Quiz Cousin Of Suspects In Big Theft

Secret Servicemen Hold Three Negroes In $160,000 Theft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— Secret Service agents Wednesday questioned a cousin of one of three persons accused of the daring and ill-fated $160,000 theft from the U.S. Bureau of Engraving after police received reports he was seen spending and flashing $20 bills.

Police in nearby Prince Georges County, Md., arrested Charles Howard Nelson, 27, early Wednesday on assault charges. Nelson and another unidentified man had been sought as additional suspects in the New Year's Eve robbery from the government's heavily-guarded money vaults.

Three Negroes, one a woman, were arrested by Secret Service agents Tuesday and charged with the $160,000 theft. All but about $22,000 of the money—which was all in $20 bills—was recovered.

Agents now are seeking to determine if others were involved in the robbery—biggest in the history of the Bureau of Engraving where the nation's greenbacks are printed.

Police said Nelson, a cousin of James Rufus Landis who is accused of engineering the theft, was charged with beating George F. (Blue Heaven) Blake, a Negro, Tuesday night in a swampy area of Prince Georges county.

Blake said Landis and a companion accused him of telling police they had a number of new $20 bills.

"They told me they had two more to go before they went to jail," officers quoted Blake as saying.

Police said Nelson is being held in the county jail at Hyattsville, Md., under $50,000 bond. They said no $20 bills were recovered from Nelson and he has not been charged as a participant in the robbery.

Landis, 29-year-old bureau employee and a decorated veteran of World War II, and his 26-year-old wife, Marnie, were arraigned Tuesday. Landis was held under a $50,000 bond and his wife, who denied an active part in the robbery, under $10,000.

The third suspect, 27-year-old Ingram Giles, was to be arraigned Wednesday. Giles, a government "flag-pole painter" who lives in the same building as Landis, said he and Landis stole the $160,000 in $20 bills because they "wanted to buy something for our kids."

River Dam Report Due

A plans and progress committee of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority today was all set to submit a report Monday to the authority's board of directors on the means for financing the proposed dam and reservoir project.

Get-togethers are scheduled for 10 a. m. at the Hotel Hilton, Plainview, according to C. A. (Lefty) Huff, authority president.

The committee met Monday in Plainview to discuss its recommendations. Huff said, on the committee are Robert E. Maxey, Lubbock, chairman; Sam Richardson, Lamesa; R. Q. Silverthorne, Plainview; and George Flinger, Borger. Huff was also present.

Huff and Fred Thompson, board director, are expected to attend Monday's meeting from Pampa. A confirmation election was held Nov. 24 on the project. Eleven of 22 voting Panhandle-Plains communities voted to stay in. Only Littlefield voted it down. Those who voted to stay in were Pampa, Borger, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Dalhart, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Slaton, Levalland and Brownfield.

After the plans and progress committee work out the project's problems with the rest of the authority's directors, they will be a second election, this time to determine which communities go along with the proposed means of financing. Possibly that election will be held this year.

HE FOOLED THE WORLD

Death Valley Scotty Is Dead

DEATH VALLEY, Calif., Jan. 6 —UP—Death Valley Scotty, who fooled the world for more than 20 years with a story of a hidden gold mine, died Tuesday night in the 33 million mansion known as "Death Valley Scotty's Castle."

Scotty, a legendary spender who chose to live in one of the world's most desolate and inhospitable regions, was 81 when death came in his huge four-poster bed after a short illness.

INSPECT NEW FIRE TRUCK — Pampa's Fire Department now has a new fire truck. Fire Chief Ernest Winborne returned from Sand Springs, Okla., Tuesday afternoon with the high pressure booster type truck, which has a capacity of 500 gallons with a nozzle pressure of 500 pounds. The 1954 Chevrolet truck was purchased by the City from the Roland Fire Truck company, Sand Springs. Chief Winborne is pictured above, with Phil Topper, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Topper, 1623 S. Dwight, as they inspect the motor of this latest piece of fire fighting equipment. Eighth Army Backs Taylor's Warning To South Koreans

SEOUL, Jan. 6 —UP—Gen. Maxwell Taylor bluntly warned South Korea Wednesday he will unleash his Eighth Army against South Korean troops if any attempt is made to free the more than 2,300 anti-Communist prisoners from Indian custody.

The sharply worded statement was made in an official release which was to be delivered to the South Korean government.

In the statement, Taylor "noted" the threat, made Tuesday by South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tsa that the ROK army might take "some action" if the Indian custodial troops continue their "illegal screening" of the anti-Communist prisoners.

Authority Quoted
"The United Nations," Taylor said, "had invited the attention of the Republic of Korea government to the groundless nature of the allegations of this official against the custodial forces of India and had made clear its intention to discharge its full responsibility under Paragraph 6 of the terms of reference (of the armistice agreement)."

Paragraph 6 guaranteed that the United Nations will use Allied troops for "preventing and restraining any armed forces (including irregular armed forces) in the area of its control from any act of disturbance and intrusion against the location where the prisoners of war are in custody."

South Korea threatened to take violent action against Indian troops guarding the prisoners because of an Indian "administrative check-up" which sent 135 Chinese back to communism last Thursday.

Although the emergency hay program was tagged as a 50-50 undertaking, shared jointly by the state and federal government, in practice the federal government has paid the major portion of the bill.

Railroads have cut the freight costs on shipping drouth relief hay 50 per cent.

The regular freight cost was $26 a ton. The railroads have cut that to only $13.

The federal government agreed to pay all shipping charges up to $10 a ton. The state paid the remainder. In this instance, the federal government would contribute $10 of the $13 freight cost. The state would pay $3.

