

Murder suspect Anderson at pre-trial hearing in March

'Secret' murder trial to begin

Michael Anderson case moved to Lipscomb County

Senior Staff Writer

LIPSCOMB — Despite denials from Wheeler District Clerk Paul Topper, 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhany has moved Michael Anderson's murder trial from Wheeler to Lipscomb

Anderson, 26, of Wheeler County, is charged with murdering a Sayre, Okla, man by shooting him four times in the back of the head with a .45 caliber handgun.

Jury selection in the trial at Lipscomb (est. pop. 190) will begin at 9 a.m. Monday, according to the deputy district clerk there. Lawyers argued pre - trial motions in the case at the Lipscomb County Courthouse

Angered about "undue" pre - trial publicity, Judge McIlhany, at a pretrial hearing June 2, set the case for trial Oct. 10 and granted a defense motion to move the case from Wheeler to "somewhere in Texas." The judge later said he wouldn't reveal the location until the eve of Anderson's

Lipscomb County Deputy District Clerk Ruth Ginter confirmed Thursday afternoon that the Anderson trial was moved there from Wheeler County, despite the Wheeler clerk's denial just minutes earlier. Topper told the Pampa News Thursday that the case had not been moved from Wheeler yet, even though at that very moment the lawyers involved were arguing pre - trial motions in the Lipscomb courtroom

"The file's still here." Topper said. and added that the judge hadn't announced where the pending case would be tried.

While Topper claimed he still had the file at Wheeler Thursday, Ginter said the Lipscomb clerk already has possession of the official records in "The whole case filed at Wheeler has been transferred to Lipscomb County," Ginter confirmed. She said 125 citizens in the county with less than 4,000 people living there are to report for jury selection at 9 a.m. Monday

Anderson is charged with the execution - style murder of Robert Eugene Hall, 28, of Sayre. Wheeler deputies found Hall's decomposing body buried in a shallow ditch behind Anderson's isolated Wheeler County house, near Kelton, northeast of Shamrock, about midnight March 2. A later autopsy revealed the victim had been dead between six and eight days.

About 24 hours after the body was found, Anderson surrendered to police in Lake Charles, La.

Ever since the murder was discovered, the case has been controversial.

First, authorities in both Oklahoma and Texas battled over the right to prosecute Anderson for Hall's death. An Oklahoma prosecutor first said he wouldn't "split hairs" over which state the victim was in when his "heart stopped beating." But that's exactly what happened, with the Texas and Oklahoma authorities appealing to their respective governors for jurisdiction to try Anderson. The authorities all say the killing occurred in a rural area near the two states' border. The suspect was indicted for murder by a Wheeler County grand jury March 9. Oklahoma prosecutors also charged Anderson with first - degree murder for Hall's killing March 14.

The dispute ended April 19 when Texas Governor Mark White refused to extradite the suspect to Oklahoma.

Later, at the June pre-trial hearing in Wheeler, Judge McIlhany issued a ruling that throws out much of the reported evidence in the case. The judge ruled then that the warrantless search that led to Hall's body was illegal; and therefore, he will prohibit testimony about finding the victim buried in Anderson's yard and all evidence resulting from that

Pampa woman's step-brother shot and killed in Florida

Ft MEYERS Fla - A man who blamed a noted Ft. Meyers. Fla. neurosurgeon, the step - brother of a Pampa woman, for his wife's death shot and killed the doctor as he was leaving his Ft. Meyers office last Friday, according to police there.

Dr. Thomas Connelly, 37 step-brother of Pampan Faustina Curry, was shot once in the chest with a .38 - caliber handgun by a man who blamed the doctor for his wife's death in April, 1982, police said. The woman

As he was locking his office door and leaving about 8 p.m. last Friday. Connelly was shot by a 58 - year - old Colorado man, police said. Ft. Meyers Police Sergeant Jim Dentinger said the doctor staggered to his pickup parked at the office and called for help over the truck's radio.

Connelly was taken to Lee Memorial Hospital in Ft. Meyers, where he died about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday

Dentinger said a witness to the shooting followed the suspect's vehicle as it left the scene and took down its license - plate number

After receiving information from Ft Meyers authorities, police in Aurora. Colo. arrested a man driving the wanted vehicle Wednesday. Arrested in Aurora and charged on a Florida warrant for first - degree murder was Allen P. Richardson, formerly of Ft.

Richardson fought extradition to Florida to face the murder charge during a hearing in Aurora Thursday. Dentinger said

The sergeant said police have found in Dr. Connelly's files a threatening letter that Richardson sent to the doctor before the shooting.

Jobless rate returns to downward trend unemployment rate declined to 93 percent in September, the lowest level in 17 months, as close to 400,000 jobless Americans found work in the continuing economic recovery, the Labor Department reported today.

However, 10.4 million Americans weré still reported to be looking for jobs but unable to find them, the Labor Department reported.

September's decrease in the overall jobless rate was just 0.2 percentage point from the August level of 9.5 percent. But it restored the downward trend that had been interrupted when' August's rate held steady at the same rate as in July

Unemployment had declined in most months since last December's 10.8 percent, the highest level in 42 years.

Both government and private analysts have said they expect the rate declining, with companies calling back laid-off workers or hiring people for newly created jobs as the economy expands in its recovery from the 1981-82 recession But those analysts have also said the improvement is likely to be slow.

Today's report said total U.S. civilian employment climbed to a record 101.9 million in September, up 382,000 from August At the same time, the labor force of people holding or wanting jobs increased by 107,000 to 112,4 million

An alternate unemployment rate which includes the more than 16 million armed forces personnel stationed in the United States, dipped to 9.1 percent from August's 9.4 percent

In further encouraging news, the department said the number of 'discouraged workers' - those not even counted as unemployed because they have given up looking for jobs totaled 1.6 million in September, down 100,000 since June, when the statistic was last calculated, and off 240,000 from the recession high of more than 1.8

have been looking for work for six months or longer rose slightly - to 2.506 million from August's total of 2.447

The report said about 2 9 million jobs have been created this year. Economists have said those increases should continue, even if the recovery is slowing down as many believe. If business can keep opening jobs faster than Americans stream into the labor force, the unemployment rate will

Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics, told a meeting of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, In a longer-term perspective, the improvements in the labor market that have occurred during the current recovery compare reasonably well with prior recoveries. She added. "Unemployment is still very high, however

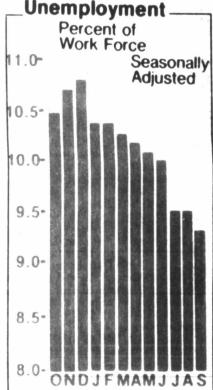

Commenting before release of today's report. Robert Westcott, an economist with Wharton Econometrics in Philadelphia, said declines in the jobless rate are limited by the amount the nation's economy can expand, even during a period of strong growth.

