To witness this unmatched screen production of the exact reproduction of the original Oberammergau play in Bavaria, that cost nearly three million, is truly a soul inspiring spectacle. A story with a scope as broad, as deep, as sweeping and resistless as life itself; scenes to plumb the depths and reach the heights of human experiences. This sublime Passion Play is so pathetic, so thrilling and so tender that it will live forever in the minds of those who see it.

"They won't cost much to carry out, either. Some won't cost a thing, and we honestly feel that we'll have much better lighting after we carry out his suggestions.
"All we did was call our nearest Public Service Company Office

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ANCIENT WRITINGS AND MODERN PROBLEMS
Scripture: Genesis 1; Job 38-41
Matthew 6:25-30

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
In reading the book of Job it is in fact a drama in which various characters are speaking and each instance just who the speaker is, otherwise we may find ourselves taking the wrong end of the statements of Eliphaz, Bildad, or Zophar, all three of whom are specifically reprobated by God later in the book as not having spoken the "thing that is right" (Job 42:7).
The late Professor Moulton in his "modern readers' Bible" sought to guard such misinterpretations of the text by presenting and arranging the Scriptures in their proper literary form. This is particularly helpful in portions of the Bible like the book of Job.
But in general the practice of taking texts at random, or even indiscriminating use of proof texts, is not conducive to enlightening and honest study of the Bible, in which every passage ought to be read in relation to its context and content.
But if one must read the Book of Job with care to realize who it is speaking in the various portions, it is only in considering the Book as a whole that its full significance and message appear. All leads up to certain conclusions regarding the fact of God in His world.
The message of the Book is that, in spite of all the doubts, difficulties, and problems, the dramatic portions have presented with all the realism with which they have confronted succeeding generations in their quest of God, and in their questioning concerning His providence.
The Hebrew poets and prophets were realistic in facing all the facts. They saw the dark and terrible aspects of some things in the world and in human existence.
But they laid hold of the great, positive, incontrovertible facts of a world that could not be, or be upheld, without a Creator and Ruler. They found evidence of law and order and good sense. And they related the moral law and order to the law and the physical universe.
They asserted, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmaments show His handwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech in the book of Job, anywhere, they asserted the fact of God in His world. The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein." "It was the fool, he said, who had declared in his heart that there was no God. And their wisdom was justified. Faithful to their faith, and without God, what is there for man?"

Women in the Church

By Mary Fowler
The Well Baby Clinic, sponsored by Emmanuel Methodist Church, Philadelphia, Pa., has been interfaith in sponsorship since its founding by the Rev. John J. Buchanan, the pastor, and Dr. Herman Mirsh, former army doctor of the Jewish faith. The National Council of Jewish Women provides a proportion of the financial budget of the clinic, and two members of the organization give time as volunteer workers in the keeping of records. The Catholic Church, Friends of all faiths have donated to the project. The small patients represent several nationalities coming from Polish, Irish and Ukrainian homes. Some of the babies are brought to the clinic from the Negro section of nearby Fairmount.

Miss Yu-bon Dju, the first social worker attached to silk millatures and other textile factories in Wushu, Kiangsu Province, China, and a pioneer in industrial welfare work, is now in the United States as an exchange consultant under invitation by the U. S. Department of Labor. Miss Dju prepared for her work at Gingsing Christian College, Nanking, China, and later studied at Columbia University, and at the School for International Studies in Geneva, Switzerland.

As a "missionary of reconciliation" from Japan to the United States, the Rev. Mrs. Tamaki Uemura, of Tokyo, Japan is now touring the churches of America under the auspices of the women of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. Mrs. Uemura, an ordained minister of the United Church in Japan, and one of its outstanding preachers, is the first citizen of Japan to be permitted by General MacArthur to leave the country. She has been warmly greeted wherever she has spoken.

Christian Science Services Sunday

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 13.
The Golden Text is: "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (I Corinthians 5:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" (I Chronicles 16:29).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me, keep my commandments'" (page 4).

CHARACTER IN TONGUE

Acidity or alkalinity of the cooking water influences the coloring matter of red cabbage, so you can serve it in various hues. It is purplish if cooked in ordinary water; with vinegar added, it is red; a pinch of soda and it's blue; or it will be green if much soda is added.

WE, THE WOMEN

Women Should Be Proud to Teach

By RUTH MILLETT

NEA Staff Writer

A school teacher says: "It disgusts me to see a woman teacher take evident pride in someone's remark: 'I never would have taken you for a teacher.' The public never will put an appraisal on any profession that is higher than that accorded it by its own members."

She is absolutely right, of course. And yet I've heard young, attractive school teachers say that when they get away from their home towns on vacation trips they don't admit to strangers that they are school teachers. They are sure they will have a better time if they don't wear the school teacher's uniform.

Now just why should an attractive member of the teaching profession be ashamed to admit that she is a teacher? Nurses aren't ashamed to let the world know they are nurses. Air line hostesses are proud of their jobs. A girl says, "I'm a private secretary," with a feeling of pride and importance.

