MOORE about... EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

We almost didn't attend Monday's Rotary Club meeting and we will be forever grateful that at the last moment we decided to go. For in going, we had the opportunity to hear one of the best talks we have ever heard.

Virgil T. Seaberry, immediate past president of the State Bar of Texas and one of Eastland's best known men, was guest speaker for the day. Rotarians can thank Grady Pipkin, another of our outstanding citizens, for looking under his own nose and asking the Judge to speak.

The Judge's topic, had he announced one, would most likely have been Virginia. He spoke of the state which he and his wife recently visited for two weeks. He did much more than talk of the state, however. He reminded many of us of our nation's great leaders of days gone by, such as George Washington, Robert E. Lee, President Taft and President Wilson.

Judge Seaberry is one of the few men who we have heard talk who can completely capture his entire audience. He makes the individual listener think that he is talking just to him, and one regrets that his words of wisdom have to come to such a rapid halt.

Speaking of the leaders of this nation who made the historic decision to break away from Great Britain, Judge Seaberry said he could not help but wonder if he would have done the same thing.

Mr. Seaberry mentioned a film he saw while in Virginia and said he wished that every local student could see the film. We think that they would get just as much out of a talk by the Judge. When introduced, the Rotary speaker said he did not have a camera and could not take pictures of Virginia as some of the Rotarians had done on their trips abroad. Mr. Pipkin expressed just about everyone's opinion when the Judge finished his talk. "I know everyone here enjoyed your 'pictures,'" he declared.

Draft Age Men Reminded They Must Register

Selective Service officials are becoming increasingly concerned about the numbers of men of draft age who do not advise their local boards about changes in their status. Mrs. Jewell Reeves, local clerk, revealed today.

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, who has recently returned from a conference of state and territorial Selective Service directors in Washington, says officials are worried because up-to-date and accurate information can be "very valuable if this country were to get into an emergency."

Men registered with draft boards are required by law to advise their boards about everything from a change of job to a change of address. The law gives them 10 days to get the information to their boards in writing.

The official regulation reads: "It shall be the duty of every classified registrant to keep his local board currently informed of his occupational, marital, family, dependency, and military status, of his physical condition, of his home address, and of his receipt of any professional degree in a medical, dental, or allied specialist category. Every classified registrant shall, within 10 days after it occurs, report to his local board in writing every change in such status and in his physical condition and home address and his receipt of any such professional degree."

Worth Food Mart Completes Office In Fort Worth

Worth Food Mart has announced completion and occupancy of their new two and one-half acre general offices and warehouse building, in the Santa Fe Industrial District, Fort Worth.

The modern food distribution center is designed to provide efficient service for 75 or more retail stores, which is indicative of Worth's plans for continued progress through continued and vastly expanded service to the public.

The concrete floor covers more than 100,000 square feet and is dust-proof. A constant warehouse temperature of 65 degrees is maintained through the specially-engineered ventilation system, thus assuring a fresh stock condition at all times. Additional expansion plans for 1959 call for the opening of eleven new supermarkets—five in Fort Worth, four in Dallas, one in Garland and one in Weatherford. Worth presently operates 33 stores, 22 of which are in Tarrant County, four in Dallas County, and stores in Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Coleman, Graham, Weatherford and Hillsboro.

Twenty Local Citizens to See Special Screening of New Movie

Twenty Eastland citizens will soon be guests of the Eastland Telegram and Interstate Theatres at a private advance screening of "The Young Philadelphians," screen version of Richard Powell's best selling novel, "The Philadelphiaian."

Starring Paul Newman, and with a supporting cast that includes Barbara Rush, Alexis Smith, Brian Keith and Diane Brewster, this new Warner Brothers motion picture deals with the problems of young adults facing the ruthless competitions found in all levels of modern society.

Although the story specifically probes deep inside the glittering world of "Main Line" Philadelphia, the locals could as easily have been any large city where ambitious young moderns struggle for success in a battle where "nice guys finish last."

Because it is a notably fine entertainment in every respect Warner Brothers are proudly permitting advance screenings of the attraction in a number of cities.

In Eastland the screening will be under the auspices of this newspaper and the local management of Interstate Theatres. The invitation list will be comprised of the first 20 Telegram readers who fill out the below coupon and mail it as indicated.

