President Says McCarthy Should Not Judge Himself

Cites Practice As American Tradition

WASHINGTON, March 24 - President Eisenhower, commenting on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, said Wednesday that a man involved in a dispute should not sit in judgment on his own case. The President at his news conference declined to comment directly on McCarthy's insistence that he be permitted the right of cross-examination in the investigation of a dispute between his subcommittee and the Army. The President did say however that he did not believe any leadership could escape the responsibility for carrying on the tradition and practice that a man should not participate in the judgment of his own case. At the outset of his weekly meeting with reporters the President was asked: "The Republican leadership has said Senator McCarthy should not participate in an investigation in which he is involved. Yet, the senator insists on the right of cross-examination in the investigation of a dispute between his committee and the Army. What are your feelings in this matter?" The President said first that he had no feelings at all about a particular situation, but that he felt flatly that in America if a man is a party to a dispute, directly or indirectly, he does not sit in judgment on his own case. The President added that he did not believe any leadership could escape the responsibility for carrying on that tradition and that practice. Later in the news conference the President was told that McCarthy no longer wishes to sit in judgment, he has given up his vote, but feels he must have the right of cross-examination. The President was asked to comment. He refused, saying he did not know enough about the details of the case to discuss it. But he added firmly that there are certain things for which the leadership, obviously the GOP leaders - on Capitol Hill, could not escape responsibility. Senate Tax Talks Begin

WASHINGTON, March 24 - UP - The Senate begins debate Wednesday on a bill to cut excise taxes by $668 million amid indications some leading Democrats may seek to trim the controversial tax reduction bill further. Sen. Walter F. George (Ga), the top Democrat on the tax-writing finance committee, said he is "seriously considering" supporting an amendment by Democrat Sen. Paul H. Douglas (Ill.) to eliminate the present 10 per cent levy on home appliances such as refrigerators and ranges. George told a reporter he thinks the proposal would help stimulate lagging consumer buying and spur a business recovery. He said it is more important than two other amendments proposed by Douglas - to reduce automobile excise taxes from 10 to 5 per cent and to cut from 10 to 5 per cent the present tax on radio-TV equipment. Republicans generally favored passage of the bill in its present form although the administration is strongly opposed to any excise reductions at this time. Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.) finance committee chairman, said he is confident the measure will pass the Senate in "substantially" the same form as approved by his committee. The committee boosted the cuts to $668 million after the House approved the original bill providing annual reductions of $912 million in excise tax collections. The measure would reduce the per cent present federal taxes on a large list of items including jewelry, furs, women's handbags, telephone tolls and some admissions. It would continue the present tax rate on liquor, automobiles and cigars.

Shivers Fills Attorney Post

AUSTIN, March 24 - UP - Gov. Allan Shivers Wednesday appointed Ewing Werten as district attorney of Harris county to succeed William H. Scott, removed following charges he operated a bawdy house. Werten, who has been practicing law in Houston many years, is a former president of the Houston school board, former dean of the Houston law school, a past trustee of the University of Houston and a past president of the Houston Bar Association. Shivers referred to the Houston attorney as "one of Texas' most outstanding lawyers and civic-minded citizens. 'Short Order' Field In Use ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 24 - Military officials Wednesday lifted a ban on Alaska's first "short-order airfield" bulldozed out of the tundra in 10 days to prove that alternate military bases can be set up virtually overnight in the Arctic. A plane as big as a two-story office building, the C-124 "Flying Boxcar" tested the wilderness runway Wednesday and found it as stable as concrete. Within a 24-hour period, the Air Force's heaviest and lightest planes including a F-84 jet interceptor, taxied down the 10,000-foot long by 200-foot wide runway bulldozed out of ice and snow 300 miles northwest of Anchorage. Six men working around the clock in 12-hour shifts hacked out an operable airfield in a desolation of brush, bog and gully in less than two weeks.

Cops Catch Fleeing Cons

SUGARLAND, Tex., March 24 - UP - The last two of 10 convicts who broke loose from Harlem Prison near here Tuesday were captured near the Addicks community north of here at 6:40 a. m. Wednesday. They surrendered to two Texas prison system officers who had been part of a huge posse which had scoured the area all night long. The two, Eliseo G. Sepulveda, 23, serving eight years from Harris county for burglary, and Fernando O. Otero, 36, serving eight years from El Paso county for assault to rob said they had been chased by bloodhounds yapping on their trail through thickets the entire night. The other eight were caught within four hours of the break Tuesday as some 100 peace officers swarmed into the area, in Fort Bend and Harris counties.

Three Fined On Liquor Charges

Three more persons have been fined in connection with liquor law violations here, this concluding legal action that followed a raid on five establishments here. The three who each was fined $100 and costs in County court by Judge J. B. Maguire, Jr., Tuesday, were A. J. Hindman, who entered a plea of not guilty of selling intoxicating beverages during prohibitive hours, Mrs. A. B. Perry, who pleaded guilty to a similar charge, and W. T. Harris, who pleaded guilty to charges of possession of liquor for sale at a place other than licensed premises. Others who had been sentenced in previous hearings were Mrs. Linda Allen and Roy Edwards.

Would Stop 'Dope' Pictures WICHITA FALLS, Tex., March 24 - UP - Jimmy Castledine, Wichita county attorney, asked 30th district court for an injunction Tuesday against a Hollywood motion picture company which is shooting a picture in Wichita Falls on marijuana. 'Hot' Ashes Spew Tanker Navy Vessel Contaminated In Recent Hydrogen Tests

PEARL HARBOR, March 24 - UP - Persons known to have been accidentally exposed to atomic radiation in the massive March 1 Bikini hydrogen explosion totalled at least 370 Wednesday, with possibly others still to be discovered. A Navy announcement disclosed that the U. S. tanker Patapoco with 86 men and six officers aboard had been contaminated by radio-active "fallout" of ashes from the Bikini blast. The announcement said the men aboard the Patapoco were not dangerously exposed, but they were only the latest known to have been affected by the unexpectedly massive blast whose "hot" ashes gressmen prepared to leave for Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands, indicating that still other tests are near. 2. U. S. and Japanese specialists met at the Japanese foreign office in Tokyo for a joint study of the case in which 23 Japanese fishermen aboard the fishing vessel Fukuryu Maru were burned by the radio-active ash some 60 miles from Bikini. Japanese political groups demanded an end to hydrogen experiments in the mid-Pacific. 3. Guam authorities reported that 28 American Air Force weather observers in Rongerik Island, some 150 miles east of Bikini had been found unharmed after being hospitalized at Kwajalein. Natives Evacuated 4. Native inhabitants of Ujae Island, 160 miles south of Bikini, had been removed from the island and will not be allowed to return until heavy rains wash away the radio-active particles left by the "fall-out." The Patapoco put into Pearl Harbor for decontamination on orders of the Navy and the officers and

Absentee Vote Gets Underway

The deadline for aspirants to file for any of the 12 posts on the seven different school boards in Gray County on the election block this year was past today and absentee voting was underway. News items did not learn of the specially called meeting till minutes before the session got underway - and then the word came from unofficial sources. The full court was on hand for the get-together, plus Joe Fischer and Ken Huey, representing the county's insurance advisory board; Fred Neslage, chairman of the Highland General Hospital board; and Chet Lander, hospital administrator. County Judge J. B. Maguire Jr. told court that the insurance board had some recommendations ready for the commissioners' appraisal and that the matter of changing insurance rates made it necessary that some decision be made before April 1. "That is why I called this meeting," Maguire said. The county - owned hospital is being included in the survey by the insurance property, but Fischer emphasized that this survey does not include county bridges and trucks. "We're a long way from finishing survey," Fischer commented. Neslage told the commissioners' court that the hospital's board of directors would be "happy to go along" with what the court ordered. Each of the commissioners, Maguire said, had been sent copy of the insurance report prior to today's meeting.

