Hurricane Hazel Hits South Carolina Coast

Blow's Full Force Expected Today

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 15 —UP— A gigantic hurricane rammed into the U. S. mainland near Myrtle Beach, S. C., Friday causing extensive damage, and this port city was warned that the blow would smack it "head-on."

All communications except by radio were out to Myrtle Beach, but police at Florence, S. C., 60 miles northwest of there, said the resort took a severe beating.

Policeman R. B. Rose said radio reports from the area where Hurricane Hazel hit the South Carolina coast said that the little beach resort of Windy Hill "was washed away."

No Report of Casualties There were no reports of casualties. "Wilmington has been warned by police radio to expect a head-on blow," Rose said.

Winds at Florence were up to 65 miles an hour. Georgetown, S. C., had a 74 mph blow and torrential rain was falling throughout the area as the hurricane, which crippled sections of Haiti on the way north, came ashore.

Police warned all residents to keep off the streets and hundreds of refugees from nearby exposed beaches were housed in more than half a dozen emergency shelters.

Torrential Rains Fall Torrential rain was falling and visibility was limited to about 10 feet.

Police said hundreds of families piled into their automobiles and drove "bumper to bumper" to Wilmington from low-lying Kure and Carolina beaches and a strip of the outer banks.

Police estimated that 80 per cent of the residents of nearby Wrightsville Beach had evacuated their homes since midnight.

Coastal residents from Charleston, S. C., to New York and Boston were warned to batten down and seek safety.

Refugees were housed here in churches, the armory, the Boys Brigade Club, the Salvation Army hall, the courthouse, the Moses Lodge Hall and private homes.

The Fort Marion Coast Guard station at Morehead City, N. C., reported tides were abnormally high at dawn with flood tides still hours away.

The station said the barometer had fallen steadily since midnight from a reading of 29.74 to a dawn level of 29.40 and reported gusts up to 60 miles per hour gradually increasing in intensity.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 —UP— Twenty wealthy Philadelphia industrialists Friday pooled $150,000 each which they said was enough to keep the Philadelphia Athletics in Philadelphia.

Norther Hits West Texas

By UNITED PRESS The first real norther of the fall dropped temperatures within three degrees of freezing in West Texas Friday and left temperatures 20 degrees and more lower than before its passage.

Lows of 35 degrees were reported at Dalhart and Lubbock, and meteorologists said it was likely the temperature may have dropped even a degree or two closer to freezing in between reporting stations.

Anarillo had a low of 38 and Childress 39.

The cool air mass had blanketed the entire state Friday and its leading edge was out over the Gulf of Mexico. Forecasters said the entire state will continue cool through the weekend.

"There will be a gradual warming trend beginning in West Texas tomorrow," a forecaster said. "It will still be cool but it will gradually warm up. It will take several days to warm back up after this one."

The cold front was accompanied by north winds of up to 35 miles an hour as it rushed across the state. These made the suddenly cooler temperatures seem even colder than they actually were.

Ike Winds Up Vacation In Colorado

DENVER, Oct. 15 —UP— President Eisenhower winds up eight weeks in Colorado Friday with a flight to Indianapolis for a major farm speech Friday night before returning to Washington.

The chief executive will speak from the Butler University field house at 8 p. m. et.

The Indianapolis speech was part of the GOP "speed-up" campaign to retain control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections. The President and other party leaders have said that unless the Republicans retain a majority in the House and Senate, that political chaos will result.

The eight weeks Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower have spent in Denver have been considerably short of an out-and-out vacation. The Eisenhowers arrived here Aug. 21 just as Congress adjourned and the President put in long hours of consideration on bills left by the departing House and Senate.

Wilson Retires From Political Battlefield

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 —UP— Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson retired from the political field of battle Friday with Democrats nipping at his heels for his celebrated observation on dogs and unemployment.

The plain-spoken secretary said his speech at a GOP rally in Chicago Wednesday night "winds it up as far as I am concerned. . . I am not in a humor to make (another) one."

Solo Cruise Sets Record

PAGO PAGO, Samoa, Oct. 15 —UP— A 61-year-old New Yorker completed the longest solo cruise in history Friday, sailing a balisea raft 4,000 miles across the Pacific from Peru to Samoa in 115 days.

William Willis drifted with the Humboldt current from South America to Polynesia in a voyage that took him almost 2,000 miles farther and 13 days longer to complete than the famous Kon-Tiki expedition of 1947.

Willis sailed alone, except for a cat and a parrot, on the craft he named the "Seven Little Sisters" because it was made of seven balsas logs.

The New Yorker started his trip June 22 from Callao, Peru. Almost immediately, he dropped from sight and was feared lost.

But Thursday the 34-foot raft was spotted 30 miles northeast of Pago Pago by the government ship Manatule. Willis declined to leave his raft but accepted a tow to the port of Pago Pago.

Appeared in Good Condition Dr. D. D. Smith, a San Francisco tourist aboard the Manatule, said Willis was in "good condition," looked fit and refused medical attention when he arrived.

Word of his safety was flashed to the world and elaborate welcoming ceremonies were prepared for him here.

Saturday Is Last Day Of Oil Week

A street dance, two prize "shoots" and the judging of Pampa service stations today were all that remained for the annual celebration of Oil Progress Week.

Miss Carol Paxson, however, had more to look forward to. Chosen "Top o' Texas Oil Queen," she will be in Dallas the week end of Oct. 22-24 where she will see a Broadway play, appear before radio and television and meet Dallas oilmen.

Billy Foua and his eight-piece band will play at the street dance, scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. Saturday at Kingsmill and Somerville.

The "shoots" will be held at 7 p. m. Saturday and Sunday in Recreation Park. Among prizes will be quail, silver dollars, hams and bacon.

Service stations will be judged for decorations, courtesy, cleanliness and service. Two top winners will be announced after the conclusion of the judging.

Wilson was in a jovial mood when he talked with reporters here Thursday on his return from a six-day trip that stirred one of the liveliest tempes of the congressional campaign. Wilson set off the furor Monday by referring to bird dogs and kennel dogs in the same breath with unemployment.

Although Wilson apologized for the remark in his Chicago speech, some Democrats continued to snap at him. Sen. John J. Sparkman (Ala.), 1952 Democratic vice presidential candidate, said Wilson apparently is not "filled with remorse" for the remark.

Sparkman noted that Wilson had declared his comment was "distorted by left-wing opponents." Sparkman ticked off the names of four Republican senators and one GOP governor who had taken exception to the dog remark, and declared:

"These men can read. It's not a question of distorting it. Anybody can read the statement. It shows Mr. Wilson is soured. He tried to alibi out of it by calling a

Chest X-Ray Total Passes 1954 Goal

The 3,887 Pampans who got free chest X-rays during the week-long stay of the Texas Health department mobile unit will receive cards in the mail, stating whether the test was positive or negative.

The total of those getting X-rays went over the 3,500-person goal before the unit was taken to Lefors, Thursday afternoon. Johnny Campbell, drive chairman for the Gray County chapter of National Tuberculosis Association, said today.

Everyone who got an X-ray will get a card, Campbell emphasized. Even those with positive results should not necessarily worry, however, he said. But they should consult a physician.

The mobile unit was to be in Lefors, till 6 p. m. today. Then it will be operating in McLean from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday.

Democrats Forecast 20-40 House Edge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 —UP— Democratic political experts said Friday that by "conservative" estimates they expect to pick up 20 to 40 House seats in next month's election and to take firm control of the chamber in January.

Republicans said only that they expect the outcome of the voting to be "close." They figure they have a good chance of retaining House control by a few votes—possibly seven or eight—but they also think the Democrats may win control by a narrow margin.

Both the Democrats and the Republicans feel that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's recent remark about bird dogs and kennel dogs could have an effect on the outcome. The Democrats feel

A spokesman for the Democratic congressional campaign committee declared that the Wilson remark had boosted Democratic chances of winning Congress in the Nov. 2 election. He said it would "incite rank and file labor to vote."

The new directory will be mailed Monday, and according to R. H. Sanford, Pampa Superintendent of Mails, "should, for the most part, be delivered by Wednesday."

