Shanghai Armistice Fails To Stop Battle

Chinese Find They Cannot Accept Plan

Jap Troops Reported Ignoring Own Commanders' Orders

SHANGHAI (AP)—Chinese headquarters announced part of the nineteenth route army was fighting Japanese at Huhoh. Other fighting was under way at Nanking.

It was claimed the Japanese attacked after their own commanders ordered cessation of hostilities.

The Japanese denied any fighting at all.

Armistice terms had not been accepted by China.

SHANGHAI (AP)—Admiral Nomura and General Shirakawa, the Japanese commanders have announced they had ordered a cessation of hostilities against the Chinese, unless the Chinese counter-attack.

The Japanese began consolidating their positions on the border of the twenty-kilometer zone around Shanghai. Earlier in the afternoon the situation had been confused and fighting continued after the Japanese legislators announced that hostilities would cease immediately.

The Japanese occupied Lungwa arsenal and planned to occupy Nantao, a native quarter adjoining the French concession.

Thousands of Chinese civilians evacuated (Chapel as the Japanese entered but many returned seeing the peaceful occupation.

Chapel is in ruins.

GENEVA (AP)—Doctor W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, told the League of nations assembly, that negotiations for a truce at Shanghai had failed.

He said the Japanese terms were wholly unacceptable and that a continuation of the fighting was unavoidable.

Full fifty members of the League were represented at the extraordinary session. Earlier meetings were those of the council twelve members, dominated by the great powers.

China called the meeting under the article of the League Covenant binding the members to apply

1932 School Census To Be Taken Here

Thoroughness of Count Has Direct Effect On Finances

Taking of the 1932 scholastic census in the Big Spring Independent School District will begin Saturday, Supt. W. C. Blankenship has announced.

Teachers will begin canvassing the city Saturday morning.

Mr. Blankenship stressed the fact that thoroughness of the enumeration has a direct effect upon financial condition of the schools for the coming year. The district receives the state per capita apportionment on the basis of the scholastic census and not on the average daily attendance or enrollment for the preceding session.

For this school year the state apportionment is $17.50 per child. "I hope parents and guardians of all children of scholastic age will assist the teachers in effecting a thorough enumeration as quickly as possible," said Mr. Blankenship. "If you are not at home when the census workers call they will leave the family census blank. Please have children bring them to school after you have filled them out, or else mail them to the superintendent's office," he urged.

Capone Offers $10,000 Reward For Abductors

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP)—Al Capone offered from his county jail cell Wednesday a reward of $10,000 for the safe return of the Lindbergh baby and the capture of his kidnapers.

"It's the most outrageous thing I ever heard of," said Capone, whose own name several times has been mentioned in Chicago abduction.

"I know how Mrs. Capone would feel if my son were kidnaped, and I sympathize with the Lindberghs."

"I'll give $10,000 for information that will lead to the recovery of the child unharmed and the capture of his kidnapers."

"If I were out of jail I could be of real assistance. I have friends all over the country who could aid in running this thing down."

Capone has been in jail more than four months, awaiting appeal to the higher courts of his eleven-year penitentiary sentence for income tax evasion. His attorneys have said he is without funds.

Beginning now the weekly payroll on the municipal building job will be higher, since steel construction workers and bricklayers are now needed. The additional men being put on now are skilled trades men.

A. P. Barrett, state chairman of the Citizens Reconstruction Organization, was forced to abandon temporarily his state aid tour after speaking briefly at Abilene Wednesday. A severe cold contracted while here Tuesday night, was reported to have reduced his voice to a whisper.

Seismograph Crew Arrives In Big Spring

Continental Stations 13 Men Here for Several Months' Work

The Continental Oil company this week is stationing in Big Spring thirteen men who will do seismographical research work in this section for several months.

Paul Alexander, bringing personal baggage of several members of the group, arrived Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Dobyns, Mr. and Mrs. Crockett and several others reached here Wednesday. Others were expected Thursday.

Included in the group are six married couples and seven single men. They expect to be here until late summer or early fall. The crew recently finished several months' work out of Fort Morgan, Colorado. Early arrivals said several men of the company had been stationed here, at Midland or Odessa in the past.

The exact area to be covered in their work had not been announced, although it was unofficially reported work would begin about twenty miles north of here.

The seismograph is used to determine sub-surface structural conditions.

Straw Poll Count Scheduled Friday

Garner Forces Are Organized

Several score voters met here Wednesday evening and organized the Howard County Garner-Forbes club. C. P. Rogers was named permanent chairman and Wendell Beddick secretary.

