Services were pending at Steed -Todd Funeral Home in Clovis, at presstime, for John C. Lesly, 60, father of Mrs. Ronnie (Danett) Bunch of Muleshoe.

He died Friday night at Clovis High Plains Hospital following a sudden illness.

Mrs. Bunch is a Journal employee.

Ellis Funeral Home reported that employee, Don Williams, is recuperating satisfactorily from heart bypass surgery conducted Wednesday in Lubbock.

"Discovering God's Power at the Wonderfaire" is the theme of this year's Vacation Bible School at the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

On Wednesday night, all interested persons are invited to view the children's classrooms, and to enjoy their singing, along with a short Bible thought, and refreshments.

conditions that occured in Bailey County," said Bailey County Extension agent Spencer Tanksley, who has spent the last several days checking crop damage in the county.

He added, "when assessing this rain and stormy conditions directly to agriculture, we find pros and cons -- as much damage as benefits from the heavy

"Several different areas also received hail from these storms, including Maple, Goodland, Stegall, Lakeview Baptist Church area, Needmore, Fairview, Y-L, West Camp and Progress," he continued.

The county agent said in areas he found cotton lost and destroyed due to hail combined with hard, driving rain and wind. Some was lost to excessive water which developed playa lakes. A lot of cotton was also lost due to soil erosion, he continued.

"We also lost wheat, and had heavy damage to corn, which we will give a chance to come out and make," added the county

Tanksley said he believed most of the feed grains will come back from the damage, but a lot of vegetables and specialty creps have been lost.

"We have been fortunate since the rain to receive calm days, little wind, and good drying conditions, all combining to give farmers the opportunity to save what crop was left," added Tanksley. "That is, what's left in terms of cultivation and sandfighting.'

The county agent said farmers who lost crops are now faced with tough decisions. The cotton planting cutoff date expired for Bailey County on May 31.

Dryland farmers do not have as many alternate crops to choose from as irrigated producers have. added Tanksley. "We will probably see a lot of cotton replanted under the dryland because the herbicide Treflan has already been applied," he commented. "However, irrigat-

Chief Holmes reminds that fireworks stands within the city limits are illegal. "Fireworks being set off in the city will be confiscated and citations will be issued," he said. Several People Signing Up Following Thursday Night Meet

From all indications, the more than 20 local business and professional people who attended a re-organizational meeting of the former Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation were ready to reactivate the former organi-

Ronald Ashford, board member from the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, moderated the meeting.

He explained that the CofC feels Muleshoe is currently very industrially minded, and knows new industry can be attracted to Muleshoe.

"We have problems in the Chamber," said Ashford, "because we can't do all we need to to attract new industry to Muleshoe. We need your help and we have contracted with Southwestern Public Service Company to help."

He added, "The first thing we would like to try to do is re-organize the Industrial Founnation. A new board could follow-up on prospects, keep them on the hook and help sell Muleshoe."

Ashford called on Jeff Smith, chairman of the now defunct Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation to explain a little of the history of the organization.

Smith told the group that Harmon Elliott had originally put the Industrial Foundation together. At that time, MAIF had teams. Each team had a certain area they took care of -- such as sites, taxes, utilities, etc. Bill Loyd, a former Muleshoe banker, then took over as president, then Jeff Smith became president or chairman.

He cited the Valley Grain project as the major project attracted to Muleshoe.

"We had prospects from a tannery, through a quick car wash, a quick oil change, and even worked on some projects with A&M. Another successful project was the Heritage House Inn project, he added.

Smith said there is a CD in the amount of $16,663.15 at a local bank, and as of June 2, had $295 interest.

He talked about the $100 yearly membership, and said that after the first three to four years, memberships had no longer been collected. Each membership allows the member one vote.

An available labor force is the main drawing card for Muleshoe, added Smith. Plus, he cited ample housing, excellent transportation facilities and other benefits that could help sell a prospect.

When the Industrial Foundation is working with a prospect, added Smith, it must be kept quiet, or you will see an increase in the land being sought.

"We need new businesses here every year to keep surviving," added Smith. "Someone in the area knows someone who is looking for a place for a new business.