Trio Of Bank Robbers Get Sentences

HOUSTON, March 24 - UP - Two persons found guilty of taking part in the Dec. 31 robbery of Houston National Bank Wednesday faced five-year terms in prison and $10,000 fines, and the youthful teller who "fingered" them had a three-year term to serve in a hospital. These sentences were passed Tuesday by U.S. District Judge T. M. Kennerly against James Mitchell, 23, Johnny Navarro, 24, and Donny Allen, 19. Before sentences were passed, attorneys for Mitchell and Navarro moved for new trials and Judge Kennerly set a hearing for the motion for 2 p.m. Thursday. Mitchell and Navarro each received a total of nine years - five years on an embezzlement charge and four years on a conspiracy charge - but the sentences run concurrently. They were found guilty of participating in the $55,731 robbery by a federal jury here March 12. Allen, a teller at the bank, pleaded guilty to similar charges and it was principally his testimony, which convicted the other two. An admitted user of narcotics, Allen likely could have received a suspended sentence because of his guilty plea and testimony but his attorney said it was felt the three-year span in a federal hospital would to the youth's benefit.

Sinkers Follow Trend

NEW YORK, March 24 - UP - The National Dinking Association reported Wednesday that a new type of doughnut flour has been developed which will decrease the amount of coffee soaked up by a dunked doughnut. Doughnut bakers will be encouraged to use the new mix as a counter-measure against the rising price of coffee, the association said.

'Blast City' Happy Over U.S. Decision

TEXAS CITY, Tex., March 24 - UP - Residents of this bustling industrial port, leveled nearly seven years ago, said Wednesday it was wonderful news a congressional committee thinks the federal government should pay for the blast that killed more than 600 persons. Some 560 persons were killed and thousands others injured in the Texas City disaster of April 16, 1947. The tremendous explosion began in a nitrate loaded aboard the French freighter SS Grandcamp. That blast and others as more ships exploded leveled vast chemical and industrial plants and left the city as scarred as if it had been hit by an atomic bomb. Lawsuits stemming from the explosion have been in the courts ever since, and the Supreme Court ruled last year the federal government couldn't be held liable for damages. Ruling from Committee But Tuesday the House Judiciary committee said the government was wholly responsible and recommended that Congress pass a law to pay claims. Individual survivors would get up to $10,000 and industrial firms undetermined amounts according to the proposed law. Widows and children of victims who have been living off donations greeted the news with quiet satisfaction. But some feared it might be years before the money finally arrived. "That's wonderful," said Curtis Trahan, who was Texas City mayor at the time of the blast. "It's the best news we've had in a long time." Trahan, a dealer in stocks and bonds, said most residents of the city "about gave up" their hopes for aid when the news of the Supreme Court decision arrived. Private Fund Built The hundreds of widows and children and other relatives of the persons killed had been aided by the tremendous "heart" of Texans and those in other states. Donations ranging from a dime up to thousands of dollars built up a private fund of more than $1,000,000. The Red Cross also spent more than $1 million in relief during the first year after the blast. The private fund was exhausted several months ago. The city itself is bustling. The only major scar remaining is on the grain elevator. The anchor of the freighter High Flyer, which also exploded, ripped a corner off the elevator in a mile-long flight. But the ruins left by the explosion and fire have been cleaned up. The Monsanto Chemical Co. (See "BLAST CITY" Page 3)

Churchill Soothes British Alarmists

WASHINGTON, March 24 - UP - Wise, old Prime Minister Winston Churchill has tripped up the British Socialists on the first lap of their campaign to make a big political issue of the new look in American defense plans. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced the new look in early January. Hereafter, he said, the United States would be prepared to meet aggression with instant and massive retaliation. He said and massive retaliation, by means and at places of our own choosing. That meant the A and H-bombs, if necessary, and on the Kremlin, if that seemed necessary. President Eisenhower the next day explained the new policy was based on fundamental military truth that the more destructive the weapon the greater the advantage of surprise. Moreover, he said, the only thing likely to prevent a surprise attack on the United States would be knowledge that we would strike back hard and at once. British Socialists began to beat the alarm drums. They feared the United States would plunge into a war, dragging Great Britain along. On March 18 a Socialist member of Parliament challenged Churchill to explain the American new look and how the British could escape war if it became operative. The Socialists were demanding consultations before the bombs went off. Since a considerable section of British and European public opinion judges Americans to be somewhat irresponsibly trigger happy, the Socialists' alarms caught a lot of attention. Churchill answered up Tuesday in Parliament. He said the United States must consult with the British before ordering any massive retaliation against aggressors from U.S. air bases in Europe. London dispatches indicated that he was only vaguely reassuring about retaliation which might be launched elsewhere than from Great Britain. And because British bases are not essential to the launching of the most modern United States aerial weapons, Churchill's statement that this country must consult him is a long way from a British veto on American strategy.

Crash Kills AF Trainee

SANTA ROSA, Calif., March 24 - UP - A pilot trainee was killed and his companion parachuted to safety Tuesday when their Air Force T-33 jet trainer from Hamilton Air Force Base exploded in flight near here. The Air Force identified the victim as 2nd Lt. Harold G. Sims, 27, of Happy, Tex. Second Lt. Wallace B. Canfield, 23, of Sacramento, Calif., ejected safely. A cool front, centered southward from the Mountain Home Ranch, 10 miles northeast of here. Robert Fouts, co-operator of the ranch, said he saw the plane explode about 11:35 p.m. est. He was "bits" of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

Haymes Seeks Ouster Author

NEW YORK, March 24 - UP - Dick Haymes and Rita Hayworth asked friends in Washington Wednesday to find out who "inspired" the government deportation action against the Argentine-born crooner. Bartley Crum, attorney for the singer and his red-haired actress wife, charged that "interested parties brought pressure on the government" to deport Haymes and sabotage his six-month marriage to Rita. "There are parties who want to see this marriage broken up," Crum said. Miss Hayworth said she would stick by her trouble-plagued husband "to the end" in his fight against the deportation order handed down Tuesday by the U.S. Immigration Service. Attorneys already had filed an appeal of the deportation decision and said they would fight to the Supreme Court if necessary to reverse it. Crum said the case might be tied up in court for as long as four years. The appeal is scheduled to be heard within 60 to 90 days by the Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington. A suit also is pending in U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco which would outlaw the deportation action on the ground it violates a U.S.-Argentina treaty giving citizens of both nations equal rights to come and go.