The books, with 48 alphabetical pages, four more than last year, will have 7,075 listings, and 92 pages of classified with 2,625 entries. Some 13,550 copies of the directory are being printed, and 8,700 will be mailed to subscribers.

The directories, Newberry said, will be effective immediately and will remain in force 12 months. Old copies will not be collected.

"Last year we tried to give them to the Boy Scouts, but it was found out it would be a losing proposition to try and sell them," Newberry said.

"We'll have a new picture each year. Next year we will use the new Lovett Memorial Library," Newberry said.

Cover Art Changed

Phone Directory Has 'New Look'

"The Spirit of Communication" gracing the cover of the Pampa telephone directory for the past 18 years has been replaced with the "new look."

Following the lead of three sister cities in Texas, the new directory cover features a drawing of Highland General Hospital. George Newberry, Pampa manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, made public the information this morning.

"We'll have a new picture each year. Next year we will use the new Lovett Memorial Library," Newberry said.

Ship Sinks In Lake Michigan

Youth Center Elects Slate Of Officials

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 15 —UP— A marine board of inquiry conducted an investigation Friday into the sinking of a 1,500-ton Dutch freighter in choppy Lake Michigan Thursday night.

All 30 of the men aboard the Prinz Willem V were rescued and most of them didn't even get wet. The only injury was a cut finger suffered by a Coast Guardsman.

The Willem went down three miles off Milwaukee a half hour after it hit a tug's towline. A gasoline-filled barge which the tug was pulling smashed twice into the freighter's hull, opening a yawning hole in the starboard helm.

The ship's captain, P. G. A. Hull, said the last man to leave the vessel, Coast Guardsmen said they took Hull and a sailor off the Willem "just before she went down."

The crew members, most of them sailors in their 20s from The Netherlands, praised the Coast Guard for its quick rescue work.

The Coast Guard cutter Hollyhock arrived at the scene 20 minutes after the collision.

The crew members had already had time to pile into two lifeboats and the Willem was listing to starboard. It finally went down by the bow in 80 feet of water.

AARON STURGEON . . . elected

Sturgeon and Bill Waters were appointed a committee to prepare the by-laws and constitution of the group. They are expected to be ready for approval by the next meeting of the board. The idea, Sturgeon said, is to "set up an organic procedure for a successful venture."

The terms of the directors will be on a staggered basis. Tentative plans call for four of them to serve for three years; four, for two years; and the remaining three for one year. Each year the board will select the successors. Current plans call for the board to meet once a month.

J. C. Hopkins, president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, the organization that has been pushing for such a project for years, late this morning said his club would turn over the funds collected for the project to Sturgeon.

Back in Fort Worth, he borrowed the station wagon from his former wife and went out on a drunk. He remembered having two men with him before he blacked out. When he came to on Sunday morning, he was back in the Arbuckle Mountains, with his wallet, ring and watch stolen.

He was near the Cedarvale motel, as well as the place where the station wagon was found, and he hiked to the motel. He found $20 in a shaving kit, got in the car and drove back to Texas.

Hagler wound up in Waco, drunk again. He called Fort Worth Police Chief Cato Hightower, a former neighbor, that he was coming back to Fort Worth.

Father Faces More Counts

FORT WORTH, Oct. 15-UP—Authorities said Thursday there was a "possibility more charges might be filed against Carl George Malloy, 21-year-old Allquippa, Pa., soldier already accused of killing his baby son.

Malloy, who is attached to an Army unit stationed at Carswell Air Force Base, was held in $25,000 bond on a charge of squeezing to death his seven-week-old son last Monday night.

"We're still investigating," said Deputy Sheriff E. N. Bule, "and there's a possibility more charges may be filed." He refused to elaborate.

Meanwhile, Assistant District Attorney Randall Riley said a murder with malice indictment would be sought from a grand jury later Friday.

Fair Attendance Nears A Million

DALLAS, Oct. 15-UP—The millionth customer may go through the gates at the 1954 State Fair of Texas Friday.

Up to Friday, total attendance has been better than 760,000. Friday is elementary school day, with attendance expected to be between 225,000 and 250,000. Last year's school day attendance was 245,840.

The fair distributed 120,000 free tickets to Dallas county school children this year.

Friday was also Coushatta Indian day, honoring the only tribe in Texas. Walter (Chief Big Buck) Celestine, who lives in the swampy areas near Livingston, was to be the guest of honor.

Other "days" at the fair Friday are Texas Turkey Federation, American Quarter Horse Association and Texas Credit Union Day.

District Attorney Tom Braly is expected to file charges this afternoon following the drawing up of the complaint, Conner said.

20,233 In Church During Drive

The Kiwanis Club's "See you in Church" program was far ahead in its drive for 40,000 in church attendance during October after two Sundays.

Reports from Pampa's Churches after two October Sundays showed that 20,233 persons had attended church so far this month.

That figure included 11,256 on October 3, and 8,977 on October 10. Dr. George Snell, chairman of Committee which is working on the project, said Friday it appears the city will reach its goal and then some.

Chiang Irregulars To Be UN Topic

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 15-UP—The United Nations political committee votes Friday on an American-backed resolution calling for the disarmament and internment of some 6,000 Chinese Nationalist irregulars in Burma.

The Nationalists are remnants of Chiang Kai-Shek's forces which fled across the border from China when the Chinese Communist forces overran the country.

Burma complained to the UN about the presence of some 13,000 such troops in its country last year and the assembly passed a similar resolution. With the United States playing a mediation role, about 7,000 have been evacuated through Thailand to Formosa.

Waiters In, The Dogs Out

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15-UP—A Republican congressman was in the dog house Friday because he said members of the Eisenhower Cabinet do not look like waiters. The waiters demanded an apology.

Democrats joined in with the charge that the remark about waiters and Cabinet members was worse than Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's statement about bird dogs and unemployed workers.

Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.) started the dispute when he said in a speech Wednesday night that it's "wonderful to attend a reception in Washington today and be able to tell the Cabinet members from the waiters."

George E. Freije, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO Central Labor Union, promptly sent a telegram to Brownson demanding a retraction.

The union "demands that your statement relative to the waiters and Cabinet members be retracted with an apology to the waiters," he said.

"We believe that the country would be better managed if the Cabinet members were composed of waiters instead of millionaires, thereby assuring a Cabinet representative of the majority of people in this country," Freije continued.

Brownson, meanwhile, protested he had nothing against waiters.

"Waiters ought to be happy not to look like cabinet members," he said.

The charter for the organization was approved by Secy. of State C. E. Fulham two weeks ago and arrived in Pampa last week.

Long dormant, the idea of such a youth-community center came to life the night of Aug. 24 when a public meeting was held. The 11 incorporators were named Sept. 2.

You Said It

We were pleased the other evening to hear Congressman Martin Dies tell our fellow Pampanos just what the Pampa Daily News has been saying year in and year out . . . namely, that individuals are endowed by the Creator with inalienable rights which even the Majority has no right to violate.

This point, of course, is quite elementary to all who understand the basis upon which this country was founded. But the demagogues still parrot the immoral cliché that majority dictum is the sole criterion upon which to base government action.

As a matter of fact, the bulk of Congressman Dies' speech was quite indistinguishable from what you read daily in the editorial columns of the News. Dies' criticism of one-worldism, the something for nothing philosophy, the ever encroaching power of the federal government, were all down our line.

Those of us who are constantly battling governmental despotism, at times, feel that we have few allies who are vitally interested in the preservation of the traditional America of our founding fathers and it is always refreshing to have a man of Martin Dies' prestige and influence come into our midst and reaffirm our faith that there are men left in national life who carry on the fight for the freedom and dignity of the individual.

Rare Professor!

Dr. George H. Hilderbrand, an economist at the University of California at Los Angeles, must feel like a fish out of water among his faculty colleagues.

Dr. Hilderbrand has written an article in the American Economic Review in which he asserts that security of competitive opportunity is more important than the fixed security of an economic status quo.