Under this arrangement, the state has tagged for spending on hay allotments $185,000 in state funds, while $704,000 in federal funds have been encumbered.

Even his wife thought the ex-official, Harry A. Barbour, 61, had killed himself when he wrote her a suicide note from San Francisco on Nov. 8, 1948, and disappeared.

It was 18 agonizing months before she learned differently. Tuesday the Barbours were found living in nearby Glassmanor, Md., with their two daughters.

Talks Emotionally
In an interview with a reporter Wednesday, Barbour talked emotionally of what happened to him since he faced financial ruin and possible blindness after having risen to the position of executive director of the Federal Public Housing authority in Oakland, Calif.

Two Houses Open Amid Quiet Lull

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— The showdown second session of the 85th Congress convened on a friendly note Wednesday although it is expected to be one of the stormiest meetings in recent history.

Republicans and Democrats were headed into angry debate that will make or break President Eisenhower's 1954 program and possibly decide the November congressional elections.

But it was all sweetness and light as the gavels banged down in the crowded Senate and House chambers at the stroke of noon, EST (11 a. m. CST). Among friend and foe alike, there were hearty greetings, slaps on the back and vigorous handshakes.

Two new senators and four new representatives were welcomed to the fraternity and lined up to take their formal oaths of office. They included Sen. Thomas A. Burke, the Ohio Democrat who succeeds the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

And, in accordance with time-honored tradition, committees officially informed Mr. Eisenhower of the opening of Congress and received formal notification that the President will deliver his State of the Union message Thursday.

But behind the conviviality and ceremony the storm clouds were piling up.

For events have moved in such a way that Congress in the next few months must decide highly controversial issues affecting the nation's prosperity, its basic military strategy, and its farm, labor and tax policies.

Internal Divisions
And Congress must make these decisions with the Republicans troubled by internal divisions and in little more than nominal control and with the Democrats fighting aggressively to make a comeback in November.

The opening day schedule began (at 7 a. m. cst) with an intercession and holy communion service at the National Presbyterian Church for Mr. Eisenhower and members of Congress, the Supreme Court and the administration.

The swearing-in of new senators and new representatives was the (See QUIET, Page 2)

Police identified the suspects as Carl Renda of suburban Grose Pointe, Clarence Jacobs of Tecumseh, Ontario, and Peter Lombardo, now serving a term at the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind.

The two-count warrant charged the four with assault with intent to commit murder and conspiracy of assault with intent to commit murder in the April 20, 1948 shooting of Reuther, who then headed only the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

The two-count warrant was signed by Judge John P. O'Hara, Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said the arrests "culminated an investigation which began in the summer of 1951."

Reuther was sitting in the kitchen of his home in northwest Detroit the night of the shooting. A shotgun blast dropped him to the floor. The attack left his right arm permanently crippled.

Renda was arrested at his home and taken to police headquarters. Jacobs was arrested by provincial police at Windsor, Ontario, on a fugitive warrant. Police said the whereabouts of Perrone was not known.

O'Brien refused to disclose details of the investigation or say what part any of the four suspects played in the shooting.

Hinson was a leader in the fight during the last Legislature to raise teacher pay, but he said he hoped that question would be settled by a special session of the Legislature and would not be a campaign issue.

Passenger Dies
HOUSTON, Jan. 6 —UP— Cliff Weaver, 25-year-old bulldozer operator, was killed Tuesday night when the automobile in which he was a passenger smashed out of control into a utility pole.

The driver, James Earl Eaves, 23, and another passenger, Jo Ann Richardson, 18, suffered minor injuries.

Tonight the 20 contestants will give short talks on "why I want to be Maid of Cotton" and 15 of them will then be interviewed, with their mothers, before the final section is made.

Press Chase For Badman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— Chester Davenport, the elder of two Southwestern badmen + brothers, Wednesday was named to the FBI's list of "10 most wanted" fugitives.

Davenport, 31-year-old native of Wichita Falls, Tex., has been missing since last July when he escaped from the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite, where he and his brother Norman, 25, were serving 25-year terms for the kidnap-robbery of an Oklahoma highway patrolman.

The FBI said the brothers are well known to Southwestern officers as a team which has engaged "in extensive cattle-rustling activities in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas."

Norman Davenport, who also escaped from the reformatory last Oct. 3, has been recaptured and is scheduled for arraignment on charges of kidnaping, robbery and escape at Mangum, Okla., Friday.

Chester Davenport left the reformatory during a night baseball game while acting as "first aid man" for the prison team.

The FBI warned policemen approaching Davenport that he is armed and should be considered dangerous.

Davenport replaced Thomas E. Dickerson on the FBI's list. Dickerson, sought for the robbery of a Bethesda, Md., finance company, was arrested in West Virginia Dec. 21.

Davenport was born in Wichita Falls in 1922. His prison term stemmed from an Oklahoma investigation of an extensive cattle theft ring in the Southwest area.

Kidnaped Trooper
On Feb. 13, 1951, the FBI said, Oklahoma Highway Patrolman Lloyd Francisco tried to question two men in a cattle truck. The two men, brandishing guns, took a revolver and a shotgun from the trooper to accompany them. He was later released.

Francisco later identified his kidnapers as the Davenport brothers. After several other brushes with the law, the two brothers were convicted in May, 1951, of the armed robbery of the highway patrolman and sentenced to prison. Davenport was serving this sentence when he made good his last escape.

Patients Overflow At Local Hospital
Highland General Hospital again was full of patients today and at least 20 more additional beds have been set up to take care of the new patients according to Chas. Lander, hospital administrator.