'You just can't drop from 9.5 percent to 8.5 percent in a month," he said

Westcott added. "Three years of very weak economic performance left unemployment so high, it's unlikely we could have anything like 'full employment - about 6.5 percent before 1987

Still, he noted that the economy has been creating 300,000 to 400,000 new jobs per month since last spring. And he said he expected that trend to continue. leading to further modest declines in the jobless rate, assuming no new surge of unemployed Americans into the job

Meanwhile, Michael K. Evans, president of Evans Economics in Washington, said in his latest economic report. "It now appears that increased hiring came back into vogue in September, which will lead to a gradual decline in the unemployment rate of about 0.1 percent per month for the remainder of the year.

Deficits cloud rosy economic forecast

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) - The nation's economy should continue expanding next year at a healthy clip. but large budget and foreign trade deficits cloud the picture, according to a forecast released today by the nation's business chiefs.

The forecast prepared for the fall meeting of the 200-member Business Council said, "The recovery has gathered momentum and our consultants are confident it can be sustained" through 1984.

"At this point, the outlook is very optimistic." said John R. Opel, chairman of IBM Corp., in presenting the forecast put together by 20 economists at major corporations.

The business economists predicted the economy would grow 3.1 percent. adjusted for inflation, in 1983 and 4.8 percent in 1984. The Reagan administration is predicting a similar growth rate this year and a slight rise next vear

"Two dark clouds in the picture cannot be overlooked, however." the report said. "They are ... deficits in the U.S. federal budget and in the U.S. foreign trade balance.

Interest rates, still at high levels after adjustment for inflation, drew a question mark in the consensus

Opel said the economists' predictions varied widely on the future path of the prime rate - the barometer of commercial bank lending fees. Two of the 20 forecasters looked for the prime rate, now at 11 percent, to remain steady through the end of 1984.

"The remaining 18 are split equally between rising and falling rates. Obviously, the uncertainty on this issue is very, very great," said Opel. The prediction averaged 11.3 percent, he

A large group of the new unemployed are "voluntary job leavers," people who have left their jobs because they perceive that getting another job is easier," Santangelo said.

Meanwhile, the national unemployment rate declined from 9.5 percent in August to 9.3 percent in September, translating into about 10.4 million Americans out of work.

Santangelo said Texas' economy generally lags behind the national economy by three or four months, and he predicted the state unemployment picture will improve in the coming

Rebel pilot claims CIA behind Nicaragua attack

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — A captured rebel pilot says CIA officers are directing anti-government attacks from Honduran bases, prompting Nicaragua to protest the "generous assistance" provided to the rebels by Washington.

Nicaragua's deputy foreign minister. Nora Astorga, Thursday presented the downed pilot, former National Guard Maj. Roberto Amador Narvaez, as "proof of the growing involvement of the CIA" in rebel attacks on targets in the leftist-ruled country.

The Honduran-based rebels. meanwhile, said they mined the coast off Nicaragua's only oil unloading port and threatened to blow up any approaching oil tanker.

Also in Honduras, police said Nicaraguan troops attacked the border town of Las Dificultades and killed a civilian, the latest in a series of border incidents that has strained relations between the neighboring nations.

And in El Salvador, an army spokesman said Thursday that U.S.-trained troops trapped a guerrilla column in an abandoned resort and killed 157 of them. He said troops surprised the rebsl Tuesday at Amapulapa, 40 miles east of San Salvador Mrs. Astorga said the rebel pilot, Murder trial set.

With the ruling that the search and all evidence discovered as its result are invalid, jurors seated for the Lipscomb trial next week basically will consider a murder case without a body. The judge ruled that no mention of any kind is to be made about the body of a dead Robert Hall during Anderson's trial.

The ruling sets up District Attorney Guy Hardin's effort to prove a murder in the absence of "corpus delicti," a rare attempt in the courts of any state.

Legal experts previously have said the judge's ruling effectively destroyed the state's case.

But the district attorney's case will reportedly rely on the testimony of Donna Hall, the ex - wife of the victim who authorities said witnessed the murder. Prosecutors claim Donna Hall, another Oklahoma man, Zane Sharum. Anderson and the victim all were riding in a car on rural roads

Senate acts on drought, but rejects border aid whammy of drought in West Texas and economic turmoil along the Mexican border, has won one and lost one in Congress in the battle to provide additional federal aid to those

The victory came Thursday in the Senate, which approved an amendment that would require that the Agriculture Department sell damaged corn at bargain prices to livestock growers suffering from the drought.

The loss also came in the Senate, which rejected a provision approved earlier in the day by the House that would have provided an estimated $30 million in additional social services money for Texas over the next two years.

Supporters had said they wanted a good chunk of that money used in high unemployment areas, such as those along the U.S.-Mexico border

The livestock assistance amendment, sponsored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was attached to a price support measure for dairy products and tobacco. The Senate was expected to vote Friday on the overall legislation.

Bentsen and Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, had been seeking to get Congress to force Agriculture Secretary John Block to take steps to assist livestock growers suffering from the drought.

Last week. Block announced a reduction in interest rates on emergency loans for farmers and ranchers. But Bentson said Thursday that "most ranchers tell me they already have too "much debt

They need something a cow can eat, not another note at the bank." he said.

The Bentsen amendment, which was co-sponsored by Tower and several others, would require the Agriculture Department to sell at reduced rates about 83 million bushels of damaged corn held by the government in warehouses around the nation.

The corn would be sold to livestock growers in counties suffering from drought or other natural disasters and declared provision was removed by the conference committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas, suffering from the double disaster areas by the department. There are 23 such counties in Texas.

