Police Chief Makes Safety Day Appeal

Chief of Police Jim Conner Saturday issued an appeal to all Pampans, asking drivers and pedestrians to help reduce traffic accidents to a minimum, "zero if we can," on Dec. 15, S-D Day (Safe Driving Day).

President Eisenhower has proclaimed Dec. 15 as the date for the nation to try to keep traffic accidents at an absolute minimum for a 24-hour period as proof that traffic accidents can be prevented by individual and community action.

Conner was appointed S-D Day director by J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association.

Police drivers and employees of the police department are being urged to cooperate in setting an above-standard example S-D Day.

"We want to show the people of Pampa that we also participate in what we preach," Conner said.

In Pampa, during the average week at this time of the year, statistics show an average of six traffic accidents of all types.

"These accidents needn't occur. They wouldn't happen if every citizen would drive and walk as he would have everyone else drive and walk," Conner emphasized.

Pampa pedestrians are urged to follow these rules to avoid that "run down" feeling:

1. Cross only at intersections and wait for the green light — and watch out for turning traffic.
2. Wear something light or carry a flashlight if you must walk on a roadway at night.
3. Make sure packages, umbrellas or newspapers do not block your view of approaching traffic.

Doss Memoirs To Be Printed

TULSA, Dec. 4—UP—Gentle-faced Nannie Doss, who confessed poisoning four husbands and once fancied herself to have a touch with an epitaph, is writing her memoirs for a magazine.

One of her court-appointed lawyers said Saturday that Mrs. Doss, 49, hopes to get enough out of the article from the magazine to hire psychiatrists to prove she was crazy when she killed the husbands with rat poison.

If she can prove in court she was crazy, she can escape the electric chair. She is suspected of murdering a total of 11 persons: Her parents, two sisters, two daughters and a step-grandson, in addition to the husbands.

The lawyer said that whether or not Mrs. Doss' name appears on the article as the author, the writing actually will be done by a professional, who is interviewing her in her jail cell.

Relatives of the pink-cheeked Mrs. Doss told authorities in Lexington, N. C., that she was fond of composing epitaphs.

McLean First Baptist Church Nears Fiftieth Anniversary

By J. M. PAYNE
Pampa News Correspondent
McLEAN — (Special) — A half-century of service to McLean and the McLean community will be commemorated by the membership of the First Baptist Church here Sunday, Dec. 12.

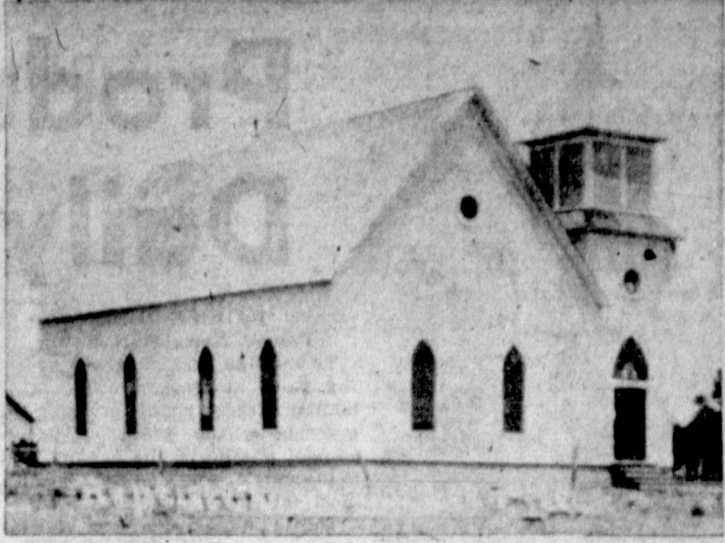

The church was organized in Dec., 1904, with 10 charter members, two of whom still live in McLean, but are members of another church.

At the time of organization the congregation had no building and for two years held part-time services in the Methodist Church.

L. O. Floyd was the first officer of the new congregation. He was elected clerk at the organizational meeting, and later became the first deacon.

Rev. L. L. Lusk was the first pastor, serving from June until December of 1905.

Since its beginning 50 years ago, the church has grown both in numbers and in strength. Today the resident membership is 430, and non-resident members bring the total above 600. The annual budget for the year, beginning Jan. 1, 1954, was $12,095. Present Sunday School enrollment is 414. There are two adult departments, and one each for young people, intermediates, juniors, primaries, beginners, and nursery. A cradle-rol department is maintained for babies not old enough to be brought to church and an extension department for shut ins. Training Union is held each Sunday evening for all age groups. An active Women's Missionary Society maintains auxiliaries for boys and girls, and a men's brotherhood and choir complete the church organization.

Flexible Farm Props Get Chance In '55

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—UP—The administration will concentrate on "making good" on the flexible farm support program next year rather than seek any major legislation in the new Congress, a top official said Saturday.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse did list some things on which the department will make recommendations next year. The most important concern wheat controls and sugar.

But he said federal farm officials think their big job now is to provide "effective administration" as the agricultural act of 1954 goes into operation. What we want now, he said, "is a chance to make on it."

Morse smiled broadly as he recalled that some Democrats also have voiced the wish to see the flexible support law go into operation, but for different reasons.

Hope to Blame-GOP
Some Democrats privately advocate no revision by the democratically-controlled Congress of the flexible farm law on grounds that when it goes into effect in 1955 it will prove unpopular and win the Democrats some votes in 1956.

Morse said he is willing to wait and "see what happens." He said the fact that the administration got "most of what it wanted" this year in the way of farm legislation "puts a lot of responsibility" hope to junk the "cross compliance" provision of control program, which was scheduled for 1955, on grounds it would not be worth the administrative red tape and headaches involved.

Cross-compliance would require farmers to stay within allotments set on every crop to be eligible for price supports on any one crop.

Feed grain price supports — It looks like 70 per cent of parity may be the 1955 support level for feed grains — oats, rye, barley and sorghums — compared with this year's 85 per cent of parity.

Cuts in the levels have been scheduled since the "total allotment" provision was dropped as a means of controlling output on idled acres.

Wheat — About 302 million bushels, or 31.5 per cent, of the 1954 wheat crop were put under price support loan through Oct. 15 compared with 350 million or 39 per cent of the larger 1953 crop by the same time last year.

Meat production — Total commercial production during January-October was up two per cent from last year. Beef output was up 6 per cent; veal, up 8 per cent; mutton and lamb, up 2 per cent; pork, down 3 per cent.

Cotton research — Despite new insecticides and improved pest control methods, cotton growers are "little better than holding their own" against insects, says K. P. Ewing, in charge of cotton research for the USDA.

Ewing said 10 years ago insects were estimated to destroy one in every seven bales of cotton produced. Today's estimate? It's still one in seven bales lost to insects.

795 Baptisms

During the church's 50-year history, 795 persons have been baptized. A number of young men have entered the field of full-time Christian service. At present a native son, Herman Petty, is serving as a missionary in Nazareth, Israel. Robert Mathis and Leo McDonald are both chaplains in the armed forces, and a former pastor, Claton Day, is now a chaplain with the occupation forces in Germany.

Heading various departments in the church are Joe Taylor, R. L. McDonald, Boyd Reeves, R. L. Apple, Mrs. Frank Howard and Misses Eunice Stratton and Marjorie Ledgerwood, who also constitute the historical committee of the church.

Damaged By Fire

In 1946 fire damaged the sub-story and caused smoke and water damage to the sanctuary. Following repairs and redecoration of the building, the church purchased the Denworth Community Church Building and moved it to their property. A few years later this was connected to the main building and a second story added to complete the modern plant. A pastor's home on an adjoining lot completes the physical plant.

The first musical instrument used in the church was a reed organ, which was replaced by a piano in 1916. The church now has an electric organ, a grand piano and six upright pianos. In 1951 a set of organ chimes was given the church by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Flory in memory of their son, Wib, who was killed in action during the Korean war.

List of Pastors

Pastors who have served the church are, in consecutive order: L. L. Lusk, J. W. Slaten, H. G. Finley, H. A. Goodwin, R. F. Hamilton, John F. Reagan, A. F. Agee, W. J. Darnall, W. C. Garrett, David H. Brynoff, Cecil G. Goff, Troy A. Sumarail, C. O. Huber, R. H. Nichols, W. R. Lawrence, Ray Stephens, Clayton Day and the present pastor, Dr. Buell T. Wells.

There's Romance In Those Cargo Holds

Produce Business Is A Daily Race Against Time

By BILL KERR
Pampa News Staff Writer

Talked and written about as being slow, slovenly, trafficking in human cargoes noted for being the outcasts of the world — people without passports, the banana boat is the carrier for one of the world's most far flung businesses.

This reputation isn't entirely without foundation, however. But why have so few men failed to see the romance of the cargoes stored in the holds of these fascinating ships? Ships which belie the slow and slovenly reputation assigned them. For the men who operate them are in an eternal battle against time. Time is of the essence. If a cargo of perishable fruit is allowed to ripen shipboard and rot in the storerooms of the banana wholesalers, they are dumped into the open sea. It's cheaper than hauling them to the dump grounds.

Fast Ships
Many ships of the world's leading banana fleets could overtake units of many of the world's navies with speeds exceeding 25 knots an hour.

The business is a virtual colossus. The largest United States company, the United Fruit Co., employs in excess of 100,000 people on its plantations, boats and in its offices. Our country is supplied with its fruit by plantations principally in Central America, the West Indies and the northern part of South America.

The industry, as developed in this country, is charged with romance. It's the story of men like Samuel Zemurray, who came to Alabama at 15, an immigrant boy from Romania, and rose to the presidency of the United Fruit Company, after peddling bananas on the docks of New Orleans. Cabot Companies' Tom Cabot is also a past president of United Fruit Co.

It's the story of men of vision, willing to take a chance, exploiting, fighting according to rules which today are no longer considered gentlemanly. But in their time it was the only way to survive in a world of intense unregulated competition. Out of their exploitation they gave much to the underdeveloped areas such as Guatemala and Honduras where they began. They have contributed to the welfare and economy of the interested countries.

Local Dealer
Part of this tradition, but on a limited scale, is a local banana dealer, Homer McNeil. Enamored by what you might call the magic of the business, McNeil is a wholesaler of a fruit, the marketing of which in this country on an extensive scale dates only from the end of the 19th Century.

McNeil effuses with the delight of many men in the business. "Have you ever stood on a pier in Galveston, Brownsville, or New Orleans and watched a banana boat come in laden with 8,000 tons of bananas? — See conveyor belts and laborers swing into operation, bringing banana stems out of the bowels of a ship some time four and five stories deep in a matter of eight hours? There's almost a poetry to it," McNeil enthused.

Banana Snakes
"Sometimes you get to the pier and wait a week or ten days, because often the boats are unable to leave in Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, or Puerto Prince because of typhoons . . . and many is the time these gallant ships are caught smack in the middle of a raging sea."

Banana snakes are known to hide under the banana fingers circled around the stem, but most of the time all foreign matter is discovered at the plantations, according to McNeil.

"In the old days, when a ship came in and a banana snake was found underneath the bananas, superstition would force the men to quit unloading for the day. It was considered bad luck to continue working."

McNeil said it was only the other day he found one of the deadly snakes on one of the banana stems. "But," as he put it, "by the time they get here they are groggy from the refrigeration in the banana boats, and the natural gas exuded by the green fruit."

350-400 Stems
The gas is so overpowering from the ripening fruit that before a man can work in one of the storerooms, it must be completely ventilated.

One trip a week is made by McNeil's firm to Galveston to pick up some 350 to 400 stems of bananas arriving from Mexico. Stems vary in weight from 60 to 125 pounds and have between 10 to 15 hands of bananas to a stem, with fingers (the fruit) as numerous as 150.

When ready for sale, after storage and ripening under scientific conditions in one of four storage rooms kept at regulated temperatures and highly humidified, the hands of bananas, McNeil said, are packed in standard 40-pound boxes and shipped to the dealers.

"It's always a battle against time, temperature and humidity in handling the fruit," McNeil said.

Harvested Green
"Bananas are harvested in a green state," McNeil went on. "Ripening is actually a maturing process taking place of the tree."

"The ripening process is actually a progressive physical and chemical change from a hard, green and starchy condition to the well-known yellow, when the starch originally present is almost entirely converted into sugar. Bananas are known as one of nature's healthiest foods, containing vitamins A, B, C and G."