TEACHER ADJECTIVES

What if the public hasn't outgrown the notion that "prim" and "starched" are the proper adjectives to apply to a school teacher? Isn't it about time the public forget that silly attitude?

But how is the public going to do it when women teachers themselves are flattered by the remark, "I never would have taken you for a teacher."

What they ought to reply to that misguided attempt at flattery is: "Yes, I'm a teacher—and I'm proud of it!"

Bones of Hernan Cortez Reburied

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—In a crumbling old church adjoining the centuries-old Hospital de Jesus, situated in the heart of the city, lie the bones of Hernan Cortez, Spanish conqueror of the ancient Aztecs.

They were reburied yesterday in a niche in the wall of the unused church, where they were discovered last year after a carefully guarded search.

The burial marked the seventh for Cortez's remains.
Cortez died near Seville, Spain, Dec. 2, 1547.

A simple bronze plaque now marks the place where the bones were secreted in 1836 to escape possible molestation.

Pansy Pocket

By MRS. ANNE CABOT
You wouldn't believe that a simple one-piece apron could be so spring-like in its freshness—but it's true! The big pansy pocket made of lavender and purple materials applied to a piece of the apron material, is the secret of the success of this apron. Narrow lace or eyelet embroidery used around the edges advances its good-looks, too!

To obtain complete cutting pattern, pansy applique pattern, finishing instructions for the Pansy-Pocket Apron (Pattern No. 5387) sizes 14, 16, 18 included, send 15 cents in COIN plus 1 cent postage, YOUR NAME ADDRESS and the PATTERN NUMBER to Anne Cabot (Pampa News) 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 19, N. ### Short-Time Pros Make Top Scores

TOLEDO, O.—(AP)—The pre-tournament darkhorses looked like Man O'War and Whirlaway today as the Joviveness Four-Ball $10,000 Tournament wheeled into its second round matches.

Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., and George Scobuz of San Francisco, each a professional less than two years, teamed up yesterday to give the 14 other stars in this unique plus-minus affair a golf lesson they won't forget for some time.

Furgol, 28, and Scobuz, 27, ripped the Inverness layout apart with nine birdies and an eagle for a best-ball of 30-30—66 against par 35-36—71 to set a new record for the event.

During the previous nine tournaments the nation's top-flight pros hit the 61 mark three times.

In the other matches defending champions Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret defeated Sam Snead and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, 2 up; Lloyd Mangrum and Lawson Little won one up over Herman Barrow and Herman Keiser; and Ellsworth Vines and Clayton Heafner finished one up over Lew Worsham, National Open champ, and Johnny Palmer of Baden, N. C.

Sox Take 'Gift Game' 8-4 to Split Series

Thanks to blinder-than-usual "Blind Tomming" and some weird mental gymnastics on the part of Oler Manager Seltz the Amarillo Gold Sox left town the recipient of an 8 to 4 "gift" last night.

In a two hour and 45 minute thrill-packed game, in which the umpires had to be escorted from the park by local police officers Amarillo scored four runs off relief hurler George Payte in the ninth inning to down the Oilers 8 to 4 at Oiler Park. The win gave the Amarillo Gold Sox their second win of the four-game series.

Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio II, nephew of the Yankee cloutier is playing American Legion baseball for Galileo Post of San Francisco.

At the last report he was hitting .465 but he wasn't known as much for that as for his habit of stealing four or five bases a game. That's more than Uncle Joe can do.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who seldom gets hurt in a rough hockey game, busted his nose recently when he ran into the stands chasing a foul ball while playing baseball.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

In the first time in years, the National Junior Tennis championships won't be ruled by Californians this summer. Since Herbie Flam graduated to senior ranks, the leading players are Buddy Behrens of Florida, Sid Schwartz of New York, Gil Bogley of Washington, D. C., Dick Mouldous of Louisiana and Alex Hetzeck of Michigan. Although Jack Banta, the Montreal Royals' strikeout sensation "arrived" only this year as a big league prospect, his record shows he whiffed 105 batters in 26 games at Oler, N. Y., in 1944. Blair Cherry, Texas grid coach, maintains that 1947 quarterbacks will have to be smart enough to switch plays completely after they come out of the huddle and see the defensive setups.

FIGHTING WORDS

When Chicago scribes asked Rocky Graziano how he liked their home town, the Rock replied: "I love it; it's just like Brooklyn." That probably means a few thousand more rooters for Tony Zale next week.

Mickey McBride will continue to give away a new car at each of the Cleveland Browns games this year. As long as he does that, the fans won't become tired.

Magnolia Takes Double Header From Ailas

Magnolia took both games of a doubleheader over Atlas Tank last night at Skellytown in Industrial Softball League play taking the two games by scores of 14 to 4 and 5 to 1. The batteries for the first game were for Magnolia, Taylor and East, for Atlas Tank, Bruce and Redman. The second game were Magnolia, Daniels and Stevens, Atlas Tank, Redman and Bruce.

