Dock Workers Strike In NY Over Back Pay

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—UP—The 25,000-member International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) shut down the port of New York for the second time in six months Thursday in a bitter dispute over one year's back wages.

Shipping spokesmen immediately voiced fears the new tieup would force diversion of millions of dollars in cargoes and permanently cripple the nation's busiest port.

The late strike by the ILA lasted 29 days and cost the port $500 million in lost cargoes and shipping business. Three ILA leaders were jailed and the union was fined a total of $92,500 for pressuring the tieup in the face of a federal court ban.

Tuesday's strike order, backed by unanimous vote of the union's rank and file, took effect at every pier in the port except those used by the military.

The strike order was issued by the union's 170-man wage policy committee after 25 locals voted unanimously to reject an industry demand for a two-year contract with a no-strike clause.

John A. Burke, federal mediation officer, said he would call separate sessions of the ILA and shipping representatives later Tuesday to "get the facts."

Huff Resigns Water Post

C. A. (Left) Huff, of Pampa, president of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority since its beginning, has resigned from office, effective today.

The Pampa City Commission, upon receipt of his letter of resignation, today named Lynn Boyd, Pampa lumber dealer, to take his place on the authority's board of directors.

That will make two new men representing Pampa on the board of directors. B. D. Robison was named recently to fill the post of Fred Thompson, when Thompson declined to serve another term.

May Choose Maxey Presumably, Robert Maxey, Lubbock, who is vice president of the authority, will serve as acting president until a new one is elected. Next scheduled meeting of the authority's board of directors is Monday.

The outgoing president said he was resigning because of doctor's orders. His term would have run till mid '55. He has been in Dallas for the last month or so for treatment of an injured eye. In the letter, he states he should be home in about two weeks.

Huff is a former Pampa mayor, former Rotary Club president and former Chamber of Commerce president. And he was one of the leading exponents of the water authority long before it was formed. Boyd is a former city commissioner and former Chamber of Commerce president.

City to Open Bids In other action, the city commission this morning decided Nov. 2 would be the date for two bid openings. Fire Chief Ernest Winborne and City Director of Public Works James Cowan will prepare the specifications and Winborne will appear before the

Yugoslavia, Italy End Long Feud

LONDON, Oct. 5.—UP—Italy and Yugoslavia, after nine years of disputing the possession of Trieste, signed an Anglo-American sponsored agreement Tuesday which partitioned the strategic area.

The two countries approved formally an agreement worked out through Anglo-American diplomacy just one year after the two southern European nations stormily rejected an Anglo-American settlement by decree.

The accord splitting the strip of Adriatic coast between Italy and Yugoslavia closed a troublesome gap in western defenses. It also permits the withdrawal of 4,000 American and 3,000 British troops from the area ending a nine-year occupation.

Italian Ambassador Manlio Brosio and Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Velebit signed the settlement of the British foreign office here.

U.S. High Commissioner to Austria Llewellyn Thompson and British Assistant Foreign Undersecretary Geoffrey W. Harrison signed for their nations. Thompson and Harrison were active participants in the past 10 months of secret negotiation which led to the agreement.

The United States and Britain guarantee Tuesday's accord and promised that they will not be a party to any future alterations of the settlement of the dispute.

The agreement roughly divides the free territory of Trieste, created by the 1947 Italian peace treaty, along the existing line between Yugoslav lead Zone B and Zone A which has been occupied by Anglo-American troops. Slight frontier modifications (See TRIESTE, Page 2)

Dulles Plans To Explain German Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles tentatively plans a nationwide radio-TV address Wednesday night to explain the historic new Allied agreement on West Germany to the American people, informed sources said Tuesday.

They said Dulles, who returned from the German conference in London only Monday, is drafting a 15-minute report telling the importance of the nine-nation decision to make Germany a free state and help arm her in the western camp. Dulles already has halted the agreement as one of "tremendous historic importance."

Despite Dulles' high optimism over the outcome of the London meeting, he has pointed out that parliaments of the nations involved must ratify some sections of the agreement.

Radford Urges U.S. Regain Superiority

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5.—UP—Adm. Arthur W. Radford declared Tuesday that the United States must build the best fighting machine in the world because it cannot depend on anything else for its "ultimate security."

Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, warned that this country's armed forces are "relatively small" compared to those of the Communist bloc.

To counter this power, he said America must develop more efficient fighting men, superior weapons, and better techniques than "any other nation." He said it also must pursue a "vigorous" and "long pull" military program that will assure a "high plateau" of preparedness "for as many years as we can foresee."

"No Intermediate Success" "In war there is no intermediate measure of success," Radford told the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. "Second best is to be defeated, and military defeat carries with it national disaster—Political, economic, social and spiritual disaster."

He said the administration's defense program avoids "one of the main pitfalls of the past" by building strength steadily rather than in spurts and stops.

"Instead of pushing the throttle wide open, or tight shut, we are setting it carefully at a realistic cruising speed," he said. "We have adopted a program of preparedness for the long pull, a preparedness in which our armed forces are not princes today and paupers tomorrow."

"High Degree of Readiness" There must be a "higher degree of readiness" and a "greater reliance on forces in being" than ever before, he said, because of the Soviet threat. He warned against temporary measures geared to "short-term" Soviet tactical maneuvers.

Radford did not refer to the current Red Chinese threat to Quemoy and Formosa. But he bore the dangers of letting any more free territory fall under Communist domination.

"If communism is permitted to gobble up parts of the world one by one," he said, "the day will come when the Communist bloc will be so powerful that no corner of the world will be safe."

If it comes from a hardware store we have it, Lewis Hardware, Advertiser.

Radford's speech was part of a series of talks at the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. He also spoke at the Pampa-San Angelo football game.

A street dance is scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 16 at Somerville and (See OIL WEEK, Page 2) stand between the Courthouse and the City Hall. Mayor Tom Rose will introduce the winner and Rep. Walter Rogers will give a short talk. Winner of the contest will get an expenses-paid trip to the Texas State Fair in Dallas. She will also appear Oct. 13 at the Pampa-San Angelo football game.

Greenpun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, filed the damage action in district court Monday. The suit accused McCarthy of making "defamatory, libelous and slanderous" charges on a statewide radio broadcast that Greenpun was an "ex-Communist."

Greenpun previously was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that he wrote a newspaper column which allegedly tended to incite the senator's assassination.

The publisher's damage action asked $500,000 general damages and $500,000 punitive. It stated McCarthy quoted Greenpun as admitting he was a former Communist before 1,000 at a 1952 political rally. McCarthy "knowingly and maliciously" defamed Greenpun since he knew the statement was "false," the suit stated.

Traffic Claims Tanker Mate PASADENA, Tex., Oct. 5.—UP—William B. Gibbs, 29, third mate on the Standard Oil Tanker Esso, Springfield, was killed in a two-car smashup here Monday. Robert Roebuck, 29, another crew member, and Mrs. H. B. McClenney—the drivers involved—suffered only minor injuries. No charges were filed immediately.

Bundestag Is Urged To Approve Treaty

BONN, Germany, Oct. 5.—UP—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Tuesday urged parliament to ratify the London treaties for German rearmament as the basis for "a working community of the European and Atlantic nations."

The 78-year-old chief of state, who faces an uphill battle against determined Socialist opposition to the pact, said they offer a chance to end "the crisis of the western community of nations."

In a one-hour review of the London decisions to rearm Germany as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Brussels alliance, and to restore her sovereignty, Adenauer told the bundestag, lower house of parliament: "The unity of the western world has thus been restored, without which there could be no peace, no freedom and no unification for Germany."

Adenauer addressed the bundestag after holding a lengthy, closed session with his cabinet in which he reviewed the London conference decisions.

The chancellor was loudly applauded at the close of his speech. A full-dress parliamentary debate of the London agreements will open on Thursday but a vote is not expected on the issues until later.

Marilyn And Joe Surprise The World

Editor's Note: Marilyn Monroe and Joe DiMaggio, the most famous newlyweds of 1954, surprised the world Monday by ending their nine-month marriage. The behind-the-scenes story of the marriage and why it could not last will be detailed in a three-part series. Here is how Marilyn and Joe met and romanced.

