In August 27 election

Pampa voters to decide on $5.8 million in street bonds

By JULIA CLARK
Staff Writer

Pampans will decide in a bond election Saturday, August 27 whether all or part of the proposed street improvement projects will be done. If approved the total bond issue, covering seven projects, will be $5.8 million.

The Pampa City Commission voted Tuesday to hold the special election to decide the bond issue for repair and reconstruction of some of the city streets. If all seven projects are approved, the local tax rate will increase 17.94 cents per each $100 dollars of property valuation.

If the seven separate bond issues gain voter approval in the special election, the present city tax rate of 57.9 cents per $100 valuation will increase to a new total of 75.84 cents, according to Frank Smith, city finance director.

Before the commission approved a resolution calling for the bond election, Mayor Calvin Whitley said a consensus of the people who have expressed an opinion on the street improvement program makes three points.

- 1) People would like to see the streets brought up to a good quality, first-class condition.
- 2) They would like to know the work is going to be of a quality nature; and
- 3) They would like to know the streets would be properly maintained once brought up to good quality condition.

The commission and consulting engineer will put before the people of Pampa seven separate proposals which will designate certain streets for repair and or rejuvenation.

The following is a summary of the projects as presented to the city commission by Gene Barber, consulting engineer:

Project 1: $1,200,000
23rd Avenue (Price Road to Navajo)
Kentucky Avenue (Price Road to Lefors)

Harvester (Russell to Browning)
Each of these streets will be widened, patched, or resurfaced as becomes appropriate, according to Barber.

Project 2: $720,000
Duncan Street (Browning to Harvester)

Duncan Street (Harvester to 27th). Barber said the concrete center will be removed and rebuilt from Harvester north to 27th Avenue.

Project 3: $230,000
Somerville Street will be completely re-done from Cook to Francis Streets.

Barber said the project calls for removing all the old concrete and center median (including grass and trees) and then re-constructing to make it a widened throughfare.

Project 4: $500,000
Browning (Somerville to Lefors)
Francis (Hobart to Starkweather)
Foster (Hobart to Starkweather)

According to Barber, these concrete streets will be treated, leveled, sealed and receive an overlay, with the exceptions of those portions of the streets that are brick.

Project 5: $1,000,000
Seal Coat Program - up to year 1986

The proposal is to reestablish and update the annual seal coat program over the next four years. Then continue the maintenance program, doing 20 percent of the streets each year.

Project 6: $1,900,000
Rebuild, reconstruct, over-lay and fix (including dips) as required:

25th Avenue-Washita (Hobart to Navajo)

20th Avenue (Hobart to Duncan)
18th Avenue (Lea to Holly)

Decatur (Summer to Duncan)
Gwendolen (Price Road to Hobart)

Browning (Lefors to Loop 171)
Zimmers (18th to 23rd)

Sumner (Alcock to 23rd)
Primrose (23rd to Cinderella)

North Crest (23rd to Cinderella)
Hobart (21st to 25th)

Russell (Kentucky to 23rd)
Charles (23rd to 25th)

Starkweather (Fredric to Duncan)
Lefors (Darby to Harvester)

Barnes (S. Cuyler to Fredric)
Crawford (S. Hobart to Barrett)

Project 7: $250,000
City's share of neighborhood paving programs.

Under old business the city commission denied the petition to annex the almost three acre plot of ground east of Hobart at McCullough. Dr. Jay Johnson disagreed, saying, "The man will build his trailer park, anyway. If we don't annex the land, we'll have no control." Johnson was referring to the ordinance regulating mobile home parks.

A first reading of an ordinance granting Energas Company the right to require a cash deposit from any consumer of natural gas within the corporate limits of Pampa served by Energas was held. The ordinance allows Energas the right to charge a new or reconnected consumer a deposit of 1 1/2 times the amount of an estimated average monthly bill, or a minimum deposit of $10.

In addition to setting the date for the bond election, the commission appointed Jerry Carlson of Pampa to the board of directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. A rate increase for the employee health insurance program was accepted.

Scheduled a public hearing to discuss zoning change for two-family dwellings on lots near the Calvary Baptist Church and for a doctor's office complex in North Crest section II to be held at the August 9 commission meeting.

Pampa native David Webster presented his plan for a taxi-cab service for Pampa to the commission. A public hearing on his proposal will also be held August 9.

Flat rate telephone increase is approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission today approved a regulatory plan it says will make higher phone bills easier to swallow. Under the action, residential phone customers will see local bills rise an initial $2 a month and businesses, $6 a month, on Jan. 1.

In approving the flat-rate charges, the FCC tossed out a plan it had adopted last December that would have set minimum fees for telephone users to be able to place long-distance calls and substituted the flat-rate charges.

The new fees will be included on telephone bills regardless of whether a customer places any interstate calls over American Telephone & Telegraph's long-distance network or over a competing service and will be in addition to regular local service charges.

The flat-rate "access fees" approved today are designed to shift more of the expense of operating a local telephone company to that company's customers and end the subsidies that have been provided from AT&T's long-distance revenues.

The new fees will take effect at the same time AT&T is broken up into seven independent, regional companies.

The FCC plan, approved on a 4 to 0 vote, will raise residential access charges to $3 a month in 1985 and $4 monthly in 1986. Business rates will stay at $6 until 1987. Charges for the last half of the six-year transition will be set later.

As part of its plan to gradually end the long-distance subsidies, the commission is also requiring AT&T to earmark more of those revenues for local companies during the transition.

The commission has decided such subsidies — now estimated to total more than $10.7 billion in 1984 — should be eliminated to spur competition in the long-distance business. That competition, in turn, is expected to drive down long-distance rates.

Taken as a whole, the agency said long-distance rates might not fall as rapidly under its new plan as originally had been hoped, but consumers would gain the benefit of paying a small, set fee that should not prove too burdensome.

Under the FCC's original plan, consumers would have started paying a minimum $2 monthly fee and businesses, a minimum $4 every month, for access to the AT&T interstate network.

But local companies would have had the option, under the commission's original plan, of setting higher access fees. A local company that imposed the lower fee could have imposed a surcharge on customers who placed long-distance calls over AT&T circuits. The surcharge was expected to have been no more than 25 cents a call.

Then, over a seven-year transition period, the monthly access charge would gradually have increased until it completely covered the subsidies now built into long-distance rates — reaching an estimated $8.50 to $8.75 a month by 1991.

But the FCC said today it was now convinced that plan was too complicated — and possibly unworkable — because consumers using a competing long-distance company, such as MCI, Sprint or IT&T, might be able to avoid any surcharge because those services are "accessed" through local numbers.

The commission's answer was to establish a six-year transition period; to mandate the precise access charge consumers will pay during the early years of the transition, and to eliminate the possibility of surcharges.

Fun day set at Perryton

Hot fun in the summertime will be on tap Saturday at Leatherman Park in Perryton, as the Ochiltree County Chamber of Commerce will be sponsoring the 1983 Fun Day from 11 a.m. until midnight.

The day's event will kick off with a host of booths, activities and special activities at the park and will wind down the with a street dance from 9 p.m. until 12 a.m.

The park will be set up with a number of community and civic organizations sponsoring booths with a variety of foods. Goodies will include corn dogs, soft drinks and chips, baked potatoes, corn-on-the-cob and pickles, pop corn, snow cones, hamburger and trimmings, home-made ice cream, pies and cakes and even Mexican foods.

During the day, an extensive lineup of games and activities will include a golf chipping contest, an obstacle course, fishing games, spin art, three-legged races, sack races, dime toss, car bash, and a special attraction for the younger ones will be a tricycle race and decoration contest.

Activities will continue in the park until 7:30 p.m. Entertainment throughout the day will include dancing, singing, mime and trampoline acts.

Local talents will be featured, as well as professionals from Dallas. After an hour and a half break, Perryton's own "Country Thunder" will crank up for a street dance in the block of Ninth and Main.

According to Alison Wils, chairman of the third annual project, "Fun Day is family-oriented, with activities planned for everyone from babies to senior citizens."

She and her committee would like to extend a warm welcome to any out-of-towners to come and join in the day of fun-Fun Day, this Saturday.

Reagan tells nation 'we don't want war'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is assuring the nation that "we don't want war" in Central America, but critics say a "massive escalation" of military force is increasing the risk of a U.S. combat role.

The president, who hoped his news conference Tuesday night would help clear up questions about the military maneuvers his administration has planned for the Navy and up to 4,000 combat troops, also insisted he saw no comparison with Vietnam.

There have been reports the Pentagon has recommended the administration increase the number of advisers in El Salvador beyond its self-imposed limit of 55. Reagan said he has received no such proposal.

But he added that if the number is increased, the United States could train the Salvadoran army fighting leftist guerrillas "a little faster than we're doing it."

Reagan held out little hope that he would reverse his course of military activity in the region and said:

"Wouldn't there perhaps be a risk if we changed our pattern and withdrew?"

Wouldn't we be sending some kind of a signal that might be the wrong kind of signal to send if we want peace in that area?"

The 34-minute news conference dealt with little but Central America, and Reagan opened with a statement declaring that "there has been entirely too much attention" paid to the military side of his program at the expense of other elements of his policy.

The president, responding to a question about whether the troops would defend themselves if fired upon, said: "We don't want war. But I don't think that you prevent war by letting your personnel out there become the victims."

Moments after the president concluded his 19th nationally broadcast news conference at the White House, Democrats, and at least one Republican senator, sounded critical notes.

Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who is seeking the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, said "after tonight, I'm more certain than ever that the current administration policy is leading us into war in Central America. The president had a duty to carefully define our purposes, but instead was vague and defensive and sought to declare this massive escalation as routine."

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the Reagan policies "increase the risk of American involvement in a shooting war."

The news conference was scheduled as the House neared a vote on a proposal to cut off covert aid to rebels trying to overthrow the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Such a break in funds, Reagan said, "would be a grave mistake."

The first 23 minutes of the news conference dealt entirely with Central America. On other subjects, Reagan:

—Said he hoped that if the Israelis carry out the partial withdrawal from Lebanon that they have announced, it might help the United States persuade the Syrians to pull their troops back.

—Defended his record in appointing women to administration jobs, and declared "I will match our record against any other administration that has ever been here with regard to what we have accomplished for women."

—Declared that he is tempted to view news reports about political espionage during the 1980 presidential campaign as little more than "summer theater." But he said the FBI must look into the possibility that someone broke into the White House or stole presidential documents to give to the Reagan camp.

The president said in the opening statement that the United States was "not seeking a larger presence" in Central America, and pointed out that U.S. troops have not been requested by the nations there.

Canadian rancher dies in early morning fire

CANADIAN - Roy Sheets, a longtime Hemphill County rancher, died here at his home Tuesday morning of smoke inhalation.

Sheets, 81, died before 8:30 a.m. when a fire swept through his two-story home, according to his friend, Lester Hodges, assistant city manager and fire marshal.

Services for Sheets will be 2 p.m. Thursday in the Church Christ with former minister Elmer Bates, now of Panhandle, officiating. Burial will be in the Canadian Cemetery.

Sheets was alone in the house when the fire, apparently caused by an over-loaded circuit in the screened-in back porch, started, fire officials said. Sheets' body was found in a bedroom adjoining the porch.

The screened-in porch was used as an exercise and breathing therapy area by Sheets, who had "breathing problems", according to Hodges. In his investigation Hodges found the plug to a vibrating machine, which was in the outlet, was completely burned. Also in the area were other electrical appliances: an exercise machine, breathing machine and fan, Hodges said.

Hodges said Sheets was known to use his breathing machine and exercise each morning.

Sheets was an early riser, Hodges said. The fact he was not found in his own bedroom, led Hodges to believe Sheets quickly succumbed to smoke from the fire, and before anyone saw the fire. The fire was reported at 8:40 a.m.

The fire spread quickly through the walls to the second floor and attic. The kitchen of a second-story apartment sustained some damage, according to the fire report. The apartment was rented to a teacher who was not at home at the time of the fire.

Three units from the Canadian Fire Department were assisted by trucks from the rural electric co-op and the local cable television contractor, plus a crane from a local concrete company, Hodges said.