"The period for ripening bananas varies from three or four days to generally no more than 10 days. There are unnatural methods of hastening the ripening process," McNeil said, "as with ethylene gas, but it impairs the natural flavor and color of the fruit."

Fruit Chills Easily
"Since the fruit chills and is ruined by temperatures under 54 degrees F. we have to be exceedingly careful about the temperature range in the storerooms. The fruit is generally ripened between 55 and 72 degrees. High humidity between 90 and 100 per cent is essential to keep the bananas from shrinking or drying out."

Complicated business, but few men enjoy talking about it more than McNeil, who lets you know he wouldn't be happy doing much else. He does let you know that another major part of his business is packing tomatoes, but he sufficed by saying it has problems all its own.

Next time you're slicing bananas for your favorite breakfast cereal, think of McNeil and drop over to see him. He'd be happy to show you around at 541 S. Cuyler. His tour will prove most constructive, and his enthusiasm is all but contagious.

THIS pedal does more than just feed gas to an eager and high-powered V8 engine.
When you give it the extra nudge that moves it beyond the full throttle position, something happens that never happened before in an automobile.
You hear a businesslike purr, which tells you that twenty power vanes, deep inside the 1955 Dynaflow Drive,* have changed their pitch—just like the variable pitch propellers on a modern air liner.
And with the same result in the way you get-up-and-go, with a safety-surge of power for pulling out of a tight spot on the highway.

Words can't describe it. It's a new sensation—something you simply must try for yourself.
There's nothing like it on the 1955 new-car horizon.
Fact is, there's a whale of a lot to see and sample at your Buick dealer's.
There's fresh new styling. There's higher horsepower in every Buick V8 engine. There's a new Airpower carburetor. And beneath it all there's good old-fashioned integrity in every nut, bolt and rivet.

But, this year, don't simply make a visit to the showroom where these trim and thrilling new beauties are on display.
The smart thing to do—if you want to know what's what in new automobiles—is to get behind the wheel of a 1955 Buick and drive it. How about doing that soon?

TV Spectacular Uses Two Studios

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—UP—The 90-minute color spectacular that Max Liebman will produce for NBC Sunday night at 7:30 p. m. will originate in two studios because of a pair of ice skates.

Sonja Henie, perennial queen of the ice, is one of the all-star cast, and she needs a lot of preparation and room. Consequently the huge color studio in Brooklyn, whence the spectaculars have originated so far, has been turned over to her exclusive work while the rest of the players work from the smaller colonial theater NBC color studio in Manhattan.

Miss Henie's crew of ice engineers moved into the Brooklyn plant late this week to put down a rink for the star. First, they placed several large tarpaulins over the floor. Then they put down a series of iron pipe sections, erected a dike of sand about two inches high around the skating area and spread a sand-sawdust mixture over the piping.

Water was sprayed on the area and three refrigerant compressors were put in operation to freeze the water. Color designs were then painted on the ice.

When the paint had set, a final coat of less than an inch of water was sprayed on and frozen to form the skating surface.

Few Color Sales Expected

The sale of color television sets still will be only a minor matter in the industry during 1955, according to Benjamin Abrams, president of Emerson Radio and Phonograph Corp.

"Contrary to popular conception and to the views voiced by some members of the industry," Abrams told a meeting of investment officials, "I don't see how it is possible for color television to become an important factor next year. The American consumer is the wisest shopper in the world, and there is very little chance that he will spend his dollar in the purchase of a high-priced color receiver.

"And we might as well be realistic — the prices can not be sufficiently reduced next year to attract the public. Further more, the consumer will not be induced to part with his money when he learns next year that color programming will continue to be presented on a sporadic basis.

"Not until 1956 will color television play a vital role in our industry."

Abrams saw 1955 as the year in which the tiny and more economical transistors will come into general use for radio sets and "perhaps TV receivers with transistors (instead of vacuum tubes) will also make their appearance next year."

TV Film on Cancer

An animated film illustrating current progress in cancer research will be shown for the first Sunday on NBC-TV's "American Inventory" program.

Entitled "Horizons of Hope," the film has been produced by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, and it will be made available subsequently on a loan basis to schools, medical groups and other community organizations.

Other Sunday Programs

Sunday promises, in fact, to be quite a medical day for TV.

In addition to the above there will be these:
The DBS "Adventure" will report the discovery of cortisone.
"Omnibus," on CBS, will devote one part of the 90 minutes to "Dear Boy," a documentary film showing the emotional problems of deafness.

NBC's "March of Medicine" will be devoted to the human story behind an amazing surgical development involving the replacement of a diseased aorta by a preserved artery from a donor.

Other Sunday highlights:

"Sister Angelica" will be presented by the NBC Opera Theater.

Eartha Kitt and Kirk Douglas are two of the guest stars on "Toast of the Town" for CBS.

Automatic Car Greaser On Market

DETROIT, Dec. 4—UP—A gadget permitting a motorist to grease his car by pressing a dashboard button is one of the most new developments on the 1955 automobiles.

The "multi-luber" is being offered on 1955 Lincoln and Mercurys. The gadget, developed by the Lincoln Engineering Co. of St. Louis, might spread to Fords and other cars in 1956 if it proves its value.

The method of "greasing" automobiles is one thing that has remained unchanged in the automobile field for the past 25 years. The service attendant clamber over, around and under a car with grease gun.

The "multi-luber" is designed to change this. It also would eliminate the job of taking a car to the garage and leaving it for a "grease job."

The "multi-luber" has twelve nylon tubes which run from a can of lubricating grease located just behind the radiator to the 12 chassis points which need lubrication. When a motorist presses a button on his dashboard, he activates a vacuum pump which sends a measured amount of lubricant through the tubes to the bearings.

The motorist keeps the button pushed until a green light on the dashboard signals the lubrication job is finished. In normal driving weather this would take three to five seconds. When it gets 20 below zero, it might take a minute.

The chief benefit is supposed to be a smoother ride and easier handling of the car. Constant lubrication is supposed to make a car ride—and handle—constantly the same easy way it does when a motorist first drives out of a garage after having his car greased.

Lincoln engineering recommends that the car be "greased" every 50 miles, or once a day, in slushy weather, a motorist might want to press the button two or three times in a day. It is impossible to over-lubricate.

The can of grease will last for about 290 "greasings" or between 10,000 and 14,000 miles. It is equipped with a dip stick which will permit it to be checked whenever the oil is checked. When it runs dry, it can be replaced with another can.

A motorist still would have to take his car to the garage to have the oil changed, the differential and transmission checked and squeaky "doors oiled. But it is expected most dealers will make these checks free when a motorist brings his car in for the oil change.

This isn't the first time the idea of automatic greasing has been tried. But it is the first time it has promised success. Years ago several car makers, one of them the makers of the old Stutz Bearcat, tried a system with one line running to all bearings. But the lubrication was uneven and all the fluid ran out if one line sprung a leak.

Under the "multi-luber" system, each bearing has its separate "grease" line. It has worked on buses, over-the-road trailer trucks and farm equipment in recent years. If it works as well on the two lines of cars on which it is being offered for $40 extra this year, it might show up on other models in 1956.

BOOK PATTERN

By BILL KERR
Pampa News Staff Writer

The late Sir Desmond MacCarthy, former dean of British drama critics, had a yardstick for appreciation which applies to book collecting. In an essay, "The Ideal Spectator," out of a recently published collection of his reviews and essays called "Theatre," MacCarthy said:

"The mind of the ideal spectator must, like a good motor car, run on several gears; and, from different plays you must not ask only different experiences, but be content with different qualities of enjoyment, sometimes with trivial ones."

Embellishing her new cook book with a new recipe for fudge hashish, Alice Tokias, Gertrude Stein's former secretary, and a celebrity in her own right, has turned up with a group of ingredients, one of which may cause her and her publisher some embarrassment. All needed for the delightful fudge is fruit, nuts, peppercorn, coriander, and some crisp, dried marijuana plant. Miss Tokias warns "two pieces are sufficient."

Bennett Cerf says publishers and authors are becoming taken with the ever-growing sale of how-to-do-it books, that an acquaintance of his is sure of three new titles that could scarcely miss:

"Brain Surgery Self-Taught," "How To Build Your Own Swamp" and "Head Shrinking For Fun and Profit."

Added recently to the rapidly growing section at the public library on Texas history are two items which will be invaluable to researchers.

James T. DeShields' "They Sat In High Places" — the presidents and the governors of Texas — covers the sweep of Texas history and is told through the lives, careers and achievements of its chief executives. It goes through 1940.

"Handbook of Texas" in two volumes, under the general editorship of one of the west's outstanding historians, Walter Prescott Webb, is one of the finest reference works ever conceived or published by any state historical society. In one ready reference work is assembled the "most" about a phenomenal range of Texas topics. It contains much information previously obtained only in highly specialized libraries and collections.

The biography of the "king of the Texas wildcaters," Hugh Roy Chulien, one of the greatest philanthropists of all times, was added to the stacks, and makes for exciting reading about the man who exemplifies American opportunity.

While you're poring over the stacks you might look over

GLANCING BACKWARD

(From the Files of The Pampa Daily News)

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

County Judge J. E. Maguire, Jr., was installed as the new president of the Kiwanis Club. He succeeded Clinton Evans. Other new officers were Frank Pata, first vice president; W. Ralph McKinney, second vice president; H. C. Grady, Jr., secretary, and Mack Hatt, treasurer. Upper-grade students of Sam Houston School gathered to sing Christmas carols as the school's Nativity scene was unveiled and illuminated.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

"Moor Born," a three-act drama, was presented by the White Deer High School speech students. The play depicted events in the lives of the famous Bronte sisters in Yorkshire, England, about 1845. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ledrick, 701 E. Kingsmill, attended the SMU-Notre Dame football game in Dallas.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

Six hundred tuberculosis tests were given to students at the junior high school, it was announced H. A. Yoder, president of the Gray County TB Association. Prospects were considered good for a "teen canteen" in Pampa following a meeting in the City Hall of the Adult Council and the Youth Council.

Both Music And 'Muscle' Interest This 11-Year-Old

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer

He may have his football pants and shoulder pads on, but he still can beat out a fast "boogie" on the piano.
That's Jerry Dean Baxter, a fair-haired youngster of 11 who has been playing the piano for five years and football for at least that long.
"A piano salesman came to the door one time," Jerry explains, "and we hadn't had any supper and he stayed until we bought the piano — so I started taking lessons."
And learn them he did. He plays sacred, "boogie" and classical numbers, all kinds. But he likes the sacred ones the best, his mother, Mrs. Ralph Baxter, says.

His Keys Hard
The Baxter piano is just to the left as you enter the white house at 217 N. Faulkner. And Jerry will sit down to it whenever the mood strikes him, or if you ask him.
The brown-eyed youngster strikes the white keys so hard that the piano-tuner once told the Baxters it should be tuned every month. Usually, a piano is tuned once a year. When Jerry plays, his sheet music, propped up in front of him, jounces around.
He doesn't play any other instrument, but he does sing alto in the choir at Horace Mann School, where he is in the sixth grade.

Keeps Busy
That piano-playing keeps him busy, though. He generally plays for the annual March of Dimes drive over Station KFDN. (One year he earned $48 for the drive just by playing "Blue Boogie," one of his favorites.)
He's played for KPAT, too. And for school assemblies — usually, the "Star-Spangled Banner" — and for Sunday School and evening service at the Central Baptist Church.

Dad Taught Him
His dad is a carpenter, who Mrs. Baxter says jokingly, insists he taught Jerry all he knows about tinkling the ivories. Actually, Mrs. Lois Fagan is the one who taught Jerry.
It is no wonder Jerry likes football. His mother, whose maiden name is Enloe, has five brothers who have played football for the Pampa Harvesters. That's what Jerry wants to do, too. And Jerry, his brothers Kenneth, 8, and Ralph, Jr., 4, and his next-door neighbor, Kevin Francis, 4, practice up these fall days out in back of the house.
One day last week, Jerry and his fellow football players were gathered in the Baxter living room while Jerry played "Blue Boogie" and "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." All were dressed to play — football.

Just Waiting
But they waited until Jerry finished: Kenneth, standing by the door holding a football; Sherry, his 5-year-old sister, at the end of the piano watching her brother's fast-flying fingers; and Kevin, on the couch, just waiting.