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5—UP—Three years ago a famous ex-baseball player and a blonde movie starlet fell in love over spaghetti on a blind date after he had admired her pin-up pictures.

But Monday Marilyn Monroe, by now everybody's favorite blonde, and Joe DiMaggio, a jobless sports great, called an end to a marriage the world had eagerly watched.

What was behind Marilyn's sudden phone call to her studio that she and Joe had a spat and were calling it quits?

Marilyn and Joe were from different worlds — she of movies, publicity, cheesecake and glamour, while Joe was a king of sports. She is warm and outgoing; he is quiet and shy. Yet one day in 1951 Marilyn excitedly told a friend, "I have a blind date to meet an interesting fellow. He's a baseball player and he's famous."

She didn't realize how famous until she met him, at an Italian restaurant and everybody fluttered over Joe. Marilyn's nude calendar wasn't out yet.

"I liked his seriousness," she said then. "I can spot a pony and this man was real. We came separately but we left together, ahead of everybody else."

The girl who brought prosperity to the calendar business and revived sex in the movies had years of loneliness behind her. She started life in an orphanage because her mother was mentally ill and her father dead. She had 11 sets of foster parents before she was 15. Just before her 16th birthday

Rogers Says 'Advertising' Gives Enemies Our Secrets

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, claims America's enemies are getting too much information on the nation's welfare and safety. In his weekly newsletter to the 18th Congressional District, Rogers says the United States should not "advertise its insufficiencies."

"The American people are all primarily concerned with the facts," he writes, "but they all realize that when this information is broadcast, it falls on the waiting ears of our potential enemies."

Referring to a recent report that had been released on the accessibility of critical materials to the United States in time of war, the senator says it showed that vital securities of the nation had been in serious jeopardy, "because we have been dependent for many of our essential raw materials on sources in far-off lands."

The report concerned 77 raw materials which Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson declared essential and indispensable in waging modern warfare, materials that had been previously acquired by import. The general context of the report, Rogers continued, was that the Western Hemisphere can become completely sufficient in the production of necessary critical materials in time of war and that America could materially increase its own economic production of strategic and critical materials by strengthening its laws regulating foreign trade.

It was pointed out, the congressman went on, that there were more known commercial reserves of critical materials in the United States now than ever before in history. "I sincerely hope that the information contained in this report is exactly correct," Rogers states. "However, I doubt the advisability of giving information of this sort to those enemies of this country who are so anxious to get information of this kind."

Gore Calls GOP Record 'Miserable'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5—UP—Sen. Albert Gore told a Democratic fund-raising dinner Monday night the Republicans' record in the 83rd Congress was so "miserable" that GOP campaigners are using the "genial personality of President Eisenhower" to distract attention from it.

Gore told the $25-a-plate diners there was a "split personality" in the Republican party. One group promotes "President Eisenhower the man," he said, while another directs the administration.

The Tennessee Democrat said the directors were a "big money crowd" that devises and advises on tax policies, determines the budget and, in large measure, directs the administration. He devoted his strongest criticism to the Republican-sponsored tax revision bill, which he said "gives most relief to the few who need it least and least relief to the many who need it most."

Gore said only 9 cents of the "Republican tax-cut dollar" will go to families making $5,000 a year or less, while 73 cents will go to corporations and the remaining 18 cents to tax-payers in the $5,000 and up bracket.

Houston Area Builders Face Fraud Charges

HOUSTON, Oct. 5—UP—Nine Houston area builders and real estate men faced charges Tuesday of alleged fraud in connection with the Veterans Administration's home loan program.

The men were indicted last week by a federal grand jury, but the charges were kept secret until the men were arrested Monday. The indictments charged they induced veterans to obtain loans on homes in which the veterans did not intend to live. The loans allegedly then were sold to the men who were indicted.

Those indicted were C. L. Fitzhenry, 46, vice president of the Accurate Construction Co.; R. I. McClanahan, a former city electrical inspector, and Charles H. Baldrige Sr., 56, an accountant; Fredrick H. Ellis Jr., 43, a real estate salesman; John Wofford, 59, another salesman; James D. Blake, 47, real estate dealer; Foster J. Ambler, 63, salesman; Allen Lee Brookshire, 28, real estate dealer, and Ray J. Roenigk Jr., 30, a real estate dealer.

Fitzhenry, McClanahan and Baldrige allegedly operated in southeast Houston; Ellis and Wofford in Houston; Blake, Ambler, and Brookshire in Pasadena, a Houston suburb, and Roenigk in the Alondale area.

All but Roenigk, who is in the real estate business as a sideline, were indicted for conspiracy.

C. A. Frioux, an assistant U.S. attorney, said the indictments did not end a current investigation into alleged home loan frauds. He said he expected to file more charges.

New Army Ration Ordered 'En Masse'

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—UP—You might think that the Army still travels on its tummy—and you are right.

The Army has just placed another order for some millions of meals. These meals are what are called the "five-in-one" variety—two and a half million packaged pre-cooked rations.

The new rations are enough food for five men for one day. They are allotted to small groups of men in sports where a kitchen would be out of place.

The GI's of World War II maybe might have even wished they were back in harness. The new ration offers such-as chicken and gravy, canned shoe-string spuds, canned pecan rolls, and canned bread.

That is not to mention things like canned applesauce, pears, a couple of kinds of pork, ham with gravy, sandwich, cookies, vegetable bean soup, canned pound cake, vitamin-fortified peanut butter, pan chocolate candies, fudge bars coated with chocolate, and dry cream and coffee.

The two suspects, identified as Jack E. Bowland, 23, and Clyde Vaughn, 25, both of Vernon, Tex., were to be charged and arraigned here Monday.

They were arrested after two men, one of them wearing a woman's silk stocking over his face to distort his features, forced an employe of a Safeway store to open the store safe.

The two men fled afoot after first planning to escape in a car parked at the store, and then thinking better of it.

can afford coffee, which the Army can, apparently.

According to Army official, dry soluble coffee cream was developed and now replaces sweetened dehydrated milk.

Actually, these pre-cooked rations will be used for training and travel purposes and the "just in case" maneuvers.

But in the case of actual combat, they could be very important.

Efforts Of Newsmen, Farmer Result In Suspects' Capture

CLOVIS, N. M., Oct. 5—UP—A radio station newscaster and a farmer, each unknown to the other, combined their efforts Sunday to bring about the capture of two men suspected of staging a $1,000 holdup hours previously.

The two suspects, identified as Jack E. Bowland, 23, and Clyde Vaughn, 25, both of Vernon, Tex., were to be charged and arraigned here Monday.

They were arrested after two men, one of them wearing a woman's silk stocking over his face to distort his features, forced an employe of a Safeway store to open the store safe.

The two men fled afoot after first planning to escape in a car parked at the store, and then thinking better of it.

The holdup was described at 10:45 a.m. by newscaster Bill Prime of radio station KCLV. One of his listeners was Buddy Winters, a farmer who lives eight miles east of here.

At that moment, Winters looked out the window of his living room and saw two men approaching on foot. Suspicious, Winters called Sheriff Val Baumgart who, with a posse of state police, sped to the farm and arrested Bowland and Vaughn.

Baumgart said the two men admitted the holdup. The sheriff recovered all but about $15 of the loot.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

WHILE TALKING with Frank Smith about shoes, I learned something that has been tickling my curiosity. It's about one of the latest shoe styles — I don't know what you call them, but they're the kind that are like a sling pump, but don't have any sling. In other words, the only part of the shoe that goes over the foot in any way is down at the toe.

SINCE THIS seemed to defy all the laws of gravity, I have been wondering how you keep these shoes on — how you can even walk in them without shuffling along. But Mr. Smith explained that there is an adhesive band in the bottom of the shoe which adheres to the foot when it is slipped into the shoe. "You can even dance in them," he explained. I certainly was glad to have that mystery cleared up for me.

The most popular shoe this year, Mr. Smith stated, is the halter style in reptiles, suedes and calf. Best colors in reptiles, according to an international rating, will be graphite (dark grey) first, blue grey, second; and avocado, third. In sport shoe reptiles, russet rates first.

In the "closed" shoe, the French heel (slender, medium height) rates high, especially in suede. And rhinestone trim, even on street shoes, will be seen a lot this year.