Every available space is being utilized, he stated, adding that beds have even been set up in the front solarium, which has been turned into a ward.

Ten extra beds had been set up Monday in the basement of the hospital, he said.

Lander explained that the cause for the increase in the number of patients can be attributed to flu, diarrhea and chronic illnesses. Also there are several diagnostic and surgical cases, he said.

Many patients were dismissed today, but Lander said that as fast as the patients are dismissed, there are others to take their places.

Maid Of Cotton Contest To End
Pampa's Ann Perkins was in her second day of interviews and parties today as the Maid of Cotton contest in Memphis, Tenn., neared its close. The final votes will take place tonight, after which the winner and an alternate will be named.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Unemployment Up One-Half Million

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— Commerce Department officials emphasized Wednesday that there is no cause for alarm in the fact that unemployment climbed nearly half a million in December.

They said the employment picture for most of 1953 was "exceptionally favorable" in spite of "some reversals in recent months." In some categories, they said, unemployment was comparatively low.

A department report issued late Tuesday said December jobless totaled 1,800,000 or an increase of 425,000 compared to November. The December figure also was 425,000 higher than December, 1952.

The total number of persons working dropped even more in December—from 61,925,000 in November to 60,764,000. The department said this bigger drop in the employed total was due to the fact that many farm workers withdrew from the labor force—and thus were not listed as unemployed.

But the department said the average unemployment for all 1953 was only 1.5 million, the lowest annual figure since World War II. It also noted that the proportion of civilian workers without jobs and looking for work was only 3 per cent—"about as low as in any December since World War II," except for last year. The Department added that the percentage of such workers looking for jobs also was "well under" the 1949-50 level.

He startled the East by driving through streets in a buckboard, scattering coins from a keg.

Asked where he got the money, the heavy-set Scotty, his tanned face shaded by a wide-brimmed hat, declared:

"I've got a million dollar gold mine out in Death Valley."

The true story of the source of his wealth came out in a Los Angeles court in 1941 when he was sued by New York financier Julian S. Gerard. Gerard said he "grubstaked" the miner back in 1902 and wanted a share of Scotty's wealth, if there was any.

Scotty confessed that he was financed entirely by Johnston, who died in January, 1943.

Returns From 'Dead' To Tell How Stranger Foiled Suicide

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— A former California housing official "returned from the dead" Wednesday and told how a friendly remark from a passing stranger kept him from committing suicide five years ago.

His wife thought the ex-official, Harry A. Barbour, 61, had killed himself when he wrote her a suicide note from San Francisco on Nov. 8, 1948, and disappeared.

It was 18 agonizing months before she learned differently. Tuesday the Barbours were found living in nearby Glassmanor, Md., with their two daughters.

Talks Emotionally
In an interview with a reporter Wednesday, Barbour talked emotionally of what happened to him since he faced financial ruin and possible blindness after having risen to the position of executive director of the Federal Public Housing authority in Oakland, Calif.

Barbour said he "honestly" intended to drown himself in San Francisco Bay after his $58,000 investment in a beauty salon was wiped out and he became nearly blind from cataracts.

He went to the waterfront and sat on a boat dock, looking down into the water.

"But other people were there," he said, "and you know how you wait, and wait, and wait. . . and then somebody had insight or somebody knew."

"It's Not That Bad"
The somebody, Barbour said, was a stranger who walked up to him and said "it's not that bad."

Those four words caused Barbour to change his mind and he hitchhiked to Chicago where three months later he became totally blind.

State's Politics Simmering
AUSTIN, Jan. 6 —UP—The Texas political pot began to simmer Wednesday as State Rep. George T. Hinson, Minnola, announced he was a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Hinson's announcement was the first this year for a major political office. House Speaker Reuben Setteritt announced several months ago he was running for governor.

Hinson, 44, a railroad engineer and former school teacher, said he was running solely for the Democratic nomination and would not accept Republican cross-filing.

He has sponsored several natural gas tax bills during his two legislative terms and said he was running because Texans "deserve to have their Senate presided over by one who has shown time and time again that he is a hard worker."

Cops Hold Three In Reuther Case

DETROIT, Jan. 6 —UP— Three persons were arrested Wednesday in connection with the ambush shooting of CIO President Walter P. Reuther nearly six years ago and police said a fourth man was being sought.

Police identified the suspects as Carl Renda of suburban Grose Pointe, Clarence Jacobs of Tecumseh, Ontario, and Peter Lombardo, now serving a term at the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind.

The two-count warrant charged the four with assault with intent to commit murder and conspiracy of assault with intent to commit murder in the April 20, 1948 shooting of Reuther, who then headed only the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

JayCees Hear C-C Leader

Members of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce got an earful of ideas from their parent organization, the chamber of commerce, at the first meeting of the new year.

Clinton Evans, president of the chamber of commerce, Tuesday noon told JayCees that the job of both their groups was to "get industry into Pampa, and once it's here, to treat 'em right."

E. O. (Red) Wedgeworth, chamber manager, was on hand to introduce Evans. And JayCee President J. C. Hopkins presided at his first club meeting.

Pointing to a stack of paraphernalia on the chamber's activities—each JayCee got a copy of everything—Evans ran through a list of projects, including the solicitor's review board, livestock shows, road, industrial week, B-J-E Day, Oil and Gas Week, clean-up week, United Fund, Teacher's Appreciation Week, north-south air service, E. O. Wilson underpass, dangerous street inter-sections, tourist school, community center, and new hotel.

"Barbers probably have more time than anyone else" to talk with visitors, Evans said, emphasizing that "the way we treat out-of-town visitors" is of top-notch importance.

