

THE SPORTS CIRCUIT - 4-Team West Texas League Not Possible

BY TOM BEASLEY

THE ORGANIZATION of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league hinges on the outcome of Joe Pate's trip to San Antonio. Pate is to return here Wednesday. Right now it appears that a four club league could be put over, Jean Rodgers of Midland tells us, but no one is in favor of that. It would bring the same faces back to the park too often and would double the transportation expenses. A six club league would be bad—a four club league impossible, according to Rodgers.

In both Monahans and Odessa, baseball men have some money, maybe not much, but a little. All they are asking of the towns is a place to play and the purchase of fifty season tickets. Wink is using much the same system.

HAL SAYLES of Abilene lists the following golf program: April 15—Sweetwater invitation. April 27—Texas P.G.A. and Open, Fort Worth. May 27—West Texas Association, El Paso. June 10—Colonial Club invitation, Fort Worth. June—Phillipco invitation, June—Hamlin invitation, July 1—Abilene invitation, July 25—Meadowbrook open, Lubbock.

INTERESTING BASEBALL BITS: The Texas League schedule gives the champion Tulsa Oilers 81 games at home and 80 on the road... The two clubhouse buildings behind the third base section of Cincinnati's Crosley field settled back on their foundations when flood waters receded, thereby reducing the cost of putting the plant in shape... Ten ladies days and seven night games are on the Cincinnati Reds schedule. More than 20,000 reservations are on file for the opener against St. Louis, April 20.

DuPont String Takes Heavy End Of Purse

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 8 (AP)—The millionaire William Du Pont's string of race horses, headed by the great Rosemont, ran away with the biggest portion of purse money offered at the Santa Anita Park 1936-37 meeting.

Rosemont's victory in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap and $7,500 San Antonio Handicap, Fairy Hill's win in the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby, Supreme's win in the $10,000 maiden event enriched the Du Pont Foxcatcher Farm to the extent of $146,125.

The runner-up amount went to the C. S. Howard stable, of which Seabiscuit is the star. The winnings totaled $37,370.

The first Great Lakes steamer to carry passengers was the "Walk of the Water," launched on Lake Erie in 1818.

LAVAGETTO TO FILL POSITION

By the Associated Press CLEARWATER, Fla.—Burleigh Grimes of the Brooklyn Dodgers figures one of his problems solved after seeing Cookie Lavagetto in action around second base.

"He showed a couple of double plays as good as any Brooklynite has made in years," Grimes said after yesterday's practice. "If he makes the grade, and I can't see why he shouldn't, Lavagetto will fill Brooklyn's problem at that bag for a long time."

BILL TERRY NOT COUNTING ON RIFLE—HAVANA—It seems to be up to Lou Chiozza and Mickey Haslin to decide which will play third base for the Giants this year. Manager Bill Terry isn't counting on Jimmy Rippe, who has played at that post. "He's a hustler and a good hitter and the kind of a ball player who would help any club," says Bill, "but he's not a third baseman."

RED ROFFE SAYS HIS FINGER IS HEALED—ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The only thing Red Roffe of the Yankees seems to know about the broken finger that caused the Yankee management some worry this spring is that it's healed. "I don't know when it happened," he said. "I thought it was a sprain and kept on playing and hurt it again in the last game of world series. It's still swollen, but feels all right now."

INFILDEERS, OUTFIELDERS SHOW UP AT SOX CAMP—PASADENA—Infielders and outfielders began showing up at the White Sox spring camp today. All were due by Tuesday, when heavy batting and infield practice starts.

CUBS DUE AT CATALINA ISLAND WEDNESDAY—KANSAS CITY—The Chicago Cubs, en route to Catalina Island where they are due in time for a workout Wednesday, picked up Catcher Hal Suesse, Pitcher Wes Flowers, and Infielder Linus Frey here today.

ATHLETICS FALL INTO TOURIST CLASS—MEXICO CITY—The Philadelphia Athletics fell into the tourist class today, exused from practice by Manager Connie Mack. They "took in" the sights of the ancient capital of Montezuma, the floating gardens and the restored temples.

SIMMONS IN TIGER CAMP A WEEK EARLY—LAKELAND, Fla.—Early on the job, Al Simmons apparently is going him as an old timer. Sim-folding corps refrain from regarding him as an old timer. Simmons, who had trouble with his batting average a large part of last year, is in the Tiger camp a week ahead of the schedule for outfielders.

WIDE OPEN BATTLE FOR CARD CENTERFIELD POST—DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—A wide open battle for the centerfield berth looms in the Cardinal camp, with rookie Don Padgett and Dodger French Bordingar out to get Torry Moore's assignment.

BROWNS GET THREE HOURS OF HARD PRACTICE—SAN ANTONIO—Three hours of hard work, with "no time out" was Rogers Hornsby's orders for the opening practice for the St. Louis Browns today.

NEWSOM DUE IN ORLANDO CAMP TODAY—ORLANDO, Fla.—The expected arrival today of Buck Newsom, fireball pitcher, will complete the Washington Nationals' training camp roster.

HALE GLAD TO GET 2ND BASE ASSIGNMENT—NEW ORLEANS—Sammy Hale, who after two seasons at third is being shifted to second base, dispelled today any doubts about how he regarded the change.

"I was tickled to death when I heard Steve O'Neill wanted me to play second," the Cleveland Indians infielder said. "They hit 'em past your ear too fast at third."

ALL RED SOX IN UNIFORM FOR SNAPPY WORKOUT—SARASOTA, Fla.—The Boston Red Sox, spurred by Manager Joe Cronin, held their initial drill today with every available man in uniform.

BOSTON BEES HOLDOUTS REDUCED TO ONE—ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The Boston Bees holdouts were reduced to one today as five reported yesterday and another was due in camp. The only holder was Baxter Jordan. Debs Garza, former St. Louis outfielder, who batted six for the San Antonio club of the Texas League, Tony Cucinello, the Texas league, Tony Cucinello, today.

San Romani Looms As Successor To Cunningham As King Of Milers

STANLEY HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Stanley Harris, the "boy wonder" of a decade ago who gained fame by piloting the Washington Senators into the world series, but whose fortunes later fell, seems to be headed back for the heights that were once his. He has prospects for a good team at the nation's capital this season, after having seen the Sens flounder in the second division through the past three years.

