French Quiz By Solons Put Off Until Tuesday

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, April 5—UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Monday that Communist agents are "coming awfully close" to aggression in Indo-China which might call for retaliation against the Chinese mainland.

French Push Back Commie 'Folly' Attack

HANOI, Indo-China, April 5—UP—Communist rebels attacked the northern defenses of Dien Bien Phu Monday and then retreated under heavy French fire, leaving more than 1,000 dead behind them, most of them young recruits.

French ranks of paratroopers joined the fighting for the first time since they floated down to reinforce the French bastion over the weekend.

Military sources said Vo may have thrown his recruits against Dien Bien Phu's "fighting tools" just to prove that his forces had not spent themselves in their disastrous, suicidal attacks of the past week.

Communist casualties for the six-day assault went up to 9,500 with 4,300 of them dead. Since the first battle of the siege which began last March 13, the French estimated 22,000 of Vo's 40,000-man army had been killed or wounded.

Hundreds of rebel bodies stung the air on the afternoon of Sunday, and the French high command ordered the withdrawal of the French high command to postpone an attempt to evacuate Dien Bien Phu's wounded defenders.

For 10 days the wounded have been piling up in underground infirmaries because no plane or helicopter has been able to land on the shell-torn airstrip.

Military surgeons operate night and day, but often patients have to wait many hours before reaching the operating table. They usually are given special drugs to ease their pain.

Even though their ground forces had been kicked back, Red artillery continued to make the airstrip unusable.

Gen. Henri Navarre, supreme commander in Indo-China, said a secret unit after the close of the weekly concert of the National Broadcasting Company Symphony Orchestra which he had directed for 17 years.

H-Victims Fare Worse

TOKYO, April 5—UP—Radioactive elements are lodged in the bones, livers and kidneys of 23 Japanese fishermen exposed to the Bikini hydrogen bomb tests and their conditions are expected to become worse, their doctor said Monday.

Dr. Masanori Nakazumi, top radiation specialist at Tokyo University, added that the only known cure is dangerous since it destroys body-building calcium.

Nakazumi said, however, that blood transfusions and the use of antigens might help offset the effects of the drug used to remove radiation particles from body organs.

'Worst Platter Of The Year' Record Firm Presses A 'Jewel'

NEW YORK, April 5—UP—Monday marks the national debut of one of the worst jokes ever to revolve at 33 1/3 revolutions per minute.

The chief culprit is a fellow named George Marek who is the director of artists and repertoire for RCA-Victor recordings. Marek is the man behind a recording called "A Florence Foster Jenkins Recital."

"It's the worst record of the year, no make that 10 years," Marek said modestly.

DEATH IN THE LIVING ROOM—Eight persons asleep in this house at Baton Rouge, La., escaped death when this stolen Cessna 140 crashed into the living room between the bedrooms, but failed to burn. Student pilot Edwin White, Jr., 19, of Mansfield, La., died in the crash, and passenger Robert M. Heard, 18, son of Louisiana State University's athletic director T. P. Heard, was seriously injured. Police said the flight was unauthorized, and that the ship had been reported stolen by its owner, Joe Hair. (NEA Telephone)

Roosevelt Loses Mitchell Backing

WASHINGTON, April 5—UP—A key Democratic leader in Congress expressed surprise Monday that National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has denied the party's support to James Roosevelt and Rep. Robert Condon (D-Calif.).

He said he can't recall another instance in recent years when the national committee has intervened in local elections the way Mitchell plunged into the California congressional race.

But he and other Democratic leaders noted the delicate situation and declined formal comment that they could get all the facts. An intra-party argument over the wisdom of the action seemed almost certain.

Denies Campaign Funds Mitchell, it was disclosed Sunday night formally denied any committee funds for James Roosevelt's campaign for Congress in California and suggested he drop out of the race because of the national divorce case in which he was involved.

In a lengthy letter to California Committee Chairman Paul Ziffren, Mitchell also refused national party backing to Condon because of unresolved charges that Condon is a "security risk."

Roosevelt fired back that there is "nothing new" in the things cited by Mitchell, that he is "still campaigning" and has no intention of withdrawing.

Accused of Purge Condon issued a statement here shortly before midnight accusing Mitchell of a "cowardly" attempt to "purge" him and predicting he will be re-elected in spite of it.

McCarthy Squabble Still Minus Counsel

WASHINGTON, April 5—UP—The Senate investigating subcommittee Monday postponed until Tuesday a showdown on whether Samuel P. Sears should serve as counsel for the McCarthy - Army hearings despite pro - McCarthy statements he made in 1952.

Temporary Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) met Monday with Sen. John L. McClellan (Ark.), senior subcommittee Democrat, and announced the meeting was put off until (8:30 a.m. est) Tuesday.

Sears, a Boston attorney, has been appointed special counsel by the Army to handle its case in the Senate investigation of the McCarthy - Army dispute.

Welch told reporters that he was a "personal and professional friend" of Samuel P. Sears, also a Boston attorney, who will handle the case for the Senate investigating subcommittee conducting the inquiry.

Mundt said the meeting was postponed at the request of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), who is visiting his daughter in Tennessee and could not return in time for a session Monday.

Sears, a Boston attorney, arrived here Sunday night to confer with the group. An aide said he is confident Sears can be completely impartial in spite of what he may have said in the past about Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

The subcommittee named Sears as its special counsel for the investigation Friday after he had said he never took a public stand on McCarthy. Later Boston newspaper files showed he publicly praised the Wisconsin Republican and tried to raise funds for his re-election in 1952.

Columnist Drew Pearson said in a dispatch published Monday that the Army is preparing affidavits one said to be from a Boston rabbi—challenging Sears' impartiality. There was no immediate confirmation of the report.

Mundt said the subcommittee would not keep Sears if the Army raised any objection to him. Mundt said the search for a counsel, Mundt said, was not unusual in finding a man whose views were selected must be acceptable to the Army.

Mundt conceded in a television interview Sunday night (NBC "Meet the Press") that "nobody on the subcommittee knew he had made these statements." And McClellan (Ark.) declared it was "unfortunate" Sears failed to mention them.

McClellan said in a television interview, however, that he has no doubt about Sears' professional qualifications and that the pro-McCarthy remarks "do not necessarily disqualify him."

NY Port Operations Resumed

NEW YORK, April 5—UP—The nation's largest port hopes to resume normal operations Monday for the first time in a month.

A full force of more than 20,000 longshoremen were scheduled to report for work on police-guarded piers for the first time since the old International Longshoremen's Association called a strike over bargaining rights March 5.

Some 5,000 members of both the IILA and its bitter rival, the AFL-IILA, worked on the docks Sunday as the employment tempo picked up along the waterfront. Shipping companies reported scores of diverted ships had been re-routed to dock in New York since the longest and costliest strike in the port's history was called off Friday.

Though both unions pledged peace, a heavy contingent of police and investigators from the National Labor Relations Board continued to patrol the waterfront, at least until disputes are ironed out over which members of which unions get jobs on the piers.

Health Officers Assure Public Vaccine Safe

WASHINGTON, April 5—UP—The U.S. Public Health Service Monday assured the nation that the new Salk polio vaccine to be used on a million school children this spring is undergoing the "most exact" scientific testing to make sure it is safe.