Jacksonville Jax Gain on Leaders

(By The Associated Press)
The Jacksonville Jax gained on the leaders in the Lone Star League last night. They advanced within a half-game of Longview and Lufkin, who remained tied for the top by both losing their games.

Lowly Bryan licked Longview 12-8 and Marshall downed Lufkin 5-1 while Jacksonville was winning over Kilgore 6-4.

In the other games of the night Henderson and Tyler split a doubleheader. Tyler edging Henderson 7-6 in the first game and Henderson coming back to win 17-4 in the nightcap.

Texas Circuit Leading Buffs Are in Slump

(By The Associated Press)
The Houston Buffs are in what might be called a slump, except that it isn't doing much damage to their leadership in the Texas League race.

The Buffs haven't won a game since Monday. Tuesday night they lost to San Antonio 8-0. Wednesday night they were beaten by the All-Stars 4-2 and last night they could do no better than a 1-1 tie with Fort Worth.

But it happens that Fort Worth is the second-place club and the Cats haven't gained on the Buffs any this week and third-place Shreveport couldn't take advantage of Houston last night because the sports figured in a tie game. Bob Shreveport was battled to a 10-inning 2-2 deadlock by Oklahoma City.

Dallas, the fourth-place outfit, didn't have a game.

The only club able to advance was Tulsa which licked Beaumont 8-3 but the Oilers are still two games out of the first division.

The Houston-Fort Worth contest was a fourteen-inning affair which had to be called to permit the Cats to catch a train for San Antonio. It was a pitcher's duel between Dwan Sloat and the Buffs' Al Papai until the final inning when Bob Austin had to come to Sloat's rescue to squelch a Buff threat when Houston filled the bases with only one out.

Ernie Groth of Oklahoma City limited Shreveport to three hits but it happened two of them were for extra bases—Salty Parker's double that drove in a run and Bob Pritchard's triple that brought in the other. This tilt was called in the seventh to help himself to a pitching victory in his first appearance for the Oilers.

Dallas moves to Houston, Fort Worth to San Antonio, Oklahoma City to Beaumont and Tulsa to Shreveport tonight to open three-game series.

Girls Stage High Scoring Games

The First Christian Jr. Girls had to come from behind to defeat the Presbyterian Girls 38-35 last night in a high scoring, hard hitting contest that saw both teams break into the lead several times. The Presbyterians got off to a good start, scoring 13 runs in the first inning but this hardly matched the 17 runs scored by the Christians in the second frame. Ouida Williams pitched for the winners while Janet Walters hurled for the losers.

In another high scoring, close game, the First Methodist Jr. girls got off to a good start, and were never in really serious trouble, defeating the Central Baptist Girls 24-22. The Methodists tallied 9 times in the first two frames while the Baptists were having a hard time getting 1. The losers threatened a rally in the fifth when they scored 8 runs but the Methodists came back to score 6 in their half of the inning to gain, put them out of danger. Jane Wilson was the winning pitcher.

E. W. Voss and Joe Fischer umpired both games last night.

Women's Collegiate Golf Match Today

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—It's tee for two today in the 1947 National Women's Collegiate Golf championship.

The two are Grace Lenczyk of Newton, Conn., 19-year-old physical education student from Arnold College, and Shirley Spork of Detroit, 20-year-old physical education student from Michigan State Normal.

They were scheduled to get together over tee at Ohio State University's difficult Scarlet course. There appeared little likelihood the Detroit redhead could match the superlative strokes which a few days ago brought blond Miss Lenczyk the Tam o' Shanter title and this far have won her medalist honors and easy victories in the co-ed competition.

Cleveland's Black Pitches No-Hitter

By The Associated Press
Don Black, a reformed character who was "all washed up" a year ago, has eclipsed his famous Cleveland teammate Bobby Feller by pitching the first no-hitter of the American League season.

The 33-year-old right-hander whose elbow bending cost him one big league job and sent him shuffling off to the minors two seasons, is the No. 1 man of the Cleveland staff—at least for one brief 24-hour period. He gives all the credit to Alcoholics Anonymous which he joined last winter.

Black's effort was a little spotty in the early stages. He walked the first two men he faced and leaned heavily on his mates' fielding enroute to his dazzling success against his old Philadelphia mates.

Joe Gordon's overhead running catch of an Elmer Valo pop fly in right field in the third inning was the fielding gem that saved the day. Black, who had thrown two no-hitters for Petersburg, Va., in the Class D Virginia League in 1942, held set up his 3-0 margin, pushing home one run with a squeeze bunt.

Feller, whose aching back forced him to miss the All-Star game, raked up his 11th victory in the 2-1 second game but the first 5-3 help from Ed Klieman in the ninth to save the edge given him by Hank Edwards' two-run homer.

Lefty Joe Page, the New York Yankees' relief ace, added a new turn to his specialty, a three-out ninth-inning home run that sunk the St. Louis Browns, 4-3.