MIDWEST, COAST 5'S FAVORED IN A. A. U. CAGE TOURNAMENT

World's Greatest Amateur Team To Be Picked

By HAROLD NIKKEL (UP Staff Correspondent) DENVER, Mar. 8 (UP)—Basketball's blue ribbon event—the National A. A. U. tournament—returns to Denver for the third successive year with the opening whistling next Sunday and the crowning of what will be regarded in most cage circles as the world's greatest amateur basketball team March 20.

This year's national meet is expected to surpass last year's record-breaking tourney in which 54 teams from 23 states and the District of Columbia vied for top honors in amateur basketball.

Convincing proof that the fastest amateur basketball in the world is played in the national meet was offered last year when the towering McPherson, Kas., Globe Refiners and Universal Pictures of Hollywood, winner and runner-up, respectively, in the national meet, were defeated by the U. S. Olympic team. In the Olympic playoffs the two teams finished in the reverse order.

A new champion is certain to be crowned this year as the McPherson five has disbanded. The 1936 National Champions are scattered about among various teams in this sector. None of the teams with which the "Fire Department" style of basketball which carried them to victory. A new style of play thus will move into the top position.

There are 463 athletes entered from 26 colleges. Some of them were good enough to make the Olympic team last year. Four teams are considered in the running for the collegiate team title, won by Manhattan the last three years. The Jaspers are given a chance for another triumph. Columbia, victors in Princeton's "Polar Bear" meet, is in the running for the first time in years. Dartmouth and Cornell also have good chances.

ARCHIE TO KICK DUST AT GLENN

By WILLIAM WEEKES CHICAGO, Mar. 8 (UP)—Little Archie San Romani appears a cinch to succeed Glenn Cunningham as king of the American mile runners.

The latest demonstration by the frail-appearing youngster from Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, came Saturday night and was nothing less than a surprising triumph over Cunningham in the Banker Mile.

He gave a capacity crowd of 8,000 its biggest foot racing thrill since Jolie Roy's day.

The time, 4 minutes, 21 seconds was far from spectacular, but it was excellent for the tour over a slow, new dirt track in the international amphitheater.

After Blaine Riddout of the North Texas Teachers had set a crazy pace for nearly four laps, San Romani, Cunningham and slender Gene Venka moved out in a body. A lap later San Romani started pouring it on, with Cunningham and Riddout far in the ruck.

Cunningham opened up at the start of the final lap and had moved up to the other Kansan's shoulder with a half lap to go. He got no farther for San Romani let out another peg, and finished two yards in front, with Venka about five yards back of Cunningham and Riddout far in the ruck.

Don Lash and his Indiana teammates, Tommy Deckard and Jimmy Smith, finished in that order in the two mile, with the other Ride-out twin, Wayne, a not very threatening fourth.

Big-Time Stars To Play Second-Fiddle This Week—End In N'York Area

NEW YORK, Mar. 8 (AP)—The big-time stars who have filled the winter headlines with their indoor track performances have to play second-fiddle this week: The intercollegiate are coming to town.

The annual intercollegiate A.A.A. championship meet isn't the biggest of the season nor is it likely to produce many broken records, yet from the standpoint of keen competition it's about the most exciting meet of the year.

There are 463 athletes entered from 26 colleges. Some of them were good enough to make the Olympic team last year.

Four teams are considered in the running for the collegiate team title, won by Manhattan the last three years. The Jaspers are given a chance for another triumph. Columbia, victors in Princeton's "Polar Bear" meet, is in the running for the first time in years. Dartmouth and Cornell also have good chances.

ABC Tourney To Teach Gotham About Bowling

NEW YORK, Mar. 8 (AP)—New Yorkers who think of bowling only in connection with the Bowling Green subway station and of an alley as a queer name for a little side street, get a chance to see how big the sport has become when the 37th annual American Bowling Congress tournament comes to town Wednesday.

Although the A. B. C. originated here in 1895, the big tournament never has been held here. And somehow the game usually is associated with that little fenced-in plot of grass down near the Battery and with memories of Rip Van Winkle and the little man playing nine-pins high in the Catskills.

Dewell And Norton Stars Of Pony Win

Mustang Ace Shares Forward Posts With Lockard Of Arkansas

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT DALLAS, Mar. 8 (AP)—Both reasons for Southern Methodist's amazing pennant drive—Sophomore Bill Dewell and J. D. Norton—had one leg today on a possible three-year stretch, on the Associated Press' All-Southwest Conference basketball five.

Norton shared the forward posts with Don Lockard of Arkansas; Dewell breezed in at center and Jack Robbins, Arkansas' grid idol, and Willis Orr, Rice, were stationed at the guards.

Offensive strength dominated the selection, all but Orr finishing in the first dozen high scorers of the circuit. Lockard, with his fine average of 12.2 points per game over the 12-game schedule, led the league while Norton, with 125 points, landed the runner-up spot.

Dewell's 96 points placed him fourth and Robbins, with 72 markers, was the second highest scoring guard.

Norton, who with Dewell, scored two-thirds of the points that brought the Methodists in a winner, was the year's sensation. Known to be quite a basket shark in his home village of Furdon, he came to S.M.U. unheralded and in his first year of varsity competition set a conference record for consecutive free throws at 18.

Lockard's goaling pulled them out of mid-season slump and landed them in second place. He roped 96 field goals and 27 foul line tosses for 159 point total.

Best ball "hustler" in the circuit was Dewell, an untiring worker around the enemy backboard and a crack shot himself.

Ordinarily Rice's best center, Orr was shifted to a guard when Dewell's six votes cinched that spot for him.

Robbins, Arkansas' "running" and offensive guard, who clung to enemy forwards like a wet life bathing suit, also found time to average six points per game.

He barely beat out Henry Clifton, Texas' great guard, who went to the second team with Benjamin (Jelly) Sorelle of Baylor as his running mate there. Capt. Ed Lee of Texas A. and M., and Bill Blanton, Southern Methodist's steady forward, who was the third reason S.M.U. won its first title, earned the forward spots and Wilson White, Baylor's rangy scoring shark who finished with 94 tallies, was placed at center.

McGONAGILL IS CHAMPION OF GALVEZ MEET

GALVESTON, Mar. 8 (AP)—Jimmie McGonagill of Dallas today displayed another golf trophy—emblematic of the championship of the second annual Galveston invitation tournament.