A spokesman issued the statement after commentator Walter Winchell said the new vaccine "is claimed to be a cure but may be a killer" because the Public Health Service found seven of 10 test batches contained live rather than dead polio virus.

The Public Health Service said there was nothing unusual in finding some test batches positive and that "technical difficulties" were to be expected in switching from laboratory to commercial production of a vaccine. But "any loss found positive will of course not be released for clinical trial," it said.

But "any loss found positive will of course not be released for clinical trial," it said.

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the new vaccine, said in Pittsburgh there is no possibility the live virus could be contained in any inoculations.

Massive safety tests in three separate laboratories guarantee that live virus will be discovered and recorded—that is the purpose of the test," he said.

And Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, asserted that "any product that contains live polio virus is not the vaccine developed by Salk and to be tested by the national foundation."

Industrial Week Enters Home Stretch

The observance of Texas Industrial Week, which ends Wednesday, swung into the home stretch here today.

Another of the daily programs over Radio Station KFDN was to be presented, but no other events were planned for the day.

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were scheduled to hear a talk by Clifford Whitney, personnel director for Celanese corporation, at their luncheon meeting Tuesday night. His subject was to have been "What Industry Expects of the Community."

Foreign Aid Cuts Sought By Lawmakers

WASHINGTON, April 5—UP—Congressmen made it plain they were looking for cuts in foreign aid as the House Foreign Affairs committee opened hearings Monday on the administration's $3,510,000,000 request.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was scheduled as the first witness to defend the administration's program.

Rep. John M. Vorys, (R-Ohio), acting committee chairman, said the doubts there will be any "great big cuts" even though he plans to seek some "reductions" himself.

The House so far has shaved less than 1 per cent off President Eisenhower's $45,570,000,000 "necessity" budget and some congressmen hoped to make a big slash in foreign aid.

But the administration request is the smallest in years. Mr. Eisenhower asked for $5,474,732,500 last year and received $4,531,507,000. The most likely target for cuts—the economic aid request—amounts to only $875 million.

Panhandle Bypassed By Rain

Heavy, black thunderclouds covered much of Texas Monday, and brought a forecast of rain for the eastern portion of the state.

But, ironically, bone-dry West Texas, in the throes of drought, was bypassed by the forecast of thundershowers.

Forecasters said the rain was being caused by moisture rising off the Gulf of Mexico and predicted the shower activity would move into North Central Texas Tuesday.

Temperatures were expected to remain mild and generally in the 70s and 80s. The mercury failed to drop below freezing at any point in Texas Sunday night.

Lowest temperature recorded Sunday night was 41 at Dalhart, Highest, 72 at Brownsville, Others were Salt Flat, 47, Childress and El Paso 57, Midland 62, Lubbock 65, Mineral Wells 66, Texarkana and Fort Worth 67, Wichita Falls, Waco, Beaumont, Austin and Del Rio 68, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio 69, Laredo 70, Victoria and Corpus Christi 71.

Juin Resigns NATO Post

PARIS, April 5—UP—Marshal Alphonse Juin, stripped of all his French defense posts last week, resigned Monday as NATO commander of all central European land, sea and air forces. He said he would join Gen. Charles De Gaulle in an all-out fight against the European army plan.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault promptly called NATO Secretary - General Lord Ismay and asked him to convene an immediate meeting of the 14-nation NATO council to act on Juin's resignation and appoint a replacement.

Juin was stripped of all his French defense posts when he ignored an order of Premier Joseph Laniel to appear before him and explain a speech in which Juin publicly denounced the European army plan. The Army plan would place 500,000 rearmen Germans in the uniform of a common European defense force.

Juin "declared war" on the controversial defense scheme, which is the backbone of a American plan for defending Europe, in a surprise visit to Laniel's office Monday.

Laniel was kicked Sunday by an angry extremist among a mob who used the firing of Juin as an excuse for a demonstration at the Arch of Triumph, where the premier and Defense Minister René Pleven were taking part in ceremonies honoring the dead of the Indo - Chinese war.

Not since former Premier Leon Blum was attacked by extremists in 1936 had a high ranking French politician suffered such an indignity.

Laniel asked Minister of Interior Leon Martinou-Duplat to account for the laxness of 800 members of his police force on duty at the ceremony, which had been scheduled in honor of the dead in Indo - China.

Martinou-Duplat later told newsmen that neither Laniel nor Pleven had been hurt.

Evenness and news photographers contradicted the minister. They said the mob slapped Pleven and pulled his hair. Some of them tried to overturn Laniel's automobile but were beaten back by police.

Other foreign developments: Oslo, Norway — Crown Princess Martha, 33, died from a liver ailment. Her condition worsened Sunday and the royal family was at her bedside when she died.

Always shy when it came to personal publicity, the aged "Mascio" maestro kept his retirement a secret until after the close of the weekly concert of the National Broadcasting Company Symphony Orchestra which he had directed for 17 years.

As the orchestra finished the last notes of the prelude to Act I of Richard Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," the slender conductor stepped from the podium without turning to the audience.

He dropped his baton and faltered, unsure a member of the orchestra leaned forward, picked it up and handed it to him. Then Toscanini walked through the orchestra into the wings. He didn't look back.

Behind him, the applause of the audience rose and was sustained. The orchestra and millions of radio listeners across the nation waited for the maestro's return. But he never came.

Finally, many minutes later, the applause began to die. Some of those down front wept as they sensed the finality of Toscanini's departure.

Wheat Crop At Critical Point

The wheat situation in Gray county has reached a critical stage, according to officials of agriculture agencies here.

The next week or ten days probably will reveal whether farmers of the area will produce a good crop of wheat, they said today.

County Agent Ralph Thomas was very pessimistic about prospect, stating, "If we don't get a rain within the next week there just won't be any wheat."

"The said the warm weather that is prevailing now has a tendency to draw the moisture from the ground and that brown mites are doing a great amount of damage in various sections of the county," Jim Strawn, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, shared Thomas' opinion.

However, he said it is surprising how well the wheat has stood up in spite of adverse conditions.

"He agreed with Thomas that the warm weather is forcing the growth of the wheat, adding this has a tendency to cut down the yield.

"The next ten days will be the critical stage for wheat in this county," he said. "If we could get a good rain during that period we will have a good wheat crop. Al-very pessimistic about prospect, o, if it should rain, it would rid the fields of the mites."

Marek recalls that the crowd laughed so hard, Madame Jenkins thought they were cheering her.

"When she finished she had all the carnations collected and did the number all over again. She got so enthusiastic at one point, that she threw the basket," Marek said.

But perhaps the most famous story concerning Madame Jenkins centered around the time she decided to sing a selection from Wagner. She hired a young man as her bierholder. He was supposed to stand on stage and listen to the gentle trilling of a bird offstage. The bird was Madame Jenkins. However, at the point where the bird was supposed to sing, a radiator in the hall went haywire and began screeching. I didn't stop searching until an engineer went down to the boiler room and turned a water valve.

The records show that the crowd applauded so hard, Madame Jenkins took 10 curtain calls.

Frost Construction Company, Hydro, Okla., which has the contract for the bridge itself, is still being held up by the delivery of steel for the job. Frost was slated to get going March 20 but was unable to do so because of the lack of steel.