Issues Warning On Solicitors

Chamber of Commerce President Clinton Evans, in a letter to chamber members, today issued a warning regarding contributions to out-of-town solicitors.

Evans told the members that millions of dollars are collected each year throughout the country from business and professional men by various racketeers.

"The Pampa Review Board, which has been in existence here for the past few years, has gone a long way in cutting down this type of solicitation in Pampa," he said. "However, we still have an occasional out-of-town solicitor calling on the people here some are legitimate and some are not."

He pointed out that the board is glad to give approval to legitimate and worthwhile causes, but that it is anxious to curb anything of a questionable nature.

"We are asking your cooperation in not contributing to any out-of-town solicitors that do not have the approval of the Pampa Review Board," Evans stated. "A card is issued when the solicitor has been approved — ask him for his approval card when he calls on you."

Specific Recommendations

Mr. Eisenhower will lay down his specific recommendations in a series of subsequent special messages and he is reported determined to be the signal for the real fighting of the session to begin.

The GOP holds a slim majority in the House where there are 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one independent. His position is even weaker in the Senate where there are 48 Democrats and one independent to only 47 Republicans.

But a greater problem for the President is the fact that in many cases his program probably will be opposed by the powerful conservative wing of the GOP where the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) was so helpful when he was alive.

There already is evidence that the administration will have to battle uphill to beat off new tax cuts even though reductions that went into effect last week already have made the effort to balance the budget considerably more difficult.

Chinese On Formosa Dream Of D-Day In Their Homeland

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

TAIPEI, Formosa — (NEA) — Almost everyone you meet here wants to go home. They have their minds focused on China, 90 sea miles away.

There are two million homesick Chinese on Formosa, soldiers, friends and followers of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Now muscled by American aid, the homesick horde think, eat, dream and plan of the day they'll evict Red Dictator Mao and his Russian bankers and take up their old life in Manchurian rice paddies and Shanghai skyscrapers.

The music of Formosa is the blues. A trip in and around Taipei — the capital city where the American mission's shiny station wagons honk at ox-carts — shows the fastest garrison in the Free Orient plastered on top of a sleepy, semi-tropical farmland.

Cement pillboxes circle Taipei, for the Communists might still try to snake-hip past our Seventh Fleet (guarding this island) to invade Formosa before Formosa can invade Red China. Chinese sentries, wearing white gloves and varnished helmets, are on constant alert.

The Nationalist troops are in magnificent physical shape—even though they sing the blues—and there's not a pot belly on the 600,000 of them.

The high command demands endless exercise, with every man a pole vaulter and push-upper. Inter-unit competition keeps Taipei stadium packed daily.

Four years ago, when Russian-supplied-Chinese whipped American-supplied Chinese, these two million homesick fled across the Straits of Formosa in history's biggest Dunkirk.

The U.S. turned its back on them and for a year, short of ammo, they stood alone, watching for the Communist invasion junks like England watched from Dover after France folded.

When the Korean War began, the U.S. was again in the market for Asiatic Allies, even defeated ones, and the marriage of convenience was renewed.

The big maproom at GHQ is nervous with officers sipping green-tea and worrying about the outcome of a raid against a Communist mainland post, these big-aid-raid raids are regular features to kill Communists, destroy installations and let the captive people know their outside, homesick friends are tapping on the prison door — someday they'll break it open.

A U.S. sergeant with a string of hushmarks on his sleeve like a step-ladder tells me: "I'm helping train these jokers

Chinese Nationalist Forces Come From The Ranks Of Formosan Farm Boys Like This One Who Answered Call

And I'll clue you: They're good. I don't know why they got clobbered before but I'd go anplace with them, even Shanghai."

The Japanese sat on Formosa for 80 years and the particular Chinese general I'm visiting makes his office in a barracks that used to house an Imperial Nipponese Regiment. In his book, case is a "History of West Point."

He says: "We can greatly increase the size of our army as we get the supplies. There are plenty of young Formosans and they make good soldiers."

The countryside, a thing of beauty with California style palm trees and racks of American pigs (sent here to increase the swine population) is dotted with posters urging farm boys, barefoot huskies, to join the reserves.

"I'm told the average age of the Chinese army here is 28, which breaks the theory that this is a 'wheel-chair' army. Our crutch is the First Cavalry Division, which took Manila, averaged 28 years at the time of triumph."

There's a big to-do at the airstrip as they greet Chinese soldiers evacuated from Burma's jungle with a brass band, smashing Chiang's army, rid of the week-knees and gratters, is surprisingly good today. They can either fight

Prepare Estimates On Paving Program

City engineering officials this morning were busy at work preparing estimates on the city's 1954 paving program.

By late morning, 43 pages of legal description, 10 pages of alphabetical lists of streets and units and 89 pages of unit descriptions had been readied and "there's lots more to go," according to Fred Brook, assistant city engineer.

City commissioners late last year passed resolutions calling for the need for street paving and the authorization for City Director of Public Works James Cowan to prepare the estimates.

A total of 144 blocks on 57 different Pampa streets was on the proposed list of street-paving presented to Cowan's office. That means 369 units, Brook explained today.

Next steps, in order, will be the typing up of all the pages, proof-reading them, taking them to the city commission, publishing them, working up an envelope for each property-owner and mailing it to him, then "waiting for results," Brook continued.

Once the commission approves Cowan's estimates, according to City Attorney Bob Gordon, there will follow the holding of a public hearing, the ordering of paving and the acceptance of the whole package by the commission.

"We have about 3600 of them to get out and we hoped to have them all in the mail by Friday," he stated. The coin cards have slots for 20 dimes and a "compartment for green folding money," he added.

