Patterson Resigns From Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of War Robert C. Patterson satisfied that his fight to unify the armed forces is won, will leave his cabinet post next Thursday and return to private law practice in New York after seven years of service in the War Department.

As the New Yorker's successor, President Truman has nominated Undersecretary Kenneth C. Royall of North Carolina, a veteran of both world wars and a former brigadier general.

The shift left Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal as the only wartime cabinet member still in the government service. This aroused new speculation that Forrestal might become head of the Army, Navy and air forces as the new Secretary of National Defense proposed in the pending merger bill.

Recent reductions in the number of U. S. tenant farms have resulted from absorption of many small farms into larger operations and from the purchase of farms by former tenants who have prospered.

Soap Box Derby Run Along Modern Track

Derby Downs, the unique race course at Akron, Ohio, specifically designed and built for the All-American Soap Box Derby, is one of the most modern, efficient and beautiful in the world. Myron E. Scott, National Soap Box Derby director, said:

The Derby will be run at Derby Downs on August 17, this year, with champions from 133 cities in the United States and Canada competing for final honors. During July, local Derby races will be held in the 133 communities, and the winner of each local race will go to Akron to compete.

The downhill track for this colorful gravity race is expected to be flanked on Derby Day by approximately 100,000 spectators. Grandstands near the finish line seat only a part of the crowd; others line the hill from top to bottom. Officials operate the race from a double-deck overhead bridge at the finish line, and the event is covered by hundreds of newspapermen and radio reporters from vantage points in a press stand or on the bridge.

The track down which the young Derby contenders race is a concrete roadway 30 feet wide, entirely without crown and perfectly smooth. It is green in color, to eliminate glare, and three racing lanes are defined with silver and yellow dotted lines. From starting line to finish is 975.4 feet. The grade is about 16 percent at the start, and drops quickly to a six percent incline. The racers often attain speeds of approximately 30 miles an hour.

Guard rails, surfaced with rubber, line the course to keep the cars within bounds, and there are ample gutters to carry off a cloudburst if necessary. Gaily colored cannas, planted to bloom on race day, add beauty in front of the grandstands. Over the head of the course at the top of the hill is a new archway. Above this, on the hilltop, is a large, level paved area where the entries line up, under a huge tent, for their heats. Service pits for greasing and last-minute adjustments adjoin this area. At the starting line, a heavy

Best Designs Get Trophies

Special trophies will be awarded to the entrants of the best designed and best upholstered cars at the tenth anniversary All-American Soap Box Derby August 17 at Derby Downs, Akron, Ohio.

Winning cars in the field of 133 contestants will be selected by the National Contest Board, composed of C. J. French, B. E. Fulton, Orville Gallagher, H. M. Jellison, Ray Schieb, J. W. Schlemmer, Myron E. Scott, Wilbur Shaw, E. O. Stallsmith, Ed Wood and G. G. Zimmerman.

Over-all appearance of the car, plus such points as originality, application of mechanical parts, safety, style of construction and adaptability to speed, will be among the factors considered by the judges in selecting the best designed car. The driver of this car receives the C. F. Kettering trophy.

Collins & Aikman Corp., manufacturer of upholstery material, sponsors the competition for the best upholstered car. Judges will consider among other things the neatness of the upholstery, paneling of the material, and ingenuity exhibited by the contestant.

A trophy also will be awarded to the contestant whose car is equipped with the best brakes. Ease of application, even stopping, and safety potential will be reviewed by the National Contest Board in picking the winner of this trophy.

A fourth special trophy goes to the boy whose car runs down the Derby Downs race course in the fastest single heat. Each heat is automatically timed to the hundredth of a second by an electric timer, and a photo-finish camera records the winner of each race. Thus it is possible to select without error the boy winning the fastest heat.

Ham-sniffer and egg-breaker are among the odd occupations listed by the U. S. census bureau.

Thrills and Excitement Pack Derby

By RAY SCHIEB

All-American Soap Box Derby

The well-staged Soap Box Derby race is a glamorous and colorful spectacle, full of thrills and excitement for participant and spectator. At the same time, it is conducted with full stress upon all safety factors, to protect the boy drivers and the fans as well.

It is important that both the boys who enter the race and the adults and youngsters who attend it be familiar with the safety precautions that are taken, and abide by regulations established to protect them.

Most Derby race courses are flanked by fencing or, at the very least, are roped off to keep the crowds from the track. This is a most important factor, and one that local race directors study seriously. Yet, without complete cooperation on the part of race spectators, these precautions may not suffice to prevent accidents.

