Skies to clear up after a soggy week

By JULIA CLARK Staff Writer

Pampa and the Texas Panhandle can look forward to a brighter day today. unlike the early morning fog which caused the death of three cows on the Borger highway Friday

A heavy blanket of fog covered much of the Pampa area Friday morning and was the cause of an accident in which three head of cattle died and a Jeep Wagoneer was "pretty close to totalled.

According to Texas Highway Patrolman Mark Lockridge. the Jeep. driven by James Wallace Forney of Borger, struck and killed the cattle on the Borger Highway about two miles east of Skellytown

About 5:10 a.m. the fog was so thick on that stretch of Texas Highway 152 where it crosses White Deer Creek between Skellytown and Pampa that Forney didn't see the cattle until it was too late. Lockridge said.

Sometime during the night, cattle belonging to Ronald Maul of Pampa, had gotten out of their pasture - which borders along the highway - and had wandered onto the road. According to Bill Arrington, an area rancher, it is not uncommon for cattle to walk down a fence as they graze on the new grass this time of year. He said the grass turns green in the creek beds first, and as the cattle reach through the fence for more grass, the weight of their bodies pushes the fence down. Cattle are unaware of fences in their quest for the green grass on the other side, he said.

Lockeridge said apparently the cattle were huddled together to keep warm, but they chose the wrong place to stop. They were on the bridge crossing White Deer Creek when, Forney, headed east, came upon them

The fog was so thick Forney couldn't see the three animals in time to avoid hitting them, Lockridge said.

Traffic was blocked for about 30 minutes while the officer and others tryed to herd the cattle back into the field.

Then, the "sun came up; the fog burned off; and everybody said, Amen!" said Lockridge.

No one, other than the three dead cows. was reported injured.

Fog was caused by a low pressure system which brought warm moist air up from the Gulf of Mexico. said a National Weather Service spokesman late Saturday. That same low pressure system continued to move across the Kansas -Oklahoma border Saturday producing scattered showers and thundershowers across the Texas Panhandle. Childress received .73 inch of rain and Memphis reported just more than inch of rain Friday night.

As the low pressure system moved eastward, the winds shifted from the south to the north. North - northwesterly winds blasted the Texas panhandle all Saturday. While the average winds at Amarillo airport were only 30 miles per hour, gusts up to 60 miles per hour were clocked across the area

The high in Pampa Saturday was 42 and was expected to dip into the lower 20s Saturday night when the winds subsided to 15 - 20 mph.

The skies over Pampa should brighten today, with a high in the low 40s. The winds will reach 30 mph, but under mostly sunny skies. Pampans should find the weather a pleasant change

Sunday night's low will be in the upper 20s, but officials expect temperatures to continue to climb into the 60s on Monday and skies will remain clear

Worst school crash in seven years

Youth swears never to ride a bus again

BV DEBBYE HALE Associated Press Writer

UNO, Ark. (AP) - "Lady. can you please help us?" asked the frightened teen-ager who pounded on Barbara Kinard's door at dawn. "I've got all of 'em out of the bus I can. I think some are dead.

Miss Kinard, a nurse, telephoned for help and then rushed with a neighbor to the scene of the nation's worst accident during a school outing in seven years. where nine people lay dead or dying in a fallow soybean field

In the aftermath of the school bus crash Friday, which also injured 29 others, students wept, residents circulated petitions to fix a dangerous intersection and a teen-age survivor vowed never to ride a school bus again.

"We started going around that curve. and everybody started shouting. 'Hang on!" said 18-year-old Jimmy Gibson. lying in a Memphis hospital with a broken back The students and their instructors had left Jonesboro in the northeastern part of the state shortly after 5 a.m. bound for a convention of high school vocational students in Little Rock. Many were asleep 45 minutes later when the bus skidded off Arkansas 214 as it curves into state Route 18 in Poinsett County

The bus hurtled into a ditch, went back up on the pavement then down into a second ditch, landing on its roof, officials said. Four students and five teachers, including the driver, were killed in the worst such accident since 1976 when 29 children died in a crash in California

Miss Kinard said she was at home around 5:45 a.m. when the teen-age vouth rushed to her door

'The little fellow was in shock." said Miss Kinard, 32. "He was scared. I told him to come on in. He just kind of went back and sat there and rocked back and forth

She started grabbing blankets drove to the crash site, about 110 miles northeast of Little Rock.

"There was screaming and hollering and crying." Miss Kinard said. "It was just a horrible mess - kids on the ground. some ... walking around. It was just a bloody mess.

Eight members of a National Transportation Safety Board team flew to Jonesboro on Friday to begin investigating the wreck. Residents said accidents on that section of road are common and began circulating a petition to make the curve safer.

Gibson, awaiting surgery for his back injuries, had been studying auto mechanics. "I won't ride another" school bus, he said.

JONESBORO. Ark - Officials with the National Transportation Safety Board (in coveralls) inspect wreckage of Jonesboro School District bus involved in a multiple - fatality accident in Poinsett County Friday morning with a representative of the bus manufacturer.

The NTSB team began studies in Jonesboro Friday to determine the cause of the accident and to determine what cased injuries to the nine killed and nearly 30 injured in the single - vehicle crash. Officials will dismantle and examine the bus, working with a comparable undamaged vehicle. (AP Laserphoto)

New execution date planned 'for condemned Amarillo killer

- AMARILLO, Texas (AP) A condemned killer, who tried to hasten his own death when he grew impatient for the court to set his execution date, will learn Tuesday the day he will be scheduled to die.
- State District Judge George E. Dowlen ordered Charles F. Rumbaugh to appear in his court Tuesday morning to hear the scheduling of his execution date.
- Rumbaugh. 25, tried to force his own death by lunging with a make-shift knife at a U.S. marshal during a mental competency hearing Feb. 24. The marshal shot Rumbaugh in the chest with his service revolver and the prisoner has only recently recovered from his wound.
- Potter County sheriff's deputies will go to the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville on Monday to pick up Rumbaugh, said chief deputy Don Smith. U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson cleared the way
- for scheduling the exectuion when she ruled March 7 that Rumbaugh is mentally capable of waiving further appeals of his death sentence.
- The American Civil Liberties Union and Rumbaugh's parents, who intervened earlier when their son waived further appeals and asked a judge to schedule his execution. are expected to appeal.
- Rumbaugh was convicted of capital murder in the 1975 robbery and shooting of Amarillo jeweler Michael Fiorillo and sentenced to die by injection.

Dowlen originally set an execution date of July 22, 1982 at Rumbaugh's request, but Rumbaugh's parents intervened and the execution was stayed by a federal judge in Houston.

Rumbaugh suffered a single gunshot wound to the chest during the competency hearing last month, after he reached into a coat pocket and brandished a knife-like weapon he fashioned from a piece of metal that he took from a window at Potter County jail.

Authorities said Rumbaugh smuggled the weapon from the jail to the courthouse by attaching it to his body, then transferred it to a coat pocket while waiting in a holding cell before his court appearance.

"It doesn't matter to me what this court decides." Rumbaugh announced to the courtroom after taking the witness stand during the competency hearing. "I have already picked my executioner. I will make them shoot me. I am going to make you kill me now.

Rumbaugh walked from the witness stand toward the federal deputy marshal and stood before him, waving the knife and shouting, "Kill me! Kill me!"

The deputy marshal wounded Rumbaugh with a 38-caliber pistol. He was rushed by the ambulance to Northwest Texas Hospital, where he was admitted in critical condition

He was released from the hospital March 4, and was returned to state prison. Prison doctors removed the bullet from his chest March 18.

Four injured in auto accidents

This weekend wasn't exactly a good one for going out for a drive, although the weather had not actually affected road conditions in the area. But despite the clear roads. Pampa area residents managed to get involved in six traffic accidents

Nine - year old Bradley McLein of Alanreed is going to spend the next three weeks in traction in Coronado Community Hospital. He is counting on his brother and three sisters at home to keep his horse, "Joe" well cared for.

Pat McLein, Bradley's mother, said Bradley was helping his uncle James clean up the ranch (Johnson Ranch, near Alanreed) Saturday afternoon. They were picking up branches of trees. which had broken under the weight of the snow this winter, and were throwing them into a two - ton dump truck. Bradley was running to catch up with and jump into the truck when he was caught by one of the tires and the truck rolled over him, she said, Bradley's leg was broken in the accident, so, his mother said, he'll be doing his school work in bed for the next six weeks. He'll be in the hospital for three and in bed at home for another three, according to Bradley's mother.

Apparently Friday night was no time to be "out and about," either.

According to the hospital and police records, there were five accidents in Pampa in less than 12 hours Friday night, three with injuries.

Ross Edward Neugin, 75, of Stinnett was admitted to the hospital about 5:50 p.m. Friday with injuries to his ribs. He was hurt when his car and a pickup collided in the intersection of Alcock and Wells.

A 14 - year - old Pampa boy was treated for shoulder injuries at the hospital and released following an accident with his motorcycle.

About 2:45 a.m. Saturday, the GMC pickup Darrel Wayne Glenn, 19, of Perryton, was driving hit a utility pole in the 1300 block of Wilks and rolled onto its top. Glenn was treated for slight injuries and released from the hospital.

Clark leaves us a legacy of humor, spirit, courage up and accepted death. He refused.