Page's homer stretched the Yanks' lead to nine and boosted their lead to 8½ games over Detroit and Boston, who played a 2-2 tie game, called at the end of the eighth when the twilight became darkness.

Washington took both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago, 4-0, behind Early Wynn who registered his 10th win and 7-2 behind Rae Scarborough.

Brooklyn's Ralph Branca joined the parade of pitching headlines by copying both games for Brooklyn against Chicago, for Brooklyn with the aid of relief help from Hank Behrman and Hugh Casey and the second 4-3 as a reliever for starter Harry Taylor.

The Braves clinched for 16 hits in winning a 6-4 day game from Cincinnati for reliever Clyde Shoun as Tommy Holmes hit two homers. But the night game was a different story with the Reds' Bud Lively besting Bill Voiselle with a three-hitter, 2-1, on the strength of Babe Young's two-run homer.

St. Louis served notice that its Cardinals mean business on this swing around the East as they subdued the New York Giants, 11-4.

Philadelphia clubbed the hapless Pittsburgh twice, 7-2, and 2-1, burying the Pirates deeper in the National cellar.

Jr. Oilers Meet Amarillo Sunday

The Junior Oilers will journey to Amarillo Sunday afternoon, and compete in the first game of a series to decide the champions of this division. The Junior Oilers won the right to represent this district when they defeated Shamrock and Wellington two straight games while Amarillo was taking first place in their district by defeating Borger and Dalhart two straight.

The team will leave Pampa at 12 o'clock from the Court House and will make the trip in a Cabot Bus that has been generously donated for their use by the Cabot Companies, free of charge.

Howard Buckingham is the team coach and Paul Hill is the team supervisor. Hill has asked that all boys planning to make the trip report to the practice diamond just north of Oiler Park at 5:30 this afternoon and also at 5:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Earlier in the season, the Junior Oilers edged by the Amarillo boys 17-15 in Oiler Park, but since that time in the aerobics contest, Frederick J. Brittain, Brooklyn, N. Y., first, George E. Tabery, Flushing, N. Y., second, and Charles Wingfield, London, England, third.

Midland Takes Double Header From Vernon

(By The Associated Press)
Midland gained mightily on Big Spring in the Longhorn League last night by clicking for a double victory over Vernon while the leaders were idle.

Midland downed Vernon 6-2 and 8-7.

Big Spring doesn't play its scheduled game with Ballinger because of the death of one of the Ballinger players—Stormy Davis, who was hit in the head by a pitched ball last week.

Sweetwater won over Odessa 4-2 in the other game played for the night.

In 1928, American farmers had a cash income of $10,500,000,000, as compared with only $4,328,000,000 in 1932.

Speed Derby Held In Soaring Meet

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—On today's program at the 14th annual National Soaring Meet was the $500 three-day motorless speed derby to Vernon, Texas.

The 17-day competition was interrupted yesterday and Wednesday by inclement weather.

Don Pollard of Rossmore, Va., was leading in points.

Two other high-point men were Johnny Robinson of Elmira, N. Y., and Raymond Parker of California.

Largely responsible for Pollard's lead over the three-time national champion Robinson, were the opening day points he collected for attaining an altitude of 12,850 feet—the best since the meet opened seven days ago.

Announced as the three leaders in spot landings were J. Shelly Charles, Atlanta, Ga., first, Alexis Dawyoff, New York City, editor of Air Trails Magazine, and Paul Tuntland of Los Angeles, Calif.

In the aerobics contest, Frederick J. Brittain, Brooklyn, N. Y., first, George E. Tabery, Flushing, N. Y., second, and Charles Wingfield, London, England, third.

DEATH of a DOLL

By Hilda Lawrence

THE STORY: Ruth Miller, a salesgirl at Blackman's department store, saves to rich young Mrs. Sutton, her favorite customer, about the wonderful residence club for girls she is going to move into. She feels she is about to begin a new life.

II
RUTH walked slowly down the last block. Other people were coming home to shabby brownstone tenements and rooming houses, stopping on the way to buy food at the corner delicatessen, collecting the week's laundry from the Chinaman whose basement window was beaded with steam. She watched them, from the secure heights of one who was bound for a warm dinner, a bed with a cretonne cover, and a writing desk of her own. There was a shoe-repair shop in the middle of the block and next to it a dry cleaner's. Very handy, she told herself, especially the cleaner's. For when I get my blue.

The blue was a suit that every woman in New York was trying to wear that fall. It was a bright, electric blue that dulled the eyes and hair of all but the very young, and consequently drew the middle-aged and sallow like a magnet.