I have seen scores of Derby races, and no one knows better than I the excitement that mounts as the heats get faster and the crowning of a winner draws nearer. The temptation to step out onto the track, even to run down the course at the conclusion of the last heat, is great. Yet you may be delaying the race or endangering the success of the entire program, from a safety standpoint, when you break a safety rule.

Amateur photographers are encouraged to record Derby highlights, and the color and pageantry of the race afford innumerable picture possibilities. Most race directors, however, establish iron-clad rules governing photographic activities, and you can aid the director by observing them. Never step out on to the track in order to get your picture.

Many Derby courses are lined by curbs or protective fencing of one sort or another. They constitute a safety factor, but one that can be nullified by your stepping or standing inside these curbs. There is real danger here, for Derby race cars weigh as much as 250 pounds with drivers, and travel at respectable speeds. Don't endanger yourself, and don't be a hazard to the boy who is driving, by stepping over these barriers.

The safety principles that are inculcated in the city champions by careful inspection procedures and sound driving advice are reflected in the fact that there has never been a serious accident at the national finals.

E. Henderson of Wheeler County.

Dime Box, Texas, always first to go over the top in the March of Dimes campaign, and frequently in the news otherwise, has caused many to wonder where and how it got that name.

A gentleman from Corsicana whose signature is vague but looks like Hugh Loper (1212 W. 11th) gives this explanation: early settlers paid a dime each to a stage coach driver from Waco to leave their mail in a box located near the center of the community.

When the post office was established there, it was automatically named Dime Box, which was a familiar name to all the citizens.

Mabank was named for two persons—Dodge Mason and Tom Eubank.

Eubank was named you might say, for a roving address. A lawyer named Capt. W. L. Eustace made a roaring talk when the little town was organized on the railroad, and his listeners were so impressed they named the place for him.

From El Campo: W. W. Dusen writes to tell how blessing got its unusual name. When C. C. Dusen was routing the branch of the Southern Pacific from Bay City to the prospective town of Palacios, the right-of-way passed through the large ranch holdings of the late John Pierce, brother of the famed Shanghai Pierce.

When someone asked him what name he wanted given to the station on his ranch, Pierce immediately said, "Thank God." Officials said that wouldn't be very appropriate so he compromised on "Blessing." He had waited so long for the coming of the railroad that it was surely a blessing to have one.

Midland was named that because it is located half way between Port Worth and El Paso—300 miles each way.

Holland was originally "Mountain Home" but later was changed to Holland in honor of J. B. Holland, a pioneer who came to Texas in 1874 and settled near what is now Holland in Bell County. That's straight from the horse's mouth from Walter S. Dickenson of Lubbock, Mr. Holland's grandson.

Not Responsible for Shipments to Russia Supply Difficulties

CHICAGO—(AP)—Standard Oil Company (Indiana) said yesterday the oil industry "should not allow any impression to exist that oil shipments to Russia are responsible for current supply difficulties in the United States."

In a letter to employees, the company stated that for the last several months the United States had been importing more oil than it had exported and that U. S. shipments to Russia had been at a rate of less than 1,500 barrels a day this year as compared with an average rate of 6,888 barrels daily for 1946.

Senate Group Votes Against Rizley Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee voted 6-5 last week against recommending Senate passage this session of the Rizley bill to amend the Natural Gas Act.

Members said, however, that the vote is subject to reconsideration later.

The bill, by Rep. Rizley (R-Okla.) was passed by the House July 11. Among other things it would prevent the Federal Power Commission in administering the gas act, from exercising jurisdiction over the production and gathering of natural gas; permit the voluntary operation of interstate natural gas pipeline for hire as common carriers; and require the FPC to allow as an operating expense in rate-making the prevailing market price of gas.

API President Urges Repeal of Auto Excise Tax

NEW YORK—Repeat of all federal automotive excise taxes, including the federal tax on gasoline, "would be a practical step towards continued high employment and sustained prosperity," William R. Boyd, Jr., president of the American Petroleum Institute, said in a statement filed today with the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives.

Boyd told the committee that the petroleum industry "joins wholeheartedly with other organizations and groups in urging the repeal of all of the federal automotive excise taxes," adding: "Congress can now assist and encourage industrial expansion by removing from the federal tax structure all unfair and oppressive levies. The federal tax on gasoline is such a levy, and its repeal would promote business expansion and attract private capital into industries which depend in whole or in part on gasoline-consuming machines."