In "flats" for dress, the most popular style is along the opera-pump type. Best colors are black, first; brown, second; grey, third; avocado, fourth; and rust, fifth. With this style, you'll also find the rhinestone and button trim.

For sportswear, the "old favorite" is back again, Mr. Smith pointed out. The "old favorite" is the suede loafer. An added feature this year is bar-tacking in white, appearing on all suede loafers, regardless of color. "Bar-tacking" is heavy white thread by the insole that forms a design like little squares. It gives the shoe added strength, and this year gives it some trimming. Best colors, in order, are grey, black, brown and navy.

The moccasin will also be popular again with "new bead treatment" Mr. Smith stated. Most sought-after design will be the Thunderbird.

One of the newest and most unusual of the fall and winter shoe styles is a boot-type shoe in shag leather. It has no laces and sports a cushion crepe sole. In grey or tan, it is mainly for football games or other winter outdoor sports. It's really very cute.

"Housewives are beautiful this year," Mr. Smith advised. In leather, they come in pastel pinks, blues, and yellows, as well as more conventional royal blues, reds and blacks. In velvet, they come in "high shades" of red, and black with silver or gold kid trim. The velvet ones are also trimmed in rhinestones.

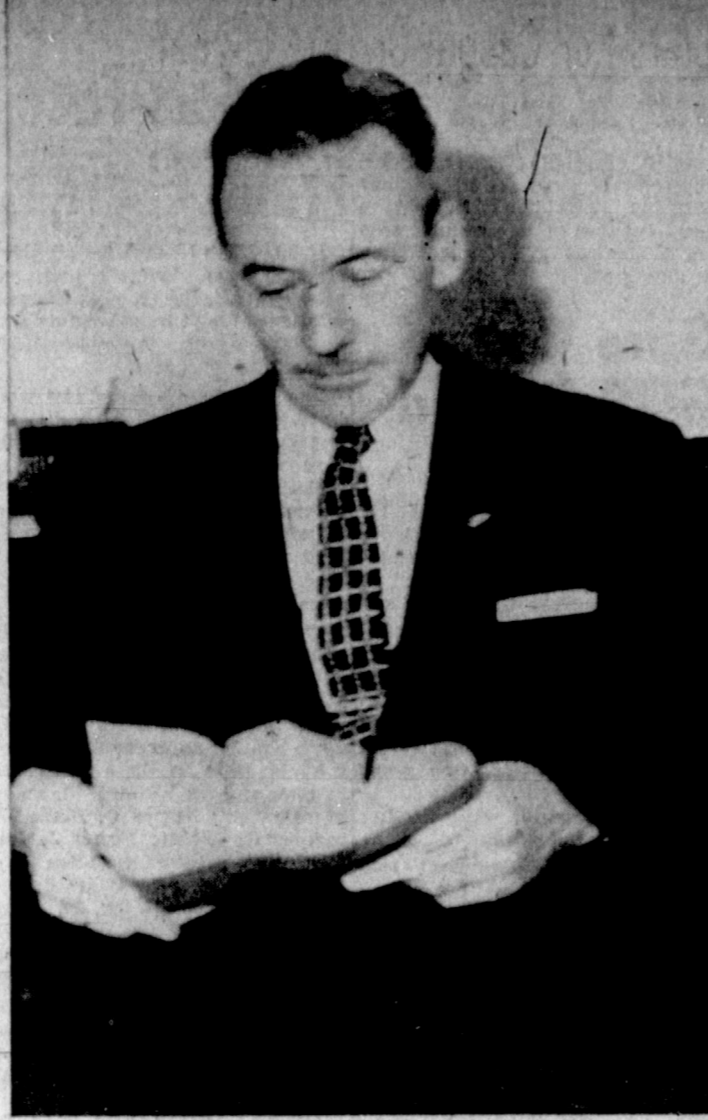

In general, shoes with medium or low heels are better this year than they have been for a long time, Mr. Smith pointed out. In all styles, the heels are smaller in circumference. . . in other words, a lot thinner than they have been.

MEN'S SHOE styles were another thing we talked about. "The brogue is still good in heavy leather with extended heel seals," Mr. Smith stated. Colors for suedes are mainly blue and brown, with the

NEW SHOE STYLE — Looking over the new boot-type shoe, especially nice for football games, is Frank Smith, 1336 N. Russell. Made of shag leather, it comes in grey and tan. Medium and low heels are best this year, according to Mr. Smith, and all heels are small in circumference. (News photo)

BABY

Using your time well while Baby is napping is important. Many women seem to feel that they should use this time to get other household work or work for Baby done. Actually, this is the ideal time for you to snatch the rest you really need each day. Even a 15-minute nap is a help; try stretching out, relaxing your muscles, closing your eyes and forgetting household worries completely. You'll get much more accomplished during the day if you have a regular rest period.

Some mothers feel they would rather save somewhere else in their budget, rather than cut down by doing without a diaper-washing service and spending a great deal of time washing diapers. Having a washing machine helps, too, but some mothers who can afford neither, must wash diapers at home. If you do your own diaper laundry, put the soiled diapers in a covered pail of cold water as soon as you take them off the baby. Use any mild soap, soap powder or detergent in plenty of hot water. The rinsing is just as important a step as the washing, for unless you get all the soap out, Baby's tender skin is liable to become irritated. With hard water, three or four rinsings are usually necessary to rid the diapers of all soap. Warm water will get the soap out better than cold.

Teething may make Baby irritable, fretful and cranky. Some babies cut as many as six teeth during the latter half of their first year. There isn't very much you can do while Baby is cutting his teeth, but you'll lessen his discomfort if you hold him and soothe him. Perhaps he'd like a plastic ring to bite on. If it within reach in his carriage or play pen. During this time he may drool a good deal, but bibs made of soft, absorbent material will protect his clothes from getting wet.

RUTH MILLET

There are two things that can happen to a family when the children are grown and scattered over the country and parents left alone. They can keep in close touch with each other and maintain family solidarity, though separated they can be busy with their own affairs, yet still be very much a family.

Or they can gradually drift apart. The family feeling all but dies and its members have little in common when they do happen to get together. The main difference between families who maintain a family feeling and those who don't is the effort made to keep in contact through letters.

Those who don't make the effort claim they are busy with their own lives and never find the time to write the newsworthy letters that maintain family ties. "But isn't so much a question of time, as of habit. Any halfway intelligent adult can write an interesting letter in 15 minutes."

Autumn Grooming For Wrist Watch

A new shade of face powder does wonders for a fading tan, according to beauty authorities. The Jewelry Industry Council tells us that your wrist watch should be groomed for autumn, too, after a long summer of out-door vacation activity. Even though it is probably ticking away with its usual accuracy, a fall check-up will insure your watch's dependability for the busy season ahead.

A watch expert not only does the intricate and important job of cleaning your watch and checking its delicate mechanism, but he'll also give it the bright, shiny face you forgot it could have, polishing the case and crystal and cleaning the dial if it has become dirt-specked. He may even suggest a new watch bracelet, to replace an old or worn one, making your timepiece as up-to-date fashion-wise as your newest fall jewelry.

To give a lady's watch dress-up, party airs, attach multiple-strand bracelet of cultured pearls and gold links, a flexible bracelet of deep red garnets set in gold filled or perhaps a slim band of diamonds. For a handsome, gleaming bracelet effect there are chunky links of karat gold, silver or gold filled, narrow snake chains, faceted expansion links and interesting mesh patterns in varying widths are only a few of the watch bracelet designs ready to enhance your watch, according to your individual taste.

Grooming and refurbishing wrist watch shouldn't be limited to the ladies, the Council adds, pointing out that men's watches are just as much in need of an autumn check-up after summer vacations are over. Men's watch bracelets are also available in a wide variety of styles, and even the men will be pleasantly conscious of "new look" after watches have acquired after an autumn grooming.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
Recently my brother was killed in a jet air crash in Korea. My parents were notified that the accident occurred on a sandbar, which, because of the tremendous tides in the area, is intermittently covered by water and dry through out the day.

Due to the high speed involved and the subsequent disintegration of both aircraft and pilot, nothing was recoverable.

We are having a memorial service for him, but we feel it isn't enough. Is there anything we can have in place of a burial?

Would a plaque be proper? If so, how may it be used? Can it be displayed at any public place, such as the cemetery?