Ruth dwelt on the blue. Seventy-five dollars in stores like Blackman's, sixteen-fifty on Fourteenth Street. She had eleven dollars saved up and her week's salary was untouched. She asked herself what she was waiting for. Take out eight for board, she figured rapidly, no carfare, and lunch in the cafeteria is twenty cents. I can do it and maybe a hat to match. And who's to tell me not to? This is a new life and I want to look nice. I can do the glasses next month. Who's to tell me the glasses come first? Well, maybe Mrs. Sutton, but—She put Mrs. Sutton out of her mind. I want the blue, I need it. There's nothing like a touch of color after black all day. . . . That Miss Brady said dinner was from six to eight. I'll eat right away and get down to Fourteenth Street. Saturday night, they'll be open late. I'll wear it to the dining room tomorrow. There's nothing like a good first impression, and you never know when you may meet somebody. Some of the girls may have relatives in New York and Sunday's when they'd come to call. And have dinner, maybe. Sunday dinners are always special. . . . She saw herself entering the dining room, alone and poised, sitting at one of the small tables, saying something pleasant to the maid who served her. Wearing the blue.

THE house was straight ahead. She went up the steps. Miss Small raised her head when the door opened. This was a stranger with a suitcase, therefore the new girl, she concluded the card quickly, verifying the name, Miller, Ruth. It was important to get a name right, to make a girl feel as if she were expected and wanted. She stood up.

"Well, Ruth," she said, holding out a hand.
Ruth advanced, blinking in the light of a powerful lamp that a previous social worker had installed for a purpose. It was trained to shine directly in the shifting eyes of board-payers who had spent their money for new clothes and claimed their pockets had been picked again, and in the calm, wide eyes of supplicants for week-end passes to visit what they called married sisters.

Ruth narrowed her eyes and saw a young woman with fair hair and a bright smile. She was disappointed. It wasn't Miss Brady. Miss Brady was dark and thin and her voice was loud and comical. Who was this? Then she remembered. This must be Angel, Miss Angelina Small, the social worker who was Miss Brady's assistant. Moke and Poke, the two stock-room girls from Blackman's, had described her. Miss Small does a lot of good, they'd said; she keeps you from making a mistake that'll ruin your whole life for a minute's pleasure.

She smiled at Miss Small when she took her hand. All around her were girls, coming and going, laughing and talking.
Miss Small adjusted the light. "There," she said, "that's better, isn't it?"
It was better, much better. She had almost been blind, and now she looked eagerly about her. She could see the other girls clearly.

Ruth Miller looked as if she were cornered. She looked terrified. For a brief moment Miss Small felt the contagion of panic.

SHE saw the dark blue curtains at the dining-room door, the elevator and its uniformed attendant, the telephone switchboard and its operator, the girl with red hair who slouched against the office railing and whistled under her breath. There was a single yellow rose on the desk and an open money box filled with bills and silver. Miss Small had light blue eyes and a rosebud mouth.

"Kitty Brice and Lillian Harris," Miss Small's voice was saying, "this is the new girl, Ruth Miller. She'll be in 706 with April Hooper. Lillian, I'm afraid you'll be late for work, dear. Are you waiting for something?"
The red-haired girl drawled, "Not any more." She removed her felt hat, cuffed it into new angles, and sauntered to the door.
"Seven-o-six," she said over her shoulder, "I'm in 608. Drop down sometime."
Miss Small went on. "Lillian is rather abrupt, but you mustn't mind. And now, my dear, let's talk about you. Do you want your dinner at once or would you rather go to your room first?" It was a stock question and the answer was always the same. Room first. To primp. A faraway look came into Miss Small's eyes. She had made that answer herself three years ago, when she stood where Ruth was standing now, and Monny had smiled across the desk.

A chattering procession passed on its way to the dining room. One girl stopped at the desk and asked for a tray check.

"Who's it for, dear?" Miss Small wanted to know. "Not Minnie May again?"
"Yes, Miss Small. Miss Small, I'd ask you to find me another roommate, I really would, except that I'd have Minnie May on my conscience. I think she needs my influence, I really do, and because of that I'm willing to put up with a lot. But it's hard on me."
"I'll have a little talk with Minnie May later. Didn't I see her just a minute ago?"
"Yes, Miss Small. She came down with me, but she went right up again. She says the whole place smells of last night's fish. She's—well, she's in a state, and it isn't last night's fish, either."

WHEN the girl went away, Miss Small suddenly realized that Ruth Miller hadn't answered her question. She examined her sharply and closely for the first time and was disturbed by what she saw. Why, she's frightened, she told herself. Or is that shyness? No, it's fright. She looks as if she were cornered, or caught, or something dreadful like that. She looks terrified. For a brief moment Miss Small felt the contagion of panic, but she quickly recovered. She rapidly scanned the lobby, but there was nothing unusual that she could see.

The invisible diners chattered behind the blue curtains, as harmless as a caged sparrow. Mrs. Finster, the housekeeper, stood by the dining-room door calmly collecting the tray and guest checks. Jewel lounged beside the elevator, waiting for the after-dinner rush. At the switchboard, Kitty's bon hands darted from plug to plug and her monotonous voice droned on without a break.

Miss Small's eyes met Ruth Miller's for an instant and the girl looked away. She made a quick decision.
"I know what we'll do," she said briskly. "Here's your key, your room is at the rear. Now you run along and look things over, and when you're ready, come down to room 506. That's mine. I have a nice little suite all to myself. We'll have our dinners sent up there, and I'll tell you all about our little rules and so on. Fun? And you'll want to know about your roommate, too. She's just gone in to dinner, but she'll be around later."