Seventy voters who ten days ago signed a formal call for the meeting, and those attending the meeting Wednesday evening brought the membership of the club, which is designed to function in any manner possible to promote the John N. Garner as the Democratic presidential nominee, to approximately 120.

Speakers Wednesday evening were Mr. Rogers, B. F. Robbins, J. B. Little, W. H. Taylor, J. B. Pickle, Mr. Simpson, R. L. Cook, Sim O'Neal, Fox Stripling, Walton Morrison and Rev. S. B. Hughes.

"For the first time in history there is an outstanding national figure in the Democratic party who is a Texan and also a very serious contender for the Democratic nomination for president," declared Judge Rogers. "I am, therefore, at a loss to understand—in view of Mr. Garner's record as a congressman for 29 years—to understand why any real Democrat in Texas could support any other man so long as Mr. Garner has a chance to be nominated and I believe he will not only be nominated but that he also will be the next president of the United States," he continued.

Six Teams, Eleven Coaches With 300 Candidates—That's Spring Football Training In Big Spring

Six teams, eleven coaches, more than three hundred candidates, that's spring football in Big Spring public schools.

Five of the clubs are already engaged in serious practice sessions, and the sixth, the Big Spring Steers, will begin stiff workouts Monday with twenty or thirty of last year's squad, among them seated a letterman here and there, and with Oble Bristow and George Brown dividing time between them and the pack of cinder artists working out on the same field.

Ben Daniels was greeted by practically fifty candidates when he issued his first call for the Devils of 1932, and was unable to provide uniforms for them all. Last year's captain Freddie Townsend, Bobby Mills, Satterwhite, Fisher, Driver, Coburn, Woods, and a raft of new material is expected to give Ben the greatest team he has ever coached. And he can count the games that his clubs over the last ten years have lost on the fingers of one hand.

The four-ward school teams, who are soon to have a round-robin schedule to decide the city championship, got their first glimpse of the high school lettermen that are to be their coaches yesterday. Coaches Lloyd Forrester and Henry Richbourg were greeted with the most sizable squad, around fifty candidates reporting for the first session. Forrester confidently predicts a championship for his South Ward pupils, and predicts that a youngster named Neel, a relative of Cecil, a letterman in high school in 1930, will be the outstanding punter in the city race.

Coaches David Hopper and Oscar Heblsen have the smallest squad in the city at East Ward, but "Hop" declares that no other young "Casey" Jones, a twelve-year-old youngster who can run so "Hop" declares, like a striped jackrabbit. Coach Brown also had a word of praise for the youngster.

And of course "Trek" Dennis at West Ward would have a punter and a passer. Dennis and his line coach Livian Harris, have also a large squad, and likewise predict the city championship for their club.

At North Ward the most elaborate coaching system of the lot finds Coaches Bill Flowers, Carlton Coburn, and Elmer Dyer with a raft of green, untried material on hand. But confidence reigns in the camp of the North Ward grid-sters, with Coach Flowers jubilant over his prospects.

Only one club has been named. Coach Hopper has eloquently terminated his proteges, "The Galloping Ghosts."

Play in the city gridiron race will begin around March 14, with three games to be played in one week.

Woman Mails Message From Boston Office

BOSTON (AP)—With Col. Lindbergh's telephone permission police this afternoon opened an air mail letter mailed him here by an elderly woman who fled from the post office.

The letter named a small Massachusetts town and described a house where it was claimed the 20-month-old son of the noted flyer was being held by persons who abducted him from the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J., Tuesday night.

A determined hunt was started for the woman and the house.

Police located an automobile in which bystanders said the woman fled. They apparently were mistaken. The owner, Harry Milford, N. J., went with friends to the post office.

A Chinless Civilization

If all the ills are blamed on "modern civilization" were laid end to end, it would give the average reader a pain in the neck.

The latest accusation hurled at civilization comes from an American scientific gentleman who says that it will be to blame for the eventual disappearance of the human chin. The jaw, he insists, is growing smaller all the time, and the teeth are becoming more crowded. Eventually—why not now?—the whisker rack will disappear altogether, leaving mankind looking funny indeed, something like a cross between Peter Rabbit and Aunt Emmy's porcelain housecat.

