McCarthy Pressured To Sit Out Hearing

Feasibility Report Job Is Awarded

An engineering firm from New York City — Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall and McDonald — will do the "feasibility" report for the board of directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

Selection of the firm, which has its southwestern offices in Houston, came near noon Monday in Plainview at a full-dress special meeting of the authority's directors, according to C. A. (Lefty) Huff, authority president.

The northeastern engineering firm will do its work in two separate parts, the president continued. The first part, costing $35,000 — will be a rough draft of the dam and reservoir feasibility.

When it is completed, Huff went on, the authority directors and various investment bankers will be called in to see if the project, near Sanford north and west of Borger, is feasible.

Parsons will have 90 days in which to complete that part of the report. If it is decided that the project is feasible, the concern — for another $13,000 — will go ahead and complete and amplify the report, Huff pointed out.

CRWHA's board of directors will ratify the contract with Parsons at their next meeting, slated for 10 a.m. April 12 in Plainview, the usual meeting place.

Eleven Panhandle-Plains communities — including Pampa — Nov. 24 voted to stay in the water authority. The work being done now is the preliminary to a second vote, one in which the residents of those communities will decide whether to approve the financing of the project.

Before it took the action, though, the school board indicated by its severe questioning of persons involved that it did not approve the manner in which the case of Peter Jaeger and Robert Gilmore was handled.

J. O. Webb, assistant superintendent, Richard Jones, director of personnel, and R. H. Williams, high school principal, the three involved in Jaeger's suspension, denied that they accused him of un-Americanism.

Jaeger was suspended for reading to his class essays by the late D. H. Lawrence and a book by Philip Wylie. Gilmore also had read the Lawrence essays to his class, both claiming they "stimulated thought" and were presented as being more ridiculous than factual.

Jones told the school board he was in the process of investigating Jaeger's New York background and acquaintances while he studied in Mexico at the time the teacher was suspended.

FBI Gives Warning On Midget A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, March 23 — UP — The FBI has urged police officials over the nation to be on the alert for attempts by enemy saboteurs to sneak midget atomic weapons into the country, it was learned Tuesday.

The FBI itself declined to comment but said it was not prompted to do this by any new fear that enemy agents were believed to be active, Huff pointed out.

CRWHA's board of directors will ratify the contract with Parsons at their next meeting, slated for 10 a.m. April 12 in Plainview, the usual meeting place.

Sense Of Fair Play Enters Into Appeal

WASHINGTON, March 23 — UP — Republican leaders applied increasing pressure Tuesday to get Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy to step down from his investigating subcommittee during its hearings on his row with the Army.

Editor Needs Help To Get McCarthy Out

SANK CITY, Wis., March 23 — UP — A country editor Tuesday called for help in his fight to force Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) out of the Senate, and at least one large labor union was joining the fight.

But editor Leroy Gore of the weekly Sank - Prairie Star faced formidable obstacles in his fight to take away McCarthy's Senate seat. He needs more than 400,000 petition signatures asking for a recall election — all of them collected within a 60-day period.

Further, election officials at Madison, Wis., pointed out that there was some question whether anybody except the U.S. Senate itself could remove a sitting member.

Observers also said that, while it would be difficult to force the recall election, it would be easy for several candidates to get on the ballot against McCarthy were the election called. Such a split in anti-McCarthy sentiment would give the senator a better chance of being re-elected.

Today Is Deadline For Filing

Today was the last day for candidates to file for any of the 12 posts on the election block this year in the seven different school boards in Gray County.

Aspirants for the Pampa school board were to file with School Business Manager Roy McMillen. Those for any of the others — Gray County, Lefors, McLean, Hopkins, Alanreed, Grandview — were to file with County Judge J. B. Maguire Jr.

Three new candidates were in the field late this morning. They were Howard Brown, for the Hopkins board; C. O. Gilbert, of Hopkins, for the county board; and Clyde J. Trusty, for the Lefors board.

Only one person has filed for the one open seat this year on the Pampa board, that's Aubrey Steele.

Others who have already filed are Jim McCracken, of Grandview, for the county board; incumbents J. R. Carney and R. F. Fields and Aspirants Fred Haiduk and John Baggerman, for the Grandview board; and Bob Brown and Marvin Tibbets, for the Lefors board.

The device of congressional investigation almost immediately was recognized as a powerful weapon and early presidents sought to dull it.

Inclined to Apply Checks. Cabinets and presidents alike were inclined to resent and to apply checks to congressional inquiries. One, Ebenezer Hazard, a postmaster general of the times, left written comment which might fit into the pattern of the name calling of the pattern.

Indo-China Battle Flares

HANOI, Indo-China, March 23 — UP — Tank-supported "strong elements" of troops killed 175 Communist rebels in a hand-to-hand battle that ended the lull in ground fighting at Dien Bien Phu, the French high command announced Tuesday.

The troops struck out of the besieged fortress amid reports that the rebels were starving and might have to make a final assault within the next 48 hours.

Dien Bien Phu commander Col. Christian de Castries' "little blitz" hit a Viet Minh company dug in along the four-mile road to the southern outpost of the bastion, only outside strongpoint in the area still held by the French.

A high command spokesman said the fighting occurred Monday. A rain of artillery from French batteries in the heart of the fortress supported the sortie.

As the 18-ton U.S.-supplied tanks approached Red positions rebel troops jumped from trenches with high-pitched yells and were cut down almost instantly by machine-gun fire.

Military sources did not disclose whether there had been any French casualties but said the French retreated successfully after the battle.

The Viet Minh units which have crept into the Dien Bien Phu basin and dug a maze of trenches some have approached within a few yards of the fortress center.

unchanging its methods. The personalities of the senators and representatives conducting investigations will determine how they shall go.

Back in 1792, Congress called on War Secretary Henry Knox for all information on General St. Clair's Nov. 4, 1791 defeat by an Indian army on the banks of the Wabash near Fort Wayne. St. Clair already had resigned from the Army although the House investigation finally found him free of fault.

Jefferson noted in his annals that Washington called a cabinet meeting to consider the House request for the information, knowing it would establish a precedent and therefore "should be rightly conducted." Washington told his cabinet there might be some papers too secret to be handed over.

Demos Spurn Compromise On Chavez

WASHINGTON, March 23 — UP — Democrats Tuesday spurned a Republican compromise amendment designed to soften the GOP effort to oust Dennis Chavez as senator from New Mexico.

The Democrats, held out for total Chavez jousting told newsmen the victory — adoption of a resolution declaring that Democrat Chavez legally won re-election over Republican Patrick J. Hurley in the contested 1952 senatorial race. And they appeared to have the vote to turn the trick.

There was a chance the issue would be settled late Tuesday, after two days of debate. Democrats were reported united solidly behind Chavez and counting on picking up support from some Republicans and probably Independent Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.).

Chavez jauntily told newsmen "I'm not worried. I'm ready for a vote, and the sooner the better." Besides solid Democratic backing, Chavez said, he expects "some help from the Republican side."

The long-awaited debate on the New Mexico contest opened Monday. Sen. Frank A. Barrett (R-Wyo.), chairman of a special rules subcommittee which investigated the dispute, said the election was "so permeated with fraud" it was impossible to tell whether Chavez or Hurley actually won.

Barrett and Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), the other Republican subcommittee member, recommended a finding of "no election" which would oust Chavez — but would not seat Hurley. It would, instead, allow the seat to be filled by appointment of Gov. Edwin Mechem, a Republican, until November when a special election would be held to choose a successor.

However, Sen. Guy Cordon (R-Ore.) introduced a surprise amendment that would soften the situation somewhat for Democrats, although they showed no inclination even to consider it. Cordon proposed that, if Chavez is ousted, the Senate accept no replacement who was not elected by the voters of New Mexico.

Cordon noted Mechem won the governorship in the same election where Chavez defeated Hurley for the Senate by about 5,000 votes. Mechem's election was not challenged and would be, at any rate, outside Senate jurisdiction, but Cordon said he thought it would be proper to deny Mechem the privilege of appointing a senator.

Ground has been broken for a new bottling plant for the Coca-Cola Company here, according to Robert D. Mack, manager of the Pampa plant.

Digging of the foundation for the new, modern plant, which will be located on Hobart street just outside of the city limits and south of the J. C. Daniels home, was started Monday.

The 11,700-square-foot building is expected to be completed within the next 90 days, depending upon the availability of building materials, Mack said.

Contractor on the building is J. C. Flowers, Pampa builder, whose crew is ready to go on the actual building when the foundation is completed.

The new structure, which will be of one-story height, will be constructed of tile, the manager asserted, and will be one of the most modern buildings in the Panhandle.

Designer of the building is Ed Fleming, Pampa designer.

The soft drink company official declined to state just how much the cost of construction would be, but said it would be a "considerable amount."

Mack said that when the building is completed and all new machinery is installed, an open house will be held celebrating the opening of the new plant.

Feud Dates Back 162 Years Fundamentals Of McCarthy Row Nearly As Old As U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 23 — UP — The fundamentals of the current feud between the executive and legislative branches in which Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy is the modern star performer are almost as old as the Republic, 162 years to be exact.

It was in 1792 that Congress first undertook formal investigation of an officer under executive department control. It was the House, not the Senate, which set this precedent by ordering an investigation of an Indian campaign conducted by Gen. Arthur St. Clair.

The device of congressional investigation almost immediately was recognized as a powerful weapon and early presidents sought to dull it.

Inclined to Apply Checks. Cabinets and presidents alike were inclined to resent and to apply checks to congressional inquiries. One, Ebenezer Hazard, a postmaster general of the times, left written comment which might fit into the pattern of the name calling of the pattern.

At 10 a.m. today a total of .01 inch of rain had been received here from Monday night's shower and the weatherman indicated that more would be received today and tonight.

Wheat and pasture land of the area would be greatly benefitted by a "good" rain, according to Jim Strawn, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. "We have the best prospects for rain that we have had for a long time," he stated.

The forecast calls for scattered showers, widely scattered thunderstorms, with mostly cloudy weather and no important temperature changes.

Kidnapers Go On Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 — UP — Two men went on trial Tuesday on charges they kidnaped real estate broker Leonard Moskowitz, and inflicted bodily harm on him — charges that could bring a death sentence under California's "little Lindbergh law."

The defendants were Harold Jackson, 51, alleged "mastermind" of the kidnap plot, and Joe Lear, 48. Both were once private investigators.

Moskowitz, 36, was abducted Jan. 19. He told police he was held captive in a rented house until Jackson and Lear were captured on the night of Jan. 15. His abductors demanded $50,000 ransom at first, but later lowered their demand to $20,000.

'Break-Through' In Cancer Cure Now A Medical Reality

By DELOS SMITH United Press Science Writer BOSTON, March 23 — UP — Dr. Sidney Farber's "miracle" cancer patient died a week ago last Saturday. But this is no common-place cancer story as you're going to see.

This patient was a little girl. The cancer began as a seed in the left eyelid. It grew in the wild way of malignant tumors until it was an enormous, ugly mass deeply rooted in the muscles of forehead and skull.

X-rays did nothing. Surgeons cut it away twice and each time it grew back at a faster rate than before. Dr. Farber got her then. He gave her chemical compounds to swallow. Eight weeks later the cancer had disappeared.

So it was a "miracle" — for a time. Within months her spine collapsed. A few grains of the cancer had reached a vertebra and, in growing at away the bone.

Only seven years ago any competent cancer specialist would have considered this story, except for its tragic end, a fantastic dream. But it happened and it is one reason why Dr. Farber told science writers that "the break-through has occurred."

He meant that scientists now have chemicals with which they can interfere with and even stop for a time the wild growth of some kinds of cancers.

Police Chief Warns Drivers

Police Chief Jim Comer today issued a warning to Pampa motorists concerning the practice of parking on sidewalks, too close to intersections and too near fire plugs.