The last bar done, they whipped out the front door and around to the back.
Jerry said he hasn't got any offers to play Christmas music this year, but he is ready and willing. It would be appropriate for him to do the piano-playing. He was born on Christmas day.

MIXIN' IT UP — Jerry Baxter mixes both piano-playing and football. Here he takes a few fast licks on the ivories before heading outside for some football. For Jerry it's a tough choice—he likes 'em both. (News Photo)

Wheeler Youth's Calf Wins Second

WHEELER — (Special) — Joe VanZandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Van Zandt, Wheeler, showed his Hereford steer in the junior livestock feeding contest of the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago Saturday, Nov. 27. His calf placed second in its class, which was the highest placing of any Texas calf in the junior feeding contest.
This calf also placed third in the open division of the fat steer class at the exposition.
VanZandt also won one of the three $300 scholarships, given to outstanding feeders exhibiting calves in the junior feeding contest. This scholarship is called the Thomas E. Wilson Meat Animal Award.
His calf came from the registered Hereford herd of J. Ferris Hess of McLean. He will probably bring his steer back home to show in Texas.
VanZandt is also attending the National 4-H Congress in Chicago as a Santa Fe Award winner.

'Dead' Letters Staying Alive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — UP — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said Saturday there has been a decrease in "dead" letters and parcels in the Post Office because the public has been more careful with mailing.
Summerfield said estimates for July through September show a 4.27 per cent reduction in "dead" letters and a 12.64 per cent cut in "dead" parcels—letters and packages so poorly labeled they can neither be delivered nor returned to the senders.
He praised the press, radio, and TV for helping to promote correct mailing practices.

South African Racial Problem Could Break Loose Any Time

EDITOR'S NOTE: South Africa has a racial problem of such magnitude that one of these days it may boil over into violence that will encompass the entire "dark continent." Here is a picture of conditions there.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Dec. 4.—UP.—The word is "apartheid."

It means "apartness" or segregation of races.

In the United States there are 10 whites for every Negro. In the Union of South Africa there are four non-whites for every white. The whites are the descendants of the Dutch and English settlers. This most advanced and western of the African nations has a premier. His name is Johannes Gerhardus Strydom. He succeeds the veteran Dr. Daniel F. Malan. Malan believes firmly in apartheid. Strydom is far more extreme.

Unliked the United States where segregation is understood as affecting Negro and white, South Africa has degrees of definition. Whites are generally known as Europeans.

Natives (Negroes) are referred to as non-Europeans. The also are called bantus. They themselves like to be known as Africans, a term resolutely opposed by the Dutch-descended Afrikaners.

Coloreds are not Negroes but half castes.

Indians and Chinese are grouped under the term Asiatics.

In this country today, natives and coloreds work as domestic servants in homes of whites, as farm, factory and mine laborers.

Their Own Buses They cannot, except in the Capetown area where liberal tradition is stronger, ride on European transport. Instead they have their own buses and streetcars distinguished by colored bands.

Trains have separate compartments for Europeans and non-Europeans. White hotels do not admit natives, coloreds or Asiatics.

Natives cannot buy liquor except for kaffir beer but coloreds, Indians and Chinese may.

There are separate benches for whites and non-whites in public parks, railway stations and bus stops. Separate entrances have been built for race groups at all main railway stations.

At coastal resorts the best beaches are reserved for Europeans.

There is no mixing of races in public schools. They are entirely separate for whites, coloreds, natives and Asiatics.

By law, natives and Asiatics are forbidden to vote. Coloreds may vote only in the Cape.

Should a non-European become a doctor or lawyer, his practice is limited to non-Europeans.

Non-whites cannot become members of parliament. Natives and coloreds are represented by whites.

A non-European wishing to buy a railway ticket or postage stamp must present himself at a separate counter.

Non-European boxers cannot fight whites in South African rings.

In churches degrees of apartheid vary. Most churches have special services for natives. The mixed marriages act and the immorality act forbid marriage between whites and non-whites and levy harsh penalties for illicit relations — imprisonment and lashing.

forces they may undertake only non-combatant duties. Perhaps the most extreme of all apartheid steps is the pass law. It requires a native to carry a pass at all times and to observe a curfew unless he has a special pass. Exemption certificates are issued to the better educated Negroes.

Shamrock FFA Boys Butchering Hogs
SHAMROCK — (Special) — The Future Farmers of Shamrock High School Friday began butchering hogs as a community service project. This is an annual project. Persons who wish to have hogs butchered should notify H. C. Weatherby so that their names can be put on the schedule.
Butchering dates for this season have been set as: Dec. 6, 8, and 13. The general practice is for the patron to bring the hogs to the agriculture building on these dates. The animals will be butchered there and the carcasses will hang in the shop overnight to chill and drain.
Next day the boys will trim and cut the meat into ham, bacon, loin, and shoulder. In this way, the hogs are returned to the owner, "signed, sealed and delivered," the second day.

Dear Santa,
This Christmas I want a bike for all of us; a walking doll with suitcase full of clothes; a set of dishes and baking set. Please bring me some new clothes.
We thank you a lot.

Hustlin' Harvesters Fight Off Late Sudan Rally; Win 46-42

Extend Winning Streak To 59

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Hustlin' Harvesters were forced to stave off a battling Sudan Hornet team last night to keep their winning streak intact, the Green and Golden winning by 46-42 over the invading South Plains outfit at Harvesters Fieldhouse.

It was the first defeat of the year for Sudan while it was the third win this season for the McNeelymen and 59th in succession over a span of four seasons.

Sudan, who trailed the Harvesters by seven points, 41-34, at the end of three quarters last night, narrowed the gap to two points, 44-42, with only three minutes remaining in the contest. The crowd of some 1,000 fans were kept in a continuous uproar through those last three minutes as the Hornets came dangerously close to catching up.

Both teams played conservative ball in those waning minutes, neither shooting until they had a close shot at the hoop.

Molvain Hits Clincher
After Sudan controlled the ball for 1:30 minutes of the final three before taking a shot and missing, the Harvesters got the rebound and with one minute left E. Jay Molvain banked one in to put the game on ice.

Molvain was the game's high scorer with 16 points. He was followed closely by Gary Griffin of the Harvesters and center Leon Hill of Sudan, each with 15 tallies.

Sudan grabbed an early lead, 11-10, after one quarter but the Harvesters surged back to lead 27-20 at halftime and 41-34 at the three-quarter stage.

Ken Hinkle popped in a long one early in the second period to give the Harvesters the lead they never lost, 12-11. The lead had changed hands eight times in the exciting first quarter and the score tied on another occasion.

Buddy Sharp dropped in two free throws to tie the count at 4-4, with three minutes gone. After that, everytime each team scored they took the lead in the initial period.

But Hinkle sent the Harvesters on their way in the opening minute of the second quarter. The Harvesters led by 10 points on one occasion in the second quarter, 20-10, but Sudan rallied to cut the margin to seven at halftime, 27-20.

The Harvesters kept at least five points ahead throughout most of the third and were leading 41-32 when Marvin Ballard fired a desperation shot from mid-court as the third quarter buzzer sounded and cut it to 41-31.

Sudan Threatens
It was in the last five minutes that the Hornets threw a scare into the Harvesters. The Harvesters were leading 44-33 with five minutes left when Hall found the hoop for two field goals to reduce the Harvesters lead to 44-42.

But the Hornets couldn't find the punch to pull even and McLeain made it winner on the Harvesters fans with his field goal that iced the decision.

The Harvesters had a fair night from the floor, hitting 17 of 41 attempts for 41.4 per cent. Sudan fired 47 times, hit 15 for 31.9.

Neither coach, Clifton McNeely of the Harvesters, or Francis Smith of the Hornets, substituted during the game.

The Pampa B team Shockers won their third in as many starts in a preliminary game, 48-35. The Harvesters have three games next week, all at home. Tullis comes in Tuesday, Clivia Friday and Quana Saturday.

Notre Dame Downs SMU In Cotton Bowl, 26 To 14

DALLAS, Dec. 4—UP—Notre Dame defeated Southern Methodist, 26 to 14, Saturday with a great Irish line that protected All-American quarterback Ralph Guglielmi like a dotting mother while he passed, opened wide rights-of-way for halfbacks Joe Heap, Don Schaefer and Jim Morse and stifled fumbling SMU passing attempts.

The Mustangs called hardily at all on their two fine halfbacks, Frank Eldom and John Marshall, and relied instead on passing efforts of inexperienced quarterbacks John Roach and Jimmy Haynie, the latter a sophomore who until Saturday had played a grand total of 11 minutes of college football.

Once, when Marshall did get the football, he ran 78 yards for SMU's second touchdown in the fourth quarter.

But while the Mustangs held a one-point lead briefly in the first period, there never was any question about the outcome of the game, nationally televised and witnessed in the Cotton Bowl by a sellout crowd of 75,504 persons.

Outstanding Star
An outstanding star of the spectacular Irish line, South Bend, Ind., scored one of Notre Dame's four touchdowns by blocking a Roach kick with one minute, 22 seconds left in the first half, snatching up the ball and ambling 19 yards for the score.

Irish backfield men ran up 321 yards rushing, compared to only 84 for SMU. Guglielmi gained another 156 yards in the air, to 49 for SMU, in the sixth meeting of the two teams.

Notre Dame scored first four minutes, 15 seconds deep into the first quarter in a touchdown march covering 60 yards in eight plays. The drive almost faltered when Guglielmi on second down with 23 to go appeared to be trapped, but he passed complete to end Paul Matz for 20 yards, then on the next play to Morse for a first down.

Press Box Views

IT CERTAINLY WAS DISHEARTENING to us to see the McLean Tigers fall by the wayside Friday in the region finals against Sundown at Canyon.

We were among the 2,000 or so fans that were pulling for the Tigers to win Friday but it just wasn't in the books for Coach Hap Rogers' team to emerge victorious.

But you've got to hand it to the McLean gridgers and the fans as well for their never give up spirit.

Even with Sundown leading, 26-0, in the third quarter, the McLean fans were on their feet cheering their beloved footballers on.

This backing may have been what sparked the McLean comeback in those fading minutes as the Tigers narrowed the gap to 33-20 at the final gun.

McLean was far below par in the game Friday as most of the Tiger followers would agree. Their timing in the first half was off and thus their plays weren't working.

But the Tigers did finally hit their stride in the second half but it was too late then.

We overheard one scout in the press box say that if McLean had played as well in the first half as they did in the second it might have been a different story.

That appeared to be the sentiment of nearly everyone present for the game.

Well, it's been a fine season for the McLean gridgers as their 10-1 record will attest.

Our hats are off to Coach Rogers and to all who had a hand in giving McLean one of its finest football seasons in history of the school.

IN A VERY FEW DAYS the future of baseball in Pampa will be known.

Pampa business men and fans are working in earnest to keep the club in Pampa. It may come to the point where Pampa and Berger will form a corporation but at least baseball wouldn't be completely lost here.

The Pampa-Berger deal sounds pretty good to us. By forming this corporation it would mean that only 35 games would be played in Pampa each season instead of 70 since the two cities would split up the home games.

We could ramble on here on what might happen and what could happen to baseball in Pampa but Wednesday night's meeting will probably tell whether or not baseball will continue in Pampa.

Speaking of this meeting, it is open to any and all fans of Pampa who would like to see pro

Colts Upset Rams, 22-21, On Late FG

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4—UP—Quarterback Gary Kerkorian, a California boy playing before a hometown crowd, kicked a field goal in the last 12 seconds of play Saturday for the Baltimore Colts to give them a 22-21 upset victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

Baltimore drove from its own 20 in the closing minutes of play under the senatorial passing of reserve quarterback Cotton Davidson. But with time running out, Kerkorian came in after having been injured earlier to kick the game winning field goal from the 12 on second down.

Davidson on the drive completed seven straight passes to electrify the crowd of 30,744 in Memorial Coliseum and millions more who witnessed the game on television.

If ever the foot was put into football, Baltimore did it Saturday as it scored 15 of its 22 points by field goals.

Halfback Bert Rechichar kicked three and Kerkorian kicked two for the Colts. Their kicking kept Baltimore in the lead most of the game, until the Rams caught fire in the final period to take a brief 21-19 lead on two fourth period touchdowns.

Baltimore 3 10 6 3—22

Los Angeles scoring: Touchdowns, Quinn, Boyd, Towler; Conversions, Fears, Richter.