The horrors conjured up by thoughts of a chinless civilization are hair-raising to be sure, but why think about it at all? If civilization is to take it on the chin, so to speak, it will be nothing new in human experience. Dire predictions of what will happen to us as a result of "modern civilization" have been coming at a steady pace for generations, and in spite of them all we have changed little from the general physical, moral and psychological make up of the earliest Egyptians.

BOY CRAZY by GRACE PERKINS

SYNOPSIS: Hope Ross' seventeenth year spins dizzily around her as she goes to Dickey Dale's prom at Harborth, writes to Dickey, spends unusual evenings back stage in New York theatres where Dickey's father is a theatrical manager, and all the time falls deeper and deeper in love with Dickey. In all her popular high school days, Hope has never known so many happy times. She has been the most attractive girl in Westchester, but that fact pales besides the realization that she is going to marry Dickey. She even signs a pledge that she will marry him at his laughing threat that he must make sure of her. The only flaw is her family's disapproval of Dickey, and of his father. Her father, usually indulgent, says that Dickey has "hardly a family for his little daughter to consider as a serious connection."

Chapter 9 COLD-CUTS AT TEA They made the usual gestures parents expect; Dickey murmured in the best and shiniest phrases, but Mama Ross seemed a bit too tight-lipped for anyone's peace of mind. So the two, a bit subdued, rushed out.

Always out, Hope thought a bit bitterly as she climbed into Dickey's car. . . . Always out with this particular boy, why? But she forgot such thoughts as the wind whipped her face and Dickey headed for town, where they would drop in on Hickey," he suggested, "and if they didn't like his party, they'd drop out again." But they did like it. There were so many celebrities there that thrilled Hope, and a man who asked her if she'd like a screen test. . . . Such were the high spots of the evening, gayest, most intoxicating.

Then came the crisis—out of a clear sky, as a crisis is so apt to come. Valetignoring the fact that no one wanted him but Hope, Dickey chugged up to the Ross veranda one Saturday afternoon in May—for a second consecutive week-end. And Mama Ross treated him very badly. Very badly indeed. And Goody was just plain lousy! After all, if your people are so fine that they consider others beneath them, they at least might act fine, might they? But Mama Ross, despite her perfect poise and her flawless coiffure, just was plain rude. Was so rude that Dickey made a wisecrack that only brought a flush to Mama's cheeks and an I-thought-as-much-and-I-took-you-so-look-to-her quick glance at Hope.

Hope dragged Dickey outside, and jawed him plenty about the wisecrack. Whereupon Dickey expressed a few opinions. And what can you do with people whose opinions are quite true and perfectly fair? Nothing, except to act haughty and say "Well, just the same you needn't make matters worse—" perhaps, on Dickey. Regardless of his arguments, Hope remained adamant against going to town. Instead, she had a new idea. Her folks had suggested, more than once, with an insinuating insult in their tones, that she let Dickey mingle with her friends, in her own environment, and match him up for herself. So after considerable argument, they both went to dinner at the Country Club. For the Saturday night dance. But Dickey was in an irritable mood. He had suffered severely from the cold-cuts which Mama Ross had handed him at tea-time. He told Hope what he thought of snootiness and snobbery, and gave a long and bloodthirsty account of his own ancestors. They had fought Indians, those ancestors, and they had hacked trails through the west. Frantically, Hope called several friends over to her table. But Dickey continued to recount his family tree. Hope's heart sank. Grew numb. Became spiteful. Angry.

She got up and danced with Rusty Crandall. After several dances with Rusty, she permitted the attentions of others. Dancing and flirting and laughing with Frisky and Don and Jed and Max. . . . Her heart aching, and the tears like a hard ball in her throat because Dickey had disappeared. Wondering if Dickey had driven off to his father. Wondering if she would be facing the outrageous indignity of having no escort to see her home.

Washington—The William Robert Smith Memorial bill, honoring a former congressman of West Texas, is now before President Hoover awaiting his action on it. The bill would grant to the William Robert Smith Memorial Association of El Paso the right to construct a memorial tablet to the late Congressman Smith at the Elephant Butte Dam in New Mexico in recognition of his work on behalf of irrigation and reclamation. The tablet would be erected without cost to the government.

Senator Morris Sheppard introduced the bill in the Senate and Congressman Ewing Thomson introduced it in the House. It has passed both branches. When Congressman Smith represented the sixteenth district it extended from El Paso east to Mineral Wells and from Lubbock as far south as Rockspings. Congressman Smith was later a federal judge at El Paso. His widow lives there yet. One of his sons, William R. Smith, Jr., is district attorney at Midland; another, Bredelove Smith, is assistant district attorney at El Paso; another is an attorney at Fort Worth. Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, who succeeded Congressman Smith in the old sixteenth district, spoke in behalf of the bill and paid a glowing tribute to the service of his predecessor.