"We are continually receiving calls concerning these types of violations and we intend to put a stop to it," the police chief stated. "These violations occur mostly at night, he said. "Parking on sidewalks or where the curbs are painted yellow is strictly against the law, no matter what time of day or night it is," he added.

Trash Unit Delivery Up To Council

That unopened letter to Mayor Tom Rose from Dempster Brothers, Inc., Knoxville, Tenn., carried only the delivery date of the Dempster Dumpster method of trash disposal which the City of Pampa decided to buy two weeks ago.
Rose passed the letter around at this morning's meeting of the Pampa City Commission, explaining that it simply meant that the unit would be shipped 90 days after the city tells the concern how it wants to pay for it.
There was no formal action taken on the system which costs $25,537.75 and is designed to save — in labor costs alone — some $5,000 to $6,000 a year.
Commissioners decided to have it placed on the agenda for the April 6 commission meeting when it will be discussed in conjunction with the city's 1954 paving program, are Joy Hoffer, Marilyn Russell, and Bill Philpott.

Search On For Airman Over Gulf

HOUSTON, March 23 —UP— Search planes took off at dawn Tuesday to continue a hunt for an airman who was sucked out of a B-29 more than two miles above the Gulf of Mexico.
Coast Guard units and private ships joined Air Force planes from Ellington Air Force Base in the search for S. Sgt. Claude J. Trahan, 28, Burlington, Vt., who disappeared Monday when a bulkhead on the Superfortress gave way and the bomb bay doors swung open. Trahan was wearing a parachute, but he vanished into an undercast and none of the other seven men saw whether the parachute opened.
Air Force officers admitted privately the chances of finding the instructor-gunner alive were small. The bomber, largest used in World War II, was cruising at 12,000 feet when a bulkhead separating the aft pressurized compartment from the bomb bay blew out. The air rushed out so fast it was like an explosion.
"At the time of the explosive decompression, I saw Sergeant Trahan walking toward the forward bulkhead with his chute on his back," S. Sgt. Walter S. Rooney, the right turner, said.
An Air Force spokesman explained none of the crew saw any more, because, at the moment of decompression, the cabin filled with smoke-like vapor from moisture. Normal procedure calls for crewmen to put on oxygen masks, and the spokesman said there were no ill effects to any other members of the crew.
Trahan lived with his wife and a five-year-old son, Gregory, in a trailer at Schertz, Tex., near Randolph AFB.

Ten Cons Flee State Prison Farm

SUGAR LAND, Tex., March 23 —UP— Ten prisoners at the Ramsey Prison Farm No. 1 near here Tuesday defied a guard and fled by three of them were reported recaptured a short time later.
A prison spokesman said the 10 took a pistol and a shotgun from the guard and stripped him of clothing.
When the three were recaptured, the pistol was returned but they still free apparently had the shotgun and the guard's clothing.
The guard, Ira Capps, was apparently not harmed.
A spokesman at prison headquarters in Huntsville said the 10 swarmed over Capps when the guard's horse bucked and threw him while he was guarding a work detail at the prison farm.
After disarming and disarming him, the 10 fled into the heavy underbrush in the area.
Three packs of bloodhounds were quickly called into the chase and three were recaptured a short distance from where they made their break.
Five airplanes, some of them loaded with Harris county officers from nearby Houston began an aerial search.

Cancer

these incurables were cured but...
Four years and nine months ago a child with acute leukemia was brought to his "Jimmy Fund" clinic which is the cancer unit of Harvard's children's medical center. The child, not only alive today but apparently is healthy despite leukemia or "blood cancer." Being an inevitably fatal disease, most probably it will prove so for this child, since his bone marrow shows abnormalities. But that he has lived so long is a dumbfounding miracle.
All this Dr. Farber told science writers touring cancer research laboratories under the auspices of the American Cancer Society. But he was emphatic in warning against "optimism." People and even scientists, he said, are "overly optimistic." The answers to cancer will be found. The date isn't important, he said — what is important is that a "break-through" has been made and "we have the opportunity of being present when the accident occurs" — that is, when the "miracles" are permanent rather than temporary.

Girl 'Exercise Boy' At Bowie Stuns Scribe

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
BOWIE, Md., March 23 —UP— are not running—something like $12 a day. Not counting the stable charge.
The sun was just working up to a glow and the rest of Maryland goes on early. The horses are fed at 4:30 in the morning.
"We give 'em a couple of hours to digest their grub," Eddie said. "Then we gallop 'em, or if we think they are ready to run, we 'breeze' 'em—that is let 'em out. You can tell when they are ready for a race. The coat is fine as silk. They rub down good and they get to know jockey talk. Some riders call 'em 'honey dear' or 'cluck-cluck' in their ear or dig 'em in the ribs.
How are race-horses named? That's kind of a problem. You aren't supposed to name a horse after another horse unless horse no. 1 has gone to horse heaven.
But Eddie recalled one instance of an unusual name, reported recently by my friend, horse-writer Walter Haight. This particular colt fell down with a hunched leg and it was decided to shoot him out of his misery. The owner said he would do the job himself. He aimed a gun at the brute. He fired once. Twice. And nothing happened but a couple of clicks. So he named the bangtail "Click Click."
Sometimes, that's the way it goes.

Herd Rites Are Pending

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Ruth Pearl Herd, 55, 832 E. Campbell, who died about 8:45 p. m. Monday after suffering a heart attack, are pending at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home.
Mrs. Herd suffered the attack while attending a meeting of the Rebekah lodge in Skellytown. She was rushed to Highland General hospital in a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance, but died a few minutes after arrival.
A native of Sioux Falls, S. D., Mrs. Herd was born Jan. 17, 1899. She moved to Pampa in 1926 from Arkansas City, Kan. She was a member of the Lutheran church, the Rebekah lodge and Royal Neighbors.
Survivors include her husband, A. L. Herd, Pampa; two brothers, Olaf and John Blom, both of Sioux Falls, and a sister, Mrs. Mabel Beesler, Sioux Falls.

How Fire Insurance puts the finger ON THE FIRE BUG

"Arson rings" once preyed upon America's big cities. Today, local authorities, aided by arson specialists, are making it too hot for these potential murderers. Incendiarism is now mostly the work of juveniles and mental defectives. This public service saves lives and keeps down the cost of fire insurance.
This is only one of the public services performed by capital stock fire insurance—a private enterprise—of which the insurance agent is an important part. His professional advice is yours for the asking. Phone me about your insurance—for, in these high-cost days, too little insurance protection for your home and belongings can be costly.

New Cars Should Have A Few Dents And Several Scratches

By HENRY McLEMORE
Except for a too-tight pair of shoes I don't know of anything that'll keep a man as uncomfortable as a new car.

I haven't had a moment's peace since I got mine, and I almost wish I had bought a nicely broken in 1923 Essex, or a rakish Templar of the same vintage. Or, say, a Dart, a Marmon, or a Chandler, without too many miles on them. Then I could have relaxed. As it is, with this brand new car, I am in a constant stew, and fret and fume, lest any part of its shining beauty be defaced by even so much as a fingerprint. I have even thought of wearing gloves to keep the steering wheel from getting dirty, and slipping off my shoes when I drive so as to be sure the brake pedal won't get soiled.

When I think of a fender getting scratched or dented, I all but break out in a cold sweat, and I believe I would have to go under a doctor's care if anything happened to the gleaming bumpers.

Honestly, I wish I didn't have to drive it at all, and could keep it locked in the garage, safe from rain, wind, and sun. And when I winbored the murder trial drive it, I wish I could be in all alone and not have careless persons who sit down hard on the cushions, thoughtlessly put cigarettes in the ash trays, and slam the doors.

In my old car I was a pretty good driver, but now I am one of the worst. It takes me ten minutes to park in a space where I have a clearance between cars of half a block, so afraid am I of scraping the curbing, bumping my back bumper, or cutting in too soon and nicking a fender.

I go so slowly that twice, passing motorists have figured my motor was dead and offered to give me a push. And I am wearing out my eyes watching the dashboard for fear the temperature isn't normal, or that the oil is low, or that the battery isn't recharging as it should.

It takes me a good hour to get from the street into the garage because the driveway is narrow and is lined on both sides with a hedge and some sort of tall flowers with stiff branches. If I drove in normally there would be a good chance that some of the blossoms would rub against the sides of my new car and mess it up.

I know how to get peace of mind in a hurry, but I can't bring myself to do it. What I should do is borrow a 24-pound shot from a neighbor's shotgun. There's always one in every neighborhood, step back a few paces, and let it go at the right front fender.

The sound and sight would make me sick, and bring tears to my eyes, but time would heal the wound and I would be able to enjoy my automobile. Then I could go back to my old way of driving—could leave my car out in rain, snow, sleet, or hail, even with the windows down, and not worry a lick.

This suffering over a new car is not unique to me. It happens to thousands of others, which makes me wonder if car manufacturers aren't overlooking a good bet. Why don't they manufacture a car that is already tastefully dented, with a long scratch or two on the sides, and with several decorative cigarette burns in the cushion?

I know I'd buy one, or think I would, anyway.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD Name New Officers In TB Association

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Behind the Screens: Betty Grable may be old enough to be "Auntie Betty" to most of them, but the GI's in Korea, I'm told by Roberta Haynes, haven't forsaken "Miss Pin-Up of World War II" for Marilyn Monroe or Terry Moore.

Neither have they ruled out Jane Russell, according to Roberta, who made it a point to check the photos pinned up along Army cots when she was entertaining troops in Korea.

Reports Roberta: "I saw as many pin-ups of Betty and Jane as I did of any of the younger girls. That one photograph of Betty in a bathing suit looking over her shoulder is pinned up right next to all the Monroe calendar photos."

The lowdown on Mary Pickford's "My Whole Life," which just began running as a magazine serial, is that she took the manuscript out of her safe, after deciding it should never be printed, and rushed it to the magazine. The biography is made up of chapters chosen from two-separate manuscripts, with most of the more revealing passages still under lock and key.

Don't drop your bridgework if John Lindsay weds Jane Wooster, when Diana Lynn picks up her final divorce decree from him in about three months. Jane is the beauty who was selected to play Dixie Dugan on TV.

Jane Haver, (and she's not being coy about it), can't understand all the fuss being made about her return to smoking. She told me: "It was different when I came home from the convent, but now I'm only doing the natural thing in going back to work. I have to eat. It's my bread and butter."

And Freddie, too. Overheard at the Palm Springs Doll House: Songwriter: "Let's write a novelty." Second fiddle: "Let's write a hit — that would be a novelty."

Louis Jourdan and Jean Pierre Aumont will head a French-language stage presentation of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" in Paris. Aumont will be Captain Queeg.

Directors to serve for two years are Dr. R. M. Hampton, Mrs. Lillian Jordan, Mrs. W. F. Walsh, Knox Kinard, Coy Palmer, Bill Craig, Walt Warner, and Mrs. M. Beldridge. Those elected for three years include Dr. J. L. Chase, Dr. Charles Brauchle, B. R. Nuckols, Jack Nuckols, John Evans, and Leon Gilbert.

McLean directors are Mrs. Boyd Meador, to serve two years; Larry Fuller, to serve three years, and Mrs. Lester Dysart, to serve three years. Directors from other areas include Claude Zeverly of Hopkins, to serve two years; John Wimboth of Mansfield, to serve one year; Arlie Carpenter of Lefors, to serve three years; Mrs. Paul Bowers, to serve two years, and F. M. Buddy, to serve one year, both of Grandview.

During the committee report period, Mrs. W. F. Walsh, Pampa's school nurse, reported "at 2,100 patch tests had been given this year in Pampa schools and 600 in the county schools. Of these, 24 of the Pampa group reacted positive and 34 of the county group. Twenty children in Pampa were x-rayed and 24 in the county, leaving four x-rays in Pampa yet to be taken and 10 in the county. Of these x-rays, all were negative."