Miss Ellen Keough of the water department is addressing all of the envelopes "on her own time" and Pampa Girl Scouts are working after school inserting the coin cards into the envelopes.

March Of Dimes Coin Cards Set

The Gray County Infants Paralysis Association is in the process of preparing March of Dimes "coin cards" for mailing to Pampans, according to Fred Brook, city chairman.

GI Sought After Crash

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 6 — UP — A Fort Sill soldier stole a light Army airplane here early Wednesday and the plane was found lying on its back a few hours later near Temple, Okla., the State Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol identified the soldier as Harvey J. Collins, whose home is in Kentucky. He was not found in the crashed plane and officers were hunting for him in the Temple area, about 25 airline miles southeast of here.

Troopers L. L. Kelsoe and Kenneth Skelton reported the plane was found on tracks of the Rock Island railroad one mile south of Temple. They heard a train approaching shortly after reaching the scene, and had to flag it down to prevent it from hitting the plane.

Army men from Fort Sill arrived by helicopter a short time later and arranged for removal of the plane. It was not badly damaged, the patrol reported.

Troopers said Collins took off from the Fort Sill air field in a light L-19 Army trainer used by artillery spotters. At the time of the takeoff at 1:40 a.m. the craft had less than five hours' supply of fuel.

When the departure of the plane became known, Lawton radio station KSWO broadcast a bulletin asking nearby residents to report any sign of the craft. A farmer near Temple first saw the L-19 lying on its back, and called Cotton County Deputy Sheriff Bob Lewis. Lewis notified the patrol.

Troopers said Collins' wife lives at Walters, Okla., about 10 miles northwest of Temple.

Amorillo Employes Of Bank Quizzed

AMARILLO, Jan. 6 — UP — Texas Rangers revealed Wednesday they questioned five employes of the First National Bank with a lie detector about the disappearance of $75,000 from the bank Monday.

The lie detector and Dee Wheeler, the Department of Public Safety's chief lie detector operator, were flown to Amorillo Tuesday night and the employes were questioned Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Rangers would not disclose results of the tests. He was understood, however, persons will also be questioned.

The Rangers joined the FBI Tuesday in the investigation of the money's disappearance, but neither would discuss their findings nor their theories.

The bank's insurance company gave the bank a check for $75,000 Tuesday.

Pampa's Red Cross chapter will sponsor an advanced first aid course beginning Jan. 13, according to Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, chapter secretary.

The purpose of the course is to prepare people for the first aid instructors course which will be given the first week in March by H. H. Miss Jane Lightfoot, physical education instructor at Junior High School, will teach the advance course and anyone interested should call the Red Cross office.

Boys Suffocated As Cave Collapses

HOUSTON, Jan. 6 — UP — Two small boys suffocated when a secret cave they were digging with two companions caved in on them Monday night. It was learned here Tuesday night.

They were J. C. Casey, 12, and Claud Sammons, 14, who lived south of New Caney, Tex., in north Harris county.

Mrs. B. V. Casey, mother of one of the victims, said Rowell Sammons, Claud's 12-year-old brother, ran to the Casey home about 7:30 p.m. Monday and said their cave had tumbled in on the two.

"We didn't even know anything about the cave until then," she said. "Relatives began digging through several feet of sand on a bank overlooking the San Jacinto River, and took nearly an hour to reach the two youths who were already dead."

Highway Patrolman Clarence Bruton said the youths, with J.C. Stowe, 11, had dug cave some eight feet wide and tall enough for them to stand in and were lining it with boards. He said the two in the cave were passing more dirt out to the other two when the cave-in occurred.

Justice of the Peace R. C. Hale of Humble returned a verdict of accidental death.

Celane Official Leaving Pampa

Robert W. Clark of Pampa, superintendent of engineering and maintenance at Pampa's Celanese plant, has been transferred to the company's main offices in Charlotte, N. C.

His new position will be assistant to the manager of the central engineering department there. He will also serve as chairman of the committee which establishes the engineering standards for the corporation.

Clark came to Pampa in April, 1951, as resident engineer in the construction of the Celanese plant here. He lived with his wife and three boys at 1201 Hamilton in the home which he built shortly after his arrival in Pampa. The Clarks are members of Pampa's First Presbyterian Church.

License Plates Requirement Told

Even though 1954 Texas license plates go on sale Feb. 1, non-residents and those with new cars who buy plates before April 1 will have to purchase 1953 plates, too.

County Tax Assessor - Collector Jack Back told morning explained that the 1953 plates for such persons will be morning on a "pro rata" basis — that is, if a man buys plates March 1, he'll only have to pay for one month's worth.

Consequently, Back continued, such persons buying plates before Feb. 1 and April 1 must buy the 1953 variety and can buy the 1954 ones.

Of course, residents who already have 1953 plates on their autos will just purchase the 1954 category.

The new plates will go on sale Feb. 1 in the county tax office on the first floor of the Court House. After April 1, law enforcement officers can pick up a motorist for not having his 1954 plates.

Arrival of the new plates come early this year, about a week ago. At present, they're stacked in one corner of the office — unsold.

Hospital Board Meet Postponed

First meeting of the new year for the Highland General Hospital Board has been postponed till "next week or the week after."

Chet Lander, hospital administrator, lets this morning announced the postponement, explaining that two of the board members are out of town this week.

"We might call a special meeting this week, though, just to approve the bills, that's all," Lander said.

Whenever it comes, this meeting will be the first for three of the six-member board. First order of business will be to select a president, vice president and secretary of the board.

Poll Taxes Must Be Paid Jan. 30

County Tax Assessor - Collector Jack Back took a second look at his office calendar this morning and realized that Jan. 31 this year falls on a Sunday.

