

New construction still up despite slump in August

By LARRY HOLLIS
Staff Writer

The Pampa Department of Building Inspection issued 22 building permits in September, a decrease of 17 from the 39 permits issued in August.

Total valuation of the new buildings is $1,097,655, reported Steve Vaughn, building inspector. This is a decrease of $495,889 from the $1,593,544 value in August. Value of buildings issued permits in September, 1982, was $2,002,637, making a comparable decline of $904,982 for the same month last year.

For the fiscal year to date, however, total value of new buildings is listed at $16,499,749, an increase of $2,868,849 over the total of $13,630,900 for the same period last year, Vaughn said.

Total number of permits issued for this fiscal year is 346, a decline of 82 from the 428 permits issued in the previous fiscal year.

The nature of building permits issued by the department in September includes three single-family units, three commercial buildings, five mobile homes, two relocations, seven alterations or additions to dwellings, one alteration and addition to a commercial building and one miscellaneous.

Total value of fees collected for building permits in September is $2,317.75, making a total of $31,550.50 for this fiscal year. In 1982 building permit fees totaled $33,178.25.

Other permits issued in September included 18 electrical permits and 56 plumbing permits. This makes 272 electrical permits for this fiscal year, a decrease of 46 from the 318 issued for fiscal year 1981-82. Total value of fees collected for electrical permits for 1982-83 is $6,046.51, an increase of $3,889.26 over the previous fiscal year.

The department issued 529 plumbing permits for 1982-83, a decrease of 52 from the 581 issued in 1981-82 fiscal year. Value of plumbing permit fees collected for this fiscal year is $8,840.76, a hike of $3,940.71 over the $4,900.05 collected the previous year.

The department collected $240 in fines for September, making a total of $2,352 for the year. In 1981-82 the department collected $2746.25 in fines, Vaughn reported.

The city collected a total of $3,850.78 in fees and fines for September, for a fiscal year total of $48,789.77. Last fiscal year the city collected $42,981.80.

The department conducted 277 inspections for September. This included 87 building inspections, 53 electrical, 103 plumbing and 34 miscellaneous.

Fiscal year inspection totals are 717 building, 552 electrical, 1,051 plumbing and 343 miscellaneous, for a total of 2,663 inspections performed by the department, Vaughn said. This is a decrease of 221 from the 2,884 inspections conducted in the previous fiscal year.

Price files bankruptcy to block auction

BY JEFF LANGLEY
Senior Staff Writer

Former Congressman Bob Price of Pampa filed for bankruptcy in federal court at 9:40 this morning, just hours before the federal government planned to auction off his 9,600-acre ranch from the steps of the Gray County Courthouse.

Price filed for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, an action that at least delays the government's foreclosure sale that was scheduled for 1 p.m. today.

"This action has become necessary in order to protect (my) equity and the rights of other creditors from the planned foreclosure of the ranch by the Small Business Administration," Price said in a news release issued this morning by his Amarillo lawyer, Don Patterson.

The former four-term U.S. representative and former state senator from this district, has failed to pay back about $2.3 million in government loans taken out on the ranch.

The Small Business Administration, one of two federal agencies that loaned Price money, planned to sell the property today to collect a delinquent SBA loan.

Part of Price's total debt to the government includes now-delinquent loans totaling about $1.8 million from another federal lending agency, the Farmers Home Administration.

Lubbock SBA official Barbara Hurt was enroute to Pampa this morning to conduct the forced auction when Price filed for the protection of bankruptcy. Hurt said Monday that a bankruptcy filing "would cancel our sale."

Other private loans, including about $600,000 owed to Panhandle Bank & Trust at Borger, also make claims to the title of the sprawling ranch Price's grandfather bought in 1907, according to sources close to the ranch sale.

The SBA planned to sell off its third "lien position," or third claim to the title of the Price ranch, for a $291,000 loan made in 1979, just one of two loans that agency made to the former federal legislator. Before Price's legal action, the SBA was scheduled to sell its claim to the ranch title to the highest bidder for cash.

Though it was the SBA that tried to foreclose on the former congressman's property, the FmHA stands ahead of SBA as the ranch's first and second lien holder.

The Borger bank holds a lien on the property after the first three liens held by the government.

Patterson said the filing will allow Price 120 days to come up with a plan for reorganizing and paying off creditors. The lawyer said creditors and U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Bill Bristler of Lubbock, who presides in both the Amarillo and Lubbock districts, must approve the reorganization plan. While the action is pending, "Mr. Price will be in possession and will operate the property," Patterson said.

The lawyer said the bankruptcy judge will consult both secured and unsecured creditors about Price's plan to pay.

Patterson said creditors who might not approve the reorganization "can't necessarily defeat the plan." He said the SBA and FmHA "are secured creditors and will have a right to vote on the plan."

Price's lawyer said the proposal to be submitted will outline a way to pay 100 percent of all debts owed to the former congressman's many creditors.

"That's what the plan will propose. That's what we shoot for," Patterson said.

Price tried to sell the property, which spreads across four counties northwest of Pampa, at a "voluntary" auction last April 28 at the ranch. Pampa oilman Leonard Hudson entered the top bid then at $3,025,000, about 312 per acre.

The deal never closed, with Hudson alleging the property is covered with debts and liens.

Some of the past or present lien holders to whom Price pledged the ranch in return for loans include the FHA, SBA, Western Lease Banc. Inc., Patagonia Leasing Company, Floyd Cockrell, Eunice Pierson, Federal Land Bank of Houston, J.W. Campbell, Systems Leasing Company Ltd., Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, Rogers Drilling Company, Panhandle Bank & Trust Company, Malouf Abraham, Harold D. Courson and J.B. Vegle Jr.

Price, a Republican, served four terms in congress from 1966 through 1974. He was elected in 1977 and filled three years of an unexpired four-year term as 31st District State Senator.

Supreme Court says Texas man must die tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Condemned Texas murderer James David Autry, who carried his frantic fight for life all the way to the Supreme Court, has fallen one vote short.

The court, by a 5-4 vote Monday, cleared the way for Autry to become only the ninth U.S. prison inmate to be executed since the death penalty was reinstated as a constitutional punishment in 1976.

Perhaps none of the some 900 cases acted on by justices as they began their 1983-84 term Monday will carry such immediate and dramatic impact: Autry is scheduled to die by lethal injection just after midnight tonight.

In an unsigned opinion barely three pages in length, the high court's majority said, in effect, Texas authorities are free to execute Autry.

Ironically, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox had advised the court that he did not oppose Autry's request for a postponement.

Lawyers for Autry still are seeking emergency help in two state courts and one federal court in Texas but their prospects for success, especially after Monday's action, appeared slim.

Autry, 28, was convicted and sentenced to die for the April 20, 1980, shooting death of Shirley Drouet, 43, a Port Arthur convenience store clerk.

Also fatally gunned down during the store robbery was Joseph Broussard.

See related stories, pg. 3

Autry's Oct. 9, 1980, conviction was upheld by the Texas courts, and left intact by the Supreme Court last year.

He then attacked the validity on grounds that a "critical" potential witness who would have testified in his behalf did not because the trial judge would not grant the would-be witness immunity from prosecution.

A federal trial judge and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals previously rejected that argument.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White, Lewis F. Powell, William H. Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor voted to deny Autry's request.

In other matters, the court: —Agreed to decide whether a state may prohibit people from loitering in public to solicit others for "deviate sexual intercourse."

New York's highest state court ruled in two cases from Buffalo that such a law in that state violates privacy rights protected by the Constitution.

—Gave advocates of more stringent gun control laws a big victory by refusing to disturb rulings that there is no constitutional right to own a pistol. The justices let stand a Morton Grove, Ill., ordinance that outlaws virtually all handguns.

Arizona faces more water woes

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Cloud-bursting rains that forced thousands from their homes and left 13 dead or missing continued today, threatening to push waters over a dam and spread a sloshing sea of mud to the suburbs of Phoenix.

With damage estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars after another day of heavy rain Monday, the National Weather Service warned that another severe storm system could hit the state on Thursday.