Eastland County Four-H Girls Attend Camp

The District 8 Girl's 4-H Camp was held in Glen Rose, at Camp Tres Rios, on May 27-29. All of the counties in the district were represented by delegates, junior leaders, adult leaders and agents.

Eastland County was well represented. Going as delegates from the county were Loresta Looze, Ruby Rusberry and Mary Looze. Each of these girls proved to be quite capable and were elected to camp offices. Loresta was elected as a cabin inspector, Ruby was chosen as co-chairman of the camp, and Mary was selected as a song leader.

As a Junior leader, Chris Stroebel took on responsibility in the recreation workshop. Mrs. Earnest Shaefer, of Cisco, went along with the group as an adult leader.

The girls met many new friends, and learned many new ideas which they will bring back to their own clubs. The workshops—crafts, recreation, and photography, were taught, and these were the educational part of the camp. The following organization made this trip to camp possible for the four girls: Eastland National Bank, First National Bank, Cisco, First State Bank, Rising Star, Eastland County Farm Bureau and Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Fishing Rodeo Hailed A Success

An annual Kiddies Fishing Rodeo, held at Marine Creek Lake, was made possible as a result of the Fort Worth Anglers Club Fishing Rodeo held at Lake Leon in April.

The Lake Leon event has been hailed as one of the biggest projects undertaken by the Fort Worth Club and as a complete success.

Andy Anderson, president of the Anglers Club, says in "The Fisherman", published this month, "This should surely go down as one of the finest years in Fort Worth Anglers Club history." He then refers to the Fishing Contest at Lake Leon and the Kiddies Fishing Rodeo.

Anderson continues, "Counting the new members who came in recently and such, we had about 163 people who will get their fishermen for the first time this month. That, I think, proves part of what I said about the Leon tourney being a success."

Gray Matter

Things won't seem the same around the Connellee Hotel with that place operating under some name other than Connellee, thirty-one years is a long time to go by one name and then change to another one. I was under the impression that the Connellee Hotel opened its doors to the public in 1927 but it might be that it didn't get opened until 1928, which of course would make it a 31-year-old hostelry.

The present Connellee Hotel was not the first hotel building started on its present site. Mr. C. U. Connellee and some associates started to erect a hotel of the first class at this site right after the oil boom erupted upon the quiet Eastland County countryside in 1919 but they never did complete their plans. They did do a lot of work on the foundation and made a good start on the building itself, but failed to finish the erection of the building.

Then after a few years some Houston money came into the picture. The Connellee Hotel was built by the Jesse Jones interests of Houston. That's the same Jones who had so much to do with building some of the buildings in Fort Worth on West Seventh and near the Star-Telegram Building.

Mr. Jones had made his money and was then one of the country's wealthiest men. Part of this interests in Houston included the Houston Chronicle and the Rice Hotel.

The Rice Hotel occupies an entire block in downtown Houston, fronting on Texas Street, while right across the street to the west of the hotel is the great Houston evening paper, The Chronicle. That means that Jesse Jones owned both sides of the street at that point.

One time one of the civic organizations in Houston was holding a big banquet and Mr. Jones as the principal speaker. The man in-Changing the name of the hotel won't be as difficult as changing the name of the street, but things won't seem the same with a hotel on West Main not named Connellee.

The Eastland Telegram put out a special edition to celebrate the opening of the Connellee. It was about 100 pages in size and the boys in the press room had to run it off in shifts and print up a lot of the sections well in advance of official publication date.

The press capacity of the Telegram then was about what it is now and 100 pages is a lot of newspaper.

The Telegram that Sunday morning was as thick and heavy as a Sunday edition of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram or the Dallas News. A newsboy who had 100 customers on his route had a job delivering all his papers that morning. Then the Sunday paper came out on Sunday morning and was actually delivered on Sunday, not the afternoon of the day before.

One hundred papers of a newspaper as thick as that issue of the Telegram filled the back seat of a medium-sized automobile. There were very few Telegrams delivered by bicycle that morning, as delivery boys couldn't carry enough on them at one time to finish the job without help.