Citing the petroleum industry's "concern with the welfare of its some 30,000,000 users of petroleum products who rely upon motor vehicles for business and personal transportation," Boyd urged repeal of the federal gasoline tax for the following reasons:

- (1) "Federal automotive excise taxes work a great hardship on the already over-taxed motor vehicle owners. In the first postwar year of 1946, this group paid a total of $2,500,000,000 in special levies upon their automotive equipment and its operation. The average motor vehicle owner paid about $42 in gasoline taxes that year in order to drive his car on the highway and he paid a total of about $85 in special fees, including gasoline taxes. The Automobile Manufacturers' Association has reported that the purchaser of a new car under present laws must pay about $130 in taxes during the first year of operation. This large burden of taxation is obviously beyond the ability of the average citizen to pay in normal times, and if the widespread expansion of personal transportation is to be continued in this country, automotive taxes should be reduced."

- (2) "The duplicating federal tax on gasoline bears especially hard on those using the highways, because motor fuel used in highway vehicles is also taxed in every state and some counties and cities. The simple average of the gasoline tax in all the states is 4.7c per gallon and in some states the levy is 7c per gallon. In addition to this tax the federal government levies an additional 1 1/2c per gallon. It is obvious that the additional taxes levied by the federal government are confiscatory, uneconomic and unfair."

- (3) "Although gasoline probably contributes more importantly than any other single product to the nation's economy and welfare, it is now being taxed as heavily as many other products which are generally regarded as luxuries. But to classify gasoline in the luxury classification for taxation purposes is, in the opinion of most tax experts, wholly erroneous and unjustified. Gasoline, by its very nature and use, is a commodity on which a vast percentage of the nation's commerce and general welfare depends. The direct and indirect effects of gasoline on the American way of life are incalculable. Gasoline not only provides employment for millions but it also offers through its essential contribution to the motor transportation industry, fast, cheap and efficient service to all classes

Former Oil Field Hand Made Top Man in Sun Oil

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A Texan who went to work as an oil field hand for the Sun Oil Company 14 years ago is the new president of the Sun Pipe Line Company (Texas), a subsidiary.

He is William C. Kinsolving, native of Corsicana, Texas, who was graduated from Cornell University in 1933 with an electrical engineering degree.

John G. Pew, retiring president of the pipe line company, who announced Kinsolving's election, said the new president was called to Washington in 1942 to serve as assistant director of transportation for the Petroleum Administration for War.

Hickerson to Head European Affairs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John D. Hickerson, 49, of Temple, Texas, has been named to head the State Department's Office of European Affairs. A native of Texas, Hickerson is a career official with 27 years experience. At present he is in Europe on a trip to various capital cities.

of people and groups in industry."

- (4) "The federal gasoline tax is not a road or benefit tax and there is no direct benefit accruing to the road users in return for paying the gasoline tax. Rather, the federal tax is a levy on a means of livelihood of those who earn their bread in the transportation industry."

- (5) "Entirely apart from the additional burden which the tax places on the motor transportation industry are the additional expenses which the tax creates on those who depend on the services of the industry. Motor transportation of vital commodities is, in a great many instances, the sole means whereby these goods may be delivered to the consumers. Milk, for example, is for the most part conveyed in trucks, and numerous areas throughout the United States can secure their necessities only via the gasoline-powered vehicle. Naturally, any excessive operational cost ultimately finds its way into the consumer's pocketbook, the housewife's budget. The federal tax on gasoline therefore materially affects the general cost of living."

Boyd noted in conclusion that "well over half of the state legislatures in recent years have adopted resolutions memorializing Congress to repeal this unfair and inequitable levy, one of them (South Dakota) as many as seven different times."

Decision Returned On Oil Lands in Mission River Bed

AUSTIN—(AP)—Title to 15.65 acres of oil land, a part of the Mission River bed, is held by the town of Refugio or the State of Texas, not by Mrs. Fannie V. Heard and others, the Supreme Court held in effect yesterday.

A district court trial in the title litigation upheld the claims of Mrs. Heard. This was reversed by the Court of Civil Appeals, and the Supreme Court's 6-3 decision today affirmed the intermediate court's findings.

Associate Justice C. S. Slatton, Chief Justice and A. J. Folley dissented from the majority holding.

Truman Names Air Policy Commission

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A special commission appointed by President Truman was charged yesterday with bringing national air policy up to date, especially in the field of defense.