A brief but fierce storm Monday afternoon aggravated flooding in southeastern Arizona, said to be the worst in a century. Tucson, with many sections already under several feet of water, received nearly half an inch of rain in 20 minutes.

Interstate 10, the main highway covering the 120 miles between Tucson and Phoenix, was cut when flooding eroded land supporting bridge approaches.

Other highway closures meant that "Tucson has effectively become an island," said Terry Conner on Monday, but some routes were later reopened.

Towns along the Gila River northeast of Tucson and east of Phoenix — including Winkelman, Hayden and Kearny — braced for a deluge as the level of San Carlos Lake mounted behind Coolidge Dam while rain continued to fall today.

Ralph Egerra, chief engineer for the Bureau of Indian Affairs dam, activated emergency plans after the reservoir rose one foot in less than an hour Monday, and officials predicted that water would begin sloshing through spillways this afternoon.

The overflow could hit Winkelman, 30 miles southwest of the dam, by tonight and could reach the outskirts of Phoenix, some 60 miles northwest, by Thursday, officials said.

Tucson Fire Capt. Kevin Keeley said the new rainfall prompted "a lot of hysteria in the community."

"We lost everything, all our furniture, our television and stereo and my diamond rings," said Mary Jane Hoffsmith of Tucson, standing where her family's townhouse had been.

Canceled trip may hurt Marcos' foes

AP News Analysis

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Reagan's decision to cancel his visit to the Philippines underscores the difficulties facing President Ferdinand E. Marcos, but it may prove a greater blow to Marcos' foes.

Some of those opposition leaders privately had counted on Reagan's presence to focus international attention on the Marcos government and provide a target for major protests.

Marcos had said a cancellation would be a "setback" to his government, but in fact it may reduce pressure on him to quickly resolve the question of who killed Benigno Aquino, the former senator who was Marcos' arch rival. It also removes a possible deterrent to harsh tactics against dissidents.

"I have a feeling this could be a signal for a heavier crackdown here," said Salvador P. Lopez, a former foreign minister and ambassador to the United States.

"Now that he is not coming, I think its open house. President Marcos is no longer on 'good behavior,'" Lopez said. "I hope I'm wrong."

Aquino's death Aug. 21 from a single bullet as he stepped from an airplane at Manila's airport has generated growing opposition to Marcos' 18-year-rule and emboldened Filipinos who want him to resign. Demonstrations have spread from radical ranks to the middle and upper classes, with hundreds of thousands joining anti-Marcos rallies across the islands.

Opposition leaders had asked Reagan not to come, saying that if the Marcos government couldn't protect Aquino, it would have difficulty protecting Reagan.

Their public opposition to Reagan's coming here was based on the endorsement of the Marcos government such a visit would imply.

"I'm glad he distanced himself from the regime of President Marcos, not necessarily from the Philippines," Agapito Aquino, brother of the slain opposition leader, said today.

Salvador Laurel, a Marcos foe and former senator, said, "We in the opposition and the entire Filipino people consider that as a refusal on his part to condone the killing of Senator Aquino."

Privately, however, opposition leaders said they had looked forward to Reagan's arrival as a rallying point. Agapito Aquino had said he expected a million Filipinos in Manila to protest the visit and at one point threatened to organize a sitdown on the airport.

Inmates seek action on prison crowding

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Texas prison inmates have filed a federal court motion calling for new measures to reduce the population in the state's penitentiaries.

A motion filed Friday in Houston asks that U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice further restrict the number of prisoners per cell and "otherwise to control the population of the Texas Department of Corrections."

Justice issued a sweeping prison reform mandate in 1981 after hearing a civil rights suit filed by inmates in 1972. As part of that order, the TDC was ordered to reduce the number of prisoners per cell.

The latest legal action follows allegations leveled by a court-appointed prison monitor that the TDC has made "no significant effort" to stop brutality in the prison system and that "physical abuse of inmates has continued to occur with alarming force and frequency."

A TDC spokesman referred all questions to Rick Gray, an Austin attorney hired to represent the state in the case. Gray could not be reached for comment Monday, The Dallas Morning News reported.

Justice originally said all TDC inmates must have single cells or no less than 60 square feet of living space in dormitories.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Justice's ruling that overcrowded conditions constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

But the appeals court did not uphold the single-celling order, suggesting that other court-ordered changes in the prison system might "sufficiently relieve the conditions that combine to make double-celling cruel and unusual."

The appeals court also gave the plaintiffs the option of raising the issue again in a year.

In the latest motion, inmates claim Texas prison units are more overcrowded than in 1978 and 1979, when Justice was hearing the suit.

"Defendants have had more than adequate time to put their house in order," the motion said. "The time for more vigorous remedial action has come."

War of words continues as strike in fourth day

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines and its pilots continued a war of words over the effectiveness of a strike as the walkout by flight attendants and mechanics.

Airline management said the new rules are within federal guidelines. "We find it very interesting that he would challenge the very work rules that are identical to those contained in a contract with Braniff Air Lines that was signed June 22 by Capt. Duffy," said Continental spokesman Bruce Hicks.

Airline spokesman downplayed rising numbers of cancellations and said the carrier would expand its schedule later in the week and might hire outside pilots to replace the strikers.

"The company is operating in a manner within the FAA guidelines," Hicks said. Continental also succeeded late Monday in securing a temporary restraining order in Houston that prohibits pilots from using abusive or vulgar language, making statements or gestures to passengers and from circulating false statements about the company's equipment, insurance coverage, operations or employees.

The president of the Air Line Pilots Association countered during a speech at the AFL-CIO convention in Hollywood, Fla., Monday that the strike by the ALPA and the Union of Flight Attendants "is gaining strength."

"I am convinced we're going to win," said ALPA President Henry Duffy. Duffy said new work rules imposed by Continental require longer hours that he contended "stretch the limits of human endurance of pilots."

Harris County Court Judge Davie Wilson scheduled a Wednesday hearing on a preliminary injunction. Continental sought the order, citing repeated attempts by ALPA members to harass pilots crossing picket lines, Hicks said. Continental filed Sept. 24 for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, suspending all domestic flights for two days and then resuming service to only 25 of the 78 U.S. destinations it previously served. It laid off about 70 percent of its 12,000 workers, instituted new work rules and slashed salaries of its remaining employees by as much as 50 percent.

The airline has lost more than $471 million since January 1979. Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Frank Lorenzo has said losses in the first nine months of this year could top $130 million, including more than $50 million in the third quarter.

Lorenzo scheduled a meeting today with striking Continental pilots in Denver. One of the striking pilots, who asked not to be identified, said he felt the meeting was an attempt by Lorenzo to "massage" the pilots back to work.

But airline spokesman Bruce Miller said it was indicative of Lorenzo's continued desire to reach a settlement. Hicks said, "We just want to sit down and talk. We'd like to try to clear up what we think to be confusion and some misinformation."

Hicks declined to say how many of the airline's 158 flights were canceled on Monday, but did say the airline probably would complete 80 to 90 percent of its flights.

The strike forced cancellation of nine flights Sunday because of a lack of flight crews. An 80 percent to 90 percent completion figure Monday would mean 15 to 32 flights were canceled. Despite the schedule cuts, however, the airline said it planned to boost its daily flights by 20 as of Thursday. "Right now, we are looking ahead to when we are going to rebuild our schedule," Miller said. "We have begun to contact furloughed Continental employees and we are making inquiries in the marketplace."

Hicks said all flight attendant positions had been filled "for the month of October and beyond."

ALPA spokeswoman Julie Graves pilots flying during the strike were approaching federal limits on flying vs. rest time. "Supporting our story is the fact that the airline is threatening to hire replacements," she said. "That indicates to us they're scrambling to fill pilots."

Continental, once the nation's eighth-largest air carrier, needs 500 pilots to operate its reduced schedule. Officials had said 650 of the airline's 1,450 pilots had agreed to cross the picket lines.

Richard Adams, Continental's vice president of operations, said the airline has been "hearing from non-Continental pilots who are calling to make inquiries."