Cooper and Woodruff, Amarillo, will be set for the asphalt about April 15, engineers said. Cooper is working the 8.75 miles of roadway leading up to the Canadian River bridge.

Mrs. Jack Foster Receives Beta Sigma Phi, Pampa's Gratitude At Annual Tea

The traditional bouquet of yellow roses, a symbol of light for the international Beta Sigma Phi society, was bestowed upon the club's choice for 1954 Woman of the Year, Mrs. Jack Foster, by 1953 Woman of the Year, Mrs. E. H. Hicks at the annual recognition tea yesterday afternoon in the City Club Rooms. Mrs. Hicks, who was attired in a formal gown of two shades of cornflower blue chiffon, is a personal friend of this year's outstanding woman.

She told the audience that since they were well acquainted with the achievements of Mrs. Foster as a Pampa, she would tell about her previous accomplishments. "The verse ascribed to her at the time of her birth by her doctor and minister," she said, "has proved to be most appropriate. 'She reaches out her hand to the poor. Yes, she stretches it out to needy.' She told about her as an outstanding student in her home at St. Louis and at Missouri University, where she graduated with high honors and about her exceptional talent as a pianist and soloist. Mrs. Foster came to Pampa in 1938 as a bride, has since lived in El Paso, New York, New Orleans, where the Fosters' 13-year-old daughter Sue was born, South America and Overton, Texas. In each of these homes Mrs. Foster made a real contribution to the community as a wife, mother and citizen.

Mrs. Foster received the big bouquet of honor with gracious thanks and paid tribute to her husband and daughter; Mrs. Gerie F. Foster, her husband's mother; and Mrs. Ada W. Brown, her mother, who were in attendance. Mrs. Roy Johnson played soft music at the organ during the serving which was done by Beta Sigma Phi members in formal attire. Photographs of past Women of the Year were used in the centerpiece of yellow roses and an ivory cutwork cloth. Yellow tapers rose from yellow candelabras in tall silver candlesticks.

Dr. Douglas E. Carver gave the invocation and benediction. Mrs. Kay Fancher gave three vocal selections, "With a Song in My Heart," "My Secret Love," and "Blue Moon." Beta Sigma Phi president, Miss Elsa Plants, welcomed guests and introduced past Women of the Year, all of whom were present but one. Mrs. Carl J. Wright, who sent a card from her home in Ft. Collins, Colo.

RUTH MILLET

Remember the reader who recently wrote to complain about her husband's fondness for calling waitresses "Honey?"

Here's a letter from a wife whose husband does the same thing — only she approves of it:

"I read your answer to the wife who objected to her husband's honoring the waitress. The objecting wife may well compare her cheerful husband with the man who snarls at the waitress instead of honoring her, and she can be glad and not embarrassed. 'I was once engaged to a man who expected serious and expert service with no monkey business. He even felt a waitress should have noticed he was left-handed and therefore have placed the coffee to his left. He seldom said anything derogatory to the waitress, giving her only a dark look, while I got the side comments. Sometimes we left in a huff, to my deep embarrassment. 'In contrast my husband may call a strange waitress 'Honey.' I like it. Perhaps that is because I feel more emotionally secure myself to the knowledge that my husband can't help liking people and showing it.'"

Well, there are two entirely different attitudes toward the same situation. One wife is embarrassed by her husband's being chummy with waitresses, and the other wife is glad she is married to the kind of good-natured extrovert who kids the waitresses. Sometimes whether or not a situation is a "problem" is all in one's point of view. If you can't change a situation, always see if you can't change your point of view.

Veal Birds With Spaghetti Is A Favorite Greenwich Village Dish

By GAYNOR MARSDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
In New York's Greenwich Village you'd find many authentic Italian restaurants. We dined in one south of Washington Square and found veal rolls filled with cottage cheese and mushrooms, simmered in tomato sauce, all served on spaghetti.

Don't cook your spaghetti too much — that's what our Italian friends advise. Veal Birds on Spaghetti (Makes 6 servings) One and one-half pounds veal shoulder, cut in thin slices, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1/2 cup chopped canned mushrooms, 1 large clove garlic, 1/4 cup olive or safflower oil, 1/4 cup chopped onions, 1 1/2 pound can tomatoes, 1 1/2 teaspoon oregano, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 dash sage, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces spaghetti.

a bowl combine cottage cheese and mushrooms; place some of cottage cheese mixture on each veal slice. Roll each piece, jelly-roll fashion, and tie securely with heavy thread. Rub a large skillet with 1/2 clove garlic; mince the remaining 1/2 clove. Heat olive or safflower oil until browned on all sides. Remove veal rolls. Add onions and remaining garlic and cook until onions are tender; add tomatoes, tomato paste, oregano, sage and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt. Mix well and bring to a boil over medium heat. Cover and cook over low heat about 50 minutes; remove threads from veal birds. About 10 minutes before sauce is done, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook until tender. Drain in colander. Arrange cooked spaghetti on heated serving dish and top with veal birds and sauce.

There's A New Story In Floors

This Spring, the whole house, from the basement rumpus room to the guest bedroom in the attic — with the entire living area in between — has found a fresh and functional fashion in hard surface floors. Easy upkeep materials from the kitchen and the nursery, like linoleum, vinyl and cork, have appeared in sophisticated new colorings and patterns that make handsome floors for modern or traditional settings. Many of these come in square tile shapes, making them easy to install yourself, although yard goods and complex tile arrangements are still best left to professionals.

The creative possibilities of the designs are unlimited and can be adapted to elegant or informal tastes. Bold stripes, oversize checkerboard squares, or random arrangements can be used to give small rooms an open look, set apart the dining area from the living space, or concentrate decorative interest.

DESIGNED FOR THE WHOLE HOUSE—Master Linoleum combines a warm textured look with a smooth easy care surface. Colorful pattern goes all the way through so wear spots won't show.

Since each kind of flooring material is designed to perform certain jobs well, a wise selection depends as much upon the location of the floor to be covered and the kind of wear it will receive, as upon decorative appeal or price.

The latest linoleums provide a restful backdrop of quiet pattern that suits every kind of room. Texture, this year's fashion keynote, appears in a new linoleum that combines a warm, three-dimensional look with a smooth easy care surface. A practical feature is the pattern that goes all the way through to the backing so that heavy traffic spots in kitchens and entrances always match the rest of the floor.

Mellow natural color and texture interest make cork tiles effective with modern woods. Comfortable underfoot, they create a sound-absorbent base for conversation and conversation or a handsome wall as a room focal point.

Bright shades, sturdy wear, and maintenance ease, are offered by vinyl, newest comer to the flooring family. A perfect choice for kitchens because it never stains with grease, acids or alkalis, it's non-porous, soil-shedding surface is a homemaking help everywhere. Vinyl tiles can be found in dignified marbles, interesting rope-twist and crystal designs. New beige and brown colorings, often accented with white or pumpkin, make these a good starting point for fashionable wood-toned room schemes.