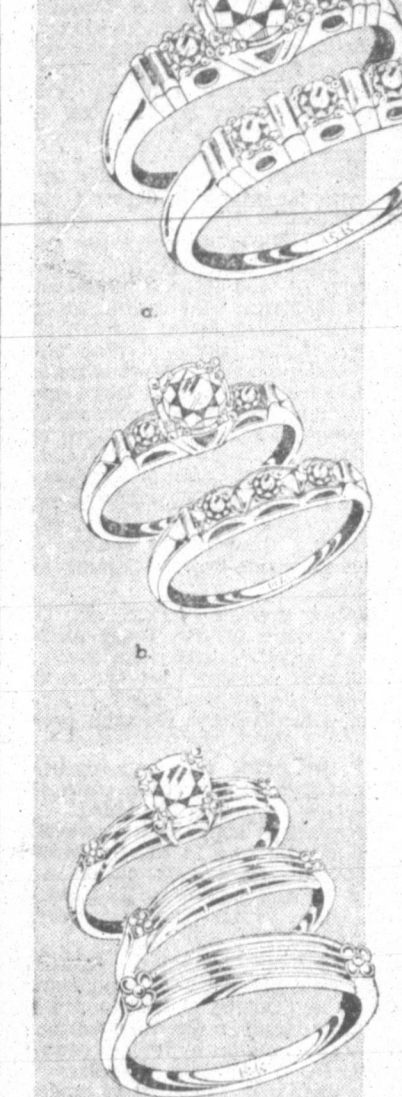

"There exists a danger," Mr. Truman told the five-man group, "that our national security may be jeopardized and our economic welfare diminished through a lowered aircraft production and a failure of the aircraft industry to keep abreast of modern methods."

The President added that the "rapid development" of aviation recently "has made many of our former concepts out of date."

He asked the five civilians to make broad recommendations by Jan. 1 on how to gear the nation's air policy to modern concepts of air power. He called for study of aviation manufacturing, transport, development and government procedures, all in their relation to security and the economy.

Nylon Used in Making Fashions of New Fabulous Fabrics

Two new washable nylon fabrics—bridal satin and flame resistant tulle—bow to the fashion world. Lustrous white satin makes the lavish lace-trimmed bridal nightgown and negligee set (left). For the skirt of the evening gown (right), 60 yards of the extremely sheer tulle were used in colors ranging from crocus to cherry. More of the fragile stuff wreaths the off-shoulder neckline.

By EPIE KINARD
 NEA Fashion Editor
 NEW YORK—(NEA)—Nylon adds two new leaves to its postwar laurels; flame-resistant tulle and bridal satin.
 Both fabrics are washable, quick-drying and safe from shrinkage.
 The new satin combines 75 percent nylon with 25 percent rayon yarn to achieve maximum luster, draping qualities and richness of "hand." After a regal entry into the lingerie field, this satin now makes outstanding styles in pajamas, parties, housecoats, slips and trousseau ensembles.
 Among the more sumptuous designs cut from this luxurious material are bridal sets or teams of richly adorned nightgowns and robes. One white nylon satin ensemble, for example, is doubly enriched with lavish amounts of hand-made alencon as trimming. This fabulous lace forms the top of the lustrous nightgown and again used as a shoulder yoke adds its glamor to the matching robe. More of the fine lace is used to bedeck the midriff-front of the robe with appliqued bands.
 Nylon tulle is not only flame resistant but also promises not to tear. The nearest thing to a cloud for a gal to wrap herself in, this tulle owes its extreme sheerness to a 15 denier monofilament yarn. Despite its seeming fragility, this fabric can be safely laundered and resists stretching or sagging, makers claim.
 To demonstrate what designers aim to do with this glamorous-but-practical stuff, Jo Copeland made an experimental evening gown of it. Into the skirt—and no kidding—went 60 yards of tulle. Topping the many-layered skirt, whose colors shade from crocus to cherry, is a snug bodice wreathed at its off-shoulder neck-line with another whoosh of tulle.

Bride-Elect Is Shower Honoree
 SHAMROCK—(Special)—Miss Jane Ann Lane, bride-elect of Paul Dodgen, whose wedding is scheduled to take place July 29, at the Church of Christ, was honored with a tea and miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. S. P. Beasley.
 Hostesses for the affair were Misses Eugene Byars, Carl Hale, Darce Foshee, Edd Haynes, Claude Foshee and Beasley.
 A color scheme of gold and white was carried out in decorations. Shasta daisies and fern were used in the entertaining rooms.
 In the dining room the table was laid with a cloth of embroidered linen centered with a bowl of daisies and fern, flanked with yellow tapers in crystal candelabra. The arrangement was repeated on the buffet.
 Mrs. Edd Haynes headed the receiving line, which included Mrs. Fred Taylor, mother of the honoree, Miss Lane, and Mrs. G. L. Dodgen, mother of the bridegroom-to-be.
 Mrs. Byars registered the guests as they arrived. Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Claude Foshee presided in the gift rooms where many useful and attractive gifts were displayed.