Obscure proposed amendment sparks debate

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment that would allow groups of farmers to collect "dues" that would then be used to market and promote their crops may not sound all that controversial.

But it sparked a lively, impromptu debate Monday at a news conference called by supporters of Proposition No. 3, one of 11 proposed constitutional amendments Texas voters will decide Nov. 8.

In the past, the fee collected for that purpose by associations of producers was ruled an illegal tax by the courts, requiring the constitutional change to allow the practice.

Gov. Mark White attended the news conference and endorsed Proposition No. 3, which he said would expand Texas food and fiber to new markets, create new jobs and help the state's economy — all without costing taxpayers a cent.

When White invited members of the press to ask questions about the proposition, Bill Powers, executive vice president of the Texas Poultry Federation, jumped up and challenged White's statement that the program would be "voluntary."

"Do you think it's right to take a producer's money against his will?" asked Powers, who said his organization opposes the amendment.

White replied that growers who do not wish to participate can get their money refunded.

Powers snapped, "You get your money back after they keep it for 60 days."

White left the news conference early, while several lawmakers who supported the proposal and representatives of growers of corn, sorghum, wheat and other crops stood up to defend Proposition No. 3 in a lively debate with Powers.

After the news conference, commodity association representatives gathered around Powers and complained that if he opposed the measure, he should have testified against it before the Legislature instead of making a "scene" at a press conference.

Powers said he did not decide to express his opposition until Monday morning when he saw a pamphlet published by supporters of Proposition 3.

describing it as a voluntary program that would create new jobs.

"The majority of jobs created will be part-time help to take care of the refunds," he said.

Powers conceded that the proposal would allow growers to apply for a refund if they did not want to participate, but he objected to the "red tape and paperwork." He compared it to an employer's deducting funds from paychecks for charity and then saying, "Anybody who wants his money back can get it back by writing a letter and waiting."

Barefoot's motion denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has turned down a motion for rehearing by attorneys for Thomas Andy Barefoot, a Texas death row inmate whose case was used as a test last-minute appeals.

The justices turned down without comment a motion by attorneys for Barefoot, a former roughneck convicted of murdering a Harker Heights, Texas, policeman Carl Levin in August 1978.

Barefoot, whose three death dates have been blocked, has denied killing the officer.

Lebanese army fires at snipers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese army troops fired at Moslem snipers in Beirut today while Yasser Arafat's Palestinian guerrillas warned of an imminent showdown with the Syrian army in northern Lebanon.

A military communique said army positions in two west Beirut neighborhoods came under sniping from a Shiite Moslem stronghold throughout the night, prompting troops to shoot back.

The communique mentioned no casualties in the exchanges, which strained a nine-day-old cease-fire mediated by Saudi Arabia and the United States to halt Lebanon's civil war.

President Amin Gemayel's government said it was stymied in setting up the Moslem-Christian national reconciliation conference proposed under the cease-fire. But the Beirut newspaper An-Nahar, published by a Gemayel adviser, said the opening session of the meeting might be held Thursday in Saudi Arabia.

Government spokesmen said Syria, which backed Druse militia forces in the three-week civil war against the Lebanese army and rightist Christian militiamen, was demanding the conference be held at the Arab League headquarters in Tunisia.

The leftist newspaper As-Safir said compromise sites have been suggested, including the prime minister's office in mostly Moslem west Beirut and the city's international airport, where the U.S. Marines serving with the multinational peacekeeping force are based.

Gemayel's administration has said it is willing to hold at least the opening session of the reconciliation conference in Saudi Arabia, but that site has been opposed by Syria.

In Syrian-held northern Lebanon, a top official of the Palestine Liberation Organization accused Syria of closing six PLO offices in Damascus and warned of possible fighting between Syrian troops and loyalists of Arafat, the PLO chairman. Arafat has long accused the Syrians of trying to dominate his forces.

"We have reliable information that Syria has decided to launch a massive military operation against our fighters in northern Lebanon in attempt to liquidate the Palestinian revolution," Arafat's lieutenant Khalil Wazir said in a telephone interview Monday.

Palestinian sources in Damascus said the Syrians did close the offices but turned them over to PLO rebels. The sources, who refused to be identified, also said 140 members of Arafat's Fatah faction recently joined the mutiny against him.

Wazir, widely considered to be Arafat's second in command, said a Syrian attack on Arafat loyalists in northern Lebanon was expected "within the next few days."

In Beirut, gunmen fired mortars and rocket grenades at Lebanese army positions Monday, forcing Marines deployed nearby to scamper into bunkers and foxholes on maximum alert for the first time during the truce. Later, army tanks fired at Shiite positions in a southern slum after Shiites fired mortars and rocket grenades at a Christian neighborhood.

White House says trip changes shouldn't hurt relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan still plans to visit the Far East next month but has dropped the strife-torn Philippines and two other Southeast Asian nations from his agenda.

Blaming the press of congressional business at home rather than the bloody antigovernment rioting in Manila, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said, "The president has most reluctantly and with regret decided to postpone visits planned for this November to the Republic of the Philippines, Indonesia and Thailand."

He said deputy White House chief of staff Michael K. Deaver secretly left Washington Friday night to personally carry that message to leaders of the three nations and to Japan and South Korea, which Reagan still plans to visit but perhaps later than originally scheduled.

U.S. relations with all three countries dropped from the trip "are excellent, and we expect them to remain so," Speakes said.

He said they could be added to the agenda for Reagan's return to Asia next spring when he goes to China, although no decision has been made on that.

Reagan said the change was based "totally" on the situation in Congress, where several major pieces of legislation are pending, including appropriations bills and the emergency spending resolution that was adopted last week but which expires Oct. 10.

His spokesman, however, did not deny that concern for the president's safety in Manila played a role in the decision.

"All aspects were taken into consideration," Speakes said.

Last week, when reports began to circulate that Reagan might not visit the Philippines because of the political turmoil there, President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife, Imelda, warned that such a decision could disrupt U.S.-Philippine relations. But Speakes expressed confidence Monday that they would understand.

Manila, Jakarta and Bangkok were to have been the first three stops on a 17-day, five-nation visit to Asia beginning in early November.

But Speakes said, "In view of the fact that Congress will be in session, that key appropriations bills have not yet been enacted and that a continuing resolution has been enacted but will expire Nov. 10, it is clear that the first two weeks of November will be particularly demanding legislative weeks."

Speakes said Reagan made the decision to drop the three nations late last Thursday, only hours after he and other administration officials were insisting the full trip was still on despite the political turmoil in the Philippines, where widespread anti-government demonstrations and violent confrontations have followed the assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

Although Speakes said it was a change in Congress' projected adjournment date from Oct. 28 until sometime in November that forced the White House to re-examine the trip schedule last week, congressional observers have known since mid-summer that the legislature could not possibly complete its work in October.

Top government banker detained for stance on Argentina's debt

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The president of Argentina's central bank has been arrested on the orders of a judge who accuses him of failing to represent the country's interests in renegotiating its $40 billion foreign debt.

The nation's chief banker, Julio Gonzalez del Solar, was arrested Monday as he got off an airliner bringing him home from an International Monetary Fund meeting in Washington, Economy Ministry spokesman Miguel Alurralde said.

The banker was being detained by federal police on an order from Judge Federico Pinto Kramer, said Eduardo Maschwitz, spokesman for President Reynaldo Pignone.

Maschwitz said the judge ordered the arrest in connection with a penal code article which prohibits any government official from prejudicing Argentine interests during talks with a foreign nation or international organization. Violation of the article carries a prison term of up to 10 years.

Last Wednesday, Pinto Kramer ordered the suspension of renegotiations on a total of $7 billion in foreign debts for 31 state-owned corporations.

His order came after economic officials signed a contract last week in New York rescheduling Aerolineas Argentinas' $220 million debt to a consortium of banks headed by Morgan Guaranty.

Pinto Kramer objected to a clause in the contract, which Gonzalez del Solar helped negotiate, that recognizes the jurisdiction of New York state courts in the deal. Some Argentine politicians denounced the concession as a "sellout" of Argentine sovereignty.