"I have to go out," Ruth said. They were the first words she had spoken and they were thick and strangled.

Miss Small nodded agreeably, but she left the office enclosure and followed the shabby figure to the front door. "Some other time then," she said. "But do take your key; slip it in your purse, dear. There, now you're really one of us!" She pretended not to see the shaking, fumbling hands and went on brightly. "And let me have your suitcase. I'll send it up to the room, and you'll find it ready and waiting when you come back."
She carried the suitcase to the desk and shook her head reprovingly when Kitty Brice laughed. "Didn't want to give it up, did she?" Kitty said. "Hung on like a drowning man. Would you say she peddled diamonds or dope?"
Miss Small smiled wryly. "Another odd one, I'm afraid." She sighed, and returned to her work. (To Be Continued)

REPORT ON RUSSIA
The report of Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr., Washington Post reported recently returned from Russia, gives support to what already is pretty generally known about the USSR.

Mr. Kuhn's report may be summed up in these few words from the last of several articles he has written: "To a reporter coming back from a few weeks in Moscow, it is amazing to find otherwise intelligent people who think the Soviet system offers advantages over our own. It is even more amazing to find so many Americans afraid of it."

To document his first statement, Kuhn brings out the fact that a society made "classless" by state compulsion actually is the most class-conscious in the world.

He tells how the Kremlin has forced its citizens into isolation; how White Russians crowded the railroad station to watch "foreigners" with whom they have no contact whatever.

For Russians are forbidden to leave their country except on government business. They are strongly discouraged from talking to foreigners, entertaining them or even walking the streets with them.

Kuhn observes this can be only because the Kremlin is worried about the reaction of the Russian people if they were to find out what goes on in the world about them.

The Russian society, Kuhn says, consists of two classes: the government officials and favorites and the workers. The former have access to all the automobiles, good food and good housing. The latter are allowed 43 square feet of floor space—no more—for housing; they have a ration of one pound of bread a day and two and one-half pounds of meat and fish a month; their transportation is by subway or open air trucks.

The Soviets, says Kuhn, have abandoned internationalism for a strong nationalistic government. History books are being rewritten for the state-controlled schools and Trotsky is written out. His face is altered beyond recognition in all pictures in which he appears with Lenin.

Kuhn found the Russian unimilitaristic. That is to say, while there were many uniforms in evidence, there was no Nazi swagger about the soldiers.

He found the country impoverished, the people determined but hardly joyous. He believes the Russians put no stocks in the propaganda which passes for news in the government-controlled press. Kuhn says the average Russian has come to the conclusion politics are none of his business and he stonily ignores political matters in the stern business of remaining.

The picture is not a pretty one. It's not hard to see why the American reporter finds it "astonishing" so many Americans think Communism is superior to our own system or why he thinks we should have no fear of Russia.

WAGE-FIXING ... By Upton Close

Though union spokesmen generally have been among the loudest denouncers of fascism, they are major contributors to a kind of fascism which dictates to working man and producer, ignores public welfare and threatens our future resourcefulness and perhaps our whole economy.

Within the past few weeks, under invitation of the Wagner Act, union magnates have used their power to force widespread and rigid wage-fixing agreements, so that today our economy is far from the competitive system which made this inventive young nation an industrial giant.

Today whole industries are bound by union chains. When you fix wages and limit labor by petty restrictions throughout a whole industry or region you virtually fix the price of the finished product, and you invite, almost force, monopolistic collective action on the part of management.

If you figure labor cost from the ore in the ground to the finished bathtub, for example, you find that labor cost is by far the major ingredient in the price to the consumer. Union-management contracts today have industry so thoroughly strait-jacketed it can not take a finding fall and come up on its own feet. When industry was free to give and take, it always recovered from a depression within a year or two. It could readjust quickly. It weathered many a recession without serious consequences.

Today a moderate depression may slam the doors of many a factory and dry up a potential billion boom, because management is not free to readjust its production costs to stimulate buying.

Our present union fascism grew under the Wagner Act promising industrial peace. Instead it has brought only bigger and more prolonged strikes and increasing abuse of men's rights.

Though labor leaders may believe these monopolistic contracts to be for the best interests of the working man, it is this contract-rigid system which poses the most serious threat to the card holder's future job.

The 80th Congress had a chance to break up the big pools of power and restore bargaining to the democratic local level. It failed to weather any depression. But the Taft-Hartley law has hardly touched this basic problem of union fascism.

In the preceding article I described the monopoly contracts between building trades unions and construction companies in which a handful of union agents (not even carpenters or plumbers) are permitted to speak for all building trades workmen in a whole state or region, sign an agreement with the contractors' association, which in turn prescribes to speak for all contractors in the bargaining area. I used the situation in the Southern half of California as an illustration.