Whether or not to send money to the state tuberculosis hospital for an occupational therapist was discussed and shelved for the new board of directors. Mrs. Carlton Nance was chosen the delegate to the state TB association convention in Dallas April 9 and 10, with Mrs. C. L. McKinney appointed as alternate.

Mrs. Finis Jordan, outgoing president, presided at the meeting. All officers and directors were elected by acclamation, following the report of the nominating committee.

Dies After Crash
TRINIDAD, Colo., March 23 — UP — Gene Morris, 34, of Silverton, Tex., whose automobile plunged down a 100-foot embankment on Raton Pass last Tuesday, died at San Rafael Hospital early Tuesday.

Morris broke his neck, back, right leg and ankle and suffered internal injuries in the accident. State police said he lost control of his car while coming down Raton Pass on U.S. 85-57. The car went off the road and down a sheer 100-foot fall before crashing.

Morris was alone in his car. He was the 59th person to die in traffic accidents this year in Colorado.

It's a toss-up between Robert Stack, who can't sing, and Gordon MacRae, who can, for the coveted role of Curley in Todd-AO big screen version of "Oklahoma!" If Stack lands the role, he'll have a singing double.

El Progreso Club Lives Up To Its Name During Thirty Years Existence

This afternoon at the First Christian Church, El Progreso members held their annual general day tea, this year honoring their charter members and celebrating their thirtieth anniversary in Pampa. Mmes. Bob McCoy, D. V. Burton, Dick Crews and Robert W. Rasmussen, who comprise the social committee, planned the program which featured a book review by Mrs. Otis Nace.

It was thirty years ago that a small group of women met in the home of Mrs. W. R. Silvey to organize a study club. The organization of that club, El Progreso, was completed in several subsequent meetings. Charter members were Mmes. Silvey, John Andrews

George Walstad, P. C. Ledrick, Lee Ledrick, C. T. Hunkapillar, L. C. McMurry, C. P. Buckler, W. M. Craven, T. D. Hobart, A. Cole, Charles Cooke, V. E. Fatheree, Dave Pope, W. W. Furvell and Siler Faulkner. Mmes. Ledrick, Pope, Walstad and Buckler, who have continued as active members through the years, were special guests of honor at the tea this afternoon.

The object of the club is the mutual improvement of its members, encouragement of the habit of reading and promotion of social intercourse.

El Progreso is a member of the Texas State Federation, having made immediate application and gaining it within two weeks of the organizational meeting.

Besides its study course this year, the club conducted a story telling hour for children during vacation months. Through the years, El Progreso's study courses have been varied, including modern authors, a study of music, art and drama; Texas, its history and writers; modern American novels, fiction and poetry; American literature; women's problems; travel courses and philosophy.

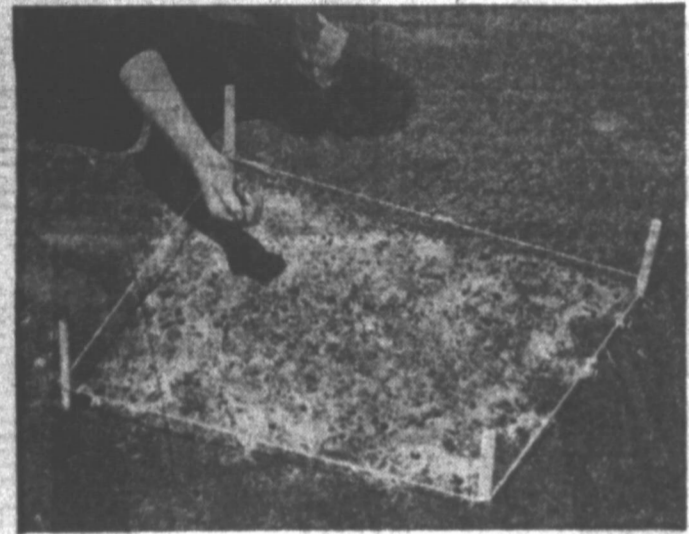

In 1927, El Progreso cooperated in the organization of a part-time library conducted by members from city's clubs. From this beginning was developed the City Library. A "pretzels yards contest" encouraged civic pride and an essay contest for high school students encouraged literary efforts in Pampa youth. Since 1903, the civic activities of the club have been in support of the Council of Club's activities. The club has also sustained interest in the public library ever since.

Regular meetings of El Progreso are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month from September until May inclusive, at 2:30 p. m. in the homes of the members.

Active members are Mmes. C. P. Buckler, D. V. Burton, Don Boyd, Sam B. Cook, Dick Crews, J. F. Curtis, W. R. Ewing, T. M. Johnston, Knox Kinard, Edmond Kirby, P. C. Ledrick, H. L. Ledrick, Jr., Bob McCoy, Grundy Morrison, Carlton Nance, Dave Pope, Bob Rasmussen, George Walstad, Harold Wright, and Henry Gindorf. Mmes. W. R. Silvey, James Todd and C. T. Hunkapillar were carried as honorary members. Officers for 1953-54 are Mrs. Sara B. Cook, president; Mrs. Carleton Nance, vice president; Mrs. D. V. Burton, secretary; Mrs. H. L. Ledrick, Jr., treasurer; Mrs. T. M. Johnston, hostess; Mrs. Robert Rasmussen, reporter; Mrs. J. G. Morrison, parliamentarian; Mrs. Knox Kinard, council of clubs; and Mrs. Don Boyd, federation counselor.

The program committee consisting of Mmes. Nance, Curtis, Kinard and Ledrick, have had as their theme this year, "The Spotlight on the Woman, Her Problems and Opportunities for Expression and Service."

Seven Steps to Success in Sowing Flower Seeds

Mix Seed With Sand, and Scatter Over Area as Evenly as Possible.

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden; and there are a number which should be, because they are difficult to transplant.

These include Alyssum, California poppy, Godetia, Kochia, Lepidoloma, Linaria, Lupinus, Matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossia.

Much the same technique should be used in the garden as in sowing in a seed box, particularly as to shallow planting, and covering the seeds with porous soil. Identification of the seeds, and of their location, are also important, since with slow germinators it is easy to forget exactly where they were sown.

Seeds are subject to many hazards which human skill cannot wholly avoid, but the careful operator may count upon a high average of success.

Prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it 4 pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet. Then outline with a string the area to be covered with each variety. Mix the seed with sand to help scatter it over the space as evenly as possible. Then sit a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Now, until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil. You should know when to expect the seeds to sprout. The list shown is based upon experience in seed laboratories. In your garden the period may be more or less by a few days, but it will serve as a guide.

Save Sandals For Special Parties

By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor

Some women are fortunate enough to maintain the youthful beauty of their legs all through their lives. Naturally, they capitalize on this by wearing shoes that draw attention to the fact.

Good news for these mature women is that this spring they will have a wide choice among the sandals that are designed for favor.

However, we would caution against wearing them indiscriminately. If you are blessed with good legs and feet, be kind to them by wearing shoes appropriate to the occasion.

Generally, it would be well to confine the wearing of sandals to late-day. They are perfect for parties and theater-going, not for marketing and afternoon strolls in the park.

Furthermore, one needs to be especially careful in selecting sandals. Whereas some are designed with taste, others lack refinement. Everyone, but the older woman particularly, should take care that her sandals accent only grace.

A handsome belt will add variety to your wardrobe, so don't be a penny-pincher when buying one for evening wear. And do buy one in a neutral color that will go with most of your outfits.

An old tooth brush is a handy tool for cleaning jewelry, combs, zippers and other hard-to-get-at items.

To remove an iron-rust stain, apply oxalic acid solution (3 tablespoons of crystals to 1 pint of water). When stain disappears, apply weak ammonia solution. Rinse. Or moisten with lemon juice and salt and dry in sun. Do not soak.

Your youngster's storm boots will slip on easily if you put a pair of large old socks on over his shoes first. Cut off the tops of the socks.

One Act Play To Be Held In Canadian

The district 2B one-act play contest will be held in the Canadian High School Auditorium, the evening of Thursday, March 25. The plays are scheduled to begin at six p. m. Six schools have announced plans to enter the contest to date.

Miami will present a one-act comedy fantasy, "This Way to Heaven"; Mobeetie has entered a drama, "Flitina"; Wheelie's entry is "Double Date"; Higgins has announced plans of "Waiting"; Darrouzett has entered "Dust of the Road"; and Booker is doing "Grandma Pulls the Strings."

Miami is the host school of the event, and Mrs. Don Myers, Miami speech teacher, is the district director. Winner of the district contest advances to further inter-school league competition, and a trophy is given to the first place winner. Awards are also given for the best actor and actress, and an all-star cast is selected.

One of the best beauty treatments you can give yourself costs nothing. It's learning to have a pleasant expression at all times. Not only will you be more attractive now, but you will also be less likely to have lines around the mouth later on.

Whether you wear sleeveless dresses or not, you should keep your underarms free of hair to avoid the retention of perspiration.

Protect your baby from electric light cords by taping them to the back of table legs with transparent tape. What he doesn't see will not tempt him.

Paint the light switched in bedroom, hall and kitchen with luminous paint and you will avoid fumbling in the dark.

The well-groomed girl wouldn't think of wearing a crumpled dress. And today she doesn't have to tolerate crumpled night clothes. There are now available a wide variety of nightgowns and pajamas that need no ironing and are wrinkle-resistant.

Belge is a top fashion color this season. If you are one of the many women who cannot wear the shade well, don't think you have to shun it. You might buy a beige dress that has a more becoming shade at the neckline. Or you might have the shade in shoes, handbag and gloves.

There is always a profusion of print dresses in springtime. Before you buy one, consider that you will tire of it more quickly than of a solid-color dress. Consider, too, that you will have to choose the hat for it with great care.

Western Canned Sweet Cherries Inspiration for Chinese Dinner

Why not try something different when it is your turn to entertain. Plan your menu with a theme in mind and let Western canned sweet cherries suggest one that will afford a conversation piece for the rest of the evening.

This Chinese menu has its inspiration in the dark luscious sweet cherries from the orchards of the West. This dark purple variety is called Bing and its history is as interesting as the menu it inspired.

A Chinese gardener rescued a small struggling seedling from the trash heap. This tiny twig he tended lovingly, and soon it was producing rich juicy cherries that came to be known by his musical name, "Bing."

The sweet sour sauce which makes this a bonafide Chinese menu is just as delicious when light cherries are substituted for the dark. The light ones are Royal Anne. The dark ones are the Lambert or Bing. But light or dark, all these sweet cherries are processed at the exact time of maturity to preserve every drop of their juice, every bit of their fructose or sugar. The results are perfect cans of plump, sweet fruit, versatile enough in meal planning to be used from breakfast fruit to midnight snack.

Sweet-Sour Sauce

2 cups dark Western canned sweet cherries (pitted)

1 cup cherry juice

1/2 cup vinegar

1/2 cup brown sugar

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

1/2 teaspoon cornstarch

1 tablespoon soy sauce

2 pounds spare ribs

Pit cherries and set aside. Add cornstarch to 2 tablespoons of the juice. Mix with other ingredients in saucepan and bring to a boil. Stir and boil for 2 minutes. Add cherries and remove from heat. Cut spare ribs lengthwise between bones. Spread in single layer on baking sheet and place in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove to casserole, pour on sauce and continue baking for 30 minutes more. This will be enough for four.

Forced Retirement Is Growing

Writers Maxwell Lehman (left) and Morton Yarmon say that forced retirement and old age needn't spell defeat. They point out that retired people can create jobs that will provide income.

By FLORENCE V. HARTEN, NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — To Americans there is nothing strange in thinking of 35-year-old Red Buttons as a "kid." We are a nation that's bent on living youthfully longer.