If you have any other suggestions we would greatly appreciate the information.

Also, can you have flowers for this occasion as we would for a regular funeral?

Thank you kindly,
J. K.

FURNISH HOSPITAL ROOM

Dear J. K.
If you want a memorial for your brother you might arrange to furnish a room in a hospital. In such cases a plaque is usually hung in the room.

Some people give money to schools for scholarships, equipment, building fund, as a memorial. A case on an extremely large scale is Stanford University which was established as a memorial to Leland Stanford Jr. by his parents. Many gifts to the university in subsequent years have been memorials and usually a plaque commemorates the event. Books also have been given libraries in memory of departed relatives and friends.

I think that your memorial service would be all that is necessary. Flowers at the altar should be enough. These should be furnished by the family. If you want a plaque in a cemetery or a mausoleum, it would be necessary to discuss it with officials there as each place would have different rules.

Sometimes people have given statues, fountains etc. as memorials. Many persons request that money be given various specific funds as memorials. I know of several who have asked that money be presented to the cancer fund, the heart fund etc. rather than for flowers for the funeral.

DECORATE CHURCH

Sometimes people offer to furnish flowers on a certain Sunday each year for the church service as a memorial. Usually the church bulletin lists such memorial bouquets.

Men's Fall Shoes Feature Charcoal Colors For Casual Or Dress Wear

Charcoal has burst into full lights and shadows. Same as the hottest thing in men's shoes this fall. Charcoal grey, charcoal brown and charcoal navy colors — are the textured and grain leathers. The shrunken grain leathers, which made their debut last year, in a few styles, are now available in a variety of casual styles, ranging from a variety of blackened greys, blackened blues, deep blackened browns, burgundy, wine and cor-dovan shades.

Both casuals and dress shoes Black suede shoes, to go with feature low top lines, with emphasis on the streamlined low slung "plush" and piled fabrics, are also popular, as are blacks with subtle undertones of red, blue, brown and and "office casual" styles, polished smooth surface leathers. Buckles and tassels adorn many of the informal shoes.

The wide range of casual shoes also stress soft glove leathers. The growing trend toward "casualness" in apparel has resulted in both a "casual" look in footwear styling, and an easy, soft casual feel in leathers for shoes in this category.

Shag bucks, glove leathers, and suede leathers are highlighted in plain-toed blucher and desert boot types, usually with simple pattern lines so that leather is the focal interest. Soft grains and glove leathers are favored in low-top-line patterns and also in many slip-on types with or without goring.

Conventional oxford styles make use of both grained leathers and

Group Formed To Fight FPC Price Fixing

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5—UP—Formation of a committee to fight for a law taking away the Federal Power Commission's power to fix natural gas prices has been announced.

Mason Nixon, Corpus Christi, Tex., said Monday the "General Gas Committee," composed of representatives of major gas companies and independent producers would ask for legislative relief from "this initial step toward nationalization which would eventually destroy the gas industry."

"Never in oil and gas history has the industry faced so serious a situation," said Nixon, president of Southern Minerals Corp.

He referred to a June 7 U. S. Supreme Court ruling, in the Phillips Petroleum case, which gave the FPC the power and duty to regulate the price of natural gas from the wellhead if it moves in interstate commerce.

The federal agency followed up the court's decision, which the FPC itself had opposed, with a retroactive order that froze the price of gas at its June 7 levels.

Nixon said there was no place for federal price fixing, during peacetime, in a highly-competitive risk-taking business.

Benson Accuses Co-Op Of Spreading False Propaganda

OGDEN, Utah, Oct. 5—UP—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson Monday accused the National Rural Electric Co-Operative Association of spreading "propaganda" against the administration's public power policy.

"There appears to be a well organized attempt to discredit the accomplishments of the administration in rural electrification," Benson told a group of agricultural and farm leaders in Weber county, Utah.

He referred to the criticism of the power policy as "propaganda" stemming from the National Rural Electric Co-Operative Association.

Two couples who swapped marital partners after years of marriage were reported Monday to be "all very happy" with the new arrangement, but reluctant to discuss it.

The swap came to light last week when all four principals obtained divorces and promptly remarried. Even their children seemed pleased at the turn of events.

This is what happened: Mrs. Ella Stevens, 40-year-old director of the Oakdale Chamber of Commerce, divorced her husband, George, whom she married 19 years ago. At the same time, Mrs. Alpha Jones divorced Leland Jones, 41-year-old businessman, after 21 years of marriage.

Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Jones went to Reno, Nev., together to get their divorces. They lived in adjoining rooms at their hotel and were often in each other's company.

They accused their respective husbands of "extreme cruelty of a mental nature."

When the divorces were granted, they immediately married each other's ex-husbands.

Police Raid Red Paper In Paris

PARIS, Oct. 5—UP—Security police raided the Communist-line Daily Liberation and the home of its editor Monday, seeking new leads to the Red spy ring that has caused France's biggest scandal since World War II.

At the same time, Interior Minister Francois Mitterand predicted further developments in the case, which he described as a combination of "unquestionable treason" and "degrading political exploitation."

French authorities already were seeking a fugitive ex-collaborator of the Nazis, identified only as "Monsieur Charles," who is said to have served as a go-between in the Communist espionage setup.

A party of 15 raiders burst into the Liberation office at 6:30 a. m. At about the same time, security police descended on the home of the newspaper's editor, Emanuel Astier de la Vigerie, a member of the assembly.

While his home was being combed, Astier was taken to the office of his newspaper for questioning.

Liberation-employed Andre Baranes, the Communist agent who was the hub of the Red spy web, has confessed obtaining information on decisions of the top-secret national defense council from two high-ranking government workers and passing them on to the Reds.

Baranes and his contacts, Rene Turpin and Roger LaBrusse, have been jailed on charges of treason.

Jean Mons, secretary general of the defense council was the immediate superior of Turpin and LaBrusse, has been suspended for negligence. Inspector Jean Dides, former head of the Paris police's anti-subversive squad, has been suspended because he was duped by Baranes.

Baranes, after convincing Dides that he was spying on the Communists for the government, fed back to him some of the information "leaked" by Turpin and LaBrusse after reorganizing it so as to discredit the government of Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Two Couples Switch Mates

OAKDALE, Calif., Oct. 5—UP—Two couples who swapped marital partners after years of marriage were reported Monday to be "all very happy" with the new arrangement, but reluctant to discuss it.

Students Demonstrate In Capital

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—UP—White students in the District of Columbia high schools staged demonstrations Monday against racial integration.

A group of about 300 white students staged a noisy but non-violent mass meeting at Anacostia high school in southeast Washington. A smaller group at McKinley high school in the northeast part of the city staged a less vocal protest but later entered the building for a talk by principal Paul E. Bish.

Both northeast and southeast Washington has a large percentage of Negro residents.

The demonstrations occurred several hours before the Supreme Court began its 15th year. Last spring it handed down its historic decision against racial segregation in the nation's schools.

Soon it will begin hearings on how and when the states must wipe out racial segregation.

Valley Epidemic 'Highly Unusual'

AUSTIN, Oct. 5—UP—State Health Officer Henry Hollie thinks there was "something new or at least highly unusual" about the Rio Grande Valley's encephalitis epidemic.

The epidemic, a form of sleeping sickness that was mistaken for infantile paralysis for weeks, struck down 400 persons in August and September. Two persons died of it and three others were listed as probable victims.

But state and federal epidemic experts and researchers have not been able to find the specific agent which caused the disease.

Parr Friend Denied Place On Ballot

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 —UP— Gerald Weatherly, independent candidate for district attorney in South Texas turbulent 79th District, Monday challenged Secretary of State C. E. Fulgham's authority to strike his name from the November general election ballot.

The Rio Grande City attorney asked permission of the Texas Supreme Court to file suit against Fulgham. He sought a court order directing the secretary of state to recognize Weatherly as a candidate.

Fulgham, on Sept. 30, announced he was striking Weatherly's name on grounds that certification of his candidacy "would make a farce out of the purity of our Texas ballot."

Weatherly, an attorney who has represented political boss George Parr on numerous occasions, seeks the same post for which Jim Wells County Attorney Sam Burris, a Parr foe, was nominated on the Democratic ticket.