The executive branch argues that there are precedents for such a concession and it has appealed the ruling by Pinto Kramer, who is a federal judge in the southern province of Santa Cruz.

Private foreign banks and the International Monetary Fund, meanwhile, have held up delivery of $830 million in bail-out money to the government until the case is resolved. If Argentina is denied new credit, it would be forced to default on its foreign debts.

Widow says banker died in fear of KGB

LONDON (AP) — British banker Dennis Skinner, who died in a fall from a 12th story window in Moscow last June, believed he was in danger from the KGB, his widow was quoted today as saying.

The report in the Daily Mail came as Britain's Foreign Office sought to dampen speculation that the 54-year-old representative of London's Midland Bank was caught up in a web of espionage.

The Daily Telegraph said Skinner told friends he feared the KGB, the Soviet secret police, was going to charge him with "typical KGB trumped-up charges" of illegal currency transactions and importing pornography.

The Telegraph suggested Skinner may have been the victim of KGB blackmail. It quoted an unidentified business colleague as saying: "It's obvious...he was the victim of the Russian secret police's dirty tricks department."

Skinner fell to his death from his apartment in a 16-story building in central Moscow on June 17.

Foreign Office officials said Skinner was not involved with British intelligence but suggested he was a loner who became paranoid after 15 years of living in Moscow's sometimes claustrophobic environment.

But the tabloid Daily Mail said Skinner's Russian-born wife Ludmilla, living in Britain, termed the theory the banker committed suicide "ridiculous."

Cuban doctor: 'nightmares' about air injection trial

By RANDALL HACKLEY
Associated Press Writer

MONAHANS, Texas (AP) — The Cuban doctor charged with injecting air into the vein of a mortally wounded Monahans man said he still is haunted by the attempted murder trial that absolved him of any guilt.

Juan Perez-Valladares, 56, said bad dreams of the surgery trial held in his adopted hometown often keeps him sleepless. A bleeding ulcer that nearly killed him after the tense trial ended also frightens him.

Perez, a slight, soft-spoken man, was the first physician to stand trial of attempted murder by air injection in Texas.

"My nightmares still haunt me," Perez said, holding his hands tenderly over his troubled stomach. "I dream about that trial and about the Bay of Pigs."

In 1962, Perez was a virulent anti-Communist who bobbed in a boat off Cuba for 16 days during the unsuccessful U.S.-supported invasion.

Now, he is a popular family physician who was charged with pumping 20 cubic-centimeters of air into the vein of a man mortally wounded on Nov. 4, 1981, by a gunshot blast to the forehead.

Two nurses testified in the trial that Perez was tired the night he gave emergency room treatment to oilfield worker Michael Hoffman, so he tried "to hasten" the victim's death.

Hoffman, 28, died 40 minutes after he was shot once at point-blank range during a barroom brawl in this West Texas oil and ranch town of 9,000. An Odessa pathologist testified the injection was not the cause of death.

Emergency room nurse Brenda Rowan, who still works at Ward Memorial Hospital, testified that when Hoffman was brought in, Perez had complained he had "had a hard day" and "wasn't going to wait around all night" for the victim to die.

But a jury of 12 that included 10 of Perez's patients found the small-town physician innocent Feb. 18 of hastening Hoffman's death by injecting a syringe full of air into his right arm. Perez, who never denied injecting air into Hoffman, said he was "always innocent."

Now, Perez has settled into a familiar routine that includes six days of work each week, and two-hour lunches that are similar to the siesta of many Latin countries.

Born in Havana, Perez has two brothers who live in Miami, where most of the family fled when Fidel Castro came to power in 1959. A sister still lives in Cuba. Perez joined other anti-Castro exiles in the U.S., and trained as a war surgeon at Puerto Cabezas, Honduras, for the Bay of Pigs invasion.

But Perez said he helplessly watched in horror from the sea as the invasion sponsored by the U.S. government turned into disaster. Several of his fellow trainees died, including one friend who suffocated in the back of a truck as he was being driven after his capture to prison, Perez said.

"I have a lot of nightmares of his death," he said. But Perez has little to say about the attempted murder trial, which generated national attention because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the case.

"I don't remember much about the trial," he said recently during an office interview. But he remains bitter about the two nurses who testified against him. They still work at the local hospital and "are big shots there," he said.

Perez was barred from the hospital after he was charged with attempted murder, and never has returned to practice there. "I don't want to go back. They asked me once to return, but I won't."

His wounds from the trial have slowly healed, but he remains embarrassed he ever was charged. He wouldn't let his teen-aged son come to the trial because he didn't want his only child ever to see him in court, Perez said.

Concentration said key to better memory

By ALAN L. ADLER
Associated Press Writer

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Introduce yourself to Raymond Tucker, and chances are he will never forget your name or anything else you tell him. The Bowling Green State University professor is a self-trained memory master.

For instance, to Tucker, someone named Cunningham is a "sly pig." Memory tricks are numerous, but the key is concentration, he says.

"Concentration is nothing more than saying to yourself, 'I'm going to pay attention to this and I will remember what is there,'" he said.

Chairman of the BGSU's department of interpersonal and public communication, Tucker has spent more than 20 years studying memory. He concludes that people with poor memories can't blame heredity. The reason is "mindless behavior" or mental laziness.

"Memory is about it in life. If you have memory, you've got it made. If your memory is not good, then you've got problems from the day you can cognize until the day you die," Tucker said.

Using numbered pegs, Tucker said he can remember anything by associating it with one of the pegs. The key is associating it with something crazy. The wilder the better, he said.

"Trying to remember a discrete, logical fact is impossible for most people if you don't associate it with something," Tucker said.

"People forget names of other people because there's no reward in remembering, he said.

"As far as they're concerned, if they need to know your name, somehow they will find it out. But right now, they're too busy daydreaming. They don't want to spend the energy concentrating at the moment," Tucker said.

Tucker's advice on improving memory and beating mindless behavior:

—Put things in the same place every time. Don't put anything down temporarily because you'll forget where it is.

—Visualize where something is placed and say aloud where this is while you're putting it there. Saying it aloud enforces it with a second sense.

—You won't forget to take something somewhere if you put it in front of the door. That applies to items big enough to see.

—Do it now. It doesn't cost any more and 90 percent of all things can be done immediately.

"We can learn to stop doing things mindlessly. That's why to some extent society is as sick as it is," Tucker said. "We just look out there and everything looks OK. We think that way because we're alive."

Tucker says daydreaming and mindless behavior begin in early in life. As with many forms of behavior, concentration is best taught to children because it sticks with them. Parents are the best teachers, but few ever do it, he said.

"It's a natural thing for the mind to wander," he said. "At an early age we daydream. You've got to have that intervention somewhere along the line."

How-to books end in failure for most people because the reader never makes the commitment necessary to do what's prescribed.

In lectures to more than 100,000 people in hundreds of seminars, Tucker says he's never learned how to motivate an audience. Too many people are daydreaming.

"The average American is into what I call the mailbox theory," Tucker said. "Everybody is really waiting for a letter that says in some way, 'You have been appointed director of the world.'"

"Most people are in the hopes and dreams department. We're waiting for something to happen and we're not taking an aggressive stance on life. We're not making things happen," he said.

Drapery manufacturers widen window covering lines

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Observers have noted that American consumers are more value-conscious than they used to be.

"People seem to be looking for products that reflect their own sense of individuality," says Barbara Koller of Burlington Industries in New York.

The firm recently conducted studies with consumer focus groups to determine possible new product directions. As a result of the studies, Koller, who is manager of new product development for Burlington House Draperies, says the company believes it is on the right track in offering more custom detailing in its ready-made window curtains and draperies.

A trend toward more custom detailing in window coverings, bedspreads and related products appears to be industry-wide. At a recent wholesale market for curtains and draperies, for example, a number of companies introduced new ideas in ready-mades which should provide more options for consumers.

These ideas include reversible drapery and matching bedspread ensembles, custom-like swag and jabot treatments for windows and a wider assortment of colors than were formerly available in ready-mades.

