Federal Child Labor Laws Are Reviewed

Employers can use teen-agers in many kinds of jobs during the summer months without violating the Fair Labor Standards Act—or Federal Child-Labor Law, Regional Director William J. Rogers of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions in Dallas has pointed out.

He said that boys and girls of 16 and 17 can work in any jobs except those that have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor and require an 18-year age minimum.

"Children of 14 and 15 years of age may be employed in such jobs as office, clerical or sales work, and in vegetable and fruit-packing sheds. In fact, they can work at most jobs that do not involve manufacturing, mining, processing or similar occupations," he remarked.

When school is in session, tighter restrictions apply to the hours during which youngsters may work. However, during summer vacation, the 14- or 15-year-old may work as many as eight hours a day or 40 hours a week, but all work must be performed between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Mr. Rogers explained that the 18-year age minimum applies to such hazardous occupations as elevator operator, truck driver or helper, logger, miner and sawmill worker.

To be sure that youngsters are old enough for a particular job, employers should ask for and obtain age certificates to serve as proof of age for purposes of the Act, he pointed out. In Texas, these certificates are issued, as a public service, by the Texas Employment Commission.

The Fair Labor Standards Act applies to employment in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce. Some exemptions from its child-labor provisions include delivering newspapers, acting or performing in entertainment media, farm work outside of school hours, and work for the child's parents other than manufacturing, mining or jobs declared hazardous.

Rogers also reminds employers, parents and youngsters that Texas has its own child-labor law. He said that in cases where a job comes under both the Federal and the State law, the standards set by both laws must be observed and the higher standards prevail if there are differences.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A measure which has been charged before the Congress off and on during the past five years was again passed by the House of Representatives this past week. It is known as H. R. 3.

The legislation is designed to redefine and clarify a basic rule of law regarding States' rights. In simple language, the effect of the bill provides that, in the absence of a Congressional declaration, State laws are not to be voided by the Supreme Court by reason of State laws and Federal laws covering the same subject. Legally, it is known as the doctrine of Preemption.

The measure passed in the House of Representatives last week is practically the same as passed by the House during the last session of the Congress, but which died in the Senate. Should the Senate approve the bill, it will go a long way toward limiting some of the decisions and power of the Supreme Court which have been so distasteful in more recent months and years.

It is with some pride and satisfaction that I worked with Judge Howard Smith of Virginia, the author of the bill, in drafting its provisions.

Our Federal-State Highway Program is definitely in trouble. Unless ways and means are found to finance road building, the program will come to a stop in several States in next year and in 1961.

The president has added that the Congress impose an additional 1 1/2 cent tax per gallon on gasoline, which the Congress is not at all likely to do. The law as now written prohibits financing directly from the Treasury, but that provision has been temporarily set aside in order that advances can be made. Unless money is raised otherwise, an attempt will be made to continue this temporary provision.

When the Highway Bill was originally passed, it was thought then by many of us that the method of financing was on unsound ground. In the first place, the estimates proved to be too low, in addition to inflation increasing the cost. Also, revenues from special excise taxes, levied for self-financing, proved to be ambitiously estimated.

As a matter of fact, the current budget estimates are proven to be incorrect in many respects.

In January of 1958 the Bureau of the Budget estimated that the income for this year would be approximately $74.4 billion. By January 1, 1959, with six months of actual figures to go on, this revenue figure was revised downward by over $6 billion. Now, after another six months, we see actual receipts of about $67 billion. This figure of lower income than was estimated, plus no increase in the gasoline tax and no increase in postage rates, and with an extra half billion dollar increased interest on the public debt, obviously unbalanced the budget this year.

As far as appropriations are concerned, the Congress has thus far appropriated less money than the president's request in every appropriation bill except one, which was exactly the amount recommended.

Model Car Judging Is Now Underway

DETROIT, Mich. — The first steps in distributing $115,000 in cash awards and university scholarships to hundreds of American boys who are competing in the 1959 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition began today in the nation's automobile capital.