The corn would be sold at 75 percent of the government price floor for corn, a rate that various from county to county. But in Lubbock County in West Texas, for example, ranchers could buy the corn at about $2.04 per bushel compared with a market price of about $3.15 per bushel, said a spokesman for Bentsen.

Bentsen said that "the irony of this tragic situation is that help is literally around the corner," referring to about 21 million bushels of the corn that are being stored in the Texas

That corn is costing the government more than $11 million a year in interest and storage, and is so damaged "it is suitable only for livestock feed," Bentsen said.

Tower said he was optimistic that the provision would also be approved by the House "and that this relief therefore will be forthcoming to our ranchers.

The social services money was provided for in legislation approved by the House that would extend the program of supplemental unemployment benefits for workers whose regular benefits have expired.

The Senate then refused to agree to provide the extra money. However, a House staff aid said it was likely to be attached again later to other legislation.

The money was originally included in an amendment sponsored last week by Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas. As adjusted by a House-Senate conference committee, the provision allocated an extra $300 million nationwide for various social services programs over the next two years.

An aide to Hance estimated Texas' share of the money would have been $30 million. Hance's amendment originally required that 50 percent of the assistance be targeted for areas of high unemployment. such as those along the U.S.-Mexico border. The targeting

White says death by injection procedure is being reviewed

AUSTIN (AP) - Prison officials are reviewing needles almost an hour before he was to be executed. death-by-injection procedures in the aftermath of Tuesday night's aborted execution of James David Autry, to make sure they are "humane.

Autry lay strapped to a wheeled hospital stretcher with intravenous needles inserted in both arms for an hour and three minutes before receiving news his execution had been stayed by a U.S. Supreme Court justice. During that time, paramedics allowed a harmless saline solution to enter his bloodstream while waiting word to start the lethal solution.

Instead, the execution was stayed, the needles were removed from Autry's arms, and he was taken back to his death row cell at the Ellis Unit.

"I understand there may be some changes in procedures." Gov. Mark White said Thursday. "I've been led to believe they (prison officials) are reveiwing those procedures and trying to make certain that they are done "as humanely as possible.

file a motion asking the high court to vacate the stay issued by Justice Byron White Autry's life was spared about 30 minutes before midnight because of questions raised in California about whether the death sentence was being applied proportionally to people convicted of similar crimes throughout that state. In the California case, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals held that the state appeals court was wrong in not granting the defendant's request for a proportionality review But Mattox said the 9th Circuit Court even cited Texas' capital punishment law as an example of one "providing for constitutionally sufficient appellate review of the application of the death penalty. 'Texas indeed does have statewide proportionality review of the appropriateness of death sentences," Mattox said in a written statement released to the press. He said sentences are reviewed through the state's system of mandatory appeals to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Fishermen missing 11 days rescued

HOUSTON (AP) - Three Florida fisherman, hungry and the owner of the boat, Donald M. Balsley, 42. All are and sunburned but apparently escaping serious injury. have been rescued by a freighter in the Gulf of Mexico after floating undetected for 11 days on their 18-foot fishing

"They're fine, we spoke to the ship. They're slightly sunburned," said Ardley Hanemann, director of public affairs for Lykes Shipping of New Orleans.

The freighter Leslie Lykes, en route from the Mediterranean to Houston, spotted the trio in their boat Wednesday about 200 miles offshore from Fort Myers, Fla. The men were scheduled to arrive at the Port of Houston aboard the freighter early today.

The Coast Guard in Miami, which abandoned an extensive search for the three, identified the missing men as Roger Ulrich, 38; his stepson, Thomas W. Beasley, 25;

from the Fort Myers area.

Balsley's wife, Margaret, said the trio, who once worked together as appliance repairmen. left Fort Myers in their 'old beat-up boat" early Sept. 25 to go grouper fishing in Redfish Pass on Captiva Island, a barrier island off the Florida coast. Winds at the time were about 30 mph.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peare Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Our government the spectacle of a Republican president battling a Democratic Congress that we hasn't learned

Do you wonder how the banks got into so much trouble by extending credit rather promiscuously to poorer countries whose prospects of repaying the loans were questionable at best? Part of it (though not all) had to do with government encouragement of such overextensions at the loan window. Has government learned its lesson from the episode and resolved to keep its nose out of international lending? Hardly

Just recently Lionel Olmer, under - secretary of Commerce for international trade, complained, during a speech given at a seminar sponsored by the American Bankers Association, that U.S. banks have been a little too restrictive in their recent lending practices regarding

'Third World' countries.

Some of Olmer's criticisms may have been well taken. The fact that he made them as a government official in a public forum, however, constituted intrusion into decisions that would better be made privately. Olmer stopped short of advocating prolifigacy at the international window; nonetheless the thrust of his remarks was to urge American bankers to jump back onto the roller coaster to oblivion.

Olmer claims that banks have been placing severe restrictions on loans to overseas private companies, in some cases to the point of placing trade relations on a cash (or letter - of - credit) basis with companies with records of credit - worthiness, because the governments of certain countries are in debt trouble.

'This 'red - lining' of the private sector in less developed countries is myopic at best, dangerous probably, and may undermine all the efforts that have been made to help these economies adjust," said Olmer.

With all due respect, if you're talking about governmental and quasi - governmental efforts to help the economies adjust, most of them richly deserve to be undermined. When international agencies provide new oans to pay off old loans, they postpone the recognition to reality - the first precondition for genuine economic adjustment.

The fact is that many Third World countries, encouraged by quasi - governmental lending policies, have wasted international loans on showy public - works projects, building an "infrastructure" before there's an economy that can use it. The requisite for a sound economy in these cases is not an infusion of cash to ease the pain, but a reversal of policy, a willingness to provide an environment congenial to the emergence of a private anguish of this decision, men who shared the sector. The economic success stories in today's world -Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan, South Korea, even Japan - have been made possible by "benign neglect" on the part of government rather than guaranteed loans, foreign aid or subsidized trade.

By trumpeting his concerns in public, Olmer has delivered an unmistakable message to U.S. bankers: "Your government wants you to be more liberal in making overseas loans." What if U.S. banks do ease up and get stung? Might they not feel justified in coming to the U.S. government for yet another bailout?