So it's quite a shock to learn that jobs are getting harder for older people to get and to hold. Many firms have reduced their retirement age from 70 to 65 and even 62.

Help wanted ads are specifying "under 35" or "must be young," more frequently today than in previous years.

This series of bombshells was released by Maxwell Lehman and Morton Yarmon during a recent interview in the office of their publisher.

The authors of "Jobs After Retirement" offered the barrage in explaining what prompted them to write the book.

"The situation is very bad," Lehman said. "And it's made worse by the fact that so few are aware of it. It seems a man or woman must get slapped with it before realizing what's going on."

Lehman and Yarmon's awakening, however, did not come so rudely. Their concern with the problems of the older worker has resulted from their work as editors of a Civil Service newspaper.

Disturbing as they found the situation, the writing team was convinced that the retired worker could find profitable ways of using his skills.

So they hunted down people who had, and told these experiences in their recently published book.

The jobs that Lehman and Yarmon found to be productive of both money and satisfaction range from photographing local scenes and making jigsaw puzzles of them to raising earthworms.

The book gives concrete suggestions on how to get started on a home-sewing business, writing, tutoring. It tells how to market homemade products and lists pamphlets and magazines that will give one the know-how to get started.

But the authors strongly feel that many people need personal guidance when they are forced out of jobs.

What can the person who feels incapable of analyzing his assets do to get himself started on the right road?

"Well, we believe it's a community problem rather than a government one," Yarmon stated. "And I think that a great deal can be done by women's clubs."

Lehman was talking now.

"My wife tells me that some women's organizations are always on the lookout for worthwhile projects. Well, that's one that's really worth while.

"They could help these people to plan their retirement strategy, to evaluate their experience and their skills.

"And they undoubtedly would do much to bring this problem before the businessmen of their communities, since in most cases the businessmen and their husbands are the same people."

Navy Testing Revolutionary Planes

Most freakish-looking planes in the world are the Navy's two new vertical take-off models, designed to take off and land straight up and straight down. They are the Convair XPY-1 built by Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corporation and the XPV-1 (shown below) built by Lockheed Aircraft Corporation. Their operation is generally similar, based on the principal of a thrust that is the weight of the plane, thereby making possible vertical ascent. To descend "on a dime" the counter-rotating propellers' upward pull is reduced to just a little less than the downward pull of gravity, so that the craft settles gently to the ground or carrier deck.

On both planes, 5500-HP Allison G.M. jet engines drive two contra-rotating propellers.

Pilot's seat rotates so that he is always upright.

Both planes need rocket boost for take-off.

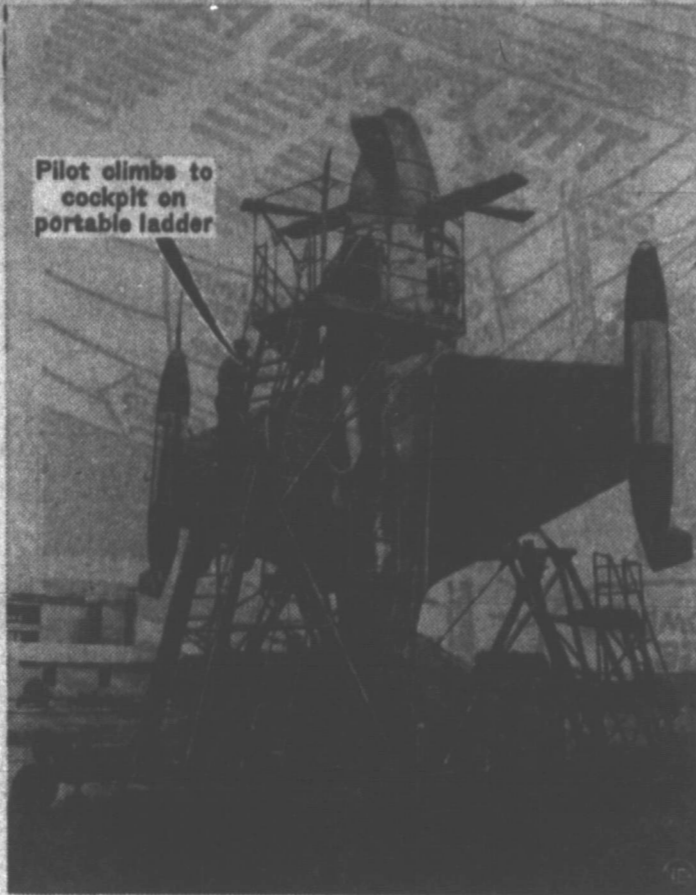

Lockheed plane stands on these fins.

Ready for rocket-assisted vertical take-off.

Special mobile vehicle for transporting, raising and lowering "VTO" plane permits craft to be tilted for easier maintenance.

Tilted plane looks like huge guided missile.

Pilot climbs to cockpit on portable ladder.

For take-off, special carriage and ladder are rolled away.

Lockheed XPV-1 has conventional landing gear for rolling take-off from runway when desirable.

This is auxiliary landing gear for special test operations.

VTO would look like this in horizontal flight.

Only One Senator Dissents On Teacher Pay Hike Ballot

By O. E. LOYD JR.
 AUSTIN, March 23—UP—A $22,500,000 teacher pay raise bill, Key-stone legislation of Gov. Allan Shivers' program, was given final approval in the Senate Monday by a 27-1 vote.
 Sen. William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi cast the lone dissenting vote.
 Shireman said he voted "no" because "I felt that this legislation should not have been passed by the Senate until a tax bill has been voted out of the House and was in the Senate."
 "I had there been a tax bill in the Senate at the time I cast my vote, I would have voted for the school teachers bill," he added.
 Moves on to House
 The measure, sponsored in the upper chamber by Sen. A. M. Alkin, Jr., of Paris, now goes to the House.
 The proposal would raise base salaries for beginning teachers from $2,400 a year to $2,600 a year. State law sets the minimum. Whether salaries are raised above that amount is determined by local school boards.
 Shireman raised the lone questioning voice as the upper chamber gave quick approval to the multi-million dollar measure.
 "As I understand it, this bill requires an appropriation of approximately $22,500,000. Do we have a bill in the Senate now that will raise that amount?" he asked Alkin.
 Same Position as Before
 "Aren't we in the same position we were last year when we voted a $600 raise?" he asked.
 At that time, lawmakers voted teachers a $600 increase, but the wage hike fell through when the legislature balked at levying additional taxes to pay the bill.
 As lawmakers settled down to the second-week of their 30-day session, all was not completely smooth with the administration program. Scattered opposition was heard in both chambers to the governor's $27 million spending proposal.

80-Year-Old Fathers Twins

RICHMOND, Va., March 23—UP—The medical college of Virginia hospital reported Monday that an 80-year-old Ballsville, Va., farmer became the father of twins Saturday, his 27th and 28th children.
 His wife, 42, gave birth to a boy and girl. They were her 16th and 17th children.
 The father is Columbus Walter Cook, who will be 81 April 15.
 He said he wants his wife to name the newest additions "because I won't be around to raise them."
 "Oh, you'll be around for a while yet," his wife told him.
 The father, whose former wife presented him with 11 children, has great-grandchildren—also twins—eight years old.

Douglas Off On Long Hike

HANCOCK, Md., March 23—UP—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and his hardy band of nature lovers set out Monday for a 21-mile hike and their first night in the open after a taste of civilization at its softest.
 The two dozen walkers checked into the push and exclusive Woodmont Rod and Gun Club late Sunday minus 13 of the original group who dropped out along the way, discouraged by a half-inch snow, raw winds and aching feet.
 The band, which started out Saturday near Cumberland, Md., covered 27 miles along the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Sunday despite the rugged weather.
 Purpose of the 18-mile hike to Washington, D. C., is to prove that a proposed highway along the canal banks would destroy the scenery.

Absconding Banker Promises To Repay Missing $85,000

CLAO, Ala., March 23—UP—The town's "banker," who returned empty-handed after allegedly disappearing with $85,000, promised to restore every penny Monday.
 Royall Reynolds, 24, under a $7,500 bond on three embezzlement charges, said he would start repaying depositors with money on hand and "other assets."
 Reynolds, 40, touched off a depression in this farming community of 840 population earlier this month when he began his 12-day fade-out, leaving the town virtually without any cash.
 Officials found that some $85,000 in deposits and the deposit records were missing from Reynolds' unchartered, unbonded and uninsured merchants exchange.

Bank Robber Is Sentenced

DENTON, Tex., March 23—UP—Howard L. Walker, 24, of Decatur was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty Monday to robbing the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Krum 10 days earlier.
 An armed robber forced Mrs. Ruth Hilliard, assistant to the president of the bank, and Wendell Knox, bookkeeper, to fill a bag with $1 bills. He then locked the two bank employees in the vault and fled with $1,200.
 It later was learned that Walker, who is unemployed, had taken a used car from a Decatur garage on trial for five hours the day of the robbery and later that day paid a number of debts in Decatur with $1 bills.

Congresswoman Urges Probe Of Ex-El Paso Police Chief

AUSTIN, March 23—UP—Rep. Anita Blair of El Paso Monday urged an investigation of the record of former El Paso Police Chief Roy Vinson and called for his removal from the pension rolls.
 Miss Blair said Vinson now is receiving a pension of $325 a month.
 Speaking on personal privilege, Miss Blair presented a report by a special investigating committee which inquired into charges made by a woman inmate of the Gore prison farm against certain El Paso public officials. She had the full report read to the House.
 The committee made a report last Dec. 8. The three-member committee was set up by a resolution sponsored by Miss Blair in the regular session of the 53rd Legislature last year.
 "Had Falling Health"
 "Within a few days after" the House adopted the resolution," she said, "...Roy Vinson, who was then chief of police, suddenly had falling health."
 "His health failed so rapidly he asked for retirement after 19 years' service on the police force of El Paso," she added.
 Miss Blair said the investigation cost $1,000 and she was "very gratified" with the results.
 "El Paso," she said, "now has an honest chief of police. That is a great accomplishment. The $1,000, she said, was "money well spent."
 She said Vinson now is receiving a $325-a-month pension, and added, "I ask that his record be investigated and he be removed from the pension rolls. $325 would hire born and originally charged who was "framed" because she knew too much about "gambling past offs" in El Paso county.

 The committee report last Dec. 9 said Mrs. Johnson "substantially altered the facts in her affidavit of Aug. 9, 1953, as compared with her affidavit of May 10, 1953."

Ten Good Points

With that Geneva meeting, which will be essentially the FIVE Power Conference the Russians have wanted so long, looming on the diplomatic horizon, Americans should be thoroughly aroused over the "feelers" that have been put out on recognizing Red China. Before April 26th, when our secretary of state sits down with the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Russia and Red China, we had better give the matter a good think — and tell our men in Washington how we feel about it.

To that end, we quote from The Freeman Magazine of March 8th: "... ten good reasons why we should neither recognize Communist China diplomatically nor countenance its admission to the UN:

1. Either of these steps would be a stunning blow to our anti-Communist friends in Asia and a stimulus to Communist expansion.
2. Red China is an unrepentant and partially successful aggressor in Korea.
3. The Chinese Communist regime is keeping alive the war in Indo-China and stirring up as much trouble as possible throughout Asia.
4. This regime has made a practise of insulting and maltreating American diplomats and other American citizens within its power.
5. The torture and maltreatment of UN war prisoners by the Red Chinese and North Koreans is a major international scandal.
6. The Red Chinese government shows no sign of abating its terrific Hate America propaganda, including lying charges of germ warfare.
7. This Chinese government has engaged in huge extortion rackets against foreign business firms still stuck in China, and against Chinese abroad.
8. Anything that enhanced the international prestige of Red China would expose the large Chinese communities in southeast Asia to Communist pressure, infiltration and coercion.
9. The unfortunate British experiment of recognizing Red China has proved a pitiful fiasco, morally, politically and commercially.
10. Among other unsavory activities, the Communist gang in control of China has gone in for illegal narcotics trade and for piracy against Japanese and other foreign vessels."