THIS TEXAS LADY LOST 41 POUNDS

Mrs. Tom Carson, Route 2, Box 226, Anna, Texas, wrote us as follows: "I want to tell you how much Barcostrate has helped me. I weighed 192 pounds when I commenced to take Barcostrate. I was tired and short of breath. I had read how Barcostrate had helped others, so I bought a bottle of my druggist's. I could tell the difference after taking the first bottle. ## Silly Seaway

Taconite, a magic word in the steel industry, is this country's assurance of always having its own iron ore supply. Why spend money on a St. Lawrence waterway, at a time when we're trying to balance the budget and not raise the debt ceiling, to help develop Canada's ore when we have an inexhaustible supply in our own back yard, which as yet is relatively untouched — enough for a thousand years? It is a matter of record that, so far, better than $500 million has been invested in the development of the taconite ore fields and that an additional $500 million or more will be invested in the very near future. This huge investment, incidentally, is PRIVATE CAPITAL, and not government funds. If private companies spend money on this scale you can bet your boots that there are billions of tons of ore available. The investment in taconite is already more than twice as large as that in Canadian ore, and a "waterway" is not involved.

If we are so distrustful of Canada that we cannot allow her to build the waterway alone, when she is anxious to do so, certainly it would not be a good policy to depend on her for ore in time of emergency.

Certainly it would benefit the Mid-west more to develop its own ores than to have a piece of waterway that ends in Toledo.

We do not, however, subscribe to the propaganda that builds up our ore problems far beyond credence. According to Republic Steel Corporation's Chief Metallurgist Earle C. Smith, speaking before the Cleveland Society of Security Analysts, the American steel industry could operate 500 years on domestic ores, ore lying within 3,000 feet of the surface, of a quality superior to those commonly used in England and most European countries.

Remember when it is said that we need the waterway for defense, it is simply meant that six steel companies that have invested in Labrador ore, want the waterway to bring in their own particular ore from Canada, at a better competitive advantage. Defense, indeed! They have said they will bring in the ore whether the waterway is built or not — and certainly if Canada builds the waterway it will be there for their use.

To put the Labrador ore in proper perspective, it is planned to produce 10 million tons annually by 1957 or 1958, as compared with the some 120 million tons we now use annually.

The answer would thus plainly seem to be, not Canadian ore via the St. Lawrence iceway, but taconite for the steel furnaces of America.

Nuclear Power

The Atomic Energy Commission has announced that it is negotiating an agreement for the construction and operation of the nation's first full-scale central station nuclear power plant. Two phases of the matter are of exceptional public interest.

First, the agreement is being made with a taxpaying, business-managed power company. Its proposal, the AEC stated, was the most economical from the standpoint of the government — which means, of course, from the standpoint of the taxpayers. The company will furnish the site and build and run the plant at no cost to the government. AEC Chairman Strauss estimated that the company's proposal would save the Treasury $30,000,000 over a five year period.

Second, AEC wisely warned the country not to anticipate that the atom will soon be the biggest factor in electric power production. Its release said: "It is not expected that this first plant will produce electric power at costs competitive with power from conventional fuels. The project has been undertaken in order to gain more design and technological experience than could be obtained otherwise."

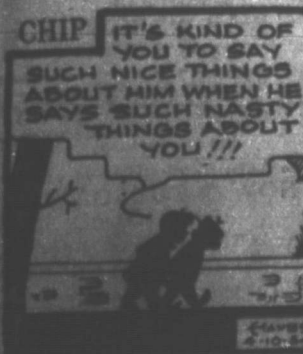

In other words, commercial power production from nuclear sources probably lies far ahead. But, meanwhile, the financial and scientific resources of private enterprise will be used to solve them. This is something that all of us should approve without reservation. For that is the way to obtain the greatest progress at the smallest cost in both time and money.

Counter Sales

It would be hard to exaggerate the importance of retailing in the nation's economic life.

In the last year for which figures are available, for instance, distribution of food alone accounted for the employment of over 1,000,000 people, who received close to $2,200,000,000 in wages. The figures would be substantially higher now. And non-food retailing also makes comparable contributions to our total employment and payrolls.

It has been accurately said that the amount of trade that is done across store counters determines whether time shall be good or bad in this country.

A Real Statesman in Congress

If you want a little encouragement in the belief that there are still statesmen in Congress, get yesterday's paper and read the first part of Congressman Ralph W. Gwinn's speech before the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons last October at their Chicago Session.

Here is the remainder of his speech:

Limitation of Government

"Since the government can have no rights except those delegated to it by individuals, it must, in the very nature of things, be limited in its rightful, natural power and function. 'It certainly can have no higher or greater right to use coercion or force against another person than the individual himself has. So the proposition is clear; that if the individual is limited in the use of coercion and force, the government can have, must have, the same limitations — that is, a limitation on its use of force to defensive acts — to the protection of life, property.

"This was our concept of government until very recently. Strangely enough, we have continued as a people to limit our municipal, county and state governments to this natural Constitutional defensive function for the protection of all. What's more, we have continued to limit, by and large, their power to tax and spend to about 2½ per cent of the value of our real property. A few cases have leaved on income to a very limited extent. So that, after the Council or the Legislatures, or Supervisors of the counties, have spent all they can collect for the legitimate, protective services of government, like the Police, Courts, Streets, Sanitation, etc., they go home. They can't go Socialist or Communist for the very good reason that they are automatically stopped by the pulling of the old purse strings.

"If they weren't stopped by such limitation and had unlimited power to tax and spend, what do you suppose the City Council of Chicago or of New York would do? There would be infiltration of Communists in our local governments. To Washington, for that's the only place where they can thrive, on the illegal, immoral use of power.

Limitation of Government

"And so, in the Federal government, we're breeding Communists faster than McCarthy and Jenner and the Un-American Activities Committee can drive them out. Of course, if we operate a communist or socialist economy, it MUST be operated to some extent by Communists. If we build houses for half rent at public expense, exempt from Municipal taxes, how do you expect to keep the idea of Communism from spreading? And, what's more, how do you expect to keep Communism from breeding in the very place where Communists are supposed to live? If you approve of taking a man's house to accommodate two tenants for a single rent, how can you object to the government's taking your medical skill under compulsion to treat two patients for the price of one?

"Fourth — So, the result of the violation of the first three propositions — that the immoral taking by political force of private property or personal talents for the benefit and favor of special groups — breeds evil favoritism, special privileges, factionalism, disorder, and a general breakdown of law and order itself.

Group Power

"Indeed, the general scramble between the smaller organizations, bent on getting THEIR fair share of what the others produce, inevitably results in the stronger, more powerful groups taking the law into their own hands. A single organized group, as we have seen in certain types of racketeer labor organizations, becomes the law, themselves. The Teamster's Union, for example, is now organizing on a national basis to stop all workers in their line from working unless they pay 'tribute' to the union boss.

"The owner of a restaurant may have to pay $100 in initiation fee and $5.00 a month, dues for all the waitresses in his place, as the price of the life of his business. A certain local in Kansas City is alleged to have more waitresses in the Teamster's Union than they have teamsters. We bow our heads in utter shame at the breakdown of law and order everywhere! — on occasion — and in some places continuously.

"They can, by action by State Legislatures, prohibit the federal government from going into business in competition with private citizens.

"They can limit the amount of taxes which the Federal government can take and spend for its LIMITED and legitimate civilian function, the same as we limit what we shall spend on our local police.