This is so contrary to the usual economic balderdash that flows from our universities, particularly our state-controlled colleges, that we wonder how the good doctor ever obtained a job at UCLA.

He doesn't believe in price-wage controls, in excess profit taxes, in price-rigging schemes or any of the other socialistic trappings that flow so readily from lips of his professional colleagues.

It is almost unbelievable that a UCLA faculty member should argue that the national economic policy should foster flexibility and competitiveness and that the market should be encouraged to make natural adjustments.

Dr. Hilderbrand hedges somewhat in accepting what he calls "justifiable public works and welfare projects" but his main thesis is refreshing coming from modern academic circles, and that is the American economy "should depend upon private spending as much as possible because such spending is the chief means by which personal freedom is exercised in our economic order and because of its close connection with economic efficiency."

More such thinking among the professors might lead to a rejuvenation of learning on the campuses.

Hank Is Impressed With 'Happy' Rocky Marciano

By HENRY McLEMORE

If happiness is catching, and you aren't happy, then you should fix it to be around Rocky Marciano for a little while. You'll come down with a real bad case of happiness.

Rocky's really got. He's happy from his broken nose to the heels he settles down to knock you dead with a right. — bent out of all the champions I have ever talked to, I believe he is the happiest. I ran across him in the press box of the Coliseum, when the Abers and the Rams were having it out, and the heavyweight champion spread happiness like a 200-pound Pollyanna.

He was holding a sort of court up in the second deck of the press box. Close about him were the men who were close to him in the boxing business. You could tell that from their looks — bent noses here, and a mashed ear there, and the scar tissue over the eyes. In the second circle, surrounding the champion, were friends and acquaintances, and in the third and fourth circles were guys getting a good look at the man who has a chin and fists like Belgian blocks.

When did he think he'd fight again? Who would he fight? What was the hardest punch he ever threw? How long did he think he'd keep at the business? What about this, champ? What about that, champ? You could see he loved it, and you could see he wasn't showing off or putting on. Just being a natural, big bruiser, with a big, wide streak of plain sweetness. "You like being champ, don't you, Rocky?" I asked. "You can say that again," he said, "I'm staying at Arrowhead and what a swell place. Just taking it easy, doing what I want. I say I'd like to see a football game, and it's all fixed up, and here I sit."

Mickey Walker came by to say hello. "Here's a man," Rocky said, "who was the sort of champ I'd like to be. Wish I was the fighter he was."

I asked Rocky what was it he liked most about being champion. He thought that one over for a while, rubbing the nose that still shows a long scar from the cut he got in the last Charles fight.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said, "and no kidding, I believe what I like about it best is having enough dough to buy some things for guys who were nice to me when I didn't have anything. I mean, it's great to slip a guy a gold cigarette lighter, or tell him to go get all fixed up with all the clothes he needs. Just being able to pay off some friends who were swell to me. And I like buying things like yachts, or sky-scrapers, but I like saying, 'Give me six of those lies, ten of those shirts,' and things like that. I never thought it would happen to me."

The hardest Rocky ever hit was when he was just beginning. "All I did was swing them," he said. "I didn't know a thing about boxing. All I did was get set, wind up from as far as I could, and let fly. It's a wonder I didn't kill somebody. Glad I didn't." A happy champ, Rocky, and a nice one, too.

BETTER JOBS

Fair Competition In Education

The other night in speaking before a church group on the question of public schools, I made the statement that one of the things needed most was fair competition in education. I said that fair competition in education would enable many more people to become better educated than education that was not based on fair competition.

One of the members of the audience asked me what I meant by "fair competition." That was a good question because undoubtedly many people do not believe in fair competition in education, although they think they do. My answer was that fair competition in education was where no group of educators were subsidized by another group of educators. In other words, where there was a free and unhampered market where all people had opportunities to get students on a fair basis.

If we had fair competition in education, then the educators whose students ranked highest in character, dependability, good will, honesty, self-reliance and prosperity would win out against educators whose students did not excel in these virtues. Then the parents and the youth of the land would have a chance to choose at whose feet they would study.

Would anyone contend that a dairy man could compete in selling milk to the public if the government were furnishing milk without direct cost to the consumers and making the man who is trying to sell milk help pay for the government distributed milk? It is just as unfair to expect private educators to compete with state subsidized educators as it is to believe that anyone can compete in unfair competition where the government subsidizes competitors by taxing the free enterprise producers to help pay the subsidy.

Probably no branch of free enterprise has as unfair competition as education has. Now, 90 per cent of organized education is paid for by the state or a subdivision of the state. And the 10 per cent that are trying to educate on a voluntary basis are taxed to help pay these tax-supported educators. Money Lost Is Not Worst Part. But the unfair money loss is not the worst part of subsidized education. The most harmful part of subsidized education is that it cannot teach moral principles. It cannot teach the virtues of the Golden Rule and the Commandment "Love thy neighbor as thyself," because it is violating these laws. And an education that isn't based on moral virtues is not really an education at all. It is only a propaganda organization.

How can tax-supported schools teach a limited government when tax-supported schools are based on the theory that the majority need not respect the natural rights of the minority. So the public schools cannot teach that there are natural rights because they are violating natural rights.

And when they cannot teach natural rights or the Golden Rule or the "Love thy neighbor as thyself" Commandment, they must teach something from a human relations standpoint. They cannot operate in a vacuum. And when moral principles are driven out by subsidized, unfair competition in education they are obliged to teach some form of collectivism or might-makes-rightism, some form of communism or welfareism. That leads on and on to bigger and bigger government and interferes more with the natural rights that each and every man has received from God.

Yes, what we need is fair competition in education—education based on an unhampered market where no group is subsidized on an involuntary basis. Had we had voluntary education, there is reason to believe that we would not have had the federal government 275 billion dollars in debt and the states and counties with big debts. Nor would we have had irredeemable paper money. Nor would we have drafted soldiers. Nor would we have in collective bargaining that takes away from an individual his right to make an individual bargain. Nor would we have an immigration quota. Nor would we believe in a graduated income tax or inherited tax. Nor would we believe in any discriminatory laws that give one man an advantage and which interfere with another man's natural rights. The man made laws that brought on these conditions are based on lack of respect for the individual just as are tax supported schools.

We are reaping exactly what any man who will answer questions about what he is advocating predicted would come about from subsidized, immoral education.

We may have some difficulty in getting Western Germany to bind itself to accept our leadership of a system of defense against Communism. One of the reasons may be that Dr. James B. Conant is American High Commissioner of Germany. And as president of Harvard, Dr. Conant did all in his development of the hydrogen bomb. And without the hydrogen bomb, there would be no defense against Soviet expansion. Why do we have so many leaders who go in the wrong direction? Jonathan Yank

National Whirligig Labor Lobby Now Ranks With Veterans' and Farmers'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON. — With amazing frankness, the American Federation of Labor's legislative strategists on the Capitol Hill beat now reveal in their annual report of successful operations how they convinced with Senate Democrats to block revision of the Taft-Hartley Act at the recent session of Congress. It is a fascinating story of masterful lobbying.

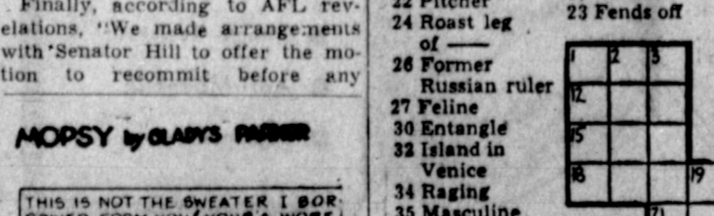

Republicans are using the AFL's boastful admission to answer the charge by Labor's top leaders, who are generally supporting Democratic congressional candidates, that the Administration bogged down on this issue.

With his inability to obtain authority to reduce tariffs, President Eisenhower's other major legislative failure was his attempt to amend the so-called labor-management law.

The AFL opposed the proposed revision because, although it admittedly "had a few minor favorable proposals," it was considered to be generally "objectionable." However, there was a possibility that it might pass in the Senate if brought to a vote, according to the AFL canvass, and House approval was virtually certain.