Olmer didn't come out and say that the U.S. government would get the taxpayers to bail out the banks really cares about how a woman feels. if they follow his advice. But he came close enough to cause concern

Is GOP capable of leading?

NEW YORK (NEA) - Republican prospects for retaining control of the Senate past 1986 are so poor that they raise anew a question that has vexed some observers for years: Is the GOP capable of performing adequately as one of the two major parties in the American political system? And, if it isn't, should steps be taken to revise and reform the system?

At the presidential level, the Republican Party is at least not a total washout, having occupied the White House for 18 of the past 50 years. But in that same half - century it has managed to capture control of Congress exactly twice: in 1946 and 1952 - and each time it promptly lost both the Senate and House again just two years later. For the other 46 years (with even one even smaller exception, dealt with below), Congress has remained solidly under Democratic control.

Americans have become so accustomed to have largely forgotten just how anomalous and how dangerous - such a situation is. The whole parliamentary system of government, under which the vast majority of democratic societies operate, is expressly designed to prevent it from ever happening at all: Executive management of the government is assumed by the party or coalition that commands a legislative majority, and ends automatically whenever a majority ceases to support it.

Yet Americans go blithely on under a system in which a president who cannot be removed in less than four years has to do his best to run the country even though every nickel he spends must be appropriated by a Congress often enrolled by his bitterest

That is why there was much rejoicing in conservative circles when the GOP, to everyone's astonishment, not only captured the White House in 1980 but took control of the Senate as well, ousting half - a - dozen stalwart liberals and replacing them with conservative Republicans. It seemed that those (including this writer) who had given up on the GOP altogether in the mid - 1970s and called for its replacement with a new conservative party were, to say the least, premature. Perhaps the Republican Party had merely undergone an exceptionally severe and prolonged period of hibernation. and was now emerging to play once again congressional as well as presidential terms. To be sure, the House of Representatives remained in Democratic hands, but perhaps that, too, could be changed a few years down the road.

Instead, it is becoming dismayingly clear that it is the Senate that is likely to change hands, from Republican to Democrat - if not in 1984, then almost certainly in 1986. The GOP in Congress is getting ready to do its vanishing act again.

At present, Republican chances of retaining control of the Senate in 1984 are approximately 50 - 50 according to most handicappers, even if (as just about everybody assumes) President Reagan is re elected by a comfortable margin. The recent death of Washington's Senator Henry Jackson, an unbeatable Democrat, and his replacement by a former Republican governor. Dan Evans, who is believed to have a good chance of retaining the seat in the next election, improve the GOP's prospects slightly - especially since, if the next Senate is evenly divided. Vice President Bush as its presiding officer could break ties in favor of the Republicans.

But 1986 is another story. That's when the senatorial "class of 1980" comes up for reelection: the mostly conservative Republicans who sailed in with Reagan three years ago in a blitz of computerized direct - mail campaigning that caught their Democratic adversaries by surprise. Next time they will have no such advantage. Worse yet, instead of running with Ronald Reagan in his first successful drive for the presidency they will very probably be running in the off - year elections of a second presidential term, when things traditionally look bleakest for candidates of the party in control of the White House

Impartial observers who think the GOP can retain control of the Senate after 1986 are rare birds indeed, and the decisions of Senate Marjority Leader Howard Baker and Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Tower not to seek re election simply confirm the prognosis.

Then it will be "back to the drawing board" for the Republican Party again. Can it ever, ever hope to take control of Congress from the Democrats? And, if not, will it please get out of the way and let somebody

Abortion also concern of men

We sometimes think abortion is only a woman's experience. It isn't I have known men who also bore the grief, the bewilderment and the pain. Shared too, the sense of loss.

While working on an article a few years ago. I visited an abortion clinic and met some of the men who came with their partners. A few were married. Most were

They were there to offer a reassuring arm, to whisper a word of comfort - and sometimes, to stay beside the woman through the abortion.

I remember a man in a rugby shirt telling me. "I don't feel good about this, but if a guy woudin't he want to be here?

He spoke for a lot of men, men who previously assumed no responsibility in sexual relationships, but today don't want to feel left out, helpless or powerless in the face

Anther time. I met a man who counseled the men who accompanied women to the abortion clinic. His name was Ken and he said, "Men share the same concerns as women, the same doubts, the same questions." They too struggle with their role in the pregnancy, he said, their responsibility and the moral aspect of abortion. These men wanted Ken to tell them more about the proceedure, how the woman would be affected, the amount of pain, her after care and her attitude later on Many said they didn't want to put the woman through this experience again. "You're not going to see me here a second time." was a frequent

Ken discovered that men need help with abortion too, that his role was important.

Now I have met a man involved with abortion in a totally different way, a less personal way, but an equally significant way. He is the man who paces the halls of the U.S. House and Senate to preserve a woman's right to choose abortion.

He is Ron Fitzsimmons, a Washington lobbyist - and the first male on the 24 person staff of the National Abortion Rights-Action League. A former legislative aide to two congressmen. Fitzsimmons became NARAL's chief lobbyist more than a year

'At first, some legislators were surprised that a man was working for NARAL," he says. "The fact that a man was advocating abortion rights added a dimension of credibility, I think. It showed that this is more than just a woman's concern.

As a veteran of Capitol Hill's "old boys" network," he had legislative entree not usually open to woman. He practically lived in the Senate last spring before the vote on a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R - Utah.

That amendment, which said "the right to abortion is not secured by this Constitution," would have voided the 1973 Supreme Court decision. If passed and had the power to regulate or prohibit abortions, raising the possibility of different laws in every state.

The measure was defeated.

Far from complacent since that significant victory. Fitzsimmons now is initiating a major effort to assist poor women. "Low - income women covered by Medicaid cannot get federal money for abortion," he says. "We've preserved the right of choice, but we've restricted some women from access to it.

The lobbyist hopes to convince legislators to re evaluate their position. In his attempt, he's counting on support from men as well as women. Fifteen percent of NARAL's membership is male, including actors Paul Newman and Ed Asner and the author. John

It's heartening to find men helping the women who have to make - what will always be - a lonely decision.

Statue and liberty need repair

Three years hence, 1986, the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor will be celebrated. To get the goddess ready for the celebration, repairs must be made on the upraised arm which enables her to say "I lift my lamp beside the golden door." It would not do to have the

The statue originally cost some $600,000 half of which was contributed by France. which won her liberty at about the same time we did. In fact, the idea of erecting such a statue originated with the French.