State Sovereignty

"When three-fourths of the states ratify such Amendments, they become a part of the Constitution. No Governors or President can veto them. Thus, the states will assert their own sovereignty once more. A self-governing free people will be released with all the variety of energies, inventive productive capacities of 160-million people.

"And thus we may hope, with our Forefathers, to chain the politicians, as Jefferson said, to the limitations of the Constitution. In this way we can restore the protection of our lives and property, as the sole function of government for another 150 years."

more than Pericles and getting elected.

"So after elections degenerate into 'auctions,' as ours have, all history shows no leader can reverse the trend, repeal and stop the whole business. Indeed Congress will not stop it, for the reason that a majority of Congress are being elected by making the same promises — one or more of them at least — that Pericles and Cleon made and their counterparts in our own country have made.

One Or Two Party System

"So long as we continue to have a Congress with unlimited powers to tax and spend and use coercion on some citizens in favor of others, we shall continue deeper and deeper into the mire of our own American variety of socialism. In fact, we shall soon have but one party — for the two party system in Socialism or Communism makes no sense whatever.

"For how can you frame the Socialist questions for a vote today, such as: — How many houses do YOU want, at public expense, at half rent, exempt from municipal taxation? How much rent control, price control, will satisfy YOU? How many subsidies for the votes of THIS state, and THAT state? How many grants for electric power and dams? How many gifts and loans, at home and abroad? How much Federal aid to education will a million organized school teachers be satisfied with? How much Socialized Medicine, Hospitalization, Old Age Security? How much for rubber plants, barge lines and what not? The answer is, of course, 'we want as many as we can get.' And so the vote must go to the highest bidder.

"Constitutional Amendments — so, we must take another course, the same as the Founding Fathers took about 1765. Actually, we are in better position now because we can hold a Convention, which the Constitution provides, to correct these evils. Buyers and sellers, producers and consumers, management and labor — ALL Americans who have some experience with being gradually liquidated or enslaved by government taking the proceeds of their labor, can go before the State Legislatures, and INSIST on the submission of proposed Constitutional Amendments redefining the true, natural, legal, moral function of government.

"They can, by action by State Legislatures, prohibit the federal government from going into business in competition with private citizens.

"They can limit the amount of taxes which the Federal government can take and spend for its LIMITED and legitimate civilian function, the same as we limit what we shall spend on our local police.

State Sovereignty

"When three-fourths of the states ratify such Amendments, they become a part of the Constitution. No Governors or President can veto them. Thus, the states will assert their own sovereignty once more. A self-governing free people will be released with all the variety of energies, inventive productive capacities of 160-million people.

Friendly Washington 'Climate' Give Businessmen Assurance

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — An intangible factor in today's relatively stable economic conditions is the confidence which they admit rather ruefully, American leaders of business and industry have in the Eisenhower administration. Not in 20 years have there been such accord, understanding and co-operation among the political, banking and industrial communities.

There is no trace of the panic, confusion and suspicion which prevailed in the winter of 1929-30, or in the even darker days of 1932-33. Then the nation's leaders lost their heads and dropped their problems on the doorstep of the White House and Capitol Hill. Consequently the people placed their confidence in the "brains trust" and their political associates.

Leading bankers, manufacturers and retailers have remarked on the healthier spirit and outlook at President Eisenhower's periodical "stag" dinners, which is his method of keeping in touch with representative figures on the national scene. They have promised continued co-operation in conferences with such old friends as Secretary George M. Humphrey, Charles E. Wilson and Postmaster-General Arthur E. Summerfield.

BUSINESSMEN CONSIDER — ATE OF IKE — In a sense, as new firms, people in the lower brackets are buying more common stocks than ever before.

As the President's "stag" guests frequently note, it is a "most peculiar recession."

Down South... Price Supports Will Determine Whether People Want Liberty

By THURMAN SENSING

Southern States Industrial Council Nashville, Tennessee

During the Second World War, George Walden, of Ithaca, Stokely, in Hampshire, England, was ordered by an agricultural committee to plough up his five acres of land. He refused to do so, saying no additional production could be achieved in that way.

The agricultural committee ordered him off his land. He refused. He barricaded himself in his cottage and prepared to defend himself. Tear gas was used against him. He fired on the police. He was killed.

That was in war time. Excuses might be found — though we doubt it. Here was an Englishman defending his castle — the traditional right of all Englishmen, high or low.

Then socialists came into power in Britain at the end of the war. They made permanent by law the autocratic power assumed by the government during the emergency of war. They passed the Agricultural Act of 1947. This act provided the penalty of dispossession if the owner of the land did not comply with the controls set up to govern agriculture.

The Agricultural Act of 1947 is still in effect in Great Britain, even though the Conservatives are back in power. It is hard to unscramble the egg. It is hard to get over the dope habit. But there is a fight going on over there to do away with the act. Those making the fight at it is time rights of property were restored; that in these rights reside the basis of all civilization.

But, say the authorities whose responsibility it is to administer the act, if the farmers are to have the benefits of guarantees and assured markets they must farm their land to accord with authorities' ideas of what is good husbandry.

This little story about George Walden is just one more incident in the age-old struggle between the state and the individual. It carries within it a great lesson for all those who believe in the cause of freedom.

The main point of the lesson, of course, is that the argument of those who administer the Agricultural Act of 1947 in Great Britain is unassailable — that if farmers are to receive benefits from the government, then they must farm their land as the government directs. It is still quite true that he who pays the piper has the privilege of calling the tune!

Traditionally, the farmers of the country — of any country — are the most down-to-earth (no pun intended), realistic, and self-reliant of all the people. They have always, as a class, been in the forefront of those who oppose governmental oppression.

But in recent years, the farmers, like all other groups, have been seduced by governmental aid. They have traded their birthright of individual action for a mess of government price supports. And this is not only true in other lands, it is true in our own land.

Still, it is to be believed that the farmers in this country now have a realization of slavery to which this procedure has been leading. It is to be believed that the farmers as a whole are again ready to take the lead in forcing the government to control their own land — it is to be believed that the farmers still have faith in them-

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NOONTIME MEANDERS... You faintly hear the alarm clock that wakes your working helpmeet at 5:15 in the morning and through a deep haze of sleep you mutter: "See you in town later," and fall back into a black wel of slumber from which you don't awaken until 10 o'clock... You get into New York at exactly noon, a noontime bathed in warm gold from a sun that pours down straight and true... You park the car and wander lazily down Broadway for three blocks, then give it up and go back to the parking lot... You get in your car and whisk across 55th Street to the West Side Highway and get onto it, headed south... You pass the Liberty rocking gently in its berthing and, just one pier beyond it, the great, gleaming United States lies, its black hull spotted and its white super-structure shining like a wedding cake... You come to a place where the highway turns a corner, down below 23rd Street, and you glance down at pickers and languidly walking in front of a pier entrance... There are no police in sight and the longshoremen on strike don't seem belligerent.