By GEORGE TIBBITS Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - In choosing a hazardous and painful life in a controversial medical experiment. Barney Clark proved not only that an artificial heart could work, but it could sustain humor, love and courage experiment was not just to demonstrate that the plastic heart could support human life, but to determine what the quality of such a life might be Much was at stake in the heart's first implant in a living human. Fifteen years of research. Professional reputations. An unprecedented chance to expand medical knowledge. Above all, a man's life.

Dr. William C. DeVries, the surgeon who implanted Clark's new heart at the University of Utah Medical Center, said the day after the Dec. 2 surgery that he considered the heart a technical success. But it would be Clark who would have the final say on whether the heart was worthwhile

At a news conference Thursday, the day following Clark's death after 112 days on the mechanical pump, Clark and his wife. Una Loy. were remembered by DeVries and others as 'heroes and winners.

The Clarks, said Dr. Chase Peterson, university vice president for health sciences, were "co-investigators with the research team in every sense of the word." and they share credit for any success.

While the medical team probed the complexities of the heart's effect on the renal, circulatory, pulmonary and other body systems, Clark battled pain, depression and medical setbacks

fire report

The Pampa Fire Department had no calls during the 32 hour period ending at 3 p.m. Saturday

Two places on the Miami School Board of Trustees, the expiring terms of Jimmy Bowers and Terry. Gill, are to be decided in the April 2 election.

By JULIA CLARK

Staff Writer

Gill does not seek re - election after having served for seven years. Jimmy Bowers has filed for re - election. Others who have filed as candidates for the board are Chester Bursell, Dennis W. Anderson and Vernon Cook Absentee voting will continue through March 29.

Dennis W. Anderson, candidate for a place on the Miami School Board, said he would like to see the "best qualified and most experienced teachers we can find," hired for the Miami schools.

He feels two of the ways to get good teachers is to offer good salaries and good housing. He said good housing for the teachers is hard to find in Miami.

He said he doesn't feel the taxes need to be raised to provide the money.

He said he had no quarrell with the way things are going in the Miami schools at present. He will keep an eye on the achievement tests to make sure the educational requirements are up to standard. Because competion is a normal part of being a kid, he feels athletics are an important part of school

Jimmy Bowers, a candidate for re - election to the board, said he does not want to change anything at the school. He wants to maintain the good school as it is. He has a son in second grade and a daughter in kindergarten.

Chester Bursell, candidate, said he has no ax to grind, but feels it is time he took more interest in how the school is run. He said with three children left in school he wants to do his part in seeing to it the children in the area continue to have a good school.

He said he will take a closer look at the way discipline is handled. He said each case is different, but on the whole, spanking may be the easy way out for children in the upper grades. He thinks other punishment may work better.

"I think we have good basic education. Kids need basic how to knowledge in reading, writing and math. If it is possible, I would like to see more courses in vocational education, an on the job training program" in areas such as carpentry and auto mechanics, he said

He feels athletics should be part of the whole development of the individual, but not at the expense of academic achievement. "A certain amount of horse sense has to be used." he said

Vernon Cook, who served a three - year term five years ago, said while he has no specific complaints, there may be

Wynne trial resumes

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Defense attorneys declined to say if former Amarillo police captain L.R. Wynne will testify in his own behalf during his trial on charges he shot an oilman to death at a downtown intersection.

Defense attorneys, who begin their case Monday, said they will show Wynne was temporarily insane when he shot Erle Winston Mathis, 63, five times last Oct. 15 while the oilman waited in his pickup for a traffic light to change

Wynne, 53, was overcome by a fit of passion after discovering his wife and Mathis engaging in sexual intercourse on a country road west of Amarillo, less than an hour before the early afternoon shooting, defense lawyer Travis Shelton said.

However, the lawyer would not say if either Wynne or his wife would take the stand during the trial, which is expected to end Tuesday or Wednesday.

Prosecutors rested their case Friday.

Wynne was captain of the detective division of the Amarillo Police Department until resigning in the early 1970s to operate a private security firm.

education program, "we can't rest." He feels re - evaluation, is important.

"I feel very strongly that all people graduating from our public school system should have a working knowledge of the communications skills and math or they're going to be faced with real difficulties throughout their vocational careers.", he said

He is interested in "an eductional program that will give our students the best possible background for making career choices.

"Students should be exposed to as many career choices as possible, and they should have the skills necessary to be successful in whatever career they choose," Cook said.

The community of Pampa has shown its support and concern for the handicapped children and adults in this area by volunteering to run the Pampa Easter Seal Telethon Pledge Center. The Pledge Center allows Pampa residents" to call in pledges locally.

Mr. Andrews, faculty sponsor, said Key Club members" will be answering the phones at The Pampa News and, reporting the local pledges to the pledge center at Channel 10 n Amarillo during the local segments of the Telethon.

The Easter Seal Telethon will originate in Hollywood, with Pat Boone; 40 minutes of each hour will feature many of America's top entertainers. During the 20 minute local* segments, there will be local profiles, entertainment and information on local services and Pledge Center activity

The Texas Easter Seal Society and its local affiliates comprise a statewide network of supportive and rehabilitative services to the handicapped, their families and the communities in which they live. Last year the Texa: Easter Seal Society provided services to 16,000 Texans.

The total needs of the entire community and meeting thenrequires the cooperation of all resources in the community since no one agency or resource can do this by itself. As a member of the commnity. Easter Seal Societies participat in local community planning as an advocate for the concern 4 and needs of the disabled, in order to assure the availabilit and utilization of comprehensive services.

Using tax - free contributions, the Society carries on it extensive direct - service program. Funds generated locall -* as a result of the Telethon will be used to support thes services.

Police still searching for mystery kidnapper

DALLAS (AP) - The kidnapping of a 3-day-old boy from Parkland Memorial Hospital by a woman masquerading as a nurse remains a mystery, since no ransom demand has been received, according to police and FBI agents.

Officers said Friday they doubt they will ever find the £, 5-ounce infant unless someone provides information about the abductor's identity.

There could be "a thousand different reasons" why Harold Deshawn Patterson was snatched from his mother's arms by a woman wearing a white blouse, white pants, white shoes and a lab coat, said investigators.

"The only hope we have is to tell the public to notify authorities if somebody sees a black woman who had not been pregnant suddenly show up with an infant." said police spokesman Bob Shaw. "That's the only hope we have."

The boy's mother. Gretchen Patterson, 18, told investigators she was feeding her son at 6:15 p.m. Thursday in a fourth-floor maternity ward when a woman dressed as a nurse came into her room and said she needed to take the baby for a checkup.

"She looked very professional," said Cathy Stradling, a roommate who was nursing her infant daughter when the abduction occurred. "She called the lady by her last name." The woman told Ms. Patterson that she would have to hand over her infant son because she had a fever and should not be nursing him, officials said.

Mrs. Stradling said Ms. Patterson questioned the woman, who said she would check Ms. Patterson's chart.

The woman left the room for a brief period, then returned, saying, "Yes. I do need to take your baby. You have a fever." Mrs. Stradling said.

Then the woman walked away with the baby "at a fast pace," said FBI spokesman Joe Hersley.

"The girl across the hall saw her run toward the elevators," said Mrs. Stradling. "But the elevators are so slow, she must have gone down the stairway.' Ms. Patterson became suspicious because the woman wore a blouse unlike those of the nurses, said police investigator James Shivers.

She rushed to a nurses' station to get help. The nurses called security officers who immediately secured the hospital's exits, but did not find the woman.

Ms. Patterson, who is unemployed, believed the abductor had visited her room in street clothes after the baby was born Monday, saying she was looking for another patient, Shivers said

The mother "is upset and acting like a mama ought to act that just lost her baby." he said.

FBI agents suspected a kidnapping after employees could not identify the nurse.

"In a situation like this," said Hersley, "it would very obviously appear to be an abduction."

Officers said they believed the woman may have been a Parkland employee because she apparently was familiar with Miss Patterson's condition. Ms. Patterson and her baby were to have been released Wednesday.

Shivers said police would pore through some 4,000 photographs of present and former Parkland employees to see if any match the description of the kidnapper.

"We'll just follow every avenue we have," said Herley. who added that the FBI entered the case as a "preliminary investigation" in case the chid is taken across state lines.

Police also questioned the baby's father and were convinced he had no knowledge of the abduction. investigators said.

Parkland spokesman Gregory Graze said the abduction was believed to be the first baby-snatching at the hospital in at least 20 years.

Security was tightened at the hospital after a man posing as a doctor examined two patients at the hospital last month and then fled, Graze said.

Since then, all hospital employees have been required to wear badges. Graze said it was unclear whether the abductor was wearing such a badge.

HOUSTON (AP) - The Moral Majority will begin next month checking every city and public school library from coast to coast to determine if a conspiracy is keeping conservative books off the shelves, says Rev. HOUSTON (AP) — A gunman who held up a convenience store Jan. 29 liked the idea so much he made a habit of it, robbing the same clerk at the shop seven more times in the next eight weeks, police say.

Adrian Curt Davis, 18, of the Houston area, remained jailed in lieu of $160,000 bond today. He faces eight counts of aggravated robbery in connection with the holdups, which occurred between Jan. 29 and Wednesday, police said.

The holdups were all committed at night by a man who never wore a mask and threatened the clerk with a silver revolver each time, police said. His take on each robbery was less than $50 because the store limits the amount of cash kept on hand, police said.