That means that the effective deadline for payment of poll taxes and county-state taxes will be Saturday, Jan. 30.

If a person fails to pay out his $1.75 for the privilege of voting in 1954 elections by that day, he simply cannot vote this year, Back emphasized. "We always have some people who come in Monday morning — after," he said.

If a person does not pay his county taxes by that date, he can pay them the following Monday morning, all right. But it'll cost him a penalty of 1/2 per cent of his total bill.

Wise Mothers Remain in Background While Chaperoning Children's Parties

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Part of the art of homemaking is playing the successful hostess, not only to our adult guests but also to our children's pals.

At our big-folk parties, we arrange the guest list, food and decorations to suit ourselves. But it calls for special talent to be a tactful hostess when the kids have their day.

Especially, I think, is this true in the preteen age, when youngsters want to emerge from the safe cocoon of mother-managed parties, but haven't acquired the social know-how of the late teens.

A recent chat I had with Lucile Rosenheim, author of juvenile novels and a sensible new booklet for kids called, "Let's Give a Party," pointed up ways parents can contribute to the fun of the event.

Mrs. Rosenheim, who has a brisk, humorous approach, is unofficial party consultant for youngsters and their moms in her town and speaks from experience.

When I checked our conversation with some of my pre-teen pals, these points were considered most important:

1. Give the youngster a clear-cut budget to work with. A party needn't cost much if it's well planned, but there should be food and prizes no matter how modest.
2. Let her determine the guest list. Remind her only of social debts she should repay. The size of her budget will automatically limit the list. And don't use your child's party to further your own social ambitions.
3. Slip up the house (with her help) as you would for your own party. But remove as many breakable or treasured ornaments as possible. It's embarrassing to a little girl and her hostess if a clumsy action knocks over a vase.
4. Put a time limit on the party. Two and a half hours is the maximum you can expect frisky kids to party without getting out of hand.
5. Consult with the junior hostess on the games to be played. Most games take about 10 or 15 minutes. There should be some active, some quiet ones. Have six or seven games ready. If your game list is rusty, check books in the school or public library, teachers or counselors in young people's groups.
6. Greet the guests, then be as unobtrusive as possible. Move in and out of the room. Help get a game going, if necessary, but don't be an obvious chaperone.
7. Keep an eye out for the smart-aleck. Handle the wild show-off quickly and with a firm hand to avoid a contagious chain reaction. A party can disintegrate rapidly if the rowdy takes over.
8. If you see cliques forming, start a game where it's natural to pull them into a larger group—games that involve choosing teams or finding partners.
9. Don't assume your adult friends will be welcome guests at the children's party unless the young host or hostess needs their help and suggests they come.
10. When you lend a hand with the cleaning up, avoid unflattering comments on the mess in the living room, the grubbiness of the guests or their manners. Just assure your child that it was a howling success and that everybody had a marvelous time.

Ironing Out Washday Problems

THE BABY'S COME DOWN WITH A SNIFGLE. John's bringing home four to dinner, and glory be, you've got a basket of ironing loaded higher than a hay stack! Obviously it's time to leave a note on the hall table, "Love you all but just couldn't take anymore!"

hang on to him! Because there's no shortcut to this job except know-how. Iron them in this order: wrong side of collar, right side, inside of cuffs, outside. Iron sleeves double, starting at under-arm seam. Iron back of shirt and finally the right and left fronts.

You can save yourself on flat pieces by hanging them straight and folding evenly as you take them down. Iron over the top hem of sheets, also the creases and one side of the pillow case. Avoid iron-shine by pressing on the wrong side. Iron details first to avoid creasing the garment as you work. Place buttons down on a tailor cushion or shoulder pad and iron over the back of the fabric. This protects the fabric under the button as well as the button, says the Tide Clinic.

Days like these, it's just plain good sense to take short cuts and here's a few from Tide Washing Clinic to help iron out that problem in your laundry basket.

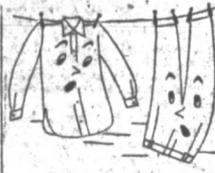

Take cotton washdresses; why not use the seersucker trick? It won't make trouser-sharp creases but it will pass for around the house and the corner grocery store. Wash the dress and put it on a hanger. Pad the shoulders and sleeves with a bath towel or paper towelling, smoothing them into shape. Iron the hem, seams and belt into smoothness.

Try the same system on work clothes. Keep your wringer loose to avoid pressing in wrinkles. Leave clothes in a spinner for about two minutes. Shake each piece vigorously and hang up while it's quite wet. Hang trousers by the waistband, jackets and shirts on hangers. Hand-smooth out seams.

If you're married to a man who will wear shirts with only the collars, cuffs and fronts ironed,

Do you get the hang of this thing, old shirt?

Remember, good sprinkling makes for quicker ironing. Iron things while they're still damp rather than sprinkling stiff-dry clothes. They iron easier too if they're cold damp. (ANS)

Mrs. J. B. Veale Chosen New President At Parent Education Club Meeting

Mrs. Bob Clark was hostess for the meeting Tuesday afternoon of the Parent Education Club meeting at the Country Club. The resignation of Mrs. Clark, who is moving from Pampa, was accepted with regret. Selected as officers for the new year were Mrs. J. B. Veale, president; Mrs. Julian Key, vice president; Mrs. Homer Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Rex Rose, parliamentarian; and Mrs. E. B. Deer, Jr., reporter.