 Mrs. Darce Foshee poured, assisted with the serving by Miss Joyce Beasley and Mrs. Beasley.
 During the receiving hours, Miss Lola Mae Hughes entertained with a number of piano selections.
 About 50 guests called during the evening.
 English music halls and similar places of entertainment are still licensed under the "Disorderly House Act" of 1931.

Orson Welles Tricks This Newspaperman

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
 NEA Staff Correspondent
 (Johnson on KPND Monday thru Friday, 7 P. M.)
 I can tell my grandchildren now that I once put on a fright wig and played in Shakespearean drama.
 I didn't just carry a spear, either, Orson Welles said I rated a more important role.

It was all a diabolical Welles plot, I soon discovered, and I wound up bowing to the Man from Mars and then giving him a "hateful look" through four rehearsals and two "takes" for his Republic film version of the Bard's (or should we say Orson's?) "Macbeth."
 "This," thundered Orson, "is what I've been waiting for. A newspaperman bowing to me." He smiled smugly.
 After bowing to the guy six times, that "hateful look" he asked for just came naturally. So I'm not going to take credit for any acting.
 Besides, it all happened so fast—Orson is shooting the film in 21 days with a $600,000 budget—that I'm afraid I'll just be a fast blur on the screen and an even faster blur in the budget.
 "This is a low budget picture," Orson said, "We're shooting fast. Run, don't walk to your place."
ALL'S WELLES
 As usual, Orson Welles is directing and starring in the film as Macbeth. Not to mention the fact that he also wrote the screen play, cast the picture and, I suspect, sharpened the spears.
 So I ran into the scene and it was all over in exactly one minute and 22 seconds.
 "You are now a finished actor in this picture," said Orson.
 There was no doubt about it. It's a shame, too, because I think I rate at least an Oscar for Hollywood's weirdest make-up of the year I was wishing Boris Karloff was on the set. He'd have seen a real horror make-up.

they swept up off the floor the last time they trimmed the tail of Roy Rogers' horse.
 I was disappointed, though, that I didn't get to carry a spear. I had even practiced waving one with a Scottish accent.
 After being briefed by Orson's associated producer, Dick Wilson, I was all set to get an adjustment on my salary—from $15.00 to $18.00. All I had to do, Wilson said, was complain that the spear was heavier than I anticipated and then the Screen Actors' Guild would insist that the studio give me a $3 adjustment.
 But unpredictable Orson just couldn't see me as a spear-carrier. He said I wasn't the type. It was rather obvious that he was just playing it safe.
 If I had had a spear—after being forced to bow to him six times—I'm afraid Macwelles would still be running.

Miss Fae Perrin and Bill Tarvin Marry Saturday Afternoon

SHAMROCK—(Special)—Miss Fae Perrin, daughter of Mrs. Cassie Perrin of this city, became the bride of Bill Tarvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tarvin of Lodi, Calif., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Smith, Saturday afternoon.

The couple stood beneath an arch decorated with white carnations, gladioli and fern. Vows were exchanged in an impressive single ring officiating.

The bride was attired in a dress of navy sheer, with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Tarvin attended Kelton and Shamrock High Schools and the bridegroom attended school in Galt, Calif.

Tarvin served his country for three years with the United States Navy with overseas service in Japan and the Southwest-Pacific area.

A reception followed the ceremony with refreshments served to Mrs. Annie Tarvin, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Orville Brock, Fort Worth; Mrs. Cassie Perrin, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sechrist, Dozier, and Mrs. G. L. Smith.

The couple will make their home in Lodi, Calif.

Mrs. Harold Landrum Complimented With Tea

SHAMROCK—(Special)—Mrs. Harold Landrum, who was Miss Billie Ruth Darrow before her recent marriage, was complimented with a tea and miscellaneous shower Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Wilson.

Co-hostesses were Mesmes, S. B. Smith of Wellington, Claude Pillers and Bob Hammack.

The Wilson home was decorated with bouquets of dahlias and carnations. In the dining room the tea table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of sweet peas.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. G. L. Darrow, mother of the honoree, the honoree, and Mrs. T. L. Landrum, mother of the bridegroom.

Miss Ola Mae Darrow, sister of the honoree, presided at the guest register.

It's all done with mirrors these days—the task of schooling a face in effective expression.

So actresses, monologists and singers who practice their repertoires in front of mirrors will tell you. According to Gladys Swarthout, whom we interviewed recently in the RCA Victor studios, you never know how your face behaves until you watch one of its typical performances in a mirror.