Here are a few additional sidelights on this monopoly which is untouched by the Taft-Hartley law. One big contractor told me he had got fed up with the workmen whom he hired by the union, and began hiring his own men. After a wrangle with a union business agent he won this privilege—the privilege of hiring his own men, has to pay—because it was written in the Southern California contract. Many other contractors have been induced or coerced into signing agreements with the union, which is untouched by the Taft-Hartley law.

However, the aforementioned contractor would never dare hire a non-union workman in the skilled brackets subject to his taking out a union card, because the building trade unions in this area for some time have virtually stopped taking in new members—except perhaps for common laborers and helpers. The millions of former GI's who want to learn trades or already are skilled and want jobs in this major industry are out of luck, as are the non-veterans.

The theory is that, if you hold skilled labor to a limited supply, you can hold up the wages; perhaps a little above the market rate for the chosen few.

It was this very thing which during depression kept wages high for the limited number of card holders, while the New Deal in exchange for union political support, gave the unions the Wagner Act and relieved them of pressure by putting twelve million job-hunting Americans on the WPA dole. I urge you to read "Garet Garrett's 'The Revolution Was' for a fuller picture of such power-grabbing.

This was one of a number of deals made by the New Deal which stretched the Roosevelt depression over ten years.

In Southern California plasterers and electricians' unions are among those who have most drastically restricted their numbers. Result: A plasterer now gets $2.25 per hour for six hours, plus double time for the remaining two hours of a day's work, netting him $22.50. In addition, he often is able to get a fat bonus, running the cost of his day's work as high as $35 or $40. (Last winter these bonuses sometimes ran much higher. And here I want to correct an error I made in an article a few weeks ago in which I said this was for a six-hour day. Instead it was for an eight-hour day.)

It is odd that when I reported these facts a few weeks ago the only protests I received were from New York City, yet old timers who know the building trades from coast to coast tell me the East is worse than California in restricting union membership. (Copyright 1947)

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON
By RAY TUCKER
MANIPULATED—Capitol Hill Republicans seeking a new, 1948 tax reduction measure suspect that President Truman is about to shrewdly Secretary John W. Snyder have manipulated federal funds to strengthen their argument that this is the wrong time to reduce Uncle Sam's income. But the operation was performed so cleverly, and with so much substance of justification, that the opposition can hardly raise its voice in protest.

The final surplus for the 1947 fiscal year ending June 30 was only $73,787,660, or far below G. O. P. expectations of approximately $2,000,000,000. Mr. Truman's estimate in the early spring had placed it at $1,250,000,000, a figure which Mr. Snyder then declared to be too optimistic.

In view of the fact that he was correcting, in fact, repudiating the Chief Executive's Cabinet member's statement caused general wonderment at the time.

TRICK—But it now appears that Mr. Snyder had a trick up his sleeve for meeting the Republicans' arguments that the state of the Treasury, both now and at the end of the 1948 fiscal year, would permit a tax cut. The St. Louis banker dished out federal funds at a breakneck rate in the few months before June 30.

He paid back $92,000,000 more in tax refunds than he had in the preceding year, when the Democrats controlled Congress. He took no steps to collect a similar amount on overdue, 1947 tax bills.

CREDIT—Although British purchases in this country have been declining steadily because of the rise in prices, London's deficit has declined that it wanted to draw $550,000,000 on its remaining credit from the recent loan before the end of the 1947 fiscal year. At the same time, the Commodity Credit Corporation came along with a request for $200,000,000 from the Treasury to finance its Cuban sugar operations. CCC had been borrowing from the private money market.

CONTROL—The proposed change calls for appropriating executive pay cuts in two-year or three-year periods. It is believed that this program would give Congressional appropriators more time to study the needs of the respective departments, and to provide for more efficient use.

It might not be possible to apply this system to the Army and Navy, especially in view of the remarkable advances in the mechanics and tools of warfare. But it is believed that it could be done with respect to more routine operations—the Treasury Postoffice, Agriculture, Commerce, and Interior Departments and many of the independent agencies.

Principal objection on the part of Congressional financial experts, is that the two-year or three-year period of appropriating funds might loosen their control on the use of federal funds. They think that there should be an annual checkup on the federal cashiers and planners.

On the other hand, the staggered method might operate to give them more time to watchdog the spenders. For the 1948 holiday seems unfair from the standpoint of fair treatment of the nation's employees, and also from that of efficiency.

POLITICAL—Although the Hawaii statehood measure may not be passed at this session of Congress, the island territory is almost certain to become the forty-ninth state early in 1948. The Farrington bill has been okayed by the House, but it may run into a Senate jam.