Reversible products are popular with customers, according to retailers, because they offer two looks in one product.

Those shopping for window coverings this fall should find dresser fabrics and more elaborate treatments in the stores.

Tapestry, damask and satin draperies (often in easy-care synthetic fibers) are more widely available than they used to be, coinciding with the reintroduction of more formal window treatments. The new draperies often have a softer feel because more fabric is being used in fuller, more gathered constructions.

Dressmaker details which give window coverings a more formal look include intricate stitching, ruffles, ruching, as well as braid, ribbon and lace trim. Such details used to be found only on custom-made window coverings.

Besides providing more elaborate ready-made coverings, drapery manufacturers have expanded custom and made-to-measure programs giving consumers the option of specifying the length and width of their draperies as well as selecting from among several header treatments.

Not too long ago, Koller said, the ready-made drapery market was largely dominated by pinch pleated draperies in a rather narrow selection of fabrics and colors. Today, other options are available, including curtains and draperies sewn to accommodate the so-called European-style flat rod or made with an oversize rod pocket.

Koller says the new products are industry's way of satisfying consumer demand. Burlington's focus group of consumers said recently that they would prefer to buy more decorative domestics but that such products are not readily available in the stores at reasonable prices. Today's emphasis on traditional decor has also stimulated the development of these softer window treatments.

Even desire to save energy has played a part, since more elaborate layered window treatments are energy conservers.

Consumers are seeking more sophisticated home decorations than in the past under the influence of shelter magazines in whose pages they see pictures of interesting new window treatments which they then wish to duplicate, added Koller.

The winds of change in the drapery field have stirred up a breeze in the drapery hardware end of the business, as well. One hardware producer has found that one of its more successful items is the 4 1/2-inch wide curtain rod. Use of such a rod with a curtain creates a shirred effect. Another best-seller is the recently introduced brass-plated curtain rod.

Formerly, mass manufacturers tended to steer away from too many specialty items, said Roseann Fairchild, manager of publications and publicity for Kirsch Inc., but today they offer them because they are in greater demand.

Drapery hardware producers — as well as makers of ready-made draperies — are also developing do-it-yourself information on how to measure, select hardware for, and hang draperies.

"We have found there is simply no experienced help in the stores. In order to sell our products, we have to make sure people know how to use them," explained Fairchild.

Both Kirsch and the Graber Co. recently prepared practical consumer information on how to select and hang window treatments. These materials will be found in retail outlets carrying their products across the country.

Comfortable Southern room in scrubbed Appalachian pine

Comfort and sentimentality were very much in evidence when two talented designers combined their efforts recently in the 83 ASID Showcase House in Greensboro, N.C.

Cathy Rogers Willis and Beverly S. Jackson, associate members of North Carolina's ASID, participated in a joint display of 21 transformed rooms of outstanding design merit showcased in a Tudor Revival granite mansion on North Elm Street in Greensboro.

The "Replicas 1800 Revival" room in the Galloway Mansion was their interpretation of a bedroom-sitting room with southern charm.

A joyful profusion of pastel flowers and stripes are in the bedspread, pillows and window treatments. The sitting room effect is created with a soft overstuffed sofa upholstered in the same floral pattern of Fabrizaz fabric and placed on one wall.

Scrubbed Appalachian pine furniture's warm patina and simple lines glow in honey tones to counterpoint the soft blues of the room.

An enchanting four-poster bed makes a dramatic architectural statement and brings out our deepest inclinations of feeling safe and secure. The bed frame has shirred fabric sleeves that end with big bows tied at each of the finished posters.

Designers Willis and Jackson expressed a great interest in softness, lushness and intensely romantic feelings in this room. They added some special details like a hooked rug, a Victorian telephone, wall sampler, wicker armchair and bedstep of pine.

The linen press with its look of historic authenticity has the added bonus of pull-out shelving made specifically for storage.

The Galloway Mansion is now owned by Dr. and Mrs. Russell A. Cobb. The house has been nominated for the U.S. Department of Interior's National Register of Historic Places.

FOUR-POSTER beds are eternal symbols of romance. This one crafted of scrubbed Appalachian pine together with the nightstand and bedstep.

Dear Abby

Wearing furs rubs one reader the wrong way

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You will undoubtedly get a lot of flak for your advice to "Torn," the woman who inherited some beautiful furs but whose husband (an animal lover) didn't want her to wear them.

Well, I applaud you for telling her to sell the furs and give the money to her local animal shelter. In today's world of man-made furs and overheated buildings, there is no need for anyone to drape herself in killed creatures.

Every animal shelter I've ever known about needs every cent it can get, so I think your solution to "Torn's" problem was most thoughtful and caring. And three cheers for her husband!

MARGARET SPENCER

DEAR MARGARET: Thanks. I needed that. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I'm an animal lover, but I was amazed at your answer to "Torn." Her husband objected to her wearing furs she had inherited because "it makes him both sad and furious when he thinks of the way the animals died." And you called him "caring and sensitive." Bull! How would you have wild animals die? At the vet's?

The Bible gave man dominance over animals, birds and fish. They are God's gift to man — created for us to use. Naturally we should treat them humanely, and we should protect endangered species. But to refuse to wear animal skins isn't animal love, it's animal worship. Pagans worship animals.

An animal's life consists of hunting, fighting and mating. It's not going to Harvard Business School. When it's old enough, shoot it or trap it as humanely as possible, and wear its fur in good health.

The alternative is for the animal to grow old and weak, and get torn apart by younger and stronger animals until its beautiful fur is nothing but tattered tufts in the jungle! How's that for a way to die?

NOT A HUNTER

DEAR ABBY: This is my first "Dear Abby" letter, although this has been on my mind for a long time.

I have a beautiful, intelligent, 23-year-old, college-educated niece who has never had a date in her life. Men are attracted to her, but they quickly lose interest because she takes no pride in her appearance. She has a wonderful figure but she doesn't care how she looks. She wears any old thing, no makeup, and does nothing with her lovely blond hair. Her only social life is doing something with "the girls." It's a shame.

I know looks aren't everything, but even the plainest girl can make herself attractive with the right clothes, a hairdo and a touch of lip gloss.

I've tried to get her to spruce herself up, and so have other members of the family, but to no avail. I don't want to be a "buttnsky," but I hope you print this because she reads you faithfully and it might help. I love her dearly and want her to be happy.

A LOVING AUNT

DEAR AUNT: Maybe she is happy. If you, and other members of the family, have tried unsuccessfully to spruce her up, it's possible that she is content just as she is. I know you mean well, but unsolicited advice is seldom appreciated. Butt out, Auntie.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your ability to absorb new information is apt to be better than usual today. Now is the time to study subjects you want to learn.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to be rather lucky today, but it's not apt to come through your own efforts. Fortune will smile on you because others wish to please you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your biggest breaks today will come through partnership arrangements, especially those contacts with whom you're on a friendly social basis.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much enjoyment will be derived today through occupying your time as productively as possible. Seek tasks which require both imagination and muscle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have to make a choice in your social activities today, select those which will involve you with groups lively and young in spirit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are now in a cycle which could upgrade your financial circumstances. Be on the alert for unusual types of material opportunities.

JUMPING FOR JOY—New York Jets' defensive end Mark Gastineau (99) does his famous victory dance while Ken Shroy (48) leaps in the air after Gastineau recovered a fumble and scored during NFL action Monday night. The Jets beat the Buffalo Bills, 34-10. (AP Laserphoto)

Jets breeze by Bills, 34-10

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Even at less than 100 percent, Bruce Harper was more than enough for the Buffalo Bills to handle.

Harper, replacing the injured Freeman McNeil in the New York Jets backfield, squeezed 118 yards out of only nine carries as the Jets stuffed the Bills 34-10 Monday night. His 11-yard touchdown pass from Richard Todd gave the Jets a 7-0 lead the second period, and they eventually built a 17-0 lead.

It was the first 100-yard game in the seven-year running back's pro career, and it was accomplished despite it being only his second game back following a knee injury.