If what you see is a serene face, rippled only by meaningful expressions—as important to speech, says Gladys Swarthout, as punctuation marks are to prose—you are gifted with the kind of poise that every woman covets.

If, however, your face is immobile and shows little or no expectancy, excitement, interest, pleasure or displeasure, you have a problem which calls for some mirror work. For lack of that problem, Miss Swarthout's tip is to keep working in front of a mirror on expressions that will animate your face. Make it say what you feel inside, she urges. To try out feeling, imagine that your conversation is held with one of your dearest friends.

There's as much mirror work indicated for the girl who overworks her face when she talks. Posturing, warns Miss Swarthout, not only hinders effective speech but etch unwanted lines in a face. Posturing habits named are scowling, squinting, close-peering, looking wide-eyed, making moues, pursing lips and drooping one or both eyelids. Crinkling a nose, if it's overdone, is also labeled as posturing.

American Scientists Will Aid Japanese

TOKYO—(AP)—Six prominent American scientists have arrived by plane to advise Allied Headquarters on reorganization of Japanese scientific bodies.

The group will meet Japanese scientists and also investigate Korean scientific activity.

Mission members include Dr. William V. Houston, physicist and president of Rice Institute.

Pillers were in the gift room. Mrs. S. B. Smith and Miss Maurine Hunt presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Miss Eula Mae Lively and Mrs. Claude Lively.

Railway Applies To Extend Lines

PARIS—(AP)—The Paris and Mount Pleasant Railway applied yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to extend its lines from Mount Pleasant to a junction with the Lone Star Steel Company's railroad near Veals, Texas.

The proposed extension is about 21 miles long and would join the Lone Star line about four miles east of its plant near Daingerfield.

R. W. Wortham of Paris, president of the railway, said the extension is designed to furnish additional traffic facilities for the Lone Star plant, whose freight is expected to amount to several thousand cars a year.

The present P. & M. P. line extends from Paris to Mount Pleasant, 52 miles. It has been in operation since 1912.

Things learned between the ages of 10 and 18 are best remembered, according to an English educator.

THE SOAP BOX DERBY, A CHANCE TO BUILD

The Pampa Daily News is glad to be one of 134 newspapers in the United States, Canada and Alaska that are sponsoring the All-American Soap Box Derby, which the originator, the Chevrolet Division of General Motors, has properly identified as "the greatest amateur racing event in the world."

It is without doubt the great of such events, because each year around 75,000 boys from 11 to 15 years of age, inclusive, vie for fame and prizes. The last hundred or so represent the most crafty and the handiest with tools, and when they go on the race course at Akron, O., some of 100,000 of their elders watch eagerly from the sidelines and bleachers.

It would be difficult to say just how much value has been received by the boys, their parents and the community from the hours those boys have spent on their racers in this city this summer. The things they have learned may never show on their faces, but there will be something in their personality they put there when they planned and worked on their cars, and finally raced them. Something else will be added to their personality when they take to the Downs this afternoon—all striving and hoping for the Number 1 place, which means victory. It will mean more than victory, for if it didn't the returns would be much less important. It will mean that the boy will have experienced the feeling of achieving something—and by his own effort.

Moreover, if victory merely meant something for the boy who is victorious this afternoon, the race would not be successful. What about the other boys—the losers, the boys who had to take part in order that there could be a winner?

They got something very invaluable when they built a car. It takes concentration, integrity, spirit of competition to build a car. Not only are the rules exacting, but also the work is hard.

One mother of a contestant remarked Friday: "It's hard on the mother, too!" But she was proud that her boy could take part, and, as she phrased it, "It gave him something to do."

That is the real secret of the Soap Box Derby. It is truly American, because it gives the youth a chance to carve out something with their hands. That is the way this land was built into the home of a great people. It was carved out with the hands of our forefathers.

The News believes in the principle of carving things out with one's hands. For in such practice, one becomes a craftsman, valuable to the community, the nation and to the world. He is valuable because he has that "self-awareness" which marks the difference in the man who is an asset to his community and the man who is a social liability.

That is why The News, with the Lions Club and the Chevrolet maker and distributor, is glad to have a part in this great show.

NEWS NOTEBOOK By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON (NEA) — How Republican Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine and Democratic Sen. Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia worked against the wartime head of Army Services, Gen. Brehon Somervell, leaked out during the filibuster against the Taft-Hartley labor bill. Kilgore had the floor in the early morning hours and was talking about efforts to thwart activities of government agencies. Brewster rose to ask a question and Kilgore yielded. Then this dialogue took place:

"Mr. BREWSTER, I ask the Senator whether or not the Distinguished Senator from West Virginia did not do his best to remove the Chief of the Army Supply Service during the war?"