WHO'S THE BALL? — That appears to be what Buddy Sharp, No. 16, of Sudan, is looking for in the above photo as he reaches over the shoulders of Buddy Sharp of the Harvesters. Ready to give aid are Gary Griffin, No. 35, of the Harvesters; Leon Hill (with glasses) and Charles Lynch of Sudan. The Harvesters won a 46-42 thriller from the potent Sudan team.

WELL GUARDED — Buddy Sharp, left, of the Hustlin' Harvester basketballers, goes up for a shot in Friday's game with Vernon as two Lions, Pee Wee Morris, No. 25, and an unidentified team mate, combine to deflect the shot. Looking on are Dickie Mauldin, No. 42, and Gene Brown, No. 41, both of the Harvesters. The Harvesters raced to a 71-45 victory. (News Photo)

Harvesters Clip Vernon, 71-45

The Hustlin' Harvesters, after building up a 22-0 lead after seven minutes of play, coasted rest of the way Friday night to hand the Vernon Lions a sound 71-45 thumping at Harvester Fieldhouse. Vernon was held scoreless until the final 30 seconds of the first quarter when Gene Miller bucketed a two-pointer for the Lions. The Harvesters hiked their lead to 44-0 at halftime but Vernon managed to whittle the lead in the final two quarters but they never came close to catching up. It was 52-27 at the three-quarter mark. Gary Griffin led the Harvesters with 22 points, coming on 10 field goals and two gratis tosses.

Wilkinson Raps Elimination Of Spring Grid Drills

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—UP—Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, coach of Oklahoma's perfect record Sooners, said Saturday that the elimination of spring football practice in certain sections of the country is "the wrong emphasis on over-emphasis." Wilkinson, the principal speaker at a Look magazine dinner honoring the selection of UCLA as the nation's No. 1 team, said, "many things are done wrong in the interest of de-emphasis." "It is disturbing to me that a lot of people think college football is wrong, particularly in the spring," Wilkinson said. "If there is over-emphasis in football, the abolition of spring practice only magnifies the evil." Wilkinson explained that many an average college player could develop into a varsity regular if taught the main fundamentals of the game in spring practice. "When a school cannot have spring practice, it is practically impossible to take a boy of ordinary ability and make him into a star," Wilkinson said. "The only other alternative is over-emphasis. Go out and substitute the experienced boy who doesn't need spring practice."

Wilkinson, reluctant to comment on the fact that his Sooners were not represented in the Big Seven Conference in the Orange Bowl, said, "This is so fine a team as we have ever had to represent the university." Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State's perfect record Buckeyes said even though his team won nine straight games this year, he still was opposed to the anti-two-platoon substitution rule. "I know that rule will not return to the game as it was in 1952," he said. "I am resigned to that fact."

Gipson, 6-8, A Boost To Trotter Five

From one year in Los Angeles high school basketball to a starring role with the great Harlem Globetrotters of the court is the success story of six foot eight inch J. C. Gipson who will appear here with the cage magicians at Harvester Fieldhouse Dec. 16. The Trotters meet Boston's Whirlwinds, featuring Bevo Francis, that night. Most of his teammates are stars who performed brilliantly through full high school and college careers. In some cases, had professional experience before winning a coveted place with the Globetrotters.

Not so Gipson. Owner - Coach Abe Saperstein of the Globetrotters heard glowing things about a youthful sensation who was burning up Los Angeles prep circles. He went out to see for himself. After scouting Gipson in several games and learning that the big fellow had only the single year of prep competition before graduating and wanted to turn pro to help support his family, Saperstein promised to give him that chance. The formal signing came soon after Gipson had broken all existing scoring records for Los Angeles prep play.

Neither has been sorry since. Right-off the bat J. C. became a Trotter sensation with his all-around play and flair for comedy. He turned in several high scoring performances for the club under pressure in important competition, including the annual World Series of Basketball against the College All-Americans. After joining the Trotters for the 1953-54 season, Gipson's grooming as a Trotter was pushed along by his inclusion on the squad that Saperstein took on a tour of Europe, the Near East and North Africa in the summer of 1953. He made the trip again last summer. From the way it looks now he'll be traveling to all parts of the globe with the Trotters for years to come. Tickets for the Trotters' Pampa appearance are on sale at Malone Pharmacy. Ticket prices are $1.80 and $1.25.

In 4A Playoffs Austin (Houston), Poly Win Openers

By DICK HARDWICK United Press Sports Writer The Breckenridge Bucks and two teams that most experts figured would be kayoed—Fort Worth Poly and Houston S. F. Austin—Saturday were in the semi-finals of the Class AAAA-AAA schoolboy football playoffs. This trio sat back and watched their counterparts battle Saturday for spots opposite them next week. In Class AAAA, Abilene entertains El Paso Austin and Waco plays at Corpus Christi Miller. In AAA, Lufkin plays at Sherman, Port Neches at Temple and McAllen at San Antonio against Alamo Heights. All are afternoon games. Saturday Game at Lubbock One Class AA regional game was scheduled Saturday afternoon as Phillips went against Colorado City at Lubbock.

MR. "X" ... who is he?

west States individual champion and for a time shared the tag team title with his brother, Jack. So far this season Jack has not joined George in further pursuit of tag team honors, but each is accepted as a capable, able wrestler in his own right. To warm up for the main event and set the pace for tag team warfare, Johnny James takes on Mr. X for a one fall or 15-minute round.

In Pampa Monday Bruno, Mr. 'X' To Seek Tag Title

The Southwest States junior heavyweight wrestling tag team championship will be at stake Monday night at Pampa's Top O' Texas arena when the famous James brothers, Jesse and Johnny of Houston and Los Angeles defend the title against a pair of comparative newcomers. Con Bruno, who wrestled for several months in this territory last spring, is back in the territorial bounds of the Southwest States area, and is to return to the favor he held. He teams with a masked unknown, identified hereabouts only as Mr. X, in a challenge match against Jesse and Johnny James. The title match extends over the regular period for such contests, two best falls of three or 90 minutes.

Except for Mr. X, whose previous names and titles are not known, all six athletes on Monday night's card at the Pampa arena are connected with championships. The James Brothers held the tag title for several months last year, returned late in 1954 to beat Bob Geigel and Doc Gallagher and win the trophy for a second time. Chet Wallick, of Detroit, Michigan, defeats George Curtis of Vicksburg, Miss., in Monday night's semi-final. It runs for two best falls of three or 45 minutes. Wallick and his brother, Leo, hold the Northwest States tag team title. George Curgis is a former Southwest States individual champion and for a time shared the tag team title with his brother, Jack. So far this season Jack has not joined George in further pursuit of tag team honors, but each is accepted as a capable, able wrestler in his own right. To warm up for the main event and set the pace for tag team warfare, Johnny James takes on Mr. X for a one fall or 15-minute round.

Tickets Scarce COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 4.—UP—The Rose Bowl ticket situation became so acute Saturday that the sheriff of Los Angeles had to ask the sheriff of Columbus for help. Eugene Biscailuz, the California police official, said officers all over the country had been asking him for tickets. He decided to pass some of the requests on to Ralph J. Paul, the sheriff here. The answer from Paul was the same as from Biscailuz—"None left."

Ryff Ready For Shot At L'weight Title

By JACK CUDDY NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—UP—Unbeaten Frankie Ryff's confidence was undimmed Saturday by 22 stitches about his eyes, and he said, "I'll be ready to fight for the lightweight title within six months." Manager Charley Black, delighted with Frankie's split-decision victory over fourth-ranking contender Orlando Zulueta Friday night, declared, "He'll not only fight for the title, but he'll win it. He can beat any lightweight in the world right now."

Ryff, 27, of New York and outstanding candidate for "rookie of the year," registered his 16th straight victory as a professional before 3,000 at Madison Square Garden in the nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder. But the "Bronx Express" was nearly derailed by blood that flowed profusely from three cuts about his right eye, one on the nose and one at the corner of his left eye. Dr. Vincent Nardiello examined him twice in the corner but permitted him to continue against Cuban Zulueta, despite cries of "Stop it! Stop it!" from some of the fans. Early Saturday Nardiello took 22 stitches in Ryff's face. He said, "Ryff will be out of action for about two months. After that he'll be as good as new."

Peg O' Pampa

JUST CAN'T BELIEVE these balmy days will continue... hope it doesn't mean we're going to have winter in May!... keep scanning the sky looking for snow to keep those dusters away... sure would be nice to have a white Christmas... that thought brings to mind that Christmas is racing this way mighty fast... just seemed to creep up from behind this year... noticed the shoppers out in full force this week... saw lovely Evelyn Trice with two of her children... Bertha Chisum... Mrs. Henry Bensell buying for her children... Adrienne Foster with a big feather in her hat... Vida Dean looking at scales... Bonnie Fabian—in her car... to name a few.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK—Spiritual force is stronger than material; thought rules the world. (Ralph Waldo Emerson)... All that a man does outwardly is but the expression and completion of his inward thought. (William Ellery Channing)... Thought is the soul of act. (Robert Browning)... The devotion of thought to an honest achievement makes the achievement possible. (Mary Baker Eddy)... Garner up pleasant thoughts in your mind, for pleasant thoughts make pleasant lives. (John Wilkins)... The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts, therefore guard accordingly. (Marcus Antonius).

PAMPA CERTAINLY HAS a number of attractive December brides-to-be... Lovely Harriet Schwartz who will walk down the aisle a few days after Christmas... Pretty Carolyn Groninger with that pre-nuptial glow... to become Mrs. Roy Sullivan the week before Christmas... Peggy Moxe who will take the step Christmas Day... although a bride-of-a-week, Peg must mention attractive Rena Webb, now Rena Snyder... ah, me!... ain't love grand?... saw Martha Hopkins not too long ago with her beau... understand she's pinned.

TOOK A PEEK the other night into the high school cafeteria... the senior class Mardi Gras... could hardly recognize a soul... everyone disguised as rabbits, boys as girls... girls as cigarette packs with just legs showing... Virginia Vaughn was busy supervising, dressed in a flashy clown costume... Tommy Lockhart as Bugs Bunny escorting pretty Carol Foster, a Spanish girl for the evening... James Edward Vicars as what seemed to be "the man-of-tomorrow"... you know, the space-ship type... Cameron Marsh, sans costume or as-himself... getting a big kick out of the kids... Jack Nickols... also enjoying himself... Claude Speaks helping to judge the costumes... fond parents and teachers "looking in"... Robert Fleming as MC... who got the "big tease" after kissing Marietta Mitchell, chosen queen of the Mardi Gras... who was cute in a costume decorated with bright Christmas balls... and all the kids having a big-time throwing confetti... all in all, a wonderful form of entertainment for the younger set.

ATTENDED A WONDERFUL SHOWER for Carolyn Groninger... lots and lots of people there... Mrs. John Young talking of her pretty daughter-in-law... Evelyn Milam and Sibyl Turner... Nova Mayo... gracious Mrs. E. L. Anderson, one of the hostesses... of course, Margaret Sullivan, beaming, and charming Mrs. Groninger... Carolyn's cute niece "helping" her open gifts... Azelle Loftus... charming Mrs. Douglas Carver... and many more... The decorations followed the Christmas theme with bright red poinsettias all around... a lovely affair.

HERE AND THERE... went out to look at the J. C. Daniels home the other day... certainly looks like a fabulous place... understand Jean Casey is being teased cause her baby hit her in the eye... once heard of an infant breaking his father's rib with a kick... must be a new generation of super-children coming up... Saw Ann Sidwell Fathered the other day... noticed Lois Patton coming out of the Hughes building... Understand Frances Hofess and Claudine Vail spent Friday in Amarillo... The John Taylors have left... certainly will miss them... also miss seeing the Johnny Austins around, but understand the new pro will be here soon and his family is due around Dec. 15... we're all anxious to get acquainted with the Hart Warrens... Frances and George Hofess are moving to town sometime in the future... they've bought a nice home on Charles, Peg heard.

THERE ARE QUITE A FEW proud parents in Pampa this week... mostly of girls... The W. D. Price Jr. have a new daughter... John and Betty Ritter are aglow over their new daughter... Jerry and Mary Rushmore have a girl... the Martin Lantana, a girl... and the M. L. Campbells a boy... congratulations and much happiness with their new offspring to them all.