The crane was needed to reach the blaze in the upper story and attic of the house. Firemen were on the scene for nearly three hours, about half of that time to extinguish the flames. They remained another hour and a half to control the smoldering embers.

In the report he sent to the state fire marshal, Hodges reported the house a total loss. The structure was a large old house with five or six rooms on each floor and a basement.

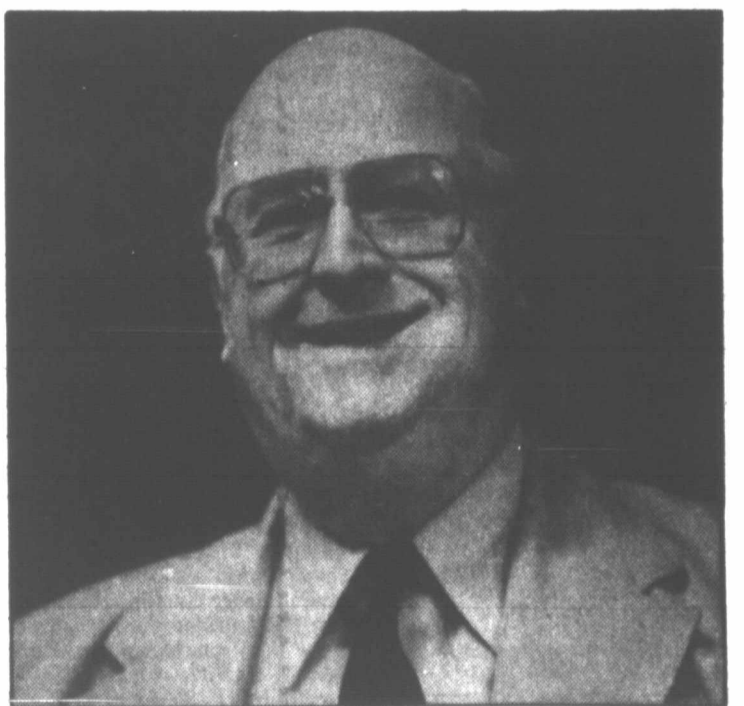

Survivors include: three daughters, Cathryn Sessions of Canadian, Evelyn Ludden of Fritch and Mildred James of Oklahoma City; two brothers, Basel Sheets of Texline and Riley Sheets of Oklahoma City; four sisters, Gertie Archer of Spearman, Opal Cator of Sunray, Jewel Ricks of Oklahoma City and Ruby Bynum of Fort Worth; eight grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren and a great great-grandchild.

weather

The high for Tuesday was 96 degrees, recorded at 3:23 p.m. The overnight low, recorded at 4:30 this morning, was 74. SHERIFF RUFÉ JORDAN

Sheriff Rufe Jordan honored by his peers

His peers in the Sheriff's Association of Texas named Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan as the state's top lawman and gave him the prestigious Tom Tellespen Award at the association's annual convention Tuesday in Amarillo.

The award was presented to Jordan at the state sheriff's annual banquet Tuesday evening at the Amarillo Hilton Inn.

Jordan, 70, is Texas's longest-serving county sheriff. Jordan has held the office of Gray County Sheriff for 33 years and has worked in law enforcement about 50 years.

The Pampa sheriff's life and work has been featured in stories in the major state newspapers and Texas Monthly Magazine. Jordan must be savoring his surprise award. A Pampa deputy said Jordan was supposed to return from the Amarillo convention Tuesday night, but he stayed over after receiving the Tellespen Award.

The Tom Tellespen Award is given each year to the peace officer whose life has been most dedicated to law enforcement. A fellow member of the Sheriff's Association nominates a candidate, and the association's board of directors selects the annual winner.

The statewide sheriff's convention started Monday morning and concluded this afternoon (see story page 3). Speakers at the convention included Governor Mark White, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, Texas Department of Corrections Director W.J. Estelle and State Senator Bill Sarpius.

Prosecutor says tape recording will put woman at death scene

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Prosecutor Ted Campagnolo says a tape recording he plans to play in court this week will place a La Feria mother at the scene of her former husband's murder.

Sherry Wolf, 21, is on trial for murder in state district court for the July 16, 1982, slaying of Billy Staton, whose concealed tape recorder captured the sounds of his own slaying.

Campagnolo, a Cameron County assistant district attorney, alleges Mrs. Wolf was a "willing participant" in a plan to kill Staton and his fiancée, Leticia Castro.

Prosecutors contend Mrs. Wolf and her husband Paul Wolf planned the killings to end a bitter court battle over rights Staton had been granted to visit his young daughter by Mrs. Wolf.

A man serving a life sentence for his part in the double murder told jurors during the first day of testimony Tuesday that Mrs. Wolf "was all for it" when he and the Wolfs discussed the plan to kill the pair.

Glenn Henderson, a 19-year-old ninth grade dropout, said Mrs. Wolf helped scout out a place where the bodies would be dumped and helped plan where Staton would sit when he came to the Wolf house to pick up his daughter.

The night of the slayings, Henderson said he and the Wolfs smoked some marijuana, then waited for Staton to arrive on his scheduled visit.

After Staton entered the house, Henderson testified, Mrs. Wolf placed the 2 1/2-year-old child on her lap and kept Staton talking so Wolf could sneak up behind him and strike him with a metal bar, Henderson said.

Mrs. Wolf has pleaded innocent to the charge. Her attorney, Jim Bates of Edinburg, would not comment on the case.

Campagnolo told jurors Tuesday that Mrs. Wolf ordered her husband to "hit him again" because the first blows to Staton's head did not kill him.

Prosecutors say Miss Castro was slain by Henderson and Wolf as she waited in the car for Staton to return.

The seven-woman, five-man jury will be the second to hear the bizarre tape recording, which captured the sounds of Staton's conversation with his daughter, the attack on Staton, the child's screams and Staton's final dying gasp.

Wolf, 21, was convicted and sentenced to life in prison by a state district court jury April 20 for Miss Castro's death.

He had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to both slayings, testifying at his trial that he "went crazy" and killed the couple after having witnessed Staton's daughter scream during visits with her father.

He later pleaded guilty to murder in Staton's death and was sentenced to a concurrent life prison term by state District Judge Darrell Hester.

Henderson pleaded guilty to murder for having aided Wolf in Miss Castro's slaying and testified against Wolf at his trial.

Henderson also is serving a life prison sentence for Miss Castro's murder.

Electric firms get new fuel rule

AUSTIN (AP) — A new fuel cost rule that a Public Utility Commission official says was demanded by Texans goes into effect Sept. 1.

Under the new rule, approved 3-0 Tuesday, the fuel portion of consumers' electric bills will be based on a formula, and reviewed monthly by the PUC. The old system, blasted as unfair by Gov. Mark White during his 1982 campaign, allowed electric companies to pass the entire cost of fuel to consumers.

"Come Sept. 1, the people of this state expect (the automatic pass-through) to stop," Assistant PUC General Counsel Mark Zeppa told the commission Tuesday.
"It's what the people of this state mandated," Zeppa said of the new rule, which was adopted on an emergency basis and faces another vote. "It's something we're going to have to work out slowly as we go through it."

The PUC rule covers all investor-owned electric companies, and requires them to come to the commission in September to have a fuel rate set. That "interim" rate will remain in effect until the company comes in for a rate case, or the commission orders the company in for a review of the fuel charge.

Under an annual "reconciliation" process, the commission will adjust differences between the amount collected by the companies and their actual fuel costs.

Consumers will get refunds, with interest, if a company overcollects. If there is an undercollection, the company will be allowed to recover the money from consumers, according to PUC Chairman Al Erwin.

Steve Ledbetter of Houston Lighting & Power predicted a "dollar mismatch" that would leave the company with less money than it needs to cover fuel costs. If the new rule is in effect in 1982, HL&P would have received $127 million less than it needed, Ledbetter said.

Jonathan Day, representing Texas Industrial Energy Consumers, said, "In the future, the trendline will be to overrecovery."

The rule requires annual "reconciliation" of fuel charges. Customers will be reimbursed by companies for any overcharges. The commission will allow the companies to recover from consumers any undercharges.

Eddie Watson, representing Texas Utilities, said the new rule won't mean lower bills.

"I don't believe any of you are anticipating you are going to change the cost of fuel by establishing a fuel factor," he told the commissioners.

Erwin said the new rule is fair. He agreed with Texas Municipal League lawyer Don Butler that utility companies have no right to expect full recovery of fuel charges, as they were able to get under the automatic pass-through.

"Nobody is guaranteed anything in this game," said Erwin. "There's no reason why the fuel should be guaranteed either."

Survey reveals changing views of U.S. Catholics about afterlife

NEW YORK (AP) — When vacationers return from the beach and their news-watching hiatus in September, they may not recognize the network nightly news. NBC and ABC will have revamped anchor lineups, while public television plans a ground-breaking hour-long evening newscast.

Beginning Sept. 5, Roger Mudd will not co-anchor the "NBC Nightly News," leaving Tom Brokaw as sole anchor. In an announcement Tuesday, NBC said Mudd will become principal reporter of NBC's "White Paper" documentary series and senior political correspondent.

Mudd, 55, did not mention the job shift on Tuesday's "Nightly News," which he signed off with a smile.

"I did not and do not agree with the decision," Mudd said in an interview after the broadcast. "I think it was short-sighted and based on ratings."

Reuven Frank, president of NBC News, said in a statement: "We have assured Roger that the decision was not based on considerations of journalistic merit. But it was our judgment, after 16 months, that the anchoring of 'NBC Nightly News' should be done in New York, and not split between two cities."

Mudd worked from Washington, Brokaw from New York.

It was the second time Mudd lost a prized anchor position. He was passed over in favor of Dan Rather when Walter Cronkite retired from the "CBS Evening News."

Mudd said it was different this time because he has only been at NBC three years compared to 19 years at CBS. But he said, "It's not that I'm taking this one easy."

With seven years left on his NBC

agreement, Mudd said he has not decided whether to ask out of his contract. A no-nonsense newsmen with a nose for politics, Mudd said he liked documentaries, which "get you close to straight, unadorned journalism."

Mudd said he and ABC have had no job discussions, either before or after the death last week of Frank Reynolds, the Washington-based anchor on ABC's "World News Tonight."

Richard Wald, senior vice president of ABC News, said Tuesday that ABC would consider talking to Mudd, but not to replace Reynolds. "We're 99 percent sure that we will find a replacement for Frank Reynolds internally," he said.

Peter Jennings, ABC's London-based anchor, is filling in for Reynolds, at least through September.

Israel, PLO condemn West Bank killings

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Reinforced Israeli troops patrolled the West Bank city of Hebron today with orders to keep residents off the streets after the occupied territory's worst terrorist violence in three years.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin denounced the masked gunmen who killed three Arab university students and wounded 33 in Hebron on Tuesday. He vowed to bring the killers to justice and called their act "a despicable crime."

But Palestinian activists blamed the violence on Jewish settlers encouraged by Begin's government to move into the West Bank. The Palestine Liberation Organization demanded an emergency U.N. Security Council meeting to discuss "the massacre of Palestinian students in Hebron."

In east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley town of Jdeida, PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's elite "Squad 17" guerrilla unit repelled an attack by mutineers in house-to-house combat Tuesday that killed 14 people.

Reporters who reached the town 19 miles east of Beirut late Tuesday said Arafat's men were digging foxholes and barricading streets to repel more attacks, despite a cease-fire.

Arafat's loyalists in east Lebanon have been fighting a mutiny since May 7, when several officers in his Fatah faction rebelled. The mutineers claim Arafat is not militant enough against Israel.

No group claimed responsibility for the killings at the Hebron university, where gunmen raked the campus with rifle fire and escaped by car. Outraged Palestinian residents shuttered shops and stoned Israeli occupation troops, who slapped a curfew on the predominantly Arab city of 70,000 and banned the press.

In Nabulus, troops shot an Arab woman protester dead and wounded another Tuesday during a Palestinian demonstration protesting the Hebron attack. An Israeli soldier was reported hurt by hurled rocks.