"If we keep winning like this, I'll play at whatever percentage I'm at," he said.

While Harper's fine effort in replacing McNeil keyed the Jet offense, it was the recently maligned Jet defensive line that probably won the game for New York.

Mark Gastineau, Marty Lyons, Joe Klecko and Kenny Neil, the front four of a defense ranked last in the league against the rush coming into the game, allowed the Bills only 85 yards on the ground.

The Jets held Joe Cribbs, who had a career-high 166 yards the week before against Houston, to only 28 yards on 13 carries.

Gastineau, whose post-sack dance precipitated a fight last week against the Los Angeles Rams, danced three more times Monday, one more time than he had so far all season.

Gastineau also scored on a 1-yard return following his recovery of a fumble by Cribbs in the third period.

"It was fortunate for me," he said of his performance, which garnered him a game ball. "It came at a great time."

"Klecko and Lyons were stopping the run," he said. "They had everything up the middle, while Neil and I pinched from the outside."

While the rejuvenated New York Sack Exchange was keeping Cribbs in check, Harper was cutting deftly through the Bills defense.

"A lot of it was on cutbacks," he said, explaining the Bills move quickly to the ball. Harper found much of his running room by cutting against the defensive flow.

The Jets victory creates a logjam at the top of the American Football Conference's Eastern Division. Baltimore, Miami, the Jets and the Bills are all 3-2.

Turnovers hurt Lefors in 19-7 loop loss to Follett

FOLLETT—Follett scored three times in the first half and its defense came up with four fumbles as the Panthers trimmed Lefors, 19-7, Friday night in a District 1-1A football opener.

The win lifted Follett to 2-1 on the season and 1-0 in loop play, while Lefors dropped to 0-4 and 0-1.

Lefors got its only points when Rick Withers escaped on an 85-yard run in the final period.

Lefors, though the scoreboard loser, led in total offense, 228-191, but it coughed up the ball five times on fumbles the first half.

Lefors visits Wheeler Friday night.

Pampa spikers visit Borger tonight

LEVELLAND—Everyone tries extra hard to beat a defending champion, no matter what the sport.

Pampa's Lady Harvesters found that out the hard way after dividing a District 1-4A twinbill with Levelland last Saturday. Pampa won the first contest, 12-15, 18-15, while Levelland came back to win the second, 16-14, 15-9, 16-14.

"When Levelland won that last match, you would have thought they had won district," said Pampa coach Phil Hall. "We're going to have to learn to play that way too."

Pampa travels to Borger

for another district match tonight, starting at 6:30 p.m.

"Borger is not as strong as they have been in the past, but for some reason Pampa has always had trouble with them," Hall said. "It's going to be a tough match because we're going to be playing there."

Against Levelland, Diana Simmons served 12 consecutive points for Pampa while Leslie Cash also had an outstanding game from the service line. But overall service left something to be desired.

"Our serving was poor all day," Hall said. "That's the main reason we lost that last match. Levelland was ready to play. We weren't."

Pampa, defending 1-4A champions, is now 2-1 in league play.

"Everybody in district is going to be out to beat us," Hall said. "We're going to have to mentally get ourselves ready to play."

"I felt like we were good enough to be 12-0 in district. Now we have to shoot for 11-1."

Pampa's next home match is Saturday against Lubbock Estacado with the dual matches starting at 1 p.m.

COMING UP ROSY— Veteran first baseman Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies goes for a grounder as teammates Garry Maddox (31) and Joe Morgan back him up during workouts Monday afternoon in Dodger Stadium. Lasorda to start veterans in tonight's opener

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Tom Lasorda, proud of the accomplishments of the younger members of his Los Angeles Dodgers, is nevertheless turning to a veteran for tonight's opening game of the National League Championship Series against the Philadelphia Phillies.

With 300-game winner Steve Carlton starting for the East Division champion Phillies against the Dodgers' Jerry Reuss, Lasorda said he would use veteran Derrel Thomas in the outfield for L.A. Mike Marshall, the Dodger right fielder virtually all season, shifts to first base and

Thomas, a 32-year-old handyman, batted .249 in 118 games this season. Brock got off to a fast start, then struggled in the second half of the season and batted only .224.

But Lasorda doesn't want the move misunderstood. He is excited about this West Division title, won in a year when the Dodgers were supposed to be rebuilding.

"The headline in the paper the other day said it all," he said. "They were boys in April. They are men in October."

"We're proud of this year's accomplishments. We stayed with the kids. At times, it was a battle. I looked up one day in Atlanta and we had seven guys in the lineup who were kids. I told our coaches in spring training that we'd have to do a lot of teaching this year and be more patient because of the limited experience."

Gone from the Dodgers this year were fixtures like third baseman Ron Cey and first baseman Steve Garvey. Pedro Guerrero was shifted from right field to third base and Marshall inherited his old outfield post. Brock took over at first base. The continuing off-the-field problems of reliever Steve Howe turned into a season-long dilemma. It was not a simple season for the manager. "This game drives some managers to drink," Lasorda noted. "This year drove me to quit."

Despite the difficult summer, the Dodgers had one soft touch all season long. That was the Phillies, who lost 11 of 12 games to Los Angeles.

"It wasn't only the Dodgers," said Pete Rose, who will return to first base for the Phillies in this series. "We played bad against all the West clubs. We had the worst record in our division against the West teams."

The Phils were 30-42 against the West, 4-14 on their two tours of California and 0-6 in Dodger Stadium. Third baseman Mike Schmidt, who led the major leagues in home runs for the sixth time, slamming 40, says all the losses mean nothing now.

"It's pride and professionalism," he said. "This is the League Championship Series. What happened before doesn't matter now."

This is the third time in the last seven years that Los Angeles and Philadelphia have been paired in the playoffs. The Dodgers prevailed in four games in both 1977 and 1978, moving on to lose the World Series each time against the New York Yankees. Philadelphia won the East and, eventually, the World Series in 1980 and the Dodgers captured the West and the Series in '81.

White Sox clash with Orioles Wednesday

By JOE MOOSHL
AP Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — "Happy Birthday, Tony. What would you like?"

"A three-game sweep, thank you."

Tony LaRussa, manager of the Chicago White Sox, celebrated his 39th birthday today but the present he wants most is the American League pennant.

To get it, his high-riding White Sox have to eliminate the Baltimore Orioles in their best-of-five American League Championship Series, which opens Wednesday afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

Game No. 2 will be played Thursday night before the series shifts to Chicago Friday night. If a fourth game is needed, it will be played Saturday afternoon, and game No. 5 is slated for Sunday night in Comiskey Park.

"On paper it looks like a great series," said LaRussa. "But I hope it turns lopsided and we win it in three."

Since the major leagues went to championship series format back in 1969, seldom have two teams appeared more evenly matched than the White Sox and the Orioles.

Pitching, defense and power are the ingredients needed for winning baseball games, and both teams have their share as indicated by their records.

The White Sox finished with the best record in baseball at 99-63 and Baltimore was only a shade behind at 98-64.

Topping the White Sox pitching staff are LaMarr Hoyt, 24-10; Richard Dotson, 22-7; and Floyd Bannister, 16-10. If LaRussa goes four deep, he will turn to Britt Burns, 10-11.

Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli has Scott McGregor, 18-7; Mike Boddicker, 16-8, and Mike Flanagan. If he has to go to No. 4, it could be Storm Davis, 13-7.

Davis is a "could be" because of a crick in his neck and if he's not ready, Altobelli indicated he might go to veteran Jim Palmer, 5-4, who recently pitched well against New York.

If there is a pitching edge beyond the starting rotation, it goes to the Orioles because of Tippy Martinez, who had a 9-3 record and 21 saves.

But LaRussa points out that the White Sox as a team had 48 saves, the second highest number in the league.

Dennis Lamp, who went into the bullpen shortly after the White Sox turned things around late in May, leads the team with 15 saves. Salome Barojas is next with 12.

Both clubs have power. Leading the White Sox brigade is rookie Ron Kittle, who hit 35 homers and drove in 100 runs. Designated hitter Greg Luzinski had 32 homers with 95 runs batted in, catcher Carlton Fisk was 26-86 and Harold Baines finished 20-99.