The clerk refused to talk about the case Friday night. Two patrol officers set up surveillance on the store Wednesday night and watched the eighth heist before

JUSTIFICATION BY FAITH

"Being therefore justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." (Romans 5:1) Here the apostle Paul refers back to Abraham as the example of one justified by faith. Abraham was justified because he believed God and believed in God. And because he believed in God and in the word of God, he obeyed the commands of God (Hebrews 11:8-10). Abraham was justified by faith when his faith was made perfect through works (James 2:21-26). The works Abraham did were not his own meritorious works, but rather the works which God gave him to do.

No one is justified by his own works. That is, Abraham did not leave Haran and go to Canaan simply because he (Abraham) decided that was what he was going to do. He went to Canaan because God told him to and he believed God.

Thus it is with us today. By the evidence presented in God's word, the Bible, we believe in God and because we believe in God, we do what He tells us to do. WHEN we believe and WHEN we do the works which God gives us to do, THEN we are justified by faith.

For those who seek short-cuts to salvation by following the erroneous doctrine of salvation at the point of faith and by faith only, they need to examine the sample of abraham, one justified by a perfect, obedient, working faith.

Justification by faith brings peace with God. This means that we are at peace with God. Justification means sanctification and sanctification means forgiveness. All of this is realized for us in our obedience to the truth (I Peter 1:13-25).

Mead was wrong, but vocal...

Anthropologist Margaret Mead's influence had stretched far beyond her peers in the scientific community by the time of her death in 1978.

For instance, Mead's thinking - that man's actions and thoughts were basically determined by environment (or "culture") - gave government planners of the Kennedy and Johnson years the "scientific" ammunition necessary to give respectability to even the most wasteful and poorly conceived social programs.

It became unquestioned political wisdom that money could solve such timeless maladies as inadequate housing, ignorance, poor nutrition, unemployment and poverty because all social problems had an environmental root.

In two months, a book by Derek Freeman, professor emeritus of anthropology at the Australian National University, will be published in New York with the startling contention that Mead drew her conclusions from "doctrinal baggage" and "wholesale self deception." The charge stems from a scholarly examination of Mead's famous first book, "Coming of Age in Samoa," which Freeman charges was "fundamentally in error" and contains "preposterously false" conclusions.

Apparently enough advance copies are in print that anthropologists are already in a state of dither over Freeman's findings. Some, particularly the older generation working from the view that man has basically been biologically shaped, are calling it a "masterpiece" and "an extremely important piece of work Ignoring the impact Freeman's work might have on Mead's personal reputation, what should concern everyone as the controversy unfolds is that Mead's famous first book and its important conclusions were accepted without examination or corroboration for such a long period of time (more than five decades). As Freeman notes: "The entire academic establishment and all the encyclopedias and all the textbooks that accepted the conclusions are fundamentally in error. There isn't another example of such wholesale self deception in the history of the behavioral sciences.

Sherwood Washburn, a former chairman of the anthropology department at Cal Berkeley, took the point a step further when he commented in a New York Times story that few anthropologists under the age of 50 will be bothered by the Freeman book because their theories are built on data in addition to Mead's (among them Ruth Benedict, Alred L. Kroeber, Edward Sapir and Franz Boas), but many older scholars will be upset because "her book said what liberals wanted to believe at that time

Broken homes are trouble enough

By JULIA CLARK

Divorce. Child support. Garnishment of wages. All three subjects bring about emotional responses.

Much has been appearing in the news lately about a proposed law in the Texas legislature which would allow garnishment of a person's wages for non - payment of child support

Everyone seems to agree that parents should be responsible for the support of their children, the problem comes when parents cease to agree on basic living arrangements. Because each family situation is different, it is difficult to assess final blame in the instance of child support; however, it seems most people are willing to penalize the person not making the payments.

Let us consider some what ifs:

What if the court set certain visitation rights of the nonlive - in parent?

What if the visiting parent is denied the rights ordered by the court by the live - in parent?

What if the visiting parent exhausts his available funds on lawyers and court fees trying to exercise his right to see the children he loves?

What if the only means left is to deny the former spouse monev.

What if by garnishing the wages of the visiting parent for opportunity to see his children? What about the children? Those children:

-- whose parents are still busy fighting the war they were supposed to have ended with signing of the divorce papers. -- whose minds are being poisoned by the vindictive adults around them

-- whose parents use them as pawns, to exact punishment on the other

In this world populated by selfish, self - centered humans, is there no room for pure. God - like love for the innocents? Is there no way to coerce parents into thinking first of the children and their need to experience the love of both Mom and Dad?

A brief review of history seems to prove that all the best intended laws have no effect on people determined to have their own way

Therefore, this writer concludes:

As long as there are men and women who marry, make children and divorce. there will be parents who will not live up to their court - mandated obligations

- As long as one parent denies visitation rights: the other parent will refuse to pay for children he can't see

No power on earth can change the way some people treat other people

Texas will be better off if the Legislature spends its time and our money on building better roads.

Off you go to El Salvador, Sarge By ART BUCHWALD

"Sergant, we are sending you to El Salvador to advise the government troops there how to fight the left - wing guerrillas who are winning the war.' "Yes. sir."

'Your orders are to train the government forces to search and destroy the guerrilla hideouts, and give the troops moral * support when they are in combat. But under no conditions are you to engage in the fighting yourself."

"I understand, sir. I go in with the troops, but I don't fire my own weapon.

"Except, of course, if you are fired upon." "I got you, sir. What kind of weapons do the guerrillas have?

"Mostly American. They got them from Vietnam or captured them from El Salvador troops, or bought them . from the same troops. One of your jobs will be to see that the government officers don't sell their weapons to the other side.

Wes, sir, Am I supposed to do anything to win the hearts and minds of the Salvadoran people?

"Of course. That's why we're sending you there. One of your missions is to make sure the government troops don't kill too many peasants or burn down too many villages that are suspected to be harboring left - wing fighters.

"How do I do that?" "The same way you did it in Vietnam. You explain to the government soldiers that rape, murder and pillaging will not be tolerated by President Reagan. That should stop them.

"It certainly should. Anything I ought to know about .. human rights?

"We're not sending you down there to train anyone in human rights. The government of El Salvador has just given a clean bill of health on human rights by the American government, so I don't want to see anything in your reports on human rights violations on our side. But if you see any committed by the other side, we want to hear about them pronto

"I understand, sir. How is the morale of the El Salvadoran troops?"

"Excellent, although there have been a number of ." desertions. Your job is to see that the government troops don't go over the hill.

"Can I shoot them?"

"No, but you can authorize one of the officers you're advising to shoot them. But, for God's sakes, don't put anything in writing.

"How do we know if we're winning the war?"

"We're working up a body count system at the Pentagon that will soon go into effect. We'll expect body count reports from you every day.

"It sounds more like Vietnam all the time." "This is not a Vietnam operation, and you're not to refer to it as such. This is a rescue operation to uphold a democratic government in Central America, and to protect a freedom loving people from being taken over by the Communists."

"I gotcha, sir." 'Stop winking. I'm serious. Now you were chosen to be one of 110 American advisers to turn this war around.

"That's not a lot of advisors for a full - scale guerrilla.

"It's only a beginning. Once we get enough of you in there: Congress will be in no position to stop the president from sending in more American troops to support you.

"I hope so. I don't want to get my keister shot off. "Sergeant, I have utmost confidence that you can do the job. And one more thing, don't talk to the press. They'll only write how incompetent and corrupt the El Salvador military officers really are." "Are they?

The Episcopalian approach to Canada's economy

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Good churchmen aren't necessarily sound economists. Economic models designed by churchmen who have a bias against the free enterprise system are likely to lead to lower standard of living by all affected people

These truths come to mind in reading an analysis of Canada's economic situation prepared by the Episcopal Commission For Social Affairs of the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The bishops have submitted an analysis of economic conditions in our good neighbor to the North and also recommended alternative economic strategies for Canada. The "alternative approaches" recommended by the bishops involve a move away from the free enterprise system.

Among other things, the bishops propose creation of new labor - intensive industries (back to the hoe and shovel?), a larger role for labor unions in national economic planning. a downplaying of the profit system. emphasis on "socially useful forms of under - developed regions. Specifically, the bishops favor "increasing community ownership and control of industries where desirable." No mention is made of how owners of collectivized industries would be compensated.

The report is shot through with hospitality to capitalism and to technological advances. It expresses alarm that "we are now preparing to move into the high technology computer age of the 1990s.

While the bishops have a right to be concerned about hard times experienced by their flocks, their recommendation is .

to downgrade free enterprise and increase government and union control over the economy. It is very interesting that the report makes no mention of the Canadian middle class., which is responsible for much of the country's productivity The bishops apparently don't see the middle class having a decisive, constructive role in Canadian society. They would have the government give primacy to make - work jobs . They also refuse to concede that Canada is in trouble because of excesive welfarism and an already hurtful degree of government control over the economy

Just a few facts from the audit for fiscal - year 1982 -Our 209 city employees' salaries and wages have jumped from $1,935,118 to $3,676,568 in the last four years.

Overall averages show that every employee is drawing $17,000 per year.

There are 9,000 water meters in town: the city has 30. maybe. But four of each 14 gallons bought is used by the city. The audit shows that from 1978 to 1982, there were 41 employees whose salaries were raised from $8.000 per year to $15,000 per year - that's a 22 percent raise each year for four years.

Pampa's income from city taxes increased from an estimated $1.017.176 to an actual income of $1.701.914 during fiscal 1982

If you like being shafted, don't vote for a change in our city government

There are flaws

I read your editorial of March 21st with great amusement. It is true that the NEA newspaper fiction project has serious flaws. You have enumerated a few. The points of your argument are correct in principle, and this deserves applause. Unfortunately, they are either naive or false in respect to reality.