Playing consistent golf throughout, the Dallasite scored an impressive 7 and 6 victory over Dick Nauts of Houston in the 36-hole final match yesterday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

SARASOTA, Fla., Mar. 8 (AP)—Clark Griffith of the Senators is bad news to operators of baseball schools. He has opened a new one at Sanford with professors Joe Engel and Zion Beck in charge.

Griff figures he'll get most of the big business tuition at his joint will be free. All the lads have to do is get there and find a way to eat once in a while.

Griff and his specialists do the rest. Charlie Drensen, manager of the Reds, always wears No. 7 on his uniform and will not sleep in a pullman unless he gets a drawing room on the road.

Messrs. Kelly and Cohen pair around together in the camp of the Washington Senators. Stu Martin may be made into a first sacker by the Cardinals.

Cincinnati squad at Tampa numbers 50 and is far and away the largest in Florida. Col. Frank Grayson of the Cincinnati Times-Star says it is the best looking bunch of Reds he's seen in 11 years.

They say Paul Dean is too fat and getting no thinner rapidly. If Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio aren't signed by the end of the week you can see us. Bill McKechnie watched young Vince Di Maggio clear the fence in the different fields on successive tries.

Then decided he'd not try to change the youngster's style, after all. Most big league first sackers use from six to eight pairs of shoes a season at $18 per throw.

Some of the clumsier ones (you know who) go as high as eighteen. The shoes are made of kangaroo skin.

The Cardinals, with two seasons daily, drill the longest.

Bill Hayes, 19-year-old wonder of a semi-pro team in New Hampshire, aspires to be a baseball owner on a big scale when he comes into 15 or 20 million in a few years.

Plenty Of Deer But No Quail At Field Trial

FORT SILL, Okla., Mar. 8 (AP)—It isn't known whether the 20 bird dogs or 67 deer were more surprised today as the sixteenth annual running of the Oklahoma amateur field trials went into its second day—but the quail definitely were not.

For the day's score when 20 of the ranking dogs of Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri and some from Arkansas sniffed over a section of this 60,000-acre federal reservation was:

Table with columns: Quail, Deer, Rabbits, etc. Quail 0, Deer 67, Rabbits 46, And one skunk.

Dry weather was blamed for the lack of birds by Lee Knedler, Byers, Okla., veteran dog fancier. "The quail are here," he said. "But we don't know where to look for them. In dry weather, they desert their usual places and it's hard telling where a covey is likely to be."

N. American Zone Finals Late In May

Don Budge, America's No. 1 Player, Only Netter Sure Of Place

NEW YORK, Mar. 8 (AP)—While the first stage of the American Davis Cup campaign was hardly begun, the United States Lawn Tennis association has selected the last week-end of May for the North American zone finals at Forest Hills L. I.

Confident the home forces will meet Australia in the final, officials picked the big Forest Hills stadium for the matches May 29, 30 and 31.

Australia is sending Jack Crawford, Arthur Gault, Vivian McGrath and 15-year-old Tim Lewis, in addition to a manager. They are scheduled to play at Mexico City April 30 to May 2. The other first round match is America against Japan. The date and places have not been fixed.

So far only Don Budge, America's No. 1 player, seems sure of his place on the team, but Frankie Parker, ranked No. 2, made a good beginning of his campaign when he won the national indoor title Saturday.

TROPICAL PARK SEASON OPENS

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 8 (AP)—The hanglins started the final 24-day lap of Florida's turf season at Tropical Park today, the racing scene shifting from swanky Hialeah Park.

Hialeah's 46-day meeting ended in record style Saturday when the filly Columbianna won the Widener challenge cup, and $52,000 for owner Hirsch, equalling the track record of 2:01 4/5 for the mile and a quarter.

DUTCH LONBORG MAY BE KANSAS ATHLETIC HEAD

KANSAS CITY, Mar. 8 (AP)—The Star said last night that "according to a source close to the athletic board, Arthur C. (Dutch) Lonborg, basketball coach at Northwestern University, will be named athletic director at the University of Kansas when the board of regents meets in Topeka tomorrow."

Lonborg was one of eight men who conferred today at Lawrence with the athletic board concerning the succession to Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen in the reorganization of athletics at K. U.

Get Acquainted With Flowers By Adding New Ones

Most gardens have their share of petunias, nasturtiums, zinnias and a few of the better-known annuals, but there are hundreds of other quick-growing flowers which can be had from seed the first year. Getting acquainted with the long list of annuals which need catalogue display is no meager job. Yet, every gardener should have something new each year, and if two or three new annuals are planted every season, he will learn much about these lavish garden subjects over a period of years.

The huanemannia or bush eschscholzia, with its bright sulphur yellow flowers, is excellent for summer color, and is good for cutting. Plant it late when the ground is warm. It is slow getting started but has a long season of bloom.

The Chinese Forget-Me-Not, Myosotis sylvatica, has a strain of blue much valued in the border. The large, graceful sprays reach a height of over 18 inches. The seed is large and might well be planted in hills instead of drills.

A subtropical flower with trumpet-shaped flowers and a delicate fragrance is the datura, or angel's trumpet. It grows well in most climates, but should be started early in a seed box or flat. They make fine pot plants, and are good for bedding.

A real dealer, which might well be used to accent beds or borders, is the kochia, popularly known as the burning bush because of its fiery red color. It grows 2 to 3 feet tall and its close-branched habits give it the physical appearance of a small evergreen. It makes a fine colorful low hedge for separating parts of the garden.

The annual statice is not only a beautiful flower for garden purposes, but may be dried for winter decoration. Xeranthemum is another everlasting which may be cured for later use. It has silvery foliage, and attractive pink, white and purple flowers.

A flower from the East Indies of easy culture is the globe amaranth, or gomphrena. It has clover-like blossoms in white, flesh, rose and purple colors. Sow seed in late spring in sunny location. They bloom from July until frost. Pick a few to dry.

Euphorbia is an interesting flower because of its attractive foliage. Coleus is another. Some of the ornamental grasses might fit in well in your garden, and most of them are useful to dry for winter use.

Most of these annuals can be

OSTRICH FEATHERS IN CORONATION MODE
Here is another spring fashion inspired by the coming coronation of King George VI. It is a peaked cap of black grain silk topped by a tuft of small white ostrich plumes, like those always worn by women presented at the Court of St. James. The dress of pebbled black crepe is worn with a lame scarf.