"Something else we can't overlook are existing businesses. Maybe one of our working businesses already here needs to expand, see if you can help them. It takes someone working on it at

Personal Challenge 'Key' To Serving Community

(Editor's note: Bouncy, smil- a college, so went back to school ing and happy -- those adjectives may best describe one of Muleshoe's more outgoing citizens -- a citizen who believes in becoming involved and helping her community in any way she can. Let's get better acquainted with Cindy Purdy.)

Personal challenges make this Muleshoe resident sit up and take notice.

Since coming to Muleshoe with her husband, Dr. Bruce Purdy, after he completed medical training, Cindy Purdy has made her presence known -- and always in a good and positive Cindy was born in Wichita Falls and moved with her family to Galveston when she was two vears of age.

After growing up at Galveston, she attended college, and also worked for the Galveston Chamber of Commerce, becoming well known in that area for her picture (in a bathing suit) being featured on billboards and on television, boosting Galveston, and tourism. After receiving a bachelor in Education, with a minor in dance, she was asked to teach at and mastered in dance, with a minor in education. Cindy became a school teacher, with her first teaching job being at Angleton, where she was a basketball coach for three years. She was teaching school when she met her future husband -- Bruce Purdy, who was attending medical school.

At that time, before she met Dr. Purdy, Cindy had never heard of Muleshoe and had never been to west Texas.

She reminisced, "When I first came to Muleshoe with Bruce, I saw whirlwinds, and thought they were tornadoes. I had never seen tumbleweeds. I thought they were only in western movies."

Cindy also recalled the first time she ever saw snow -- in Muleshoe, while visiting with Bruce's father and mother.

"It was 1 a.m., and I got Bruce to take me walking in the snow," she said. "It was all so beautiful, I couldn't believe it."

Being a person who can see beauty almost anywhere, and in places other people never see, or never look, she added, "I didn't know the desert had so much beauty, with all the colors and wild flowers. I can't imagine ever living anywhere else now."

She compared the people here with the people on the coast, and said everyone out here is so friendly, they wave and take time to talk. "I wouldn't dream of waving at anyone where I come from. The people are different there. They live such a fast-paced

It was a cultural shock (a good one) says Cindy, when she moved to Muleshoe. She relates how it was hard to realize people were so friendly and caring. "I did miss some of the amenities, such as running to malls," she said, "and what I miss the most are the trees and water. Where I grew up, water was only two blocks from our house."

Now, she believes it is a real 'treat' to go to a mall - something to look forward to.

She had never tasted home canned foods, and is very enthusiastic about the availability of fresh tomatoes, and other fresh vegetables. She said "Bruce's mom has a garden, and I pick beans to be canned out of the garden.' Cindy Purdy believes it is fun living in Muleshoe, and is a wonderful place to raise kids.

And -- she is a very busy mother. She and Bruce have three sons, Aaron, eight; Tyson, six and Derek, who will be two

"Our sons are the light of my life, besides Bruce," Cindy beamed, as she hugged up her youngest, Derek.

'You just can't imagine the joy children give us. We find ourselves totally involved in our sons' activities, which includes gymnastics, church, T-Ball, Boy Scouts, baseball and school."

She added, "My main goal is to raise my children and raise them to respect others, to be responsible, to be Christians and to be the best wife possible for

"Eruce is really the one behind me. I want him to be proud of me," she continued.

And, this is just a part of a personal challenge she took on last year. She successfully sought the post of school board trustee, and says that is her greatest challenge to date, other than her

Notice To Taxpayers

Taxpayers in the Bailey County Appraisal District have an opportunity to protest values proposed for their property for local taxes. The property owner must file a written "notice of protest" with the Appraisal Review Board (ARB) before June 21, 1988. The district's Appraisal Review Board will begin hearing taxpayer protests on July 11, 1988.

Official forms for a notice of protest are available at the Bailey County Appraisal District office, 104 E. Avenue C., Muleshoe. A letter from the taxpayor is also acceptable as long as it identifies the property owner, the property which is the subject of protest, and indicates dissatisfaction with some decision or action of the appraisal office.

Each protesting taxpayer may offer evidence or argument either in person or by filing an affidavit with the ARB. Taxpayers should be aware that the ARB has no authority over tax rates or taxing unit spending and will not hear protests of those matters.

The ARB will schedule hearings as property owners file protests and will inform them of the time, date, and place of their individual hearings.