Rain Hopes Appear Dim

By UNITED PRESS Scattered showers and local thunderstorms over the central and eastern sections of the state and widely scattered showers in the western area was the weather outlook for Texas Wednesday. A low pressure area in the northeast corner of New Mexico was stationary along a front southeastward to Childress and eastward across southern Oklahoma. A cool front, centered southward from Salt Flat, was moving slowly eastward. Low clouds and fog hung north of the front. Childress had zero ceiling visibility. The weather was generally clear in the Panhandle and South Plains. Traces of rain fell Tuesday night in Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, College Station, Houston, Beaumont and Fort Arthur. Lowest temperature recorded Tuesday night was 38 at Dalhart, the highest 72 at Laredo. Other temperatures included Amarillo 48, El Paso 52, Wichita Falls 55, Lubbock 37, Midland and Presidio 60, Houston and Lufkin 67, Texarkana and Austin 68, Del Rio 59, Waco and Fort Worth 70 and Dallas and San Angelo 71. French Air Hits Coolie Supply Line

HANOI, Indo-China, March 24 - UP - French pilots struck Wednesday at a supply train of 130,000 coolies and hundreds of trucks cranking south from the Chinese border with tons of ammunition and food for starving Communist besiegers of Dien Bien Phu. The pilots flying U.S.-built planes said Red Viet Minh engineers using unlimited coolie labor cut road straight to rebel positions in Dien Bien Phu. Bright sunny weather permitted the airmen to bomb and strafe the traffic on the road which eliminates a total of 300 miles of twisting trails and paths over the Thai mountains. It was on this new and busy jungle thoroughfare that 14 French fliers killed 1200 Viet Minh troops over the weekend. The French were flying around the clock in an all-out attempt to prevent the bulk of supplies from reaching the hungry forces of crafty Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. French spokesmen reported Tuesday that Vo's food shortage was so critical that Communist infantrymen engaged in combat with French Union patrols sometimes turned away and scrambled for scraps of food in the trenches. "It was believed Vo might be forced to call off his costly siege of the northwest Viet Nam bastion if his supply line was cut off or curtailed. If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Border Crisis In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, Israel, March 24 - UP - Israel accused Syria Wednesday of massing a brigade of infantry on the Israeli frontier and moved to carry its dispute with Jordan before the United Nations Security Council. An Israeli army spokesman said Syria moved up the infantry brigade in addition to its normal border forces heightening a crisis in the Holy Land Jordan accused Israeli planes of violating its border. Israel announced earlier Wednesday it was withdrawing "permanently" from the Jordanian - Israeli mixed armistice commission because of the commission's refusal to blame Jordan for the ambush of a bus near Beersheba in which 11 persons were killed.

Pilots Scarce For Army Whirlybird

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Army is at last what it considers to be the perfect flyin' machine.

It will go straight up and down and doesn't need a landing field, but, once aloft, flies forward with the speed of a conventional plane. The Army calls it a convertible and considers it the ideal vehicle for hauling men and material to and from the battlefield. It eliminates the need for roads and airstrips.

However, now that it has such a machine, the question comes up as to whether or not there are perfect enough men in existence capable of flying it.

"When you land" he claims, "you're actually doing a violent climb. Now, when you go up to all of that activity the physical requirements of straight flight you begin demanding something nature may never have intended the average man to do."

The Air Force and McDonnell Aircraft Corp. have come up with the XV-1 for the Army, called the first flyable convertiplane. The service has bought 10. But it's expected that it will take regular pilots who have also been trained in helicopters to learn to fly convertiplanes.

ontrols of the XV-1," and Air Force expert admits, "we are aware that the pilot is going to have a busy time of it, especially when he is switching from horizontal to vertical flight and back."

The XV-1 will take off with its helicopter rotor powered by tip jet units. When it's aloft the pilot uses the rotor as a conventional airplane. It's going fast enough for its stub-wing to keep it flying. Then he turns off the rotor, which continues to turn free in the wind. After that he depends on the conventional propeller in a pusher position for his normal level flight.

The Army helicopter pilot anticipates this difficulty: "The problem is going to be during the period while you're changing from one kind of power to another. You'll be watching both rotor and prop speeds at the same time to cut one in and the other out at just the right time to avoid a stall. You'll be watching direction and general attitude of the plane. And then all of a sudden you'll have to switch your reactions from one type of flying to another."

A man doesn't have to be a regular pilot to learn to become an Army helicopter pilot. But it's expected that it will take regular pilots who have also been trained in helicopters to learn to fly convertiplanes.

That's if it proves that convertiplanes is capable of the physical demands of piloting a convertiplane in the first place. If this pilot difficulty doesn't prove insurmountable, Army transportation experts predict that the convertiplane will largely take the place of its helicopters because of WHIRLYBIRD: This is an Army pilot's idea of the physical equipment needed to fly a helicopter. It would take even more to fly a convertiplane.

Their greater versatility... Civilian air lines also are watching the convertiplane closely for obvious applications to commercial freight and passenger service. Persons in the aviation industry generally consider the convertiplane one of most significant aircraft developments since the war. Because of the Army's long-time requirement for such a plane it has put up most of the research and development money for it, getting technical assistance from the Air Force.

Before actual flight tests are attempted with the XV-1, perhaps this summer, full-scale wind-tunnel tests will be made to determine its flying characteristics. Another type of convertiplane, the XV-2, has been developed for the Army by the Bell Aircraft Co. It's different from the XV-1 with two engines on the tips of stubby wings. For helicopter flight the engines and props will be pointed up. For forward flight the engines will rotate into a horizontal position. It's possible that this type of convertiplane will be even more difficult to pilot than the XV-1.

Harvester Cagers Are JayCee Guests

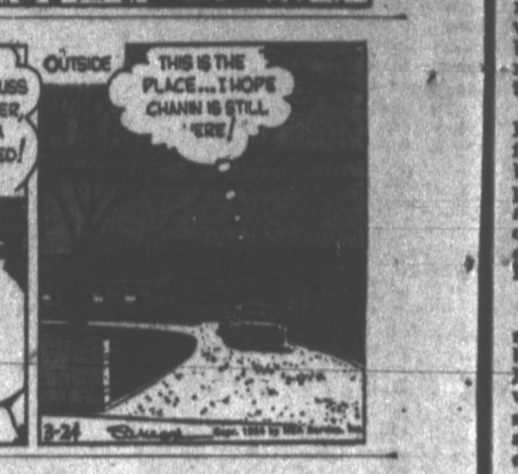

The 1954 Pampa Harvester basketball team was the collective guest of honor at this week's meeting of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Assistant Coach Terry Culley, who accompanied the team, gave a few short remarks and then introduced each member of the team to the JayCees.

Following the Tuesday noon luncheon, a film of the state finals — between Pampa and Crozier Tech of Dallas — was shown, much of it in slow motion. Head Coach Clifton McNeely was out of town. As has been the custom the last two weeks, the club members were divided and sat on different sides of the room. Part of the current membership drive, the club has been divided into the "Blue," under Bill Harris, and the "Gray," under Bill Martin.

Three other guests were on hand for the luncheon. Abraham Lincoln, noted in his youth as a wrestler, was beaten in two matches by a fellow volunteer in the Black Hawk War.

State Building Bill Outlasts Filibuster

AUSTIN, March 24 — UP — The State Senate sent to the House today its second piece of special session major legislation in as many days, an $11 million state building bill.

The bill weathered a three-hour filibuster by Sen. Jimmy Phillips, Angleton, Tuesday and was approved by a 25 to 1 vote, with only Phillips voting against it.

The House Appropriations committee was scheduled to begin work on the big spending bill Wednesday.

The Senate approved a $23.5 million bill to give Texas school teachers a $402 a year pay hike Monday. That was the first piece of the legislation for which Gov. Allan Shivers called the 30-day special session to be approved by either chamber.

Phillips' Second Fight Phillips, who waged even a longer fight against the construction bill in the Senate Finance committee, opposed it because, he said, most of the construction was "semi-emergency."

"We ought not to go on a spending spree for semi-emergencies, using money that we do not have and might not get," Phillips said. Meanwhile, the House Revenue and Taxation committee, which must find the money for the two big spending bills plus a $120 annual pay hike for state employees, held its third hearing on the administration tax bill.

The committee Tuesday took up the bill's section to increase the corporation franchise tax from $1.25 to $2 per $1,000 of capitalization.

Rep. Joe Burkett Jr. of Kerrville, a committee member, was the only opponent. He said it was a "consumer's tax," because corporations would pass the levy on to the users of their products.

"The corporations of Texas don't have the courage — or are unwilling — to come up here and stand their ground and defend their customers," Burkett said.