The Freeman points out further that "... we have signed up for a round-table conference (the round table is a tacit concession to Mr. Molotov). This means that delegates of Communist China will sit down as equal participants with the representatives of other nations, as was Mr. Molotov's intention from the start. At the best such a conference can only be a repetition of the last weeks at Berlin. At the worst it can touch off a Far Eastern Munich."

Popular Fallacy

Sherman Rogers of Sherman Rogers Publications made an extensive survey of public opinion during the last three months of 1953 regarding profits in the retail food industry, dry goods retail trade and the meat packing industry. In making the survey he discovered that the American public is not well informed.

The three largest chain food super market stores, A&P, Safeway and Kroeger's average 7/10 of one cent profit, after taxes on each dollar of sales.

The three largest American meat packers, Armour, Swift and Wilson average 8/10 of one cent on each dollar of sales.

Three of our most noted dry goods stores, Marshall Field, Gimbels and Halle Brothers average two cents on each dollar of their sales after taxes.

A majority of the 10,050 people polled in San Francisco, Denver, Houston, Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, Cleveland, New York and Bridgeport, were of the opinion that the dry goods merchants average from 25c to 50c net-profits after taxes on each dollar of sales. Only 3% of the people had anywhere near the right answer.

A heavy majority of the people polled thought that the major meat packing companies made a net profit of from 25c to 50c on each dollar of sales after taxes. Practically the same opinion prevailed concerning the profits of the chain super market food stores.

There was little difference in the opinion of doctors, lawyers, professors, students, housewives of all groups, workers at common labor or skilled labor, farmers, clergymen, or office help. The majority opinion was fantastically out of line with the truth.

The chief poll taker summed up his conclusions after three months of constant questioning with this remark: "The fact that a majority of our people believe that profits are 2,000 per cent more than they actually are, in the food, clothing and meat packing lines demonstrates that the socialists, and left wing groups of all types have performed an effective hard-hitting job of selling their fallacious, soul-scorching theories. It also means that the business people of the country have performed a very poor job of establishing the truth."

Why The Increase In Juvenile Delinquency?

Those people who hold responsible positions, either with the state or the church or the press, should be doing some analyzing as to why we are having such an increase in juvenile delinquency.

The New York News recently reported that a Senate special committee, which has been investigating juvenile delinquency for seven months made these formal findings:

"1. The Nation is losing its fight against juvenile delinquency.

"2. The time has come to declare all-out war on juvenile delinquency."

The New York News also reported:

"A 73-page interim report said the investigators so far were baffled in trying to get at the root of the problem. Recommendations for legislative action must wait until the problem has been studied further, the committee confessed."

The preliminary report warned that if the present rate of juvenile delinquency continues to mount as it has in the last five years, by 1960 "the number of boys and girls going through the juvenile courts will skyrocket to some 750,000." In 1952 there were 385,000. This Senate committee is not likely to find the cause of juvenile delinquency because the Senators want to be popular. They won't dare point out some of the actual reasons that are bound to result in juvenile delinquency.

Readers of this column will know, of course, that we have been pointing out for years that the children attending tax-supported schools are being indoctrinated in a form of collectivism that relieves the individual of his responsibility.

As a little evidence of the fact that our tax-supported schools are using textbooks and teachers that advocate some form of collectivism and not the competitive system Dr. Belle V. Dodes, who as a communist was legislative representative of the teachers union in New York, has offered this diagnosis. She has said "that our educators, like communists and Nazis, have embraced the doctrine that the group takes precedence over the individual."

She continues: "That is why 'democracy' and 'democratic' are such constants in the educational jargon, and why even the small child is introduced to 'community helpers'—the postman, the milkman, the grocer—as admirable and selfless servants. The community is the thing. Starting with the neighborhood and the town, proceeding to the nation and the hemisphere, and ending with the world, the direction of this indoctrination is not the cultivation of the individual but his submergence in a mob to which he is encouraged to owe a greater dedication and responsibility than he does to himself."

It seems only reasonable when the youth is taught that society or the state is more important than the individual and that he must obey the state rather than God, as exemplified in the Commandments and the Golden Rule, it is only natural for him to shirk his responsibility and when he grows up to believe that men do not get their liberty from God but from the state.

Another Cause And, of course, another cause of juvenile delinquency are the State laws that require the child to continue in schools when he has no desire for book learning and would rather go to work and learn a trade and develop the natural talents that God gave him. Of course, when we keep the youth of the land putting in his time with something that he is not interested in, it is only natural for him to get into trouble. There is nothing that develops the harmful element in man as much as idleness, and a youth is idle if he is attending schools in which he has no interest and which cannot teach him to believe in self-reliance and individual responsibility and competition, because the teachers themselves do not believe that they need to teach good enough that a people will voluntarily pay for their services.

It is time we analyzed why we are having such an increase in juvenile delinquency. The columns are open for any rebuttal the above conclusions provided the party taking exception to the above will answer questions without evasion.

There's no use worryin' about splittin' Republican Party. It's already split. It's split between the Eisenhower faction, which is workin' to establish world government, and the McCarthy group, which is strugglin' to preserve self-government. Democratic Party is split in exactly the same way — between the Truman-Stevenson world government group and the Eydwyne-McCarthy self-government group. Right now America has a four party system, but that may be subject to change. The world government Republicans are tryin' to splittin' the self-government Republicans. And the world government Democrats are tryin' to scuttlin' the self-government Democrats. If that happens, the United States will have a ONE PARTY system. Because the world government Republicans and the world government Democrats both bow to the same master and promote the same WORLD DICTATORSHIP. This is the strategy of the coming elections. If they put it over, we're sunk.

Union Demands Hang On Raises Given Public Servants

By RAY TUCKER — Federal employees' current campaign for an $800-a-year salary increase has placed the Eisenhower administration on an extremely embarrassing political spot. It ranks with the Democrats' demand for more general tax cuts and farm-support prices as the most serious threat to continued Republican power and popularity.

Although the $800 raise for 1,000,000 classified public servants would cost at least $1.2 billion annually, upsetting all budget-balancing and tax-cutting schedules, that is not the most dangerous aspect of the drive, in the opinion of White House, Treasury and Post Office spokesmen.

They regard government workers' petition as the first step in organized labor's strategy for another round of wage boosts.

UNIONS HAVE COMPROMISED— On account of the recession, the unions have had to settle for no or paltry minor increases. Where as their demands ranged from an additional 25 to 50 cents an hour, they have had to compromise for extras of 6 to 12 cents in most instances.

Even John L. Lewis has waived his periodical plea for higher pay or welfare benefits for his miners. With about 365,000 of his men out of work because of mine closings, the United Mine Workers' president has allowed the date for reopening his contract to pass un-noticed.

But if Uncle Sam sets an example by raising his employees' salary by $800 a year, the union bosses will capitalize on this official precedent late this year or early in 1955. This possibility is fully recognized at the White House.

POSTAL WORKERS' DEMANDS— The immediate controversy centers on the demands of 500,000 postal workers for the $800 upping. Scores of bills granting the request have been introduced in House and Senate, and more than a million favorable letters have reached the M.C.'s. The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, headed by Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, is now holding hearings on the question.

SUMMERFIELD'S VIEW— Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield regards the $800 figure as unjustified. According to a Chicago management firm's survey he caused to be made, postal pay equals the amount earned by high-paid industrial employees. It exceeds that given most school-teachers and white-collar people. It has kept pace with the increased cost of living. Postal employees' spokesmen dispute his figure. Summerfield favors a selective increase that will benefit 400,000 postal workers and cost $80,000,000 annually. He insists this money be used to abolish existing pay inequities. He points out that the New York postmaster earns only 4 1/2 times as much as a janitor, who does not have to be able to read or write. Yet the postmaster's office does an annual business of $200,000,000, and employs 37,000 people. Summerfield's plan means only a $100 increase.

What Summerfield fears most is that Congress will pass the $800 bill, and disapprove his request for an increase in first, second and third-class rates. In view of the fact that this is an election year, and that the "classified" vote can be decisive in many close congressional contests, his concern appears to be justified.

UNPOPULAR STAND— As a former Republican national chairman, and a political operator in Michigan for many years, Summerfield recognizes that his position is politically unpopular. But he maintains that the Eisenhower program of orderly, economic and business-like management cannot be carried out without congressional aid to these demands.

Sen. A. S. M. Monroney of Oklahoma, a member of the Carlson Committee, substantiates Eisenhower-Summerfield fears. Monroney declares that any increase given postal workers must be extended to the other classified government employees, and George L. Meany, president of the American Federation of Lab., was a star witness for the postal group.

Thus, the positions of union and government workers are reversed. In the past, Uncle Sam's people got increases because factory employees' raises helped to skyrocket the cost of living. Now, the unions are banking on higher government pay schedules to strengthen their demands and offset resistance based on the economic decline.

Earlier Said Than Done

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

St. Vitus dance, or chorea, is a strange disorder about which much still has to be learned. A family tendency to the disease is fairly common. Unusually bright children and those with a "highly-strung" nervous system appear to be particularly susceptible. It is probably related in some way to rheumatic fever.

The disease is somewhat more common in girls than in boys and affects principally those between five and 15 years of age. Some children with early signs of chorea do not appear to be ill but merely more awkward than usual. They are often scolded by their parents or teachers for drooping things and showing other signs of poor muscular control without realization of the fact that it is illness and not intention which is responsible.

In mild cases the general health is good, the muscles twitch only slightly and the speech and mental functions are not disturbed. Children with mild chorea frequently complain of fatigue. Emotional disturbances, such as easy crying and nightmares, are often present. When the hands are held straight out in front with the fingers spread, the jerky irregular movements of the muscles are characteristic and can be easily recognized by the experienced physician.

In the severe form of the disease the movements involve a lot of muscles and the youngster may not even be able to eat or undress without help. Sometimes the speech is affected and a child may not be able to talk at all for several days.

The worst type of chorea is the maniacal form which is, fortunately, very rare. Here, in addition to the muscular movements, are several mental symptoms which may last for weeks.

The Doctor Says

St. Vitus dance, or chorea, is a strange disorder about which much still has to be learned. A family tendency to the disease is fairly common. Unusually bright children and those with a "highly-strung" nervous system appear to be particularly susceptible. It is probably related in some way to rheumatic fever.

There has been a continuing campaign of lies, harassment, conspiracy and personal abuse amounting to extreme persecution, against all public men and most journalists who have fought this treachery. This was a leading propagandist in this pattern. The employer of at least two Reds, himself, proven to have been a liar without conscience, Pearson had crippled the old Dies Committee by his own cunning at Robert Stripling's draft board until the board finally called him up.

Stripling spent a whole year as "yard bird" in the Army without even a squad to call his own and when he finally was on the point of being released after 18 months in the service, Stripling was sent to Japan for an unlimited time on the ground that he would be an invaluable asset to General MacArthur in his dealings with the Reds. Stripling knew no Japanese Red but he knew about Reds in Washington including Pearson's Red employes and proteges of Felix Frankfurter, who was the crony of Gene Meyer of the Washington Post.

One colonel wrote an indignant letter expressing fear of a bus strike in the air if Stripling should be discharged. However, Stripling managed to get the ear of John Rankin, the Mississippi Democrat and a few other inveterate Red-baiters and to put to some pro-American press the proposition that it was mighty funny that a man of such great potential value to MacArthur had not been able to make even one week's trip.

Stripling was returned to the House Committee on Un-American Activities and presently bowed out with a nice nest-egg, the proceeds of a book relating his knowledge of the treason. He deserved it. He and his family could never be compensated for the cruelty inflicted on them by the Roosevelt regime and their covert Red agents and dupes in American Journalism.