To repair and refurbish the statue will cost some $30,000,000, or 50 times what it costs to build it. The main reason is inflation, which itself results from a denial Inflation is an increase in the amount of money in circulation relative to the amount of business being done with it. When the nation's dollars increase faster than the goods and services, each dollar exchanges for fewer goods. That is, the price of everything rises. The same business is done but it is done with more dollars.

If the number of dollars increases by 50 percent and everyone has 50 percent more dollars, there is no great harm done. We all handle more money but we are no richer because we can buy only the same quantity of goods as before.

However, we may be sure that not everyone has the same number of dollars as before. Some have less than that, some more. The U.S. government, for example, has far more dollars than before, because it prints the money and it can and often does speec up the printing presses.

(This is a highly simplified description of inflation but this is essentially what goes

The government speeds up the production of money because the president and Congress want to do good in many ways and thereby win political support from the people. Doing good costs money.

Then, too, quite a few dollars have to be spent by the people in office to convince the people out in the boondocks that good is really being done and that they are enjoying

it. The outlanders are skeptical, and sometimes they get positively incredulous. Printing new money to spend persuasively has to be done in a big way

Inflation, in short, is a kind of robbery. If my dollar would buy a hamburger today. but a day or two from now would buy only two - thirds of a hamburger, and other goods have gone up likewise. I have been robbed. I thought I was saving money by holding that dollar for a year or two, but now I find I was

Inflation penalizes savers. Because of it. people haven't the freedom of choice between spending money now or saving it for future spending

The Statue of Liberty still lifts her lamp beside the door, but the door is not golden any more.

Like liberty, the Statue of Liberty has been allowed to rust and decay. It is high time both were repaired.

In this feature we excerpt material that has appeared on The Pampa News editorial pages in previous years, whether from the editorials or the column written for many years by Freedom Newspapers founder R.C. Holles.

We are strongly in favor of research for scientific study. But there is only one way to keep such research and study in check. That is to remove federal and other governmental grants from the field and let the scientists work in the areas of pure research and commercial research under private grants. Private businessmen and industrialists who provide many hundreds of millions each year for constructive research cannot afford to waste money on foolish projects or on duplication. But governments always can afford to waste money since the money is never earned by the government, but is always appropriated

Final negotiating session set today, Hicks said.

Continental Airlines representatives and striking pilots were set to return to the negotiating table today for what the airline described as 'one final attempt" to reach a contract settlement.

Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks declined to say what moves the company planned if negotiations failed Hicks also said the two groups met for several hours on Thursday and that the airline made a new proposal but he declined to elaborate.

Texas' largest independent bank announced this week to shareholders that it needed at least $40 million in new capital to offset energy loan losses, was entertaining merger offers and was under investigation by two federal agencies

"There's slightly more activity than usual," bank spokesman Guy McCrary said Thursday. "We're coming up on a long weekend and in addition there is some more interest as a function of the special meeting.

Bank directors called the emergency meeting to seek tockholders' approval for offering 10 million shares of preferred stock at $1 per share, raising common stock shares from five million to 50 million, and declaring a 2-for-1 split of the existing five million common stock

The bank said in the statement Tuesday that it needed to raise at least $40 million from the sale of new stock to bolster dwindling equity that had slipped below $1 million because of energy-related loan losses. It also said the bank was under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the U.S. Office of the Comptroller of the Currency

The bank lost $114.7 million in the first six months of this

Dear Abby

Young couple's love could be just lust

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a very mature 13-year-old girl in love with a guy who just turned 18. I'll call him "Brian." I asked my parents if I could go out with him, and they said no, right off, so I've been sneaking around to be with Abby, we really love each other, but Brian says he is not a talker, he is a doer. He wants to show me how much he loves me by making love to me. I'm still a virgin, but we have come very, very close to going all the way.

Brian wants me to prove my love by going all the way with him, but something is holding me back. He says it's not wrong to have sex if you are really in love.

DEAR GIRL: Brian may tell you he is not a "talker," he is a "doer," but he is both, so don't let him talk you into (or out of) anything. That old "prove-your-love" line has been around for a very long time, and it's just as phony today as it was when your grandmother was a girl.

No respectable young man would allow - much less encourage - a 13-year-old girl to sneak around and lie to her parents. I can understand how your young heart throbs when you're near him, but it's not "love" - it's a natural sex desire, which is nothing to be ashamed of. But you are too young, emotionally immature and vulnerable to become

Be wise, young lady, and cool it with Brian before you lose control and find yourself in serious trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Very often you advise your readers to "consult your clergyman." While there is absolutely nothing wrong with this advice, there is something definitely wrong with your terminology.

Since most major denominations have been ordaining women for quite some time, the proper term is no longer "clergyman." It is either "clergyperson" or "member of the clergy." Only when the individual's sex is known should the terms "clergywoman" or "clergyman" be used. Please sign me . . . THE REV. SUSAN F. JAREK-

GLIDDEN: a clergywoman, a clergyperson, or a member of the clergy — but most definitely not a clergyman.

Advice and views on life accompany diaper service

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) -

Care for a bit of dogma with your diapers? If it bothers you to mix Reaganomics and rash remedies, gun control and the benefits of breastfeeding or the nuclear arms race and temper tantrums, you are probably not a potential customer of Nan Scott's diaper

For the most part, her regulars don't mind. Besides getting a fresh weekly supply of white cotton diapers, they also get Mrs. Scott's views on life

They know that she doesn't think much of President Reagan, fears the "Superbaby" trend, favors gun control and the Equal Rights Amendment and finds no redeeming qualities in disposable diapers.

Every other month, the 59 - year - old Dy-Dee Wash owner and mother of five grown ehildren writes an eight - page newsletter that includes everything from advice on how to get rid of diaper rash to names of parent support groups to an essay on "whatever strikes" her fancy.

In recent newsletters, she has castigated Reagan for "selling us fairy tales from his 1950s - vintage mind," compared disposable diapers to the short - lived paper underwear for adults - "I would guess adults didn't like wearing paper underpants anymore than babies do" - and decried the push to create "Superbabies."