You leave the Highway at the Battery and worm your way through narrow, old streets, their sides flanked by brick buildings dating back almost to the Dutch... You get to Broadway and turn north, driving at peace as far as Chambers Street where you turn east again, shoot through the tunnel under the gigantic Municipal Building and go over 11th to Chinatown, a strange, freshly-swept, sun-flooded Chinatown that doesn't look at all the way it does at night... Fat Chineseurchins play in the streets and dart to the sidewalks as you drive through Midtown and, presently come out on the Bowery... Barber colleges, cheap saloons, windows filled with pawned hardware like old chisels, broken-ended scissors and similar detritus of metal... A man is hanging a suit out on a pole over his store... It bears a cardboard shirtfront splashed with a gaudy red crayon announcement: "Take me out of this for $9.95..." It is flapping in the breeze as you drive on and watch it in your rear-vision mirror... You cut across to South Street and drive along the waterfront and the fish markets, now empty and forlorn... They do business at 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning... This is the middle of the night for the historic Fulton Fish Market... You roll up the East River Drive to 23rd Street, watching the freighters and the trucks come together in some incomprehensible commerce... You turn west again at 23rd Street until you come to Sixth Avenue, and you turn again and follow it west into the flower markets... Here the sidewalks are piled high with flowers and ferns and greenery for the hundreds of little florists who ply their trade in Manhattan... Jonquils in tubs, tulips in wooden buckets, frames of crocuses in dark, damp earth... Roses and carnations and dozens of other blooms make pools of color on the wet sidewalks... You come to Eighth Avenue and turn north again and follow it to Columbus Circle, deciding to make a circuit of Central Park. You turn in at the Circle, out across to the East Side and start up, but in the 90's you have huff enough... It is not yet green enough to be interesting nor populated enough to make comment... Here and there a man can be seen sprawled on the still yellowed grass of winter, but mostly people are walking... On a bench in the direct sun you see a man asleep... He has a portable typewriter case chained to his wrist on the left and on the right two dog chains are wound around his wrist... The chains lead down to four small, stunted but gleaming dachshunds, toy size, who like their master are "deep asleep in the sun..." Their fur looks like bright, brown silk... On Fifth Avenue you turn downtown and go back to the parking lot on 53rd Street... You go over to CBS and meet your wife and have a late lunch with her... Then she starts for home and you start for work... Your feet lazy and indolent... You work until 5:30, then go to Connie Hilton's party... You meet your publisher there and talk about a new book... You tell him that you'll come... to see him when the weather gets worse.

Nixon says we should all get behind Ike. And maybe we should. Long enough for a quick look anyway. If we got behind him, maybe we could see WHO keeps pushing him toward the United Nations and World Government. And AWAY from the stupor of self-government. Sometimes you can see a lot more when you get behind a fellow than he'll ever let you see from the front.

initiative, selling it at from 50 to 60 cents a pound. Benson intends to try this experiment in about 10 cities of from 15,000 to 30,000 population.

The results in these advance sales are described as "sensational," showing the customers have not lost their taste for butter if it is priced within their reach. Although losing from 15 to 20 cents on each pound, sales of other goods reached almost "Christmas rush" proportions.

If the public reacts similarly to Benson's bargains, including cheese and fluid milk, he may dispose of his 8 billion pounds of surplus. Lower prices, even though Uncle Sam suffers a heavy loss, may be the only practical economic and political answer to the administration's farm problem.

Firestoners Offer You Greater Safety And Comfort

More and more motorists are protecting themselves, their families, friends and property by equipping their automobiles with Firestone Supreme tires. Al Osko, manager of the Firestone Store, 117 S. Cuyler, 4-5191, declared.

The reason for the tires' popularity is they offer the best protection against those big tire hazards: blowouts, skids and skids.

Look at the address of the Firestone Supreme tires, Osko urged:

A safety diaphragm that in effect is an emergency tire to hold a large volume of air in case of a blowout.

A safety valve closes instantly in case of a blowout.

Tension-dried, dipped cord body to protect against blowouts.

Puncture sealant. Soft pliable rubber seals punctures instantly.

Premium quality tread—Wider, flatter, deeper, built-in skid strikers and tread boosters take a firm grip on the road.

Those features, up to greater driving safety, Osko explained. The stronger cord bonds the resistance to impact, like those caused by hitting sharp objects in the road.

Resistance of Supreme tires is 800 pounds per square inch greater than that of regular passenger tires.

The safety diaphragm is mounted inside the tire. It also is built of strong, gum-dipped cord. Actually it is an emergency tire with its own beads, and acts as a reserve air chamber in case of a blowout.

Osko explained the safety valve, a patented feature, acts faster than anyone can think. In the event of a blowout it closes instantly and traps two-thirds of the air in the inner chamber. Thus, it prevents the Supreme tire from collapsing on the rim like ordinary tires. The Firestone Supreme tire drops only an inch and a half, down to the inner emergency tire. In that way it makes any blowout harmless and enables the driver to bring his car to a safe, slow stop.

This is how the Firestone Supreme tire seals punctures, Osko declared:

1. The inner layer of soft, tacky, puncture-sealing rubber provides protection against flats.
2. When a nail punctures the tire, the soft, tacky rubber clings to the insure no loss of air.
3. When removing the nail the Firestone Supreme tread design soft, tacky rubber is drawn into the nail hole resealing the hole to insure no loss of air.

Editor Gives Approval Of New Chrysler New Yorker DeLuxe

Don Werner, Editor of "Motor Life," is the author of a very interesting and highly laudatory article on the results of tests made by that magazine on a 1954 Chrysler New Yorker DeLuxe. Here is what the test crew found out about the car that is causing such a sensation among motorists all over the country.

Chrysler hit a new postwar high in its horsepower development when it announced the New Yorker DeLuxe model for 1954. Last year the Fire-Power V-8 attracted wide attention from the public, including hot rodders and sports car builders, when it was rated at 180 hp. But the latest version, boosted by 55 hp to a peak of 235, promises something new.

As soon as Chrysler brought out the car, it was given a high priority on "Motor Life's" road testing schedule. The basic question: How well does a big, family-sized sedan perform when powered by a stock engine of such potency?

The answers were provided during 10 days of careful inspection, severe performance tests and more than 1,000 miles of city and highway driving—accompanied by heavy rains, hot sun and high winds.

Chosen for experimenting was a four-door sedan that was equipped with practically every item of equipment. The most important accessories were a Power-Flite transmission, power steering and power brakes.

Four drivers ranging from an ordinary motorist to an experienced competition professional, participated in the tests. In addition, an average housewife checked the handling in traffic for the woman's reaction. The analysis that follows is a summary of their opinions.

Chief interest of the road crew centered on the acceleration and top-speed runs, since this was the highest powered stock car tested to date. Speeds clocked during the flying quarter-mile were remarkable. Peak time registered was 11.6 miles per hour.

On the open highway at steady speeds, the Chrysler recorded very respectable mileage for a car of its weight. The figures ranged from 20 miles per gallon at 20 mph and 16.1 at 60.

Power steering gives the New Yorker DeLuxe virtually fingertip control. Turning ease was strongly advocated by the woman test driver.

The 12-inch power brakes were a notable feature, requiring only moderate pressure to bring the two-ton machine to a quick stop in a straight line.

For riding comfort the Chrysler is unsurpassed. The characteristic chair-high seating gives a good view of the road. Cushioning is of just the right tension.