He estimated the tax would raise $9 million a year, and cost every Texas family $9 annually. A hike in the beer tax from $1.37 per barrel to $2 was considered Monday, and the third portion of the bill levied a one-half cent per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas tax. That tax replaced a gas gathering tax passed by the 1951 Legislature, which was ruled unconstitutional last month by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Staging the filibuster was an old trick for Phillips, who holds the one-man record of 17 hours, 35 minutes steady talking. He set that mark April 3, 1951, when he spoke against a proposal to abolish the State Hospital Board.

Phillips was particularly critical of the bill's section allocating $3.5 million for the Southwestern Medical School at Dallas. Other parts gave $2.5 million to the Texas school for the Deaf at Austin, $3.5 million to the Eastham Prison Farm, and $1,187,500 to the University of Texas' Dental School at Houston.

UN Human-Rights Covenant Is Lost In Bricker Shuffle

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Just as the final votes on the Bricker amendment were about to be taken in the U. S. Senate, the United Nations Commission on Human Rights convened in New York with the simultaneous announcement of work on its much discussed human-rights covenant.

The timing couldn't have been worse, although there is probably more misunderstanding of what this human-rights fight is all about than on any of the other highly controversial issues raised in the UN. The official U. S. government position on it is not well known.

One of the principal reasons advanced for the necessity of passing Ohio Sen. John W. Bricker's proposed constitutional amendment is to limit the force of international treaties as internal U. S. law had been a fear of this UN covenant on human rights.

The UN Commission on Human Rights has been trying to draft its covenant ever since 1948. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was head of the commission until 1960. It was under her chairmanship, in 1948, that the first Declaration of Human Rights was drawn up.

New Polio Vaccine To Be Tried

WASHINGTON, March 24 — Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Tuesday a new polio vaccine will be tested on upwards of 1 million children this summer and its effectiveness should be known by 1955.

Riper said the new vaccine, developed by polio scientist Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, is scheduled to be tried out on two groups of children in the first, second and third grades in 200 areas across the nation. The "field trials" will be under the auspices of state health departments.

In a copyrighted interview with U. S. News & World Report, Riper said the question of the "safety" of the new vaccine should "have been answered to everybody's satisfaction." He said each lot will be given independent safety tests by the manufacturer, Dr. Salk's laboratory and the Public Health Service.

He said the results of the forthcoming field trials — due to start next month — should reveal the effectiveness of a new vaccine by 1955. But he warned that if it does turn out to be a preventative for the crippling disease, enough will not be available by then to give it to all who may want it.

Push-Button War Emerges From Fiction To Grim Fact

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst
Push-button warfare is emerging from the pages of the science-fiction magazines and into the world of grim reality. Evidence is piling up rapidly that it's later than we think in the development of this innovation of man's destructive potential.

Tuesday the first components of the American built Martin B-41—the "Matador" pilotless bomber—were delivered to West Germany. Scheduled to be based close along the Iron Curtain, they will stand ready to deliver atomic bombs deep inside Soviet territory, if war should come.

Already many principal cities of America are being guarded by "Mike" rocket installations, designed to soon be replaced by the touch of a button to seek out, under radar direction, and to destroy approaching enemy bombers.

Britain also boasts a growing arsenal of atomic and other push-button weapons. But this is a field of warfare in which there are no monopolies—even temporary. Both East and West started on a near equal footing with knowledge, processes and even technicians developed by Hitler's Germany. In the final stages of the war he might have won had his awesome V-1 and V-2 rockets been developed earlier and perfected faster.

GOP Fails To Unseat Sen. Chavez

By ROY GALVIN
WASHINGTON, March 24 — UP — The long Republican effort to oust Democrat Dennis Chavez of New Mexico from the Senate was defeated finally in the record Wednesday as a failure.

It began 15 months ago when Republican Patrick J. Hurley, his opponent, charged that Chavez' reelection to the Senate was illegal because of widespread fraud and other irregularities in the New Mexico balloting of November, 1952.

It ended on the Senate floor late Tuesday with a surprisingly strong resolution by a Senate Elections subcommittee. The Republican majority of the subcommittee said the voting, in which Chavez received 5,600 more votes than Hurley, was "so riddled with fraud" it was impossible to tall who actually won.

New Hollywood Luminary Says She's Shy In Places

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, March 24 — Audrey Hepburn, a newcomer to movies who says she's flat-chested and homely, is the hot favorite to reign as 1954's best actress at Thursday night's 26th annual academy awards.

This year's race of the celluloid kings and queens was turned into a $750,000 telecast that will make it the most gala, colorful Oscar derby in 10 years. And by now the movie colonists, as eager as if this were a presidential election, have been predicting around their swimming pools who is likely to win the coveted gold statuette.

The big-eyed, thin-necked Miss Hepburn is rated a cinch for her first movie, "Roman Holiday," but the best actor's contest is a photo finish between Bill Holden, star of "Stalag 17," and Burt Lancaster, praised for his performance of the tough sergeant in "From Here to Eternity."

"Eternity" is favored to be awarded the best picture honors by members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, with "Shane," a close rival. Two stars of "Eternity," Donna Reed and Frank Sinatra, are popular choices for the supporting Oscars.

Miss Hepburn, Holden, Miss Reed, Sinatra and "From Here to Eternity" won the annual statuette at academy ceremonies released Wednesday by Daily Variety, a show business trade paper. But Lancaster was only a handful of votes behind.

As usual, only eight of the 20 globe-trotting acting nominees will be in the audience of 2,500 executives, fans and stars at the Pantages Theater on busy Hollywood Blvd.

Not one "best actress" nominee is in town. Miss Hepburn, Maggie McNamara and Deborah Kerr will be telecast at a banquet meeting of nominees in New York. Ava Gardner is in Rome and Leslie Caron in Washington.

Holden will be on hand but Richard Burton is in England, Marion Brandt in New York, Montgomery Clift in Jamaica and Lancaster in Mexico. Miss Reed and Sinatra will be among many supporting nominees who will pull up in limousines before screaming fans outside the arena theater.

Each year some of the nominees campaign as if the fate of the world hung on the election. Most of the stars hired press agents but unobtrusive Robert Strauss took out ads in the trade papers showing him in the underwater in "Stalag 17." The captions said, "Have underwear, will travel."

A total of 448 news correspondents will be swarming through the Pantages. Most of the press sit under the big stage in a crowded room that is like a black hole of Calcutta equipped with typewriters, television sets, telephones, and other media for flashing the news around the world.

The winners' move on an "assembly line" from the stage to a basement full of news photographers, then to magazine photographers, then to reporters.

The biggest audience will be at home by their television or radio sets.

plant, where damage was estimated at more than $2 million, and the Texas terminal, where damage of more than $2 million, have been rebuilt. Total damage to the city and industrial firms was estimated between $60 million and $100 million.

Population Triples

But Texas City's population has more than tripled since 1947. Several million-dollar plants are under construction. Millions of dollars worth of new schools are being built. The industrial payroll of the city of more than 22,000 is estimated at close to $30 million a year.

Editor Clyde Ragsdale of the Texas City Sun said the port was ranked third behind Houston and Fort Arthur on the Texas coast, and savings were booming along the waterfront.

"Everywhere I go, I hear people say that's the town that blew away," he said. "We didn't blow away. We are now one of the most prominent industrial cities on the Texas coast. The people here have more or less pushed disaster into the background and now they're going forward to building a beautiful city."

Three out of four of the 1947 blast survivors, he said, still live in the city, and practically all of them had relatives killed in the disaster. But they stayed and are making the city better than ever before.

Contract For Armory To Be Let

The subject of a new armory building for Pampa's Recreation park comes up at 10 a.m. Thursday before the Texas National Guard Armory board in Austin.