First, you state that: "it's not the federal government's business to influence what newspapers publish". Bosh! Henry Kissinger jumped the press through his hoop for years. Government officials set the ground rules for the Washington press, not vice versa. This applies to false information such as press conferences, photo ops, and handouts, as well as the plausible, i.e., leaks. As for Big Brother, you don't have to wait for 1984 - you can panic now.

Regarding the stories themselves, undoubtedly there will be slants. But a welfare mother committing suicide? Come now, Mr. Randles, you can do better. That cliche' is worthy only of a network TV producer. You may be sure that the arts people will select only the newest, most dynamic cliche's, with just a touch of avant - garde incomprehensibility. The special needs of new, previously unknown minorities will be showcased: "Access Ramps for Crazed Albanian Dwarves", or children's stories, like: "Wally!" - the little Democrat from the land of Sky Blue Make Believe, who wants more than anything else to be a real President - now.

You say: "if the plan succeeds, it will set a harmful precedent." Nonsense. The precedent was set long ago. I'm surprised at your ignorance. Commissioned articles are common, if Nixon's tapes are to be believed. As for payment of newspapers to push Federal propoganda, it already exists during election years as political advertising. The blurring of that line has been in progress a number of years. The literary subsidy is penny ante in comparison.

You are right in stating that newspapers print too much fiction. Consider the average editorial page: The gushing of synthetic enthusiasm, the pointing - with - alarm, the substitution of degmatic assertion for original thought, etc... My personal favorite is The Open Letter To The President Editorial. Speaking of which, let's go to the White House now and drop in on that fantasy: "Mr. President, I think you'd better take a look at this ..."

"Hmmmn. Well, I never... My, my, my... I never thought of it in just that way. Edwin, I'm going to veto that bill! Mr.----- is absolutely right. Thank God America still has editors like Joe----!

"Amen, Mr. President!"

Incidentally, does this NEA fiction program have a title yet? If not, how about: "Federal Literary Opportunity Program", or FLOP, for short - Subject to approval by the Federal Union of Bureaucrats and Rubberheads (FUBAR). of course.

Reed said he no longer associates with the protest group. and said he now believes one man can do nothing to change the federal government and its tax laws.

"The only thing that might would be a total economic collapse. That might wake up enough people to get something changed." he said.

Reed, 52, was born in Shamrock. His family traveled all around the western U.S. before settling in Pampa in 1944. His father, R.W. Reed, opened an auto - repair shop, Reed's . Garage, here in 1945 when Don was 15.

A free man

Reed worked part - time in the shop and attended Pampa High School, where he graduated in 1949. After graduation, he worked for Gulf Oil Company as a seismographer conducting oilfield surveys. Reed worked a short time in the fabrication shop at Cabot, before finally starting work at the Celanese Chemical Plant here in 1953.

About 26 years later. in May 1979. Reed was fired from Celanese. with nary a gold or Timex watch to show for it, he said

He believes he got his walking papers from the plant because of his tax protests. Reed said he and 12 others filed a federal class - action suit against the IRS in 1976. Reed said an -exempt status can be filed when a person paid no tax in a previous year and expects to pay none in a current year. He said he signed and filed tax returns during the same period, but refused to answer questions on the form, claiming the -Constitution's Fifth - Amendment right against self incrimination prohibits mandatory disclosure of the inform ation.

The "Fifth - Amendment" tax protest can result in prosecution and conviction in federal court. Reed learned that the hard way, though he said he was prepared to serve time for his convictions.

"I knew what I was fighting when I took on Big Brother. I was always told I'm bullheaded - I guess I am. But I believe a man lives by his principles, or life's not worth living." he

A federal jury in Amarillo convicted Reed in June 1981 on two charges of failure to file income tax returns and on a charge of falsification of W - 4 forms, he said.

Reed was sentenced to one year in the federal penitentiary and two years probation. He served "nine months and four days" in the federal prison at Big Spring and is still on probation.

He said part of the terms of his probation are that he not associate with tax - protest groups, and that he file tax returns when required by law. terms with which he says he complies. THE OW OULD BUILD

He said he took his tax protest to the courts because. "I believed I could get justice in the courts - it isn't there." he said

"In the federal court, you're presumed guilty until proven innocent. In a federal trial, the judge tells the jury. 'I will

Reed said his conviction is on appeal to the Supreme Court. The Pampan said the law creating a federal income tax and the methods used by the IRS to enforce the law are 'ambiguous. unfair and unconstitutional.'

"The so - called tax protesters aren't rebelling against their government. They are demanding officials follow the Constitution. They're rebelling against bureaucrats who have subverted our government. They are patriotic to a fault and believe in our government. That's what they're fighting for." he said.

Reed also said control of local schools, prosecution on civil - rights charges after acquittal on criminal charges for the same offense, money which is not backed by gold or silver and gun - control laws are unconstitutional.

However, he said he does not urge protest and said he believes in obeying the law.

"I want all citizens AND the government to obey the law." he said.

Besides the prison sentence. Reed said he thinks his past tax protest cost him his job at Celanese. But he said the company says he was fired for spoiling a batch of chemicals. "They were told, 'You can be audited every 30 days," he said.

But the biggest blow of all his past troubles, he said, was his "suspension" from the Masons, a group he still calls "the finest organization ever founded by man.

"I'm still a Mason, but I can engage in no Masonic rites. I can't attend a meeting and can't have a Masonic funeral, he said.

"That was the greatest shock of the whole thing," he said about the suspension from the Masons.

Reed said a Mason can be suspended for conviction of a felony or a crime involving moral turpitude. He said his conviction involves a misdemeanor and said the local Pampa lodge upheld his membership in the organization. But he said a Grand Deputy in the organization charged him with several things before deciding on "un - Masonic" activities. He said the Grand Lodge overruled the local lodge's support.

Anthony Blunt, the former Royal art adviser exposed as University, in February, 1959. Blunt died of a heart

LONDON (AP) - Anthony Blunt, Queen Elizabeth II's former art adviser who was unmasked as a spy for the Soviet Union, died today of a heart attack at his London home. He was 75

"He was having breakfast and got up to look up a number in the telephone directory, then dropped dead," said his brother, Wilfred Blunt

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Parliament in November 1979 that Blunt had spied for the Soviet Union during and after World War II while he worked for Britain's counter-espionage service.

Blunt confessed to British authorities in 1964 but was given immunity in exchange for information on three other British spies who fled to the Soviet Union: Kim Philby, Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, the prime minister said.

Maclean died March 6 in Moscow. After Mrs. Thatcher's revelations, Blunt confessed in public that he had spied and was stripped of his knighthood. which had been awarded by the queen for his service to the art world.

Blunt, who was surveyor of the queen's art collection from 1952 until his retirement in 1972, was forced to give up his academic honors as well as resign from the prestigious British Academy.

Blunt said after he was unmasked that he spied for the Soviets during World War II, a matter of "political conscience." now bitterly regretted.

"In the mid-1930s, it seemed to me and many of my contemporaries that the Communist Party and Russia constituted the only firm bulwark against fascism, since the Western democracies were taking an uncertain and compromising attitude towards Germany." he said.

He said he later regretted his "appalling mistake" and grew to abhor the Soviet regime.

Maclean and Burgess, both British diplomats, defected in 1951 and Philby, a key figure in British intelligence, was revealed as the "third man" in the spy ring after his defection in 1963. But rumors persisted that there was also a fourth man in the spy network

Former British Broadcasting Corp. journalist Andrew Boyle published a book entitled "The Climate of Treason" in 1979 which did not name Blunt but dropped enough clues about a fourth man that legislators raised the matter in the House of Commons.

Mrs. Thatcher responded with a written statement on Blunt and saying "there is no doubt that British interests were seriously damaged" by his spying activities.

Heroin traffic on the rise in Britain

LONDON (AP) - British customs officials say the heroin traffic in Britain is increasing rapidly and warn they may confiscate a British Airways jet unless the airline steps up efforts to keep its planes from being used by smuggling rings.

Customs officials seized a record 229 pounds of high-grade heroin in fiscal 1981-82 worth an estimated $29.2 million, and say they believe that is only one-tenth of the amount being smuggled in.

Idled land not far from prediction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says the decision by farmers to take a record 82.3 million acres out of production this year did not exceed projections by nearly so much as many had thought.

When the payment-in-kind program was announced on Jan. 11 a USDA "fact sheet" showed 1983 crop acreages would be cut by about 30 million acres from 1982 under the earlier acreage reduction program and PIK.

The PIK portion of the program, the department said on Jan. 11. was expected to idle about 23 million acres. The regular part of the program would account for nearly seven million acres, according to the fact sheet.

A new supply-and-demand analysis issued on Wednesday. however, noted the 82.3 million acres farmers signed up to take from production this year and added that the actual signup was "up from an earlier estimate of around 52 million.

Ray Waggoner of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said Thursday that the "earlier estimate" of 52 million acres - not 30 million or so - was based on projections in an impact statement circulated shortly after the Jan. 11 announcement.

The impact statement, however, did not mention 52 million acres outright. Instead, it included separate figures which, if someone took the time, added up to about 52 million acres. Waggoner said the figures were no secret and that he had provided them upon request.

But it still was not clear on Tuesday when Agriculture said.

Secretary John R. Block held a news conference on the crop

Block was asked what his signup projections had been.