SUSPECT

XIX
THE Carlson house had been started during the past period when everyone in Colorado who had a few hundred thousand dollars to throw away had started building castles in the mountains.

With the old part of the house as a firm bulwark, newer additions straggled down toward the lake and small boathouse beyond. The winding road led to a carport before the newest part of the house. Mrs. Hilton came up while Jim and Nancy were getting out with their overnight bags.

"Where's the other woman?" Mrs. Hilton demanded. "What other woman?" Jim asked.

"The other woman I saw yesterday," Mrs. Hilton snapped. "Dressed in black, dressed— She stopped abruptly and looked at Nancy again. She said, 'That was you?'"

Jim put in, "Distances make things deceptive. Or is it that things are distorted through binoculars?"

The complacency vanished. She said harshly, "Come on then, you women. I'll show you rooms."

Nancy, Mrs. Kit and Mrs. Gelstrap followed dutifully. Agnes and Jim remained with Philip Stoneman.

"Mrs. Oswald will see you," Philip said. He paused long enough to look at his expensive wrist watch. "In exactly 28 minutes. In her studio."

"We'll talk to you first then," Agnes said. "Come on, Mr. Dunn. You might as well listen, I want you to hear this."

They went to a small sunroom. Philip said, "Sit down." He took one of the straight chairs, Jim another. Agnes Argyle was confronted with a problem. She finally solved it, but she did not look at home in the contour chair.

Philip plugged in a gleaming silver percolator, left it and returned to his chair. "I've been thinking since you called, Agnes," he said. "I've talked to Mrs. Oswald too, of course. I guess I can really help you establish the fact that this was an accident. As far as all of us are concerned."

Jim noticed the use of her first name, and apparent terms of intimacy between Stoneman and the sheriff.

"We had a real party here last night," Philip explained. "The party didn't break up until the early hours, as the phrase has it. Almost daylight, in fact, before the carloads of guests and the servants pulled out for Denver."

"Go on," Agnes prodded. "It'd help if you'd tell me about the time Angela—died."

"Between five and six," Agnes said promptly.

JIM felt his eyebrows going up. He thought that was a little too much cooperation between an officer of the law and the questioner.

Philip nodded. "That makes it even easier. The party didn't break up until five. And of course, there were the usual last-minute delays, the 'one for the road.' Say 5:30 by the time everyone was off. Agnes, you know how long it'd take anyone to walk around to The Spire. So— I guess that lets us all out."

"Why walk?" Jim asked.

Philip smiled broadly. "There's my chum," he said. "I wondered if the cat had your tongue. I said walk, because that would have been the only way. You see, all the cars were gone, whooping it off filled with drunken guests in the care of the servants who could still see out of one eye. No cars here at all after 5:30, chum."

"We can check that," Agnes repeated. "But even so the round trip couldn't have been made by car. Not in the short time before breakfast."

Jim must have showed his bewilderment, because Philip chuckled. "If you're around here long enough, chum, you'll find we have only one inflexible rule, the one and only rule, made up at the moment to meet the situation. Mrs. Oswald makes decrees and backs them up by saying, 'It's always been my rule to do so and so. Catch, chum? Breakfast at seven sharp is the present rule and has been all this summer. So this morning of course could not be an exception. We breakfasted at seven. How well I know! It was up to me to get it, and I barely had time for a shower and a change of clothes before I had to start my culinary masterpiece. Shrimp chow mein and scrambled eggs."

"How about the boat?" Dunn demanded.

PHILIP shook his head. "The boat wasn't used. I'll show you why I know. And, before you bring it up, I'll admit it isn't too far to swim if a person would keep close to that sheer cliff that separates these two places. Maybe three or four blocks. But you just try it, chum. That water's ice, pure ice. The lake is deep and the water always cold. No, I don't think you can consider swimming seriously, chum."

Philip then led Jim and Agnes outside, along the path to the small boathouse.

The smell of paint and varnish had warned Jim what to expect. Nevertheless he touched a finger to various spots on the boat and the oars. The varnish was nearly dry, but still tacky. The paint on the oars was still wetter, left a red stain on his finger. Dunn noticed a small smear on one of the oars as if someone else had tested the dryness of the paint.

ing Weatherly on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The Jim Wells county attorney presented Fulgham various affidavits protesting Weatherly's certification.

However, Weatherly protested in his petition to the high court that these were considered Sept. 29 in a "secret session" between Burris and the secretary of state.

Weatherly alleged in his petition that Fulgham acted on the basis of "bare, unsupported affidavits," and that the Rio Grande City attorney received no notice that a protest was to be heard.

The secretary of state's office,

Weatherly charged, ignored an earlier promise he would be promptly notified by collect telephone call if any such action was contemplated.

Weatherly presented petitions bearing 560 signatures backing his candidacy as an independent candidate. The law requires 500 signatures.

No UN Critics

It is evident from news accounts that criticism of the United Nations is highly unpopular either in the National Broadcasting Company or in the governmental agencies that have influence with NBC and its president, David Sarnoff.

The indication was given in the summary firing of NBC commentator George H. Todt, who, after 13 months on the air, was booted out two days after he made a scathing criticism of the United Nations.

Certainly the excuses offered by NBC for firing Todt sound as though they were made up out of whole cloth and were nothing more than excuses. Here is a man who has been on the air over an NBC-owned telecasting station for 13 months and just found out that he is not under contract to NBC. Moreover, they can't put him under contract, the excuses continue, because he has not been connected with NBC for 10 years or more although they didn't find out in 13 months whether he was an able commentator or not.

Just where the responsibility should lie might be a matter for conjecture but it is certain that ultimately it lies with David Sarnoff, president of NBC, head of Radio Corporation of America and a brigadier general appointed by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It could have been that it was not just criticism of the United Nations that was responsible alone, for Todt went further than most critics of the UN — he proposed an alternate suggestion that would take the wind out of the Internationalists and leave them high and dry. Todt suggested that if there had to be a United Order of Nations that it ought to be based upon the Christian Constitution of the United States basis, rather than on the basis of the United Nations Charter which was in part at least inspired and written by Alger Hiss. Todt's plan, however, would have meant that other nations in the world would have to meet the traditional American view-point of a capitalist system and qualify themselves for alliance with the United States.

This proposal, Todt holds, would meet the approval of the people of the United States.

"The American people do not wish to be hurled irrevocably into the company of many Marxist gangster nations," Todt declared. He added that we can expect to be outvoted at every turn in the future when the chips are down.

"Are we expected to yield up this lone remaining citadel of capitalism to the greedy have-nots of the world jungle?" he asked.

Naturally the first impression any reasonable person might be expected to have who resents such a high-handed manner on the part of NBC is to place the blame right in the lap of Gen. Sarnoff. Yet, it may be that Gen. Sarnoff was subjected to pressure himself, for it is well known in the industry that the very life of any radio or television concern depends upon "keeping in good" with the Federal Communications Commission which licenses such agencies.

There are a thousand and one ways in which the FCC can make life for any company, almost unbearable, add to operating costs and, ultimately, take the license away. This is fully recognized by all segments of the industry and certainly Gen. Sarnoff is no exception. There may be grave question concerning Gen. Sarnoff himself, for he is a Russian-born citizen and the technicalities of becoming a citizen of the United States always leave the gate open for "investigation" by various governmental agencies.

In this instance, Gen. Sarnoff has an opportunity to speak clearly. Either Todt was fired for his attack upon the United Nations or he was not. Gen. Sarnoff has an opportunity to speak for those who defend American sovereignty by re-instating Todt or make clear exactly the reasons why he was fired.

It should be kept in mind that in approximately six months or less the United States will be forced to take an official position in regards to the United Nations. Unless there is some official action taken by this country, we shall have passed the time when we can (even if we want to at a later date) get out of the United Nations. Today that is still possible . . . but the time is running out!

That the proponents have something to fear from such commentary as was made by Todt is evidenced by the speed with which he was bounced from his job. It would appear that the group of Internationalists who are determined to lead this country down the road to a one-world totalitarian system were considerably frightened by having such a broadcast made and acted quickly to see that no more of such are made.

How long such exposures must continue before the rank and file of Americans learn that they have been swindled in the sales talk for the United Nations we can't say. But we do know that unless there is some sort of immediate and general voicing of disapproval the opportunity to get out of the United Nations will have gone. Then it will be too late.