OVERHEARD A BUNCH OF WOMEN congratulating Mrs. George Friauf on becoming a Gray Lady... that certainly is an active and hard working group... and definitely a worthwhile one... glad to see such a large new group join the established ladies... Mrs. Malcolm Denson, Mrs. W. B. Herr, Mrs. W. S. Dixon, Mrs. B. F. Tepe, Mabel Winters, Mrs. J. B. Townsend, Mrs. Edward Eaton, Mrs. John M. Bradley, Mrs. O. C. Smith, Mrs. Ira Rogers, Mrs. C. B. Homer, Mrs. P. H. Ford and Mrs. A. D. McNamara.

SAW A LITTLE GIRL SCOUT making her rounds with the nuts the troops are selling to raise money for their activities and crafts supplies... it's purely a troop project... beside being nice for Christmas, they do help the girls who are willing to get out and work for their money rather than to ask for donations from Mom and Dad... Saw several Skellytown Girl Scouts in town the other day to thank Joe Miller for the use of his building in Skellytown... Their leaders, Mrs. Fred Wall and Mrs. Calvin Duncan, were along... the girls were Shirley Keach and Ann Duncan... there were a few youngsters there too... suspect they were little brothers and sisters.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS PARTY in the City Club Room was held Thursday by the County Home Demonstration women... the tree was lovely... understand Viola Jordan and Maxine Rose and some other Council of Clubs women decorated it... did a mighty fine job... first Christmas tree I've seen... sure put me in the spirit... anxious to get at my own decorating... saw pretty Faye Burns... Mrs. A. A. McElrath... Helen Dunlap, of course... how she manages to get around to all the affairs... Mrs. Johnson at the guest register... cute little Vivian Warminski... demonstration on Christmas dolls... with assistance from... but she did most of it herself... the speaker, Blanche of Stratford, showed some wonderful pictures of... she was an exchange student there... must have had a wonderful experience.

Miss Rena Webb And John B. Snyder Marry During Double-Ring Ceremony

Miss Rena Webb and John Bentley Snyder were united in marriage at 3 p.m. Nov. 28, in the Central Baptist Church, Rev. J. R. Manning, assisted by Rev. Carroll B. Ray, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Floyd Webb, 408 E. Kingsmill, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Shupp, west of city.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice that came to a point at the waist was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar and closed down the front with a row of tiny covered buttons. The long sleeves came to petal points over her hands. The bouffant skirt of lace over satin was floor-length.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a lace cap embroidered with pearls and sequins. She carried a single white orchid over a white Bible, a gift of the Central Baptist Y.W.A.

Mrs. Bill Davies was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of pink lace over taffeta, fashioned similar to that of the bride. She wore pink satin shoes and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Bridemaids were Miss Joyce Adams and Miss Janet Weathered. They wore gowns and carried bouquets identical to those of the matron of honor.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Webb wore a pink and black dress of antique taffeta with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy blue dress of crepe with white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

Joe Snyder, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Bailey and Bob Becker, and ushers were Wayne Anderson and John Wells, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Keith Roberts, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer, and Donna Wells, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Candelights were Misses Evelyn Patterson and Juanita Prescott. Both wore identical street-length gowns of apple-green taffeta and their corsages were of pink carnations.

Decorations at the church included baskets of pink gladioli. Miss Freda Worley of Amarillo was organist and Miss Johnny Mitchell of Pampa was pianist. Prior to the ceremony, "Oh Proise Me." and "Because" were played, and the traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. Miss Worley played "Clair De Lune" during the service. Joe Webb of McLean and Bill Webb of Kerrville, brothers of the bride, sang "Always," "I Love You Truly," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. The serving table was covered with a white organdy cloth over pink, centered by the three-tiered wedding cake.

Miss Pat Young served the cake, and Miss Jo Ann Cox presided at the punch bowl. Also assisting were Misses E. R. Gower, G. C. Stark, and A. P. Holligan. Miss Jeannette Smith registered the guests.

For the wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a charcoal-grey faille dress with black velvet accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home at 319 N. Purviance.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School in 1951. The bridegroom is a 1949 graduate of Pampa High School and attended McMurry College, Abilene, Mo.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor Roberts and Keith of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Webb of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, Donna and Steve of Kermit; Mrs. Smiel and Hazel of Borger; Ray and Roy Suttle, Aubrey Alken and Jean Peninger, all of Amarillo.

Hostesses were Misses Wayne Greenhouse, W. L. Lard, Lloyd Wilkins, J. O. Duniven, Bob Duniven, Jack Woodford, Bill Cox, Bailey Dodson, Annie Keesh, G. L. Pounds, Nancy Hatcher, Ray Manning, Fred Gordon, Fredrick Gordon II, Troy Hopkins, Bill Gill, Rene R. Ratliff, and Gail Jackson; Misses Charlotte Christopher, Jennie Mather, and Sammie Jo Bowers.

Supplement Silver For Holiday Fetes

Modern homemakers are making the happy discovery that lovely silver is as much a practical necessity as it is a proud possession. They have long realized that its bright gleam spells out gracious hospitality and contributes an unmistakable air of elegance to entertaining. Now, more than ever before, they are appreciating its practical aspects.

Holiday time, with its busy round of entertaining, points up the wonderful practicality of silver. It also shows us, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, that the purchase of silver is one of the soundest investments you can make, not only in beauty but in lasting usefulness.

The secret is this: most of your silver holloware pieces can lead double or triple lives. Thanksgiving, one of the most festive occasions on the autumn calendar, offers a fine opportunity to explore the double-duty possibilities of your silver holloware. . . . or to supplement your supply in time for the Christmas holidays. Some of the handiest pieces to own are a silver bowl, a covered vegetable dish, a pitcher, a tray and a gravy boat. Each one adds grace and ease to the serving of a meal and each one fills other important roles as well. The bowl and vegetable dish make lovely containers for flower, fruit and vegetable arrangements. The pitcher serves cocktails and other party beverages as well as ice water, and also makes a magnificent vase for pompons and bright autumn leaves. A silver tray will serve coffee, canapes, sandwiches and tea cakes, and a gravy boat is useful for sauces hot and cold, gravy and also small table arrangements of flowers or fruit. A list of multiple uses need not stop with these ideas, for it can be as long as your imagination makes it, including many, many pieces—among them porringers, baby cups, plates of all sizes, bon bon dishes, sandwich servers and platters.

AAUW To Sponsor Children's Theater Production, 'The Clown Who Ran Away'

An amazing clown, and dolls that can skate, dance and sing will be seen in "The Clown Who Ran Away," a Children's Theater production, to be presented at 4 p.m. Dec. 14, in the Pampa High School auditorium.

Directed by Miss Helen Schaefer, the play is sponsored by the American Association of University Women, primarily for elementary school children. Tickets are on sale at 24 cents for children and 50 cents for adults.

Kenneth Van Sickle will head the cast as Dedo, an unhappy clown. Mr. Frumpkin, the best doll-maker in the world, will be portrayed by Dick Roloff, with Edgar Ethridge as his apprentice, Rudolph Bernard Boo, the terrible robber, will be played by Clifford Ryan, with Dale Largent as Ugly, his faithful servant.

The beautiful dolls will be played by Marcheta Hall, Rose Smith, Mary Wills, Barbara Morris, Nancy Moore, Jan Dyer and Mary Rogers.

The play tells the story of a confused clown who is running away from the circus. He decides to tell the children in the audience a story and asks them what they would like included in it. The boys suggest gangsters; the girls, dolls. So Dedo's story has both.

Cotton Maid Winner Gets Glamorous Job

MEMPHIS — UP — King Cotton will pick his 1955 good-will representative in ceremonies here Jan. 4, and the lovely, lucky winner will be off on one of the most glamorous assignments any girl ever dreamed of.

Each of the 20 beauties participating in the "Maid of Cotton" finals will be from a cotton-growing state and entries come from as far apart as California and Georgia.

Here are some of the awards for the winner:

A seven-month social whirl abroad and in this country, where she will meet more dignitaries and celebrities than a movie star. A complete summer-and-winter wardrobe made especially for her by top designers in New York and Paris. All will be cotton of course.

Lessons in the finer points of pose and modeling from beauty expert Candy Jones of New York. And a roomful of gifts including a new car.

Despite its glamor the Maid's job is a serious one—to sell the world on cotton.

She is the official representative of the 13 million members of the cotton industry.

The finalists, were chosen in state-wide contests and by judges of the National Cotton Council, one of the sponsoring organizations.

Typical Maid candidate is Delois Faulkner, a blue-eyed blonde of Oklahoma.

The daughter of a cattle rancher, Miss Faulkner says she can "talk a lot about cows," doesn't know too much about cotton. But she'll learn if she is the winner.

She's Strong Contender

Miss Faulkner comes from a cotton-producing state, she's never been married, she's 1 1/2 inches over the minimum height of five-feet, five-inches and is 20 years old.

Miss Faulkner's friendly personality and easy-going manner will make her a strong contender. The Maid must be able to meet people, a quality the judges will be looking for in their two days of interviews and chats with contestants.

Dear Grace Friend:

My problem is not as serious as many who write to you, but I feel I do need help.

We are a family of six and moderate means. We have our bills to pay every month, the same as any other family I know. I am not asking for financial help, I am telling you this so that you can understand my problem a little better.

I am trying to point out that we are not poor — and also we are not wealthy. We have all the necessities of life without the luxuries.

We have more than many families, I know, not in money, but in happiness and love. It is because of this love that I am asking your help. My children and my husband are my life.

What I want to know is this: Is there such a thing as a good family doctor?

In this day and age of specialists, it seems that we have to have a different doctor for every member of the family.

Not that I mind this so much, it's just that the doctors I know don't take an interest in their patients, but are only interested in the fee they can charge.

Pediatrician's Care

For several years I had the children under the care of two very well-known pediatricians, until my baby almost had bronchopneumonia. The doctor was too busy to see her, and without examination said it was nothing and I shouldn't worry.

By the time I got a strange doctor in, she was barely able to get her breath. We worked over her night and day for three days before she came out of it.

I am only using this one incident for an example. There have been many such incidents.

Not only do we need a good family doctor, but we need a good dentist, someone that doesn't want $75 dollars to fill nine baby teeth.

I don't know if you can give me any advice about this, but so far the Medical Association has been of no help. Yes, I even asked them.

The County Health Dept. must be commended for the help given to families like mine, but they can only do so much.

Thanking you in advance, F.J.

Dear F.J.

It is true that there are fewer general practitioners all of the time and no one doubts but that there is a great need for them. The old fashioned family doctor always was more than just a doctor to the families he cared for. He helped them with any problems which might arise.

Many New Discoveries

But today science has discovered so much more about medicine, about the body's ills, that it really is impossible for one man to learn it all. So specialization follows. In addition young doctors prefer the hours which come with specialization. They like to work during regular daytime hours. A general practitioner has no hours, no time he can call his own.

There are however quite a few family doctors still left, men who prefer the warm, friendly feeling which develops between them and their patients as they see them through one thing after another.

You will have to ask among your friends and acquaintances until you can locate such a one. When you find him cling to him and never let him get away because he is worth his weight in gold, even though he will often be too busy to devote as much time to you as you will want.

The prices charged by dentists and doctors are justified by the years of study and preparation now necessary for either profession. Some are more reasonable than others but you will have to find them through investigation among your friends.

Gray County Home Demonstration Clubs Hold Christmas Party, Install Officers

Gray County's Home Demonstration Club Council held its annual Christmas party at 2 p.m. Thursday in the City Club Room. Council recreation chairman, Mrs. Nolan Cole, was in charge, and led the group in the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. A. A. McElrath accompanied on the piano.

For the devotional, Mrs. Cole read the Christmas story from the book of Luke.

Vivian Warminski, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warminski, showed the women how to make a doll from fruit and candy. She used an orange for the head, an apple for the body, sticks of candy for the arms and legs and blocks of bubble gum for the feet. Life savers formed the mouth, gum drops, the ears and nose. She told the group life savers or walnut halves could be used for the eyes.

Featured speaker was Miss Mildred Bennett of Stratford, who showed slides of pictures she took in Germany in 1953 as an International Foreign Exchange student. She was dressed in the traditional clothing of the women of that country and told of their habits and customs.

Miss Helen Dunlap installed the council officers for 1955, using "Faith, Love and Hope" as her theme. Awards were also made for club reporters' publicity books, with the Merten Club taking first place prize of $5. Second prize of $3 went to the Sunshine group, and Worthwhile Club won the third place award of $2.