Well. we from the very beginning have been projecting 23 million acres out of production, and certainly we've exceeded that by a very large margin, more than doubled it actually. And that's from the PIK program itself.'

As it turned out, signup under the regular acreage reduction program - which provides price supports and some cash payments in return for cutting back 20 percent will idle 13.2 million acres

The remaining 69.1 million acres will be taken from production under the PIK options. That means producers of wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton will get surplus commodities as payment for taking an additional 10 to 30 percent of the cropland from production - or their entire base acreage in many cases.

Block also said that "setting land aside is not my cup of tea." even though in this case the huge surpluses and depressed prices demanded stern action. He might have recalled another comment almost two years ago.

The marketplace must signal farmers, not the government. Block told a California audience on June 19,

'That means we aren't going to be providing any encouragement to idle land or divert it from food crops." he

By JOE VanZANDT County Extension Agent

Farmers are deciding which fields will be planted to summer crops now that the PIK sign - up period is over. Making the most efficient use of the acres you grow crops on is vital this year. Proper fertilization is of utmost importance. Soil tests can be a valuable source of information and a profitable investment

A soil test is a chemical laboratory analysis designed to provide an index of the available nutrients in a soil. The soil test report includes levels of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. In addition, suitable methods have been developed for determining levels of the micronutrients zinc, iron and manganese

Even though solid tests can be made for other nutrients. results have limited value where deficiencies have not been detected in research studies.

There are two important requirements for getting valid information from soil tests. First, laboratory methods must be correlated with field response data. Second, a good soil sample is needed.

There are many procedures for testing soils and obtaining numerical values, such as pounds per acre or parts per million. However, unless crop removal and response data are collected to establish whether or not the soil is medium and high in nutrients, expected response results are essentially meaningless. Therefore, a producer should make sure that the laboratory doing his work uses procedures suitable for his soils.

In addition to reliable testing procedures, the soil sample sent to the laboratory must be carefully collected and must be

Two aspects of sampling is emphasized. First, divide the fields into uniform sampling units. Each unit should be uniform with respect to color and mixture of soil as well as past cropping, and fertilization practices. If samples represent large acreages, results will show only general information. As fertilization becomes a regular practice, more attention must be given to obtraining specific information for each field or subdivision and developing fertilization practices accordingly.

The second point of emphasis regarding sampling is the number of spots at which soil is obtained. Collect soil from at least 10 to 15 spots in each field. Soils vary considerably in nutrient content even though they look uniform. Take a slice or core from the plowlayer at each location, put in a clean bucket. mix thouroughly and sent about a pint to the laboratory.

Soil tests can provide valuable information for profitable fertilization practices. More information about soil testing is available from the county Extension office.

trees or what kind of gruit tree would be best for you location. This and much more information about raising and caring for fruit trees is now available in booklets from the Gray County Extension office. Call or come by for your copy THREE WAYS TO SAVE

ENERGY WITH LANDSCAPING

Although it is not possible to contgrol temperature, wind and other weather elements, certain landscape practices can modify the climate in and around home significantly. By placing trees. shrubs, vines and landscape structures properly, the homeowner can reduce the energy required to keep homes and surrounding areas comfortable during winter and summer. If the landscaping is well done, one receives the added benefits of beauty and increased ral estate values. A well - planned landscape is one of the best investments a homeowner can make. TREES

Studies have shown that trees planted on the south and west sides of a house can reduce inside temperatures up to eight degrees. Needless tosay, this can significantly reduce energy use for summer air conditioning or with non - air conditioned homes, make them much more livable during our long summer season. Trees places about twenty feet or more from the house on the south and west sides not only shield out the sun's rays, but also contribute refreshing humidity. For some suggestions or recommended tree species for our area, call or come by the county Extension office.

During late fall and winter our deciduous trees drop their leaves and let the warming rays of sunshine in, making our homes warmer and saving heating energy. WINDBREAKS

Evergreen windbarrier plantings on the north and west sides of the house can cut 10 to 40 percent off winter fuel bills. The location of the windbreaks is ithe key to their effectiveness. Since most cold winter winds come from the north or west, plantings should be place on those sides with an extension on the eastern side if space premits. Experiments have shown that the maximum wind reduction occurs at a distance from four to six times the height of the windbreak so plantings should be established at this distance from the house. Rapid growing species should be chosen which will reach from one to one - and - one - half times the height of the house at maturity.

Based on these recommendations, a 20 - foot tall house would benefit most from a hedge of tall evergreens located 80 - 120 feet from the north side of the house. Single row plantings are effective, but double and tgriple rows are even better.

VINES

Vines can have a tremendous effect in cooling house walls during the summer. For masonry walls such species as Boston Ivy and Virginia Creeper are excellent. Their leaves are born in an orderly shingle pattern on four to six inch petioloes. The leaf blades intercept and absorb the rays of the sun while behind them convection current carries the warm air up and away from the wall.

Decidous vines such as Boston Ivy and Virginia Creeper are most effective on southern and western masonry walls which receive a great deal of direct sun. Evergreen species such as English Ivy are effective on sunless walls where their persistent foliage deflects winter winds and their stems provide an insulating effect.

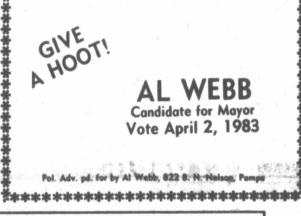

All the vines mentioned are clinging types and are not good for wooden walls since their stems and tendrils hold moisture and can cause wood to deteriorate. The same cooling effect can, however, can be achieved by training twining vines such as wisteria, carolina jessamine, and muscadine grapes on trellises placed near these walls and even overhead structures over terraces. Fast growing vines such as morning glories can be trained to grow on such structures and provide relief from the same season in which things are planted.

Whether planting trees. windbreaks, or vines, living plants can indeed be an energy saving gift from nature. For additional information on how landscaping can reduce energy consumption in your home, ask for a copy of "Landscaping for Energy Conservation

10 Sunday, March 27, 1983 PAMPA NEWS EPA officials admit exposing children to health hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) - In what one congressman called an unforgivable" situation, the Environmental Protection Agency exposed children to increased health risks by not forcing a cleanup of lead in the soil near three Dallas area smelters, two EPA officials have testified.

Frances Phillips. an EPA official in Dallas, said Thursday. "I don't think I could deny" that if the agency had pursued a cleanup as planned in 1981 "we would have reduced the potential exposure of these children" to ingesting the lead.

But she said that regional EPA officials' plans to initiate cleanup procedures were blocked in May of that year by John Hernandez Jr., then deputy EPA administrator and now acting EPA administrator.

"The change in the decision to proceed with corrective measures definitely had an impact on the health of the children." Dr. Norman Dyer, another EPA official from Dallas, told a House subcommittee investigating the situation.

Dick Whittington, regional EPA administrator in Dallas. testified that action was now underway to solve the lead problem. saying that "we may have taken a while to get there. but we are going to get there.

However, Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., subcommittee chairman, responded that "leaving the children at risk for 18 months" while the problem was studied was "one of the most unforgivable examples of how the public health was not protected" by the government.

Attorneys at the hearing said two hundred children living in the area have filed suit against operators of the smelters. alleging health problems from ingesting the lead.

Allyn M. Davis, another regional EPA official, testified that studies in late 1980 showed what regional officials considered to be unacceptably high levels of lead in the soil in parts of West Dallas and East Oak Cliff near the three smelters.

But Mrs. Phillips, deputy regional administrator, said that Hernandez ordered that the relationship between lead levels in blood and in the soil be studied further before the EPA could pursue any cleanup action.

Hernandez did not feel "we should spend any more to move dirt ... until we could identify a specific health problem related to this case." she said.

... He gave me directions and said this is what he wanted us to do and I said, 'yes sir,' "Mrs. Phillips testified.

Mrs. Phillips said Hernandez issued the order despite a commitment from one of the smelting companies involved to begin cleanup operations. The firm, RSR Corp., went ahead with its cleanup anyhow, she said. However, Dyer said that 'the cleanup was very limited.''

Hernandez told the subcommittee last week that the initial tests did not prove a health hazard existed and that he wanted more study to determine whether the lead had accumulated in the bodies of the children in the area.

Davis said that following an extensive study, the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta released a report last month recommending that steps be taken to protect children from lead in the soil within a half mile of the smelters, one of which had closed in 1979.

But the CDC's report still did not establish the relationship between lead in the soil and lead in the children's blood, Dyer said.

"That's 18 months later, and we don't even have the answer," commented Levitas.

Bill McAnalley, a former toxicologist with the EPA in Dallas, charged that the center's report was based on faulty sampling techniques, underestimated the seriousness of the lead contamination problem and "must be a coverup."

Patricia Spears, who lives within 10 blocks of one of the smelters, told the subcommittee that her four children had had constant health problems since birth.

We're deeply concerned about our children's health, about our property and what's going to happen to our community as a whole," Mrs. Spears said.

"... I've had to see my children suffer so," she said.

State seeks injunction to stop leak

DALLAS (AP) - State officials are seeking a permanent injunction and daily fines in an attempt to stop cyanide leaks into a creek from an abandoned silver reclamation plant.

Cyanide leaks into Mills Branch Creek, a tributary of Lake Ray Hubbard, from the plant were documented in early 1982, said Garland health officer John Teel.

The City of Garland sued the property owners last erected a dike around the property by Jan. 10. The Texas Department of Water Resources joined the suit, which is scheduled for trial April 25.