The reasons for 1948 enactment are largely political. Hawaii has a habit of voting Republican, a fact which the G. O. P. majority has noted with pleasure. Besides giving the Republicans four more votes in Congress—two Senators and possibly two Representatives—the condition would provide them with four more ballots in the electoral college in the 1948 presidential election. It could be the difference between capture or loss of the White House.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES
Too Many "Great Men"
The reason we have so many booms and busts, so many wars and such inflation is that we have too many "great men" in this country. Frederic Bastiat made this observation in the conclusion of his great essay "The Law." I quote:

"I cannot avoid coming to this conclusion that there are too many great men in the world; there are too many legislators, organizers, institutors of societies, conductors of the people, fathers of nations, etc. etc. Too many persons place themselves above mankind, to rule and patronize it; too many persons make a trade of attending to it. It will be answered:—You yourself are occupied upon it all this time! Very true. But it must be admitted, that it is in another sense entirely that I am speaking, and if I join the reformers it is solely for the purpose of inducing them to relax their hold."

Who are these "great men" in the local communities? Who are the men who think they are so wise that they have a right to make decisions for other people and assume no individual financial responsibility for their mistakes? Who are these "great men" in our own communities who think themselves so much superior to other people that they are willing to use the force of the state to make people comply with their will?

They are not the policemen, not the sheriffs, not the justices of the peace, or not the judges. They are not the men who are assisting those people in their duties. These men do not regard themselves as superior; they act under the rule of law. They can get the voluntary consent of all the people who believe in liberty to carry out their "great" projects. They are doing something that he, as an individual, originally had a right to do is not one of these "great men."

These "great men" are men who assume a political job to do something that they as individuals originally didn't have a right to do. They are such men as the members of the board of education, the members of the planning commission, the members of the government employment agencies, the members of the O. P. boards, the superintendents of public schools.

These are the "great men" in our community in their own opinions. They are so sure of their right to enjoy having the power to send the sheriff to enforce their orders. And it is little wonder we have Washington when each community we have so many men who are willing to be great in their own minds. They are the members of the planning commission, the county commissioners, and council men who pass laws and bureaucrats who have the right to do things that each and every individual doesn't by nature have a right to do.

These "great men" are pretty well described by Bastiat under the parable of the new-born child. They are very much like these bureaucrats subject to his taking out his fight against these "great men" and in answer to the usual accusation that he is trying to run the lives of other people, he set forth the parable:

Two Blocs

hold its satellites in line for a few years on short rations, perhaps the Soviet can engineer the economic rehabilitation of its bloc, though that would be a tall order. Hitler achieved it by creating an economic structure in which the efforts of the small countries complemented those of Germany. The fatherland produced the manufactured goods which were exchanged for agricultural commodities needed by the Reich.

There seems no reason to doubt that Russia can duplicate this feat by heavy industrialization, providing she can hold her bloc together. Meantime, it's a trick that can't be turned overnight, however.

The position at the moment is that Russia has to all intents incorporated the countries of Eastern Europe into the Soviet Union. If history repeats itself, some if not all of them will in due course apply for membership in the union, as happened in the case of the three Baltic states in 1940.

Then the Soviet Western frontier will run in fact, as it does now in practice, from Stettin on the Baltic to the head of the Adriatic.

David L. Shelton, 728 S. Barnes, admitted he did not know who unhooked it, but that it was unhooked a short time later because the truck had moved out several feet, stopped momentarily and then went on several more feet and stopped completely.

Earlier in the day the defense called Odell Henry another Wright employe, to the stand. Henry stated that he had unfastened the snub chain and snub line from Mullenax's truck and that he stood inside the leg of the derrick instead of standing between the truck and derrick leg as Wilson did. He added that the winch line "must have" been unhooked from Wilson's truck when he pulled out, but did not know who unhooked it.

Both Henry and Wilson added under examination that if the winch pulled out the truck would have broken an axle and if the winch were out of gear, but unhooked it would have spooled off harmlessly. Their testimony brought out that neither of the two things happened to their knowledge.

Last night and this morning attorneys on both sides prepared their charges and objections for the Court while the jury was excused from duty until 9:15 a. m., tomorrow when they will listen to the final pleadings of both plaintiff and defense counsel and the charge by the Court. The case is expected to go to the jury sometime late Saturday afternoon.

District Court will again convene next week at the conclusion of this case for other trials by jury that may be ready at that time.

Attorneys for the plaintiff, R. C. Taylor, are: Saunders and Garo, Dallas, aided by R. A. Wilson of the law firm of Underwood, Johnson, Dooley and Wilson, Amarillo and Walter E. Rogers, Pampa. Defense is being represented by E. A. Silapson of Simpson, Clayton and Fullinjam, Amarillo and Curtis Douglas, Pampa.

Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt of the United States Chamber of Commerce told a Congressional hearing Wednesday that he believes the coal settlement is inflationary and will touch off a general demand for higher wages.

block final acceptance of the plan or its later application.

On the other side of the picture, as American officials see it, there are these difficulties confronting the Russians:

They now stand as declared opponents of American-backed, organized European recovery.

They probably have been forced into a premature disclosure of the extent of their domination over such governments as the Polish and Czech. The belief here is they would have preferred no show-downs such as those of the past few days.

They have cut off millions of people from access to the aid in receiving trade and industry which the Marshall plan is designed to provide, and the political forces which develop in protest against this situation may be powerful.