Reading AND Writing

By John Selby

There is a great deal more in Nikolai Gubsky's "Angry Dust" than the story of a Russian boyhood, but that is the part I liked best. The reason is the present book comes, the more the reader's personal predilections take hold; one reads to confirm or to disprove.

But approximately the first third of the book is used to take its author from birth to the day when he transferred, as a very young man, from the navy to the ministry of agriculture and met little Zoya Mackov, who was lovely and who also was passing through a religious period which required correspondence with Tolstoy. Tolstoy always addressed Zoya as "My Dear Girl." But even Tolstoy could not keep love out of the matter.

Well, anyway, it is a magnificent job. Certain days rise before one's eyes, such as the one on which Nikolai watched his mother go mad, or the day of his father's death. One remembers things like the schooling in Germany, and Aunt Mielka, and the smell of a marsh, and the time he sat at the head of the stair with a certain young cousin—all the little things that most adults forget when reviewing their lives.

Then there is a long section about life in the Lytzeys, the Petersburg school for young noblemen. One might expect a person as intelligent as Gubsky to do an "expose" of the Lytzeys and its artificial atmosphere—on the contrary, he felt the seven years spent there quite worth while, and still thinks the school better than most English schools.

Each student as the made little Polish count who used frantically to recite a meaningless litany on every occasion, who tried to drown himself by inches, who got drunk on one glass of wine and fought a roomful of his classmates for five hours—little Stas and many others draw breath in "Angry Dust."

In short, this is an autobiography in which great names figure only casually. It is a complete grown with a minimum of preparation by the amateur. Although they do not take the place of the old and sure-fire favorites, they make interesting variety, and add much to the pleasure of growing flowers. Get a few of these this year.

Christian Endeavor Members Plan For Important Meets

Christian Endeavor members of the First Christian Church dispensed with the scheduled program Sunday evening to discuss matters of business dealing with plans for meetings to be held in the near future.

Lyle Post, president, led the group in discussions on the meeting next Sunday at which the Christian Endeavor members from the Abilene and Midland churches will be guests. The Abilene people are to have charge of the entire evening's program including that of the church hour. The local young people made plans for a light supper to be served to their guests during the supper hour at which time the Endeavor meeting will be held.

Arrangements were also made for the Christian Endeavor district convention that is slated to be held in this city during April.

'BLACK-DRAUGHT IS PURELY VEGETABLE'

—What Does That Mean?
A great many things can cause constipation and there are many remedies to relieve it, but possibly none more popular than the "vegetable" laxatives.

Among these, Black-Draught is outstanding. In its manufacture leaves of a certain plant are used, and the roots of certain others. These are dried so they will keep without preservatives, no other chemical change from the way they grew in "Mother Nature's medicine garden." By their being finely ground, the digestive system extracts the active medicine right where it is needed. Constipation is relieved.

Black-Draught is so economical that a 25-cent package averages upward of 28 doses—adv.

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best forecasters. But we do want that chintz for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them.

THE EQUITABLE RETURNS

The return of the Equitable Life Assurance Society to Texas, after an absence of 30 years, probably means the beginning of the end of the long fight on the Robertson insurance law. In 1907, when the law was passed, the Equitable's representatives took a leading part in opposing it, and that company was among the very first to announce its withdrawal from Texas. With the return of the Equitable, it is quite probable that a number of the other large companies that joined it in quitting Texas will return also and accept the regulation which they once rejected.

They withdrew from Texas, not so much because the law was unjust, as for the purpose of serving notice on other states what the enactment of like laws would mean. That purpose was well served. No other state has enacted a law similar to that of Texas, and only one or two attempted to do so.

The Robertson law requires that a certain portion of the reserves maintained on policies written in Texas shall be invested in Texas. In the 30 years since it was enacted, a large part of the life insurance business in this state has been written by Texas companies, and the companies which withdrew from the state have probably paid heavily for their refusal to accept the law.

The effort to repeal the law has never developed much strength. At one time, about 20 years ago, advocates of repeal succeeded in having it submitted to the voters, as a platform demand. The result was decisively against repeal. Since then, although the out-of-state companies have maintained a lobby at Austin to urge repeal, little progress has been made in that direction. Now that one of the largest national companies is returning to Texas, we are unlikely to hear much more about repealing the law. (Wichita Times).

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The newest Kipling story on Broadway is that anecdote told by Hal Kemp about a smarty who wrote to the late R. K. and enclosed a dollar in the envelope. "I understand your stuff is retailed at $1 a word," he wrote, "and I am wondering if you would be good enough to write something for me?" Somewhat amazed, Kipling scribbled "Thanks," sent it to the American, and pocketed the dollar.

That wasn't all, however. Several weeks later the author received this letter from his Yankee admirer: "I have sold your 'Thanks' for $2. The enclosed 46 cents in stamps is your share of the profit."

Then there is this to be said on the question of refreshment in New York. The most amazing drink in town at the moment is the Boo Snooker, which is set-up exclusively by barmen at the New Yorker. It's an ultra-exclusive aperitif, and the ingredients have been guarded so zealously that nobody knows what goes into one. The drink is said to have originated in Washington, probably at one of the embassies. They also say that if you have too many of them consecutively you will experience the sensation of having a thousand-armed octopus, a hammer in each hand, rapping you on the noggin. Incidentally, the bar captain there has the funniest sense of humor. When you ask him what he puts into a Boo Snooker he just laughs and laughs.

On the bookshelves in Al Wood's apartment are manuscripts of every play he ever produced, all bound in uniform red morocco. His apartment is the duplicate of a setting from one of his plays, and its decor is silver and grey.

Filipinos in New York are glimpsed only infrequently, but there are plenty of Filipino men around. Most of them got into the country by serving as cooks and mess boys on boats.

The homicide squad has been unusually facile in cleaning up new cases in recent months, but the ledgers still show a lot of old business that remains to be set in order. These are the Broadway butterfly murders which are still unsolved—the strangling of Vivian Gordon, the mysterious deaths of Louise Lawson and Dot King, and the killing of the bridge expert, Joseph Brown Elwell, and the gambler Rothstein.