"I've seen too many children 'messed up' by their parents' ambition, their parents' image of what their children should look like, act like, be," she said.

She also offered a list of child - abuse prevention and treatment centers, thanked a reader for calling her a "mensch." and provided her usual list of support groups. poison control centers, infant care classes and want ads for babysitters and baby items.

While she has received letters telling her to "stick to diapers," Mrs. Scott refuses to soften her stands on controversial issues in order to keep customers.

Special services scheduled at St. Paul United Methodist

Rev. Lyman Wood, pastor of First United Methodist Church in Borger, will be conducting special services next week at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 511 N. Hobart.

Rev. Wood will speak at the 6 p.m. service Sunday and at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

A native Texan, Rev. Wood has also been a resident of Oklahoma and New York. At college he completed undergraduate work in speech, receiving an A. B. degree. He was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and was chosen to receive the Best Citizen

He continued his studies and completed requirements for a degree in theology. While serving as pastor for three years, he did graduate work at New York University in New York City. He later studied for two consecutive summers at Perkins School of Theology at Dallas.

He has traveled to a dozen different states as speaker for numerous conventions, camps and special preaching missions. He has served as district secretary of evangelism and district secretary of missions for a number of years in different districts.

Most of his pastoral appointments have been in the Northwest Conference of Texas. He is in his eighth year as pastor of Borger First United Methodist Church. Prior to coming there, he served at the Oakwood United Methodist Church in Lubbock for more than seven years.

Rev. Wood and his wife, Marjorie, have one son, Stanley, who is associate choirmaster-organist at St. John's Church in Oklahoma City

The public is invited to attend the special services next

Guests at Central Baptist

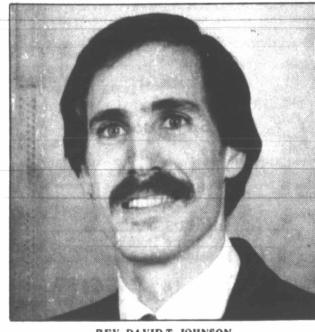

Central Baptist Church, corner of Starkweather and Browning, will have two special guests at its services Sunday. Dr. David Jester, president of Wayland Baptist University, Plainview, will preach at the 11 a.m. service. He is a former missionary to Nigeria.

Dr. Warren Angell, dean emeritus of the Warren M. Angell College of Fine Arts at Oklahoma Baptist University, will lead the 7 p.m. service in a "worship and praise experience.

An author, composer, teacher and pianist, Dr. Angell was formerly a top tenor with Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians and the Robert Shaw Chorale.

A highlight of the service will be the performance of an anthem. composed by Dr. Angell, by the Sanctuary Choir of Central Baptist Church. The anthem was commissioned for

REV. DAVID T. JOHNSON

New pastor at Skellytown

SKELLYTOWN - The Rev. David T. Johnson, 28, moved from Scotland to Skellytown to become the new pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Johnson's wife. Cathy, is a native of Dalkeith, Scotland. The new Skellytown preacher's last assignment was as assistant pastor of the Dalkeith Baptist Church. The Johnsons and their infant daughter. Emily, returned to the United States last

The Rev. Johnson, formerly of Midland, replaces the Rev. Milton Thompson, who now serves as pastor of the Arlington Baptist Church at Arlington. Before the new preacher arrived to replace Thompson last month, several interim pastors held 109 S. Ward, Pampa, Texas down the duties of the Skellytown church.

A native of Mid - West City, Okla., the Rev. Johnson received religious education at the University of Arkansas, Oklahoma Baptist University, Baylor University and the Southwest Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth.

The Skellytown Baptist preacher said he thinks his new church has plenty of opportunity for growth, especially in services for local youths.

Jehovah's Witnesses assembly set

"Becommending Ourselves as God's Ministers" will be the theme of the two-day circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium

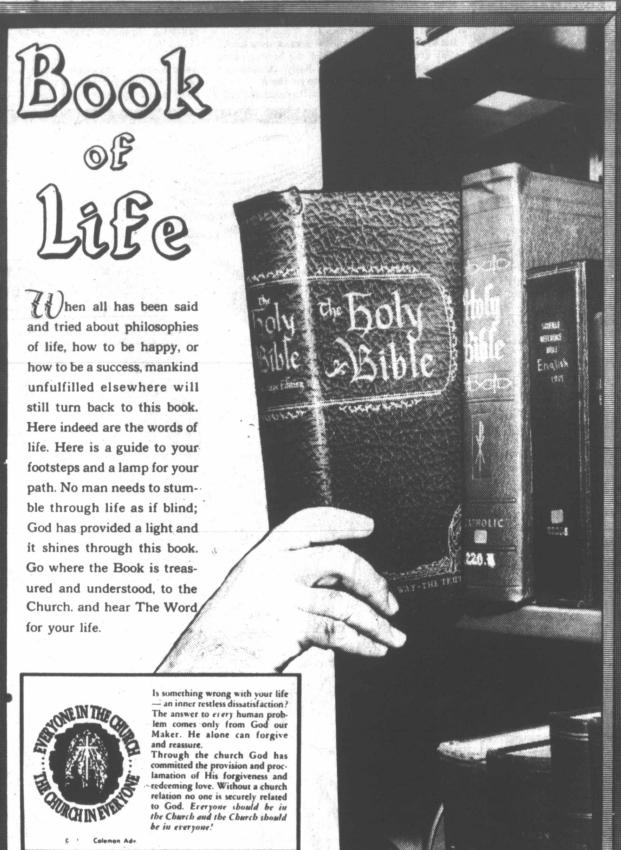

Frank River, local minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, estimated the attendance for the convention will be 1,800, with delegates from 20 congregations in northeastern New Mexico and the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandles.

Frank R. Bartell, district overseer assigned to this area by the world headquarters in Brooklyn, arrived early this week in Amarillo to finalize arrangements for the assembly.

David Binkley, circuit overseer for the Panhandle and parts of Oklahoma and New Mexico, will also be in Amarillo to assist,

At 2 p.m. Sunday Bartell will be the featured speaker. His topic will be "What Future Is There for You?" He extended a special invitation to the public for that talk. Sessions will be held from 9:55 a.m. until 4:15 p.m. Saturday and from 9:55 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. All sessions are open

Block wants efficiency in federal operations

WASHINGTON (AP) - For Agriculture Secretary John R. Block the efficiency and productivity of the American farmer set standards he seeks to achieve in his own agency

Block told the Association of Government Accountants Thursday that U.S. agriculture is the nation's largest industry. with assets equal to 70 percent of the capital assets of all the manufacturing corporations in the country.