Allou and Wilson, of Denton, was the construction firm that submitted the low bid March 11 to the Texas Board of Control. The bid: $68,446. There were four other bidders, two from Pampa and two from Amarillo.

All five bids submitted will be considered by the armory board for a decision. After the armory board action, the award is returned to the Board of Control for processing and then sent to the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D. C. for approval. That may take about six weeks, armory board representatives have said.

Winning contractor, after Washington action, will have 120 days in which to complete the building, which would make its completion date sometime toward the end of summer.

Panther Tale Was A Hoax

LOS ANGELES, March 24 — Cookie salesman Wayne Roberts Jr., who threw parts of Los Angeles into a near panic last week with his story of an escaped black panther prowling the streets, has admitted the whole thing was a hoax, police said Wednesday.

Police Chief William H. Parker said Roberts admitted Tuesday that neither the panther nor the 300-animal carnival from which he said the cat escaped existed.

Parker said Roberts hoped to get a publicity job with a carnival here last week when he told police a "ferocious" black panther had escaped from its carnel cage.

Couple Held In Mutilation Death Of Son

NEWOKA, Okla., March 24 — An eastern Oklahoma couple, who officers said, tied a string around their son's organs as a "house-breaking" device, were held Wednesday for an investigation into the deaths of four of their sons.

Officers expected a pathologist's report to be completed Wednesday on the latest of the children to die, five-year-old Danny Lee Spann.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah J. Spann, 38, of the Justice community near Newokwa, were arrested after employees of a funeral home reported finding a "laid out" body Sunday. Spann is a sawmill worker. His wife is expecting another child, her eighth, in a few weeks.

County attorney Tom Smith said charges would be filed if a pathologist's report disclosed the string contributed to the boy's death. The pathologist also was checking a bruise on the child's cheek to learn whether it was severe enough to cause death. Smith said the boy also was suffering from malnutrition.

The county attorney said Spann told him the string was attached to the child as a "house-breaking" means. He said his wife put it on Mr. Spann said it was her husband's idea.

Smith said his office was investigating the deaths of three other Spann boys in the past eight years on Danny Lee's 11 days of birth. The family has two daughters, both apparently in good health.

"My wife doesn't like boys and refused to take good care of them," Smith quoted the father.

The county attorney said officers had made two previous calls to the Spann home after neighbors had complained Danny Lee had been abused.

On one occasion they said they found Danny Lee staked out in the yard on a leash. The parents denied at the time they had abused the boy.

Dr. Forrest Brown, Seminole county public health director, said the injury caused by the string around the boy's organs was inflicted.

Funeral home attendants said the boy was brought to them Monday night and the father asked that funeral services be held immediately. They became suspicious and notified officers.

Sixth Suit Against Parr 'Duchy' Filed

SAN DIEGO, Tex., March 24 — A sixth taxpayers' suit charging mishandling of public funds in Duval county was on file Wednesday in 79th District court.

The suit was filed against R. L. Adams, Duval school superintendent by Mark Heath of Fallfurris, who said it was probably the last of the series. It charged Adams approved payments to employees of the 12 common school districts, although they were relatives of the trustees who hired them.

The suit, like the five earlier ones, grew out of an investigation of Duval county, domain of political boss George B. Parr, by state authorities. Attorney General John Ben Shepperd said the probe was the first step in the end of "boss rule in South Texas."

The plaintiffs asked for a temporary injunction to prevent Adams from approving any further payments to trustees of the common school districts or their relatives.

For a long time, it has been a practice for the trustees of various common school districts of Duval county to appoint employees who are related to some members of the appointing board of trustees," the suit charged.

It said Adams approved the payments "with full knowledge" they were illegal.

The plaintiffs listed 21 employees alleged to be relatives of trustees, as well as a number of payments to the trustees themselves for work performed for the school districts and articles sold to them.

The plaintiffs were Raymond Garcia, Israel Almaraz, Luis G. Martinez, Enrique Chapa, Santiago Trevino, Armando Cantu, Antonio Recio and Luz Ramos.

No hearing date was set immediately.

No Estimate Set On Fire Damage

No estimate had been made late this morning of damage caused by a fire which gutted the interior of the Cozy Corner cafe early today.

The fire, origin of which was undetermined, caused considerable damage to the interior of the building, according to Fire Chief Ernest Winborne. The alarm was turned in about 1:15 a.m.

Warren Lea, owner of the cafe, had recently moved it from the corner of Brown and Wilks streets to its present site about three-fourths mile west of city limits on the Amarillo highway.

THE MARQUEE
BY DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) After hearing Audrey Hepburn speak in "Ondine," one of the major recording company executives decided she'd be a success as a singer. You may have 10 left. Then you'd never heard her sing, didn't you know if she could carry a note the song, whether it suits any of your artists, and who else is recording it. And some songs are simply too sophisticated for the public.

"So, when you get finished, often the best songs are junked. What's best isn't always the same as what's most commercial."

As an example he cites "Secret Love," the tune Doris Day is riding to the top. Jack says if it had come in cold to a publisher or a record company, it might have been turned down. Too sophisticated. But it was in a movie, so it was recorded. Result — surprise hit.

"But don't get the idea the A & R men underestimate the public taste," Pleis says. "People would like to believe that, but it isn't so." Henry Cavitt plays the evil wizard in the Broadway musical "Kismet." Before that he'd been Big Ben on NBC-TV's "Howdy Doody."

To get the "Kismet" part, Calvin, a big Texan, had to shed 120 pounds. Now he's back on "Howdy Doody," equipped with a beifull of pillows.

There's a man who'd do or diet for his art.

Mrs. Nace Reviews Book, 'Ponder Heart,' At El Progresso's 30th Anniversary Tea

Mrs. Otis Nace, Pampa professional writer and reviewer, brought the humorous and pathetic characters of Sadona Wiley's "Ponder Heart" in her review for El Progresso's Club members and guests at the club's 30th anniversary guest day tea in the First Christian Church yesterday afternoon. "Ponder Heart" is, in the words of the reviewer, "an intimate monologue spoken by a charming spunky middle aged spinster, the youngest and last of the Ponder family." A light and entertaining book, the vagaries and fading gentility of an old southern family in the sleepy town of Clay, Miss., are dealt with in a confident uncondemning manner.

Edna Earl Ponder, the narrator, tells the story of her vague beloved, Uncle Daniels, who may not have many brains but what he has are Ponder brains. He never did belong in asylum cause even if he was a little vacant he certainly wasn't crazy. Poor old grandpa, who dropped dead the day old Uncle Daniels brought home 11-year-old Bonny D. Peacock, was once mistakenly locked up in the asylum when he came to return Uncle Daniels after one of his frequent vacations.

Besides Bonny D. who is described in the book as a "dandelion puffball, pretty but nothing at all when you get to the what's underneath," Mrs. Nace dramatically portrayed other town characters, Miss Tea Cake McGee who sang so loud every Sunday in the Baptist Church that you lost your place in the hymnal, and the nice old colored man, Big John. "Tea Cake was the widow of Professor McGee who wasn't professor anything, but just awful smart."

Mrs. Nace concluded her review with the climactic court-room scene, when citizens forget their charge of murder against poor helpless Uncle Daniels, when, in one grand gesture, he indulges his weakness for giving things away and hands out his family fortune in bills to all the townspeople.

Prior to the review, guests, who were registered in the guest book by Mrs. Robert Rasmussen, were served cake and tea from a pink covered table by Mrs. Sam E. Cook and Mrs. D. V. Burton. Written in pearls before the three-tiered pink and green anniversary cake was "El Progresso, 30 Years."