There remains, too, the ghost-like disappearance of State Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Crater. One day he was there, large as life. The next he was gone. As completely as if he had taken farnese and walked unseen into another land. Now and then rumors and vague clues send veterans of the homicide squad off on new tracks, but as yet nothing has happened. Not a single one of these cases has been solved.

BEHIND THE NEWS

Secret checks trace most protests to republicans.

Polling lists investigated in vital districts.

Change in rail rate reported by some congressmen.

Phonetics—WASHINGTON, Mar. 8—Vox pop seems to be developing a yodling laryngitis, or else there is something with the sound effects of the nation.

At the outset of this court packing dispute, protests from citizens to congressmen through the mails encouraged congressional opposition and really prevented the President's plan from being rushed through. Immediately thereafter, the mail-bag developed into a key factor in the tactical situation.

Mr. R.'s legislative arrangers realized this, and have started moves to effect it. Their off-the-campaign has now developed to the point where they have secretly put workers into the offices of legislators to conduct detailed surveys of the incoming mail. Executive officials have been given lists of senators to "work on" and sub-officers and/or relatives have been assigned legislators' mail to be "off-act."

Discreting—A golden discovery has been reported to the inner circle by the investigation of one congressman's correspondence. It so happened that this congressman came from a contested congressional district in which polling lists were available. The investigator checked the names on incoming letters against the polling lists and discovered to his gratification that most of the letters appeared to be from republicans, who, as everyone knows, do not count since the last election.

As a result of the discovery, it is said calls have been sent out for the polling lists of other vital congressional districts and an official "expose" will be made public shortly.

On the other side of the story, the labor lobby activity for the program is at last being reflected in incoming congressional mail. So is the new activity at the state political committee, acting under the spur of the democratic national committee. However, farm pressure for the program still seems to be deficient.

As a result, a few legislators now are reporting a preponderance of mail for the court plan. Others maintain the ratio against has not changed.

Vaulting—Practical political tacticians did not believe Mr. R.'s opening court campaign speech at the Victory Dinner was up to his unexcelled campaign standard.

His trouble, as they see it, is that he has been forced to change his position at such a late date. For the presidential campaign, two months ago, his position was that the country is safe, getting more prosperous all the time, that all the republican alarm was purely political. Now, he has been compelled to go back to the position he held at the outset of the new deal, that, unless his program is effected, he fears the world is in danger, that he has had to jump from the tone of assurance back to the tone of alarm.

The step would be within an ordinary mind's reach if it were not for the fact that the long-sought goal of parity for agricultural products has at last been generally established. Also Lewis has failed to collaborate in painting the picture of necessity for hours and wages amendments.

On the eve of the president's speech, he signed a contract for a 40-hour week and a wage increase with the nation's largest industry. He claimed to have effected a similar result in what is probably the second largest industry, autos.