Moreover, he said, agriculture and the rest of the nation's food pipeline account for one out of every five jobs in private

Block said "to deal with this colossus, USDA is also on a grand scale" with programs totaling an estimated $57 billion in the fiscal year that began on Oct. 1 — as big as some major corporations.

'And not a day goes by that I'm not thankful for the professionalism and dedication of the many outstanding government employees I work with," he said. "Yet, we all realize that the federal bureaucracy can be unwieldy and inefficient at times

Block said President Reagan's goal is "to get this government running as honestly and efficiently as any successful American business.

The agriculture secretary said farmers produce over 80 cent more on an acre of land than did their parents.

"It is obvious that the American farmer is an efficient producer," said Block. "I am committed to making USDA just as efficient at its job.

Mrs. Smith has been back to Paris eight times to visit the apartments where they lived and the parks in which she played as a girl. And she now believes the Paris of the 1920s was a "glamorous party" that kept her father from leaving a larger literary legacy and contributed to his early death.

'My father wrote a few short stories just to keep the family alive - some of them good, some not so good - and he kept talking about the novel he was writing without doing much writing," Mrs. Smith said. "His greatest problem was all the distractions in Paris

But before we judge him too harshly, you have to remember that Paris in those days was the artistic and intellectual capital of the world. Everybody was here: Hemingway, Jean Cocteau, Josephine Baker and Picasso. Edith Wharton and Gertrude Stein were here. It was almost impossible to resist an invitation," she said.

'But overall. I think Paris was a mixed blessing," she dded. "Without Paris, or France at least have written 'Tender is the Night.' But I think if he had stayed in the United States, he might have written more, wouldn't have worn himself out so much and wouldn't have died so Fitzgerald died in 1940 at the age of 44 while working on his final novel, "The Last Tycoon," and surviving as a Hollywood script writer. Virtually all of his work, including his masterpiece. "The Great Gatsby." was out of print.

He had stopped drinking alcohol by then, becoming a soft drink addict in the process. But the years of heavy drinking had taken an enormous physical toll

Her mother, confined to a hospital in Asheville, N.C., died eight years later when a fire swept the facility. Zelda's worsening emotional health was one of the reasons the Fitzgeralds finally packed up and left Europe for the United States in the early 1930s.

Mrs. Smith returned to Paris last week to do some on-location interviews for a one-hour documentary for the Public Broadcasting Service. The film is one in a series on Fitzgerald. Hemingway and Thomas Wolfe by The Film Company, a non-profit, Washington-based production

Banks agree on new loan's for Brazil and postponed repayment troubles that have made it the Third World's biggest debtor.

Brazil owes over $90 billion, and is about $3 billion in arrears on its interest payments.

The deal, agreed to Thursday, depends heavily on the political and labor situation in Brazil, which is trying to move toward free elections and at the same time cope with inflation running at the rate of 153 percent a year.

It also depends on a promise to the International Monetary Fund by Brazil's military government to limit wage increases as a way of fighting inflation. To meet the pledge, the government decided to limit wage

Key witness for singer disqualified

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) -Country and western singer Hank Williams Jr., fighting a $1.2 million breach of contract suit, says he was not drunk but was "a man fightin' a cold" when he cut short a performance at a nightclub two years ago.

A key defense witness in the lawsuit against Williams was disqualified Thursday after he admitted that he and Williams had discussed testimony during the trial.

The lawsuit contends Williams illegally broke a contract to sing at the club on June 13. 1981. Testimony ended at noon Thursday.

Merle Kilgore, who was traveling with Williams when the singer broke off an engagement at the now-defunct Spurs Club in nearby Denison, told a lawyer for the club that he and Williams had been staying in an adjoining hotel rooms since Sunday night and that the two had discussed testimony several times.

State District Judge William Ralph Elliott approved a motion by David Stagner, the lawyer for the club's former owner, to disqualify Kilgore from testifying Kilgore was considered a key witness in the case because he accompanied Williams most of the evening of his Denison concert.

Williams said he was too sick to perform, but witnesses for the club testified the singer was drunk

Williams had testified that he "felt like a man fightin' a cold" when he flew to Denison for the concert and that he took an antihistamine before the performance after talking by telephone to his doctor. Before he flew to West

Virginia for a concert Thursday, Williams posed for photographs outside the rayson County court signed autographs, and told banks worldwide favor lending Brazil an additional $6.5 billion The decision has run into heavy opposition, with some strikes while postponing repayment of $5 billion to ease the financial and rioting President Joao Figueiredo promised Wednesday he will reconsider it.

"My democratic conscience points to the way of dialogue." he said in a nationally televised speech.

The deal was completed at the Washington headquarters of the International Monetary Fund by Affonso Celso Pastore. governor of the Central Bank of Brazil, and 66 banks on the Bank Advisory Committee for Brazil, chaired by William R. Rhodes of Citibank

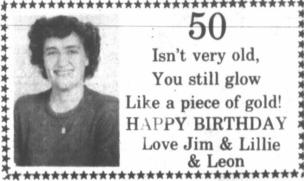

Rhodes, Pastore and an IMF representative then started a round-the-world trip to sell the plan to the other banks.

It calls for a five-year "grace period" during which Brazil need not return any of the $6.5 billion in new loans, or the more than $5 billion which was to have become due next year. Then repayments are to last nine years. Interest will be at a variable rate, depending on a standard formula. The formula would give a rate today of 11 percent to 12 percent a year.

The banks will get a fee of 1 percent - that is, over $115 million - for making the new arrangement.

The terms are somewhat less costly to Brazil than the deal made to delay loans that became due this year. A break between Brazil and the banks, widely urged in Brazil, could shake the whole international monetary system

A complete package for Brazil depends on negotiations with government creditors — as distinct from the private banks who made Thursday's deal - and a series of loan guarantees from the United States and other governments.