THE Cracker Barrel

Now Dallas has cooked up some only two Asian nations with any thing he calls SEATO (South East Asia Treaty Organization). And that's very appropriate. He's been swindled on his SEATO for quite some time. He sat on it while we could have won the Korean War by the aid of Red China. Eighty per cent of the war supplies received by the Korean Red came by sea.

But on it while we bore sixty per cent of the cost of the Indochina War, which was lost. Now we're including the SEATO South East Asia Treaty Organization. He's making a show of force against the Reds because the British don't want to offend the Chinese Communists in any way. SEATO will be a love and kisses set-up that will encourage Asiatic nations by pouring American dollars into them. This will encourage the Chinese Communists to invade the United States. Oh, my aching back! Oh, my SEATO!

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The Crisis In Our Schools

In the last issue I was quoting from an article in the October issue of the Ladies Home Journal by Katherine G. Struve under the heading "Must We Send Our Children to Private Schools?" Mrs. Struve has been a high school teacher for 25 years. I continue to quote from her on the subject of how employers are rendering a disservice to the public by demanding that applicants for jobs have high-school diplomas. The author writes: "Other offenders against young people are the employers who insist on a high-school diploma as a requirement for employment. This demand has caused the schools to drop practically all requirements for high-school graduation except that a pupil has sat in a class for a certain number of hours. If the young person has to have a high-school diploma to get a job, say the educators, the schools must give him one. The employers have defeated their own purpose, because the high-school diploma no longer has any meaning for many young persons other than that they have spent at least twelve years in a schoolhouse. . . .

Diploma Not Character Reference
"There was a time when a high-school diploma could at least serve as a character reference. This condition, unfortunately, is no longer true. It is practically impossible to have a student expelled from school now, because the administrators argue that no matter how vicious a young person is, it is better for him to be in school than on the streets. (The question of his harm to other young people is passed over.) This misadjusted attitude has found out that they will be passed along regardless of achievement or conduct. Consequently, these young people take greater and greater liberties each year. In instances like these, high schools are substituting for reform schools, and normal well-behaved children must be neglected because of the time-consuming struggle to keep under control these insolent and loud young people."

Evading Truth

The author remarks: "I do not know personally any teacher who approves of the practices they are required to follow. Many of us believe that by keeping up this pretense that pupils who receive high-school diplomas are meeting established standards, we are teaching them to evade truth. We also believe that, by setting up unrealistic, unattainable goals, we are developing neurotic personalities who will break down when they are confronted with the demands of living. Most teachers, however, are afraid to lift their voices in protest because they fear reprisal."

Then the author goes on to say that the correction must come from intelligent and influential laymen. She says: "Teachers are not magicians; they cannot transform a dull child into a genius; they could, however, given proper conditions, do much more for the able child than they are doing now."

Those people who believe in tax-supported schools could render no greater service in reducing the tyranny inflicted on certain pupils, by requiring them against their will to attend schools, than to get the laws repealed that require the youth of the land to attend schools.

Honor Our Teachers
One of the articles in the same issue was written by Margary Wilson. She contends that the way to improve our public schools is to honor our teachers. She writes: "We need inspired, dedicated teachers. We need to encourage the good ones we have. We need to make the teaching field attractive to fine people with fine talents. The first and most important step is to raise the prestige of the profession. Other advantages would follow more easily."

"Though more money and good surroundings are fine assets, they are not the primary, deciding factor in attracting or holding superior teachers. Besides, these points must be left to those in charge of them. But there is an important job for you and me."

"It has been proved that the deepest yearning of the human heart is for recognition, for honor."

Then she goes on to say that teaching is at its lowest ebb in our country. She observes that it can be raised by honoring our teachers and that everybody can help.

No Prestige or Honor Connected With Tyranny
She doesn't explain, however, how we can honor teachers when they are not willing to teach well enough that people will voluntarily pay their salaries. It is pretty hard to conceive how there can be much prestige or honor connected with individuals who are obliged to use the policeman's club to help collect their salaries. Honor and prestige come from rendering services well enough that individuals voluntarily want to pay them and honor them and give them prestige.

How can there be prestige or honor connected with individuals associated with tyranny, as are public schools? Remember Isabel Paterson said that tax-supported schools are "tyranny asked." Rose Wilder Lane says they are "the primary tyranny." If Americans cannot honor communists how can we honor teachers using the 10th plank of the communist manifesto — "Free public schools."

Nixon Gaining In Stature With Party-Building Trip

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's current performance as spokesman and fact-finder for President Eisenhower in the extremely important off-year Congressional campaign has boosted his stock at the White House, where he is supposed to be Ike's first choice as a possible successor. It has also strengthened him with powerful leaders throughout the country.

Although the young Californian delivers from three to six speeches a day on his present swing, he spends an equal amount of time with the local and lowly organization workers, and with the money-raisers. In many instances, he represents the only contact they have had with higher-ups in the first Republican Administration in 20 years.

He talks to them in their own language as a fellow worker instead of the Number 2 Republican in the Party, inquiring about local problems, conditions, personalities and grievances. A good listener, he contemplates to make them feel important.

He treats them as key members of the "Eisenhower team," countering the President's Olympic aloofness and off-setting Sherman Adams' studied neglect of the organization's bread-and-butter, vote-winning concerns. Together with Ike's recent Republican behaviorism, he seeks to reawaken the spirit and enthusiasm that wrought the 1952 majority for the national ticket.

His reports to Ike have a down-to-earth character, dealing with many practical aspects of politics unfamiliar to the President. Besides discussing issues, Nixon enlightens Ike on the importance of such questions as patronage, unemployment, personal relations with sensitive politicians, political funds, etc.

It has been a needed education for Eisenhower on the practical and sometimes seamy side of American politics. On these subjects Presidential experience and knowledge have been woefully deficient.

Equally essential to the education of Eisenhower has been the Vice-President's seemingly successful effort to break the barrier which, in the minds of minor but key ward and district workers, has shut Ike off from the professionals in his first two years.

He has tried to convince the club-house crowd that Ike intends to get out and fight for them and their candidates, and not carry on as a national hero above the claims and clamors of the regular organization. And he has sold the need for assurance of such a role, distasteful as it may be, to Eisenhower. Nixon's background fits him for this task. He rang political doorbells almost since he was graduated from law school. He understands that the little things count in local and national politics. As a member of the House, he came to understand the foibles and reactions of the boys on and off Capitol Hill. Ike's major weakness is that this is a field of human activity entirely foreign to an Army careerist.

Nixon's greatest contribution, in White House opinion, has been his part in the deflation of Senator "Joe" McCarthy. Both Eisenhower and National Chairman Leonard W. Hall agree that the once threatening issue of "McCarthyism" has been eliminated from the campaign.

The Nation's Press

IS PRUDEN'S PROPHECY TRUE? (The California Southern Baptist)

A recent issue of the Washington Post and Times Herald carried an article captioned "Dr. Pruden Sees Merger As Inevitable." The article contained quotations from a sermon preached by Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of Washington's First Baptist Church, in which he stated that Southern Baptists were only postponing inevitable participation in the ecumenical movement. Dr. Pruden, a former president of the American (Northern) Baptist Convention is said to have told his congregation that only when Southern Baptist leadership shifted from the Southeast to the Southwest did the denomination adopt its aloof attitude. In his sermon "Baptists and the Ecumenical Movement" Dr. Pruden blamed the late Dr. J. R. Graves for leading certain elements among Southern Baptists to believe that theirs was the one true church and that it has a mission to fulfill only as a separatist movement.

According to the Post, Dr. Pruden said that through union the Christian faith can be presented with greater consistency. Missionaries can win converts more easily. He cited the United Church of Canada and the United Church of South India as examples of the effectiveness of the union movement. He said that to picture a great and united church which would make Jesus Christ vital to lost humanity. "In such a church," said Dr. Pruden, "there would be no authoritarian hierarchy dictating to the congregations. The church would be a spiritual unit in the midst of divergent forms and customs." He pictured the Baptists themselves as a model for a world church. He said no Baptist is required to accept a written creed. The congregations are independent. The unifying influence of Christ holds them together.

No personal references and personal attacks are not to be desired.