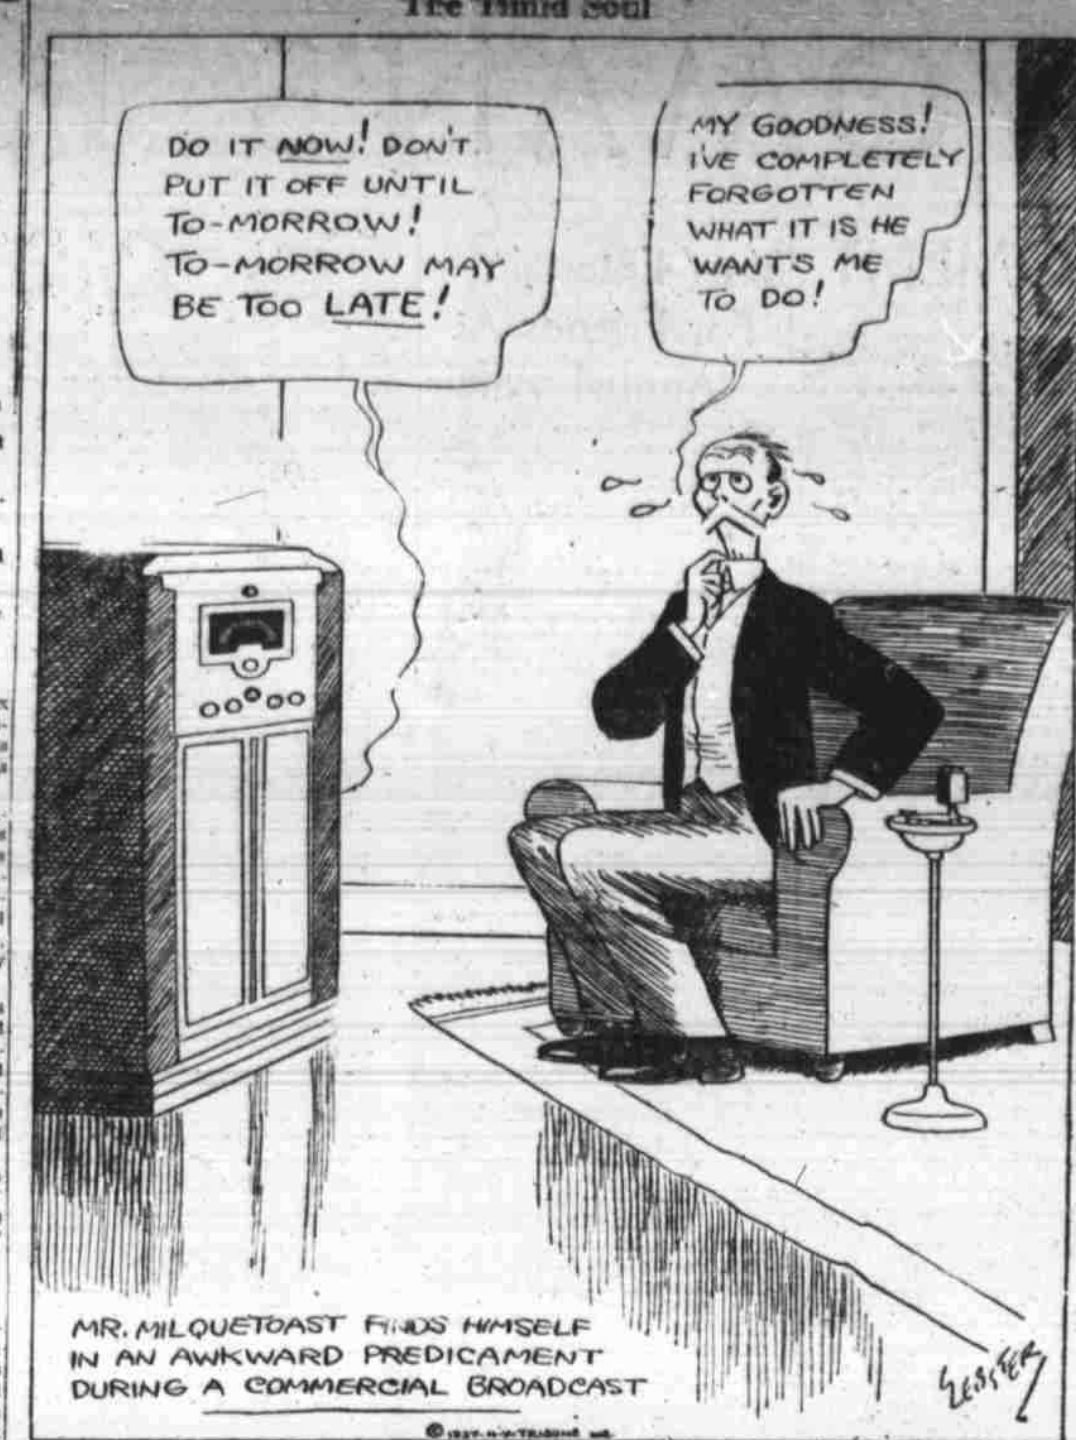

Respect—True admiration of a politician, Representative Hamilton Fish, republican from President Roosevelt's own district, in a speech: "I admire President Roosevelt because he can get away with murder."

Verticality—Some are asking why the steel managers did not sign an agreement with President Green of the A. F. of L. and thus seek to get around the other labor faction of John Lewis.

The answer is that, in dealing with Green, they would have to negotiate with a dozen different leaders of craft unions within their industry, machinists, molders, carpenters, etc. By accepting the vertical union of Lewis, they deal with one man for their whole industry, and incidentally, as they explain it, a man who will "keep his word."

Thus, industry itself seems to be leaning to the vertical union of Lewis instead of the horizontal unions of Green.

Convictions—A senator was ponderously explaining his court position to a group of newsmen at a dinner. "I am against the plan," said he,

but I may not come out against it. My mail is strongly against it, and I personally do not like it."

A new-man barked: "Which means you will vote for it." The senator withdrew with a smile.

Longer Hours—The new order is even expanding jails. President Roosevelt has submitted a budget request to increase appropriations for three federal jails, with a total cost of $5,000,000, the largest to be at Los Angeles and to cost $3,000,000. The jails are needed to hold prisoners awaiting trial, and also persons convicted in the federal court and sentenced for less than a year.

The expansion is necessary as a result of many federal jails are already overcrowded.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds
By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Frank Capra, turning explorer in Hollywood, brings back from the sound stages a trophy from another world. The title is "Lost Horizon." To remark that the film forsakes the beaten celluloid track is but to repeat the obvious to the thousands who read James Hilton's novel of the strange remote Utopia labeled Shangri-La, and of Robert Conway, who found it and clung to it.

Shangri-La, all but inaccessible, laminary in the highest snow-capped peaks of Tibetan mountains, is a mystically warm, rich and kindly haven symbolic of all men's yearnings for peace and contentment. To create it, the studio exerted all its resources in set-building, in photography and in camera tricks. The result is optically splendid and philosophically appealing.

Filming Delayed—Stetely speaking, "Lost Horizon" was not "two years in the making" as claimed. Its preview came nearly two years after Columbia, where Capra is ace director, acquired the story for him. Capra and Robert Riskin, his writing associate, immediately prepared a first draft of a screen play, but Ronald Colman, selected for the starring role, was not immediately available. Nor was he for the next 12 months.

Capra used the interval to prepare for his major work, but while the technical department labored on effects, 10 property makers worked on Tibetan articles, and a photographic expedition went to the mountains of Europe and Asia for those spectacular shots, Capra and Riskin turned out a little film piece which they labeled "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

Colman reported last March, and for the next five months the picture was in production, on sound stages and on the huge Shangri-La location built in the nearby valley. When it was done, Capra took a month's vacation and on his return undertook to cut his work from 36,000 feet to the release version of approximately 14,000. But there was still more shooting ahead.

Sam Jaffe Scores—The key character, charged with expounding the ideals of Shangri-La, is the High Lama. Sam Jaffe played the role originally, but by the time they decided his make-up was not convincing Jaffe was back in New York and unavailable. Walter Connolly pinch-hit for him, but then Jaffe was again free, and he returned and did the part again. Although Colman never did better work, Jaffe's is the outstanding performance. H. B. ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 27
A RACE THROUGH TRAFFIC
As Anne and Bigelow left Madge's, a newsboy at the door was offering the early morning papers at slightly advanced prices. Bigelow bought them while the doorman hailed a taxi and in the cab, they examined them eagerly.

There was a new development. A taxi-driver had come forward who had driven a woman to Vronski's address at a little after 5 A. M. on the night of the murder. He said that she was young and dark and was wearing a small hat with an eye-veil and a mink coat. He had picked her up on Park avenue near the corner of 62nd street, which was the street on which the Drydens lived.

Shown photographs of Lorna Dryden among those of other attractive dark women, however, he had been unable to pick Mrs. Dryden out, but he thought he might recognize his passenger again if he saw her.

Meanwhile, the papers reported, the police had instigated a nationwide search for the missing beauty and they confidently expected to locate her within the next 24 hours.

Bigelow put down the papers and looked thoughtfully out of the window. If Mrs. Dryden had gone to Vronski's apartment at something after five that morning, her husband must have seen her from his place of concealment across the street. Was that why he thought there must be some connection between her and Bigelow and Austrelia? And was that why he was withholding from her the information he had?

"Do you suppose it was Lorna who robbed the apartment?" asked Anne. "If Vronski had been black-mailing her, she might have, you know, in a desperate effort to recover her letters."

"But would she have stolen the Vronski jewels as well?"
"Perhaps—to cover up her tracks and conceal her real purpose. She might have figured, too, that she was only getting some of her own back—if she had paid him a good deal of his money."