Boddicker whiffs record 14 as Orioles win

Mike Boddicker spent part of his day installing a CB radio in his pickup. Gary Roenicke used the time to play with his children. Then they went to work, and helped the Baltimore Orioles escape a dangerous situation in the American League Championship Series.

Boddicker, a 26-year-old rookie, registered a record-tying 14 strikeouts and Roenicke, a veteran at age 28, hit a two-run homer and scored two other runs Thursday night as the Orioles beat the Chicago White Sox 4-0 to tie the series at one game apiece.

The best-of-five championship set resumes tonight in Chicago, with Rich Dotson, 22-7, pitching for the White Sox against Baltimore's Mike Flanagan, 12-4, and the situation facing them is drastically different than if the White Sox had won Game No. 2.

Since the league championship series began in 1969, no team has ever dropped the first two at home and come back to win the pennant, a point not lost on either manager some of the speedsters Pampa's defense must slow down to have a chance at suprising the defending Class 1-4A champions tonight.

"They're a typical Estacado team. They ve very quick." said Pampa head coach John Kendall. "I'm sure they will be the quickest team we play all season.

Estacado, 3-1, opened district play last week with an easy 35-6 win over Borger. The Matadors also have wins over Plainview, 17-14, and Big Spring, 21-14. Their only loss was to Midland, 14-13.

"They've only lost one district game in the last six years," Kendall said. "We have to contain their speed if we hope to win and they also throw the ball very well.

Upshaw, who scored three touchdowns against Borger. leads the Matadors' explosive offense with 517 yards on 96 carries. Ross, a strong-armed quarterback, has passed for 275 yards and four touchdowns

Estacado has scored 86 points, second among district teams, but has allowed 48. third among district teams

'Our offense is a little ahead of last year, but the defense hasn't been playing as well," Kelly said. "We had more experience last year. but these kids have been playing pretty well."

Estacado's defense is led by middle linebacker Dwight Petties, a 180-pound senior who was an honorable mention all-state candidate last year

Pampa's lineup tonight may be missing offensive guard Travis Adams, who suffered a knee injury in Monday's practice. Starting defensive end Swasey Brainard will move into Adams' position

Right now it looks like Adams won't be able to play," Kendall said. "Dennis Kuempel (linebacker who had a shoulder injury against Levelland) has been practicing all week, but we're just not sure about him yet.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -The Philadelphia Phillies must find their bats if they hope to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League Championship Series.

The Phillies have scored just 15 runs in 14 games against the Dodgers this season, including one in each of the first two games of the best-of-five playoff, which is tied 1-1.

Phillies' Manager Paul Owens was asked if he could pinpoint the Phillies' failure to score against Los Angeles. "Darn right, good Dodgers" pitching," snapped Owens.

The Phillies' left-handed Thursday in a voluntary workout for today's third game in the Series, set to start at 3:05 p.m. EDT.

The Dodgers are scheduled to go with right-hander Bob Welch, and Owens will use left-handed hitters Joe Lefebvre and Greg Gross in the outfield in place of right-handers Sixto Lezcano and Garry Maddox

Owens is optimistic that the hitting which carried the club in its September stretch drive to the NL East title will

We hit the ball a lot better lednesday night than we did Tuesday." Owens said.

But we hit into three doubleplays and that always takes the wind out of any club. I think we're swinging better than we did earlier against this team.

Owens was happy to get out of Los Angeles with a split. 'You go on the other guy's turf you have to feel fortunate to get out, 1-1. I never thought it would be a sweep. These are two evenly matched clubs. It well could go to a

Although the Phillies haven't hit much in the first two games, the Dodgers are nothing to brag about. They averaged .206 to .190 for the Phillies. Mike Marshall, who contributed a nice running catch of a liner by Joe Morgan to save a couple of runs in the sixth inning Wednesday night, has left 10

"Sure I'm frustrated," said Marshall, who hit 300 in the stretch for the Dodgers. "My defense did not make up for it (lack of offense). "I'm like anyone else. I want to get a hit every time I go up. Marshall said.

Marshall said he expected hitters took hitting practice to get a lot of chances to get some hits in Philadelphia The Phillies are going with rookie pitcher Charles Hudson in game three.

"I've got a lot of confidence in him." said Owens. "He's partly responsible for us being here," the manager said of the youngster who posted an 8-8 record after being called up May 31, from Portland in the Pacific Coast

Owens isn't concerned that Hudson lost twice to the Dodgers in the regular season. He worked 12 2-3 innings, allowed 11 hits and six runs for a 4.26 earned run average. All the runs were earned. He allowed one home run, struck out 10 and walked

Sooners thwart Longhorn drive

By Major Amos B. Hoople Pigskin Prophet

Egad, friends, do I have a 🧖 treat for you. My two nephews. Alvin and Leander, will handle the forecasting chore for this Saturday's contests. The boys have been work ing hard for the past several weeks, boning up on the major elevens, studying the charts, and digesting the statistics. They are raring to go. And I assure you, from past experience, they will make the calls with the usual Hoople excellence. Har-

"Okay, Uncle Bulgy - er I mean, Uncle Amos. We'll get right to the game of the week, Texas against Oklahoma in Dallas. The Texan Longhorns, pride of the SWC, vs. the Oklahoma Sooners, perennial power of the Big Eight, in the Cotton Bowl. Anything can happen, and - heh-heh - usually does. In 77 previous meetings the Longhorns have won 46, the Sooners 28 and there have been three ties.

"This time, the Sooners, a slight underdog, will upend Texas on the running of Earl Johnson and Marcus Dupreee, with some passing help from the strong arm of QB Danny Bradley and the lightening speed of wide receiver Buster Rhymes. The Texas attack, led by QB

"The other big one in my territory pits the Wyoming Cowboys against Brigham Young. And pity the poor Cowboys having to go up against the passing and running of the Cougars' All-America QB Steve Young, who averages better than 400 yards total offense per game. Gvive it to BYU, 42-

Newspaper Carriers are among our youngest independent business men and women.

> They are not employed by the newspaper - but buy papers direct from us for resale to the public.

However they are our final link in the newspaper chain and without them all our efforts to produce the best in editorial and newspaper advertising content would be severely weakened.

We look forward to sharing with you this tribute to them.

Please write to us, before Wednesday, October 12th to:
