Texas and Division Trains from larger cities in North, South and Central Texas.

The Guardsman of the 49th Armored Division were dismissed for the weekend after the parade. They will return for another week of rugged field training next Monday.

The Division will return to home stations on June 21.

Golden Urges Exes to Attend Alumni Meeting

Officers and directors, and any other interested people, are invited to attend a planning session of the 1960 Eastland homecoming Sunday. Jim Golden, alumni association president, which is staging this homecoming, announced this is one of the workers meetings in which a lot of kinks will be ironed out in planning for the 1960 homecoming.

Eastland held the largest homecoming held anywhere in Texas in 1957 and the alumni association of the Eastland High School plans to hold an even larger one in 1960.

"Big things have to be planned well," Golden said. "Big things require big plans. The Sunday meeting will plan these big things."

Golden announced the meeting for 2 p.m. in the High School building. His Association wants everyone really interested in seeing Eastland have the largest homecoming ever to come out to the Sunday meeting.

Lake Leon Development Is Termed As 'Amazing'

By Staff Writer
Lake Leon, once the dream of water-thirsty citizens of Ranger and Eastland, is a reality today, and the lake has done more than provide the two cities with ample water supplies.

Today Lake Leon dam stands as a tribute to citizens of the two towns who just some 10 years ago first began their efforts toward giving the sister cities adequate water. The $1,500,000 dam was built entirely without federal or state aid. Citizens of the two communities formed the Eastland County Water Board and voted bonds to pay for the 1,500 foot dam.

That's an old story, of course. How Eastland and Ranger made themselves a reservoir with 28,000 acre feet capacity has been told many, many times.

The big story today is the amazing development of the lake as a recreation area. More than 100 modern cabins, and many permanent homes, have been constructed around the 35-mile shoreline. There are four commercial fishing docks and at least 200 private boat houses. One of the most elaborate country clubs in West Texas has been built on the lake's shores, and an 18-hole watered fairway golf course is now being constructed.

Lake Leon has been hailed as the best crappie fishing hole in the entire state, and catches of both bass, yellow cats and channel cats have been outstanding.

Just this year the Fort Worth Anglers Club held their annual fishing rodeo at the lake. Three hundred and eighty anglers vied for honors, and many a fine string of fish was weighed in by the judges. The Cowtown club was high in praise of the lake and officers insisted it was not only the best rodeo ever, but far exceeded their fondest hopes.

Development at the lake has not reached the finishing mark, however. The Water Board recently announced that it plans to provide a recreation area for the general public, providing picnicking areas and access to the lake itself.

It was just a year ago, July 4, 1958, when some 7,500 people swarmed the lake to participate in fishing events and watch exhibitions of water skiing. Chambers of commerce officials of the two towns had hoped for a thousand or more people. It wasn't until the day arrived when they realized the intense interest in the lake.

None of this was accidental. Lake Leon dam was completed late in 1954 and even then there was some water in the reservoir. Water Board officials immediately took steps to heavily stock the lake with fish, then closed the lake for fishing. The lake was opened to anglers early in 1956, and the first day out fishermen landed good catches. Since that time the fishing has been getting better and better.

Heavy rains in May of 1955 filled the lake almost full, and one more big rain in May of the following year sent water over the spillway. The lake has remained at a near full mark almost continuously since then.

Everything hasn't been easy, in fact nothing but the fishing has. After the lake was full the community of Staff would have been cut off from the rest of the world if a bridge across the Leon River had not been built. Citizens of Ranger and Eastland worked hard to secure a special appropriation of $125,000 from the State Highway Commission to get the bridge built.

It was mentioned that the lake has ample water for the area. Just how ample can be determined by reading engineering reports. Engineers estimate the lake, which has an "exceptional watershed," will supply the needs of 100,000 people.

Lake Leon can boast one other thing with pride. Only one person has lost his life in the lake, and it is still believed by many that that death was not caused by drowning, but by the victim's having a heart attack. Rules have been rigidly enforced, making it mandatory for boaters to wear life jackets.

How many boats are on the lake? That's another hard question. There are hundreds, however, all the way from house boats to canoes. Boats can be rented at the lake and spaces for keeping boats are available.

Eastland and Ranger citizens still do not take the lake for a cinch, but perhaps from time to time the lake's virtues should be reviewed. Combined spillway capacity is 206,000 second feet. Yield during annum is 7100 acre feet and capacity of the lake at the pump station is 3,500,000 gallons daily. Capacity of raw water line to the filter plant is the same and rated capacity of the plant is 2,300,000 gallons daily with an overload capacity of 3,500,000 gallons a day.

Development of the lake has been pointed to by leaders of many other areas who propose building their own reservoirs, and even areas having lakes older than Lake Leon have studied the local plan.

Yes, Lake Leon has played a big part in the development of the area since former Gov. Beauford Jester signed a bill creating the Eastland County Water Supply District May 29, 1949.

Domestic Oil Earnings Are Below Normal

TULSA — Earnings in the domestic petroleum industry are well below the average for all manufacturing industries, according to comparisons of rates of return for 12 major U. S. industries published by the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

In the fourth of its series on "Oil and Gas Depletion Facts," IPAA cited an analysis of statistics from the Federal Trade Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Chase Manhattan Bank which it says disproves charges that the percentage depletion tax provision creates excessive earnings in the petroleum industry.

These sources show, the association pointed out, that the average rate of return for the domestic petroleum industry for the years 1955 through 1957 was 9.97 percent, whereas the average rate of return for all manufacturing industries was 11.92 percent.

"It deserves emphasis that funds retained through percentage depletion are included in the earnings upon which the rate of return for the domestic petroleum industry is based," it added.

The association maintained that if percentage depletion did result in excessive earnings, these would be reflected in the comparison of rates of return on stockholders' equity.

"The facts show that percentage depletion does not result in undue profits in the oil industry," said IPAA. "Instead, depletion is necessary to help provide the funds and incentives to explore for additional (petroleum) reserves required for the future."

In previous pamphlets on the subject the national petroleum organization has emphasized that: 1. Domestic petroleum industry ploughs back into the search for new petroleum reserves two dollars for every dollar returned through percentage depletion;

2. Elimination of the depletion provision would result in an increase of about five cents a gallon for gasoline in order for the industry to maintain funds for the necessary search for new reserves, and;

3. Congress has recognized from the beginning of the income tax law (1913) that in computing taxable income, deductions must be provided for capital assets that are being worn out or exhausted in the process of earning the income which is subjected to tax.

"God the Preserver of Man"—the Lesson-Sermon to be read at Christian Science services Sunday — is based upon the inspiring experiences of the patriarch Abraham.

Scriptural selections will include Paul's statement to the Galatians (3:7): "Know ye therefore that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham."

The meaning for today of Abraham's lifework will be emphasized in selections read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (579:12): "This patriarch illustrated the purpose of Love to create trust in good, and showed the life-preserving power of spiritual understanding."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (16:1): "Preserve me, O God, for in thee do I put my trust."

You Don't Need Much Advice—
... but it is valuable now and then. For example, when you go to buy a policy of insurance, don't select any kind of a policy or any kind of an agent. There is a big difference. You will likely never use your insurance any way but if you do your agent will be the key man in any settlement you make with the insurance company. It is sound advice to buy only from local agents who have long records of successful performance in adjusting insurance claims.

Dianne Farmer, Sterling Thames United In Candlelight Ceremony

In a double-ring ceremony read Saturday, June 6, at 8:00 p.m. in the First Christian Church of Ranger, Miss Dorothy Dianne Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Keith of Ranger, became the bride of Roscoe Sterling Thames of Fort Worth, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Needham of Ranger.

The Rev. Jack Barker, pastor, read the wedding vows amid a candlelight setting which featured baskets of white gladioli and seven-branched candelabra holding tall white tapers. Pewes were marked with white satin bows centered with white candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Maxine Vandergriff of Ranger, pianist, played "Because" and accompanied Mrs. Barker as she sang "Always." Miss Vandergriff played the traditional wedding marches as the bridal party entered and left the church. During the ceremony, Mrs. Barker sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Dorothy Needham of Ranger, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a dress of pastel yellow sateen cotton with an overskirt of yellow net. She carried a nosegay of yellow frenched carnations. Bridesmaids were Barbara Craig and Rozelle Hatton, both of Ranger. Janice Black and Pat Brown were junior bridesmaids. All wore identical dresses of powder blue sateen cotton with blue net overskirts. They carried nosegays of blue frenched carnations. Flower girls were Becky Barker of Ranger and Jenny Farmer of Snyder, niece of the bride. They wore dresses of white sateen cotton and carried small baskets of shredded carnations. Candlelighters, Barbara Ford and Kathleen Wallace, wore shell pink dresses and pink wrist corsages.

Martie Farmer, Jr. of Snyder, brother of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Jimmy Needham, brother of the groom and Jerry Jones. Douglass Needham, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of Chantilly lace and net over white slipper satin. The fitted bodice was buttoned down the back with tiny pearl buttons. The bodice also featured long sleeves tapering to points over the wrists and a scoop neckline, which was accented with flower motifs of seed pearls. The full skirt extended into a short train.

Her elbow length veil of white tulle was attached to a small tiara. She carried a nosegay of white gardenias and stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a single strand of white cultured pearls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Keith chose a light blue dress of silk linen with white accessories. Mrs. Needham wore a royal blue dress with black accessories. Both wore corsages of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth over yellow, and centered with an arrangement of majestic daisies and leatherleaf fern in a silver epergne. Appointments of silver and crystal were used.

The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Punch, cake, coffee, nuts, and yellow mints were served by Mrs. Robert Allen, aunt of the groom; Mrs. Bill Bourdeau, and Mrs. S. R. Berger. Mrs. Martie Farmer presided at the registry table.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a blue sheath dress and a matching blue accessories. She wore a gardenia from the bridal bouquet.

The bride attended Ranger High School and will complete her education in Fort Worth. The groom is a graduate of Ranger High School. The couple will make their home at 5013 Langley Street in Fort Worth, where he is employed by Convoir.