Circulation manager of the Telegram at the time of this special edition was a young fellow by the name of W. B. Crossley. He's still in the newspaper business. Now he is just about the editor and chief advertising salesman, of the Madisonville Meteor, one of the more progressive weeklies in South Central Texas, or East Central Texas, depending on how you look at it.

The grand opening of the Connellee was a gala occasion. The Jones interests also operated the Worth Hotel in Fort Worth in addition to the Rice in Houston, so they knew a little something about managing hotels.

The larger hotels of that age all carried a house dance band and with the opening of the Eastland Connellee a big affair was staged on the roof-top ballroom with the band from the Worth Hotel at Fort Worth furnishing the music.

It was the largest hotel ever built in Eastland and will hold that distinction for ever. I guess hotel building is something that's very risky business and downtown hotels aren't in a great demand nowadays as they were three decades ago.

The auto-traveling public and fast highways have changed the living habits of America in more ways than one.

There is a brand new wrinkle in the mosquito killing business. Early reports suggest that the pesky household critters can be done in without the fuss and bother — or health hazard — of old-fashioned flit guns or mist bombs. The new method has been described in the May issue of Public Health Reports, the monthly journal of the U. S. Public Health Service. It consists simply by putting a bag of insecticide in the room during the mosquito season. It was discovered like this: Scientists at the Communicable Disease Center laboratory in Savannah, Georgia, left work one afternoon. Inside the large lab room when they left was an unopened bag of insecticide. Also in the room were some adult mosquitoes on which the scientists had been conducting tests and experiments, as part of the constant international struggle against malaria and other forms of mosquito-borne disease. When the scientists reported for work next morning, most of the mosquitoes were dead. Immediately they suspected that the sealed bag of insecticide — or rather the fumes from it — were responsible for killing the mosquitoes. In days following they confirmed their theory. They found that the fumes killed the mosquitoes even when the insecticide was enclosed in a paper bag with a polyethylene liner. Subsequently work showed the method worked even in well ventilated rooms. The most effective chemicals tested were malathion and DDVP, used in combination or separately. Both have been widely used against mosquitoes in recent years. More study will be required and specific techniques will have to be worked out before the method can be generally used, investigators say. But once the technique has been perfected and proved safe, it may greatly simplify control of mosquitoes. Meanwhile, you'll have to go along with old methods if you're interested in a summer relatively free of mosquito deprivations. Despite being more costly and difficult, the old methods do work. They consist of spraying inside the house with aerosol bombs, and keeping your back yard free of tin cans, old tires, grass cuttings and anything else that can breed or harbor mosquitoes.  Sharp knives save the homemaker much time and labor and enable her to do a better job of preparing food for the meals she serves to her family. Proper storage is important. Knives should be kept in a drawer to protect the edge from becoming nicked or dulled. A wall pocket made of leather with a division for each knife is convenient to use for small knives. Knives should be thoroughly clean and dry before they are put away. If a knife is to be stored very long without being used, the blade should be coated with heavy oil, paraffin or lard to prevent rusting. If lard is used, be sure it is free of salt. Knives should always be used for the purpose intended—a bread knife for bread, or a meat knife for meat. Never use them for cutting wire, tin cans, wood or other hard materials. Do not use them for screw drivers or to pry open a lid. A knife may be broken by using it for heavier work than was intended. A cutting board should be used to protect a knife. Do not let a knife soak in water, as this will rust it. Keep handles very tight, and if a handle wears out, replace it before the blade is ruined. There are several types of sharpeners for knives. These include: a grindstone, a butcher's steel, other sharpening stones, and various small patent knife sharpeners. Any of these are very satisfactory for sharpening the knives which the homemaker uses. The patent ones are suggested for sharpening poorer quality of steel, since some of them have a tendency to flake off bits of the blade, or face of the knife. Other material for sharpening knives would be light oil for the stone, a device for holding the stone steady, and a cloth to wipe steel shavings or dust from the stone or knife. Keep your knives sharp and they will last a lot longer, and serve their purpose much better.

Slow Down And Live Campaign Begins In Texas

"More than half of all rural fatal accidents, in 1958, were caused by driving too fast for conditions. This fact alone takes a major problem of traffic accident prevention from the realms of engineering, licensing or laws and marks excessive speed as basically a human problem."

J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, made the above statement today as he sought community support for the statewide Slow Down and Live campaign which will end with Labor Day.