Israel's military command put the entire West Bank occupation force on alert, rushed in reinforcements and erected roadblocks in attempts to catch the killers and avert widespread Arab protests.

The Hebron attack was the worst West Bank violence since 1980, when six Jewish settlers were slain in an ambush and bombs maimed two radical Palestinian mayors.

Arab-Jewish tension has flared in the West Bank since Israel captured the territory from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East War and began encouraging Jewish settlers to move in. In Washington, President Reagan said Tuesday he hoped Israel's partial pullback from Lebanon's central mountains to a line 25 miles south of Beirut would be the first step in a complete pullout of its troops from that country.

Lebanese officials have criticized the Israeli pullback, saying it could lead to the permanent partition of Lebanon into the Syrian-held north and east and Israeli-controlled south, with only Beirut under government control.

Nation's crops reported in good shape despite hot, dry weather

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although hot weather has scorched much of the nation, Agriculture Department analysts say crops in America's fertile Corn Belt remain in fair to good condition as they head into critical development stages.

But those same analysts, in their weekly crop update, warn that harvest prospects could begin deteriorating without a break in the heat wave accompanied by adequate rains.

"Crops in the Corn Belt are drawing on generally adequate subsoil moisture supplies," the weekly report issued Tuesday said.

"Scattered showers brought some relief to portions of the Corn Belt (last week), but dry conditions continued stressing crops in those areas not receiving precipitation," the report said.

While cooler temperatures will help as the corn crop moves to the pollination stage and soybeans begin pod development, the analyst said additional moisture is needed to guarantee full crop development. At the end of last week, development of both corn and soybeans in the major producing states was running well behind normal.

The weather situation, coupled with drastically reduced acreage for corn this year due to the administration's payment-in-kind program, has been forcing corn market prices to soar.

USDA announced late Tuesday the release for sale on the open market of corn placed under government loan in the long-term reserve after July 1, 1982. The decision was forced when national average market prices hit the release trigger of $3.25 a bushel.

Less than two weeks earlier, release of corn in the other long-term reserve — that entered between Oct. 6, 1981, and June 30, 1982, was announced when prices hit $3.15 a bushel.

Although 2.5 billion bushels had been held in both reserves, some analysts estimate only about 1 billion will actually be available for open-market sale since the rest is pledged for use in the PIK program.

In less than a month now, the national average corn price has jumped 17 cents a bushel. The daily spot price is up about a quarter.

On Capitol Hill, concern about the possibility of a serious drought developing in the Midwest prompted the House

Agriculture Committee to back off its demand that Agriculture Secretary John Block announce the farm program for the 1984 corn crop two months early.

Instead, the committee voted to move the deadline for the program announcement up only six weeks to Sept. 30. Block has said previously that he hopes to announce the program by then anyway.

Announcement of the program — mainly comprised of the administration's requirements for acreage reduction to remain eligible for price supports and any price support changes — is currently required by Nov. 15.

Backers of the accelerated announcement date say farmers have not been getting enough notice of government price support requirements to be able to properly plan for the coming crop.

Four-foot check for Texas Tech

Canadian's Malouf Abraham, standing center, and his wife Iris help Texas Tech President Lauro Cavazos hold the large check for more than $100,000 the Abrahams presented Texas Tech Medical Foundation recently. The donation was made in honor of Elmer Tarbox, seated, a former Texas legislator and onetime Tech football star.

Canadian's Abraham makes gift to Tech's Brain Research Center

CANADIAN — A four-foot check for more than $100,000 was presented to Texas Tech recently by Canadian's Malouf Abraham for an eventual $4 million project to study the human brain.

The oil millionaire made the donation to the university in honor of Elmer Tarbox, a former Texas legislator and onetime Tech football star who is a victim of Parkinson's Disease, a neurological disorder that affects the body's motor system.

According to Texas Tech University President Lauro Cavazos, the Tech Brain Study Center will be a three-campus, computer-connected network of scientists and clinical researchers working together to study the brain and its functions.

The Amarillo, Lubbock and El Paso campuses of Tech's Health Sciences Center will be involved in the project. The center will be administered by the Lubbock branch.

Abraham, who has donated much money to area charities and to Tech, said he has had a longtime interest in neurological disorders.

"I'm proud to be able to give this gift in honor of my longtime friend Elmer Tarbox," Abraham said.

Abraham met Tarbox in the Texas Legislature. Abraham spearheaded the drive which resulted in the creation by the legislature in 1971 of the Tarbox Parkinson's Institute.

The legislature provided funds for the free clinic at the Lubbock campus of the school for victims of the disorder.

Abraham's donation was the beginning of Tech's efforts to raise $4 million to fund the research center, and Cavazos said Abraham "is showing us (the university) the way."

The university president observed, "in the beginning, someone has to start something."

The son of a pioneer Canadian merchant, Abraham grew up in Canadian and attended Texas Tech.

Abraham served two terms in the Texas Legislature in the 1960s and is a former mayor of Canadian. An independent oil operator who is also in the real estate business, Abraham was selected by the Tech Ex-Students Association in 1981 as a distinguished alumnus.

Five testify before the grand jury looking at attorney general's records

AUSTIN (AP) — A Houston lawyer who said Attorney General Jim Mattox threatened his law firm was among five witnesses who testified before a grand jury investigating Attorney General Jim Mattox' 1982 campaign finance report.

The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story in its Wednesday editions that the lawyer, Thomas McDade, a partner in Fulbright & Jaworski, recorded two June 20 conversations with Mattox and turned the tapes over to the grand jury.

McDade refused to comment about reports he had tape-recorded his conversation with Mattox, but a tape-recorder was seen carried into the grand jury room Tuesday.

Grand jurors retired after 9 p.m. Tuesday without returning any indictments, and Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle said the Mattox case is not over.

"The investigation is continuing," Earle said. "The grand jury will meet again on Thursday."

Witnesses subpoenaed included three lawyers of the Houston firm of Fulbright & Jaworski and two people from Mattox' office — Assistant Attorney General Robert T. "Buddy" Lewis and attorney Susan Voss, both of the division that oversees the approval of bonds.

Ms. Voss and Lewis were subpoenaed because of accusations by McDade that Mattox threatened last month to put the law firm out of the bond business because of a dispute in another case.

McDade, who made the accusation to several news reporters last week, and two colleagues in his firm, Wiley Caldwell and Edward Esquivel, testified before the grand jury Tuesday and left without comment.

McDade said last week the attorney general threatened to put Fulbright & Jaworski out of the bond business unless McDade agreed not to question Janice Mattox, the attorney general's sister, a Dallas attorney.

Mattox denied making the threat, although he said he told McDade the state would give "close scrutiny" to bond packages handled by McDade's firm.

The Dallas Morning News said sources who heard the tapes allegedly made by McDade said that Mattox, while discussing the subpoena of his sister, told McDade: "We are both in a trap."

The newspaper said McDade told fellow attorneys the statement Mattox referred to was McDade's refusal to withdraw the subpoena.

The sources told the News the tapes also record Mattox saying, "You've got to find a way to get us out of this trap, McDade."

The News said the sources also said when Arthur Mitchell, a top Mattox aide, joined in the conversation and offered to try to work out a compromise, Mattox said: "Arthur, you don't have the power to negotiate that anymore."

Mattox and the Houston law firm are opponents in a $1.7 billion lawsuit filed by South Texas rancher-oilman Clinton Manges against Mobil Oil Corp. Manges sued Mobil over oil and gas taken from his ranch. Mattox intervened on Manges' behalf because the state owns some of the mineral rights to the land.

McDade said he wanted to question Ms. Mattox about her $125,000 loan from a Seattle bank and any financial ties with Manges.

McDade accused Mattox of holding up a $329 million bond issue by the Lower Colorado River Authority, which also is represented by Fulbright & Jaworski.

However, Esquivel said the LCRA delay was caused simply by an incorrect interest rate on the printed bonds that had to be corrected.

LCRA Finance Director Jesse Logan, who was among the people meeting behind closed doors with grand jurors Tuesday, said earlier that Lewis told him the bond issue approval would be held up because of differences between Mattox and Fulbright & Jaworski.

Teen-age offenders to be punished by peers

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The Odessa City Council has approved a proposal that will put the punishment of many juvenile offenders in the hands of other teen-agers.

The new teen court, which was approved Tuesday, is scheduled to go into effect by November, court coordinator Natalie Rothstein said.

The new teen court is an alternative to processing the juvenile offenders through regular courts, and is based on the philosophy "that a youthful law violator does not continue to be an offender when a peer jury decides punishment," Ms. Rothstein said.

Studies of teen courts used around the country have shown "that young people not only stay out of trouble ... but that hundreds of thousands of dollars are saved by the community," according to a brochure passed out to the council.

The teen-age jury will not decide guilt or innocence, but instead will assess punishment to "fit the crime," Ms. Rothstein said.

Police say woman killed by bomb wanted revenge

HOUSTON (AP) — A 32-year-old woman who was killed when a pipe bomb she was building exploded may have planned to use the homemade device against a former boyfriend, police say.

Anna Lia Cooke died of massive chest injuries she suffered from the blast early Tuesday at her southwest Houston apartment, police said. The explosion shattered windows and set off burglar alarms in other apartments.

Detective Ted Boyd said investigators believe Ms. Cooke, who came to the United States from Rome in 1979, may have planned to "use the bomb on her ex-boyfriend."

Nicholas Craig, a companion of Ms. Cooke, said she was angry with a former boyfriend and talked about building a bomb.

Police discovered several books describing how to make a bomb while searching Ms. Cooke's apartment. Investigators also found a battery and a clock they believe the woman planned to attach to the explosive.

Presiding Judge Ken Spencer of Crane can overrule punishment if he feels undue degradation or humiliation is involved, or that the punishment is too severe.

Juveniles would be sent to teen court by either accepting the alternative when appearing before the Municipal Court clerk on a traffic violation, or by referral from juvenile probation officers or the juvenile court.

Only certain misdemeanor offenders would be eligible to have their punishment decided by the teen court, and they already must have pleaded guilty to the Municipal Court clerk or juvenile authorities.

Spencer is only expected to hold court twice a month, but Ms. Rothstein said more frequent sessions may be needed because of the high number of juvenile traffic violations — seven a day.

Parents will play a role in the court's operation. They must attend a referral meeting with Ms. Rothstein for an explanation of the program and the youth's rights.

Sheriffs told prisoners should be out of tents by September

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — About 4,000 prisoners are still sleeping in tents at state prison units, but a new 1,000-bed facility should allow them to be back inside by Sept. 1, according to the director of the Texas Department of Corrections.

The new facility will be made possible by $55 million allocated by the Texas Legislature in a 1982 summer special session and other funds garnered during the recent regular session, Jim Estelle told the annual convention of the Sheriff's Association of Texas on Tuesday.

Estelle told the law officers that although the economic crisis in Texas has limited his budget for the next two years, it could help prison reform efforts in the state.

"It's very possible," Estelle said. "In the history of the United States, a lot of social problems have been solved by tough economic realities. When the economy goes bad, people can become very creative."

Estelle said the Legislature this year finally was faced with economic reality in making budget allocations to the TDC. Legislators were unable to solve problems of prison overcrowding by building new prisons, and Estelle said they were forced to look at other alternatives — including halfway houses.

Estelle said legislators also were forced to create new probation and early parole programs for non-violent criminals.

Despite a budget crunch, lawmakers realized some money would be necessary for construction when prison officials began putting prisoners in tents, Estelle said.

The extra 1,000 beds should end the use of tents by Sept. 1 — if the new parole, probation and halfway houses work, Estelle said.

While Estelle would not give the Legislature new programs a full endorsement, he said the ideas are definitely worth trying.

"These are things that I wish had been passed 10 years ago in a progressive sort of way. These are programs that are more innovative and creative. The only thing they really lack is widespread acceptance in the community," Estelle said.

"But I don't think anybody can suggest yet whether they went too far or didn't do enough. We're going to have to evaluate these programs during the next two years and see where we go from here. I really hope they work. You've got to

State revenues lag behind estimates

AUSTIN (AP) — Top state officials and legislators know now that Texas' revenues, hard hit by the oil and gas industry slump, are not keeping up with state spending.