The State Property Tax Board has issued a pamphlet called "Taxpayer's Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" available at the Bailey County Appraisal District office, 104 E. Avenue C, Muleshoe, which explains how to prepare and present an appeal to the ARB.

Don Clapp said he didn't find a friend at the Game Reserve, but he did find the friendship coin, so he gave it to J. O. Parker.

Gene McGuire gave the program on physica! fitness and marathons.

Gene explained that a marathon was 26 miles and 385 yards long. For example, if you started at Vailey Grain and started running southeast, you would end at about the city limit signs of Littlefield.

Gene and his 'partner in crime' Terry Hutton, have run in two marathons. In 1987, they were in the Dallas White Rock marathon and in 1988, they ran in the Houston marathon.

Most of the time, said Gene, about 25 percent will drop out. In Houston there were about 40 percent who dropped out.

He states that they had trained here in about 20 and 30 degree weather, and go to Houston, and it was 78 degrees, with 98 percent humidity.

Gene also stated that the marathon in the Olympics would be about two hours, 12-20 minutes, which is an average of about a four minute, 30 second mile for over 26 miles.

Also, Gene said he was a poor runner, but to me, the writer, anyone who would try a marathon, and finish, would be a good runner.

Thanks, Gene, for a good program.

Miss Suzanne Johnson became the bride of Lloyd McCray in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, May 28 at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Maleshoe. The Rev. Barry Bradely, pastor, read the marriage vows.

Parents of the couple are Robert and Ann Johnson of Muleshoe and Gary and Jo McCray, also of Muleshoe.

Belinda Caswell, soloist, and Fran Hamilton, both of Muleshoe, provided the special music 'Somewhere My Love' "Pass It On"

of mixed flowers in the apricot hues dressed the front of the church. The bride's gown designed and made by her mother, was of candlelight whisper satin with a bodice of overlayed hand beaded embroidered organza. Pearl covered Venise re-embroidered lace bordered the rounded neckline and dropped waist. A full pleated chapel skirt and chapel train was accented by a large knotted bow at the back of the skirt. Hand beaded and pearl covered Venise flower appliques, each sewn by close friends trimmed the edge of the long train. The cap sleeves extended beyond the wrist into a V-shape, and trimmed the bottom edge of the sleeves with pearl covered appliques. Her veil was a fabric band covered by a motif of flowers of pearl and sequins. In her silk bouquet, flowers of call lilies, large morning glories and clemates and English ivy were used. Her chosen colors of eff white, palest pinks and apricots enhanced the size and length of the long cascade bouquet.

The bride wore a pearl necklace belonging to Mrs. Elsie Williams, the groom's grandmother, that had been worn by other granddaughters at their weddings; diamond earrings belonging to Mrs. Amy Warlick, grandmother of the bride; and a Cardelabras and large baskets wedding ring that had been given to her by her grandmother, Ruby Johnson, being her first wedding band.

> Jodie Wheeler served as maid of honor and Tracy Long was bridesmaid. They wore floor length dresses of polished cotton apricot, trimmed in beige. Their colonial bouquets were similar to the bride's but deeper hues of the couples chosen colors.

> Mark Mata served as best man and Ben Allison was groomsman, both of Muleshoe.

The groom's sister, Bobbi McCray, of Muleshoe, greeted the guests at the registration present pickup, haybales, com-

Tanksley said any producer needing information about the economics or how to establish alternate crops may check with the extension office where information is available.

According to the county agent, "It's hard to say rainfall is not beneficial, but when you look at the total picture, what occurred to farmland, three to six inches of rain probably did more damage to agricultural crops than it benefitted."

He also said "anytime a natural weather disaster occurs to producers, it's very costly.

"Overall, the land washed, washed in, silted, left beds flat, which farmers will have to reshape to get back in order to plant again. In general, farm culture conditions look to be in a terrible shape."

An optimistic note was injected as he said "We are starting to see farmers move back intok fields with sandfighters and other equipment to try to save crops. Sandy land will be worked first. By Monday, re-planting will be underway."

Young crops were already in some trouble, says the county agent. "Another thing that has had me very concerned about the crops, relative to weather -- in April and May, only half the heat units we needed were received for our crops. We need good, warm, nice weather with summer-like days to occur in our county now.