Judging teams, composed of General Motors stylists and industrial arts instructors from the Detroit area public schools, are carefully inspecting the miniature cars, state by state. Entries consist of sports cars, convertibles, hardtops, sedans and station wagons and each represents what its youthful designer and builder would like to drive in the future.

Points on which the "dream" cars are scored are divided among scale fidelity, workmanship, painting, originality of design, artistic merit of design and practicability. The highest scoring cars from each geographical area will receive state and regional awards, with the highest scoring regional winners sharing the national scholarship awards. There are 1,038 awards in all. State and regional winners are announced sometime in July. After all the models have been judged. The 40 regional winners come to Detroit, expense from July 28-31 for the annual Guild convention and testing banquet where the national award winners are announced. Eight scholarships, two each the amounts of $5,000, $3,000 and $2,000 are the awards, to be given to the best model car builders in junior (12 through 15 years) and senior (16 through 19 years) age divisions.

A tip from "the toe" —Lou Groza

While Groza is still very much in the football present, he's already well along with his plans for gridiron retirement. And, according to Lou,

"One of the easiest ways I know of to save for retirement is to put part of every pay check into U. S. Savings Bonds."

With a little planning and saving, retirement can be a real reward for your work. And the sooner you get going with these plans, the less you'll need to save each month.

Let's say you're now 45 and start investing $37.50 a month in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds. At 65 you'll have a retirement fund of $12,000. Another man is now 55, but he invests $75 a month in Bonds. At 65 he'll have $10,000. Both of you will have invested the same amount—$9,000; but you, the early starter, will have accumulated 20% more money.

Every day you put off saving is costing you money. So take a tip from the old dependable scorer, Lou Groza, and start scoring where it will count the most—with a regular retirement investment program in U. S. Savings Bonds. Sign up for Payroll Savings where you work. Or invest in Bonds regularly where you bank.

Part of every American's savings belongs in U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

The educated toe of the Cleveland Browns' big tackle has been filling sports pages and record books for the last 10 years. By the end of the 1955-56 season, Groza's strong right foot had scored a total of 764 points, kicked 393 out of 403 points after touchdowns, and booted more field goals (92) than any other grid star in history.

Bees Are Important To Texas Farmers

Bees for pollination of crops are becoming increasingly important to Texas farmers. During the year which ended Aug. 31, 1958, the State Entomologist's Office at College Station granted official permits to 219 beekeepers to relocate 118,351 colonies of bees. The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Progress Report 2089 states that 45,685 colonies of bees in Texas were inspected and 148, or .32 percent were infected with American foulbrood.

The report says that during the 1957-58 season a number of apiaries in Bastrop County were affected by European foulbrood and were treated with a formulation of terramycin (TM-5 and TM-10). After two dustings of this antibiotic many of the affected colonies showed very little or no evidence of the disease. The bees in the colonies under observation stored a good honey crop during this season.

The disease picture of American foulbrood is now rather clear. But much more information is needed concerning European foulbrood and parafoulbrood. European foulbrood appears suddenly and may spread through an apiary in epi-demio proportions, affecting a large amount of young brood. Some of the colonies may die with the disease or it may disappear entirely within a short time.

Also discussed in the report are Nosema disease, parafoulbrood, and paralysis which were found in a few isolated colonies in the state.

The number of commercial beekeepers who raise and sell queen bees and combless packages of bees, are also mentioned, along with the number of beekeepers and colonies of bees inspected in each of 73 counties during 1957-58.

Write the Agricultural Information Office for a copy of the report. Ask for PR-2089.

Vacationing?
plan to "go buy" Cosden

Cosden Motor Oils—10-w-30 or Heavy Duty—reach deep down in your engine and rout out friction before it starts. Match 'em with Cosden Gasolines for the perfect power-team.

For vacationing or 'round-town driving, Cosden Gasoline delivers all the built-in power of your engine. It's a better brand to "go buy" for smoother, livelier engine performance . . . quicker, safer passing . . . and honest mileage economy.

Advanced refining techniques make Cosden a little better . . . and you can prove it. Take a "trip-check" with Cosden Premium Ethyl or Higher Octane Regular. You'll agree, for power, economy, and neighborly service . . . Cosden is a better brand to "go buy".