Named as defendants are Don Casey Co. Inc. and property owners Larry Futerfas and Glen Galloway.

battle stations could be the most effective method of, destroying intercontinental missiles. a Rice University

"Instant response is possible since laser beams travel at the speed of light and do not diverge substantially from their designated targets even over a distance of 1,000 miles," Dr. Frank Tittel, professor of electrical engineering and an expert on lasers, said Thursday.

President Reagan pr bly could be developed in less than 20 years.

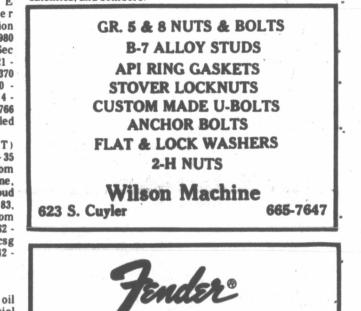

Tittel commended the president for "taking lasers and other high technology from the realm of science fiction and putting them into the forefront of the free world's defense.

"The idea of using intense, highly concentrated lasers for military purposes has intrigued science fiction writers ever since H.G. Wells published his 'War of the Worlds' in 1898," he said.

"In fact, there have been recent discussions in the U.S. Department of Defense regarding the feasibility of using lasers as key elements in an anti-missile defense system that could be based either in space or on Earth," he said.

Tittel said the Soviet Union has been developing high-energy, lasers for several years "with clear military objectives and implications."

Tittel insisted it was "eminently feasible given the rapid progress of U.S. research" to use lasers to damage criticalcomponents of nuclear intercontinental ballistic missiles, satellites, and bombers.

Apostles make basic, far-reaching decision

- EDITOR'S NOTE -This is the third installment of a five-part Easter series about the brilliant, energetic Paul. a contemporary of Jesus. initially a brutal foe. later a dauntless. roving advocate. This part deals with a history-making decision.

The spadework had been hard, but it accomplished wonders. 'Like a skilled master builder I laid a foundation." Paul writes. But now it could be wrecked. In city after city, despite threats, lashing, stoning and illness, he had labored ceaselessly to raise the new banner. lifting hope and hearts. Now it could be struck down. cut off from its roots.

He glanced worriedly about the packed hall in Jerusalem. The 12 apostles of Jesus sat on stone seats along the platform with tabernacle chests of the Torah and scrolls of the prophets on a shelf behind them. They had assembled in emergency council to rule on the revolutionary strategy of the controversial Paul.

As the proceedings began, whispered suspicions and occasionally shouted attacks on him quieted. Asked to explain his unorthodox tactics. Paul stepped quickly to the empty chair beside the reading stand. a man of "slight stature." partly bald. in faded blue-striped robe.

"I am not ashamed of the gospel - it is the power of God for salvation to every one who has faith. to the Jew first and also to the Greek ... For God shows no partiality." That was the burning, critical issue, whether this faith was open to all people, including uncircumcised Gentiles. On that matter hinged the future impact of Jesus in the world.

'Since all have sinned and -fall short of the glory of God. they are justified by his grace. through the redemption which is in Christ Jesus." That insight had delivered Paul from a gnawing dilemma about humanity's errant nature. and his own. He remained phoroughly dedicated to Judaism, considering Jesus - its crowning illumination, but wanted it extended to all God's children.

"Is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles also? Yes, of universal God through the ages, its unflagging monotheism in a mocking sea of polytheistic idolatries.

'He will justify the circumcised on the ground of their faith and the uncircumcised because of their faith. Do we then overthrow the law by this faith? By no means! On the contrary we uphold the law." He repeatedly stressed his own adherence to Judaism's traditions. but didn't want to exclude the people of other customs. It was a fundamental, history-making question and not just a remote, marginal quibble over incidentals as subsequent generations have sometimes viewed it. It was, basic, far-reaching and also explosive.

The core stamp of Judaism since its beginning, the mark of its distinction, was circumcision, the "seal of the covenant" with God to be a "light to the nations." Jesus himself had been circumcised, as were all Jewish boy babies. It was a tangible sign of their commitment to God, of their very identity, the backbone of a people. But now Paul challenged that age-old rampart. "He is not a real Jew who is one outwardly, nor is true circumcision something external or physical." The contentious, migrant Paul. a Greco-Roman Pharisee, expert in Jewish law, variously considered by some a turncoat or by others untrustworthy because of his past. struck at a central nerve of his cherished

But he rationalized it painstakingly in his many writings. "He is a Jew who is one inwardly, and real circumcision is a matter of the heart, spiritual and not thesis. "Gentiles who have

That point, although Mark quit them at Perga. obscured through ensuing centuries of prejudice. has swelled anew in late 20th-century Christianity. That term, "Christian, never appears in Paul's From the swampy coasts writing. It apparently was coined by pagan opponents in ridicule of the "Christ-ers," or in Greek, the "Chrestianoi" or 'Chrestini. The epithet first arose in Antioch, capital of Syria, third largest city of the Roman empire, next to Rome and Alexandria. It was the center of Roman government in the east, a potpourri of idolatry, and the base of Paul's far-traveling excursions. From there, he ranged throughout Asia Minor and the edge of Europe. With the pivotal conflict swirling

Mark's mother, a widow in whose house the apostles hid after the Crucifixion and from whence they later plunged forth to tell of the Resurrection. "He appeared to Cephas (Peter), then to the 12," Paul into the rugged highlands of Pisidia (modern Turkey), Paul and Barnabas taught in numerous cities, stirring such tensions in one of them that Roman officials ordered them whipped with rods and expelled. Paul's unspecified "thorn in the flesh." possibly malaria but supposedly migraine, plagued him.

In Lystra, with its temple to the sky-god Zeus, he inspired an incapacitated man to walk. and onlookers hailed the pair as gods "in the likeness of men" - Paul as Hermes, the taller Barnabas as Zeus.

A procession formed to honor them, but they were aghast. protesting that they were only men. The crowd turned surly and began stoning Paul. He crumpled under the barrage, bloodied and assumed dead. He was dragged outside the gates and dumped. Barnabas and new friends tended him.

Returning to Antioch, they found the work thriving but shaken by complaints of Jerusalem delegations about uncircumcised participants. 'False brethren secretly slipped in to spy out our freedom." Paul writes tartly. "To them we did not yield submission even for a moment The chief apostle Peter, after a vision in which God counseled him that no food or person was "unclean," had accepted and baptized an uncircumcised Gentile, the Roman officer Cornelius. But when Peter visited Antioch. conservative critics belabored him into withdrawing from meals with Gentiles.

"He separated himself. fearing the circumcision Paul writes. "I party.' opposed him to his face. because he stood condemned.

It was a letdown to Paul since in his earlier private visit with Peter and James. they agreed that he and Barnabas should go to the Gentiles. "They gave me and Barnabas the right hand of

The room fell silent. Paul related details of the grateful devotion evoked among Gentiles on his trip Gradually the mood changed and unified. Sensing this, the scrupulous James gazed about. then pronounced the decision.

"Brethren...My judgment is that we should not trouble those of the Gentiles who turn to God, but should write to them to abstain from the pollutions of idols and from Antioch and read it to unchastity and from what is believers there. In the first strangled and from blood. grave internal crisis. the It was a conciliating compromise, a model for future church councils. It insisted that Gentile believers uphold moral standards and observe certain food regulations of Judaism, but on the underlying. dynamite-laden issue, did not require their circumcision to be part of the "commonwealth of Israel."

"You who were once far off have been brought near in the blood of Christ," Paul tells Gentiles. "For he is our peace, who has made us both one, and has broken down the dividing wall of hostility."

The decision liberated the faith beyond any national boundaries to all people. Paul and Barnabas carried the letter of judgment back to might have perished on the ash heaps of history. an isolated sect without historical roots or heritage. But now, though grafted to its mother religion, it had latitude to cross all borders and cover the earth.

"Thanks be to God. who in Christ always leads us to triumph, and through us spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of him everywhere," Paul writes.

Colorful Easter eggs `&#@` &&@@`@`&#@`@`@`@`&@@`@@&&$C

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) - The beauty of brightly colored to eggs and decorated eggs has enchanted many cultures from the ancient Persians and Greeks to Europe's Ukrainians.

But it is the Pennsylvania Germans who are credited with bringing the tradition of the Easter egg to America, according to researchers at a company here that manufactures egg dye. Long before Christianity, eggs were colored, blessed, exchanged and eaten as part of the pagan rites of spring. The egg was considered a symbol of the rebirth of the sun after a long winter's sleep.

With the spread of Christianity, the egg took on new significance. As one of the many foods once forbidden during Lent. eggs were a treat to eat on Easter Day.

The Polish. Slavic and Ukrainian people created elaborate eggs which were included in baskets, taken to church and blessed, and later savored at Easter breakfast.

These traditions had all but died out in Europe by the 1700s. say the researchers for Hinkle Enterprises. The firm was founded in 1893 by Samuel Hinkle, a pharmacist from Pennsylvania Dutch country who had developed vibrant egg colors that he distributed at Eastertime to local townspeople. When a five and dime chain became a customer, Hinkle's hobby turned into a business which celebrates its 90th anniversary this year.

It was the German settlers in America, better known as the Pennsylvania Dutch, who revived the glory of the Easter egg. researchers report. These deeply religious people cherished their traditions and among their contributions to American folklore and practices are Easter egg decorating. egg rolls and hunts, egg trees, and even the Easter Bunny.