Mrs. Rex Rose introduced Mrs. Harriet Hampton, who discussed the query, "Are You Boring Your Husband?" "Friendship," Mrs. Hampton said, "is most important in marriage as in other phases in life. When friendship wanes, there is a loss of interest between husband and wife and boredom is the natural consequence. Because of physical attraction and the new way of life, boredom is unlikely to be a problem when first married. Later, having and rearing children should make this period of married life a most interesting time for both partners. The wife should see that the father has as much responsibility as the mother and must make a special effort to make the husband's role as important as ever. Children should be taught devotion to the father as well as the mother. This great common interest—that of rearing children—continues through adolescence.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

I always read your column. I am wondering if you could help me. My family lives in another part of the country.

I plan to get married in the spring. My husband-to-be will have one more year of school. I have promised him I will work for two years. It is all my idea.

Now I want to know where or whom to see about a planned family.

I want our babies when we can afford them. I know that it is the wife's responsibility to see that babies come when they are ready for them.

I know several girls who got married but weren't ready for families. They had babies right away. I don't want it to happen to me.

I don't have a doctor whom I could talk to. I know there must be some way to plan a family.

After my fiance has finished school and is working will be when we want our babies.

Try to help me.

RUTH MILLET

In a small Texas town a judge recently gave four fathers a six-month suspended sentence. After their small sons, ages 7 to 10, were arrested for the 21st time, on such serious charges as stealing, breaking into business firms, attempting to set a dance hall on fire.

The boys are too young for prosecution, so the judge might make the one thing which might make their fathers assume some responsibility for their small sons was to fix things so that if the boys get into any more trouble their dads will go to jail.

As a matter of fact, any parent whose child breaks a law for the first time is morally on suspended sentence.

From the moment that his child makes the first bad gesture against law and the rights of others, the parent faces two alternatives.

He can assume complete responsibility for his child's wrong attitude, and make up his mind that his most important job in life is to find out what the trouble is and then correct it.

Or he can, like the fathers of these four boys apparently have done in the past, shrug off all responsibility for what his child does and let the child follow the path from juvenile delinquency to adult crime.

If he follows the first course, chances are he will never have to pay in heartbreak and self-blame for the kind of adult his child becomes.

But if he follows the easy, irresponsible second course, he is sure to serve his suspended sentence in heartbreak, self-leathing, shame and disgrace.

If when children first get into trouble parents would realize that, whether a judge says so or not, they—the parents—are morally on suspended sentence, there would be a sudden drop in juvenile delinquency.

Court Hears Bond Contest

Fall Kills Garland Man
DALLAS, Jan. 6—UP—Tommy White, 34, Garland, Tex., was injured fatally Tuesday when he fell 50 feet from a scaffold on which he was painting.

Two of the women who wrote said they had friends who told them they were very foolish to answer such a letter, and two friends in whom I confided also told me I was foolish to have such a letter printed.

In this day and age there are still those who are honest and will have faith in the goodness of others so I am very happy I did what I thought should be done.

It is such a shame for anyone to be alone on holidays. I have told several of my friends of this meeting and I believe there are many people who know of such women who are alone who might be benefited by being in such a group.

I had one answer from a husband and wife who are to be alone. I was sorry to have to say this is to be just for women—no men allowed.

Weight Check Wise For Mature Women

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The tape measure and scale, prosaic things that they are, should be among the mature woman's most prized beauty aids.

For the older woman especially, the safest and easiest way to combat excess weight is to prevent its appearance.

Unless a check is kept, the pounds and inches will sneak up on one who has passed 40. And before she knows how it is happening, it already has happened and another woman has been added to the list of the overweight.

The tape measure and scale, t. n., should be used as daily guides. It is not difficult to get rid of a few extra pounds and an inch here and there. A rigid reducing regimen, on the other hand, is sometimes too much of a strain on the heart. It certainly taxes one's will power.

Keeping your daily check with measure and scale, you will never have to do more than occasionally cut down on starches and sugars and add a few blocks to your daily walk.

And, because you are holding your weight to the proper mark, you will never have to worry about the flabbiness that many women suffer as a result of heavy reducing.

obedience is to have him understand the inevitable consequences of his act.

Mrs. Deer Cloed with this thought, "Do right by your child and he will do right by you."

Fifteen members were present. The next meeting will be held Jan. 19, in the home of Mrs. H. D. Johnson, 1220 Hamilton.

Manners Make Friends

The man who speaks of his wife with obvious pride and respect makes a far better impression on others than the man who talks superior to his wife when he talks of her to other men. I've never met his wife but she must be an awfully nice person from the way he talks about her. It is as much of a compliment to the husband as to the wife.

The man who low-grades his wife is at the same time giving others a poor opinion of himself.

Western Tomato Burgers Are Delicious

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Our Southern California friends pride themselves on the ways they have with fresh tomatoes. Here are two suggestions from Los Angeles.

Western Tomato Burgers (Makes 4 servings)

Four large tomatoes, 1 pound ground beef, 2 tablespoons salad oil or meat drippings, 1 small onion, minced or grated, 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 cup fresh tomato pulp, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons salt, pepper.

Cut thin slice from stem end of each tomato. Scoop out centers with spoon, save the pulp and invert tomato cups to drain. Meanwhile cook the beef and onion in oil or meat drippings only until meat loses its red color.

Stir in remaining ingredients and lightly fill tomato cups with the meat mixture. Stand tomatoes upright in lightly greased shallow baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) uncovered, until browned, about 30 minutes. Tomatoes Stuffed with Spinach (Makes 6 servings)

Six fresh tomatoes, 2 pounds fresh spinach, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons flour, 1 cup heavy cream or undrained evaporated milk, salt and pepper, dash of nutmeg, 1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs.