Charter members Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, Mrs. George Walstad, Mrs. C. P. Buckler and Mrs. Dave Pope were introduced to the audience by Mrs. W. R. Ewing, who gave a brief history of their service in the club and presented them and the guest speaker with gifts of appreciation.

Assisting with the arrangements were Mrs. Bob McCoy and Mrs. Dick Crews. Mrs. Carline Nance introduced the speaker.

South American Dancing Class Meets Tonight

Genis Galle, of the Galle studio in Amarillo, who, along with his partner, Virginia Collette, danced his way to fame on the supper club circuit, will hold his second class of instruction in South American dances at the Country Club tonight at 8.

Galle and Miss Collette started dancing as a team when they were still in school in Amarillo. Since then they've appeared in leading clubs in the United States and abroad. They have given a dance concert tour of Canada.

RUTH MILLET

With so many families engaged in "do-it-yourself" projects around their homes, here is a letter that should get into print.

A man writes: "We like our neighbors but there are several things that annoy me. They only consider their pocketbooks at our expense. I have a trade, and while I don't mind lending out my tools (which cost several hundred dollars), it is contrary to our union laws as well as is doing work after hours for them. People who should call the shops. But they think they can save a few bucks and so continually impose on us."

"What they don't know is that our relatives on both sides are doing the same thing and home isn't what it used to be."

"When I work all day I don't feel like working for nothing at night. And it's a nuisance to always be lending my tools. Can't you write something about this?"

It is probably time someone did for there have been other letters along this line. One was from a husband who has the knack of being able to "fix" anything and who complained that his wife was forever volunteering his services to the neighbors.

Said she: "My wife is always saying, 'Get Jim to help you.' He'll do your linoleum and he'll be glad to help you with yours."

In this rush to do it ourselves—let's be sure we ARE doing jobs ourselves and not enlisting the aid of friends, neighbors or relatives.

Nor is it right to depend on others for the tools needed to do a job.

Saving "a few bucks" is fine—if it isn't done at someone else's expense. But it becomes chiseling when it gets down to that.

Pastry And Meringue Making Demonstrated At Bell HD Meeting

A pastry making demonstration made up the afternoon's program at a recent meeting of the Bell Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Ernest McKnight, southwest of the city.

"Add half of the shortening to the flour and work together until the mixture looks like corn meal," the speaker said. "Add the other half of the shortening and cut into the mixture till it is in pieces the size of large peas. Use a fork for mixing in the water which should be added a tablespoon at a time. To prevent 'weeping' in a meringue," she concluded, "push the egg whites out against the crust so that it will seal and bake in a 400 degree oven."

Mrs. McKnight served lemon pie and coffee to Mmes. Loyd Collins, Conner O'Neal, Troy Manness, H. H. Keashey, Nolan Cole, Jerry O'Neal, T. D. Anderwald, Carl Smith, D. W. Swain, Hershel Kelly, Roland Daurer and Miss Dunlap.

The next club meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Loyd Collins April 2.

Kansans Face Water Lack

A resident of El Dorado, Kan., said: "Every time we turn on the faucet, we think how much we're lowering the lake." That nutshell is the story of the worst water shortage the state has known. For folks not living along major streams, life may not be dull, but it is increasingly dry. If you lived in El Dorado or Empor or Yates Center or other eastern Kansas towns, you'd wash dishes in a pan, with not too much soap, because that means more rinse water. All washdays would be big ones, because it takes too much water to launder a few clothes. You'd let the windows go dirty or use a chemical cleaner. You'd watch your lawn burn up and your shrubs and flowers die of thirst. You'd take a sponge bath or sit in two inches of water in the tub. You'd save bath water to flush toilets. Those are a few of the privations suffered under water-short conditions illustrated by these photos.

Fall River reservoir, in Greenwood County, is at its lowest ebb since construction. The wood line (arrow) shows normal water line. The bathhouses in background are normally about. Reservoir supplies Fredonia and many other towns through release of water into Fall River.

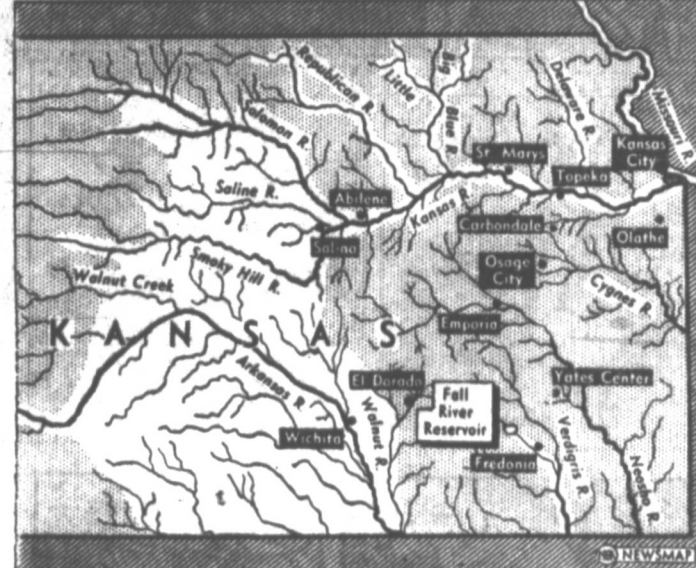

H. R. Van Middlesworth points to two-inch mark in his bath tub. Authorities request El Doradoans to set that limit for baths.

Mrs. H. R. Van Middlesworth, of El Dorado, rinses dishes in small pan instead of under running faucet.

Kitchen sink, with scant water, is the present "bath tub" for Mrs. Charlton Lawhorn's year-old daughter, Linda.

Map shows stream flow in Kansas as of October, 1953. Generally no flow in shaded area. Western Kansas not too badly off, because it has wells. But dry streams are serious problem to eastern part.

U.S. Air Strikes Could Be Checked By Churchill

LONDON, March 24—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said Tuesday that the United States must consult with Britain before ordering "massive retaliation" against any aggressor from U.S. air bases in Britain.

Churchill told the House of Commons that he has "smooth and friendly arrangements" with President Eisenhower for discussing such emergencies as aggression.

In a brief statement, Churchill said the use of U.S. bases in Britain "is a matter for joint decision by the government and the United States government in the light of circumstances prevailing at the time."

Rome Cops Put Quietus On Mob

ROME, March 24—Premier Mario Scelba's armed police crushed a Fascist-led demonstration in Rome Tuesday before it could mushroom into new rioting over Trieste.

Police herded 30 youths into vans and dispersed 2,000 other students. None was injured.

More than 1,000 armed riot police, teamed with federal police, an organization created to prevent the students' attempt to march toward foreign embassies, including that of the United States.

Students, shouting "Trieste is ours," "down with Tito" brought back memories of last November's demonstration, but Scelba's swift-moving police prevented things from getting out of hand.

The students belatedly were marking the sixth anniversary of the unfulfilled promise by the United States, Britain and France to give all of Trieste's free territory to Italy.

Adenauer Political Team Has Revitalized Germany

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst
West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is a firm believer in the old adage that nothing succeeds like success.

West Germany's economic revival is an unparalleled success, Adenauer and his "team" who have engineered West Germany's impressive economic revival are pressing their advantage, convinced that political power in Europe must inevitably gravitate to the country's muscle-bulging industrial and economic growth.

Adenauer, the super-salesman of reborn West Germany heads up the team that has made possible the modern miracle of Germany's industrial and financial expansion. The other members are:

The planner—Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard, who has guided Germany on a course of enterprising free trade and free competition.

A determined minister—The purse-string watcher—Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer, who buys his cigarettes one at a time rather than by the pack and imposes an equally tight-fisted austerity on the nation's life.