For G. David Shine I can offer just one coup which would justly be an award of gratitude from the country. Here is an oversized Harvard alumnus with a year's active service aboard transport ships of the American Army, who suddenly realized that Americans really had a fight on their hands — not against only the enemy himself but against the stupidity and often abusive ignorance of many other Americans of unquestionable loyalty. Shine's parents operate hotels in New York and Florida. Being wealthy, he could serve McCarthy's committee without pay and even carry his own expenses. He did. The one feat of which I spoke was Shine's discovery of the fact that we were about to spend $10,000,000 on a radio station to fight the enemy with propaganda which was to be planted in a spot where it couldn't even be heard because of the ground. The kid's alarm was confirmed and the station was not built. Shine's revelation was called from his draft board and a campaign of espionage and slander. Pearson hounded him and this time his abuse has included filthy smears at Shine's personal moral character. Eugene Meyer prominently, followed by an exhortation to the public to "read him every day in the Washington Post" and "hear him Sundays."

A few years ago, Shine wrote a pamphlet called "Definition of Communism" and spread many thousands of copies in hotels about the country. The Army and Navy and other government agencies also distributed many copies. But, because being a Red is in itself a crime, Shine requires a show bigger than the quarantine master could furnish. Shine had to wear non-regulation shoes during his basic Army training that was scandalously exploited as special privilege. None of the same papers and column propagandists ever wrote a word about the special privileges given Eleanor Roosevelt's house pet, Joe Lash or about John McCloy's testimony admitting official efforts in the highest quarters of the Army to get him soft, safe jobs which incidentally, succeeded.

All this is a foul, dirty deal to stop the McCarthy inquiry. Observe the history of these maneuvers. J. E. Matthews was run out of the important job of chief investigator because he had truthfully remarked in a magazine article that Protestant ministers were playing a dangerous part in Red conspiracy. Eisenhower fell for this plan and Matthews was removed. But a few days ago, the New York Times, in a Rome cable from C. A. Sulzberger, a member of the Times' own royal family, reported that Communist infiltrators had been found even into "administrative circles" of the Vatican.

Fair Enough...

Cohn, Exceptional Young Man, Sent Many Commies To Jail

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1954, King Features) — WASHINGTON — Temporarily at least the anti-McCarthy forces have stopped Joe McCarthy and subdued his gallant young associate, Roy Cohn. Strangely, Sen. Charles McNichols, a Republican but a greenhorn of frail political fortune, has done the most decisive dirty work.

Cohn is an amazingly bright and diligent young man. He has had a long fight against well-meaning but misled individuals in his own native personal social circle in New York. In much of the press, McCarthy, Cohn and G. David Shine, a volunteer warrior against the treasury, have been abused with hideous accusations and insinuations.

Cohn is 27 years old, a prodigy who completed his college and law courses in 3 years, the son of a religious parent who also has nurtured much for their boy's devotion to the campaign against treachery and the corruption of patriotism. His father is a judge of the appellate division, first department, supreme court of the State of New York. Roy has achieved an excellent record as a prosecutor of Communists before he caught the attention of Senator McCarthy and was engaged as counsel to the committee. In that role, because of his knowledge of Communists and their methods and ramifications, he was worth a dozen or a hundred other lawyers of high professional quality but without a special knowledge of a subject which is almost esoteric. He had sent Frederick Vanderbilt Field to jail for contempt, an important coup considering that Field was a rich man and the old room-mate of Joe Barnes, the actual editor for some time of the New York Times. He had won the official title was "foreign editor." He had compelled the State Department to get rid of 39 persons at the United Nations. He had taken a leading part in the prosecution of the traitors Rosenberg who went to the electric chair in Sing Sing. He ran the grand jury inquiries of the batch of so-called second string Communists. They were convicted after the usual insults and painful difficulties. He had worked out the William French Young plan for the prosecution of the batch of so-called second string Communists. They were convicted after the usual insults and painful difficulties. Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

MORE REMAINDERS: Some people played a game at dinner the other night — feasting up the two most useless and expendable persons in any country at this time. There were some interesting results. But the fellow who won the prize deserved it: former King Farouk and Lucky Luciano, both currently in Italy. It is impossible to top that twosome for teamed uselessness. Although all the others invented pairings, this one happened to be true: Farouk and Luciano did meet recently. Liked each other, what's more. An association out of which no good could come for anyone, except possibly Farouk and Luciano.

Once again the newspapers are carrying items out of Moscow with further insane claims by the Russians to having been the first to invent certain mechanical and electrical marvels. This last week they had three: the incombustible steam engine, the steam engine, and radar. Herebefore, they have laid claim to television (in which, actually, they have a minor claim of a kind), the telephone, wireless, submarines, the electric locomotive and a host of other items. They never lay claim to their foremost inventions: remorseless cruelty, political murder, drug-induced crime confessions, shameless persecution, untruth, death by poison, duplicity, cold cynicism, hatred, forced separation of families, assassination of farmers, theft of goods, forged signatures, concealed homicide, torture, exile, forced labor, spying, stealing of blueprints, whipping, degradation of children and a few other pretty examples of the human mind and spirit at its abysmal worst.

Spring must really be here. Broadway is blossoming with its usual annual flood of new dirty jokes. Which reminds that a one-time rejected book, banned for nearly two decades and finally, thanks to an enlightened judge, released for public print, is going to be dramatized. It is James Joyce's "Ulysses". The story line is the day of a young man, a dramatist who can resist the problem of making intelligible to audiences the spate of words put down by the Irish novelist. They'll look for a long time.

Victims of gossip: the Broadway legend has it that Audrey Hepburn is so difficult backstage in "Ondine" that the management hopes she will hire a press representative of her own and take the weight off veteran, gentlemanly Bill Fields. Untrue. Actually, she is cooperative, works with Fields daily and they like each other enormously. The odd legend is that Jeanmarie has become impossible since the poems loaded on her by the critics after "The Girl in Pink Tights" opened. Untrue. She is humbled by the personal notices, is working night and day for the show by making interview appearances on every possible TV and radio program. She feels that because of the notices so glowing for her and so dismal against the show that it is her obligation to get out and work for its success.

Odd New York organization: The Blizzards Men and Ladies of 1888, a society of persons who lived in New York and coped with the great blizzard that came on March 13th of that year. They meet annually for lunch, look at stereoscopic slides of the blizzard, exchange personal reminiscences of the storm and then disband for another year. Present-day weathermen look on this indulgently say that it wasn't such a colossal storm but that inadequate snow removal apparatus of the period made it seem tremendous. They hold that the December 26th storm in 1947 was much worse, flake for flake.

Handsome gray-haired film star in the world: Barbara Stanwyck. No dyes, no nonsense, no face lifts, no camouflage for her face. She is gray now, she likes it, it isn't cutting her any jobs. In "Executive Suite" she makes all the other women colorless.

SMU Hosts Sooner Nine

By UNITED PRESS
Southern Methodist plays host to Oklahoma Tuesday in a non-conference game as a prelude to the Southwest Conference baseball season.

Oklahoma nosed out Texas Christian, 2 to 1, Monday, and Minnesota defeated Texas, 11 to 4, for the first win in their rivalry.

The Oklahoma-TCU game was a pitchers' battle with Horace Lovin of Abilene, Tex., turning in a six-hit job for Oklahoma and Bob McDaniel a seven-hitter for TCU. Both went the route.

Oklahoma used a walk and two singles to score each of its runs, getting that combination in the second and fourth, while Texas Christian could score off Lovin only in the fourth.

Texas and Minnesota will meet again Tuesday at Austin.

Baseball Sport In Full Swing With PHS, Oilers, Kids Getting In The Act

THE BASEBALL SPORT is getting into high gear this week. The Harvesters were slated to open their season this afternoon against arch rival Amarillo at Oiler Park. Then the Oilers will start spring training Thursday with the pitchers and catchers reporting to be followed a week later by the remainder of the squad.

And Friday night, the kid baseballers, the Little League and Pony League, will convene at the Sam Houston Auditorium to witness the film "This is Little League." Since the Little League and Pony League sorta works hand-in-hand, the film will be just as important to the Pony League here as the Little League.

The two leagues operate on just about the same scale.

Texas Team Pulls Upset In Fem AAU

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 23—UP—The 26th annual Women's AAU basketball tournament settled down to second-round play Tuesday, with only three of the seeded teams left in action.

The fourth-seeded Atlanta, Ga. Tomboys were upset Monday 37 to 31 by the Chico, Tex., Junior College Wangerettes in the only game that didn't go according to form.

In other first round games Monday, none involving seeded sextets, Beebe, Ark., Junior College swamped Houston Electro Tech 66 to 21; Nashville, Tenn., Business College whipped Ohio Casualty of Hamilton, 55 to 32; Washington, D. C. FBI whipped Iowa Wesleyan, 28 to 21; and Virginia Beach, Va., Snow Whites tripped Martin College of Evansville, 34 to 24.

The Savannah, Okla., Little Dixie Queens defeated Milwaukee Real Refrigeration 54 to 41. The Queens carry only seven players on their roster.

First-seeded Hanes Hosiery of Winston-Salem, N.C., was scheduled to meet the Texas Jackson, Miss., Yazoo Master Mowers Tuesday night in the first game toward what may be its third straight national title. The North Carolinians drew a first round bye.

In consolation games Monday the Cleveland Schraders defeated the Orlott Air Force Base WAFF's (Omaha) 37 to 33. The Santa Fe Streamliners of Topeka beat Missouri Valley Dredging of Omaha 36 to 20, Omaha Commercial Exchange defeated St. Albans, Vt., Rockets 60 to 25, and Kansas City Midwest-Jewelry won over Kansas City United Brown 43 to 37.

Ben Hogan Heads Field In Seminole Pro-Amateur Today

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 23—UP—Golf's top professionals joined Ben Hogan and a group of well-known amateurs here Tuesday for the annual Seminole Country Club pro-amateur tournament, the final tourney of Florida's winter tour.

Most of the star play-for-pay golfers competed in Monday's one-day La Gorce pro-member tournament at Miami Beach, in which top honors were shared by PGA champion Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., and Ralph Blomquist of Glendale, Calif., each with a 69.

Hogan passed up both that tourney and the preceding Miami Four-ball Invitation to come here and practice for the rich Seminole event, his practice including an 11 under par-81 on Sunday which he called "the best golf round I ever shot."

The U.S. Open champion thus will be going into the Seminole fairly rested, while most of the stars have been competing for six straight days.

Among the amateurs who will be competing are the Duke of Windsor and Henry Ford II. The amateurs will team with the professionals, in addition to the professionals-only competition.

Burkemo and Blomquist had identical cards of 33-35 in their triumph in the La Gorce event at Miami Beach, while Ed Furgol of St. Louis and Lloyd Wadkins of Miami tied for the third spot at 69 each.

First place was worth $400 each to Burkemo and Blomquist. Tied for fifth place in the provision was Fred Hawkins of El Paso and Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans at 70.

Thomson's Injury Hurts Chances Braves Top Choice To Derail Dodgers

EDITORS NOTE: This is the second in a series on the 1954 prospects of the major league clubs.

By LEO H. PETERSEN
BRADENTON, Fla., March 23—UP—The Milwaukee Braves rate as the No. 1 threat to break the National League dominance of the Brooklyn Dodgers and there are many who are picking them to win a pennant this summer.

But Manager Charlie Grimm is not among them. He is optimistic, of course, but insists "any manager would be foolish to predict a pennant when there is a club as strong as the Dodgers you have to beat."

The Braves' chances were set back when Bob Thomson, one of their two expensive off-season acquisitions, broke his ankle in a spring exhibition game. He is not likely to see service until June 1 and that has scrambled Grimm's outfield plans. Otherwise the club, expect for the second-string pitchers, is set.