Merchandisers' Bulletins

Complete registration figures for the full year of 1931, recently announced, reveal that for the first time in the history of the automobile, a six cylinder car led the industry in popular favor. During the year Chevrolet titled 583,387 six cylinder cars compared with 528,555 titled by the runner-up, a lower priced four cylinder make. Of the total of 1,908,016 passenger cars registered in the domestic market, Chevrolet obtained more than thirty percent, the largest proportion of available business ever enjoyed by its largest producing division of General Motors. Complete returns reveal that in 1931 Chevrolet obtained within five per cent of the same volume of business as in 1930, while the second leading make slumped fifty per cent and the industry as a whole 27 per cent from the preceding year. During 1927 Chevrolet also led the industry in total volume of sales, although in that year a full existed in the low-priced car market. But in 1931, in the highly competitive conditions existing throughout the industry, the company forged ahead early in the year and maintained its leadership by a margin which widened month by month. In December, 1931, Chevrolet titled 27,929 passenger cars, nearly twice as many as the second leading make, and the second highest December in the history of the company.

Texas was well up among the leading States of the Union in the realization of its quota of sales of domestic electric refrigerators in the 1931 national sales campaign sponsored by the Electric Refrigeration Bureau. Figures tabulated at national headquarters in New York reveal that Texas realized 105.66 per cent of its quota, putting it in fifteenth place among the States in his respect. G. B. Richardson of Dallas, Merchandising manager of Texas Power & Light Co., is the director of the Bureau's activities in this State. According to New York headquarters, 29,428 electric refrigerators of all makes were sold in the State during the year, as against the Electric Refrigeration Bureau's quota of 27,850, representing approximately 5 per cent of the number of domestic meters in use in the State. In the entire United States the sales of 1931 exceeded 950,000 compared to 775,000 in 1930 and approximately 950,000 in the boom year 1929.

These figures reveal that the electric refrigeration industry, although comparatively an infant among the country's major manufacturing industries, is one of the few which can point to a gain in business in 1931. That this gain was so substantial was due in large measure to the activity of the Electric Refrigeration Bureau, which formed in March of last year, has done a big job of sales promotion and industrial coordination through its organization of regional, State and local Bureaus. Through the Bureau's national advertising, the promotion of hundreds of local cooperative exhibits and the stimulation

"I was not reared a Democrat but I've long been one and I believe more deeply than ever that the interests of the great masses rest in the Democratic party. My views on prohibition may not be the same as those of others in this gathering, but I don't believe that the people, considering the tremendous problems confronting them, are going to allow the prohibition question to distract their minds from all else," said J. B. Pickle.

"If the sole issue against Hoover is responsibility for the depression he will again be elected," predicted Mr. Simpson, a Howard county school principal. "It may be hard to elect a southerner but I don't think we have to go to New York for a nominee. New York is the least Democratic of all states, in my opinion. I think we ought to be reasonable with reference to prohibition. Anything that can take drink from the rising generation should be adopted. Mine is still an open mind with reference to the best plan of enforcing prohibition." Mr. Simpson said.

Standridge Opens Meeting Tonight

A protracted meeting to be conducted for the Church of Christ by Evangelist James L. Standridge will be held at 109 Main Street beginning tonight at 7:45 o'clock. Standridge said that the purpose of the meeting is to give all an opportunity to hear the truth "as it is set forth in God's word. Each lesson will consist not of opinions, beliefs, but of statements from God's word, for which chapter and verse will be given. A black board to be used, and those who attend the meet' are asked to bring pencil and paper, that they may read from their own Bible after they leave the meeting. An opportunity is given those who may wish to ask any question (which can be answered from the Bible). All questions will be answered with due courtesy and respect, and chapter and verse will be given in each instance."

Everyone is invited, regardless of denomination, to consider the lesson for tonight. Based on what Jesus told the Sadducees in Matthew XXII 29, where he said: "Ye do err not knowing the scriptures, and the power of God's word. The public is cordially invited to attend each service."

TO PLAN FOR EASTER

The teachers and officers of the First Christian Sunday school are reminded to attend the meeting at the church Friday evening at 7:30. The meeting is important because the time will be devoted to plans for Easter Sunday.