Early coloring was a messy and time - consuming process. Natural dyes were made by boiling onion skins to achieve yellow colors, alder catkins and hickory for brown, madder root for red and nuts, roots and berries for various hues.

Other methods were to wrap eggs in bright calico, boiling them so the colors were transferred or pasting pieces of cloth

Still more complicated was pysanky, which involved the use of wax and dyes to create the most intricate of Easter eggs. The technique originated with the Ukrainians, the name stemming from the verb "pysaty," meaning "to write.

By the start of the 20th century, however, Easter egg decorating was becoming a widespread American tradition. thanks to Pennsylvania Dutch influence and the development of new and simple egg dye treatments.

Today. egg decorating has become a highly sophisticated craft with societies and national exhibits that feature beautiful eggs created by talented designers.

Pysanky eggs continue to be the most popular, and designers have developed a simplified way of making them producing a pysanky - type egg in less than 30 minutes rather than the days required for the authentic technique

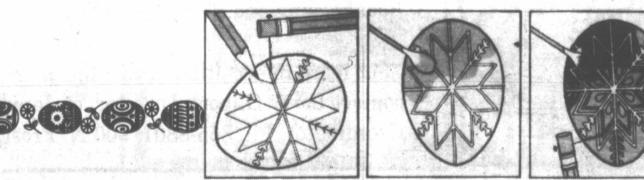

Materials needed for the pseudo - pysanky craft include: hard - boiled eggs at room temperature, paint - on egg dye, cotton swabs and fine - tipped paint brush, beeswax or paraffin. stylus (which can be made by sticking a pin through a pencil eraser), slotted spoon with wooden or plastic handle and cloth or paper towels.

-To draw initial design on egg. heat stylus tip on stove burner, then stick stylus into beeswax or paraffin. Apply heated wax to egg. The wax will cool almost immediately and will adhere to egg.

-After wax on part of design you want to remain white is set apply the first color using cotton swabs or paint brush. Before using second color, apply wax over part of eggs you want to remain first color. Then apply the second color. Layer darker colors over lighter shades. Now if you were to remove wax, you would have a design in white and two colors. but the number of colors that can be applied is not limited.

-To remove wax, heat egg slowly and carefully over stove burner using slotted spoon. Test every few seconds to see if wax is soft enough to wipe off with cloth or paper towel.

DEAR ABBY: As a captain in our local police department, I have witnessed countless tragedies due to drugrelated crimes, suicides, etc.

You ran an extraordinary column entitled "Listen to the Judge" back in July 1972. That column was not only a public service, it might have saved a few young lives. I hope you will run it again. If you do, I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

CAPT. STANLEY J. JANUS, LACKAWANNA POLICE DEPT. LACKAWANNA, N.Y.

DEAR CAPTAIN JANUS: I agree. It's worth a rerun, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Recently, a/17-year-old Florida boy pleaded guilty to possessing hallucinogenic drugs. He also had been charged with violence toward a Miami Beach police officer.

Judge Alfonso Sepe sentenced the youth to one year in column to one letter, but I agree, this is worth it. Here it is:

Judge Sepe spoke directly to the youth and said, "Do you know who is going to serve that year? Not you; your mother and father will serve that year. "That is what's wrong. They get sentenced. They get sentenced for a lifetime. "You serve a year. Your body is in the stockade for a year, but their souls are tormented for a lifetime. Why? Because you are a selfish, spoiled boy, that's why.

"There is no punishment in the world that I could inflict upon you that could in any way compensate for what you are doing to your mother and father. I have not spent 5 cents raising you. I didn't know you from Adam. But your mother and father have put their lives, their hearts, their sweat, their money and everything else they have into bringing you up. And now they have to sit in this courtroom and listen to a total stranger who had nothing to do with your upbringing scold you and put you in jail.

This first week of spring has been much like the first week of a bad haircut. Don't worry, it'll get better, Except for the travel film title, "Himalayas Odyssey," Rotarians made March 17 as Irish as Paddy's pig. Those wearing at least a touch of green - the majority - were in luck at the travel film showing. Neighbors pinched the others.

Emcee Brian Hanson, who has slides and knowledge of the more than 60 countries he has visited. presented all Rotarians whose names began with "Mc." plus George "MC!!!" Scott -too Irish to be omitted. Heard the evening was fun plus educational, too.

At another spot on the same evening. Dr. Tom Cannon of Canyon impressed parents of TAG (talented and gifted) students with his speech on the psychology of dealing with the gifted student. Some members of the TAG program used their recently acquired knowledge of calligraphy to make name tags for the PHS Career Clinic.

Consultants repeated that Pampa's Career Clinic heads the list of all career clinics. Special recognition must go to Colleen Hamilton (always calm, pleasant and organized) from Altrusa Club: Jerry Carlson, Rotary: Floyd Sackett, Chamber of Commerce - sponsoring organizations - and Geraldine Rampy. Pampa High School.

Compliments on the students' behavior flowed like a river. We say. "Why not? They're the cream of the crop!

Twice a year Dr. Bob Lyle and several other Texas dentists participate in a dental missionary program deep in Mexico. During the week - long stay in the crudest of living conditions. they provide dental care to the people of an impoverished village. Hmmmm - If I were a dentist, would I be willing to do that?

A little bit from the Big D:

Drs. Diane and Fred Simmons attended an optometrists convention in Dallas last week. Add Shannon and Blake for the formula of a happy family ... Phil Zeni made the trek to Dallas a few days ago ... John Uland, thenew parks director for Pampa, will soon move his family to Pampa from Dallas. Welcome John and family!

All dads are proud of their daughters, but John Pontious is extra proud of his Becky. She was away last week on a tennis team meet. Elaine Townsend is walking on air over the birth of a grandchild - the first boy baby born in the family in 43 years!

Roy and Paula Webb are catching their breath after opening a new restaurant in Pampa. Betty Walker, daughter of Mrs. L. H. Norman, husband Dick, daughter and grandson, now of Austin had loads of fun renewing acquaintances last week.

It was another one of those table - hopping evenings. Gaylene Skaggs and her three children. all achievers - Chris. studying to be an ag teacher: Bobbie, former pianist for the Lions Club and Randy, stock show winner - made a sweet foursome. Warner Phillips ate out a few evenings while Ella was recovering from surgery in the hospital.

Another lovely family group is Larry and Mattie Norton and their two boys and two girls. Mattie's beautiful black hair contrasted dramatically with her hot pink dress.

Peggy Palmitier was hurrying to get her groceries bought so she could get back to her copper enameling. Pam and Marilyn McClure were scurrying about, too. Christ hite of the beautiful dancing black eyes and courteous ways, son of Ramona and Bill, can travel almost as fast as the speed of sound on his crutches. Ah. youth!

Congratulations to Ann and Bill Lytton; he's recently retired from Halliburton, who celebrated their 40th anniversary!

Joining the Lyttons for dinner out were Kathy and the Rev. Charles Polson. Betty and Loyd Neel. Ruth. Bruce and Anna Riehart.

People turned out en masse to take in the Health Care Express at the mall last week. The Cancer, Heart, Kidney, Diabetic Associations plus the Lions Club and hospital deserve special credit

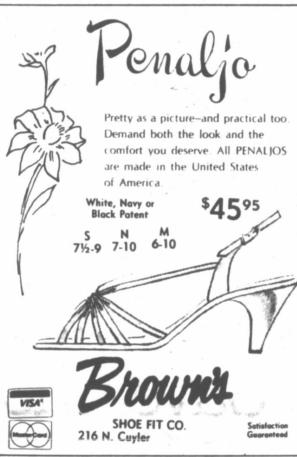

An interesting tidbit required some snooping and tailgating to garner. At a popular eating place a designer's original sweatshirt decorated with handpainted leaves and butterflies took my eye. The name painted below was Joy Daniel. Name No. 1! She modestly admitted the shirt was her own creation.

It took a lot of walking and careful listening to sniff out the rest. Later at a shopping center, there she was with her distinguished - looking husband and all American athletic star - type teenage son. A sweet young lady screeched. "Dane!!!" while other girls sneaked wistful glances. Name No. 2!

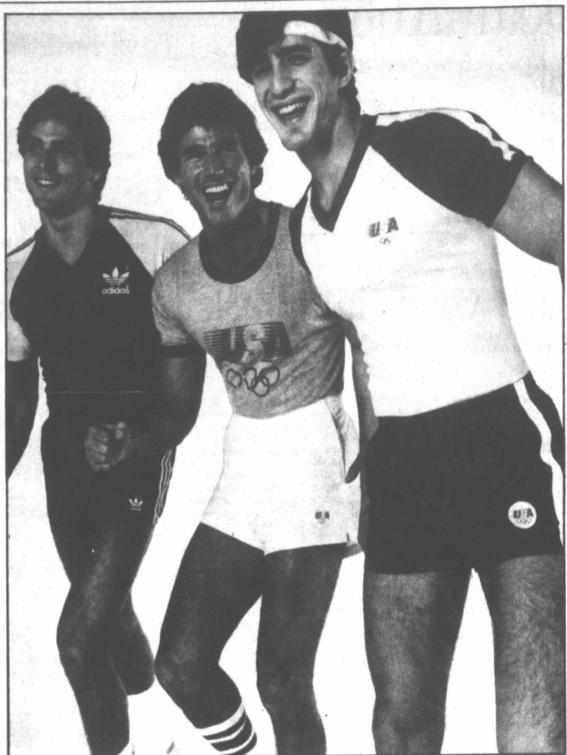

And finally the third: the Rev. Hugh Daniel, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Quanah. The Daniels were visiting Pampa on their return from a track meet in Wheeler.