The Watkins Committee's unanimous vote of censure was the result of Nixon's earlier anti-McCarthy activity. And the Californian, with the advice of Senate leaders, selected that McCarthy jury. Joe McKee owes him a lot, as he realizes and acknowledges.

Anti-McCarthy Press Quiet On Court's Trial By Ordeal

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — George Sylvester Viereck, a propagandist, poet and scholar, was hounded and spat upon, ruined financially and spat upon to prison for trying to keep the United States out of two world wars.

Thirty pro-Americans were bailed through a frightful ordeal of political persecution by Roosevelt's department of justice in the infamous so-called mass sedition case. Some of them were destitute in Washington after they had been transported way across the continent for trial. Some were bailed out of prison by the clerk of the U. S. Court, in enough to expose to the backward press of that machine the most intimate affairs of the other party.

The same violence has occurred often in congressional hearings without the slightest notice from the alarmists against "the atmosphere of fear" and "conformity." They were indifferent when Dr. Edward A. Rumbley was pilloried, badgered and finally sentenced to prison for refusal to tell a low crook named Buchanan, chairman of a house committee on "looming," what persons bought how many copies of John Fynn's great political warfare against Communism, "The Road Ahead." The Supreme Court, in an unwonted seizure of decency, saved him.

Buchanan was a swindler, indicted three times for stealing money from customers in used-car deals. He was the tool of a number of private Gestapos with headquarters in New York but with a network extending all over the country and abroad. These newspapers never published a syllable of the evil, ominous truth. One went so far as to ballyhoo a book about the Buchanan Committee which failed to disclose what a crook Buchanan was or to show the known involvement of their so-called inquiry.

When I was called before a subcommittee of the House Labor Committee and produced abundant proof that unions were persecuting individual members, the same press took no notice of the fact that the chairman was a lawyer who had cleaned up $50,000 in just one fee in a suit against the Carpenters' Union. I refused to expose individual union workers to punishment at the hands of eleven members of Congress and happened to stroll into the hearing to pick up information on the "squealers." Therefore I had failed to prove up. The chairman left Congress after one term and has resumed his practice of suing unions.

If anyone has reason to go in "fear" it is the pro-American fighter for the Constitution and against corrupt federal judges and the compromise with reason which is implicit in the judicial voice of most of the American press. Box office venality is the cause of this ruinous development.

I had a talk recently with the wife of a fading giant who used to fight earnestly against all just corruption. She said she was taking her husband out of his fight, as often as she could. He was always losing. She wanted to be on the winning side for a change.

Way To Keep Wives Young Is To Keep Them Stirred Up

By HENRY McLEMORE

I read the other day where a group of eminent psychologists had come the conclusion that the best way for wives to keep their husbands young was to irritate them. "Keep husbands stirred up," the psychologists' findings read, "and they'll never settle into the doldrums of middle-age and more."

This was without a doubt the most cheering news to come my way in a long, long time, and the same must go for tens of thousands of other husbands who saw the story, because if the report is true I'll be around long after the weather has erased Washington's face off the Black Hills of Dakota. Cities now standing will be but dust, and even Tennyson's Brook will have dried up. But I'll be on hand to answer the sun's morning roll-call.

I'm already making plans for my 200th birthday. I figure on being so young in 2154, thanks to wifely irritation, that my guests and I will play drop the handkerchief, pin the tail on the donkey, run - sheep - run, and leap frog. And I can see my present no. A drum, a jackknife, a sand pile, and a cowboy suit.

While I was writing this, Mary — bless her! — irritated ten years more to my life by coming in from shopping with one of those boxes of fancy, no-good soap, that wives are always buying. You know the kind — round, about the size of golf balls, and impossible to get a grip on, so it is always squirting out of your hand and it costs about twice or three times as much as sensible soap.

Tonight at dinner — and I imagine the same thing will happen to husbands all over the country — I'll have another decade or two added to my span of life. We'll eat in a dining room that will resemble fifteen feet inside a cave on an overcast day. This because wives abhor electricity and adore candlelight for eating. Most men like to see what they're eating, but women like to grope for their food. So, naturally, we men are forced to grope along with them. A constant source of husband irritation is the positive belief held by a great majority of wives that their husbands become partially, if not totally, blind the moment they get behind the wheel of an automobile.

"Look out, there's a truck," they call, as if their husbands couldn't see the side of a barn on wheels half a block ahead. They keep him informed on turns, stop lights, pedestrians, and everything else. I have often asked Mary why in the world she is crazy enough to get in a car with me if she is so sure that I couldn't see a three-story house being moved down the middle of a street. . . .

By BUCK FRANCIS Pampa News Sports Editor

PAMPA FOOTBALL FANS who haven't picked up their tickets for the game at Amarillo Friday night better do so pronto if they want to be assured of seeing the game.

From all indications the game Friday is going to be a sellout. Pampa has been allotted more than 2,500 tickets but those not sold by Thursday noon will be returned to Amarillo to be sold there.

Tickets are available at the school business office in the City Hall.

The Harvesters are going to need the support of the Pampa fans Friday more than they've ever needed it. Amarillo has practically every advantage over the Harvesters Friday, home field advantage, a bigger and more experienced squad, and will be playing before the home town folks.

If 3,000 fans go over to Amarillo from Pampa Friday night it may mean the difference between a win and loss over there for the Harvesters.

Let's don't let the Green and Golders down.

THE PAMPA QUARTERBACK club has voted its meeting date. The club voted last night to hold their meetings on Tuesday's rest of the season.

Reason for the change was to avoid conflict with several other activities on Monday nights, wrestling, bowling, Southwest Conference Highlights over TV and the National Guard meetings.

Meetings each Tuesday will be held at 7:15.

There will be an extra treat for members attending the QB meeting next week. The Southwest Conference Highlights of 1953, courtesy of the Humble Oil, will be shown in addition to the usual showing of the Harvester game.

Attendance at the meeting last night was the best of the season but it still isn't up to the attendance of the past few years.

It's believed that the new meeting date will remedy the attendance situation.

THE HARVESTERS CERTAINLY fooled a lot of scribes around the state last week. Spec Gammon of Odessa picked the Harvesters to lose, 20-7, while sports editor Jack Holden of the Abilene Reporter-News and another Abilene scribe, Fred Sanner, both picked the Harvesters to lose to Paschal.

McLean opens against the newest member of the district, Gruver, this week at Lefors.

Feature game of the opening night card in 1-A, Friday will be at Lefors where the defending champion Memphis Cyclones take on Coach H. W. Callan's Lefors Pirates.

In the other two games, Canadian goes to White Deer in another crucial tilt and Clarendon goes to Panhandle.

McLean, in pre-district play, has run up the best offense with 155 points in three games for an average of 50.1 points per game.

Lefors has the best defensive record, the Pirates having allowed the opposition only one touchdown.

Following is the District 1-A score board:

DISTRICT 1-A STANDINGS (Full Season)

Last Week's Results: McLean 40, Wheeler 7; Memphis 7, Crowell 14; Panhandle 13, Sudan 40.

This Week's Schedule: Canadian at White Deer; Clarendon at Panhandle; McLean at Gruver; Memphis at Lefors.

DETROIT GET TOGETHER PLANNED: Detroit Tigers' new manager, Bucky Harris, will arrive here next Monday for an informal get-together with club owner Walter O. (Spiky) Briggs.

FLANAGAN HOPPER BOUT SIGNED: SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—UP—Def Flanagan, second ranking welterweight contender from St. Paul, Minn., and hopeful Maurice Harper of Oakland, Calif., have signed to meet in a 10-round nationally televised bout in San Francisco's Winterland, Oct. 27.

RAM COACH DENIES CHARGE: SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—UP—The San Francisco Forty Niners went back to practice Tuesday, nervously awaiting the results of more X-rays that will determine whether their chances for a National Professional Football League title went down the drain in their 24 to 24 tie with the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday.

WHILE COACH HAMPTON POOL of the Rams denied it, players and owners of the Forty Niners charged that the Rams were guilty of "dirty football" and warned that the Los Angeles club could expect "rough treatment" when the Nov. 7 return game is played here.

"If that is kind of football they want," said owner Tony Morabito, of the Forty Niners, "that's the kind they are going to get."