The Legislative Budget Board, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis, heard Tuesday that state revenues are lagging behind Comptroller Bob Bullock's estimates, and Texas could suffer a shortfall of up to $500 million by 1987.

Later, the Highway Cost Index Committee and the Foundation School Fund Committee, headed by Gov. Mark White and Hobby, heard reports that highway costs would be down $18.4 million in 1984 but it would cost $20.3 more in state aid to the state's public schools in this and the next school year.

Hobby, chairman of the Budget Board, a group of Senate and House members who originate the state's spending plan, said it was "premature" to predict a special legislative session would be needed to pass new taxes to make up for lost revenue.

He said reports did show that total revenues would fall short of the comptroller's estimates, particularly on the sales tax and the oil production tax.

"The gas production tax probably will exceed the comptroller's estimate, but there is no question we are looking at a smaller beginning balance (for the

be an optimist in this business or you'll fall out of your tree," he said.

Estelle also told the convention that every state agency is having to live with new methods of operation because the Legislature was forced to make drastic budget cuts.

"It was pretty obvious the Legislature was not of the mind to build more prisons. The 68th Legislature was in the most difficult financial situation in recent memory. They had to make tough decisions," Estelle said. "This session was a financial disaster for everybody. We weren't singled out."

'Illegal' coffee

When is government busy doing something it has absolutely no business at all doing? When it cooperates in a cartel scheme that more than doubles the price U.S. coffee drinkers pay for their brew and then spends more taxpayers' money enforcing this outrageous fleecing of consumers.

For some incomprehensible reason the U.S. government chooses to punish U.S. coffee drinkers by cooperating with the International Coffee Organization, a cartel serving the interests of governments of countries where coffee is grown. The ICO sets quotas to keep prices artificially high, muttering the sort of nonsense about stability in under-developed countries that would fool only a diplomat to justify this global extortion.

The U.S. is completely reliant on imports for coffee (except for a small amount of expensive premium beans grown in Hawaii). One would think that a U.S. government with the interests of "its" citizens at heart would, at the least, ignore such an extortion scheme, and, at the most, denounce and undermine it. Instead, the U.S. government helps to enforce it.

How much does the government make citizens suffer through this unprincipled scheme? Well, this last year there has been what government officials choose to call "overproduction" in coffee - producing countries amounting to 40 percent. As a result, while the ICO wholesale price is about $1.25 per pound, the free-market price is about 50 cents per pound.

A bonanza for caffeine fans? No such luck. Not only is the ICO holding fast to its inflated price by setting quotas and controlling exports, but U.S. Customs officials have mobilized all manner of agents to seize coffee "illegally" brought into the U.S. In the last six months alone they have seized over 11 million pounds of beans defined as contraband.

Whenever governments erect absurd schemes to keep prices higher than their market levels (prompting the "overproduction" they subsequently lament), you may be sure that some enterprising folks will find a way around the rules and get products to people who want them and are willing to pay for them. Governments are pleased to call these benefactors of mankind "smugglers" or "black marketeers," though they seldom deign to put them out of business permanently by abolishing absurd rules.

In coffee it works this way. Coffee producers who are members of ICO are permitted to sell their "surplus" to people in countries whose governments are not stupid enough to join the ICO, like Saudi Arabia, at 50 cents a pound. Thus a dealer could buy Colombian coffee, ostensibly for Saudi Arabia, ship to another ICO country for transshipment, load it onto another ship (with various bogus documents) and ship it to the U.S. Thanks to the stupid quotas, there's a tidy profit in what might appear to be wasted effort.

Believe it or not, the Customs people actually have a task force assigned to thwart this little business which owes its existence to absurd and anti-social government regulations.

So not only does the U.S. government cooperate in the systematic fleecing of U.S. residents who drink coffee, it takes money from all taxpayers and uses it to try to prevent Americans from getting any benefit from the fact that the free-market price of coffee is currently low.

Do you wonder why taxes and the cost of living are high?

Those fallen eagles

Those recent pictures of bald eagles laid out in rows were a disgusting reminder of man's capacity for greed.

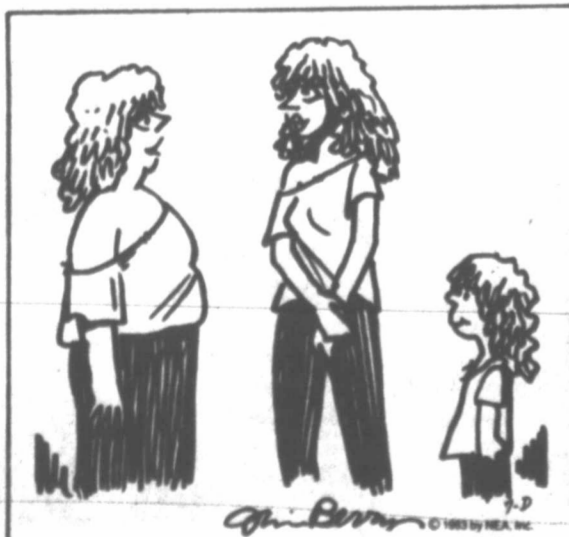

The dead birds, which once soared majestically over U.S. territory, were bought by federal agents for up to $1,000 each during an undercover "sting" operation to catch killers and traffickers in bald eagles.

Bald eagle feathers, talons, bones and beaks are said to bring high prices on a black market in native American artifacts.

The bald eagle was adopted as the national emblem more than 200 years ago by Founding Fathers who thought the grand bird, a native of North America, symbolized the young nation's courage and freedom.

Killing bald eagles is a federal offense, punishable by a year in jail and a $5,000 fine. Authorities ought to throw the book at the miserable miscreants who think so little of the nation's emblem that they slaughter the birds for money.

Weather is no friend to man

By OSCAR COOLEY

Of the nine planets in the solar system, Earth is the only one that is suited to human life, and one wonders at times whether it really is. Certainly, nature at times does things that makes life tough for man.

In both Africa and South America, people in one area are dying from lack of water while in another, not far distant, they are being drowned - in floods.

In North America, our present concern is with the floods along the Colorado river, but scientists tell us the Ogallala aquifer, or underground lake which waters the Great Plains bread basket, is drying up and could spell nationwide hunger in future, long after the Colorado floods are forgotten.

Why these climatic changes? It is hard to say. However, they seem to be due to changes in both ocean currents and currents of air. The warm "El Nino" ocean current, which flows south in the Pacific west of South America, has moved closer to that continent.

Meanwhile, an unusually strong jet stream of cool air is blowing from east to west across Argentina and Chile. Meeting "El Nino," it has caused rainfall that is three times the normal precipitation. Many crops in Argentina and southern Brazil have been ruined.

In the U.S., the winds from the Pacific brought heavy snowfall to the Rockies in the month of May. Melting in June, this resulted in a heavy run-off in the Colorado river. For a time, this was held back in reservoirs in Colorado and Utah. When, threatened by more snow melt, the authorities released the dammed-up water, the Colorado could not hold all of it, and disastrous floods occurred in northwest Arizona and southern California. These floods may continue into August.

The mischief all this began with the changes in the ocean and air currentism, but why did they change? No one knows. Could volcanoes in the ocean floor be responsible? One, off the coast of Hawaii is belching millions of tons of lava and ash into the ocean bed. It may be adding another island to the Hawaiian chain. Can this eruption be disturbing the Pacific enough to account for these climatic changes?

In the American midwest, too, the weather is abnormal - abnormally good for the crops. The yield of winter wheat is expected to exceed 40 bushels to the acre, a record. In most areas, the prospect for oats, barley, corn and soybeans also is excellent.

This is bad news for Reagan and for the taxpayers. The bigger the crops, the more it costs the government to support their prices! Nature cannot be blamed for this.

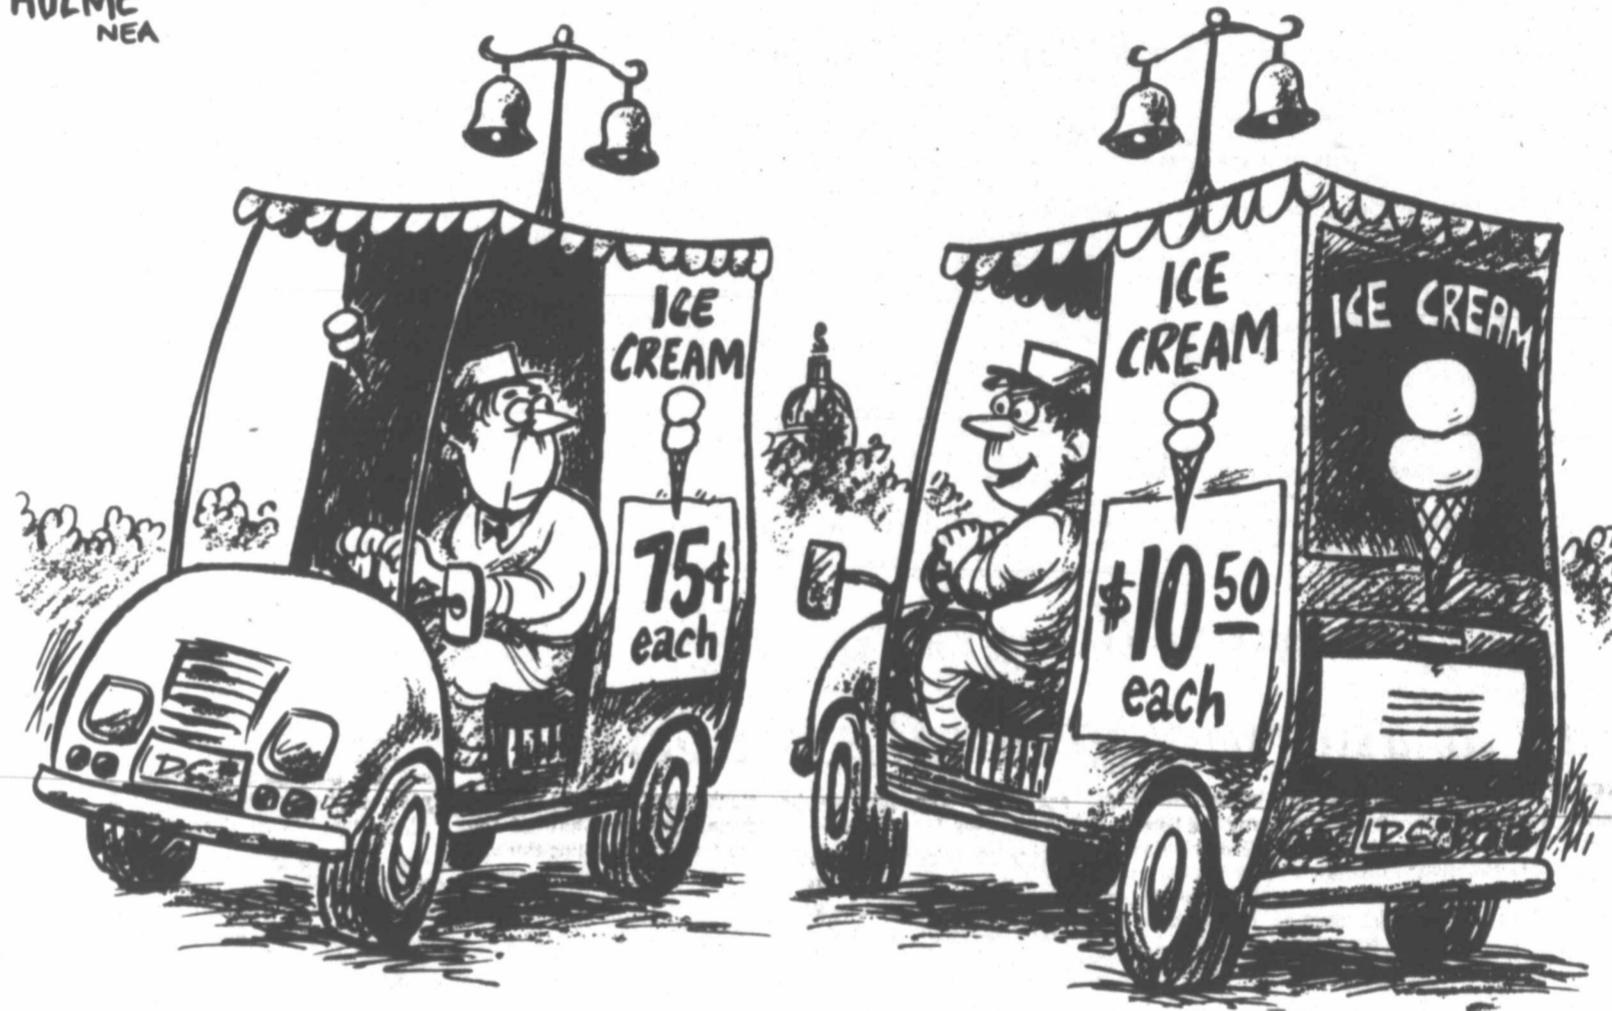

There seems to be a scarcity of insects this summer. I have seen almost no potato bugs, no bean beetles, and one can sit outdoors in the evening and not be unduly pestered by mosquitos. This seems too good to be true.