Musick said this period had been selected for the campaign, because it is during these months that vacation travel reaches its peak.

"Human problems of traffic control are the most difficult to solve, because there are no technical answers," the safety expert said. "However, the Slow Down and Live campaign is an attempt to make motorists more conscious of the inherent dangers of speed, especially excessive speed."

"Of course signs and slogans alone won't do the job, but they do help create a climate of safety-awareness that is vital to any accident prevention program," he said.

The annual Slow Down and Live campaign was initiated as a pilot operation in eleven northeastern states in 1953 and has since expanded to include Canada, Puerto Rico and all of the U. S.

You Don't Need Much Advice—

... but it is valuable now and then. For example, when you go to buy a policy of insurance, don't select any kind of a policy or any kind of an agent. There is a big difference. You will likely never use your insurance any way but if you do your agent will be the key man in any settlement you make with the insurance company. It is sound advice to buy only from local agents who have long records of successful performance in adjusting insurance claims.

Eastland County Is Over 100 Years Old

William M. Eastland, the man for whom Eastland County was named, was the same man who drew a black bean at Rancho Salada, Mexico. Eastland County became known as Eastland County for the reason that one of the founders recalled the bravery of Eastland, and thought he should have something named in his memory.

The county was created Feb. 1, 1853, and was organized Dec. 2, 1873. It contains 909 square miles and is approximately on longitude 98 west and latitude 31 north. Frank Sanchez was one of the first settlers in the county. It was left up to one Silas Buck, a young lawyer, to organize the county, however. In 1872 Buck came to live in the home of Peter Davidson. He had been appointed deputy county clerk of Palo Pinto County, to which Eastland County was attached for judicial purposes. He proceeded to circulate a petition asking that an election be held for the purpose of organizing the county. The election was held Dec. 2, 1873, and passed. After the organization of the county its population increased rapidly. In 1880 it had 4,855 population. The county seat was Merriman when the county was first organized. On Aug. 2, 1875, an election was held to determine if the county seat should be moved, and Eastland received 67 votes in favor of the move to just 44 for McGough Springs and nine for Merriman. Then, in 1881, Cisco made a bid for the county seat. An election was called and following the hotly contested voting, Eastland was still the capital, having received 354 votes to Cisco's 324. Eastland County continued a slow but steady growth until Oct. 28, 1917. That was the day the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil Co.'s McCleskey No. 1 well was brought in. Then Ranger, and the county, experienced what historians have called the "most spectacular boom ever to have occurred within the United States." The oil boom came and ended in Eastland County, and a recession followed. In the past few years the county has started a new growth, however. The county still has a large amount of oil production and ranks second in the state in peanut farming. Also ranking high in the county is turkey raising and pecan growing. Industry, such as garment manufacturing companies and a building block manufacturers, have brightened the county's outlook.

B. Williams, sheriff; J. M. Cooper, home demonstration agent; and T. county agent; Earl O'Brien, county auditor; Mrs. Sandra Shelton, L. Landon, county surveyor.

4 letters that spell peace

What is NATO? It stands for North Atlantic Treaty Organization, an alliance of 15 free nations, including the United States, which have banded together to protect themselves against aggression. These nations are Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States.

What is its purpose? Primarily, NATO is a military alliance, but its great purpose is peace, not war. The 15 members of NATO have pledged that they will regard an attack upon any one of them as an attack upon all. They have also pledged to work together politically and to increase their ability to defend themselves by self-help and mutual aid.

How does NATO function? Each of the 15 member nations is represented in important discussions held regularly. Their main function is to defend a line which stretches from the Aleutians to the Middle East. A line which is manned by Greek patrol boats, Norwegian ski troops, French engineers, Canadian jet pilots—strength to which every NATO country contributes.

What has it accomplished? Before NATO Russia had seized country after country—enslaved 90 million people. The Soviets threatened to engulf the whole of Europe . . . ultimately to dominate the world. Since NATO not an inch of territory has been lost in the Atlantic area. And by sharing our obligations this 10-year watch has cost us less than a few months of the cost of World War II.

What is its future? So long as there remains a threat to liberty, NATO has a job to do. Slowly a strong shield of freedom has emerged. Secure behind this shield, the peoples of the Atlantic community are working together toward greater political, economic and social well-being.