Chrysler has continued its traditional styling for the 1954 models. The overall length has been increased by four inches, and the paint was good, bumpers were designed for maximum protection while headlights were slightly freer.

Interiorly, the Chrysler designers apparently are comfort and safety minded. Most of the dash board is padded for possible bumps and leather-covered to eliminate reflect-

Service Cleaners, one of the important business firms in Pampa, has progressed step by step with having garments cleaned properly and in keeping patrons satisfied. The policy has held many customers for more than a decade and has won many new friends.

Holder Was Second Choice For Role In 'Stalag 17'

By ALIN MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD, April 5—UP—Bill Holden is Monday how he was virtually a second choice for the "Stalag 17" role that won him the Oscar for the best actor of the year.

Holden with flourish parked his gold star on a shell near the front door of his tasteful, arty dressing room at Paramount studio. Then he stepped into a chair to reflect on his even the director of "Stalag 17," Billy Wilder, at one time hadn't wanted him for the role.

"Billy and I are good friends and I think he's one of the best directors," Holden said.

"He wanted Montgomery Clift for 'Sunset Blvd.' And told me there was nothing in the picture for me, nothing. Then one day he called me into his office, locked the door, and asked me to do it."

"When he started 'Stalag' it was the same thing. Nothing in it for me. He had Charlton Heston in mind. Then he called me into his office, locked the door, and asked me to do the role."

"But I thought he was right in the first place, that the character wasn't properly motivated for me. But in transferring the story from stage to screen the role was rewritten so the character had reasons for his behavior. So I did it."

Recently Wilder began casting "Country Girl." He told Holden there was nothing in the picture for him. Wilder wanted Cary Grant. One day he called Holden into his office, locked the door, etc. Holden now is in "Country Girl."

Holden confessed he didn't think the Academy Award would mean as much to him as it did.

"I don't mean to be blasé, but having been up to bat before in the Oscar race, I wasn't too nervous beforehand," he said.

"Besides, I've been around a

Father, Son, Friend Killed In Air Crash

IRVING, Tex., April 5—UP—A homemade plane, piloted by a mechanic collided with one containing the man's son and a friend Sunday, and all three occupants were killed.

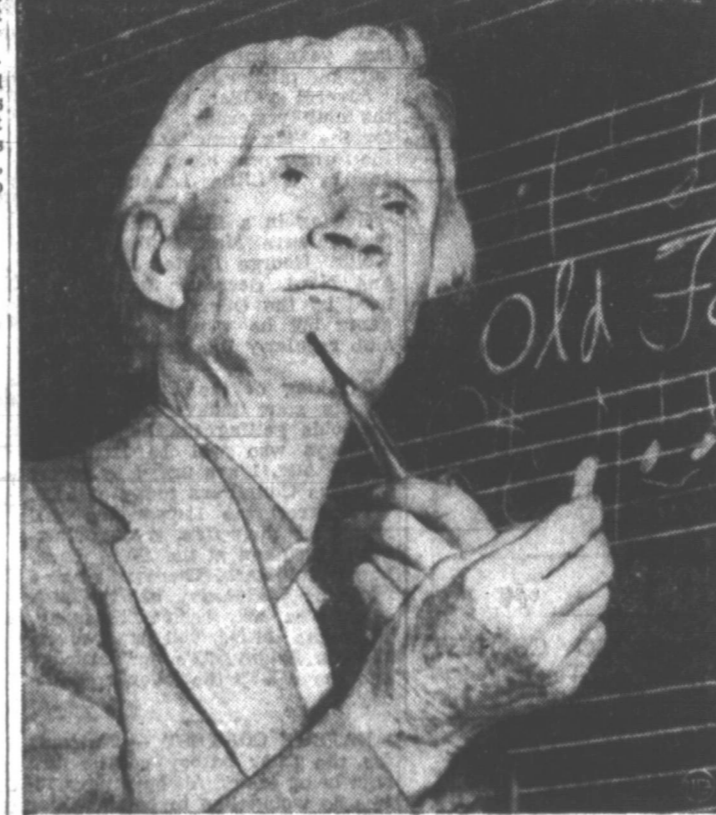

The collision occurred about four miles north of Irving.

The victims were identified as R. W. Bacon, 46, of Irving, owner of both planes and builder of the open-cockpit plane he was piloting; his son, Lt. Richard M. Bacon, 24 of Fort Sill, Okla., and Lloyd Whitman, 43, operator of the Mercedes Dusting Service, Mercedes, Tex.

The Army officer and Whitman were flying in a two-place Interstate, which friends said was rebuilt by the elder Bacon. Witnesses said the propeller of one plane knocked the wing of the other. Both planes plummeted to the ground, and all occupants were killed instantly.

The two planes had taken off from the Jap Lee field at Irving, operated by an American Airlines flying officer. Bacon was a former mechanic for Braniff Airlines and built his one-seater "Tomahawk" plane.

Among those who witnessed the fall of the planes was the elder Bacon's wife, mother of Lt. Bacon.

MUSIC IN HIS HEART—John B. Ely, 84, has taken his time before starting work on a music degree at the University of California at Los Angeles. Ely says he always had an inferiority complex about higher education and now he wants to use the new knowledge to work over a stack of his original compositions. One of his symphonies, "Bachiana," has already been performed by the Los Angeles Chamber Symphony orchestra.

Escaped Cons Still At Large

SUGAR LAND, Tex., April 5—UP—Authorities said Monday they have found no trace of five convicts, one of them a murderer, who escaped from the Central prison farm No. 1 Saturday.

More than 100 officers in the Fort Bend-Harris county area searching for the quietest said they had no leads on what might have happened to the five.

The five stole a car and vanished early Saturday.

They just vanished and we have no idea which way they went," D. W. Frierson, assistant general manager of the Texas prison system, said.

The five convicts were apparently let out of the prison farm area before they were missed. Frierson said they apparently stole someone's uniforms before making the escape.

They sawed through a barred window, scaled a fence 60 yards away and made it to Sugar Land on foot. There they apparently stole a 1952 cream-colored Chevrolet with a brown top and bearing license number J2-2170.

The five convicts who escaped are Vernon Lee Joiner, 29, serving life for murder from Orange; Billy R. Bedford, 23, Tarrant county burglar; Boyce J. Wallace, 28, Dallas robber; Robert J. Roberts, 28, Baylor county burglar; and Virgil T. Winters, 31, Lampasas and Comal county robber.

Albatrosses and condors remain nestlings for six months.

Miss Berg had the best closing round, a record-tying 69 over the local course, but it wasn't enough to earn her the championship. Miss Suggs finished with a two-under-par 70 for a 54-hole total of 218.

Parr Scores Polls Victory

SAN DIEGO, Tex., April 5—UP—South Texas political boss George B. Parr predicted Monday his forces would continue to win at the polls "in spite of anything" top officials of Texas can do.

Three Parr-backed candidates won a major test Saturday in a school district election, as observers watched to determine effect of recent investigations of Parr on voters in Duval county.

More than half of the voters in Duval county live in the Benavides independent school district where the election was held.

Meanwhile, the next round in the battle between Parr and his enemies was set for Monday in the Duval county courthouse.

Opposition Disappointed

Anti-Parr leaders were "disappointed but not discouraged" in Saturday's election, according to Freer attorney Lawrence Warburton Jr. All the nominees in the election lived in Freer.