Whatever the weather is, man must put up with it. He can make rain by "seeding" the clouds - if he has the right kind of clouds, and then only to a limited extent. Generally speaking, the weather is beyond man's control.

Of all the heavenly bodies with which man is familiar, Earth seems to be the only one that is favorable to man, but even Earth is none too friendly at times. Man has to learn that Nature is neutral to him. It cares not a whit whether he survives or perishes.

The total human population of the Earth is growing, which seems to reflect human success in adaptation, but continued growth in numbers is not sure. Things can happen - radical changes in climate, for example - which will greatly reduce or even eliminate the human race.

Self-appointed misleaders

By PAUL HARVEY

Professors S. Robert Lichter and Stanley Rothman, George Washington University and Smith College, are the researchers who first held a mirror to the collective face of the news media and colored us "red."

They've done it again. This time, for Public Opinion magazine, they call themselves Center For Law and Social Policy, or Children's Defense fund, or Women's Legal Defense Fund - they most surely sound "representative."

But this new survey discovers from a sampling of 157 leaders and senior staff in the public interest movement that:

Most believe the U.S. should adopt socialism.

Ninety - four percent want government to redistribute income from the rich to the poor.

Over 90 percent usually vote Democratic; only 2 percent voted for Reagan.

The public figures they most admire are Ralph Nader and Ted Kennedy.

The next time you hear the name of any consumer group, civil rights group; any group working for governmental and social reform, it will be well to evaluate its recommendations against this understanding of its motives.

Their leaders are mostly individuals in their thirties, highly educated and well paid. Seventy - eight percent are lawyers.

Nearly all consider themselves "liberal." (Surveys of the American population generally reveal only 25 percent consider themselves "liberal.")

When asked who runs the country, they replied "business."

And when asked who should run the country - you guessed it - they named themselves.

Thanks to a teacher

During a recent interview I was asked to name three non-relatives who had been a significant influence in my life, tell a little about our relationship, then write a note to each of them. Of several wonderful teachers I had while at Pampa, I selected Mrs. Lester of Woodrow Wilson Elementary School. It has been over 35 years since I last saw Mrs. Lester and I haven't the slightest idea as to her whereabouts.

The brief message could well be from any of thousands of students to any of hundreds of Pampa teachers, so I thought you might possibly brighten someone's day by including this note in your editorial section.

It has been many years since you taught me how to read during the week and how to live on Sundays (in Sunday School). Your good influence on me has been significant and hopefully transmitted to many others through my life.

You and the many other fine mentors I've been blessed with may never know how much you have been appreciated over the years. This brief note is simply to say THANK YOU. Thank you for what you have done for me and for the world through your teaching and living.

Joys of a Model A

My husband, Dick Bennett, and myself have had the pleasure of being in the Founder's Day Parade, and also the Rodeo Parade last Saturday. We were driving the 1930 shiny black Model A Coupe with the rumble seat. The car belongs to my dad, James Waldrop. Because of physical problems, Daddy is no longer able to participate in parades, so we've been driving the Model A for him.

I saw channel 10 filming, and waved from the rumble seat. Daddy was thrilled to see his beloved car on the news Saturday afternoon. I'd just like to tell the people who watched the parade and - or the news reel of the parade, that the 1930 black Model A Coupe belongs to him. He's had that car for 17 years, and before becoming disabled, had taken apart and redone every piece of that car. This Model A means everything to my dad, and his physical deterioration has even robbed him of being able to drive it, as his drivers license restricts him to automatic transmissions.

His devotion to the car is great and he has taken legal steps to see that it remains in the family. I'd like to extend a special thanks to the Rodeo Association and Channel 10 News for bringing some pleasure and pride to my Dad by allowing him to share his beloved Model A with Pampa.

I'd also like to ask why there was nothing in the paper about the parade. There were numerous people at the parade who were commenting on that. Lots of us didn't know where or how to register, or what time it was or anything. Also, I'm curious about the unidentified beige Model A mentioned in the Pampa News. We didn't see a beige one, only another black one without a rumble seat. We'd like to see the beige Model A if anyone knows the owners.

Was it discriminatory for a pension plan to pay a woman less than her husband because she would probably live longer? Only if her husband was still around when they both reached 100.

As long as men continue to drop out of the plan by kicking off before women, there is no discrimination. Men are usually considerate enough not to stick around to collect.

If men took better care of ourselves, we would live longer and there would be true equality. But insurance companies keep harping on the statistics, so we worry and get heart attacks.

Fidel Castro calls the Reagan administration 'brutal, sinister'

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — President Fidel Castro says the "brutal and sinister" Reagan administration is trying to create an atmosphere of terror to break the will of Nicaragua's leftist government.

In a fiery 90-minute speech to hundreds of thousands of people jammed into Santiago late Tuesday, Castro said the U.S. decision to conduct large-scale military exercises off Nicaragua contrasts sharply with recent Nicaraguan peace overtures and demonstrates what he called President Reagan's war-mongering.

The occasion was the 30th anniversary of an attack by Castro-led rebels on a Santiago army barracks, an event that triggered the revolution against dictator Fulgencio Batista and propelled Castro into political prominence.

Five years after the July 26, 1953, attack, Castro's revolutionaries marched triumphantly into Havana and established what later became a Communist government with strong ties to the Soviet Union.

The atmosphere had been festive during anniversary activities over the preceding days but changed dramatically as Castro, resurrecting a long list of grievances, delivered one of his most stridently anti-U.S. speeches in years.

After citing what he described as the revolution's glowing achievements, he assailed American policies across a broad front, emphasizing U.S. support of rightist governments in Central America and covert aid to right-wing insurgents battling Nicaragua's Sandinista government.

Castro said the United States may have been able to impose its will on Nicaragua while right-wing President Anastasio

Somoza ruled, but that the country's revolution four years ago has enabled Nicaraguans "to make life miserable for any aggressor, no matter how powerful."

President Reagan contends Cuba and Nicaragua are supplying El Salvador's leftist rebels with weapons, inciting revolution elsewhere in Central America and attempting to bully their non-communist neighbors with huge arms buildups.

Castro declined to say what Cuba would do if the United States attacked Nicaragua. But he supported Nicaragua's offer last week to negotiate a non-aggression pact with Honduras and to discuss ways to eliminate arms shipments to El Salvador's insurgents.

The Cuban leader also expressed support for the Central America mediation effort by Mexico, Venezuela, Panama and Colombia, the so-called Contadora group.

Castro denounced U.S. support of what he called El Salvador's "genocidal" government, which he accused of killing its own people.

As for Cuba, Castro said his security forces soon will number 6 million people, about 60 percent of the population, making this country ready to meet any challenge — "even that of an occupation army."

None of Castro's grievances against the United States over the years was omitted from his speech, ranging from the Bay of Pigs invasion by U.S.-backed anti-Castro exiles in 1961, to the "criminal" U.S. economic embargo, to the CIA plots to "behead" Cuban leadership.

O'Neill says administration defeat likely on aid to Nicaraguan rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. says administration critics are winning their fight for a House vote against aid to Nicaraguan rebels, but President Reagan says cutting off support would be "a very grave mistake."

"Those who are attempting to make it impossible for us to bring aid down in that area, I think are the ones who are building up — if they have their way — to a giant headache down the road a ways," Reagan said in a televised news conference Tuesday night.

"I think it would be a very grave mistake if the legislature interfered with what we're trying to do," the president said.

O'Neill said Tuesday that unless the House demonstrates its opposition to undercover aid in Nicaragua by "a strong vote," Reagan and his administration "are just going to continue the way they are."

"We are winning," O'Neill said. "It's very close, but it looks favorable for us."

O'Neill said sending Navy ships to the area and plans for sending troops to engage in maneuvers in Honduras has stiffened House resistance to the aid, which the administration argues is needed to halt the flow of arms to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador.

But whatever the outcome in the Democrat-controlled House, where a vote is expected Thursday, opponents of the aid program concede the Republican-dominated Senate would be unlikely to call a halt to it.

The administration was dispatching Secretary of State

George Shultz and National Security Adviser William Clark to brief senators on Central America today.

Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., told the House, "We are at the same point today in Central America as we were almost 20 years ago with the Gulf of Tonkin resolution," which opened the way to deeper U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Urging a vote for the aid cutoff, Markey posed the question this way: "Do we slip into another Vietnam, or do we begin to stop another Vietnam from occurring?"

Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind., disagreed. "If they equate Central America with Vietnam, then they should look at the whole picture. If we don't do something to interdict the supply lines and stop the sanctuary we have been allowing the terrorists in Nicaragua, then surely the war will expand."

Reagan, at a news conference, said the U.S. military role in the region is not a step toward a Vietnam-like war.

But he added that if the leftist government of Nicaragua were to attack Honduras, "We would have to deal with that problem when it arose."

Administration critics said Reagan intensified their concern about his Central American policies, particularly his planned military training exercises in Honduras and the Caribbean sea.

O'Neill said more than 100 amendments have been offered to the cutoff measure, which would end the aid this year and substitute $80 million in assistance to friendly Central American governments to halt gun-running.

A look at an ancient golf course

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

ROME (AP) — A dog's leg to the right of the old Appian Way, among the moldering tombs of the emperors and near the catacombs of the early Christians, lies Acqua Santa, Rome's ancient and unusual golf course.

Acqua Santa, as every retired altar boy knows, means "holy water."

At first I thought the Holy Water golf course got its name from some miraculous properties in its many water hazards. But when the ball sank from sight as usual, I sought a more mundane explanation.

Perhaps, I mused while hunting for a lost ball in a crater that might have led down to a catacomb, the course was so baptized because of the many priests, bishops, even a cardinal or two who tee off here.

The discreet caddies won't say, but perhaps a pope has played here. Why not? Alexander VII used to sail and go fishing at nearby Lake Albano. Leo XIII was fond of shooting pigeons from the second-floor windows of the Apostolic Palace. We know that John Paul II, the incumbent pope, is an excellent athlete, a skier, mountain climber and tennis player, who had a swimming pool built at Castel Gandolfo, the papal summer residence that looms in the hazy distance.

Acqua Santa actually is named for a clear, cool underground spring that bubbles to the surface just beyond the fairway farthest from the palazzo-style clubhouse. As we noticed upon arrival, Romans regularly drive out from the city, less than two miles away, to fill up plastic jugs and five-gallon gas cans with this pure, most refreshing water, which in ancient times may have been credited with miraculous powers.

Priests were scattered through several foursomes on the humid sunny morning we played Acqua Santa. Some were attired in a sort of clerical fatigue suit of black short sleeved shirt with matching slacks and shoes.

Dreams put in over-the-counter market

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will companies like Apollo Computer, Oshman's Sporting Goods and Xidex become the IBM, the Sears Roebuck and the Xerox of the future?

Nobody can say for certain, of course. But a lot of people nowadays are putting their money on dreams like those in Wall Street's haven of high hopes, the over-the-counter market.