A Stronger Bench
The team will have a better bench than last year and Grimm believes he could come up with the best pitching in the league, although he lost Max Surkont, John Antonelli and Don Liddle, who between them won 30 games in 1954. Surkont went to the Pirates in the deal whereby the Braves acquired Danny O'Connell, while Antonelli and Liddle went to the Giants in the Thomson deal.

As of now, O'Connell has won the second base job from Jack Dittmer, last year's regular. O'Connell is hitting the ball better than ever this spring so Dittmer will be the No. 1 infield utility man, going to second base if O'Connell is needed for emergency duty at short or third.

Big Joe Adcock will be on first with Johnny Logan at short and Eddie Mathews, the home run king, at third. Many baseball men feel that if Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 in a season ever is broken, Mathews will do it.

With Thomson out, the only outfielders sure of regular berths are Andy Pafko in right and speedy Bill Bruton in center. When Thomson returns he will play left. Until then, either Jim Pendleton, who hit .299 as a part-time performer last season, or rookie Henry Aaron probably will get the job.

A Sure Star
Aaron is not even on the Milwaukee roster. He hit .362 with 27 home runs last season and was named most valuable player in the South Atlantic League. It was his second year of organized ball, his first being with Eau Claire in 1952, where he hit .336. Scouts for the other major league clubs have him tabbed as a sure-fire star, if not this year then in 1955. He is fast and has a lot of power.

Del Crandall will be the No. 1 catcher with Sam Calderone and Paul Burris in reserve berths as well. In Grimm's pitching plans, Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Bob Buhl and Bert Nichols are sure of regular starting spots. Nichols, who was the league's earned run leader in 1951, is back out of military service. He and Gene Conley, a rookie up from Toledo where he won 23 games last season, are counted upon to take up the slack left by the departure of Surkont.

The Braves feel that Buhl could be their leading winner this season. In 1953 he won 14 while losing 8. Spahn had a 23-7 record while Burdette was 19-5.

Behind them will be Eddie Johnson as the No. 1 relief man.

Four on All-Opponent Team
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 23—UP—Tom Gola of La Salle, Ed Conlin of Fordham, Hank Daubenschmidt of St. Francis, N.Y., Walt Walowac of Marshall and Werner Killen of Lawrence Tech Tuesday were named to Iona College's 1953-54 all-opponent team.

West Cagers Win Shrine Tilt, 81-73

By BILL ROSENTHALER
KANSAS CITY, March 23—UP—The West All-Stars led all the way Monday night as they trimmed the East 81 to 73 in the third annual Shrine charity basketball game.

Although the Westerners, coached by Nibs Price of California, enjoyed comfortable leads at the end of every quarter, they had to rally to stave off a last minute push by the Easterners, tutored by Kentucky's Adolph Rupp.

Bob Pettit, Louisiana State's great center, led the scoring with 21 points, closely followed by teammate Bob Mattick of Oklahoma A&M, who got 18. Frank Ramsey of Kentucky led the East with 14 points.

Both Pettit and Mattick figured prominently in the West's last quarter spurt, that clinched the triumph after the East had pulled up, 78 to 80.

Ramsey, Lou Tsioropoulos and Cliff Hagan, all Kentuckians, were the big Eastern guns as Frank Selvy of Furman failed to hit a field goal. Selvy rewrote the major college scoring record book during the past season.

The game was preceded by one between Rio Grande College and Bevo Francis and Rockhurst of Kansas City. That game developed more fireworks than the all-star finale as Rio Grande Coach Neftali Oliver pulled his team off the floor 1:30 to play because three technical fouls were called against him in quick succession. Rockhurst won 56 to 50.

Pettit was named the East-West game's most valuable player.

Gernert Leads Way Red Sox Win 9th One-Run Decision

SARASOTA, Fla., March 23—UP—Dick Gernert, forced to battle all over again for the Red Sox first base job he won last year, looked ready to reclaim it Tuesday on the strength of his recent slugging.

Gernert smashed two homers and drove in a third run with a sacrifice fly Monday to pace Boston to a 4 to 3 victory over Milwaukee. It was the Red Sox 10th spring victory and the ninth game they won by one run.

The Red Sox play host Tuesday to the Redlegs, who defeated Detroit at Lakeland, Fla., Monday 4 to 3. Cincinnati's triumph however was marred by an injury to shortstop Roy McMillan. The Redleg shortstop was spiked by Tiger catcher Johnny Bucha in a play at second base and 22 stitches were used to close the wound in his right instep.

It was McMillan's second injury in nine days and he is expected to be sidelined for about a week or 10 days.

Wertz Improves

TUCSON, Ariz., March 23—UP—Manager Jimmie Dykes of the Baltimore Orioles pointed to the improved hitting of Vic Wertz Tuesday and said the husky outfielder probably would provide the backbone of his team's long ball punch this season.

Wertz walloped his first two homers of the spring against the Cubs Sunday but had no further chance to aim for the fences Monday when a game against Cleveland was called off because of wet grounds. The Orioles are scheduled to play the Indians here Tuesday.

Reds Nip Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla., March 23—UP—Ray Herbert was making a determined bid for Detroit's No. 1 relief job Tuesday.

Relieving Dick Donovan in the sixth inning Monday, Herbert continued his fine spring showing by holding Cincinnati scoreless after even though the Tigers lost the game 4 to 3. The Tigers Tuesday meet the Chicago White Sox, who enjoyed an off day Monday.

No Room For Rookie

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 23—UP—Sandy Amoros, the International League batting champion of 1953, kept impressing the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday, even though they can't find room for him in their outfield.

Amoros' single with two out in the ninth snapped a 2 to 2 tie and gave the Dodgers a 3 to 2 victory over Pittsburgh Monday. He also drove in Brooklyn's second run with a double in the fifth inning.

The Athletics, who meet the Dodger here Tuesday, dropped a 12 to 6 decision to the Yankees Monday when southpaws Alex Kellner and Morris Martin were racked for 16 hits.

Porterfield Hurts

ORLANDO, Fla., March 23—UP—Bob Porterfield, Washington's ace right-hander, was nominated to face the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday as the Senators sought their third exhibition victory in 13 games this spring.

The Senators engaged in a double workout here Monday while the Phillies were absorbing a 9 to 3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Yank Rookies Shine

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23—UP—Yankee Manager Casey Stengel took advantage of a day off to put in a good word for two of his rookies—first baseman Bill Skowron and outfielder Bob Cerv.

Skowron blasted a homer, a double and a pair of singles as the

Sauer To Share Post

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 23—UP—Manager Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs said Tuesday that roommates Hank Sauer and Frank Baumholtz might share the right field job this season.

"Baumholtz is a great hitter when he is fresh, but he tires," said the Cub skipper, "while Sauer hits very well at home but not so well on the road. Both would benefit from occasional rests."

The Cubs, who took a day off from training Monday, meet the Giants here Tuesday. A scheduled charity exhibition game between the Giants and a Mexican all-star team was cancelled because of rain Monday.

Braves Get Smalley

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23—UP—The Milwaukee Braves were expecting the arrival Tuesday of shortstop Roy Smalley, acquired with a trade with the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Charlie Grimm said Smalley would provide the Braves with "infield insurance."

Milwaukee, with a spring record of eight victories and as many losses, was scheduled to meet the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday. Stan Musial collected three hits to pace the Cardinals' 10-hit attack as they thumped the Phillies 9 to 3 Monday.

19-Year-Old Wins North-South Title

PINEHURST, N.C., March 23—UP—The last shot of the last hole of the last round gave the 22nd North and South Women's Amateur golf championship to 19-year-old co-ed Joyce Ziske.

The shot, a 30-inch putt that was set up by a brilliant chip, brought the curly-haired Miss Ziske a one-up triumph over U.S. Amateur champion Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., Monday in the final round of match play.

Miss Ziske, a Northwestern University student from Waterford, Wis., who followed in the steps of Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., by becoming the second straight medalist to win the tourney, had come from behind to even the match with a par 3 on the short 17th hole.

It seemed that Miss Faulk would still pull out the match when her second shot was on the green on the tense 18th, 35 feet from the cup, while Miss Ziske's second was a foot off the green. But Miss Ziske chipped to within 30 inches of the cup.

That put the pressure on Miss Faulk and the Georgian slipped when her approach putt was six feet wide. She missed the six-footer, and then Miss Ziske dropped her short putt for the title.

Personal Property Evaluation for Businesses Due March 31

Pampa businessmen today had the remainder of the month in which to render their personal property for evaluation. And that includes all personal property located elsewhere and subject to taxation in Pampa, according to City Tax Assessor-Coroner Aubrey Jones.

Only 65-70 percent of the estimated 770 in Pampa today were all to be heard from before the March 31 deadline, Jones said.

This rendering has nothing to do with real estate, the taxman emphasized, pointing out that all items and improvements on them already been checked for 1954.

Most important concerns from a standpoint of property-owners, Jones continued, are those with fleets of trucks, or other fluctuating inventory. Others, like a barbershop, do not change measurably from one year to the next. If applicable property is not rendered by the end of the month, a collector-assessor went on the city tax offices will list it as understood and it will be submitted to the city's board of equalization.

The board of equalization will notify a property-owner only if his situation is hiked, Jones said.

Red Penalty Bill Action Stated Today

AUSTIN, March 23 — UP — A proposed bill to make Communist membership a crime in Texas was ready for action in the Senate Tuesday, but the maximum penalty proposed was a $20,000 fine and 30 years in prison rather than the death as Gov. Allan Shivers had advocated.

The bill, one of two drawn up by the Texas Industrial Commission to stiffen the state's anti-subversive laws, was approved unanimously Monday by the Senate Civil Liberties committee. But the committee refused to give immediate approval to a companion measure that would establish a five-member "loyalty review board," and sent it to a subcommittee for one week.

The Legislature was called into a 30-day special session a week ago by Shivers, who laid out a five-point program. He spelled out his requests for a $402 teacher pay hike, a $120 wage increase for state employees, an $11 million emergency building program and a $28.5 million tax bill to finance them.

But the governor, who has urged that Communists be electrocuted, said he would outline his ideas for control of subversives later.

The bill makes membership in the Communist party a felony, with the minimum penalty two years in prison.

The bill's author, Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, said it was based on the premise the Communist party is dedicated to force and violence and to the overthrow of the government.

The loyalty review bill was supported by veterans' organizations, but opposed by spokesmen for labor organizations and churches.

"There is undisputed need for legislation of this type," said L. E. Page, Texas commander of the American Legion. "If there is a need, something should be done about it. I have traveled 30,000 miles over Texas... and found no opposition to it. Maybe to some minor parts, but not to the principle." Page was a member of the State Industrial Commission, out of whose hearings the bill grew.

L. N. D. Wells Jr., Dallas, general counsel for the Texas State Federation of Labor (AFL) and a member of the commission's legal advisory board said it "takes Anglo-American jurisprudence and turns it upside down."

Joe T. Steadham of Austin, speaking for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said his members felt the bill was "the apprentice degree to setting up a dictatorship in this state or nation."

Rogers Speaks Out Against Current Political Bickering

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, in a philosophical address to the current investigations in Washington, D.C., and repeats his dislike of the tax bill now in the works in Congress in his weekly newsletter to his constituents in the 18th Congressional District.

The Pampan gives no indication, however, of when he expects to return to the Panhandle. Originally slated to get back to Texas in time for Shamrock's annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration, he was forced to cancel his plans because of the tax fight in the House of Representatives and the illness of his youngsters.

It is a philosophical address, when he returns home — probably in the first part of April — he will announce his candidacy for re-election to another two-year term in the House.

"The tragedy of the chaos, the confusion, the agitation, and the general hubbub flowing out of the present investigations," he writes, "lies not in the fact that one individual may be proved right or wrong."

