

Special Session To Be Convened Tuesday

Home Town Talk

By Betty

After months of study a clinic collapse of the market for West Texas crude oil, including Howard and Glasscock county production, was completed Wednesday.

The Humble Oil & Refining company, which thus far has led the way in reduction, posted a price of 19 cents per barrel.

Gravity of the situation is almost beyond the comprehension of the public.

But one reason can be assigned to this drastic cut.

The major companies are trying to wipe somebody out.

"Duo line" means, the majors are determined that the condition of the industry shall be based as the weapon by which they will proceed in a special session of the legislature—somebody which will be elected by the voters, and under which they will not receive the ability at all times to say how many wells may be drilled, how much crude may be produced, how much production may receive for oil, what terminals may receive for their products and, finally, exactly what the consumer of gasoline will have to pay.

At this time 75,000 barrels of gasoline is in storage, more than a year ago.

Consumption of gasoline for the first half of this year equaled that of the same period in last year.

There has been a steady decline in volume of oil in storage since September 1929.

These figures take the truth about the situation, that though crude supply is growing more rapidly than it used to.

East Texas is the key to the situation.

If producers in that field, where cost of drilling wells is much less than in most other areas, will abide by the state railroad commission order reducing daily production to 250,000 barrels there is good reason to believe today's drop will be the last and that a price will begin to rise soon.

The East Texas operators have not been able to reach an agreement among themselves. A majority have insisted upon selling at from five to twenty cents per barrel as much oil as they can produce.

Governor Sterling indicated last week he would issue a call this week of a special session of the legislature to consider a measure "with teeth in it" that would form a legal basis strong enough to enforce East Texas production.

The quicker he calls it the better it might not do any good but it is worth a trial.

It is clear that but one force remains to bring about a condition that would allow for higher prices.

The industry itself, in East Texas, has refused.

The people must act.

They must demand a special legislative session as a last resort.

Conservation Of Oil And Gas Principal Item

Proclamation Follows Up on New Reduction In Oil Prices

Governor Sterling this afternoon issued a call for the legislature to convene at noon Tuesday, July 14. The Herald was advised from his office.

His proclamation specified that the special session was being called to enact adequate legislation for the proper conservation of oil and gas, and to consider such other matters as may be submitted to the legislature from time to time by the governor.

The proclamation in part, said: "Whereas in August, 1931, the people of Texas adopted what is known as section 50-E to the constitution which specifies that a conservation of natural resources shall be within the power and delegated as the public right and duty of the legislature and whereas a deplorable situation exists in regard to conservation of these resources, particularly oil and gas, and whereas citizens of all sections of the state and many members of the legislature have urged that a special session of the legislature be called; L. B. Sterling, governor of Texas, do hereby call the legislature to convene at noon July 14, for the purpose of enacting adequate legislation looking to proper conservation of natural resources and to consider such other legislation as may be submitted to it from time to time by the governor."

The West Texas oil country was astounded, almost terrorized, Wednesday morning by an announcement from the Humble Oil & Refining company that it had cut the price of crude oil produced in Winkler, Pecos, Crane, Upton, Crockett, Ector, Howard and Glasscock counties in Texas and Lea county in New Mexico to ten cents per barrel.

The price had been 25 cents per barrel for more than a month.

Superintendents of the principal producing companies in the Howard and Glasscock county field were awaiting word from their home offices before announcing what action they would take; whether they would sell oil at a dime a barrel, run it to storage or shut down completely.

The local refineries were awaiting decision of the producing companies to learn whether their supply of crude would be cut off.

Shut down of the field would throw several hundred field employees out of work and through forced discontinuance of refinery operations, wipe out Big Spring's $50,000 monthly payroll from that source.

Local Plants

Of the 850,000 barrels being run from the local field each month approximately 65 per cent is taken and refined by the three local plants—Corder, Great West and Big Spring—and the Col-Tex refinery at Colorado.

The Shell and Humble major companies take practically all the remainder in their pipe lines.

Approximately 110,000 barrels of the monthly total run of 850,000 barrels from this field is produced by major companies or their subsidiaries.