Befitting their blue-chip status, the stocks of IBM, Sears and Xerox are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The younger and smaller Apollo Computer, Oshman's and Xidex, by contrast, trade through a network of over-the-counter dealers — brokerage firms linked together in the National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ system.

As Richard Yashewski and Joseph Bartel, analysts at the investment firm of Butcher & Singer Inc. observed, "They are rockin' and rollin' in the OTC market."

With 1983 barely half over, NASDAQ has already logged its busiest year in history. In the early days of July, the number of shares traded in the system since Jan. 1 surpassed the annual record of 8.4 billion shares set in 1982.

The NASDAQ composite index of over-the-counter stock prices rose 37.1 percent during the first half of the year, nearly doubling the 20.2 percent advance recorded by the NYSE's composite index for the same period.

Verdict depends on legality of blood test

DALLAS (AP) — A criminal court judge said his verdict in the drunken driving charge against Dallas County sheriff Don Byrd would depend on whether he decides a hospital blood test administered to the sheriff was legal.

"What I'm going to do, I don't know. I haven't made a decision, and I won't make one until later tonight," County Criminal Court Judge Tom Price said Tuesday after arguments ended in Byrd's six-day non-jury trial.

Byrd said he would announce his verdict at 11:30 a.m. today. Byrd is charged with driving while intoxicated on April 17, when the sheriff crashed his car into a signal light post in University Park.

According to trial testimony, Byrd was given a blood-alcohol test after he was admitted to the emergency room of Presbyterian Hospital, and the test showed he was legally intoxicated.

Price said if he finds the test admissible, he will convict Byrd. Conviction of the misdemeanor charge could bring Byrd up to two years in jail and a $500 fine.

Byrd's lawyers contended throughout the trial that the blood test and all other records of Byrd's treatment at the hospital were confidential and could not be released without his consent.

Prosecutors urged Price to return a guilty verdict.

"This has not become just a DWI case. This case has tested the system as to whether the system of justice works in this county. No one is above the law," said Assistant District Attorney Jim Burnham.

Defense attorney Doug Mulder argued, however, that prosecutors violated Byrd's rights without proving their case against him.

"I urgently implore you to shatter this claim of injustice and find Sheriff Don Byrd not guilty," Mulder said.

Dear Abby

Roving husband leaves woman at a crossroads

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'll try to keep this short, but I could write a book. I was a 38-year-old divorcee with a 17-year-old daughter ("Angie") when I married "Bill," a gorgeous, 39-year-old hunk.

I was the happiest woman in the world until I caught Bill in bed with Angie. I was humiliated and heartbroken, so I kicked him out. I never had a clue about Bill and Angie. I must have been blind because later all my friends and family told me they knew what was going on.

When our divorce was final, Bill married Angie. Shortly after, they went to Vegas to visit Bill's stepister, and while they were there Angie caught Bill in bed with his stepister, so Angie took a bus home and filed for divorce.

Now Bill is back, saying he still loves me and begging me to marry him again. Abby, I'm ashamed to admit it, but the flame is still burning and I want him back, but I'm afraid of what my friends and family will say. What should I do?

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: A 39-year-old man who would have sex with his wife's 17-year-old daughter is a bum. Lose him for good.

...

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a family reunion, where I met a young adolescent with a condition for which the prognosis is blindness. His parents have promised him that he will not go blind because they're afraid he won't be able to handle the truth.

This young man seems very bright and resourceful, and I, among other family members, think he should be told the truth, but no one wants to interfere with the parents' decision.

How should this be handled?

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Although the parents mean well, they must be told that by withholding the truth from their son, they are denying him the early training that the visually handicapped need in order to live fuller and happier lives. It would be appropriate for the boy's doctor to tell the parents that the sooner their son prepares for a sightless future, the better.

DEAR ABBY: My pet peeve is "music" in public places. I enjoy music — good music — but I resent having it forced on me in restaurants, offices, even in elevators. And I now suspect that the volume and choice of music are not designed to please the customer, but certain employees.

In a restaurant, those at our table complained that the piped-in music was so loud we couldn't converse. The manager's answer: "We'd turn it down, but the waitresses will complain."

In a high-class department store, I was shopping for a scarf for my wife. The counter was situated between a department playing semi-classical music and another playing rock. You can imagine the cacophony! I asked the salesperson at the scarf counter how she stood it. She replied, "Well, the girls over there like rock, but we over here like violins."

How does one fight the system?

PITTSBURGH MUSIC LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Write to the offending management, stating that you're taking your business elsewhere and giving the reason why.

...

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38023, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

German recipes add difference to meals

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Lifestyles Editor

Everyone gets into a rut, cooking the same recipes day after day, probably the same ones your mother (or your husband's mother) prepared when you were children. These recipes are tried and true, we know, or you wouldn't be repeating them so often.

Now and then, though, it certainly wouldn't hurt to spice up the dinner table with a new and interesting recipe to wake up jaded appetites.

Thumbing through a ladies' Sunday School class's cookbook from Shattuck, Okla., recently, I was struck by the number of authentic German recipes included. German's love eating, and their food is hearty, nutritious and filling. It's also, like the German people themselves, no-nonsense. French food is often difficult to prepare, and sometimes even a bit pretentious, more in keeping with special events than with everyday meals. But not German food.

Here's a few examples of the German recipes I found in the Sunday School cookbook from Shattuck.

GEBACKEN HENKEL

MIT BROT FILLSEL

(Baked chicken with bread stuffing)

1 (3 or 4 lb.) chicken

salt and pepper

Bread Stuffing

1 lb. loaf of bread

cooked giblets, chopped

¼ lb. butter

¼ c. broth or milk

¼ c. finely chopped onion

1 egg, beaten

¼ t. poultry seasoning

¼ t. pepper

1 t. salt

Tear or cut bread into ½ - inch cubes in a large bowl. Add cooked giblets, onion, egg, seasonings and butter. Cut into ¼ inch bits. Mix. Drizzle enough broth or milk (or both) over stuffing to blend evenly.

Put the bread stuffing into bird. Put stuffed chicken in roasting pan; add 1 cup water; cover and place in a 400 degree F. oven. Cook 1 to 2 hours or until chicken is tender.

The last 30 minutes of cooking you can add potatoes and carrots and part of an onion (more water if needed) for a complete meal.

Here's another recipe that sounds easy to prepare and filling. Some nice accompaniments for a well-balanced meal would be hot yeast rolls and a light salad.

BONA SUPP MIT SAUERKRAUT

(Bean soup with sauerkraut)

1 lb. navy beans or

2 (1 lb.) cans of

Northern white beans

1 smoked ham hock

8 c. cold water

1 c. diced potatoes

1 small onion, chopped

salt and pepper to taste

canned sauerkraut

Soak uncooked beans overnight in water to cover. Drain off water and add fresh water. Cook until beans are soft. Cover ham with the cold water; cover and cook until tender. Skim fat from broth; add beans, onions and potatoes. Cook until vegetables are tender, about 15 minutes. Season to taste. Serve with sauerkraut. (You can use beef soup bone in place of ham.)

German berox have become increasingly popular. They are a little meal all covered up with a hot roll type crust — sort of a German equivalent to our hamburger. In this recipe book, they're spelled berrach and berrok. However, you spell them, they're good to eat.

CABBAGE BERRACH

1 to 2 lb. ground meat

2 lb. cabbage, chopped

1 pkg. hot roll mix or other yeast dough

2 large onions, chopped

¼ t. salt

¼ t. pepper

¼ t. garlic salt

Combine all ingredients (except yeast dough) and cook in skillet or pan at medium heat until meat is done. Drain off grease.

Roll dough, which has risen once, about ¼ - inch thick; cut in 5 or 6 - inch squares. Place a portion of meat mixture on each square, fold up corners to center and seal edges.

Place upside down in greased baking pan. Let rise about 20 to 30 minutes. Bake in a 350 degree or 400 degree oven about 30 minutes or until nicely browned. Serve hot with a salad or vegetable.

I tried making berox once using ground lamb instead of hamburger meat. Not exactly a fan of the taste of lamb, I was surprised at how well the flavor combines with the other berox ingredients. Although I can't confirm it, I have heard that lamb was originally used in the recipe.

Germans are not only known for their filling main dishes, but have also brought some delightful desserts to America. Here's one that would be perfect for this time of year, as watermelon are plentiful:

WATERMELON HONEY

KUCHEN

1 pkg. hot roll mix

Or any refrigerator roll mix recipe may be used. Let dough rise one time, then put in two 11 x 13 - inch pans. Press dough to fit pan about ¼ - inch thick. Cover dough with watermelon honey mixture (recipe follows) and sprinkle Crumbles (recipe follows) over the top. Place in a 375 degree oven for 30 minutes.

1 pt. watermelon honey

¼ pt. water

2 heaping T. flour

Bring watermelon honey to boiling. Mix water and flour together and pour slowly into watermelon honey. Cook until thick, then cool and spread over dough.

Watermelon Honey

Cut watermelon lengthwise and remove seeds. Cut red part of melon into pieces. Partly crush melon and put into blender for ¼ minute. This will make a thick juice. Repeat this process until you have two gallons of juice. Put in large pan and boil down to ¼ the amount of juice. Add one package of Sure - Jel and four cups of sugar to boiled juice and cook until thick like jam. Pour into pint jars and seal white hot. Stir often to keep from sticking.

Crumbles

¼ c. flour

¼ t. cinnamon

2 T. sugar

¼ c. chopped pecans

Mix these ingredients all together and add enough cooking oil to hold the crumbs together.

Can you catch an egg? Toss a water balloon? Spit a button on the run? Spit a seed?

These and other assorted "talents" will be displayed in the first annual "Family Feud Against Cancer" at Chautauqua on Labor Day in Central Park here, say Garland Nichols, Ron Love and Jim Marcum, co-chairmen.

Teams (families) of six to 10 people — men, women or mixed — are invited from civic clubs, churches, businesses, sororities, families and other groups to compete in a fun - filled afternoon to raise money for the "Feud Against Cancer."

Team members will solicit sponsors pledging funds for each point scored; a maximum of 50 points could be scored if a team won all five events at 10 points per event.

The grand prize winner will be chosen as the team raising the most money for the American Cancer Society. Interested persons can contact Mike Keagy at Quentin Williams Realty at 669 - 2522.

Better understanding of aging process needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the lifespan continues to increase, it is important that Americans better understand the aging process, says Jack Ossofsky, executive director of the National Council On The Aging.

"It is a universal myth of aging that symptoms of mental deterioration automatically accompany old age," says Ossofsky. "That is just not the case; and, consequently, thousands of elderly people may not be receiving the kind of help that can mean a more comfortable, productive life."

He cites a recent nationwide survey by Sandoz Inc., a pharmaceutical firm involved in geriatric research, that showed that almost 45 percent of respondents believe that "senility," which they define in various ways, is a natural part of aging — like gray hair.

"Many of the symptoms which people define as senility, such as memory loss, confusion and personality changes, are attributable to a variety of causes, most of which can be treated," Ossofsky points out.

"The survey also shows that the U.S. population believes senility is just hardening of arteries in the brain and that nothing can be done to help preserve alertness and improve memory lapses," he adds.

"The fact is, senility doesn't always have to happen. It is the exception rather than the rule and the majority of people who survive into old age never experience significant memory loss, confusion, disorientation, personality changes or other symptoms which could be indications of dementia."

"Even those estimated 5 to 6 percent of the 22 million people in the over-65 population who do suffer from severe intellectual impairment and an additional 11 to 12 percent who suffer mild to moderate symptoms can be helped," he said.

Another expert on aging is Dr. Richard Besdine, assistant professor of Medicine, Division on Aging, Harvard Medical School. Besdine, also director of Geriatric Education at the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged in Boston, suggests some simple ways to improve the memory of the elderly:

—Be alert and aware: Anything you wish to remember you must first observe carefully. Make sure that you are concentrating on one thing at a time.

—Link ideas to images: All memory is based on associating new information to something that you already know. The trick is to link what you want to remember to a strong visual image. For example, most people easily remember the shape of Italy because they have been told that Italy is shaped like a boot.