"It's a possibility, I suppose," nodded Bigelow.
"I hope it was Lorna," murmured Anne. "Then she'd have got my letters as well. I've been wondering why I haven't heard from the thief about them. If the police would have mentioned the fact, don't you?"

"Probably—although one can't be sure of that. Hagedorn is a wily devil. He might be keeping a card or two up his sleeve. And I hardly imagine you'd hear from the thief about them just now. To admit possession would be too incriminating."

"Yes, I suppose so," sighed Anne. "If only Lorna has them, it'll definitely never be happy again until I get them back and see them destroyed."

Bigelow said nothing.
"Are you resenting the fact that I haven't told you all about them?" Anne asked wistfully.

"I've no right to resent anything," Bigelow replied, "but you give or withhold your confidence as you see fit, of course."

Anne stole a glance at his rather grim profile. "Not at all," she said sadly. "I have no choice what ever in this instance. You see, the secret isn't mine."

So she was withholding somebody else? With a sinking heart, Bigelow wondered who the man could be.
That Little Man Again!

As he emerged from the elevator into the hotel lobby the next morning at half past eight, his glance lighted on an inconspicuous little man waiting near the door—the same man who had followed him for the past few days. And Bigelow stopped short, scowling with rage. He was beginning to find the silent espionage of the little man unbearable. Wherever he went, this man was behind him, watching everything that occurred and presumably reporting it afterward to someone who was taking a great interest in Bigelow's movements.

In the beginning, Bigelow hadn't minded at all. He had nothing more to hide, once the studio had been thoroughly cleaned and the loved and automatic disposed of—and those things had been done before this spy had been planted on his trail. But as time passed, Bigelow's irritation grew. He found the little man's eternal presence in his neighborhood more and more hampering. Before going anywhere or doing anything, he found himself compelled to stop and consider what his mysterious shadow would make of it. There was the constant anxiety lest—through him—innocent people might be involved in the case. Presumably whoever he addressed would become instantly suspect.

And he had no idea for whom this spy was acting. Hagedorn had not insisted much interest in him when they had met at Anne's, but Hagedorn was not the type to put all his cards on the table. He might have set this watcher at Bigelow's heels. Or Strong might be responsible. Or even—he thought wildly—the baronesse!

Fortunately, until now, his comings and goings had been of such small consequence that their being noted and reported could not have benefited anyone. But he had no intention of leading others to Lorna Dryden, if they should be lucky enough to find her, so he was determined to lose the man this time if he never succeeded again.

Accordingly, he suddenly stopped and turned back, as though he had forgotten something, and returned to his room to telephone Anne. Explaining the situation, briefly, he asked her to drive into the park and wait there for him, leaving the engine running. He thought that if the little man was afoot, it might be possible to elude him by slipping into Anne's car and driving off before a taxi could be commandeered in which the man could follow. So he set forth briskly to wait toward the park. But the man was not afoot—he was trailing along about a block behind Bigelow in a small roadster.

The start and general appearance of this roadster was, however, somewhat encouraging. It seemed to Bigelow that Anne's car would be capable of much greater speed and that they would be able to outdistance him without much difficulty.

"The shadow" was only about a hundred yards behind him when he finally came up with Anne.
"He's got a car," announced Bigelow under his breath, by way of greeting, "but it doesn't look terribly speedy."
"No, it doesn't," agreed Anne, considering it through the rear-view mirror. "But you can't get much of a lead in traffic and with the lights constantly changing."
"Not if I trust the driver—and the car," answered Anne.
"Would you be nervous if I drove?"
"No, of course not."
Bigelow tried a Dodge She moved over and Bigelow got into the driver's seat. And they started. He headed for the 72nd Street gate to cut through to Riverside drive. The shadow in the smaller car followed easily behind them. But Bigelow was hiding his time, seizing the opportunity to test the brakes and the gearshift and to see how quickly Anne's car could pick up. He checked up as he felt the power of the engine and realized that the motor was in sweet condition.

Once on the Drive, he began to let it out a bit. The man following him accelerated, too, and as the lights changed at 86th Street, and Bigelow was forced to halt for the cross-traffic, the man in the smaller roadster came up nearly abreast of him.
"You seem to be going my way," said Bigelow, leaning forward and addressing the little man, with a glint in his eye. The little man smiled a faint smile of derision, but made no reply.
"He's rather an unpleasant little man close to, isn't he?" remarked Bigelow to Anne then, in a conversational tone, but loud enough for the man to hear.
"Very," agreed Anne succinctly. The lights changed. The little man was distracted by their conversation or else his engine didn't respond as quickly as Anne's and they shot ahead again. But a big limousine was proceeding them at a significant and rather leisurely pace and an audacious-looking coupe was preventing them from gaining. Eventually, they got by after a prolonged tooting on the siren, and at 93rd Street, they got a break because the lights changed again just as they were approaching the crossing and they got through, but Bigelow was held up.

Bigelow sped to see how quickly the man would get to West End avenue and north on West End avenue until the lights went against him there, when he managed to swing east again to Broadway and then north once more.
"This may do it!" he cried excitedly to Anne.
"Will he try to follow us or proceed 'along the Drive'?" asked Anne.
"I should think he'd have to try to follow us, since he has no idea where we're heading for," cried Bigelow.
Acting on this assumption, he presently turned west again into the Drive.

BOBBY WILSON WILL WED SWEETHEART OF UNIVERSITY DAYS

DALLAS, Mar. 8 (AP)—A college campus romance in which the principals—Bobby Wilson, 1935 all-America quarterback, and Miss Betty Bailey, rode to fame with the Southern Methodist University Mustangs will culminate in their marriage here April 11.

The parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Layton W. Bailey of Dallas, today announced the engagement. Miss Bailey was widely acclaimed as the "pretty sweetheart" of the S. M. U. band when it performed in the Rose Bowl classic in Pasadena two years ago. After a season of professional football with the Brooklyn club of the National League, Wilson has entered the oil business and is now located in Troup, Tex., where the couple will make their home.

General W. B. Hazen is generally credited with promoting adoption of a standard time system for the United States. A native of West Hartford, Vt., he died in 1887.

EXPLOSION THREAT IS USED BY HOLD-UP MAN IN FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Mar. 8 (AP)—A young man who threatened to blow up the Electric building carried out a bold holdup in the lobby of the Texas Electric Service company at 10:30 a. m. today and escaped with $200.