The Chinese firm that purchased rigs from Ingersoll - Rand recently sent several men to Pampa to learn operation of the drilling rigs. Wonder what they thought of Texas barbeque. southern fried chicken and hamburgers...

Saw Dorothy (Mrs. Joe) Miller, Sarah and Penny home from college. Dorothy Juenger is up and about, feeling much improved after a hospital stay. That pleases Ed! See you next week. KATIE

22 Sunday, March 27, 1983 PAMPA NEWS Pork stars in spicy burritos

These handy Mexican - style sandwiches make popular meal or snack.

New lemon roll, Easter-ready

Recently a reader wrote me that her family was devastated because she had lost a favorite recipe of theirs - one for a Lemon Roll I had used around this time last year. She said it deserved a second go-around because some cooks might have missed it

Here, then, is the Lemon Roll recipe - with only one emendation. The cake part is less hefty than its predecessor - an attribute many eaters will applaud.

NEW LEMON ROLL Lemon Filling. see recipe 1-3rd cup all-purpose flour 2 tablespoons cornstarch 3 large eggs

1-3rd cup sugar

Spare your budget with pork burritos

If you economy meals need some spicing up, look south to Mexico for inspiration. Mexican cooks have a flair for combining a variety of inexpensive ingredients in the most flavorful and appetizing ways.

Most popular in this country are Mexican "antojitos" — snacks such as tacos, tostados and burritos, all made with tortillas and spicy fillings. It is believed that these handy foods were created long ago in Mexico as a light meal at home or in the fields or as snacks in the marketplace or at fiestas. Today they are enjoyed on both sides of the border for lunch or supper and as between - meal snacks and party snacks.

For an "antojito" sure to please family and friends alike, try your hand at making Pork Burritos, Mexican - style sandwiches. You'll find them as fun to make as they are delicious to eat. And because they are so economical, you can make them again and again without upsetting the budget. These burritos feature a filling of ground pork with refried beans encased in crispy fried tortillas. The mixture is conveniently seasoned with taco seasoning mix.

Burritos are just one example of the versatility of ground pork which like all pork cuts, in in good supply and attractively priced. It is also popular because of the many ways it can be used such as in patties, meat loaves, casseroles, pizza toppings and spaghetti sauces

1 small onion, chopped Easy to make and luscious. 2 tablespoons instant Rum coffee 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar

> rum 1½ quarts vanilla ice cream

1 can (8¼ oz.) refried beans 1 pkg. (1¼ oz.) taco seasoning mix 1 can (4 oz.) chopped green chilies 1/2 t. salt 1/2 c. shredded Cheddar cheese

10 eight - inch flour tortillas Cooking oil

Brown ground pork and onion in large frying pan. Pour off drippings. Drain tomatoes, reserving liquid, and coursely chop. Add tomatoes, refried beans, taco seasoning mix, green chilies, salt and tomato liquid to pork, stirring to combine. Cook slowly 15 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in cheese

Lightly brush both sides of each tortilla with cooking oil; place in two stacks on a damp towel. Wrap in towel; place on baking sheet in moderate oven (375 degrees) 8 to 10 minutes. Remove tortilla from towel; place 1/4 cup meat mixture in center of tortilla, fold opposite sides over filling, then fold remaining sides over top to enclose filling. (Secure with round wooden pick, if necessary.) Repeat to make 10 burritos. Fry burritos in deep hot oil (365 degrees) 4 to 5 minutes or until hot and golden brown. (See NOTE.) 5 servings of two burritos each. To show off the burritos in style, serve them on lettuce leaves with tomato wedges and avocado slices. If they are to be the main attraction at lunch or supper, you might also like to serve a fresh fruit salad or shimmering gelatin mold.

NOTE: if a soft crust is desired, place on baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

March 27, 1983 PAMPA NEWS Director refuses curtain call Miniseries master

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) - After the long standing ovation for the Broadway revival of "On Your Toes," the director, an old, old pro, is coaxed on stage for a curtain call. His eyes twinkle.

When the management asked me to take a curtain call a few weeks ago I refused." George Abbott says. "Time and time again I refused and as I stand here before you tonight I still refuse

George Francis Abbott. seven decades in theater. director, producer, actor, writer and show-doctor. Back again with a hit. a musical comedy he co-authored in 1936 with two fairly talented pals - Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. The revival is his 120th show.

A few of his other biggies:

Three Men on a Horse. 'Pal Joey.'' "The Pajama "Damn Yankees." Game." "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and "Fiorello." for which he won a Pulitzer Prize in 1960.

And "Brother Rat" (which he took and made a hit after 31 managements turned it down). "Coquette." "Wonderful Town." "Room Service." "Call Me Madam" and the original "On Your Toes. That and his longevity leads folks to call him a Broadway legend, albeit one who more resembles a bank vice president than a theatrical giant whose productions are typified by their brisk pace, economy. directness and honesty.

He shrugs when asked about the famed "Abbott touch." the effect of speed achieved by contrast of characters, movement and tone of voice. 'Well. that's just timing." he says. "It hasn't anything to do with speed. When I see some of my farces done by stock companies or small theaters. I'm always shocked by the way they always play them - very broadly, bang. bang. bang. and lots of mugging "And they're not funny at all. Because they were designed to play so that they're real people in trouble. not mannequins."

At 95. the most productive all-around man in Broadway history is way past any charge of spry. He moves cautiously. But he still talks briskly, always to the point, with little waste wordage and a profound dislike of pretense

His style is best summed up by the tale of the time an actor versed in the psychological murk of the Actors Studio asked him, What's my motivation?' "Your job." Abbott explained. Broadway has been his job — and love — since 1913. when he first appeared there as an actor in "The Misleading Lady." He acted until 1926, when he co-authored "The Fall Guy."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) -Back home in Australia, it may be close to the time when they cut down the tall poppy

That is an Australian expression meaning, roughly, to cut somebody down to size who has gotten a little too big for his britches. In this case, the somebody who has those delusions of grandeur could be the entire Australian film industry.

At least that's what producer Geoff Burrowes thinks. Burrowes made the current release "The Man from Snowy River," which stars young Tom Burlinson

Private Parties

Kirk Douglas. "The Man from Snowy River" is Australia's biggest box-office film ever, even surpass-ing the "Star Wars" box-office grosses on that continent. It is also doing very well here. So well, in fact, that 20th Century-Fox has decided to pull it back and give it a hefty professional push and then re-release it. They smell blockbuster.

But Burrowes thinks Australia's film industry, riding high around the world on the strength of "Gallipoli," "My Brilliant Career," "The Road Warrior" and others, is riding for a fall.

to turn it into a miniseries for ABC.

"I heard about it and I went after it, the same as I did four years ago with 'Shogun.' says Chamberlain. "I thought it would be sensational television drama. The story covers four generations.

"Several actors were being considered for it and there was the same intense competition. I wasn't directly involved. It was the sort of juggling that goes on between studios and networks and agents. It's something you have no control over. Then it finally got narrowed down to me, thank goodness, because I wanted to do it."

It's the third miniseries role for Chamberlain, who was the Scottish trader down, it was finally decided Alexander McKeag in NBC's

"Shorofsky is two things," said Hague, who grew his professorial white beard when he was cast in the hit movie that inspired the TV series. "He's a dedicated artist in the true sense of the word. He's serious about his work. He's maniacally serious. as I am

"But he has a passion not to be pompous because pomposity defeats sincerity. Hague says.

Hague admits there are 'enormous similarities' between himself and Shorofsky. Producer-writer Bill Blinn frequently stands near him and picks up his conversation and drops it into the scripts.

"He found out I play table tennis and so Shorofsky plays table tennis," Hague said. "And he found out I don't drive a car, so there was an episode in which they tried to teach Shorofsky how to drive.

Hague said that in real life he doesn't teach music but gives instruction in the theater, particularly on how to get a play onto Broadway. When he completes filming "Fame" for the season, he and his wife. Renee Orin, will put on a one-night performance of their "Hague and Hague" at the Westwood Playhouse. He described it as humorous autobiographical sketches and songs that describe how he escaped from Hitler's Germany before World War II and came to the United States. Hague believes it was a performance of "Hague and Hague" in New York that landed him a part in the "Fame" movie. Hague has a new musical. "Flim Flam." that is Broadway bound. It's based on four O. Henry short stories about "two dedicated crooks.

His first Broadway show was "Plain and Fancy" in 1955 and he won a Tony award for his music for "Redhead."

Investors... In Top O' Texas Youth

Officials of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show express their thanks to all firms, clubs, and individuals who supported this years show and sale—A SPECIAL THANK YOU goes to all investors from our neighboring towns and communities.

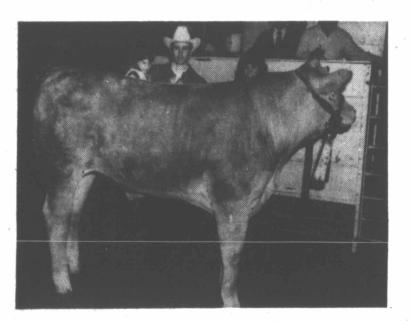

A 1208 Lb. calf was named grand Champion of the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show. The calf is shown above with its exhibitor Jean Leven of the Carson County 4-H and was purchased for $1500 above floor price by the Judy Oil Company of Miami who is rep-resented by Mrs. Judy Cook.