The doer—Alfred Krupp Von Bohlen and Halbach, whose industrial empire, vast capital wealth and industrial know-how has been re-established as a German asset since his release from a U.S. war crimes prison in March, 1951.

Temporarily setting aside such worrisome and pressing matters as the Saar negotiations with France and parliamentary debate of the drafting of German youth for a European Army, salesman Adenauer is currently visiting the eastern Mediterranean, seeking new outlets for West Germany's steam-bursting industrial expansion and bustling trade.

German engineers and businessmen already have regained a strong foothold in both Greece and Turkey, which Adenauer is visiting on his present tour.

Foreign Trade Increases
Krupp is constructing a nickel processing plant in Greece and Krupp and other West German interests have shown an interest in developing Greek mineral deposits. West Germany's trade with Greece grew from $46 million in 1951 to $68 million in 1952 and hit a level of $14 million for November, 1953—last month for which figures are available.

Trade with Turkey has jumped from a total volume of $108 million in 1950 to $230 million in 1952. German firms are working on power dams, bridges, railroads, and have contracts to supply tractors and farm implements.

Erhard has kept the doors to free trade open. Schaeffer has kept a tight rein on Germany's credit balances so that funds are available for investment and enterprise abroad. Krupp has a nest-egg of nearly $100 million of assets, restored by the Western Allies, with which to work.

Those are impressive arguments to any country for Germany's leadership in Europe, no matter what restraints are imposed by the Western powers' "occupation statute."

French Win In Indo-China Seen By Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON, March 24—UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles expressed optimism Tuesday that French forces will win the war in Indo-China despite evidence the Chinese Communists want to prolong the fighting.

Dulles said he sees no prospect of military reverses serious enough to upset the Navarre plan for winning the war. Under that plan, the French expect to defeat the Communist rebels in about a year.

Dulles said nothing has happened yet on the battlefield to shake his confidence in the French plan.

Dulles told a news conference both sides may win local victories but he does not expect Communists to win domination of Indo-China.

Earlier, informed sources reported Adm. Arthur W. Radford is bending every effort to round up some U.S. B-26 bombers for the battle of Dien Bien Phu. Radford hopes to head off a Communist victory there because of the possible effect on morale of the French homefront.

Asked if the United States policy is still geared to a military victory in Indo-China, Dulles said he sees no reason to abandon the Navarre plan for winning at least decisive military results over the Communists if not complete victory.

Lads Say They Set $150,000 Fire

DALLAS, March 24—UP—Juvenile authorities Tuesday were holding two small boys, aged 11 and 12, who told police they were playing with matches and accidentally started a $150,000 fire which destroyed one wing of the Farmers and Merchants Compress Co. warehouse Sunday.

The boys told officers they entered the warehouse from outside doors that are kept open for ventilation. They said one of the matches ignited a bale of cotton and they tried in vain to put it out. They ran from the building and turned in the alarm.

The blaze, third in 12 years at that location, destroyed 2,000 bales of cotton.

A third boy, nine, was released.

Finance Boys Can't Foreclose
OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24—UP—A Dallas investment firm Monday asked Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaughn to dismiss a government action to confiscate the car of an accused narcotics violator because the suspect still owes money on the car.

Vaughn took the motion under advisement.

Federal officers filed the forfeiture on the car driven by Leonard Leroy Moore, 36, of Dallas, who was arrested here June 21, 1953. Officers said they found more than 1,100 narcotic tablets, including codeine, morphine and an opium derivative, in the car.

Radioactive Arsenic Used To Trace Brain Tumors

By DELOS SMITH
BOSTON, March 24.—UP—The human brain now can be made radioactive with arsenic. It's not only perfectly safe, it's a life saver.
First, arsenic is made radioactive in an atomic furnace. Then it makes the brain radioactive and becomes a highly-efficient revealer and locator of brain tumors before the tumors have rooted themselves so deeply their removal by surgery is impossible.
The scientists who perfected the method described it Wednesday as the best yet for "mapping" the brain for tumors without the slightest risk to the patient. It has been used on almost 300 persons. At present the batting average for correct results is around .900.
Carried in blood to brain
Arsenic, which is an element, becomes a form, or isotope, of itself when it comes out of the atomic furnace, and gives off a continuous series of rays for 29 days. A tiny amount is injected into a vein of a person suspected of having a brain tumor and the blood stream carries the arsenic to the brain. Tumors absorb three to nine times more radioactive substances than normal tissues. Thus any tumors on the brain will be giving

Poorest Indian Tribe - Or Were

Navajos Strike Pay Dirt

By KENNETH O. GILMORE NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Navajo Indians, one of the poorest and unhealthiest tribes in North America, have struck uranium. The recent discoveries of great pockets of raw uranium in the area may bring new wealth to the tribe. A $2,750,000 uranium processing plant is already under construction near Shiprock, N. M., and a large amount of the uranium for the plant will come from Navajo lands leased in Arizona. The Atomic Energy Commission cloaks the whole uranium operation in secrecy. It will not disclose the amount of uranium processed last year. It has been learned, however, that roughly $470,000 went into the bills of the Navajo Tribal Council from rentals and royalties of uranium lands for the year ending June 30, 1953.

team, so the Indians are offered cash in advance for the mineral rights to their lands. In both cases it is a gamble since the subsequent royalties and rentals have nothing to do with the already-paid bonus. Employment among Navajos is also on the upswing due to increased development of oil and uranium. Once the Navajos were the most destitute Indian tribe in the country. For years they fought a continuous struggle with famine. While other Indians grew rich, the Navajos eked out a meager existence. In 1947 the situation became so critical Congress appropriated $1,500,000 for immediate relief. Many private charity organizations sent clothes and food to the reservation, where nearly 33,000 residents live off 10 million sun-baked acres.

Funds from the Tribal Council are being spent to improve the economic, political and educational lot of the Indians. The man most responsible for this wise course, according to Harper, is Sam Akkeah, chairman of the Council. The Navajos are not yet on easy street, but their economic situation is improving. Independence from outside assistance is what the Indians want most, but for a long while that goal will be impossible. In 1950 Congress authorized $85,750,000 to be spent over a 10-year period for a long range rehabilitation program for the Navajo and Hopi Indians. Perhaps by 1960, with the help of greater returns off oil and uranium, the Navajos will have regained the abundance they enjoyed before the white man came.

Parr Draws Fine For Pistol Totin'

ALICE, Tex., March 24 —UP— South Texas political boss George E. Parr was found guilty Tuesday night of illegally carrying a pistol and fined $150 by a six-man jury which rejected prosecution pleas to "throw him in the cool, cool jug."

Parr paid the fine immediately and thus closed the books on a Jan. 18 incident which led to his manhandling by Texas Rangers, who have been charged with assault to murder, and what Parr said were Ranger threats against his life.