Use of One Baby Bed Wanted by Many Babies

Wanted: A loan of a baby bed. This bed is wanted not by one baby but by several. Several regrettably-inclined babies whose names are on the cradle roll of the First Christian church, could make good use of a bed, says Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, superintendent of the First Christian Sunday school. A nice comfortable bed would make it possible for mothers to attend Sunday school and for the babies to rest or otherwise entertain themselves in their accustomed fashions.

If there is a baby bed in town available for this purpose Mrs. Eubanks asked that its owner call her at the Retail Merchants' Association, No. 1222, and said it will be greatly appreciated.

Let's go... America!

Money at work means men at work. It builds factories... runs railroads... buys materials... hires men. That's why America must get its Idle Dollars back on the job. That's why we must keep our money in circulation. Put your money where it will produce interest for you and employment for others.

Put those Idle Dollars back to work and start things rolling

Come on, America... Let's go!

We're the richest country in the world. We have the men. We have the machines. We know how to work.

And we have the money... somewhere. That's the problem. We have the money... but a lot of it is not working.

Withdrawn from circulation... lying idle instead of working... are a billion and a half dollars. Enough to put every unemployed man back to work. And enough to start every wheel turning again.

Money is the life-blood of business. It buys raw materials. It builds factories. It runs machines. And pays salaries.

Shut off this source of power and business suffers. The wheels slow down. Men are forced out of work.

It's a vicious circle. Every dollar withdrawn from circulation reacts through the retailer, the wholesaler and the factory right to the ultimate consumer who is thrown out of a job.

Don't you see the point? Your money is needed in circulation.

Every dollar you put to work... releases 5 to 10 more in credit.

Active money earns interest for you... and produces employment for others.

Keep your money safe, of course. Nobody wants you to act unwisely. But release it in a conservative way... and let everybody benefit.

If there's any question in your mind... talk to the ablest business men you know. Then get their advice and counsel.

Let's go... America! Let's get our dollars back to work and start things rolling.

The publishing of this advertisement has been made possible through the co-operation of a few firms of the city and this newspaper. This patriotic service has been rendered regardless of political beliefs or editorial opinion—in an effort to bring you these important facts about idle money. These business men deserve the nation's praise for this generous public service.

County Crop Loan Committees Being Formed In Texas

County committees, now being formed as rapidly as possible, are the authorities through which farmers who need funds should apply for crop production loans from the $50,000,000 allocated to the Secretary of Agriculture for that purpose by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act. Henry S. Clarke, National Director of 1932 Crop Production Loans, said today, in outlining the procedure to be followed in applying for loans. Mr. Clarke emphasizes that loan applications must be approved by the county committee. These committees are being selected and full local publicity will be given to the selections as soon as they are complete. In counties where there is a county agent, he can usually give farmers information regarding loan applications. If a loan application is satisfactory to the county committee, they forward it to the regional office where it is checked by the regional legal department and also by State representatives who are familiar with conditions in the region from which the application comes. If approved by the regional office, checks are mailed immediately for the initial installment of the loan. The right is reserved to make the loan in installments. The set-up of the organization as outlined by Mr. Clarke is as follows: Each regional director will be responsible for the entire organization of his territory. He will have with him a legal department, an agricultural department, and a disbursing officer. The agricultural department will be made up of representatives of each state in the region, usually agricultural extension workers, who pass upon loan applications from their respective states. All application blanks are being mailed from the Washington, D. C., headquarters to the regional offices and from there they will go out to the county committees. The county committees are selected by the regional director, following former practice, in counties where there is a county agent, the agent will be asked to suggest a county committee and he will act as an advisor to the committee. The committee in most cases will consist of three members, usually bankers, farmers, and businessmen. A pamphlet explaining in detail the procedure of applying for a loan is being prepared by the Crop Production Loan Office and will be available soon through the county crop production loan committees.