Following the program, gifts were exchanged.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served from a lace-covered table, centered with a winter arrangement of leaves and red berries. Mrs. G. W. G. Kinzer served the cake, and Mrs. V. Smith presided at the coffee service. More than 55 women and children attended.

December Tea Today

The annual December tea will be presented at 3 p.m. today in Parish Hall by members of the Holy Souls Parish Council. The event is for all the ladies of the church and especially for newcomers.

Mrs. Russell Chisholm is in charge of the program.

BABY

A recent news event (a batch of babies in a hospital nursery got skin trouble from the ink that was stamped on diapers) suggests that you do not mark baby's diapers with ink. The stamping that's put on by the manufacturer is safe, for they have special inks. If you wish to mark your diapers, take a sewing machine and run a row of stitching across a corner or down one side. Even after the bleach takes the color out, you'll still be able to find the sewing.

The miracle yarns might have been invented just for baby. Wool irritates the skin of many infants, yet these synthetic fibers seem to bother none. A sweater and cap of nylon or another miracle yarn is a boon that you can knit yourself for the winter coming. Easy to wash, won't get matted from frequent doublings.

Do you have the wonderful modern "radiant" heat—the kind that heats the floor? Baby will love to take naps on it. Just spread an old cotton quilt or a sheet down on the floor. Cover him with a light shawl and he'll sleep with all the comfort of someone under an electric blanket. Make sure there's no chance of someone's stepping on him or the dog coming over to lick him, however.

RUTH MILLET

She quit school at the end of the eighth grade and since then has been earning her own living.

The longer she is out in the world the more she sees the value of a high school education. The question now is — should she enroll in night school and try for a high school diploma?

She says: "I would like to go to night school, but I feel I'm too old because right now I'm 22 years of age and I probably would be 26 before I finished."

Twenty-two seems old only to a person who is 22 or younger. To the rest of the world 22 is youth with everything ahead. It is an age when a person can still do whatever he likes with his life.

So if you regret not having a high school education and have come to realize that your limited schooling will be a handicap to you in the years ahead — enroll in night school tomorrow.

You will probably find that you aren't one of the "old" students in your night school classes but one of the younger students.

For today nobody need ever feel he is too old to go back to school. Mothers often go back to school as soon as they get all of their children up to school age.

Grandmothers decide to take night school classes and some even enter college when they have grandchildren working toward a degree.

Men, young and old, go back to school to get the education they need on the job or to fit them for the kind of job they want to move into.

So you see, educationally speaking, you are just a kid. Four years from now when you walk up for your high school diploma you'll still be a girl. But you will have proved you had the foresight and determination of a woman.

How Their Work Load Can Be Eased Named Chief Interest Of Housewives

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK — UP — Today's woman is highly interested in politics, clubs, education and what Marilyn Monroe thinks of marriage. But she wants more than anything else to read how her job as housewife can be made easier. After that, she wants to know how she can make herself more attractive and better dressed. This is the gist of opinion of women's editors in answer to a United Press questionnaire on what in their pages pulls the greatest readership. Some 143 newspapers answered the questionnaire. They represented all kinds of papers — from metropolitan dailies to those of the small towns — and were from all sections of the nation. Some of the women's editors said bluntly their readers were fed to the teeth with "the same old celebrities called on for comment. How about some new faces?" One quipped that "Marilyn Monroe always ends up on the sports pages anyway." Another women's editor said the only personality outside her own community who has any appeal for women readers "is Mamie Eisenhower." Another editor — male — said he believed women readers had heard enough even about the first lady. The women's editors with few exceptions agreed that their readers like stories of general interest — of women in politics, business and club life; of the atom in its relation to the kitchen of the future and what women in Russia aren't wearing. But there is more reader interest, they said, in such down-to-earth subjects as budgets, nutrition, child care, and beautification both of the home and the housewife. And with a few exceptions, the editors said women wanted more fashion news.

Senior Class Gives Mardi Gras Party

Miss Marietta Mitchell, a queen and king of the Senior Class "Mardi Gras" party, held recently in the high school cafeteria. Following the selection of the king and queen from the costumed guests, the program was presented, with Robert Fleming as master of ceremonies. Miss Betty Osborne did a pantomime and Miss Ramona Hudgins presented several piano numbers. Miss Mary Ann Guthrie sang several songs and Miss Charlotte Hoggatt and Ed Collum did a dance routine. Miss Betty Ray and Gary Griffin presented a comic singing number, and Miss Delores Bonham gave a poem, dedicated to the class of 1955. Also on the program were the "Thrilling Three," a trio of Lefors High School students, composed of Misses Carol Granes, LaJuana Peden and Bobby's Warner. Adults assisting at the party were Miss Virginia Vaughn, senior class sponsor, and Cameron Marsh, Don Swadley, Mrs. Ruby Cappe, Harold W. Little, Claude Speaks, Miss Ellice Pattillo, B. J. MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Baby is our darling baby whom we wish earnestly to preserve against aggression by nameless hordes of germs. So, as we watch her, snow-suited and rosy, flopped down on the park's faded grass, our smile turns to horror. For Baby, exploring her environment has found the silver foil of a discarded candy wrapper.

We get to her in time. Shaken by her narrow escape, our voice is sharp. Our "No, no, no! Dirty paper. Not in the mouth!" Has the urgency of fear. A few minutes later, we make a decision. We decide that we can no longer temporize with the threat of who-knows-what disaster to Baby. We rush at her with determination.

We fling away the sodden cigar butt she's lifting to her mouth — and spank the hand that held it. "Nasty!" we cry. "Not in the mouth! Not in your mouth again — or Mummy will have to spank harder."

Baby turns her blue eyes up to us in astonishment. It is quite clear that she doesn't understand us. But we — we are very certain that we understand Baby. I think we do not if we use excessive severity to control her passion to eat tinfoil, cigar butts, Grandma's beads, thimbles and dead leaves.

For to our baby girl, a mouth is not what it is to us. To Baby, so recently emerged from her passive and dependent darkness as a baby yet unborn, her mouth is relationship. As it has connected her to the breast or the bottle Mother has given her, it focuses all her experience of love.

Thus, when she attempts to eat thimbles and other old things, she is attempting to embrace them with the only love of which she is currently capable. If we understand this, we'll control this young passion of hers with tenderness instead of severity.

For Baby is too young in friendship to discover that we find her "acquaintances" disgusting and contaminating. I hope that no reader will conclude from this column that I am urging a diet of discarded candy foil or cigar butts for young children.

I am not, I am just suggesting that in a world in which such things abound, along with their threat of who-knows-what disaster, it is hard for Baby to retain the spontaneous friendliness toward the world which was planned for her.

If we balance our fears with the realization that retaining this friendliness can be just as important to Baby as any other kind of health, we'll remove her unhygienic "friends" gently, instead of with frightening alarms.

Knitwear Fashioned For Mature Figure
By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
This fall, there's strong evidence that knitted suit designers are paying more attention to the mature woman who's just a bit overweight, and likes to wear knitted suits. The older woman should certainly by-pass the middy-top knitted suit, which is bound to be worn by every teen-ager.

Another knitted item she may be tempted to buy this fall is the popular elongated sweater that's actually a dress. This suit comes with a leather belt and in general, it calls attention to the waist and hips. Ideal for the heavier figure are knitted suits and dresses with easy, supple lines. There are knits available with gores placed at the skirt fronts rather than at the hips, for a slimming effect. Sleeves are important for balancing the heavier silhouette, too. You'll find that three-quarter sleeves accomplish this better than short ones.

In colors, charcoal gray is offered in larger sizes as a most welcome relief from black and navy blue.

A Personal Touch Frail-Looking Motherly Woman Of 73 Angel Of Mercy To Backwoods Folk

By CHARLES K. FENTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOUISVILLE, Ky. — UP — If you had seen tiny, frail-looking Mrs. Mary Scott Breckenridge on a Washington street recently, you would have thought, "There's another sweet, motherly soul out shopping for her grandchildren."

But 73-year-old Mrs. Breckenridge had more important things on her mind. The Wendover, Ky., woman was en route to the American Legion Auxiliary convention to receive the group's distinguished service award for 1954.

It was only one of several awards the head of the Frontier Nursing Service has received. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs chose her its 1954 woman of the year.

She was named Kentuckian of the year in 1952 by the Kentucky Press Association; holds honorary degrees from three colleges and universities; has a medal awarded by the French Government for her service in World War I; and a host of honorary certificates.

What has brought all this attention to a small, unassuming woman, who weighs less than 100 pounds? It's the culmination of a dream and a pledge. Childbirth Deaths

The dream was that mothers living in the backward areas need not die needlessly in childbirth from the superstitious ministrations of "granny women"; that persons in the inaccessible mountain areas of Kentucky should have adequate medical care.

Her work began after the death of her four-year-old son, "Breckie," more than a quarter of a century ago. Another child, Polly, died shortly after birth. Mrs. Breckenridge vowed to save the life of a child for every day of her son's brief life — and she probably has more than achieved her goal.

Largely through her efforts, a three-county, 700-square-mile area of rugged eastern Kentucky served by the FNS now boasts one of the lowest childbirth death rates in the world.

Mrs. Breckenridge and her helpers, known as "Angels on Horseback," cover the vast area — much of it still having only dry creekbeds for roads — on horseback and, since World War II, by jeep.

Mrs. Breckenridge founded Hyden Hospital in 1926 with two British midwife-nurses. It has grown into a modern 20-bed institution, and eight nursing centers are nestled in the wooded hills of Clay and Leslie Counties.

In addition to providing prenatal and post-natal care, the Frontier Nursing Service now gives inoculations, nurses the sick, conducts child health and sanitation clinics, leads in social development programs and conducts a graduate school of midwifery.

The nurses it has trained now serve in backward areas in almost every state in the southeastern United States and in Liberia, India, Pakistan, Guam, Alaska, Panama and the Philippines.

Morse Code visual signaling first was used by the Army during the Navajo campaign in June, 1950.

Notre Dame Stresses Defense SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 1 — UP — The Notre Dame football squad, which meets Southern Methodist's Mustangs here Saturday, held a lengthy drill Tuesday, concentrating on defense against an expected aerial assault. Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi and halfbacks Joe Heap and Jim Morse worked as the deep secondary in the pass defense drills.

Choose Clear, True Red For Basic Fall Lipstick

By ALICE HART
NEA Beauty Editor
With the entrance of sparkling fall colors and beautiful suits and dresses in vivid autumn shades, most women are making their inventory of lipstick, powder, rouge and other make-up items. It is at this time of year that you want to present your brightest self, well-groomed and attractive as you can be. Checking over your lipsticks, do you own the all-important basic lipstick? In other words, do you have one lipstick that can be worn with practically every color in your wardrobe without clashing. Sometimes a woman gets into a lipstick "rut." Day after day, she reaches for the same shade. Then, one day she realizes, to her horror, that she's wearing a pink lipstick with a bright, red hat. The lipstick color for fall is a true, clear red. This shade looks well with brown, blue, green and almost any color you can name. An important factor to consider in choosing a lipstick is its texture. No woman should risk her lip beauty by using harsh lipsticks that dry and tend to irritate her lips. One firm has a new, true red lipstick which, they say, contains a new healing ingredient that soothes the lips and thus provides this lipstick with a creamy texture.

Gift Problems Are In The Feed Bag With Aid Of Needlework, Originality

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The people who used to titter at flour-sack fashions would never recognize today's feed bag. Not only are feedbags available in hundreds of prints, plaids, polka dots and colors, but the variety of ideas for sewing them exhibited during the International Dairy Show in Chicago, fills me with admiration. Talented and imaginative homemakers who won state and regional fair prizes sent their winning entries to the show. From these, three were picked as top prize winners.

I looked over all the entries and talked with the winners to get ideas for personal and gift (Christmas is mighty close) articles that belie the economy background. You don't have to own a flock of chickens, you know, to lay hands on these pretty feed bags. Many feed stores will sell the bags for a few cents (minus the feed).

First meet the winners:

Mrs. William Schwabe, first prize, of Pueblo, Colo., is a pretty young homemaker who has been winning blue ribbons for her talent with a needle and thread since she was a 4-H club youngster. Her

First-prize winner of the cotton feed bag sewing contest at the recent International Dairy Show in Chicago, she models a dress she made from blue percale bags, trimmed with silver-embroidered banding. The fisher-boy quilt she displays won special commendation from the judges.

Homemaking Tips

If you feel as though you're a finicky housewife when you rush around sticking little coasters under glasses to save the furniture, get or make crocheted booties for glasses and install them before serving. It will eliminate that overfussy act in front of guests.

Don't cut an angel cake with a conventional cake knife. There are cake-breakers that look like hyper-thyroid forks for the task. Lacking that, poke away with a fork and pull, rather than mash, the cake into slices.

There are liners for bushel baskets that make them into perfect laundry baskets, mending boxes or storage spaces for the kids' toys. You could make one in a plastic fabric to match a room, if you like.

fisher-boy applique on a child's quilt is a case in point of clever pattern planning.

To the original pattern which shows his fishing line empty, she added, on the middle row or quilt blocks, two small fish. Then she reversed the pattern so that he is walking home with his catch. The quilt is of blue-voanded white blocks and the applique uses up many feed bag scraps of other patterns.

Plain white sacks of the heavier construction can look much like linen when they are starched. Second-place winner, Mrs. Charline Martin, Alderson, W. Va., trimmed a luncheon cloth of white sacking with a simple corner strip of blue pique embroidered with tiny multicolored flowers. Matching napkins similarly trimmed gave the ensemble a neat and expensively handmade look. Another entry that impressed me was a white blouse, tucked and hemmed across the bosom with a tiny Peter Pan collar, that also looked like fine heavy linen.

Baritone Theodor Uppman To Present Concert In Shamrock This Afternoon

EDITOR'S NOTE: Pampans with membership cards in the Community Concert Association will be admitted to this program.)

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The Wheeler County Community Concert Association will present Theodor Uppman in concert at 2:30 p.m. today. The young California baritone will give the matinee performance in Clark Auditorium in Shamrock. This is the first concert in Shamrock of the current Community Concert series.

The young baritone made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company Nov. 27, 1953, in the lead role of the Met's revival of "Pelleas et Melisande."

Born in California, Uppman won a scholarship to study at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute. He also studied music and drama at Stanford University, where he starred in several musical productions.

In 1943 he entered the Army, serving in a tank destroyer battalion. He landed in Normandy, among the first to storm that beachhead. A month later he was auditioned and accepted as a member of the first all-GI entertainment units in France, singing all over France and Germany.

Returning to California after the war, Uppman was selected for the role of Pelleas in a concert ver-

Cotton Shirtwaist Good Fall Fashion

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Teen-agers have found the cotton shirtwaist to be a good wardrobe asset. It's especially good for fall and winter wardrobes, since cotton goes with all the cool-weather fabrics — wool, jersey, corduroy and velvet.

Can you think of a better mate for classic tweed skirts, or brightly colored corduroy jumpers? And gaily-striped shirt is just the thing to perk up last year's wool suit, too.

At this point, you teen-agers may be thinking: "But who wants to take the trouble to iron long-sleeved shirts? It's very difficult to produce a crisp, nonwrinkled shirt."

True, the whole beauty of the shirtwaist lies in its looking smooth and fresh. But, as the labels on some shirtwaists will tell you, today's cotton blouses (if they require any ironing at all) respond wonderfully to the light touches of your iron.

In addition, some cottons are treated to retain their crispness even after repeated washings.

Plain, striped or checked shirtwaists require less ironing fussiness than solid-colored shirtwaists, since the pattern in these shirts helps to divert the eye from any small wrinkles.

When washing any shirtwaist, remember to hang it to dry with as few wrinkles as possible. While still wet, finger-press as many creases as you can.

If you want to avoid using starch on a soft shirtwaist, but want a crisp collar and cuffs, try ironing these areas with a hot iron while they're still wet.

All aboard for the Christmas Greeting Special. This cheerful cardboard train, designed to run on your mantel, is only one of several Christmas card holders you'll find on display at card and gift shops this holiday season.

Christmas Cards Serve Double Purpose As Greeting And As Yuletide Decoration

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer
Coupled with the pleasure of receiving Christmas cards is the pleasure we can enjoy from a decorative display of the colorful greetings. To allow cards to pile up in a helter-skelter stack on the hall table or to scatter them around the house robs us of half the fun of renewing old acquaintances via the cheerful holiday messages.

But the time to figure HOW you'll incorporate the cards into a festive scene is before the postman overloads the mail box and you're rushed with other holiday activities.

How simple or how fancy your card decorating will depend on your time and inclination. Some cards are ready-made for decorative use. A case in point is the cheerful holiday choo-choo which carries greetings and is designed to hold cards received. The merry little train lends itself to an easy setting on mantel or desk sparked by the addition of a few sprigs of greenery and some shining Christmas balls. With growing children compiling a respectable card collection of their own, I will use a train or similar card holder to corral their personal greetings attractively and neatly.

Another case in point is offered by the new, large fold-out cards. One depicts the Manger at Bethlehem, and another a lovely Gothic window which has 24 panels, each opening to reveal a Christmas message for one of the 24 days of Advent. These reverent scenes should, I think, be set apart, perhaps on a table or bookcase, marked by the simplest framing with candles.

Turning for ideas to the decorative use of the traditional-size cards to Mrs. Jeannette Lee, art director for a large greeting-card company, I picked up several suggestions.

Use cards, says Mrs. Lee, to lend color and originality to wreaths, festoons and arrangements of greenery in many locations in the house. A rope of greenery, for example, framing an open arch or doorway can be dotted with color by hanging cards on wire or string as they arrive. Or loop a greenery rope up the banister of an open stairway to serve as a novel background for cards.

Look for likely backgrounds for arrangements in windows, alcoves or wall panels, says Mrs. Lee. One idea she likes is to cut varying lengths of two-inch wide ribbon and attach cards at intervals. Ribbons can then be suspended to frame a window or a mantel. An inside door, such as an apartment door can be used to greet holiday guests with a variation of this idea: Place a wreath in the middle of the door, flanked by cards on ribbons.

I wish I owned a handsome screen, for many reasons. Not the least of these is that it makes such a perfect setting for a Christmas-card collection. If you do own one, you might like to try Mrs. Lee's suggestion to intersperse cards with small sprigs of holly or ribbon bows to break up the blocklike paving of cards.

Plastic Hooks Add To Storage Space

With today's family garage doubling as a storage room as well as a shelter for the car, the problem of adequate space sometimes becomes troublesome. This is especially true in the one-car garage, but the space problem can be eased substantially by making fullest possible use of the available wall area.

Provide the garage with plenty of hooks for hanging things on the wall. The cleaning rag for wiping the car, lightweight spraying equipment and garden tools from your work in the yard, the floor brush or broom and other small items can be suspended from convenient hooks. Careful planning in the placement of the hooks for easy access to the equipment will add to their convenience.

It isn't necessary to mar the wall with nails or screws if you don't want to. There are some new plastic hooks on the market now which can be put up for permanent use simply by pressing them to the wall. Called Selfix, they have a special adhesive-coated wood backing. All you have to do is moisten the adhesive with a few drops of water, work it into a gluey consistency and then press the hooks to the wall.

Fashion Notes

If you have just the correct skinny figure, try tweedy jersey. One dress, with long tight sleeves, could not be more basic. It has a soft, high neckline and for its shape and cut, uses you. Wonderful under a 1/2 coat.

Corduroy is the schoolgirl's dish. Brightly colored, easy to care for and inexpensive. There's a three-piece corduroy suit with a lining in the jacket that matches the blouse. Trim good looks at a budget cost.

Heat and cold have little effect on some animals and fish. A fish was found in the hot springs of Cuyler at a temperature of more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit. And an Alaskan stonefish lives and carries on its activity in a temperature of 35 degrees—just freezing. Some plants can stand even lower temperatures. In an inactive state some organisms can survive even several hundred

The Christmas Story

Retold in the words of the Holy Bible
by Norman Vincent Peale
Illustrated by Valenti Angelo

The Birth of Jesus

AND so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.
And Joseph called his name Jesus.

Outer Shelf Oil Activity Sends Lawyers To Bookshelves

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—UP—Activity in oil, gas and sulphur leasing of underwater plots in the outer continental shelf has sent lawyers scurrying to their books for a study of the general mining leasing law of the United States. Outer continental shelf leases are covered by a special law. Among other things the Treasury gets a 100 per cent return from leases on the shelf. It's a different matter with other mineral leases outside the shelf or on dry land. The money paid to the government for mine leases on the public domain of acquired lands is largely returned to the states in cash and reclamation projects. Congress requires that the bonuses, grants and royalties paid under leases on public lands shall be distributed as follows: 27 1/2 per cent to the states within which the lands are located to be used for public education or roads; 52 1/2 per cent to the reclamation fund for use in investigating and constructing irrigation projects; and 10 per cent to the miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

Government Owns 25 Per Cent
About one-fourth of the area of the United States is owned by the federal government. In 11 western states, known as public land states, the percentages of federal ownership are: Arizona 73, California 45, Colorado 38, Idaho 45, Montana 37, Nevada 85, New Mexico 44, Oregon 53, Utah 73, Washington 35 and Wyoming 52. The greatest part of government land is public domain — never having been in private ownership. Only the original 13 colonies and Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas have not had U. S. public domain within her boundaries.

These lands, sole disposal of which rests with federal government, came from the Louisiana purchase, Mexican and Spanish cessions, Indian territory and cessions from the original states. Portions of the western areas were first disposed of by the poverty-stricken government for revenue purposes. Later settlement and development became of primary importance and grants were given to railroads as a reward for building rail lines across the nation. About this time the west was opened to homesteading.

Mineral rights to these lands then were acquired not under law but by discovery. Later, under mining law, the mining locator could acquire the entire estate in the land he claimed. The early mining law provided that claims could not be located on lands on which other mineral leases had been issued. It blocked development of other minerals subject to the general mining law.

Barrier Removed
A new mineral leasing law enacted last August removed this barrier. It permitted multiple claims on public lands. For example a miner could have a claim for gold or any other metal on a particular parcel of land. If an oil driller came along and wanted to explore for oil and gas he too could get permission to do so.

The new law was a boon to the Atomic Energy Commission. No longer could a claim-holder for one mineral prevent exploration for uranium and other fissionable material.

In short, claim holders had to learn to co-exist.

Mining experts called the new law the most important basic

Scout Council Annual Meet Draws 700

The 26th annual Boy Scouts' Adobe Walls Council meeting produced four certificates of appreciation, the recognition of 23 Eagle Scouts, the awarding of two Silver Beaver ribbons, a special presentation and a talk by an Indian "chief."

An estimated 700 persons attended the affair, held Thursday night in the Phillips High School. The chairmen of the four districts in the council received certificates of appreciation. They are Don Cain, Pampa; Durand Scott, Wellington; Alton Boxwell, Perryton; and Guy Fuller, Spearman.

Among the 23 Eagle Scouts recognized were four Pampans: Larry Cox, John Estes, Bob Schofield and Bill Gaut.

Silver Beavers went to Walter Elliott, Lefors, and Ervin F. Glasgow, Phillips, for their service to Scouting and to youth in general. Elliott is Scoutmaster of Troop 19, Lefors. And Glasgow is council finance chairman.

C. A. Huff, Pampa, received a special presentation from Ray Evans, Pampa, council organization and extension chairman, for his work as council president and treasurer.

W. W. Keeler, vice president of Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., and chief of the Cherokee Indian Nation, urged the Scouters present not to permit the change in mining laws in modern history.

The law affects about 60 million acres of public lands through the nation. In the plateaus of Colorado and Utah, it affects about 13 million acres.

government to take over control. He used his own tribe as an example — 75 per cent of the Cherokees are now on federal relief.

Paul Beisenherz, council Scout executive, making his annual report, pointed to the "first" the first year in the council. They included the first Man-Mile Award at the regional convention, the first bicycle trip in the region, the first Dad and Son Day at Camp

Ki-o-wah and the first council camporee. Glasgow presided at the affair. Music was provided by a Phillips High School girls' quartet and concert choir. Rev. James E. Glenn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Borger, gave the invocation.

LAWTON, Dec. 4—UP—Police Saturday sought a discourteous gun-packing motorist who cursed and promptly shot a man in the hand for trying to hitch a ride. Allen Hills was hospitalized for a gun wound in the left hand after he asked a motorist for a "lift" across town.