Meanwhile, head Coach Buck Shaw said he couldn't tell what the future held for three of his stars.

H. W. CALLAN ... his Pirates unbeaten

1-A Race Gets Into Full Swing Friday

The District 1-A grid race will swing into full force this week with all eight teams seeing conference action.

Four teams, Lefors, McLean, Clarendon and Gruver swept through their non-district schedule unbeaten, each winning three in as many starts.

McLean has been ruled the pre-season favorites but the Tigers will have rough opposition all the way through. Lefors and Canadian appear to be the most serious threats to outdueling McLean for the crown.

Irish Drop To 9th OU Now In Top Spot In UP Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—UP—Oklahoma moved up to the top spot in the United Press board of coaches' without having thrown a pass or bucked a line last weekend.

Purdue's 27 to 14 "upset of the week" over Notre Dame, ranked No. 1 last week, produced a five-team race for first place in this week's ratings of the 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press rating board.

UCLA, winner in three straight games, was only three points behind Oklahoma, with three Big Ten teams — Purdue, Wisconsin and Iowa — following closely in that order.

Advance While Idle: Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners, second to Notre Dame by 48 points in the previous week's ratings, had an open date in their schedule last Saturday. When the Irish were beaten, the coaches voted Oklahoma the top ranking on the basis of its earlier victories over California and Texas Christian.

The voting was so scattered that seven teams attracted first place votes, Oklahoma leading with 13. UCLA had only five compared to nine for Purdue, but picked up more votes for succeeding places and had a 39-point edge on the Boilermakers. Wisconsin and Iowa each had three first place votes, while Duke (ranked sixth) and Rice (ranked 11th) each attracted one.

After Duke, the top 10 was rounded out by Mississippi, Southern California, Notre Dame, which plummeted from first all the way to ninth, and Ohio State. Purdue, 14 last week, and Ohio State, which moved up from 11th place, were the newcomers among the top 10, replacing Penn State, which dropped from ninth to 12th, and Maryland, from sixth to 15th.

Oklahoma risks its top ranking next Saturday against 14th-rated Texas in an inter-conference clash at Dallas. The Sooners will be quarterback Gene Calame, star split-T quarterback who injured his shoulder in the game against TCU.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—UP—The United Press college football ratings (with first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

Second Ten: Rice (1) 58, Penn State 50, Stanford 44, Texas 39, Maryland 30, Minnesota 24, Florida 16, Michigan State and Texas Tech 11 each, Navy and West Virginia 9 each.

Others: Colorado 8, Oklahoma A&M 6, Miami (Fla.) 5, Baylor 2, Alabama 1.

GOLF DATES CHANGED: LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 5.—UP—The $25,000 golf Tournament of Champions will be played at the Desert Inn Club here on April 28 to May 1, tourney officials have announced instead of April 21-24 as not to conflict with the extended winter tour of the Professional Golfers Association.

At Perryton Battle Of Year In 1-AA Due Friday

The battle of the year in District 1-AA will come off Friday night at Perryton where the Perryton Rangers will host the Phillips Blackhawks.

The Rangers and Blackhawks will go into the game with unbeaten records, each having won four straight games this season. It will be the opening 1-AA game for both teams.

Phillips is the defending champion and will be heavily favored over the Rangers Friday but no one is selling coach Pete Peterson's Rangers short, yet.

Perryton will have two advantages over the Hawks for Friday's game. First, the Rangers will enjoy the home field advantage. Secondly, the Rangers have had two weeks to get ready for the Phillips team as they had an open date last week.

While the Rangers were resting, Phillips was being hard pressed to keep its unbeaten record clean with a 32-26 win over Triple-A Levelland.

Two other conference games are on tap next week. Hereford at Shamrock and Canyon at Dalhart. Canyon, like Phillips and Perryton, owns a 4-0 record this year. Canyon defeated Tulsa, 38-14, for its fourth straight last week.

DISTRICT 1-AA STANDINGS (Full Season)

Last Week's Results: Canyon 38, Tulsa 14; Dalhart 19, Clayton 0; Olton 6, Dumas 0; Phillips 32, Levelland 26; Childers 26, Shamrock 0; Brownfield 33, Hereford 13; Perryton (open); Canyon at Dalhart; Wellington at Dumas; Hereford at Shamrock; Phillips at Perryton.

'False' Statistics Made Indians Series Favorites

By OSCAR FRALEY: NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—UP—The World Series victory of the New York Giants was conclusive proof of the deplorable state of affairs in the American League.

Before series, the bombed out Cleveland Indians were hailed as the biggest winner in American League history on a record 111 triumphs. It was a false statistic which installed them as favorites in the classic.

For the series disclosed that their record winning total was not actually a testimonial to their skill but rather an indictment of the other clubs in the league.

This is not a knock at the Giant triumph, one richly deserved by a ball club which proved once again that it had been underrated. But it has to be a knock for the American League.

Which simmers down to a matter of competition. The Giants had to be good to win in a tough League.

The Indians, Yankees and, to a lesser extent, the White Sox, each fattened by knocking over a bunch of setups.

Cleveland could get no better than an even 11-11 split in its 22 games with the Yanks and with the White Sox. But how it clobbered those other "teams."

Against the Red Sox, Cleveland won 20 and lost only two. Baltimore was beaten in 19 against only three Oriole wins. The Indians won 18 and lost but four to both the Athletics and Senators. And with Detroit their record was 14-8.

These figures were supposed to be a monument to their greatness. Actually they were a headstone.

Casey Stengel, manager of the Yankees, cautioned American League fans against their pre-World Series optimism.

Asked who would win, he warned that "Cleveland didn't beat us, team to team, and they'll find the Giants stronger than most of the other clubs in our league."

Cleveland found the Giants stronger than any club in the American League.

But the Giants weren't quite as complimentary.

"You can say that again," Durocher shot back emphatically.

And everybody probably will, all winter long.

Perez To Seek F'weight Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—UP— Featherweight contender Lulu Perez of Brooklyn was so pleased Tuesday by his victory over lightweight Bobby Woods that he announced, "I'm going after the light weight title and I'll never fight as a featherweight again."

Fast, elusive Perez, who ranks fifth among 126-pound contenders, won a unanimous decision over Irish Bobby of Spokane, Wash., Monday night in their TV 10-rounder at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Lulu fought as a lightweight and scaled 133½ pounds, the heaviest of his career. He and his handlers were delighted with his strong 10th-round finish against Woods, who had displayed persistent aggressiveness in his eastern debut. Bobby weighed 132.

Perez probably will launch his lightweight campaign next month in Madison Square Garden against unbeaten Frankie Ryff of New York, ninth - ranking lightweight contender. He will accept the Ryff match unless X-rays disclose a fracture in his right hand, which was injured in the second round Monday night.

Perez and his "brain guys" believe that his 133½ pounds provided him with enough reserve strength to stage a great 10th-round rally after he had received a terrific battering in the eighth round and severe punishment in the ninth.

"What's that?" a Russian would ask you. He'd never in a million years identify it with his newspaper. A newspaper in Russia is simply the ruling clique's No. 1 medium for spreading its propaganda. The reader has no way of knowing what's true or false in his paper. You have. Your newspaper is a real forum of the community because no censor decides what your editor may or may not tell his readers.

Motorists here's proof: New super-refined gasoline solves today's No.1 engine problem

Now—Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result: a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power . . . free from knock or pre-ignition.

1 Gulf takes out the cupful of trouble. Ordinary gasoline (left) contains a "dirty-burning tail-end" that forms trouble-making deposits. Gulf takes out this carbon forming "dirty-burning tail-end"—more than a cupful (center) from every gallon—to bring you a super-refined gasoline (right) that offers more power-with-protection than you've ever known.

2 Lamp demonstration: Instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place; removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end"—at the refinery. Just look at the plates in the unretouched photo above and see what a difference Gulf super-refining makes!

3 Here's the pay-off for you! Both pistons (above), from Gulf test engines, ran the same number of hours under the same conditions. Clean piston (right) is from engine using new Gulf NO-NOX. Note the deposits on piston (left) from engine using the "dirty-burning tail-end" that Gulf refines out.
What's more, besides giving your engine more complete protection, new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives you extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most . . . no knock, no pre-ignition . . . stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