From Virginia's River Feudalism Came Democracy We Know Today

Younger Generation Of Colonial Barons Started Destruction Of Old System And Building Of Government

By Cyril Arthur Player The king issued a writ. Five million seven hundred thousand acres of land fell into the maw of his friend, Bobt may have been the worse for drink at the time. But the scratch of the pen was there; and so was the land. Neither had seen it. It existed dimly across the stormy Atlantic, whence came the growing legends of Capt. John Smith; of a forgotten expedition, named John White; of "Walter Russell, Doctor of Physick; Thomas Mompfrod, Gentleman, and Anas Todkill, Soldier;" of Patowmack Town with 200 highly painted fighting men; of the newly-claimed King's River (James), Prince's River, (York), Queen's River (Rappahannock) and Elizabeth River, which is none other than the Potomac itself. Out of the writ grew an empire. Out of the empire came feudalism unlike anything seen in the world before. Out of the feudalism was born a vision. The very barons of the new world wrote the testament of democracy. The strangest story of all history. The writs for it takes across two centuries from the scratched signature on the royal writ to the bold challenge of Independence. The most enduring. The feudal system produced, among other phenomena, George Washington. He was the consummation of it. While his benefactor, Thomas, Lord Fairfax, bore the weight of his 92 years to an ancient grave, Washington bore toward immortality the standard of rebellion. While the old royalist in Greenway Court broke his heart over the vanishing past, Washington broke his over the most desperate army that ever won a victory for a magnificent future. Washington's logical mind interpreted feudalism as nobility; its expression, character. He, and those with him, saw the goal larger than the system. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" was gloriously theirs; theirs to have, but, if it was to be retained, not theirs to restrict. Privileges brought duties. The spacious age of the barons had refined the soul of the new race. Stupidity was unfurled the masthead of a new nation. The younger generation, inheritors of the feudalism, laid the foundations for the destruction of the old and the erection of the new. George Washington saw all that, feudalism and democracy both. His life spans the ripening of the age and the birth of the other. A huge social evolution rushed through his days; history compressed itself and packed the hours. In 1932, the nation marks the bicentennial of his birth at Bridge's Creek, now called Wakefield. It is not merely the birth of a man, but the crucial phase of a miracle that is to be celebrated. The world scarcely has seen the like. The king issued a writ. This time it was King James I. He gave out of hand, South Virginia to the London company. Two years later, in 1609, the company was reorganized for larger action, and the king obligingly renewed the gift. The grant extended 200 miles north and 200 miles south of Old Point Comfort, and westward to the Pacific. The king issued a writ. This time it was Charles I. promising to the first Lord Baltimore the territory now constituting the states of Maryland and Delaware. The king issued a writ. This time it was Charles II, certifying to his friends, Lords Arlington and Culpeper, the gift of the Northern Neck of Virginia. Far in the background is an uninquiring Norseman, Herjulfson, who sighted these shores. More distinct is the figure of Leif Ericson, who landed well within the patent of the London company's Virginia grant, six centuries before the coming of the first colonists. Little more than a century after Columbus, came the first colonists of the London company. They were for the most part, worthless adventurers. Winfield, first governor of the colony, a man of no account, was either a rascal or a history squabbler flippantly over his character. In any event he passed out leaving only a dubious character and a name whose first part—Edward Maria—few books trouble to record. Scarcely more wasted than that now is the spot where they landed. James Towne became one of those ghost cities of the seventeenth century, places which Thomas Jefferson later said: "The laws have said there shall be towns but Nature has said there shall not." The great figure of relief in this first reckless group of discards is Capt. John Smith. Smith lives large and impressive yet. His map still is eloquent. His "True Relation of such occurrences and accidents of note as hath happened in Virginia" continues to throw over a distant day a virile instancy and significance. His courses may be con-jured on creeks and along waterways. His name speaks suggestively at a hundred spots within reach of the modern highway. He was the first manifestation of what was to become known as "the American spirit." Smith landed on the James River thirteen years before the Pilgrims came to Plymouth. A year later, 1608, he explored the Potomac. There follow picturesque names, heavy with incident: Harry Spelman, Capt. Samuel Argoll and Capt. Henry Fleet. Fleet it was who met Leonard Calvert and his two ships, the Ark and the Dove, when they reached Chesapeake Bay in 1634 to assume the Baltimore grant. But between the coming of Smith well in practice as had been hoped. Nevertheless Calvert established the manorial system, by which the holder of a certain acreage became lord of the manor and sold, leased or subleased to the "yeomen" portions of his manorial holdings. Even today the stable neck of land between the Wicomico and the Potomac is largely held by one man, whose home on the hills, Mt. Victoria, overlooks a model estate of 15,000 acres. Men crossed the river by ferries or, in some cases, where the stream was narrow, by a floating bridge, and made their way to the home of some acquaintance. George Washington, as may appear later, scorned the ferry after the Mt. Vernon days had set in, but went across in his barge to "neighbor Digges" at Warburton Manor House. After that it was difficult for him to pass Mt. Airy, the sea of Benedict Calvert. His pauses there when taking Mrs. Washington's son, John Park Custis, to school at Annapolis, and the lad's own frequent stops there, going and coming, produced the marriage between John and Eleanor Calvert. The floating bridge was made of logs fastened together and covered with planks, the whole anchored to either shore. Trails Became Highways The Indian trails became the post roads, and gained the distinction of being called the "King's Highways." They were literally the only roads, and over them the chief figures of that time, including Washington, passed on business and pleasure. Of that later, the rivers naturally formed the chief highways and did so until the coming of the railroad, subsequent to the decade of the baronial system. The creeks are numerous, and estates chose usually to place themselves so that water formed a 2 or 3 sided frontier, thus cutting down the cost and trouble of fencing. As will be seen the shores of the rivers formed an unbroken succession of vast estates, for which the waterways were the links of communication. All of the first two centuries of history bases itself on the rivers. Even so late as the assassination of Lincoln the river was the first thought of his slayer, John Wilkes Booth crossed the city of Washington to the Anacostia River and was guided toward Port Tobacco, Md., but paused at Bryantown for Dr. Mudd to treat his injured leg. Eventually he made Pope's Creek set out by night in a rowboat for the Virginia shore, but to his chagrin, found himself back in Maryland near Nanjemoy instead of at Upper Machodoc Creek across the river. Finally he crossed and got to Cedar Grove, hurried south of the Rappahannock and there met his death. The rivers are the life stream of the nation's history and on their shores rises the fabric of this story, whatever it may be. It begins with a paradox and ends with a prophesy. Up to this point it is merely the story of the gift of a king and the unperceived consequences of a planting of civilization. A few ants came out and looked things over. They began by sowing a home