So, the AFL joined with Lister Hill, able Alabama Democrat to have the bill recommitted to the committee, and buried it, at least temporarily. Senator Barry Goldwater, Arizona Republican, helped Labor's cause when he proposed a floor amendment that would have turned jurisdiction over all labor problems to the states.

Northern Senators, Republicans and Democrats, resented the Goldwater scheme. Since 17 states, mostly in the South, have "right to work" laws inimical to the unions, the Yankee bloc feared that the AFL's plan would swell the migration of northern industries below the Mason and Dixon Line.

Finally, according to AFL revelations, "We made arrangements with Senator Hill to offer the motion to recommit before any

DISASTER OR DISGRACE? A Free Economy Vanishes In Scramble For Government Aid (By Clarence Frost in the Kiowa County Star-Review)

So we're a disaster area. And there's a mad scramble to log the credit for achieving the designation. Well, we love everybody who wants the credit gets it. They can have our part. We're ashamed and a little ill.

One local farmer who shares our view tried to brush the fuzz off his thinking. See what you think about it. If the government should give financial protection to 50,000 or 500,000 who have met with "disaster," why should it not give the protection to one? There are degrees of disaster. A drought can be disastrous to millions. A broken doll is a disaster to a child.

We know a number of farmers who declared themselves victims of disaster—bought government provided feed at reduced prices, and then did not use the feed as it was intended or directed. Some of it they sold at a profit. We don't know the percentage of such finagling among those who signed up for the disaster feed, but we're told and can imagine it is high. These people, some of whom enjoy the reputation of being leading citizens, explain their action in this manner:

"I'm helping pay for it . . . others are getting it, why not me?" Our friend who frowned on the practice correctly labeled that as more fuzzy thinking. Then he asked: where do you stop it? Where will it lead? and he answered it—you don't stop it, and it isn't leading to socialism. We're already there.

The most frightening aspect of the situation is that most of the people seem to want it that way. They take all the government subsidy they can get, and ask for more. They elect public officials who promise and deliver the most to them personally or to their communities.

And we mouth platitudes about wanted free enterprise and other freedoms. We kid ourselves into thinking we belong to a free economy. We don't.

Fair Enough

True Republican Party Has Lost Control Of Congress

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON — I don't know any more about the impending election than any other American who reads the papers, listens to the radio-television propagandists and talks politics with his family and his neighbors. However, I know as much as the next man and that includes President Eisenhower and all the other nabobs and the tinhorns of the parties. So, the ensuing comments are my own opinions, distilled from informal information available to practically everyone and from the opinions of others.

The Republican Party, as such, and such as it is, is about to lose control of Congress. I am a constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican. Therein I differ from Eisenhower and his cult and find myself likening Eisenhower to Wendell Wilkie. I regard him as a plant in my party and I am sore at him and his kind because he has finally come out against Joe McCarthy although he did it only in an oblique rather than a forthright way. He sent some sort of greeting to Egbert Murrow, the anti-McCarthy propagandist, when Egbert was accepting a meaningless parchment amid a gaseous blurt of platitudes at the Wilkie shrine in New York at the hands of a bunch of New Deal Democrats whom a truly constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican would not be found dead in the same holocaust with. However, I am glad he did it. Now we can be enemies.

I remember that Wilkie was an old socialist, then a Democrat and then a successful imposter in my party. After all that he took the whiffers off and became a sycophant for F. D. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins here and in Russia. Any president who would salute any person receiving any recognition, however tawdry and synthetic, in Freedom House at the hands of those who sponsored this mockery on freedom, thereby forfeits his standing as a Republican in the only legitimate meaning of that term. This was, on Ike's part, a declaration of hostility against not only McCarthy but all Republicans who believe they have a right to know who is shielding the man who promoted that Communism and gave him an honorable discharge. Ike has to take the responsibility for all the bad inferences that flow from his commiseration of Egbert for Egbert's abuse of Joe for his campaign against treason and traitors. What a terrible decision that was by a president pretending to be a Republican!

I would rather lose congress to Democrats who accept every evil implication of the label than win it for a Republican Party which has been corrupted by fabian socialism and an implied acknowledgment that we, the people of the United States, have to subsidize millions of worthless, half-civilized parasites who don't care whether they live under Communism or fascism just so they can eat and drink and breed without working. To these masses, usually described as "teeming," I would add the cynical, selfish French. They can go Communist and be damned as far as I am concerned and the unfortunate British, too, who had decent principles until their aristocracy got killed off and/or degraded and they succumbed to belly-worship and other phases of materialism.

The miscalculated Republican Party will lose Congress for other reasons, too. The most important reason of all is not emotional, but political in the most practical sense. Politics is the science of government and Eisenhower's miscalculated Republican Party accepted as its concept of government the Roosevelt monstrosity which absolutely repudiated the job of maintaining our economy and commerce by peaceful pursuits the day that Roosevelt made his quarantine speech at dedication of a bridge in Chicago. That day we plummeted for war "economy" and war industries. We have never since been able to support our industry, commerce and economy without a war program.

Not only the sordid demagogues of the union rackets who hold back their sons for safe jobs in the bureaucracy, but great captains of industry, people whose sons and grandsons will be charred in the sacrificial fires of wars, are obsessed with a pagan conviction that we can't go back to peace. Chambers of Commerce fight for war "projects." Newspapers which give miles of columns to rubbish about Eleanor Roosevelt's devotion to brotherhood would carry on like crazy if rival cities were to swipe their war industries. Without government expenditures for war, Tucson, Ariz., would be an angry, frightened turmoil of unemployed, busted, destitute people.

When Eisenhower called the Korean War on account of darkness, our war business slackened and we began to get unemployment. Our automobile business got ahead of itself. Many of our farmers are farming just for government bounties for products to be stored until they spoil or until we send them as sops to the unwashed or feed them to brutes at sinful prices for animal provender.

Some constitutional, pro-American Republicans think vaguely of a political revolution and a new party composed of anti-Eisenhower Republicans and conservative Democrats of both the South and the North. These two elements would be a large aggregation if they could be aggregated. However, nobody really believes they can be, although many persons hope so. There are at least as many conservative Democrats as conservative Republicans but they have no means of communing or communicating. Dave Lawrence thinks, perhaps because he is a Democrat, that the conservative northern Republicans would be well advised to join conservative southern and northern Democrats who are touchy about the Republican label. He may be right but that still leaves the problem of introducing these strangers and starting a "movement."

Many of our most "intellectual" friends — those who are most certain to be publicly censured — insist that their opposition to him is purely "moral" and "aesthetic" — and that what they simply cannot "stomach" about him are his "gross exaggeration," his "unfair attacks" upon both persons and the Democratic Party, and his arrogant placing of himself "above the law."

ARE YOU BOTHERED with thin legs — wondering what to do to make them look more attractive? One suggestion I heard recently was to "fool your public" by wearing light-toned seamless stockings. For the teenagers, fairly high socks in a thick weight give legs a rounder appearance.

ANOTHER THING you can do regular exercise. Bicycling, bowling, skating, swimming, or any sport that involves the legs will help build up muscle structure.

NEW YORK — "Does a woman's beauty give her sex appeal?" Not necessarily, declares the stag-line whose opinions on feminine charms were summarized by writer Harvey Bullock for "1000 Hints On Beauty" which has just appeared on local newstands.

"A beautiful woman is nice to look at," these men agreed, "but so is a stuffed swordfish. A man can easily be lured from both by a soft voice, warm eyes, attractive gestures of the hands and rapid attention."

"Rapt attention" is particularly attractive, for Bullock goes on to say that the greatest attribute of feminine charm is a woman's genuine interest in a man. Friendliness, warmth, lack of affectation — all rate way ahead of flawless beauty and perfection of feature.

I RECENTLY received an article that suggests you start your young daughter an early start toward femininity. It was quite revealing to me as I have previously thought home permanents were not good for too young children. But I

NEW YORK — UP — Now a woman can wear her hair to match her mink coat.