"Because of the very cool weather and temperatures, the lack of heat showed crops not growing as fast as they normally should.'

Tanksley also cautioned producers to be concerned for disease and insects, cautioning that following the recent heavy rains, cotton is susceptible to seedling disease and stalk rot. "It's been too cold, too wet, too saturated," he added. "We may still be evaluating total loss next Hopefully, the weather conditions will improve so farmers can think about the 1987 fall, and again enjoy a bountiful harvest again this year," he said.

Right now, the estimated crop loss covers some 5,000-7,500 acres, but may have to be apgraded later. This is of the 175,000 acres planted to crops in this county of the 360,000 total acres in the county.

Forgetting his incapacitation, he is happily determined to plan ahead. His spirit is not easily crushed. Life is always full of hope and excitement. The Lord and this young man's Christian friends have taught him to have such an outlook on life.

We invite you to attend the church of your choice regularly to worship to be uplifted, encouraged, and blessed.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in man's life, death and destiny; the truth which

G/T HELPS NEARLY EXTINCT SEA TURTLE--After hearing that the Kemp's ridley sea turtle is near extinction, and efforts are being made to save the sea turtle, the Gifted/Talented class taught by Alice Liles at Watson Junior High School decided to help. They conducted a fund raising drive for the project. Pictured from left, front row are Shawn Wheeler, Mark Garcia, Ruben Saldana, Kelli Caldwell and Shawnya DeLaney; middle row, from left, Jeanne Cox, Mason Conklin, Kris Fuller, Cory Collins and top, Corley Hutton, Neal Haynes, Shane Kirk, and teacher, Alice Liles. Sea Turtles Benefit From WJHS Students

Muleshoe is not blessed with sea turtles, but the Watson Junior High Gifted/Talented class hopes the world will be blessed with a few more turtles thanks to their donation to a turtle project currently in operation in South Texas.

"I had the opportunity to study the head start and imprinting program for Kemp's ridley sea turtles when I attended the Texas A&M Galveston Island Adventure in 1987," said Alice Liles, junior high G/T teacher. "I shared the information with the class and they decided to raise money to contribute to HEART -Help Endangered Animals Ridley Turtles - a conservation group that works in conjunction with the National Marine Fisheries Service to save this endangered species."

She continued, "Of all types of sea turtles, Kemp's ridley is the one in most danger of excinction and most of their plight is the direct result of man upsetting the balance of nature. The ridley turtles nest in only one area of the Mexican beach where for years their eggs were grossly overharvested by locals who had no thought to leaving eggs to perpetuate the species.

"Now that their numbers have dwindled from 40,000 as shown on a 1946 home movie to 200 during the 1980s. Shrimper's nets are responsible for drowning many of the few that are left. Other man-made problems, such as choking on plastic or rubber objects (such as balloon fragments that fall into the sea from school balloon releases) and oil spills are taking their toll on the remaining turtles.

"The head start and imprinting programs collects eggs, hatches them in Padre Island sand in the hopes of imprinting the baby turtles so that they will return to Padre Island as a second nesting ground.

"The head start given to the turtles is to be cared for at the Galveston facility for about a year until they are the size of a dinner plate which gives them a better chance for survival than as a tiny baby turtle. They are then released in the Gulf of Mexico with the knowledge that the sea turtle population has been increased and with the hope that in five to ten years as the turtles become sexually mature, some will return to South Padre to lay

"The students viewed a film. "The Heartbreak Turtle," then wrote to congressmen and senators of their concern for these turtles in relation to legislation concerning shrimp nets and a turtle-excluder device (TED), and funting for the head start project."

They raised $120 to be sent to HEART which will be used to feed the turtles being raised in Galveston. A heart-chaped plaque with the students' names on it will be put in the turtle house in Galveston to recognize their centributions.

Cost of food for one turtle is $4 per year. Anyone who might be interested in contributing to this project, which is federally funded only through 1988, could write to the following address for more information: HEART, P. O. Box 681231, Houston, TX 77268-1231.

The June 1988 issue of Texas Monthly magazine has a very readable and informative article on the Kemp's ridley sea turtle for those who would like to know more about this interesting turtle and its dilemma.

The WJHS students are to be commended for their interest and unselfish commitment to these turtles and their place in the world's ecosystem.