Eddie Murray led the Oriole power parade with 33 home runs and 111 RBI in addition to a healthy .306 average. Cal Ripken Jr. batted .318 with 27 homers and 102 RBI.

The Orioles also have home run production from Gary Roenicke with 19, Ken Singleton with 18 and John Lowenstein with 15.

The White Sox clinched their division with 14 games to go but did not let up and had an 11-3 record finishing the season. During the regular season the Orioles were 7-5 against the Sox.

College Poll

Cornhuskers still unanimous choice

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Alabama and North Carolina have replaced Arizona and Iowa as the main challengers to Nebraska and Texas in the Associated Press college football poll.

For the second week in a row, Nebraska is a unanimous choice as the nation's top team, while Texas is No. 2 for the third week in a row.

Following a 63-7 pasting of Syracuse that gave them a 5-0 record, during which they have outscored the opposition 289-56, the Nebraska Cornhuskers again received all 60 first-place votes and a perfect score of 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters in this week's AP poll. Texas, a 42-6 winner over Rice, received 58 second-place votes and two thirds for 1,138 points, the same total as last week.

However, Arizona and Iowa slipped from the 3-4 positions. Arizona, which blew a 26-3 lead and settled for a 33-33 tie with California, dropped from third place to 10th, while Iowa was shelled 33-0 by Illinois and skidded from fourth to 15th.

Meanwhile, Alabama jumped from sixth to third with 982 points following a 44-13 victory over Memphis State and North Carolina moved up from fifth to fourth with 981 points by defeating Georgia Tech 38-21. West Virginia, 5-0 for the first time since 1962, climbed from seventh to fifth with 943 points by defeating Pitt 24-21.

Ohio State, No. 8 last week, rose to sixth with 779 points by crushing Minnesota 69-18. Auburn vaulted from 10th to seventh with 761 points after shading Florida State 27-24 and knocking the Seminoles out of the Top Twenty.

Oklahoma went from ninth to eighth with 754 points by beating Kansas State 29-10. Florida shot from 12th to ninth with 687 points by trimming LSU 31-17 — the setback dropped the Tigers out of the rankings — and Arizona was 10th with 690 points.

The Second Ten consists of Georgia, Miami of Florida, Southern Methodist, Michigan, Iowa, Maryland and Washington tied for 16th, followed by Arizona State and two newcomers to the Top Twenty this year, Illinois and Brigham Young.

Last week, it was Georgia, Florida, SMU, Michigan, Miami, LSU, Florida State, Washington, Maryland and Arizona State.

Illinois moved into the Top Twenty by routing Iowa, while Brigham Young made the ratings with a 37-35 triumph over UCLA.

Schneider wins Celanese Ladies' golf tournament

Linnie Schneider won a sudden-death playoff from Sharon Crosier last weekend to capture the Pamcel Ladies Golf Championship held at the Celanese course.

Schneider and Crosier were tied at 168 after 36-holes of regulation play to send the match into sudden death.

Schneider won on the third playoff hole.

Low net honors were won by Joyce Epperson with a 134. Kathy Crawford was second with a 137.

Schneider recently teamed with Mackey Scott to win the first annual Celanese Ladies' Golf Open. Crosier had won the first-flight competition.

There were 13 entered in this year's tournament. Saturday—Closest to the pin: Joyce Epperson, No. 8; Longest Putt: Linnie Schneider, No. 9.

Sunday—Closest to the pin: Mary Jo Fineash; Longest Putt: Kathy Crawford.

Grandmother plans to win logging contest

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The world chain saw woodcutting championship is up for grabs this week, and contestants include 15 burly lumberjacks and one 46-year-old "lumberjill," the first woman to qualify for the competition.

Shirley Smith, a 130-pound grandmother from Albany, Ore., first hefted a 20-pound chain saw in competition two years ago, and her competitors then thought it was a joke.

But Wednesday's world championship is no joke to Mrs. Smith.

"I plan to win," she said Tuesday.

She'll compete with 15 male saw-wielders — who call her a "lumberjill" — for a total $10,500 in prize money in the sixth Homelite Tournament of Kings at the Charlotte Motor Speedway. Top prize is $6,000 for the six-event contest that tests speed, prowess and accuracy with a chain saw.

Other women compete in logging contests in the "Jack and Jill" category that features a man and a woman working two ends of a 6-foot crosscut saw.

But Mrs. Smith stands out as the only female in the chain saw category and has had dozens of first- and second-place finishes.

At 5-foot-6, Mrs. Smith will be dwarfed in Wednesday's contest by defending champ Roy Booth Sr. of LaGrande, Ore., a 6-foot, 210-pounder. Yet, she says, that shouldn't make a difference.

"The stance, the handling of the saw, balance, all that is more important than brute strength," she said. "Obviously, I lack some strength when I'm going up against men who weigh twice as much as I do. But I can hold my own against them."

Mrs. Smith qualified for the event with a Sept. 9 victory over her practice partner, Melvin Lemtz, in the power saw contest at the Lake States Logging Congress in Duluth, Minn.

She learned to use a chain saw in 1980 when brother Tom Bildeaux, also a champion logger, taught her basic logging techniques.

"We spent the winter cutting wood," Mrs. Smith said. "We cut wood every day, slice after slice after slice. He taught me everything he knew about running a chain saw."

She prepared for Wednesday's event by lifting weights, riding a bicycle and walking.

"The saws are powerful and heavy," she said, "and the contestants have to be fast and accurate."

Ron Smith will watch his wife compete.

News in brief

BOSTON (AP) — Starting Jan. 1, Massachusetts consumers whose new motor vehicles need repairs at least three times for the same problem will be entitled to comparable replacements or refunds from the makers.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis on Monday signed what state officials called the toughest of the "lemon laws" adopted by 19 states so far. The statute will allow owners of seriously defective cars, motorcycles and trucks to seek arbitration that will be binding on manufacturers.

The law also covers vehicles that are out of service for repairs a total of 15 business days within the first year or 15,000 miles.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Low numbers of male king crabs and a high number of barren female crabs off Kodiak and in Bristol Bay forced the state Fish and Game Department to cancel the 1983 king crab season in the two prime fishing grounds.

Record numbers of cod and halibut, which prey on crab larva and immature crabs, apparently caused the sharp decline in crab stocks, regional biologist Marty Eaton said.

The cancellations could cut the 1983-84 harvest of red king crab to just 4 million pounds, compared with 193.1 million pounds in 1980-81.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, an actor turned politician, admits "there is some truth" to allegations that movies and television often stereotype minorities.

In remarks Monday at a White House ceremony attended by minority business people, the president noted there are hundreds of thousands of minority business people in the nation.

"Why can't the casting directors more often assign parts as shop owners or business people to minorities?" he asked.

Reagan also criticized the House for not acting on his proposal to establish minority enterprise zones in neighborhoods with high unemployment. Under the plan, businesses would get federal tax incentives to locate in such neighborhoods.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Directors of the Public Broadcasting Service say they gave PBS president Lawrence K. Grossman a $125,000, interest-free home loan last year.

The loan "was an appropriate way to recognize and reward... (his) outstanding leadership and skillful direction of PBS over the preceding seven years," Dallen H. Oaks, the chairman of the PBS board and a state Supreme Court justice in Utah, said Monday.

Insurance agents admit tax scheme

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Three insurance agents face up to five years in prison each following their guilty pleas to tax evasion charges stemming from a complicated operation involving a company based in the Bahamas.

Donald T. McDevitt, 46, Michael A. Carr, 35, and Keith D. Kantor, 29, pleaded guilty Monday to charges of conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service.

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon set sentencing for Oct. 28. Each defendant also faces a possible fine of up to $10,000.

In return for their pleas, prosecutors dismissed five counts of mail fraud lodged against each man.

The three men conspired to cheat the government by "manufacturing false and fraudulent tax deductions" for themselves and others, according to a six-page synopsis of the case entered in court.