Mr. KILGORE: I joined with the Distinguished Senator from Maine in trying to curb the activities of the Chief of the Service of Supply during the war, when he sought to become Chief of Staff. I think the Senator from Maine will admit that it was the joint action of the Senator from West Virginia and the Senator from Maine that was intended to curb his activities, but to keep him from engaging in some activities of which we did not approve."

The two "distinguished" ex-members of the Truman War Investigation Committee having thus squealed on each other like a couple of cats, Kilgore went on with the filibuster, talking of other things. BROADCASTERS BLASTED

Principal reason for abandoning the effort to get action this session on the Senate bill, Wallace White's radio reform legislation is the position taken by spokesmen for the broadcasting industry. First opposition witness before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee considering the bill was Judge Justin Miller, president of National Association of Broadcasters. The senators tore into him.

Trying to compare the newspapers with the radio is like trying to compare an elephant with a flea," said Sen. Edwin Johnson of Colorado.

Senator McFarland of Arizona told the N. A. B. head his attitude was "narrow and selfish. You know very well," he said, "that if you didn't have a regulation, somebody that liked 'Old Gray Mare' could buy a radio station and play that tune 24 hours a day."

Even Chairman White read Miller a lecture saying the industry was antagonizing the committee by presenting the same old argument they'd been listening to for 25 years. "If you keep on this way, you're heading right towards common carrier regulation like the railroads," the broadcastiers were told.

Secretary Schweikensbach's Department of Labor has been hit so hard by Congress that it is now one of the smallest and least potent of government agencies. At the end of the war Labor had 31,000 employees. Today it has 3,500. Cuts—War Labor Board ended, U. S. Employment Service transferred back to states, Children's Bureau of Federal Security, and U. S. Conciliation Service was made independent.

YALE AND CONGRESSMEN DISAGREE

One of the things that riled Congress most about the State Department's overseas information and cultural relations program was the collection of modern American paintings, which the government bought for $49,000. One of the paintings was a caricature of a big fat circus mama, and it was pretty funny. To the congressmen pruning the State Department's budget under Karl Telford of Nebraska, however, art was supposed to be pretty, not funny. So they blasted the whole idea and cut out funds for this type of activity. The man who was in charge of buying the collection, J. Leifer Davidson, was recently named professor of art at Yale University.

Another big laugh in the cultural relations program is being the controversial Henry Wallace broadcast which the State Department's Voice of America beamed to Europe while he was touring over there. State Department got a lot of criticism from Congress for this, a mere biographical sketch. What is that the script for this broadcast has been prepared by Columbia Broadcasting System, beamed to Latin-America as a routine feature several weeks before. State Department's Voice of America staff had merely picked up the show.

With tongue in cheek, Harold E. Stassen called upon Mr. Dewey, who has played with numerous liberal elements in the Empire State, to undertake a movement against Communists in that key commonwealth. The Minnesotan intimated that the municipal and state authorities and politicians had been too tender to the trouble-makers in their midst.

SONS—Perhaps even more significant was the unveiling of the numerous favorite sons at Salt Lake City. The respective Governors trotted out such prospects as Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Baldwin of Connecticut, Driscoll of New Jersey, Martin of Pennsylvania, Martin of Massachusetts, Eisenhower of Kansas (and son of New York), Halleck of Indiana and many others. It looked as if they were deliberately gauging up against the man from Albany.

Although admitting that Mr. Dewey is far in front at the moment, as he was on the early ballots in the 1940 convention in Philadelphia, the Governors agreed that it was still an "open race." They also minimize the New Yorker's chances if Henry Wallace's actual entry as a third candidate seems to assure the election of a Republican whom the backroom bosses like better than they do the cold and competent Tom.

So They Say

The United States is very close to being a "have not" nation as far as oil supplies are concerned. —James Forrestal, secretary of the Navy.

A pessimist? A man who thinks everybody's nasty as himself, and hates them for it. —George Bernard Shaw, British dramatist.

Freedom of speech, freedom of conscience, and personal freedom is the right of the individual whether he is a Capitalist or a worker, a Liberal or Socialist. —Clement Attlee, British prime minister.

REWARD

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON

FORFEITED — Secretary Marshall explained to the Governors' Conference at Salt Lake City that he had to use "dignified and diplomatic language" when he warned them that the U. S. must aid Europe of sit by the bedside while democracy overseas dies. He did not once mention Russia.

But he was under no such compunction when he appeared before Congressional leaders, as well as members of the House Foreign Affairs and Appropriations Committees, to ask for favorable action on measures carrying funds for Greece, Turkey, the liberated countries and other friendly nations.