AROUND THE WORLD

AN EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES—With her seven new pups hanging drowsily on a clothesline, Happy, a cocker spaniel owned by Mrs. Tom Lawlor, of the South Beach Hotel, Young's Point, Ont., Canada, has a chance to look them over. The babies are rather quiet during these early days of their lives, but Happy is going to have her paws full in a short time.

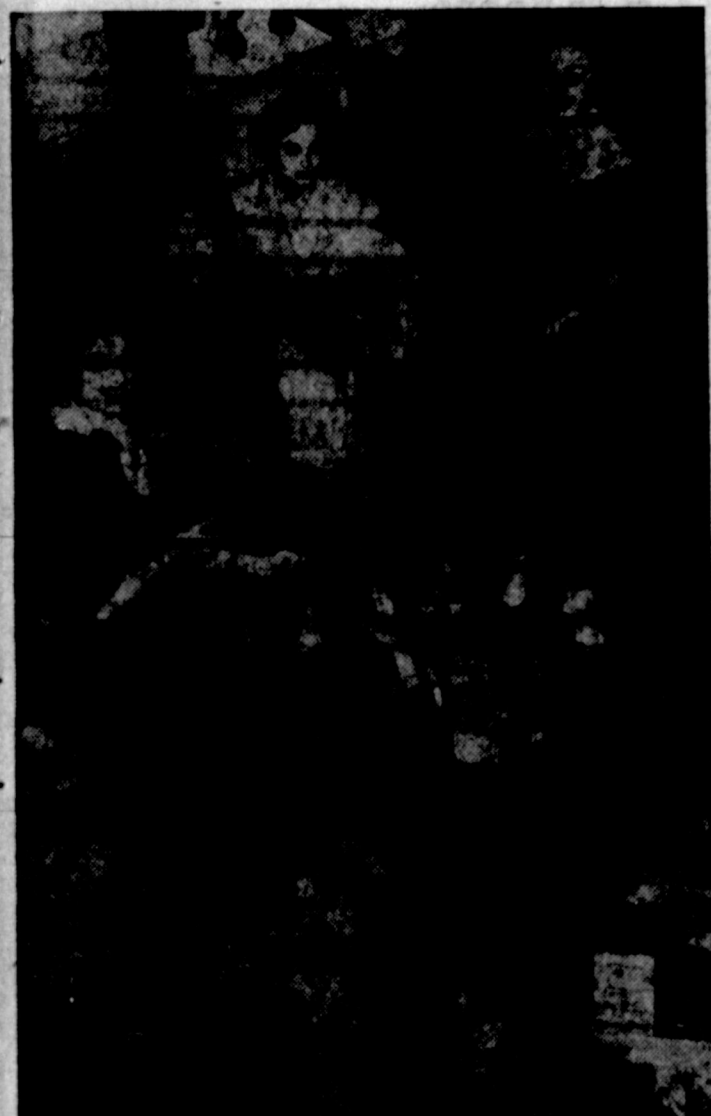

FOR HEAVY SEA DUTY—The new French cargo ship, Euphrate, which was built especially to handle heavy, bulky freight, is shown going down the ways at La Seyne. The 466-foot vessel can do 16 knots, and has accommodations for 16 officers, 35 crewmen and 20 passengers. She's off to a good start.

SHE'LL BE THERE—Nine-year-old Muriel Ann Obenour, who is Little Miss Lansing, Mich., is out for bigger game. She's headed for New York to compete with other State winners for the title of "Little Miss U.S.A.," and perhaps she'll get it.

FOR BETTER OR WORST—And whatever your taste may be in the realm of sausages, you're sure to find what you want at this shop in Berlin. Everything from the most ordinary, everyday variety frankfurter to more ornate salamis, bolognas, knockwursts, bratwursts, liverwursts—or you name it—was on display. Gourmets have a field day in the shop where this Fraulein is holding a few samples.

WELL OUTNUMBERED—On a movie location in Paris, French boxer-turned-actor Laurent Dauthuille hadn't a chance when those well-armed starlets surrounded him. The girls don't look dangerous, but their machine guns undoubtedly helped quell their victim. They are, left to right; Michele Philippe, Claudine DuPuis, Luise Carletti, Dominique Wilms.

COMING UP—Winsome Colleen Miller lived in Portland, Ore., just long enough to be bitten by the movie bug. Then she went to Hollywood where she's now a spark that's threatening to burst into flame—and stardom.

VISITING FIREMEN—The blaze in New Haven, Conn., was actually started by firemen from Dumont, N.J., who were studying the "water fog" fire-fighting technique of the New Haven crew. That huge black smoke was under control at all times.

DANCING LADIES—Attending the opening of the Ballet Theatre in Princeton, N. J., were four of them, all well known. Left to right are: Nôra Kaye, Lucia Chase, Alicia Markova and Valerie Bettis. So many ballerinas are not often photographed together.

MODERN TRANSPORTATION—Actor Sebastian Cabot certainly chose a current means of getting about during the filming of "Romeo and Juliet" in Verona, Italy. He seems to be inviting Susan Shentall, who plays Juliet, for a ride. It appears that Susan isn't so certain there's room for her, too.

THREE FALS—Beloved Belinda shared her stall with two friends from home, Tulsa, Okla., at the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show in Kansas City, Mo. Using the horse's neck for a perch is Gonzalez, a rooster, owned by the horse's trainer. Baron, pet dog of a groom, rests easily, too.

CHANGED BY WATER—A bulldozer is traveling through the mire of twisted roots and debris of what was one of the main traffic arteries in Salerno, Italy. More than 150 persons were killed and scores were missing after what officials believed was the worst cloudburst in Italian history. Many homes crumbled, burying the occupants, and the entire coastline suffered heavy damage.

Gift Ties 'Worsen'

MIAMI — UP — Men who shudder at the thought of a pastel tie in their Christmas stocking had better start growing long beards immediately.

W. J. Esterman, vice president of a Cincinnati, tie company, said in an interview here that the accent at Yuletide will be on pastel shades — pink, lavender, pale blue and mint green.

"Women are attracted by pastels," he explained. "And women do 70 per cent of the purchasing."

Don't blame the tie-makers for the trend away from the basic colors. Esterman said they are "following suit" of shirt-makers, who found the pastel shades catching on nationally.

For the more conservative male, who might at this moment be considering an unfavored tie for a shoeshine rag, there's an "in-between" tie—dark colors with only pastel trim.

Stripes also will be popular. Esterman said, because women like the way most television commentators use striped ties for photographic effects.

Ties are both growing and shrinking. Esterman said most ties average 51 inches in length and are no wider than three and one-quarter inches.

Women shopping for something different will find the usual number of gimmicks, said Esterman. These include pleated ties, jersey knits and a reversible style that enables a man to get a different design with a mere flip of his hand.

However, Esterman suggests the practical shopper will attempt to "blend the necktie with the type of clothing the man has."

He smiled and then echoed a long-famous remark for women in such predicaments:

"Oh well, if he isn't satisfied, he can always exchange it."

Conerly on Injury List
NEW YORK, Dec. 4—UP—Quarterback Charlie Conerly was placed on the injured list by the New York Giants Saturday because of torn ligaments in his right leg suffered during last Sunday's 16-7 loss to the Cleveland Browns. The Giants added rookie fullback Pete Mangum of Mississippi to their roster.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Whisking him away from the Fozz-wigs, the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancée rejected him because another idol had replaced her—a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

WONDERLAND

Six inches of snow which blanketed Milwaukee last week in the first snowfall of the season made a winter wonderland of the city's streets. Snowstorms which blew out of the Rocky Mountains and swept across five mid-western states caused at least three traffic deaths.

Switchman Was A Lady

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — UP — Instead of a needle and thread, Mrs. Gene Ingison works with a pair of heavy gloves and a lantern.

She used to be a dressmaker. Now, she switches freight cars in the same yards where her father was killed in an accident many years ago.

Mrs. Ingison walked into the New York Central Railroad employment offices 10 years ago, job-hunting.

"The only opening we have is for a switch-tender," a clerk said. "Can you handle a job like that?"

"Dynamite comes in small packages," replied the red-haired Mrs. Ingison, and she began her unusual career.

Mrs. Ingison, who is on the night shift, must hand-operate heavy switches which need 132 pounds of pressure to move. It's hard work for a tiny woman. She's only 5-foot-2.

The job's a lonely one — and sometimes cold.

"But you get used to the weather after a while," Mrs. Ingison said. "I just dress accordingly — even to long underwear in the winter."

She has had only one accident — slipped on a railroad tie.

"I had already thrown the switch for the train and couldn't get out of the way because of a sprained ankle," she said. "Fortunately, I kept calling for help. Two men heard me and came to the rescue."

Off-duty, Mrs. Ingison keeps house for her 14-year-old son, Richard. She still designs and makes her own clothes.

Vicars Chairmen Two Tax Boards

DeLea Vicars has been elected chairman of the tax advisory boards of the City of Pampa and the Pampa Independent School District.

Vicars is a member of the school tax advisory board, but not of the city board. The two boards meet in conjunction with each other.

His selection was made Thursday night at the first joint meeting of the boards. Vicars will preside over all future meetings, according to City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones.

The next joint meeting of the boards is expected to be held the first week of January, Jones said.

Rainbow Hues Available For Women's Hair

NEW YORK — UP — A Manhattan hairdresser has come up with a new switch in hair coloring. He "paints" the coiffure with pastel chalk available at any art supply store.

The chalk can be used to provide a single contrasting streak, or to give the whole head a rainbow brilliance. It comes in 12 colors, ranging from pale yellow to deep purple and charcoal.

Frederick of Coiffures by Frederick hit on his chalk-it-on scheme when he sought something different for a beauty show. Women saw and liked and now he chalks about as many heads of hair as he shampoos.

The chalk goes on smoother, he said, if it is applied professionally. But if you want to venture your own streak of blue, green, red or combination of colors, shampoo your hair as usual. While it's still wet, "paint" on the color, and then set.

"The color stays until you shampoo again," he said. "And the chalk won't damage your locks."

Brunettes are advised to choose the light shades such yellow and orange. Blues, greens and reds are suggested for light hair.

Building Industry To Discuss 'Modular' Building Materials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—UP—Architects, builders and producers of building materials will meet here Thursday in the first inter-industry conference on "modular measure"—the all-fours approach to cutting the cost of building.

A module is a unit of measurement. In this case, it is four inches. If all sizes and shapes in building are standardized to four-inch measurements, or multiples of four inches, it is estimated billions of dollars can be saved in time, materials and work.

In other words, all dimensions would be in feet, or x-feet-plus-eight inches, or x-feet-plus-eight inches. No fractions.

Modular measure construction has already been used in millions of dollars worth of construction and a number of building products industries turn out their goods in modular measure sizes — bricks, glass blocks, concrete building blocks, windows, wallboards and insulation, for example. Standard modular measurements are soon to be prepared for certain types of large household appliances.

The idea was launched 30 years ago, and the four-inch concept was proposed in 1936 by a wealthy Boston industrialist who had been studying ways to cut the cost of housing. The American Standards Association published the first modular standards at the end of World War II.

Since that time, the government has put out a batch of explanatory material, and most recently the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has studied the system as a means of increasing productive efficiency in countries being aided by the U. S. technical assistance program.

European countries are working on a modular measure in centimeters—probably 10 centimeters, which is 3.9 inches.

The closeness of four inches to 10 centimeters was one of the reasons the four-inch module was selected in this country. Another was that four inches is in tune with many sizes and shapes already produced.

Modular measure does not belong exclusively to the building trades. It is also used in some furniture, but not as widely standardized.

Other Shapes
Nor are all modules "dope" in squares and cubes. Architect Frank Lloyd Wright has triangular, circular and hexagonal design modules.

Clair W. Ditchy, president of the AIA, said Saturday it is "our confident expectation" that modular measure will mean lower construction costs and more reliable estimating of how much a project will cost—because there is not so much waste, which cannot be calculated accurately ahead of time.

Next week's conference, conducted by the building research institute of the National Academy of Sciences, will explore the potential of modular measure, on the basis of past experience with it. Particular attention will be given to ceilings, light structural steel, parts which go into residential construction and outside wall systems.

Modular measure proponents say it is "an essential part of the present trend toward industrialization of the U. S. construction industry"—less piecing together at the building site, and more in the factory. The more the industrialization, the lower the cost.