NATO needs your support

New challenges face NATO every day. It can meet them and grow even stronger . . . but only if all NATO nations continue to work together in that spirit of co-operation that first made NATO possible. NATO deserves your support to this end. For the full story on NATO write for the free booklet. Write: NATO Information Box 88, New York 21, N.Y.

Ellajoy Walker and Bill Holladay Are Married in Eastland Saturday

In a candlelight ceremony read in the Eastland First Baptist Church Saturday at 7 p. m., Ellajoy Walker and William Eugene (Bill) Holladay were joined in holy matrimony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Walker, 306 North Dixie Street, and Mrs. Jessie Lee Holladay of Olden.

The Rev. Harvey Kimbler, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar backed by baskets of pink gladioli and greenery. Two candelabra on each side of the altar held pink tapers. A white satin covered kneeling bench was placed in front of the altar.

Organist, Mrs. D. L. Kinna'rd of Eastland, played pre-nuptial music and accompanied R. B. Hall, music director of the First Baptist Church, as he sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white lace over satin and accented with a princess style full skirt. The fingertip sleeves were accented at the point with tiny seed pearls. The V-shaped neckline was also accented with seed pearl designs.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion was trimmed with lace and fell from a pearl studded tiara. The bride carried a heirloom handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Cora Walker. Her bouquet was of white camellia and carnations accented with white streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Sledge of Abilene. Bridesmaids were Misses Marion Wood and Nancy Owen, both of Eastland.

The bride's attendants were identically dressed in pink crystalline dresses with full skirts, rounded necklines, tiny sleeves and small pink hats with pink net scalloped chain length veils attached. They carried bouquets of pink carnations with pink streamers. Their other accessories were white.

Candlelighters were Misses Sandra Taylor and Laura Harris of Eastland. They wore identical pink dresses, pink carnation corsages and white accessories.

Harold Dean Hendrick of Carbon attended the groom as best man. Jack Hilliard and Eddie Munn, both of Olden, served as groom's attendants and ushers.

The reception following the wedding was held in the basement of the First Baptist Church. Gifts were displayed on one side of the room.

The main table was laid with a white lace table cloth over pink satin. A three tiered wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and groom was served to guests with frosted punch. Appointments of silver and crystal and pink flowers completed the table arrangements.

Members of the houseparty were the bride; Mrs. M. A. Walker, mother of the bride; Mrs. Jessie Lee Holladay, mother of the groom; Mrs. W. E. Hallenbeck; Mrs. Louis Corbell; Miss Bobbie Love and Miss Garland Love.

For the wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the bride selected a royal blue silk suit. Her corsage was of white gladioli and her shoes and bag were white.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Eastland High School and is presently employed by the D. L. Kinna'rd Insurance Agency in Eastland.

The groom is a graduate of Olden High School and Ranger College. He is presently employed by Worth Food Market in Eastland.

Following the wedding trip the couple will make their home at 702 West Patterson Street in Eastland.

Turkey Prices Not Expected To Improve

COLLEGE STATION — The prospect at this time for any improvement in the selling price of turkeys is not too good, says F. Z. Beamblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist.

He cites six factors which producers should watch as indicators of price changes. They are: whether or not storage stocks continue to decrease below those of a year ago; whether or not there is an unusual heavy hatching of late poult; whether or not the hatching season is extended over a longer period of time in 1959; the rate and time of the movement of breeder hens into the channels of trade; whether or not there is an unusual heavy mortality on a national basis or an unusual high liveability of poult placed to maturity and the percent of early hatched turkeys that have moved into channels of trade and will not be an influence on the volume of turkeys to be sold during the last four months of 1959.

Prices received for turkeys by Texas producers, as well as many other economic conditions in the turkey industry, are influenced more by the national situation than by either local or state situations.

Because of our improved transportation facilities and other communications, state lines mean very little in the marketing of agricultural products, Beamblossom said. Therefore, it is necessary for turkey producers to stay abreast of national and state trends in the turkey industry, in order that they may do a better job of planning their production and marketing programs, the specialist said.

There is a very good possibility that the 1959 turkey crop could be another record, said the specialist, with total production this year running 10 percent ahead of the previous season.