Cure absentmindedness: Forgetting to turn an oven off or misplacing a set of keys are basically memory problems. The cure is the trick of association. A timer can help remind you when to turn the oven off, and associating important items, such as keys, with specific places in the home, can be helpful.

—Repeat three times: Studies have shown that for most people a new piece of information must be repeated at least three times before it becomes fixed in the memory bank.

—Organize new information: New information can be remembered more easily if it is organized into categories.

—Relax and take your time: Memory functions best when you are relaxed and can concentrate. Older people cannot absorb too much new information at one time, and they may take more time to do so than a younger person.

Besdine says medications can also be helpful in treating the symptoms of confusion and dizziness associated with senile dementia. When given in the early stages of the disease, these drugs can help to preserve alertness and improve patients' ability to dress and feed themselves.

Patients' response may be gradual, and it may take up to three months to see maximal results, he says.

Puppy-shaped cake stars at kid's party

To generations of American children, a birthday party symbolizes something magical. The clamorous games and fanciful food are always enchantingly different from ordinary daily routine.

Suddenly sandwiches become star-shaped or heart-shaped, courtesy of a cookie cutter. Pink lemonade, ice cream and cake are in unlimited supply. Needless to say, the most captivating part of the party menu is usually the cake. Almost every child is delighted by a cake that has some storybook appeal. It can be in the shape of a rabbit or clown or a whimsical puppy, as in this cake created by a home economist in a test kitchen.

Mom can fashion this cute pooch basically from two 17-inch coconut layer cakes, a can of vanilla frosting and some melted chocolate for his brown spots. It is surprisingly easy to do if you follow the cutout pattern and directions given in the recipe to follow.

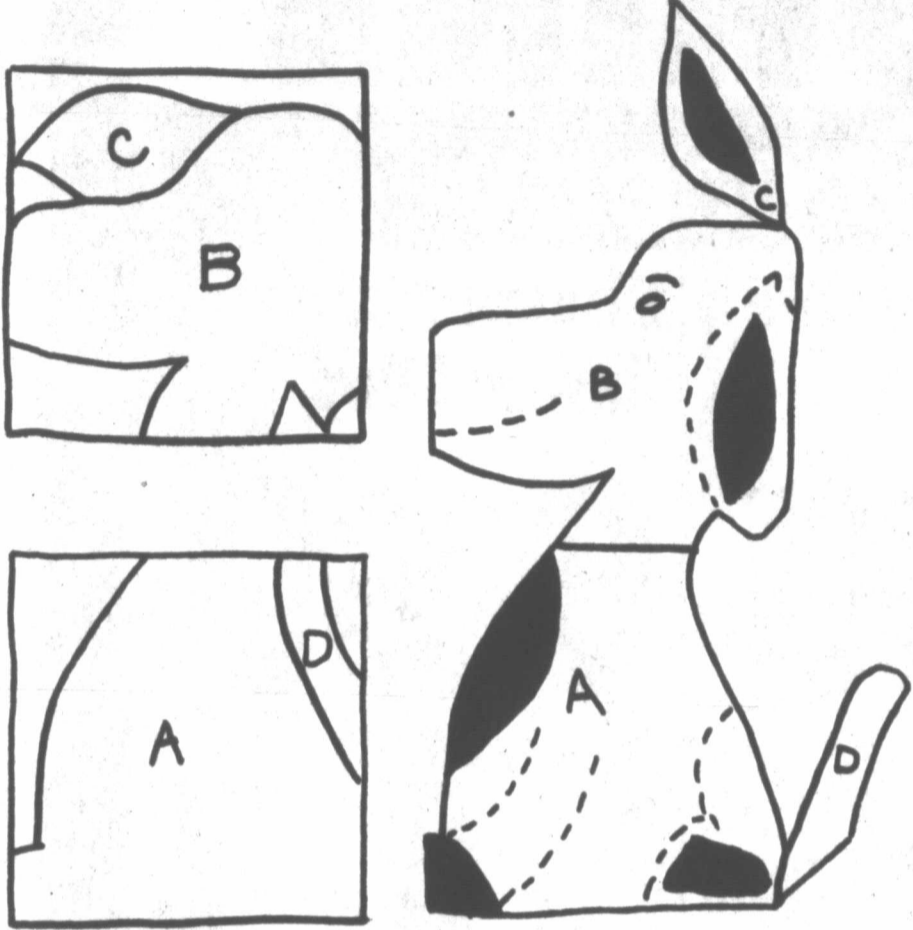

Cleaning up will be easier if colorful plastic mats and paper napkins are used as well as plastic cups. They can be gathered up and tossed out while the youngsters are out in the back yard playing catch with the new mitt.

BIRTHDAY PUPPY CAKE

- 2 (17 oz.) frozen coconut layer cakes
- 1 can vanilla frosting
- shredded coconut
- string licorice
- cinnamon candies
- 1 square (1 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, melted

Cut cakes, while still frozen, as shown below and assemble. Connect cake pieces with canned frosting. Frost cut edges; sprinkle with coconut and decorate with string licorice and cinnamon candies. Make spots on dog using chocolate coconut made by adding 2-3rds cup coconut to melted chocolate and tossing until well mixed.

Youngsters will love this luscious cake made in the shape of a whimsical puppy. It is fashioned out of two 17-inch store-bought coconut layer cakes that are easily cut to pattern then decorated with melted chocolate and candy eyes and nose and mouth.

Are you into microwaving?

If you're among the millions of people who own a microwave oven, these hints from Janet Femeth, director of a Pittsburg Home Economics Institute, will add a new dimension to your culinary delights.

To speed barbecued chicken on an outdoor grill, start cooking in the microwave. Place a 2 1/2 to 3 lb. quartered frying chicken with thick bone edges toward the outside of a glass backing dish. Cover with waxed paper and microwave on "High" for 15 to 18 minutes. Remove and brush with barbecue sauce. Complete cooking over an outdoor grill. Occasionally turn and baste with sauce for 20 to 25 minutes.

Use your microwave and conventional ovens to bake pies in a hurry. Remember to use a glass pie dish. Microwave fresh 9-inch pies on "High" for 10 to 12 minutes or until juices begin to bubble through the slits. Then put them into a conventional oven, preheated to 425 degrees, for an additional 10 to 12 minutes to complete the baking and to brown the crust.

Frozen pies should be transferred to a glass pie dish, then microwaved for 12 to 16 minutes. Bake in a conventional oven for 10 to 15 minutes, depending on the size of the pie.

Fresh vegetables are tender and tasty when they're prepared in a microwave oven. Usually, the cooking time at the "High" setting is only six to 10 minutes per pound. Some vegetables, such as potatoes, acorn squash, and corn on the cob are cooked in their own "containers" which gives the added advantage of no dishwashing.

Fish and seafoods are especially tasty when cooked in a microwave. Poaching or steaming are highly accepted cooking techniques readily adaptable to your microwave. Plastic wrap makes a good cover for a long utility dish.

For an unusual twist, cover the fish with lettuce leaves. This holds in the steam and bastes the fish. Salmon steaks are delicious when cooked this way.

No seconds please!

By Gaynor Maddox

Three years ago I interviewed a rather stately gentleman who boasted of being 86 years old. He told me, and with great emphasis, he was convinced that he had attained his ripe old age by adhering to his law — never eat seconds.

By that he meant never go back for second helpings no matter how delicious the food may be.

In following this way of life, which has the approval of many nutrition experts, he arranged to get into his diet all the protein, carbohydrates and vitamins needed. He said he had managed to get his diet to fit into his taste preferences.

He urged me to pass along this good diet tip of no seconds. I find it is a rule for good adult living. His meal always begin with a soup and includes a wonderful salad (a must) and dessert.

But, remember, he warned me, all the foods throughout his life were served only once. There was no snacking between meals either. This seemed to be the prevailing rule in his home.

Today when asked how he can maintain his vigorous health at his age, his answer is again — he indulges in only one serving of any particular food.

I looked at his physique. He did not show any signs of illness, debilities or the ravages of age.

Apparently during a long life, he selected his food on the basis of what he needed and wanted — rather than on the basis of which food he should deprive himself. This deprivation is very common today as more and more persons are "diet" conscious.

This man's words of wisdom could certainly be applied to those of us who feel that constant diets are a burden and behavior modification is the way to go.

Rather than be on a selected diet, try enjoying the exciting foods available and eat what your appetite dictates, but — no more than one serving of each food.

Nelson grabs MVP honors in coaches' all-star cage game

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Forward Carlton McKinney of Nixon says that he had to overcome last-minute nervousness in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star game before leading a fourth-quarter run that gave the South a 91-86 win.

"I thought we played pretty well as a team the last half," said the Tulsa-bound McKinney, who gave the North a 77-71 lead with a shot from the corner after snagging a loose ball with 6:07 remaining.

South roundballers "were nervous, but they settled down later," he said after Tuesday's victory before 4,200 fans at Tarrant County Convention Center.

Less than two minutes later, the 6-5 forward scored a baseline shot, assisted by guard Daryl Derryberry, to make it 79-73 with 4:54 remaining.

South forward David Grissom said his nervousness affected him earlier in the game, before his lay-in and 15-foot throw that cinched the win.

The South tied the cage series at 19-19.

"I was jittery at first," said Grissom, who is bound for San Diego State. "I had been uncomfortable during the practices, and I was mad at myself because I wasn't handling the ball well and playing aggressively."

Grissom is the third player from Gladewater Sabine to be an all-star.

"I had grown timid in my passing and my inside play," he said. "I needed that blocked shot, and that dunk helped me."

McKinney said the South was frustrated by the North's zone defense for much of the contest.

But guard Randy Meador of La Poyner scored a fourth-quarter lay-in, assisted by Clear Lake's Brad Meyer, that broke a 69-69 tie with 7:55 remaining.

Mississippi recruit Sylvester Kincheon of Austin Travis, the South's 6-10 center, led a shot-blocking defense that kept the North from coming back.

"They had a pretty good press. It took us a while to get our offense working. Kincheon played real well tonight. We really went to him when he needed it," said McKinney.

North Coach Frank Bice said his team "couldn't connect when we got it."

"Our running game was there, more than we took advantage of. We just didn't connect on transition after we made the play defensively," said Bice, of Andrews.

"They probably blocked about 15 shots. It's something when you play a team that smacks it back at you like that," said Bice.

The South, which limped behind most of the game, was down 69-67 with 8:27 left in the game.

But Connally Brown of West Orange Stark tied the game with before Meador's shot put the South into the lead for good.

Meyers then tossed a one-handed throw-up and Kincheon contributed a basket with 6:38 remaining. McKinney added his two goals, putting the South into a 79-73 lead with 5:54 left and the North couldn't recover.

Villanova-bound Brown led the victors with 15 points, with David Grissom of Gladewater Sabine and McKinney adding 14 and Kincheon 11.

North wing guard Mike

Nelson of Pampa led all scorers with 21. Mike Washington of Waxahachie and Dwayne Brown of Dallas Kimball added 14 points each.

Nelson was named the game's Most Valuable Player in the losing effort. The Texas Tech-bound guard grabbed five rebounds while hitting seven of 13 shots from the floor and seven of eight from the free throw line.

Bice's zone defense plan paid big dividends in the first half and continued through the third quarter, when South Coach Bobby Murphy's man-to-man strategy overcame the North.

Practice Makes Perfect... Bob Giese (left) of Amarillo continues to practice on the putting green after shooting a one-under-par 70 Tuesday to take the first-round lead in the Tri-State Senior Golf Association Tournament at the Pampa Country Club course. Giese won the Tri-State Tournament in 1978 and 1979. (Staff Photo)

Giese leads Tri-State with one-under 70

BY L.D. STRATE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Multiple factors contributed to Bob Giese's one-under par 70 and the first-round lead Tuesday in the Tri-State Senior Golf Association Tournament at the Pampa Country Club.

Practice, putting, fairway consistency and being a good listener all helped give the Amarillo golfer the medalist title in the 72-hole tournament.

Giese sank a four-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to wrestle the lead from Pampa's Chester Darnell and Lamesa's Jake Broyles. Both Darnell and Broyles finished with even-par 71s.