"We're long way above the 800 votes that Parr once predicted was all we'd get in the entire county," said Warburton.

He added the freedom party would "be in there fighting" in the July Democratic primary, when virtually all local officials will be up for election. But, he said, "we didn't want a moral victory. We wanted to win."

Parr, convicted last month of brandishing a pistol at a political enemy and fined $150, was jovial as he discussed the vote for trustees of the school district.

Can't Change Minds

"With all the adverse publicity and all that Attorney General John Ben Shepperd could do, he still can't change the minds of Duval county voters," said Parr.

"I think we'll have a bigger share of the votes on our side in July in spite of all they can do," he added.

Hearings are set for 2 p.m. Monday on three suits against public officials filed by anti-Parr residents of the county. In general, the suits charge misuse of public funds and ask injunctions to prevent continued misuse.

Judge A. S. Broadfoot of Bonham was named temporary judge in the face of former Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin, who set the hearings before he was ousted from his 79th district court bench by the Texas Supreme Court.

Eisenhower Museum Is Opened Saturday

ABILENE, Kan., April 5—UP—The public got its first look Saturday at the Eisenhower Museum, erected beside the President's boyhood home to house his unique personal collection, valued at more than $1 million.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, represented the family at the brief opening ceremony. Official dedication was to be held later this year, when museum officials hoped the President would be able to participate.

His brother, president of Pennsylvania State College, spoke briefly and cut the ribbon sealing the doors of the museum. For Milton Eisenhower the trip marked a return not only to the locale of his early career. He formerly headed Kansas State College at nearby Manhattan.

Three Draw Prison Terms

Three men faced prison terms here today.

Two New Yorkers, Earl F. Graham, 25, and Robert F. Gibson, 23, drew sentences of two and eight years respectively at 21st District court by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich on charges of stealing a calf last Feb. 18.

Graham and Gibson, according to sheriff's officers, were riding a motorcycle that day on U. S. Highway 46 and stopped at the Johnson ranch, where they killed and butchered a calf. They were later picked up by highway patrolmen at a roadside park cooking the meat. They were arrested and returned to the Gray county jail.

While in prison they will not be eligible for any time off for good behavior as they both are wanted by New York authorities, Judge Goodrich indicated.

Federal judges are appointed for life by the President, with the approval of the Senate.

Unusual Statement . . . Porterhouse's Owner Is Sure He Will Take Kentucky Derby

By HENRY McEMORE

It happened to me.

I talked to the owner of a Derby horse and the owner said, "I like it very much." The owner said "My horse is going to win." The horse is Porterhouse. The owner is Liz Whitney Persons. This never happened to me before. It never happened to anyone who ever selected a Derby winner in advance.

Every owner of a horse good enough to run in the Derby ducks the question of whether or not he thinks his horse will win. Why? Do they want the price to be good? Meaning that they think they have a good thing and want to collect on it through the windows? They don't want to be embarrassed? They don't want to make their silks look bad with a bad horse? I will name you the Derby has a horse seen and the Derbys I have seen started in 1932. The winner of that year was Burgoo King, and the next year Broker's Tip won, and after that there came in this winning succession, Cavalcade, Omaha, Bold Venture, War Admiral, Lawrin, Johnston, Gallahadion, Whirlaway, Shut Out, Count Fleet, Dark Star, and the rest of them that crossed the finish line first. I only skip the years I do believe I was in the army. There was no choice—I would have preferred to have been in Louisville than in Bougainville.

I talked to Mrs. Persons when she was flat on her back. She was in the hospital recuperating from an operation, and wouldn't it have been nice if that operation could have been done by her late husband, one of the real great surgeons of the country?

Every once in a while I feel a real deep needness for people who make news. Mrs. Persons is one of them. Let me put it this way—she is a stand-up lady even when she is stretched out.

So I asked the lady in the hospital what her horse would do. She answered me straight out. She told me she was the best three-year-old colt in the world. I asked her if she was real sure of it. She told me she was. I questioned her judgment, and I really had no right to, because she's probably the best horsewoman in America today. But I wanted to see her pout. She did.

"Henry, do you want to bet against my horse? When you go to the window in Louisville are you going to bet on Porterhouse? If you don't bet on Porterhouse, Henry, please do me the favor of an old friend and tell me the name of the colt you think can beat him. If you will fix my pillow a little bit more comfortably, I'll tell you why I think Porterhouse is certain to win. Porterhouse has to have only one thing to win it easy. Just a little bit of racing luck. All he has to have is a comfortable getaway, and a chance to run. He can really run."

I asked Mrs. Persons if I could publish this as her own statement as an owner. She said, "You can do with it what you want." She also told me this: "When the horses go off in the Derby I will be holding a two-dollar ticket on Porterhouse to win. If I had a million dollars, and liked to bet that sort of money, I'd bet the million just as freely as I do the two."

That's the story from the lady who owns the horse who will jump out of the gate at Churchill Downs the first week in May. Now if I can just find somebody who will split a two-dollar ticket on the nose on Porterhouse, I'll have a bet on the horse I think is a mortal cinch to win.

I sort of hope Porterhouse wins the Derby by three lengths going away. It's time that a lovely owner and a lovely horse won it all.

Rogers Expected Home This Week

Rep. Walter Rogers, of Pampa, is expected home the latter part of this week.

Originally expected to return to the Panhandle in time for St. Patrick's Day, March 17, the congressman cancelled his plans when a major tax bill came up in the House of Representatives and his son had an operation.

At that time, Jimmy Thompson, his law partner, received a telegram from Rogers, stating he would return about April 8 or 9—this Thursday or Friday. Thompson has had no word since.

Pampan Writes Travel Article

An article in the April issue of Travel magazine carries an article written by a Pampa woman.

The article, "Wise Way to See New Places," was written by Mrs. Eppar A. Stover, 417 Yeager, a retired school teacher.

In her story Mrs. Stover tells how one might enjoy a vacation at low cost by enrolling in college for a special course and living in a dormitory.

She points out that persons, young or old, may enroll for special courses, even if they can't meet college entrance requirements for a full-time study.

Pampa Salutes

BLACK

Its INDUSTRIES

Observance of Texas Industrial Week April 1st to 7th, inclusive, would indeed be incomplete without recognition to the Carbon Black Industry here in the Top O' Texas. Thousands of skilled and unskilled workers have worked a lifetime in the Industry, often called the industry of "Hidden Magic." Payrolls have been constant, steady and dependable. In this issue a group of civic minded business leaders of Pampa have joined in bringing you this salute to Carbon Black.

Cabot Schafer

Peerless

Carbon Black, hidden magic in a multitude of items used daily by Pampans, too often doesn't receive due credit for the part it plays in our everyday lives. But its absence would be quickly noticed. Tires, combs, ink, rubber coats and boots — an endless array of articles — depends upon the varying grades of black for quality strength, body or color. Producing this vital product is the full time job of the many carbon black plants in this area — both furnace and channel. It is during this week, Texas Industrial Week, that honor is paid to these industries which utilize a great percentage of the natural gas produced in the Panhandle and provide addition income for Pampa and the area. The carbon black plants deserve credit for a job being well done.