Rather, "it lies in the fact that in this country an engaging of an internal bickering and strife that is not helping us to achieve the goal to which all true Americans are dedicated."

Political, economic and other problems usually solved by a cool, calculated and reasonable approach tempered," he writes, "with thought-provoking discussion or debate, not with fanfare, trumpet-blowing, name-calling and vilification."

Talking of the tax bill that has been presented to the House, the Pampan congressman says, "the bill as written gives the $100 deduction (per individual exemption), and more, to those receiving their income from stock dividends, but does not give this relief to those earning their income."

"I have supported tax relief, when possible, to be given the people," he continues, "I do not feel that favoritism should be shown any particular group in granting tax relief."

The other house of Congress, the Senate, "has put a new face on the excise tax reduction bill that may prove highly controversial when it comes back to the House," Rogers goes on.

"Whatever happens to either or both of these bills," the congressman writes, "I sincerely hope that out of all the fuss and furor will come a stimulation of our economy, an increased circulation of our medium of exchange that will result in our being able to balance the national budget and make appreciable payments on the principal of the national debt."

Soldier - Diplomat O'Daniel May Need Striped Pants On New Army Mission

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
HONOLULU (NEA)—Lt. Gen. John Wilson O'Daniel is clearing out his Pacific Command desk here and packing to go to Indo-China where he'll head the expanding U. S. Military Mission. He better include striped trousers—as well as a steel helmet.

As a soldier he'll have to go up front to see French troops where U. S.-made guns in lush jungles where Communist snipers share tree space with chattering monkeys.

And as a diplomat he must suggest better ways to use our weapons by coddling, wheedling, pleading. To the French commanding generals, proud as 10th generation dowagers, he has no right to and must never "insist."

"Ike, no mean soldier-diplomat, could not have picked a better man for the dual role—unless he went himself, compared to Washington in-fighting, Indo-Chinese ambassadors are mild.)

Despite his nickname of "Iron Mike," won in muddy infantry trenches in both World Wars and in frozen Korean foxholes, O'Daniel has spent years parlay-vooving with the sensitive French and he loves them like a lover loves Paris in the spring.

A careful student of hit-and-run guerrilla war, he's already made long inspection tours along the elephant trails of Laos and through the rice paddies of the Tonkin Delta.

To a large extent the future of the conflict in Indo-China depends on how good a salesman is "Iron Mike." Can he sell the French command some of the Pentagon's pet ideas which it firmly believes will help win the war in two years—assuming Korean style truce results from the Geneva conference in April?

These ideas include American methods to train and support more native troops. If fresh, loyal Indo-Chinese battalions can be run through U. S. schools, based on assembly-line methods tried in Greece and South Korea, they'll be able to handle the Red guerrillas and free tougher French battalions for the Grand Offensive.

For the French Chief in Indo-China, aristocratic Gen. Henri Navarre, has said with Gallic directness: "Victory is a woman. She does not give herself except to those who know how to take her."

A man of deep religious convictions, "Iron Mike" goes forth to his new assignment praying for time. Time, time, time—so badly needed—is the thumping heart beat of hope, time to make the natives string enough to defend themselves, Asians vs. Asians. Ike's idea.

For while Navarre and O'Daniel and the Pentagon are convinced the war cannot be lost on Indo-China's battlefields, others know it might be lost in the French National Assembly, divided into impotence by communism, cautionism and cynicism.

Fifty-eight now, "Iron Mike" first met the French Army one nervous night in 1918 when his green platoon relieved a Senegalese outfit.

The newcomers worried in their ditch, blasting at shadows until a French officer, walking in the open big as the Eiffel Tower, inquired: "What is wrong, mon ami?" But soon they met Germans, and at St. Mihiel "Iron Mike" collected a chunk of the Kaiser's lead.

That year he learned much from the French Army, "the finest in Europe." In World War II he saw it a broken, scattering thing, and taught it newer games, helped it rebuild.

He led attached French soldiers against Hitler in what reads today like a newsreel flashback of history... first into Algiers... Sicily... the bad Days & Nights of Salerno... crunch, crunch, crunch and—finally!—break through the Siegfried Line.

After Hitler went up like a toasted marshmallow in his Berlin bunker, "Iron Mike," who started in his first striped pants—in Moscow. As military attache he sniffed and studied communism from an office within boing distance of the Kremlin. Later, as commander of "I" Corps, he fought same in Korea.

Crickets can be used as thermometers. Count the number of chirps a cricket makes in 15 seconds, then add 40, and the result will be within a few degrees of the correct temperature.

Mom, Pop Blamed in Most Cases Of Kid Delinquency

CHICAGO—UP—Mom and Pop are to blame for part of the juvenile delinquency spurt in the last five years, according to Lois L. Higgins, director of Chicago's Crime Prevention Bureau.

"Many parents nowadays just don't care," said Mrs. Higgins, a pretty red-haired expert on teenage crime who is the mother of two children.

"What parents must do is work 24 hours a day to earn the respect and love of their children. Then the youngsters will love their homes and what they spend more time there than out on the streets."

Get to Know Children
But how to win their children's respect can be a tough problem in modern day "fast living," the authority added.

Parents have to be on their toes to compete with movies, automobiles, and TV.

For a family life "that binds," Mrs. Higgins suggested parents:

1. Make the evening meal a real family affair. Let the children discuss their school problems at the dinner table, as well as anything else that's on their minds.
2. Work to share the children's interests. If they collect Jazz records, don't let them know you think it's a worthless hobby. And don't monopolize the family record player with your own "long hair" favorites.
3. Let the children have parties at home. "It doesn't have to be fancy. Shroveit means a can of potato chips mean a party to them," she said.

4. Share some outside recreation with the children. (Mrs. Higgins goes bicycle riding with her 16-year-old boy and 12-year-old girl.)

5. Listen to everything the children have to say, "and listen with both ears," Mrs. Higgins said. "I've learned an awful lot from my kids. I even catch myself talking in their slang."

Children are "guests" in their parents' home, Mrs. Higgins said. "They were especially invited and they won't stay forever, you know. Let them enjoy themselves while they're there."

The crime-fighter, a deeply religious woman, said, "parents should remember that it was through love that their children came into this world. Therefore the parents should keep that spirit alive through the whole family and work 24 hours a day to earn the love and respect of their children."

Communist Tag On Robin Hood Stirs Students

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 23—UP—A group of townspeople and University of Michigan students were collecting geese and chicken feathers Monday in a stunt to publicize their protest against "McCarthyism."

Their campaign stemmed from a movement that began on the Indiana University campus after a member of the Indiana textbook commission labeled the story of Robin Hood "pro-Communist."

A group of Indiana students who called themselves "Robin Hood's merry men" started a so-called green feather drive. They proclaimed the green feather a symbol of democracy.

The group seeks support from those who "are concerned about Sen. (Joseph R.) McCarthy's threat to freedom," a spokesman said.

Similar campaigns have been started at Purdue and Wisconsin.

'Duke Of Duval' Scheduled To Testify Today In Court

ALICE, Tex., March 23—UP—The millionaire "Duke of Duval," South Texas political boss George B. Parr, was scheduled to take the stand Tuesday at his trial on charges he was carrying a pistol illegally when he threatened an opposition politician.

Manuel Marroquin, a one-time tortilla maker from San Diego, Tex., testified Monday that Parr not only had the pistol, but that he (Marroquin) was threatened and cursed in Spanish when he saw Parr after a meeting of the Freedom Party, an anti-Parr faction, in San Diego the night of Jan. 15.

The alleged pistol carrying, first aired Jan. 18, touched off a series of incidents:

1. Parr and his nephew, Duval county Sheriff Archer Farr, got in a bloody affray with four Texas Rangers, Jan. 18 when the elder Parr was late to a court hearing about the pistol carrying.
2. Two Texas Rangers, Capt. A. Y. Allee and Joe Bridge, were indicted by a Jim Wells grand jury for assault to murder George Farr.

7th District Attorney Raeburn Norris was cursed and kicked by Allee because the captain didn't like Norris' looks.

4. Allee reported he had learned of a plot to assassinate him.

5. Parr asked a federal court for protection against the Rangers, but was refused.

Marroquin was one of four prosecution witnesses Monday, as Judge Wash Storm refused to permit Allee to testify since he wasn't a witness.

Marroquin said he recently had lived in Alice and Corpus Christi hotels because "I was afraid to live in San Diego. I don't feel safe there." He said he was "afraid of most anybody there."

He said, after the Freedom Party meeting, he started to drive away with Manuel Carriles and Rafael Burnias, when they saw a car parked about 100 feet away and walked up.

"I wanted to help anyone who needed help," Marroquin testified.

Land Shortage May Force U. S. To Import Foodstuffs

(Special to The News)
"The United States may become a food-importing nation within the next few decades unless we make our western lands arable through irrigation," Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D. Colo.) warns in the current issue of Look magazine.

Irrigation of the arid West is a national, not strictly a Western problem, Sen. Johnson claims. He declares that it may make the difference between defeat and victory in war, or a food shortage and plenty in peace.

"Our national population increased by about 50,000,000 between 1915 and 1950," he writes in the Look article. "In order to feed these new mouths, we had to put into cultivation over 100,000,000 new acres of land."

In addition to irrigation, the senator points out that development of water in the Western states will open up new frontiers for vital industries. The uranium deposits of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Arizona cannot be fully worked without water for the personal use of the miners, he says. In the same way, water and water-power are needed for the growing industries of California, Washington and Texas.

Rep. Joe M. Pool of Dallas, that the beer tax be raised from $1.37 per barrel to $10. That was sent to a subcommittee for an unspecified period.

Brewery spokesmen opposed Pools proposal as "a death stroke at our industry."

But the spokesmen indicted they would resist too strongly the provision in Rep. Joe M. Kilgore's three-part bill to hike the tax to $2 per barrel.

'Must' Bills On Agenda In Legislative Session

AUSTIN, March 23—UP—one part of Gov. Allan Shivers' special session program had cleared the Senate Tuesday and a second was up for possible action as committees in both chambers continued to work on "must" bills.

With only Sen. William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi voting against it, the $23.5 million teacher pay raise bill cleared the upper house Monday with 7 favorable votes. Shireman said it didn't think the Senate should act on the bill until a tax bill to provide the funds has cleared the House.

The $11 million emergency construction bill was next on the Senate calendar.

Meanwhile, the House Revenue and Taxation committee held the second of three hearings Tuesday on the administration's tax bill, which raises on beer, corporations and natural gas. The beer section was taken up Monday.

Communist Bill Advanced
The Senate Civil Jurisprudence committee Monday approved one of two Communist control bills that grew out of Texas Industrial Commission hearing last December, but told a subcommittee to take a look at the second.

The approved bill makes Communist party membership a felony and establishes penalties ranging from two to 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine for belonging. The committee balked at approving immediately the companion bill to establish a five-member "Loyalty Review Board."

The building bill, providing for construction at the Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; University of Texas Dental Branch at Houston; State School for the Deaf at Austin, and the Eastern Prison Farm faced a possible filibuster by Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton. Phillips, who agreed the Deaf School construction was necessary, opposed all the rest. He forced a 10-hour Finance committee hearing last week, asking detailed questions about all parts of the bill, but it was voted out, 11 to 1.

The teacher pay bill, which includes a major revision of the pattern of state aid to education, was the first major bill to clear either house. It would raise base pay for beginning teachers from $2,403 to $2,806 a year, and boost other minimums by the same amount.

It would not raise all teachers pay, since the state only sets the minimum and some school districts already are paying more than that figure.

Alters Formula
It also changes the formula of state aid, now all over the $45 million raised by local districts, to 80 per cent of the cost with the districts paying the remainder.

A third change would establish a $100 per teacher allowance, which could be spent in any way a local school board saw fit.