SATURDAY

TWO OLD SOCK DAYS

President Hoover has said that hoarding must stop. Now we haven't space enough to tell about the things we don't agree with Mr. Hoover on—but we're with him on this hoarding deal. They say that if we could get all the old socks in the country loosened up that there would be more money circulating than ever before. It is even whispered that some people are using old fruit jars, relics of palmier days, for staching their shekels. We have decided to give you a first class excuse for shaking out the old sock and busting the fruit jar, and we aren't going to let you put the evil day off until the first of April. On Friday and Saturday we are giving you prices on brand-new merchandise that has just hit the house, but it is going to take CASH MONIES to get these prices. We just want to see a little cash circulating freely for a novelty. If you want it our regular charge business will go on just the same at the regular prices, and on Monday all prices will go back to normal. No price tags will be changed so maybe you had better bring this ad in case we forget what price we are making you.

Now we've done our part, so its up to you to drag the old sock out of the back of the drawer and dig the old fruit jar up out of the garage and lets get a little real money to circulating. Think how that will please Mr. Hoover.

Why should you go around with that down-at-the-heel look when a little cash will make you look so trim in our new spring ladies' footwear. 6.00 styles 4.95. 8.50 styles 6.49.

Why not give the baby a break and get him a new pair of shoes? They are priced from 79 cents up. Real money gets them for 63c. Other reductions proportionately.

We've been wondering when some of these kid's shoes that are being passed along down the line will finally play out. Thinking they are on their last legs now, we recommend a pair of Pied Pipers priced from 2.45 to 4.95. Your sock money will save you 20% on them.

Have you noticed some of these half-soleed pants that are roaming the streets? We saw some yesterday that are fraying around the patch, and if something isn't done quick the law is going to get him. While covering up, the best is the cheapest. A 35.00 two pants Kuppenheimer suit for 29.95 will do the work. Just arrived.

A real, properly made, pre-shrunk, color-fast broadcloth shirt by Philip Jones regularly 95 cents will be mighty soothing to the pocket-book at 79 cents.

Some things may be made to do, but just try an old faded tie and see how you get over. And there isn't much point in trying it when you can shake down with 79 cents or 1.19 and get a new 1.00 or 1.50 one which has just arrived. The 75c variety are 59c.

If you are trying to save money stop dragging the top of your socks on the pavement and buy a pair of Hickox 50 cent garters. Just trickle 39 cents out of the old fruit jar and turn the trick.

Those undershirts you are wearing with the runs down the back and the hems torn out may cover you up, but they make you feel like they look. A new suit of Mansco shirt and shorts will give you that re-made respectable feeling. 75 cent and 1.00 garments for 59 cents and 79 cents sock money.