The Corder Oil company's refinery here receives its daily take, 8,000 barrels, principally from Amerigas, Kirby, Plymouth, Simms and Sun oil companies' wells.

Lifting Cost

The principal producers here estimate cost of lifting their oil to the surface at 10 to 17 cents per barrel, depending upon the method of figuring this item.

Refusal of a few producers to shut down, in case some of them wished to do so, would practically eliminate any chance of a 100 per cent discontinuance of field operations, observers believed. Those wishing to shut down would be forced in self defense to keep their wells pumping to prevent drainage of oil from under their own production.

Robbins And Jones Take Off On 5,100-Mile Non-Stop Flight To Tokyo In Quest Of $25,000 Prize

SEATTLE, July 8 (AP)—Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, took off at 3:57 a. m. Pacific time (5:57 Big Spring time) today for Tokyo. They seek a $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper.

The fliers will refuel their plane in mid-air at Fairbanks, Alaska, and again over Siberia, after crossing the Bering Sea.

They hope to reach Tokyo in 35 hours. The distance is 5,100 miles. Their monoplane, Fort Worth, carried 200 gallons of gasoline and Robbins barely lifted it into the air at the far end of the runway here.

The refueling plane, manned by J. J. Matten and Nick Groner, is now waiting at Fairbanks.

Weather was reported ideal along the first part of the route. The flier carried food, water, charts, blankets, life saving jackets, fishing tackle and a rifle.

They said they might fly flying back, non-stop, in an effort to win $25,000 offered by Seattle interests as a prize. The plane does not carry a radio.

Cotton Drops After Report Average Estimated Ten Per Cent Less Than Year Ago

NEW ORLEANS, July 8 (AP)—Cotton declined a dollar a bale immediately after issuance of the government's estimate that total area under cultivation July 1 was 41,491,000 acres.

The estimate was 10 per cent less than at the same date last year, when the figure was 45,978,000 acres.

A acre picked last year yielded 45,301.000.

The average estimate of private agencies recently was a 11 per cent reduction.

Oklahoma City Flow Offsets Declines In East Texas And Pacific Coast Field To Boost U. S. Output

TULSA, Okla., July 8 (AP)—The heavy flow of the month flow of the Oklahoma City field offsets declines in East Texas and California today to boost the daily average production of crude petroleum in the United States last week, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

Daily average production in the nation increased 37,954 barrels to 2,483,425 barrels, the production estimates said. A daily average increase of 38,955 barrels was checked up to the Oklahoma City field. This was offset by a 7,332 barrel drop in East Texas and a 2,659 barrel decline in California.

Tuesday Mid-Continent production rose 42,029 barrels to 1,547,564 barrels. Oklahoma accounted for 47,210 barrels toward this increase. Oil in the 24th through 28th potentials were taken for the field for July. The time included in the estimates also accounts for a corporation commission grant for increased flow for the last four days of June to face an increase demand from purchasers.

General field and market conditions maintained an even tenor today as the oil states advisory committee met at Amarillo in a session preliminary to the scheduled Denver meeting on August 19.

Penalties For Violations Of Oil Order Seen

AUSTIN, July 8 (AP)—Violators of railroad commission prohibition orders who filed suits attacking validity of the order which expired June 1 will not be protected from penalties prescribed for violation of the new order issued July 2, by reason of the suits, Assistant Attorney General Fred Upchurch held today.

Upchurch rendered the opinion at request of R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the commission. Upchurch said: "In my judgment, the various suits filed heretofore against the commission in Travis county, attacking the validity of the old East Texas orders, wherein no injunctions were granted by the court, have in reality become moot, since the orders attached in said petitions automatically expired at 7 a. m. July 1. It is therefore my opinion that such parties would not be protected under their old suits."

More than a dozen suits have been filed without injunctions being issued.

Sterling Not To Stop Executions

AUSTIN, July 8 (AP)—Governor Sterling said today that unless new information were received he would not interfere with execution of Nicandro Munoz and Victor Rodriguez at Huntsville Friday. They were convicted in Hidalgo county for the killing of a federal customs officer, Bert Billa. They recently were given a 30-day reprieve to enable the courts to get to act on a claim that the defense attorney had no license to practice. No action was taken.

Arrest Expected In Midland Death

An arrest based on new evidence in the baffling Rockwell murder case was expected hourly Wednesday afternoon in Midland. There was a possibility that the arrest would result in the solution of the deepest murder mystery ever to confront Midland county officials.

Sheriff A. C. Francis said before noon he believed an arrest would be made within a few hours. He has uncovered evidence that would likely reveal details of the murder of the pretty waitress who was shot in the side as she dressed in her mother's apartment to attend a dance with a married man who walked outside in a truck. The killing occurred more than a week ago. Two were placed in jail following the killing, but no charges were filed.

NOT CRANFILL PLAN

DALLAS, Texas, July 7 (AP)—The new prohibition order issued by the railroad commission is not the Cranfill plan that East Texas operators agreed to obey, former Governor Dan Moody declared here today.

"The oil emergency committee wanted to order to be understood as the Cranfill plan because they know the thing went wrong and will thereby discredit the Cranfill plan," Moody asserted.

"If the railroad commission will hit upon a plan that gives the small operator an equal opportunity with the well-financed operator, I think it will be effective, and I think the Cranfill plan does that."

500 Cars of Wheat Shipped to Sherman

SHERMAN, Texas, July 8 (AP)—About 500 cars of new wheat have been shipped into Sherman since the four flour mills and their elevators. The grain movement has not yet reached its peak and larger shipments are expected to start coming into Sherman in about a week or ten days, mill and railroad authorities say. The receipts so far show a somewhat better average than in years past.

Reports from the Texas Panhandle are that about one-third of the wheat crop there has been harvested, approximately 15,000,000 bushels, and a good part of the wheat is being stored for higher prices or for feeding.

Would Make Fine Arts Palace Showplace for Cows and Horses

SAN FRANCISCO (INS).—San Francisco's stately Palace of Fine Arts, erected for the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 and with its rotunda modeled after the Pantheon at Rome, may be turned into a gathering place for cows and horses.

The Palace, situated in the Marina District near the San Francisco Bay shore, formerly housed the School of Fine Arts of the University of California, and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Herbert Fleischhaker, San Francisco capitalist and president of the park commission, has suggested, however, that the Palace, now in a process of rehabilitation, be used for livestock and horse shows.

The proposal has received the approval of Dr. T. R. Creeley, who was responsible for bringing the National Horse Show to San Francisco last year, but has aroused a storm of objections from residents of the Marina district, leaders in art circles, and officers of the San Francisco-San Mateo agricultural district.

Designed by Bernard Maybeck, the Palace was said to have been inspired by Boccaccio's painting, "The Island of the Dead." The building forms a huge semi-circle, facing east, with lofty colonnades at each end, suggested by Giovanni's "Chariot Race."

On the interior of the rotunda, at the center of a large lagoon, are sculptured panels depicting the progress and influence of art, and on the dome are two series of murals, one exemplifying Oriental and European art, and the other showing the "four gods" of California—Gold, poppies, oranges and wheat.

The rooms of the palace formerly had exhibits of ivories, porcelains, tapestries, and many paintings by such artists as Frank Brangwyn, Clude Lorraine, Frank von Lenbach, Gustave Courbet and Arthur F. Matthews.

"The Palace, according to Dr. Creeley, would be ideal for horse shows. It could be equipped for such exhibitions at very little expense," he said, "and there is ample room for stable accommodations."

"The beauty of the structure and its setting, the proximity to the Yacht Harbor and its other natural advantages would make it a place that eastern sportsmen and stable owners would be enthusiastic about."

Officers of the Marine Home Owners Protective Association declared they would fight any plan to put a horse show in the Palace, while E. H. Forbes, president of the California Cattleman's Association and Maxwell McSitt, a director of the San Francisco-San Mateo agricultural district, said the palace was unsuitable because there were no adjacent railroad facilities.

"What we want," Forbes said, "is a place where we can show cattle in carload lots, as they do at the Fortland, Kansas City and Chicago shows."

Anniversary Of Refrigeration By Electricity Open

DAYTON, O., July 8.—A fifteenth anniversary jubilee, marking the brief span of years during which the electric refrigeration industry has grown from a scrawling infant to one of the most active and robust members of America's big business family, was formally opened this week by E. G. Biechler, president and general manager of Frigidaire Corporation.

Events of the jubilee program have been arranged for every day and evening of the week, save Sundays during July and August. Mr. Biechler issued a general invitation to the public to be guests of this General Motors subsidiary at any Frigidaire showroom during the event.

"Fifteen years ago," Mr. Biechler said in opening the jubilee, "there were few electric refrigerators in use and these only in the homes of the wealthy. Today there are more than 2,000,000 in service and factories are working overtime to supply a rapidly increasing demand. This household appliance is no longer in the luxury class. It is economical to own and to operate and provides a range of household service undreamed of fifteen years ago."

Post First to Receive Pilot's License After Losing Sight of One Eye, Often Has 'Hunch'

BY LEON R. DURST
(Copyright, 1931, By The Associated Press)
PART V

Hits High Tariff

Ambassador Don Manuel E. Malbran of Argentina told the national foreign trade convention in New York that United States tariff rates are prohibitive rather than protective.

By the time Wiley Post had achieved his position as chief test pilot at the Lockheed airplane factory at Burbank, California, he had won something of a reputation as a flier.

One thing that singled the former farm boy out for attention was the fact that he became a flier after he had lost the sight of one eye in a machine shop accident. He is believed by department of commerce examiners to be the only licensed pilot in the country who learned to fly after losing the sight of one eye.

The medical examiner who examined Post when he obtained his license in August, 1929, said the depth of perception of the remaining eye was excellent and that Post was physically well qualified to fly, recommending that he be given a license.

A special waiver was granted which has been carried on in subsequent examinations.

Very Careful
This accident is believed to have made Post an extremely careful flier since he perhaps feels that any type of mishap might reflect on his faulty eyesight and result in the department's rescinding the waiver.

Post is known to his friends as a very capable pilot, but one who often flies on "hunches." Although the weather may be perfect for a flight, if his "instinct" tells him that he should not, he absolutely refuses to go up.

One tells the story that Post has no use for a certain type of plane and that one day he was ordered to test one. He refused, saying he had a feeling something would happen.

Finally he was prevailed upon to make the flight and took the plane over the desert dunes of Arizona, where he was forced down 15 miles from the nearest house and 25 miles from the nearest town.

He landed near a pipeline which he followed to the nearest settlement, through the heat of a blistering desert sun.

It was there that his stubbornness—or doggedness—came into play, for he refused to move on in the plane until it had been equipped with new motor. He visited there for two weeks until a new power plant had been installed and he could fly away.

"Sense of Feel"
His friends further say that he often flies by "sense of feel" and that on cross-country hops he would neither look at a compass nor at maps. Fortunately he did not rely upon this system on his recent trip, for at times over stretches of the flight, the instruments of Navigator Harold Gatty were all that saved the intrepid pilots from serious deviation from their course.

Wiley also is known as something of a "daredevil" although he has never been known to take any chances until his ground work has been laid thoroughly. Perhaps the "daredevil" description is a hang-over from the days when Wiley was wing-walking and parachute jumping with the barnstorming "air circuses" in the southwest.

Post is exceptionally thorough in his preparation for any undertaking. He neither smokes nor drinks because he doesn't believe such habits fit in well with good flying. He keeps himself in good physical trim at all times and although he is but 5 feet 6 inches tall none of the mental or physical tasks of flying tire him.

Russell Peck, who worked with Post on the coast, points out that one of the most difficult things a flier faces is taking off a ship heavily laden with gasoline.

"When a plane is heavily loaded with gas it takes tremendous exertion to get the tail up," Peck says. "Only those who have taken 600 gallons of fuel off the ground in a ship like the 'Winnie Mae' know how a man has to push on that stick. He must have the muscle of a weight thrower and if he doesn't get it up, it's too bad. I've known pilots to take a Lech-ed off with 600 gallons of gas and sit there in the cockpit for minutes after getting into the air almost exhausted.

Post knew what he was going up against and he prepared for it. Not by any special exercises or training, but by keeping himself in first class physical condition over a long period of strenuous flying.

(Tomorrow: Post and Gatty—A Smooth Working Team.)

If You Really And Truly Want To WIN $1000 READ... this open letter from the Movietest Editor of The BIG SPRING HERALD

TO ALL READERS OF THE BIG SPRING HERALD AND PARTICULARLY THOSE READERS WHO HAVE BEEN ATTRACTED BY THE HERALD'S MOVIETEST

Dear Friends:—

At the present moment there are MORE PRIZES to be awarded than people entered. AT THE PRESENT MOMENT, EVERY PERSON WHO HAS SENT IN A SET OF ANSWERS WILL WIN A PRIZE. There are fifty prizes to be awarded and only four people entered in the contest.

If you really and truly are interested in winning $1,000, $500 or any of 50 wonderful cash prizes, I can tell you most sincerely that here and now, in the instance of the Herald's $2,500.00 Movietest Contest, you have one of the most remarkable opportunities that will ever come to you.

But before I go further into my message, I want to refer to what I mentioned in the paragraph above, namely, if you really and truly are in earnest about winning a prize, BY ALL MEANS FILL OUT AND MAIL THE COUPON PRINTED IN THE LOWER RIGHT CORNER OF THIS PAGE. DO THIS AT ONCE!

There are several reasons why this contest affords a marvelous opportunity to those persons who are serious-minded and who actually mean business in connection with the contest. Among those reasons, is the fact that apparently very few people had the time or will to set about the solving of the 30 Movietest cartoons. Also the fact that many persons are under the impression that there is too great a participation in the Movietest contest, thus decreasing the chances for individual success. This last inference is decidedly erroneous.

Any person in Big Spring or vicinity who is really serious about winning $1,000 in return for an almost trivial amount of effort, has a marvelous opportunity to succeed.

By sending in the coupon printed in the lower right corner of this page, you will receive all 30 of the cartoons with complete details by return mail.

The answers to the thirty cartoons must be sent in by midnight, July 25th, 1931.

This letter is most sincerely directed to those people who can appreciate a timely opportunity when that opportunity presents itself, and who know how to take advantage of an auspicious moment.

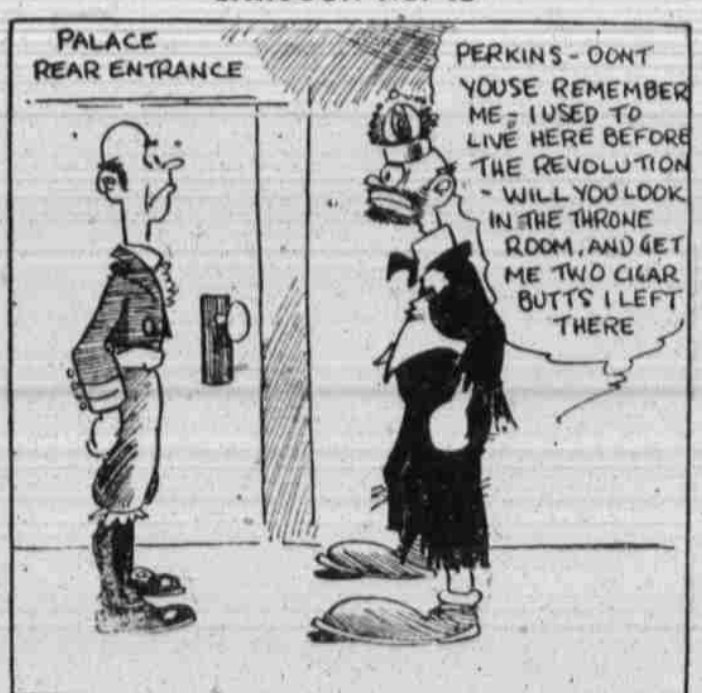

Most sincerely yours,
THE BIG SPRING HERALD
MOVIETEST EDITOR.

Tigers Nose Out Cosden

Scoring Spree Staged By Both Clubs In Tuesday Bout