The latest in hair colorings are copies of the mutation shades of the little animal whose fur is a precious wardrobe item. Designer L'Y Dache, who's also branched out into cosmetics, featured 18 shades which can be used either for permanent or temporary coloring. The shades range from subtle "moon blonde" to a bolder midnight blue. "It takes generations to give a mink a new look," said this designer. "But why should a woman wait on evolution?"

Californians have the knack of adapting foreign flavorings for dishes Americans enjoy. Even so inexpensive a cut of meat as flank steak takes on special taste appeal when they use subtle seasonings.

Emily Chase Leister of San Francisco has given us her own recipe. It uses California wine, but water can be substituted for the wine if desired.

Flank Steak Italian

(Serves 5 or 6)
One flank steak (1 1/2 to 2 pounds), 3 cups grated soft bread crumbs, 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1/2 cup minced parsley, 1 clove garlic, minced, or dash of garlic powder, 4 tablespoons olive oil, salt and pepper to taste, flour, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings or other fat, 28-ounce cans tomato sauce, 1/2 cup Burgundy wine, or 1/2 cup water.

Have meat dealer score flank steak. Mix bread crumbs, cheese, parsley, garlic, olive oil, salt and pepper; spread mixture evenly over steak. Roll steak as you would a jelly roll (from one wide side to the other), tucking in ends as you roll. Fasten with skewers or string. Roll in flour. Heat bacon drippings in a large, heavy skillet or a roasting pan; brown steak nicely on all sides. Add tomato sauce, wine or water, and salt and pepper to taste.

Cover and simmer gently for about 1 1/2 hours, or until meat is very tender, turning and basting steak frequently. Remove skewers or string and place steak on heated platter. Pour a little gravy over the steak and serve remainder separately.

BABY
A smart mother had little space in the area allotted for the nursery. She by-passed the bathinette for an enameled tub. She bought one of those small, unpainted desks. The drawers hold clothes. She painted it and covered the top with a waterproof quilted plastic. She washed Baby there and dressed him there, while she was able to sit on the chair that came with it. When he grew up she peeled off the plastic, repainted it and let him use it for his desk.

A baby-sitting exchange or informal exchanging is the way many young couples get evenings out without paying the baby-sitter toll. With young babies who sleep through the night, many parents only require checking in every hour or so. But all of this, if it can be managed, doesn't mean that childless couples are delighted to cope with Junior nightly while you go to the movies. Be sure your request is welcome or that you have something to exchange for it, like leaf raking for a retired couple next door. Rather one go out at a time than impose consistently on long-suffering friend.

RUTH MILLET

Often these days you hear and read about teen-agers from "good homes" getting into serious trouble.

Don't let it scare you. If you are providing a really good home for your children, not just a home that looks good to outsiders, you needn't be afraid that your own children will get into serious trouble.

A home can look good from the outside and still it can be a home where there is little regard for truth or honesty in small things. In such homes a mother may encourage her children not to tell their father the truth about things that would "just upset him." Or a father may brag about getting the best end of a business deal by some essentially dishonest procedure.

A home may look good because it is in so-called good neighborhood and the parents are so-called social leaders, but in many such homes children get the idea that "things" are all important.

A home may seem like a good home because the parents are active in civic affairs, whereas the time the parents spend AWAY from home might be far better spent at home. Just because a woman is active in civic affairs doesn't mean her own children are getting the love and understanding and companionship they need.

A home may seem like a good home because children are given everything they want and demand. But the parents who encourage their children to think they must have everything "everyone" has may also be encouraging them to think that right and wrong are merely a matter of what "everybody" is doing.

Twentieth Century Culture Has Talks On Electric Units

The program presented at the recent meeting of the Twentieth Century Culture Club in the home of Mrs. V. L. Hobbs, 1021 Christine, was on "Electrical Pioneering" and "Modern Electrical Appliances."

First presentation was given by Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer on the life of Thomas Edison. Sometimes called "The Wizard of Invention," his childhood was a succession of experiments. Mrs. Shelhamer pointed out. One secret of his success was his unlimited patience, his powerful imagination, his self-optimism, and his complete self-confidence. Among the things named that Edison invented was the incandescent light bulb, the motion picture, the phonograph and the microphone.

Mrs. Frank Fata spoke on appliances. She explained the use of a roaster, automatic egg cooker, deep fry, automatic frying pan, all of which were on display. Mrs. Hobbs then demonstrated the use of a portable dishwasher. Mrs. Fata also told of the newer points of refrigerators, stoves and disposal units.

Program On Safety Given Club Leaders

Leaders of the County Home Demonstration clubs and of the County 4-H Clubs were given a one-day safety by C. L. McNeil, safety officer of the Amarillo district Dept. of Public Safety.

Officer McNeil's territory covers 26 counties in which he gives group training. Those taking the course then present it to their various organizations. McNeil stated that he believes he reaches more people through this system. Purpose of the course is to lessen accidents.

During his presentation, McNeil stated that driver education needs more public support. He pointed out that such minor actions as driving with an elbow on the door resulted last year in 1800 persons losing their left arms.

Two films were also shown — one on how to drive in a busy city and one that showed the results of minor traffic violations. McNeil gave the women pamphlets to distribute to their club members. He also advised them that he was available to meet with different groups to train them to train others.

Coomer-Scott Vows Exchanged

In a simple ceremony, Miss Donna Coomer, daughter of Mrs. J. B. Coomer, 940 S. Dwight, became the bride of Max Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Scott, 403 Perry, recently in Hobart Street Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was read by Rev. W. F. Vanderburg.

The bride wore a street-length dress of blue faille and a corsage of blue and white carnations. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of blue carnations.

Miss Beverly Coomer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a blue dress with white and black accessories. Her corsage was of blue and white carnations.

The bridegroom's brother served as best man.

Attending the wedding were relatives and close friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will make their home in Pampa.

Daily Hand Pampering Brings Smooth Hands

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Not many girls are blessed with beautiful hands. Delicately-shaped hands with slender, tapering fingers are assets any girl would be proud to own.

Regardless of their shape, your hands should be satin-smooth. And it seems peculiar that some girls who wouldn't think of letting a day pass without creaming their face to prevent wrinkles neglect their hands.

Hands are particularly subject to damaging elements and are, therefore, loud tellers of age.

For career girls, it's sometimes just a matter of remembering to apply hand lotion during the day. The secretary, with typewriter, ribbons to change and carbons to handle, finds it necessary to wash her hands several times a day. To remove ink stains from her hands, she has to use a rather strong, "office" soap.

Her hands need a rich, emollient-type hand lotion, one that is easy to apply and will penetrate the skin quickly so that daily hand-care time is simply a matter of minutes.

One firm is offering such a hand lotion. They've assembled a trio of small lotion bottles. The bottles come in three different units — cream, pink and blue. You can assign one bottle to a section where you'll be reminded to use it. Place one in the bathroom, and one on your dressing table and one in your desk drawer.

This hand lotion has a double-

Realizing that hand care is an everyday affair, this career girl uses a rich hand lotion that keeps handy in her desk.

action effect. While you apply it to soften and smooth your hands, you'll notice it has a refreshing, floral scent.

Remember, a few minutes of pampering each day will reap rewards in soft, young-looking hands you can display with poise and confidence.

Hobart Church Circle Elects New Officers

Mrs. James Clay, 1211 S. Hobart, was hostess recently to the Nina Hankins Circle of Hobart Street Baptist Church.

Officers elected for the new year were Mrs. W. D. Pate, chairman; Mrs. Gene Quarles, co-chairman; Mrs. Clay, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Alton Winborne, Missionary study; Mrs. Joe Murphree, prayer pal chairman; Mrs. W. F. Vanderburg, Bible study; Mrs. Preston Wallace, social chairman; Mrs. Mildred Stevens, stewardship and missions; Mrs. Bill Wright, program chairman; and Mrs. J. B. Rose, reporter.

Next meeting will be in the church, with Rev. W. F. Vanderburg in charge of the Bible study. Those attending were Mrs. W. D. Pate, Preston Wallace, Gene Quarles, Madge Keyser, J. B. Rose, Jimmy Clay and H. H. Keyser.

High Court Refuses Review Of Interstate Gas Decision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 — UP — The Supreme Court today refused to reconsider its June 7 decision bringing under federal regulation some 4,100 natural gas producers who sell to interstate pipelines. Pursuant to the court's ruling the Federal Power Commission has already issued regulations governing the operations of the companies affected. They must file their rate schedules with the commission by Dec. 1. Meantime the FPC froze producer prices as of June 7. After many companies protested the new regulations the commission held hearings last month but has not yet announced any changes. The high court received three requests that the June 7 ruling be re-examined. The first was filed by Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., whose case provided the original test of the issue; a second came from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, which have been fighting federal regulation along with Phillips on grounds that it interferes with state conservation measures; and a third, from three producer associations and three attorneys representing producers. The petitions said the court had failed to evaluate correctly the legislative history of federal gas regulation and had erroneously made subject to FPC jurisdiction every independent producer who disposes of his gas at the well-head. The association said many producers will henceforth refrain from making new sales, thus cutting off a substantial volume of gas for consumers' use.

Court Votes Down Parsons Case Review

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 — UP — The U. S. Supreme Court refused Thursday to review the case of Mrs. Mary Jean Parsons, who murdered her Army lieutenant husband at El Paso in February, 1952.

Mrs. Parsons was sentenced to 10 years in prison for the murder, but has been free on bond since her conviction, as she was before the trial at Wichita Falls in 1953. The conviction previously had been upheld by the Texas Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Parsons, 23 and the daughter of the socially prominent Burton Fleegers of Tulsa, was a divorcee and a student at the University of Oklahoma when she met 1st Lt. Richard O. Parsons of Pleasantville, N. Y., late in 1951. They were married Jan. 2 in one of Tulsa's largest weddings, and went almost immediately to El Paso when Parsons was transferred from Fort Sill, Okla., to Fort Bliss.

Mrs. Parsons shot her husband as he lay sleeping Feb. 16. She said she had learned he was telling friends she was "immoral, illegal and fattening."

Admitting the killing, she pleaded insanity but was found sane by a jury at El Paso. Because of the publicity the case had been given, the trial was moved to Wichita Falls where Mrs. Parsons pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, but she again was found sane and convicted on Feb. 11, 1953.

Mrs. Parsons was free on bond before her trial and it was brought out that she spent much of that year in a private mental hospital at Dallas, but also went to Hawaii with her family.

Actor Signs Juicy Contract

LONDON, Oct. 15 — UP — British film producer Herbert Wilcox said Thursday he has signed Errol Flynn for a "fabulous amount" to star in six pictures which will cost a total of $7 million in the next three years.

It was believed Flynn's earnings under the contract will be the highest ever paid an individual star by a British producer. "I can't give you a figure," Wilcox said, "but I can say it is a fabulous amount."

Reds Trial To Last 9 Months

DENVER, Oct. 15 — UP — The federal trial of seven Communists accused of plotting to forcibly overthrow the government, which begins here Jan. 17, is expected to last nine months or more.

Federal Judge Jean Breitenstein announced the trial date Thursday, and began action to appoint lawyers to defend the seven Reds. He said their plea to the federal indictments charging that they conspired to destroy the government will be heard Oct. 27.

Three of the Communists, who were arrested in Colorado and California several weeks ago, are free in $5,000 bond each — Mrs. Patricia Blau of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scherer of Pueblo, Colo. The others, Arthur and Anna Bary and Lewis Johnson and Harold Sepelin have higher bonds, and are still in the Denver county jail.

Sure Way To Tell When You're Aging

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
PARIS, Oct. 15 — UP — When a man falls asleep at a girly show, it must be a sign of approaching old age.

But snort and snore I did at the Casino de Paris where they presented "Gay Paris," which was billed as "une revue du terrere!" meaning a thunderous revue.

We had just spent eight hours in a midget car coming here from Cognac and all I wanted was to find a pillow on which to put my fat head. But I had to go along with the crowd.

The revue may have been thunderous, for all I know. I'll have to accept the word of my colleagues. All I can report is second-hand.

All Second Hand

The alert members of our group filled me in later.

There were, they reported, ladies cavorting in the altogether, in native costume, you might say. Girls I didn't get a chance to meet or even ogle. Like Monica Ford, Marceline Mayer, the sexy beauties, the Mansfield girls, and the boy team known as Les Boys du Casino, fully clothed.

Actually, the show was supposed to take you back through history. I am told that there was a wonderful sequence, with lovely girls, appearing in raw-hide a few moments before, coming out in hopped skirts, half a dozen petticoats and flowing gowns.

"It was," my informant told me, "a beautiful sight, even though they were fully clothed. The girls, with men attendants, danced a waltz. Behind them was a huge mirror, which showed them doubled. The audience saw the live show from off the stage, plus the reflection which came through a transparent curtain. It was wonderful!"

The show wasn't all girly, the fellows told me the next morning. There was some fine singing. Some good baritones, sopranos not to mention contraltos and altos and others of the singing set. There were acrobats.

He'll Never Know
Then there were "Les Belles of Paris." They put on an act that everybody said that I shouldn't have missed. It must have been terrific because my fellow travelers are still keeping me guessing. There is no sense of running this thing any longer.

At uncounted francs which ran into about $8.00 a seat I guess I missed something.

The nap was what I needed, but if I had had any good sense I would have put it off a few hours, and had sat up wide-eyed, but I didn't.

What really griped me was the fact that I missed Simone Claris. The boys said she was terrific. Well, anyhow, I am going back home with a program.

Gifts Pour In On Ike

DENVER, Oct. 15 — UP — President Eisenhower's 64th birthday gifts included books, portraits, cakes, two beef cattle and $228 collected by kids in the neighborhood of his Denver residence to help elect a Republican Congress.

Acting White House Secretary Murray Snyder said the children did "a considerable amount of canvassing to raise the $226. They came to the house of Mrs. John S. Doud, the President's mother-in-law, "in groups and individually" to present their collections and a host of hand-made birthday cards.

Snyder said the money was raised for the President to turn over to Mrs. Ellen Harris of Denver, Republican candidate for Congress.

A two-year-old black Angus heifer and a white face Herford were among the White House birthday gifts, for Mr. Eisenhower's farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The President, Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Doud and 14 other guests marked the chief executive's birthday at a quiet, homey dinner in the Brown Palace Hotel Thursday night, Mamie's birthday gift was a secret.

Mr. Eisenhower's favorite dish, charcoal broiled sirloin, was the main course at the birthday dinner in the hotel's presidential suite. His small white cake was decorated with a single candle.

International Balance Sheet: Good And Bad

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Good News

1. The French national assembly gave Premier Pierre Mendes-France an overwhelming vote of confidence—350 to 113 on his action in signing the London agreement to rearm West Germany and make it a sovereign nation. Mendes-France is now free to negotiate the final details of the agreement. His confidence vote was so big that the hope for final French ratification of the London pact was regarded as greatly increased.

2. The United States seemed to have cleared up the dangerous situation that exists off the Communist-held China mainland where the Nationalists and Reds have been skirmishing. The State Department's Asian trouble-shooter, Assistant Secretary Walter S. Robertson, appeared to have won an agreement from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that his Nationalists will not provoke a flare-up which might involve the United States in a major clash with the Communists.

3. There was other good news for the free world on several diplomatic fronts. In the United Nations, the Western Allies, on the initiative of Canada, moved to get a special five-nation committee working in secret on a world disarmament treaty. Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan arrived in Washington to visit President Eisenhower and talk over mutual defense against Communist aggression. The co-operation between the United States and Spain was emphasized when Generalissimo Francisco Franco visited a United States aircraft carrier at Valencia, Spain.

Bad News

1. A mushrooming series of strikes plagued Prime Minister Winston Churchill and threatened to hurt Britain's rapid economic recovery. The strikes, which have crippled London's shipping and bus service, are the largest since the general strike of 1926. They have an ugly political undertone—there is open warfare among the rank and file of some key labor unions against their right-wing leaders.

2. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India is steadily shifting his foreign policy toward co-operation with Communist China and away from co-operation with the Western democracies. Nehru goes to Peking this weekend to pay a "friendly" visit to Chinese Communist Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai. It was announced Thursday in New Delhi, the Indian capital, that India and Red China have signed a trade treaty. Under it, India will ship some strategic materials to the Reds.

3. The United States was involved in a new dispute with President Syngman Rhee of South Korea, whose country it saved and is now supporting militarily and economically. The new dispute concerns the rate of exchange of the United States forces in Korea must pay to convert their dollars into Korean currency. Rhee wants them to pay one dollar for 180 Korean won. The Americans hold that a rate of up to 600 Hwan for a dollar would be fair, but are willing to settle for a 154-to-1 rate. Rhee refuses.

Farmers Face Income Loss

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 — UP — Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said Thursday Texas cotton farmers' income would be cut 15 per cent next year because of lower acreage allotments.

U. S. Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson announced Thursday cotton growing would be limited to 18,113,208 acres next year, with a marketing quota of 10 million bales, if farmers agree in a Dec. 15 election they want higher price support and controls.

White said an increased Oct. 1 estimate of 1954 production by the USDA was responsible for the acreage cut back. He doubted if the estimate was accurate and said it "pushed the prospective carryover to where he (Benson) had to set a minimum figure."

The Texan said he didn't see how the Texas crop could have been estimated to be 200,000 bales larger on Oct. 1 than it was on Sept. 1, because September was a month of drought.

"I had hoped that the decision could be delayed until after the Nov. 1 estimate was made," White said. "I had been hoping there was some way the secretary could avoid making the decision until then."

"I don't know whether it could have been delayed," he said, "but you can do a lot of things if you want to."

White said Benson's action did not mean "Congress can't change this thing, and I have a definite feeling that it will come up for discussion."

Harvesters In First District 1-AAAA Home Tilt Tonight

Bobcats Favored Over Harvester 11 Tonight

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor
 Another offensive battle may be unfurled tonight when the Pampa Harvesters go against the San Angelo Bobcats in a District 1-AAAA contest at Harvester Stadium.

Both the Bobcats and Harvesters have explosive offenses. Last week 1-4A opener brought out this fact. San Angelo bowed to Midland, 26-21, and the Harvesters dropped a 23-28 decision to the Amarillo Sandias.

The Bobcats, who run from about four formations, have one of the finest passing attacks in the district and in Pat Adams and Marvin Lasater, the Cats have a dangerous running game.

And the Harvesters have one of the finest runners in the state in Harold Lewis who ranks third in rushing.

But the Harvester running game will be hurt tonight as result of the injury of Bill Fulewider in last week's game at Amarillo.

Fulewider suffered a broken foot in the Sandie tilt and isn't expected to return to action this season. Fulewider was the second leading Harvester ground gainer at the time of his injury. He was also a valuable hand on defense and he had handled all of the Harvester punting duties this season.

Lewis 3rd In State In Ball Carrying

FORT WORTH, Oct. 15 — Arlington Heights' Nick George retained first place as the state's top rusher with a 6.7 average compiled from 509 yard on 77 carries. But he was just a step ahead of his teammate, Sonny Searcy, who has 481 yards on 67 carries.

Pampa's Harold Lewis vaulted into third place from sixth with 39 carries for 466 yards.

Hunter Ellis of Fort Worth Poly continued to lead the passers for the fourth straight week. However, Odessa's Ed Tyler, who wasn't among the top 10 aerialists last week, took third place as he hit on 13 of 26 passes for 199 yards last week against Lubbock.

San Antonio Brack's Jerry Tompkins kept third with 390 yards on 26 completions. He also has the most touchdown passes, six. Tyler's record is 27 for 61 and 356 yards.

Two other leaders, Forest's Cliff Wyatt and South Oak Cliff's Morris Rose, stayed on top in passing receiving and punting. Wyatt increased his margin over Poly's Joe Selman last week. He now has 12 catches for 281 yards. Selman has 20 receptions for 309 yards.

Rose's punting average dropped to 40.1. A close second is Houston Austin's Vance Matthews, who has a 39.2 mark.

Midland dropped from its lofty 400-yard offensive mark to 360.5 but that was enough to stay on top. Baytown replaced Dallas Fort Worth as the top defensive team with a 123-yard average per game.

LEFORS HIGH SCHOOL IS IN A predicament today. The school's football team, the Pirates, are without a game for tomorrow's annual Homecoming at LHS.

The Pirates were originally scheduled to meet Gruver in a District 1-A game tomorrow afternoon.

With the Gruver win already in the bag, their record now reads 5-0.

CURTIS BARRETT, LAST week's referee for the Harvester-Amarillo game, was scheduled to be the referee for tonight's game with San Angelo.

But it was decided by the PHS school officials that it would probably be the best for all concerned that another ref be hired for the game and Barrett was paid off.

HOPE YOU PAMPA SPORTS fans will rally behind the "Attend Church" movement now in progress here.

The month of October has been designated "See You In Church" for the Top of Texas.

Beauty Shoppers Feature Bowling

LaBonita Beauty Shop led the way in the Lone Star Women's Bowling League last night by making a clean series sweep over Carbon. It was the lone sweep of the night.

In other games, B&B Pharmacy won over Shamrock Service Station, 3-1; Cabot Engineers defeated Malons's, 3-1; and Jax bested C. A. Husted, 3-1.

Individual and team scoring honors were divided, Mary Crocker of Cabot Engineers had the high game, 181, while Elaine Riddle of Shamrock rolled the high series, 468.

In team scoring, La Bonita had the high game, 697, with B&B turning the high series, 2008.

At this writing Pampa High School is coming to the Pirates' rescue.

The Harvester reserves are tentatively scheduled to fill the bill at tomorrow's Homecoming. It has to be on a tentative basis since it isn't known now how many Harvesters will get into tonight's fracas with San Angelo.

There's a TIL ruling that no boy be allowed to play in two games on consecutive days.

But, in all likelihood there will be a game at Lefors tomorrow.

Archie Roberts, Lefors High School principal, told the Pampa News this morning that in the event the Harvesters didn't have enough reserves left over after tonight's game that the rest of the team would be filled in with the B team Shockers who didn't get into last night's game.

So, guess there'll be a football game tomorrow at the Lefors Homecoming.

The kickoff time has been set for 2 p. m.

As for the Gruver game, it will go down as a forfeit game. The Pirates are unbeaten this year.

Shockers, Reapers Lose; Pee Wees Remain Unbeaten

Pampa salvaged one game out of the "triple header" yesterday on the Harvester Stadium turf.

The Junior High Pee Wee kept their unbeaten, untied and unscored record intact with a 19-0 victory over the Borger Pee Wees.

But, in the other two games, the Pampa Reapers and Shockers had rough going.

The Reapers lost to a classy Phillips Junior High team by a 37-7 count and in the nightcap of the three game program, the Shockers lost a 29-18 decision to the Amarillo Yannigans.

Bobby Smith and DeWayne Glover were the scoring leaders for the Pee Wees, Smith scoring twice and Glover once.

The Pee Wees took a 13-0 half-time lead and stretched it to 19-0 in the second half.

So invincible was the Pee Wee defense that the Borger team wasn't able to register a first down.

The Pee Wees' big brothers, Shockers and Reapers, were treated rather harshly by their visitors.

The Shockers took the lead over the Yannigans when Gary Green scampered over 13 yards out to open the night's scoring.

But the Yans came roaring back to score once before the quarter ended to take a 7-6 lead and then stretch it to 27-6 at halftime.

The Shockers matched the Yans in points the final quarter but the damage had been done in the first half.

DeWayne Lovvinggood accounted for the second Shockers touchdown in the last half with a 16-yard scamper and Jesse Ring crossed on a four-yard run.

Although he didn't get into the scoring act, Richie Gardner stood out for the Shockers in the ball carrying department.

In the Junior High Reaper game, Coach Deck Wold's charges mixed it up on even terms through the first quarter but the Little Blackhaws caught fire in the second quarter and raced to an easy win.