This 7.95 will be a major operation but you will appreciate the result when you see yourself under one of the new Knox 10.00 felts. 5.00 Knox, 3.95.

Remember this is not old merchandise that we are trying to get rid of but is brand-new best style goods for wear in the coming months. The only hitch is that it takes CASH. The items listed are the only sock items. All sales final.

Nothing will give you that feeling of luxury and general well-being like getting next to these Gordon Chiffon bloomers and cuff pants. We're going to make it as painless as possible by selling you these, 2.95 garments for 1.95.

If you want to ignore the depression entirely, slip into one of these lovely 29.50 dresses. You will know prosperity has returned to you. Its a grand and glorious feeling. All you have to do to get it is shut your eyes and detach 21.19.

This hoarding habit is hard to break all at one sling, so if you simply can't stand the thought of 21.19 let's compromise on one of these 19.75 dresses at 14.95. You can rest assured the material is lovely and the tyle is right.

And if the ante is heart-breaking just let yourself down easy with a 12.95 dress for just 9.85. That certainly reduces the strain on the hosiery and you'll still be a well dressed woman.

That spring coat from 1929 that you have been trying to convince yourself will do for 1932, simply won't. You can put blinders on yourself but you can't hide that couple of feet of skirt sticking out from under it, and how do you expect to explain that funny collar? Why go through that self-consciousness when you can avoid it for 9.85 or 14.95 by getting one of our style-right 12.95 or 19.75 coats?

Figure this one for yourself. When or where have you ever bought 12 pad Kotex 3 for 76 cents?

Good linens will wear a long time but they won't last forever. Somebody around here needs some the worst way because you hav-n't been buying any. We have a gorgeous selection of the very finest priced from 1.35 for a set of six cocktail napkins to 35.00 for a thirteen piece Madeira dinner set, with everything in between. The rustier your money the better it looks, so just figure one-third off these linens when you lay it on the barrel-head.

If the wrench of parting with your pet dollars is more than you can bear you'd be surprised how this genuine Bayers aspirin will ease the pain. 14 cents.

We can't see why anybody with wornout or out-of-date dresses and money in the sock would hesitate to come out of the kinks when a little sewing and less money can fix them up. All silk Corticelli flat crepes, a pick up at our regular price of 89 cents, only 69 cents. Flat and Canton crepes 1.49 grade for 1.15.

Add to that a print dress in rayon or rayon and silk mixtures and you are ready to meet all comers. 45 cent and 95 cent prints. Cash will get them for 37 cents and 77 cents.

For the house dress a 12 cent cotton print for 10 cents, and the beautiful A.B.C. 19 cent printed cotton for 15 cents, will make home seem a brighter place and relieve the depression.

Here's a real break on Corticelli thread—Six strand cotton and mercerized 7 for 25 cents—silk, 3 for 24 cents.

Are you getting tired hanging your ears in the holes in the pillow case? Dig a little deeper into the old sock and relieve that condition with a pair of Pequots neatly packed in a beautiful box. You will find them soft, cool and most soothing—and they are WHOLE. The 1.95 ones for 1.29.

Cost Of City Governments Coming Down

More Than Million Included In Incomplete Report

(By The Associated Press)
STAMFORD — Cost of government is coming down in West Texas as reductions from the previous year amounting to $1,190,102 were shown in an announcement issued Saturday by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, based on reports received from 16 affiliated towns. These are: El Paso, Abilene, Breckenridge, Big Spring, Clarendon, Vernon, Hamlin, Lubbock, Canyon, Dalhart, Post, Memphis, Fort Davis, Mineral Wells, Pecos and Stamford. El Paso showed the largest sum trimmed from the city and school budgets, $418,648. Abilene was second with $167,500, covering all three branches of local government—city, county and school. The more-than-a-million total is far from complete, it was stated in the announcement, since only a few of the reporting points gave figures in all three branches several reporting only on one.

Cost of government will be a major subject for discussion at the West Texas chamber's 13th general convention, set for May 12-13-14 at Sweetwater. Announcement Saturday, said Herman O. James, president of the University of South Dakota, will be one of the key speakers at the tax group conference. James formerly was on the faculty of the University of Texas and is well known as a tax student and commentator.

The funeral was held in Dallas Wednesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jimmy Butler. The deceased formerly made his home in this city.
Miss Bonnie Kirby, superintendent of Elvings & Barcus hospital, was a visitor to Abilene Tuesday, the guest of Mrs. Joe Rutledge.