HE MAKES THREE — This is Burt Lewter, 33, of 508 E. Francis, who has filed his candidacy for justice of the peace, Precinct Two, Place Two. Running against him in the July 24 Democratic primary will be incumbent John Andrews and Aspirant A. G. (George) Seltz. A native Texan, Lewter was born and reared in Cook County before moving to Pampa more than 20 years ago. He is a businessman, is married and has a daughter, Nickie, 15. It's his first "go" at political office. "I am out for the common welfare of all the people," he said in his announcement. If elected, "I expect to carry on a nice, clean, legitimate office, one that anybody would be glad to visit." (News Photo)

The Jim Wells county court jury chose to believe Manuel Marroquin, a political opponent of Parr, on what Parr brandished at Marroquin after a meeting of the Freedom party at San Diego, Tex., two months ago. Almost Minimum Penalty But the jury assessed almost the minimum penalty for the offense, as it ignored prosecutor Sam Burris' plea that Parr be jailed rather than fined. Judge Wash Storm instructed the jury to fix the sentence, if Parr was guilty, with the penalty ranging from a $100 to $500 fine to one month to a year in jail. Parr, taking the witness stand in his own defense Tuesday, told the jury he had only a pair of binoculars, not a gun, in his hand when "I told (Marroquin) to get his fanny away from there." "This boils down to a question of facts," Burris summed up. "Was or was not George Parr carrying a pistol? It's a question of truth and veracity. Who are you going to believe?" Asked for Acquittal Defense attorney Ed Lloyd asked the jury for acquittal. "Whatever Manuel Marroquin's purpose was, this whole thing resulted from his act. George had no use for a pistol on that occasion." Much of Tuesday's testimony

This sum is only a starting trickle in the flood of dollars that should roll in during the next few years. For any brave who can lay his hands on a Geiger counter has a chance to make a fortune once the mechanism starts clicking.

Allen G. Harper, area director of the Navajo Agency for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, says, "Uranium is the most important development on the reservation in the last few years. We hope it will mean new wealth, health and dignity."

But the Arizona uranium boom will not solve all of the Navajo troubles. They can use all the money they can get from uranium royalties, and more. Only recently, secret hearings of the House Appropriations Committee were released indicating shocking health conditions on the reservation. The average life span of a Navajo is only 30 years. Navajos lead the nation in infant mortality and tuberculosis. Hospital facilities are desperately needed along with a health education program. Some 3000 tubercular Indians are roaming the plains uncared for and spreading their disease. Many of them simply do not know better.

Oil is also paying handsome profits to the Navajos. Millions of dollars worth is gurgling to the surface of their arid desert. But compared to uranium prospecting individual gain from oil is not as easily accomplished. The job of prospecting, drilling and transporting is complicated and costly. Last year the local government of the Navajos, called the Tribal Council, collected a total of $5,161,000 from oil. The major portion came from bonuses which amounted to $4,872,000.

A bonus paid to the tribe by an oil company is much the same as one given to a prospective baseball player. Just as a rookie is given a check for signing with a

URANIUM MINE puts Navajo Indians in new headress on this Arizona reservation. Uranium brought them $740,000 in 1953.

Two rehearsals, a parade and possibly some help from Amarillo television were on the docket. Chorus of the show was to meet at 3:30 p.m. today in the junior high auditorium. And the full cast was to hold its final dress rehearsal at 7 p.m. today in the same location. A parade — complete with girls, bands, girls, convertibles and girls — is scheduled for 4 p.m. Thursday on the downtown streets of Pampa, Henry Gruben, impresario for the show, told club members. A mobile public address system will probably be used to herald the parade, he said. Gruben added that he thought there was a good chance that some news of the JayCees' play might be telecast over an Amarillo channel, but he was not certain. Miss Virginia Wellman, Long Beach, Calif., representing the Empire Producing Company, is helping the JayCees put on the show which is to be largely staffed by club members themselves. A fashion show, a quiz show and a baby contest are only three of the highlights. The show takes place in the "Hidde-Ho" Club where 10 prominent business and professional men appear as "Broadway Butterflies" and "Butter and Egg Men." Miss Wellman explains. Their gags and jokes run the gamut from the big "Hooray and Whoop De Do" number to an old-time melodrama of the silent movie days, "He Was Her Man but He Done Didn't." This is the cast: Bill Waters, "Lucky" Lamson, master of ceremonies; Lyle Gage, Diamond Lil; Ken McGuire, Oil Well Willie; Charle Wilkerson, Frivolous Sal; Ken Calkins, Goodtime Charlie; Malcolm Hinkle, Kiddie Kate; James Evans, Bull Moose Malloy; Dick Stewers, Minnie the Moocher; Fred Myers, Wall Street Sam; Bob Parkinson, Big Bertha; and Dr. Bob Sybert, Senator I. Klasmen. Chorus girls will be Misses Jerry Hughes, Nickie Lewter, Dottie Rightwell, Sue Doda, Jerrrie Shelton, Pat McConnell, Janice Frazier, Beth Slagle, Kathryn Stone, Judith Baer and Ann Kennedy.

Capital Newsmen Are Dying

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

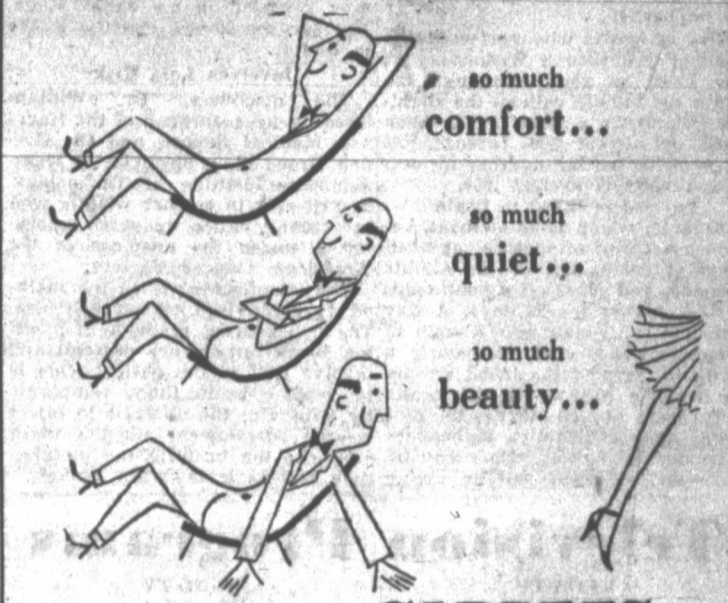

WASHINGTON, March 24 —UP— The National Press Club, which has more than a few fat men aboard, decided to slim 'em down. So far the idea hasn't worked so good. There are a few fat ones who are still fat, in spite of the "fat man's lunch" of 340 calories which appears on the menu every day. I've been trying it for a couple of weeks and have gained weight — but not from the "fat man's lunch." The thing makes a man so hungry that he takes the elevator from the 13th floor and sneaks down into a hide-out for something to eat. Here's what you face on one of those diet lunches. The price is right for Washington ($1.15) but the stomach is empty when you finish. Small grilled hamburger; and small means small. Two lettuce leaves. One pineapple ring. One tablespoon of cottage cheese. One small slice of toast. Half a pat of butter. Black coffee, or tea or skim milk.

All in Pamphlet I called the nutrition section of the Department of Agriculture and the nice young nutritionist referred me to a weight reduction pamphlet put out by Michigan State College. I looked it up. It was put out by Margaret A. Ohlson, Ph.D., who knows her vegetables. The brochure broke things down to 1400 calories a day. Bad as I am at figures, 340 calories for mid-day didn't add up. Where I grew up, lunch means dinner — and dinner is a full meal. A couple of leaves of lettuce, with a midget hamburger on the side, isn't filling. If you have time to break away from the typewriter or the plow for "lunch," the Department of Agriculture, has a daily menu for the entire week. More Cheese One Day For instance, one day for lunch, instead of a tablespoon of cottage cheese, you get a whole half cup. Plus four ounces of meat loaf, a tomato, whole milk (instead of skim). Another day, you can have four ounces of steak. Another day 4 to 5 oz. of roast chicken. When I have steak I don't want anybody to weigh it. Also chicken, and make mine southern fried. And not only that, when I get lettuce, I like half a head and I want plenty of dressing on it. The lady at the Department of Agriculture told me that puts on the pounds. She may have something. If good foods puts it on, I guess I'll have to go along with the fat men. Small glasses of skim milk and a couple of leaves of tired lettuce aren't for me. I own a belt that lets out.