"I was about 20 yards out on No. 18 when I heard there were a couple of guys in the clubhouse at even par," Giese said. "I put the next shot up close to the pin and was able to drop it in."

Giese, who won Tri-State titles in 1976 and 1979, may be playing the best golf of his life. He has won senior titles at the West Texas Tournament and Tascosa Country Club Tournament this summer.

"I've been doing a lot of practicing and it's been showing up," Giese said. "I've been playing steady and hitting the fairways. I hit 16 greens yesterday. The longest putt I ever made was a 12-footer, but I was fortunate to not have any three-putt greens."

There's a six-way tie for third place at 73 between defending champion Jack Williams of Plainview, Hubert Paris of Kemp, Bud McKinney of Plainview, A.L. (Chunky) Leonard of Pampa, Jack Dempsey of Amarillo and Ray Hayes of Enid, Okla. Hayes is 71 years old and McKinney is 74.

The cutoff for making the championship flight was 79 with 30 players advancing in the championship flight.

Three other Pampa players join Leonard in the championship flight. They include O.M. Prigmore at 74, Dr. Joe Donaldson at 78 and D. Edmison slipping in with a 79.

When two players dropped out of the 176-man field, the Tri-State committee elected to take 30 instead of the original 32 into the championship flight so there would be 16 players in each of the lower flights.

Giese feels he has a good chance to win his third Tri-State title since the Pampa course is playing much like his home course at Tascosa.

"The greens have the same consistency," Giese said. "Their quickness doesn't bother me at all. The putts hold very well."

In last night's banquet, Tom Price of Pampa received the annual Colonel Begey award for his contributions to the Tri-State Tournament.

Association president Zollie Steakley of Austin announced that green blazers would be offered to golfers and their wives next year in honor of Tri-State's 50th anniversary. Steakley said caps and possibly windbreakers would also be available.

First-round results are as follows:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT: 1. Bob Giese, Amarillo, 70; 2. (two-way tie) Chester Darnell, Pampa, and Jake Broyles, Lamesa, 71; 3. # AL roundup Catcher plays tag to help Indians win over Royals

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals were running all around the bases. But so was Cleveland catcher Ron Hassey — tagging them out.

With nobody out in the bottom of the fifth inning and Cleveland clinging to a 1-0 lead Tuesday night, Onix Concepcion and Pat Sheridan singled, putting Royals at the corners. Then John Wathan drilled a shot to third.

Toby Harrah snared it and fired home to Hassey. Concepcion, halfway down the line, headed back to third, but the Cleveland catcher caught and tagged him — then wheeled and headed for second base.

There he found Sheridan — and Wathan, who had gone to second without realizing Sheridan had stopped there. Hassey tagged Wathan for the double play that killed the threat and helped Lary Sorensen and the Indians hold on for a 2-0 victory.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York blanked Texas 5-0, Minnesota edged Milwaukee 6-5, Baltimore shaded California 5-4, Detroit shelved Seattle 8-2, and in a pair of two-night doubleheaders, Boston split with Oakland, losing 9-2 and winning 5-3, while Toronto split with Chicago, winning 6-4 and losing 4-3.

"If I go back to the bag he tags me," Concepcion reasoned, "so I just try to get in a rundown and make only one out while the other guy (Sheridan) goes to third. But that's not the way it worked out. They played it right and they won the game."

With two out in the fifth, Steve Renko gave up consecutive singles by Mike Flahlin, Mike Hargrove and Harrah for the only run Sorensen needed, then singles by Harrah, Bake McBride and Andre Thornton loaded the bases in the eighth, leading to Pat Barber's sacrifice. Yankees 8, Rangers 9.

The Yanks waved "Bye, Bye, Balboni" again — but for a change it wasn't Steve Balboni they were waving at. It was his first major-league grand slam.

Balboni, who has shuttled between the Yanks and their Columbus farm club for the past three seasons, gave Manager Billy Martin something to think about. Martin will have to make a decision when Ken Griffey comes off the disabled list.

Said Balboni: "I'll remember this one." So will Ray Fenton, who pitched a six-hitter for his first big-league shutout.

Roy Smalley singled, Dave Winfield doubled and Lou Piniella was intentionally walked by Frank Tanana to load the bases before Balboni unloaded his third homer of the year. The Yanks have won 11 of their last 12 games.

Twins 6, Brewers 5
Minnesota, fresh from an eight-game losing streak, won its fifth in a row, and handed the Brewers their sixth loss in eight visits to the Metrodome as John Castino broke a tie with a two-out, ninth-inning single.

"We don't seem to play very well here," said Milwaukee Manager Harvey Kuenn. "I wish I knew why or I would remedy it."

Orioles 5, Angels 4
Dennis Martinez of Baltimore, taking over for Paul Mirabella at the start of the fourth inning, pitched six innings of three-hit relief and rode Eddie Murray's two-run homer in the fifth to victory over the Angels.

Murray's homer, on a pitch from Geoff Zahn, followed a single by Cal Ripken Jr. Angel Bobby Grich had a two-run single in the third.

Tigers 3, Mariners 3
Chet Lemon and Alan Trammell hit two-run homers and Lance Parrish added a bases-empty blast into the Tiger Stadium seats as Detroit wiped out Seattle's 2-0 first-inning lead built on RBI singles by Rick Nelson and Dave Henderson. Tony Bernazard homered for Seattle. A's 9-3, Red Sox 2-5.

Wade Boggs drove in Boston's first four runs in the nightcap, including the game-winner in the top of the ninth inning, and took over the AL batting lead, 373 to Red Carew's 372, as the Red Sox earned their split.

In the opener Oakland wiped out Boston's 2-0 lead with seven runs in the seventh inning. Carney Lansford had two singles in the burst and catcher Rich Gedman allowed two runs to score when he missed a throw home from pitcher Bob Stanley to Donnie Hill's bases-loaded grounder. Stanley lost the opener but won the second game. Blue Jays 6-3, White Sox 4-4.

Jesse Barfield and Cliff Johnson hit first-game homers for Toronto and Barfield put one out of the park in the nightcap. But the latter homer wasn't enough to overcome Chicago's three-run third inning, two of the runs scoring on Julio Cruz' double, that gave the visiting White Sox their split.

MX passes

Senate approves MX money, opponent predicts later victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although his two-week fight against the MX missile produced only one convert, a leading Senate opponent claims his campaign will bear fruit when the strategic nuclear weapon faces another congressional test this fall.

"I think we made it easier down the road for senators and House members to move around" to the opposition cause, Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., told reporters Tuesday night after the Senate voted, 58-41, to keep MX production money in a defense authorization bill.

The overall, $200 billion measure later was approved, 63-15. The House, meantime, completed work on its own defense bill at 1:40am, today voting 305-114 at the conclusion of a marathon session. That measure also contains MX production funds.

"... There are 10 to 15 (members) in the Senate and 13 in the House who are shaky" supporters of the MX, and can be turned around before a separate appropriations bill to provide the actual dollars for the weapon is brought to a vote, probably in September, Hart said.

Only a serious new commitment by President Reagan to obtain an arms-control agreement with the Soviet Union is likely to derail that trend, he added.

Hart's amendment to strip $2.5 billion to build the first 27 of a planned 100 MX "Peacekeepers" from the $200 billion defense bill attracted support from 34 Democrats and 7 Republicans. Twelve Democrats joined 46 GOP senators in the majority.

The lineup closely resembled the 59-39 majority that voted to free $625 million in MX engineering and flight-test money in May, with Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., the only convert to Hart's cause.

In a second MX vote Tuesday night, the Senate also refused, 57-42, to block MX deployment while allowing production to proceed. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., switched to the opposition.

The House had affirmed the decision to produce the 10-warhead MX in a 220-207 vote last week, although it cut the number of missiles to be built from 27 to 21. It also tied the MX production schedule to progress on developing a mobile, single-warhead missile that has wider congressional support.

Those and other differences between the Senate and House versions of the defense bill will have to be worked out by conferees from the two chambers.

The House passed its defense bill after dealing with 32 mostly minor amendments in a sometimes-raucous session that caused the presiding officer, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., to go to his gavel often to keep order.

The effort was slowed by several riders that would ban, or require advance congressional approval of, plans by President Reagan to send more U.S. troops to Central America. The only one that succeeded would ban use of the troops to topple the leftist government of Nicaragua.

The House bill totals $187 billion, but unlike the omnibus Senate version, it does not earmark funds for military construction or nuclear programs run by the Department of Energy. These are being handled in separate measures.

In 13 days of sporadic debate over a 16-day span, Hart and 16 fellow liberals hammered repeatedly on the theme that placing the MXs in existing silos already targeted by the Soviets increased chances of a nuclear war, perhaps one started by accident.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and other supporters acknowledged the vulnerability problems of silo basing.

But, they said, the MX must go forward to show U.S. resolve to keep pace with the Soviets' ambitious missile program.

White without power in Cullen estate fight

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Mark White does not have the authority to appoint a special master to decide whether a Harris County probate judge should be removed from a case involving the estate of the late tycoon Hugh Roy Cullen, a spokeswoman for the governor says.

being impartial.

Di Portanova and trustees for his brother, Ugo, who has been declared mentally incompetent, contend the brothers have been denied a share of stock in the Cullen family's Quintana Petroleum Corp.

Because of a gap in Texas law, White lacks the power to appoint a special judge to decide the issue, said Myra McDaniel, the governor's general counsel.

However, Probate Judge Pat Gregory, whose qualifications to preside over the battle have been challenged, may appoint a special master to hear the motion, she said.

At Gregory's request, White has suggested three jurists who might be considered to serve as a special master, Ms. McDaniel said.

Gregory had asked the governor to make the appointment after attorneys for Enrico Di Portanova, a grandson of Cullen, sought to have Gregory disqualified. They argued Gregory's ties with other attorneys in the case would prevent him from being impartial. Di Portanova and trustees for his brother, Ugo, who has been declared mentally incompetent, contend the brothers have been denied a share of stock in the Cullen family's Quintana Petroleum Corp.

Henry Kissinger is a handy man

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger can be a handy man to have around, whether you're for him or against him. President Reagan has been both.

He now describes the former secretary of state as a distinguished diplomat, "virtually a legend" in his field. He once described him as the next thing to a disaster for American foreign policy. That's politics. One season's denunciations can be the next season's praise.

After Reagan named Kissinger to head his bipartisan commission on Central America policy, the president was asked why he chose a man he once said he would have ousted from the Cabinet.

That was in 1976. Gerald R. Ford was president, Kissinger ran State, and Reagan ran — unsuccessfully — for the Republican nomination.

Kissinger was his constant target in that campaign; it sometimes sounded as though he were running against Kissinger instead of Ford.

He said Kissinger policies were incoherent and contradictory, to the point that rival world powers couldn't take his word seriously.

"Henry Kissinger's recent stewardship of U.S. foreign policy has coincided precisely with the loss of U.S. military supremacy," Reagan said in one 1976 campaign speech. "Under Messrs. Kissinger and Ford this nation has become No. 2 in military power in a world where it is dangerous — if not fatal — to be second best."

In a speech that was a major, upward turning point for his Republican challenge, Reagan suggested that was not an accident; he said Kissinger was quoted as saying "My job as secretary of state is to negotiate the most acceptable second-best position available."

Kissinger called that an irresponsible invention. The State Department issued a 10-page rebuttal to the Reagan speech.

The feud continued, and was built into the Republican platform in a Reagan plank that was a barely-disguised slap at Kissinger. By that time, Ford had the nomination in reach, and his managers decided to accept the Reagan language rather than risk a fight on a side issue.

Latin America did not rank high on the agenda while Kissinger was at State, although negotiations on the Panama Canal treaties were conducted during his tenure. The treaties were completed while Jimmy Carter was president.

The canal was one of Reagan's major foreign policy complaints during the 1976 campaign, and long afterward. He said the deal was a giveaway. But it was made, and ratified, before he won the Republican nomination and the White House in 1980.

Kissinger's name didn't come up often in that campaign, although the more ardently conservative of Reagan's supporters got assurances that he wouldn't be part of a new Republican administration.