The robbery was so quickly and quietly effected that others standing nearby did not know what had taken place until the man ran out and Mrs. Lottie Campbell, the victimized cashier, screamed for help.

The young man, about 25 or 30, and wearing amber glasses, walked to the center cage occupied by Mrs. Campbell and shoved a typewritten note under the grille.

"This bottle contains nitro-glycerin. I don't care whether I die or not. Quietly give me all money or I will throw this bottle down. Keep still until I am out of store."

SEARCH FOR ACTOR'S BODY IS FRUITLESS

LONDON, Mar. 8 (AP)—A fruitless search was made at sea today for the body of Frank Vosper, British stage star and playwright, while those who reported his mysterious disappearance after a champagne party aboard the liner Paris argued over what had happened.

A French Line official said if the body were represented at the inquest but that if it were not found "the matter must end as far as we are concerned after the captain of the Paris had made his report to French authorities."

Miss Muriel Oxford, "Miss Great Britain" of last year, vehemently denied a statement in English newspapers which quoted Ernest Hemingway, United States novelist, as having said he overheard "bickering" between Miss Oxford, Vosper and Peter Willes, Vosper's close friend.

SNARING BIG ONES IN LOMAX RABBIT DRIVE

Jack rabbits grow big in the Lomax area, but Searcy Whaley, left, and Clayton McKelvie, right, believe in the old adage that "bigger they are, the harder they fall." Judging from the size of the two victims of a rabbit drive last Tuesday west and south of Lomax, two of the rabbits could consume as much grass as a cow. Upper right, a group of hunters climb aboard for the drive. Inset right shows one of the 2,500 rabbits slain in the drive, first of the current season.

Suspect in Coleman Bank Robbery Held

EMPORIA, Kas., Mar. 8 (AP)—Texas officers were en route to Coleman, Tex., today with a suspect in the $23,706 First National bank robbery there Feb. 2, 1934.

The suspect, booked as George Dewey Shipley, 37, was arrested in a raid at a secluded ranch house in northern Lyon county early Sunday.

Waiving extradition, the man was in custody of A. L. Barr of the Texas rangers, and George Robey, Coleman county deputy sheriff for the return trip.

Texas officers, two federal agents and Lyon county officers participated in the raid at dawn Sunday. They arrested Shipley and took another couple into custody after sending tear gas charges through the ranch house window.

LA GUARDIA PRESENT, NAZIS WON'T ATTEND

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8 (AP)—The Washington Post said today the German ambassador and his staff declined an invitation to attend a Bronson Cutting memorial lecture tonight by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York.

"Oh, yes, I remember the invitation," the Post quoted Herr Herbert Blankenhorn, German embassy attaché, "but of course we will not attend. That was decided when we saw Mayor La Guardia's name on the program."

The invitation was issued before La Guardia suggested last week that a statue of Adolf Hitler be included in a "Chamber of Horrors" at the 1939 New York world's fair.

WALLY AND FRIENDS TO VISIT IN TOURS

CANNES, France, Mar. 8 (AP)—Wally Warfield Simpson, accompanied by her host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, left Cannes today for what was reported to be a two-months' visit to Tours, in eastern central France.

The party left the Villa Lou Viel in two cars. Their baggage had been put aboard a train three hours earlier.

Severals remaining behind at the villa denied Mrs. Simpson and the Rogers had left for Tours, insisting the three friends had gone to nearby Cannes country club for a game of golf.

Attendants at the golf club reported, however, that the course was deserted because of heavy rain.

Mrs. Simpson and Rogers were expected to travel by way of Toulouse, possibly staying there tonight. They probably will reach Tours tomorrow, it was said.

The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company's recognition of a C. I. O. affiliate as the bargaining agency for the union's members.

At Akron, O., 10,000 employees of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. who were made idle by the closing of the factory last week, waited for an agreement between company officials and representatives of the United Rubber Workers of America.

Strikers at the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Lebanon (Pennsylvania) plant voted demands that the C. I. O. be recognized as their bargaining agency and that the company institute a minimum wage of $5 a day.

Special police squads roved the downtown and adjacent districts of Chicago, intent upon preventing violence in the strike that has crippled taxicab transportation.

URGENT CONTINUANCE OF WORK RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8 (AP)—A group of house democrats urged today continuance of federal work relief as an attack on unemployment.

"It must be a principle of American government that every citizen who is able and willing to work shall have work," said a statement signed by 16 democratic representatives.

Representative Maverick (D-Tex.), one of the signers, said this stand was backed by a minimum of 125 house members.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated the fiscal year must be kept within $1,500,000,000 if the budget is to be balanced by June 30, 1938, aside from statutory debt reduction.

WPA is now spending about $140,000,000 a month.

Four Chevrolet Plants At Flint Are Closed

FLINT, Mich., Mar. 8 (AP)—A strike in the motor assembly division of the Chevrolet Motor Co. closed four plants this morning, affecting 6,400 men. Eight thousand men continued at work.

The company said the strike was confined to plant No. 4, where motors are assembled, but that plants Nos. 3, 5 and 9 were closed because their operations are dependent upon production in No. 4.

A conference between representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America and Arnold Leon, Flint area manager for Chevrolet, was arranged to discuss grievances which caused a brief strike Saturday night.

Between 400 and 600 men still were in plant No. 4 at 10 a. m. They did not barricade the plant, the usual procedure in a sit-down strike, after the company announced no attempt would be made to eject them or to resume production pending the outcome of negotiations.

Harry Coon, assistant manufacturing manager, said the strike was a continuation of a dispute which started Saturday over the company's refusal to discharge or transfer a workman in plant No. 4 who was regarded by union members as a leader of non-union activities.

MARINE PLANES ON WAY TO SHREVEPORT

Commissioners court of Martin county expressed interest Monday morning in a proposal for lateral roads which would connect Stanton by surfaced road to the northern part of the county and join with Big Spring and Andrews segments.

It was proposed that roadway be acquired for a road traversing the county from east to west via Tarras and Lenora which would meet sections from Andrews on the west and Big Spring on the east. The center of the road would be tapped by a direct route into Stanton.

Attending a meeting of the court were J. P. Fisher, Joe Earnest, Roy Coombs, Grover Dunham, W. G. Hayden, and W. T. Strange, Jr. from Big Spring.