The Reapers, trailing 7-0, got a drive going in the first period that reached the Phillips 20 but a fumble stopped the march. After that the locals couldn't get going until late in the game when they marched 80 yards to score their only touchdown.

Quarterback Gary Wilhelm climaxed the drive by plowing over from the Phillips 2. Robert Langford added the extra point on a line plunge.

Next week, the Shockers host Dumas, the Reapers go to Borger and the Pee Wees will travel to Dumas.

Cubs Thump Aggie Slime

WACO, Tex., Oct. 15 — UP — The Baylor Cubs had a better line and beat the Texas A&M Fish 28 to 14 Thursday night.

Five linemen shared the honors for stopping the Fish's vaunted backs and opening big holes in the Aggie line. They were tackles Fred Britton, Bob Primors and Gus Hicks, and guards Gilbert Pelton and Charley Bennett.

The Baylor freshmen took a 13 to 0 lead in the first quarter when Larry Cowart and Charley Bennett recovered fumbles. But Kenneth Hall and Freddie Maples scored in the second quarter for the Fish, and the Aggies made both conversions to go ahead 14 to 13.

The Cubs went ahead with one second to go in the second quarter when they scored on a seven-yard pass play from Kenneth Helms to Bill Anderson.

Bobby Peters and Weldon Hicks scored in the third period for the Cubs and the Baylor freshmen were never in danger after that.

BOBBY JOE WALKER — Senior Bobcat quarterback. Gives promise of being one of top passers in district. Two-year letterman, 6 feet-tall, 165 pounder. Walker is expected to fill the air with footballs tonight.

Byron 8-Under In Texas PGA

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 15—UP—Byron Nelson, the old master golfer from Rossmore, had a blazing, eight-under-par 62 on his card Friday, good for a four-stroke lead in the Texas PGA tournament.

The second round of the 72-hole tournament was being played Friday in much cooler and windier weather than that which prevailed Thursday, when par took a beating.

Four strokes back of Nelson at the beginning of the second round was Jack Harden of El Paso, with a 66. Tied for third place with 67s were Pat Grosskopf, Corpus Christi amateur; Ernie Vossler, Fort Worth, the Texas amateur title; and young Shelly Mayfield of Seguin, and Raymond Gafford, Fort Worth, the 1949 state PGA champion.

Mack Still Trying To Keep Athletics In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15—UP—Roy Mack, fighting the bitter end, was in contact with big money men Friday in an effort to raise $1.5 million and prevent shift of the Philadelphia Athletics franchise to Kansas City.

The 65-year-old Athletics' executive vice president worked against a deadline of next Monday in his desperate bid to save the A's, an institution here for 54 years. American League President Will Harridge said Mack had been given until then for "his final decision on selling his stock" to Arnold Johnson, Chicago realtor.

The financially-fixed men with whom Mack was huddling were not disclosed but a Philadelphia syndicate was said to be in on the negotiations.

C. Leo De Orsey, Washington tax lawyer, said he had been in touch with Mack about "unfinished business between Roy and me about keeping the club in Philadelphia." De Orsey and Joseph Tucci, a retired plumbing contractor, had offered $2,865,000 for the club. Charles O. Finley, Chicago insurance broker, also was on the scene for talks with Mack.

As Mack sought to raise at least $1.5 million for working capital and to buy out the stock of his brother, Earle, and his father, Connie, conflicting statements flew among club owners so thick and fast it is not quite clear what happened at the league meeting in Chicago last Tuesday.

Roy Mack said he had not sold his stock and that when he left the session he told the owners, "I am in a closely-knit family and I want to talk it over with them."

Harridge cited minutes of the meeting to authorize sale of the Philadelphia club stock to Johnson and also requested approval for transfer of the franchise to Kansas City.

Harridge, at the same time, declined to comment on statements by Tommy Richardson, president of the Eastern League and for a time in the running to buy the A's. Richardson, a member of the Athletics board of directors, said the league "high-pressed" Roy into an agreement.

Critical of Harridge Calvin Griffith, executive vice president of the Washington Senators, and Walter O. (Spike) Briggs, vice president of the Detroit Tigers, criticized Harridge's original announcement that the votes to shift the franchise and approve the new owner were a unanimous 7-0.

After a look at the minutes, Harridge said the vote was 6-0, with Philadelphia and Detroit absent. Griffith said both Washington and Boston stipulated their preference would be to keep the A's in Philadelphia for another year, to move the franchise to Los Angeles or move it to Kansas City. In that order.

Accident Kills Oregon Star SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Oct. 15—UP—Louis Kenneth Switzer, 22-year-old Pasadena, Calif., student who starred on the University of Oregon football team last year, was shot and killed in a hunting accident Thursday, about 19 miles east of here. Switzer was accidentally shot by Jack Arlen Patera, an outstanding player on this year's Oregon squad.

Phils Hire Unknown As 1955 Manager

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15—UP—Philadelphia baseball fans, their familiar world crumbling around them, were presented with "unknown" Manager Mayo Smith, by the Phils Friday in a move that caught the experts flat-footed.

Terry Moore's successor at the Phils' helm, a slim and soft-spoken ex-Athletics outfielder, caught off base the writers and fans who were braced for the hiring of a big name pilot.

But actually, the naming of the ex-manager of the Birmingham Barons in the Southern Association to a one-year pact followed a practice that rapidly is becoming a tradition with owner-President Bob Carpenter—raising the empire of the New York Yankees.

The new manager, who led the Barons to a fourth-place finish in 1953, then brought them home in third place last season, was the third Phillies pilot who has worn Yankee baseball livery.

Hired by another ex-Yank. General Manager J. Roy Hame, Smith immediately announced that much rumored Philadelphia trading this year will be the concern of the front office and not his.

As Smith followed Carpenter into the press conference, flanked by Hame, a murmur of "who's he?" went up from the writers.

The echo was heard all the way out in St. Louis, where ousted Cardinal great Terry Moore asked the same question when told the identity of his successor, and throughout the baseball world.

By J. FRED EDER United Press Outdoor Consultant There is certainly good news this week for the 18 million hunters who will take to the nation's woods and fields, this fall.

Surveys of game conditions conducted by conservation authorities are extremely favorable, according to Charles H. Hopkins, conservation director for the Winchester people.

Results of recent surveys conducted are responsible for the over-all optimistic forecasts for this season's game harvest, particularly on waterfowl, pheasants, deer, and other big game.

Oklahoma Is Losing Workers To Texas

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15-UP—Gov. Johnston Murray said Thursday that Oklahoma is threatened with the loss of one of its industries to Texas because of "an arrogant and unreasonable business agent" of a striking union.

Murray said that Edd C. Foster's "stubborn refusal" to call a secret vote of union members striking against the American Iron and Machine Works in Oklahoma City may result in the industry being moved by its Houston owners to Texas.

Foster is business agent of the AFL Machinists Union.

Thursday M. G. McCool, president of the struck firm here, challenged Foster to hold a secret ballot "if you dare" of the strikers to determine whether they should end their month-long strike.

Gov. Murray said it has been reported to him that Foster "refuses to make any move."

"He seems to be determined to break the spirit of the company and also the spirit of the workers who want to go back to work," Murray said.

Columnist Calls Wilson Candid Man

CHICAGO, Oct. 15-UP—Doris Flesoon, United Features syndicate columnist, says the Republicans are lucky that not all businessmen are as candid about unemployment as Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

She told the 23rd annual national conference of the Comptrollers Institute of America Wednesday that the Eisenhower administration is "more notably a businessman's government than this country has ever had."

"We shall hear a great deal during the home stretch of the campaign about bird dogs versus kennel dogs," she said.

"It will be admitted," she added, "that a good many business men are well satisfied with a labor market in which there is a cushion of unemployment."

"Not all of them, fortunately for the Republicans, are as candid about it" as Wilson, she said.

"Mr. Wilson, a sanguine and cheerful man, thought he was just being practical" when he made his now famous remark about bird and kennel dogs," Miss Flesoon said.

"What his attitude meant in human terms and with an election almost here, apparently did not occur to him," she said.