Cut thin slice from stem end of each tomato. Scoop out centers with spoon, save the pulp and invert tomato cups to drain. Cook spinach, covered, about 3 minutes or until just barely tender. Drain liquid and save. Melt butter or margarine.

Opening Lead Is Most Important

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
As every experienced player knows, the correct lead from a particular holding varies with the nature of the contract. If the opponents wind up in a suit contract, for example, you might lead one suit; whereas you would lead a different suit if the opponents were in a no-trump contract.
Even if you don't change the suit that you decide to lead, the card may still differ with the contract. For example, you would surely lead the king of a suit headed by K-Q against a trump contract; but you would usually lead fourth best from that suit unless the top cards also included the jack or ten.
In today's hand, West would have led a low heart if his hearts had been king, queen, and four very low cards. He decided to lead the king because his suit was a six-carder and included the nine among the spot-cards. This is an important thing to remember about opening leads against no-trump: Treat a six-card suit headed by K-Q-9 as though it were K-Q-10. The reason for this is shown in today's hand. The length of the suit gives you a chance to pick up doubleton tens and jacks, or perhaps even a singleton ten or jack.

When West led the king of hearts, South went down to sure and glorious defeat. He held off with the ace of hearts until the third round, cashed his four clubs, and then tried the diamonds. West promptly took the ace of diamonds and cashed the rest of his hearts.
Five hearts and the ace of diamonds were enough to set South two tricks.
If West had led the seven of hearts, his fourth best card in the suit, dummy would have won the first trick with the jack of hearts. Now South would safely knock out the ace of diamonds, and would manage to win 12 tricks.
There was a difference of five tricks between the right and the wrong opening lead.

Shivers Names Two On Staff

AUSTIN, Jan. 6.—UP—Speculation was rife Wednesday afternoon following the appointment of two new members of Gov. Allan Shivers' personal staff.
Jimmy Banks, director of publications for the Texas State Teachers Association, was named press secretary, and C. Road Granberry, faculty member at the University of Texas, was named an assistant to the governor.
Banks will succeed Earl B. Braly, who will remain the public-relations firm headed by John Van Cronkhite.
The post Granberry will fill is a new one. Granberry is a professor of electrical engineering, as well as assistant to the chancellor of the university. He has served as parliamentary officer of the Texas House for 14 sessions.

Customs Collections Drop In Galveston

GALVESTON, Jan. 6.—UP—The U.S. Customs office said Wednesday collections in the Galveston district, including most of East Texas, declined in the one and six months periods ending Dec. 31.
The Houston and Galveston offices showed the greatest declines. Total receipts for December were $984,115, the first month in three years they have been below a million dollars. Houston reported receipts of only $700,948, about half the collections a year ago, and Galveston $102,548. The other collections included $86,332 at Dallas, $89,392 at Corpus Christi and $465 at Freeport.

Officers Probing Dice Game Holdup

CUSHING, Okla., Jan. 6.—UP—Officers investigating the $20,000 holdup of a dice game near here Wednesday in spite of doubts that the culprit will ever be punished.
"It's a hard type of case to work on," said an agent of the State Crime Bureau. "If you catch the robbers you'll have a hard time getting the persons robbed to prosecute. They don't want their identities known."
Officers said the four men who wore women's silk stockings over their heads and robbed 19 men and one woman in a recently opened residential club Monday night may have been the same gang involved in a $4,000 poker game holdup at Austin a month ago in Texas.
The investigators noted several similarities, and they also remembered that five persons arrested in the Austin case had to be released for lack of evidence—the same problem faces here.

Fayna county deputy sheriff said two Fort Worth ex-convicts, Cecil Roy Green, 27, and Leroy Eggleston, 26, are among possible suspects in the Cushing holdup. They were among the group arrested after the Austin crime.
Oklahoma officers said the Cushing robbery may have been an inside job. They found a map at the scene showing a complete layout of the four-room houses where it took place.
The house was bought recently by E. G. Perry of Winfield, Kan., who lists his occupation as oil field worker. It is one mile north of Cushing, near SH 15.

Old Age Pensions' Opponents Reverse

Many of those who opposed former U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel's pension plan and who also opposed the Social Security act passed in 1935, have now completely reversed themselves, according to Rep. Walker Rogers' weekly letter to the people of the 18th Congressional district.
Rogers said that when O'Daniel made his first successful bid in politics and was elected governor of Texas, his name was associated in many quarters with old age pensions.
"In fact, O'Daniel and old age pensions became synonymous," the congressman stated. "Much water has gone under the bridge on the old age pension issue since that time, and some rather queer reversals have occurred."
"It was generally reported that O'Daniel advocated and supported a program to pay all persons over age 65 a pension," Rogers said. "There was much criticism of this proposal on a state and national basis. A substantial amount of the opposition came from sources that were self-advertised as being ultra-conservative. These sources, in many instances, condemned any payment to an aged person on the ground that it would destroy individual initiative and incentive."
Rogers pointed out that many of these same sources fought the Social Security act that was passed Aug. 14, 1935.
"These same forces have now completely reversed themselves," he added. "They have divided into two factions, both supporting a program that will enable the aged to receive benefits. One faction wants to expand the social security program so that it will include every person in the United States. The other wants to follow what could be termed the original O'Daniel plan and pay everyone over 65 a definite amount. The second faction also advocates the use of the social security funds for meeting the costs of their proposals."
The congressman said that all of this will, no doubt, come out into the open in the early days of the coming session of Congress, but added that it does not presently appear that the "pension for all" plan will meet with success.
"Management and labor will join hands in opposing the plan, and they will join hands in support of the program to expand the social security program to eventually include every person in the United States."