"In the original plan, Mr. Secretary," interrupted a prominent Republican, "there were funds allocated for several countries behind the iron curtain — Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, etc. Do you intend to help those nations, now that Stalin has refused to co-operate in rebuilding Europe?"

"No, sir," replied Secretary Marshall, sticking out his military jaw. "I will not advance funds to those countries, even if you give me permission to do so. They are not on my list. They have forfeited the right to American assistance, unless they change their mind and come into our comprehensive program."

RECALCITRANCY — Although neither President Truman nor Secretary Marshall admit it openly, the dispatch of the Wedemeyer mission to China forecasts a complete change in our policy toward Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Incidentally, the former Chief of Staff shows his greatness by his apparent willingness to scrap the anti-Chiang recommendations he submitted to the White House after the failure of his own attempt to reconcile the warring factions in the Orient.

Secretary Marshall was so disgusted by the recalcitrancy of the Koumintang and Communist groups that he urged President Truman to wash his hands of the affair. As a matter of fact, he returned with harsh feelings toward the Generalissimo, feeling that he was as difficult a personage as the Communist leaders. He proposed that the latter be given a real voice and participation in the government; he suggested, on his suggestion, the U. S. withhold a proposed advance of $500,000,000 to Chiang. We also reneged on a deal to provide weapons and

UNDERMINED — The Administration's withdrawal from China on Secretary Marshall's recommendation precipitated protests that support Communists in that area, while he defied and opposed their aggression in other parts of the world, especially Europe. Russia's recent behavior has forced President Truman and Marshall to that same conclusion.

The fact is Lieutenant General Wedemeyer, who succeeded "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell as our ground commander in that sector when the latter clashed with Chiang, sided with former Ambassador Pat Hurley in the famous controversy over our Chinese policies.

Mr. Hurley charged that "Reds" in the State Department had undermined him, and prejudiced the Truman Administration against the Generalissimo. To some extent, certain forces within the diplomatic establishment has favored the Communies over the Koumintang.

BARRIER — It is admitted here still that the generalissimo's faction is reactionary, mercenary and selfish, with their own rather than China's advantage as their chief aim. But they represent the only group with which we can rely for checkmating Stalin's schemes and dreams for overrunning the Orient, India and the vast treasure lands of the Southwestern Pacific.

Therefore, whether we like it or not, we must reinforce him, and the Wedemeyer mission's assignment is to discover how best we can build up China as a barrier to Communist expansion in that vital and strategic area.

JAUNT — The reactions to Governor Thomas E. Dewey's "vacation jaunt" into the West tend to substantiate G.O.P. leaders' suspicion that the leading candidate for the 1948 presidential nomination should have remained at Albany, or confined himself to a come-and-go trip to the Governors' Conference at Salt Lake City.

His seemingly triumphant tour has forced his enemies to close ranks and to let it be known that he, too, will make a swing around the country at the close of the present session. Governor Earl Warren took open and bitter exception to the New Yorker's proposal for a federal-state split in certain tax-

Derby Is Like Big Auto Race

By WILBUR SHAW
President
Indianapolis Motor Speedway
There are many parallels between big-time auto race-driving and driving a winning race in the Soap Box Derby, but perhaps the most basic is one word of advice I'd like to give every boy entering the Pampa race this year.

That suggestion is a simple one: Steer a straight course.
I was impressed with the job that Gilbert Klecan, of San Diego, did in winning the All-American Soap Box Derby last year. I have studied movies made of that race and each time I view them I am more forcibly impressed with young Klecan's handling of his car.

Heat after heat, as that determined lad kept progressing toward final victory, he drove a winning race that could be charted merely by drawing a straight line from start to finish of the course. He never wavered from the center guide line; he never swerved; never slid off the course.
It is obvious, of course, in the Derby race that the old axiom holds true... and Klecan certainly prov-

Tax Delinquency Reported Declining

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tax delinquency has declined for the thirteenth consecutive year in the average American city. Duna & Bradstreet has reported.
A survey by Dr. Frederick L. Bird ed it. A straight line is the shortest distance between two points. And in the case of Derby racing, I might add, it is also the fastest.

of the statistical agency showed that 113 of the 177 cities reporting tax collections had a lower percentage of delinquency on their current tax levy than in 1945.
Delinquency rates ranged upward 1.5 percent in at least 37 cities. Delinquency rates ranged upward from 6.4 percent in 26 cities.
Australian slang, among the world's most colorful, includes "bonzer" for swell; "tucker" for grub; "furry" for baseless rumor and "puzzle" for place.