The government contended the three men used InterAmerican Indemnity Ltd., a Bahamian company primarily owned by McDevitt, to sell "consultation contracts" to third parties. The defendants kept 10 percent of the fees paid to InterAmerican, while the remaining 90 percent was returned to the third parties in the form of a "fake loan" from the company or a "shell bank" that the three men controlled, the government said. The money that was loaned back was not taxable.

The process produced bogus deductions to offset income, the government alleged.

"In essence, they were selling phony business consultation agreements," Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Eddins said.

The government said the consultation business was set up after the three men used part of their commissions from the Great National Life Insurance Co. in Dallas to pay for the life insurance policies that they sold to clients.

Great National paid the men a commission of 130 percent of the initial insurance payment.

Board approves closed reprieve hearings

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite the chairman's support of open meetings, the Board of Pardons and Paroles has voted unanimously to go behind closed doors to consider death row inmates' requests to delay executions.

In a 3-0 vote Monday, the board decided that state law requires closed sessions for the airing of parole record information. Under the new rule, the board will go into open session to vote on reprieve requests.

Chairman Ruben Torres told reporters he preferred open meetings, which "would eliminate all the criticism the board is receiving," but the law left no choice.

Staff attorney Charis Walker Jr., who recommended approval of the closed meeting rule, said, "I believe we would be violating the law if we opened these meetings to the public," Walker said.

The new rule was opposed by the Austin chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, which said the state's open meetings law bars such closed sessions. Walker said an attorney for the journalists group failed to say anything about three attorneys general opinions that make parole records confidential.

Board members met in private last December in the Charlie Brooks case. They later went into open session and voted against delaying Brooks' death. On Dec. 7, Brooks became the first inmate in the nation to be executed by injection.

Information that comes up at reprieve hearings is "not a matter of public business," Walker told the board. He also said, "It looks like we have a legal mess brewing."

Torres said the new rule could wind up in court. "The only way it may be resolved is for a court to decide the issue," he said.

Board members George Killinger and Connie Jackson joined Torres in voting for the rule. Reprieves of up to 90 days can be granted by the board.

Torres said the hearings include comments about "a lot of information I would rather not discuss."

Walker said the confidential information includes "interviews and counseling sessions between the board and inmates."

The board delayed action on a proposal to allow the family of the victim in capital cases to appear at reprieve hearings. Torres said he was concerned that such appearances could add much emotion, and little factual evidence.

Texas for Victims' Rights asked the board to give more consideration to families of murder victims.

Acting on a request from a death row inmate, the board decided to have reprieve request information translated into Spanish. In a letter to the board, Ignacio Cuevas, convicted of murder in a prison escape attempt, said he cannot read or write English.

Names in the News

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The red carpet was out at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts when Britain's Princess Margaret had lunch there during her unofficial visit to the United States.

Charles L. Reed Jr., president of the museum's board of trustees, greeted the princess at about noon Monday and led her up red-carpeted stairs to the museum's French gallery, where round tables for eight were set up.

The purpose of her visit was not disclosed.

The 53-year-old princess, the sister of Queen Elizabeth II, visited Washington over the weekend and had dinner Saturday night at the White House with President and Mrs. Reagan.

Reports have circulated that she is planning to wed British publisher Norman Lonsdale, but a spokesman at the British embassy in Washington and royal press officers in London have declined to comment.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former New York City Mayor John Lindsay says the jail sentence given his son, John Lindsay Jr., is being appealed on the grounds that it followed "a deliberate act of perjury" by a prosecution witness.

The younger Lindsay, 23, was sentenced Friday to six months in jail for selling cocaine in an undercover police officer. He pleaded guilty to criminal sale of a controlled substance.

In a statement Monday, the former mayor said a witness for the prosecution admitted lying to the grand jury to protect a fellow undercover police officer.

David Freundlich, chief of the racketeers bureau in the Suffolk District Attorney's office, on Long Island, says there was "absolutely no perjury involved in this case."

"There will be no investigation," he added. "This case is closed as far as we are concerned."

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — White House press secretary James Brady is headed for a down-home welcome when he returns for a five-day visit to this central Illinois town where he grew up.

The Centralia High School band will welcome Brady when he returns next Monday for his first visit since he was shot in the head during an assassination attempt on President Reagan in March 1981.

"Jim is thrilled to be coming home to Centralia — he can't wait," says his wife Sarah. The couple will be accompanied by their 4-year-old son Scott and a nurse.

Brady's mother, Dorothy, 76, said a police escort will bring Brady into town.

"He is so excited over it that I just hope everything goes all right," she said.

Brady, 43, is continuing therapy as he recovers from the shooting. Until now, his wife said, her husband's condition made it almost impossible for him to return home for a visit.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — On the shores of Lake Texoma, Gov. Mark White of Texas will pay off Thursday night on a bet made by his predecessor, Bill Clements, in 1982.

Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh disclosed Monday that White will pay off on a wager of a fish fry dinner almost a year after the University of Oklahoma Sooners defeated the University of Texas 28-22 in their annual football game in Dallas.

"I don't mind paying this bet off for Bill Clements," said White, who defeated Clements in the 1982 election.

"The fall of 1982 cost him more than a fish fry," Nigh said a twilight dinner on the shores of Lake Texoma, a 93,000-acre lake which separates the two states, will follow the private dinner on the Texas side of the lake.

The fish fry is sponsored by the 300-member Lake Texoma Association, a promotional organization comprised of both Texans and Oklahomans.

"We're not going to drag these wagers out so long in the future," said the governor of Texas. "In fact, the loser is going to have to pay off immediately. The sooner the better — and that's what this year's game will be, the Sooner vs the Better."

The Oklahoma chief executive said he's looking forward to this year's fish fry and anticipates another one at White's expense in 1984, based on the results of the upcoming 1983 game.

Said Nigh: "This is something I've really been looking forward to and forward to and forward to and..."

Silkwood case before high court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is considering whether to reinstate all or part of a $10 million award to the family of Karen Silkwood, a laboratory analyst who was exposed to plutonium in 1974 and died nine days later in a car crash.

The Silkwood case has become a rallying point for groups that are seeking tighter safety controls in the nuclear power industry.

The issue before the Supreme Court today is not likely to shed light on the circumstances surrounding her death, but may have far-reaching impact on the power of states to oversee negligence awards.

The court called for lawyers to present their case in 60 minutes of oral arguments and is expected to announce a decision during the 1983-84 term which began this week.

Miss Silkwood died at age 28 on Nov. 13, 1974 while on the way to meet with a newspaper reporter and a union official. She had promised them she would provide documentation of her charges that there were safety hazards at the Kerr-McGee Corp.'s Cimmaron plutonium plant near Crescent, Okla., where she worked.

A union activist, Miss Silkwood had been monitoring health and safety matters at the plant. She was contaminated with plutonium a week before she was to meet with the reporter and union official. The manner in which she became contaminated has been in dispute.

Her family sued Kerr-McGee for negligence, seeking damages for injuries she suffered from the exposure — primarily fear and anxiety.

A federal trial jury awarded $500,000 in actual damages and $10 million in punitive damages. But the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals threw out the $10 million portion in December 1981 by a 2-1 vote.

The appeals court said the federal government has exclusive jurisdiction to regulate radiation hazards in the nuclear industry and therefore has pre-empted any negligence award under Oklahoma state law.

The majority said, in effect, that negligence awards are a form of regulation, since they serve as a deterrent against shoddy or careless practices.

The dissenting judge disagreed, remarking that such a lawsuit is "a far cry from a regulatory system."

A number of state attorneys general urged the Supreme Court to review the ruling. They said the appeals court sanctioned federal intrusion into "the historic power of the states" to control their own negligence laws.

The justices relied on states' rights last April when it ruled in a California case that states may ban new nuclear plants until the federal government devises a safe method for disposing of radioactive waste.

In the Silkwood case, the 10th Circuit court also set aside the $500,000 portion of the jury award, but it sent that issue back to the trial court for further study.

Senator, preacher meet before clean-cut crowd

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Daniel couldn't have found a friendlier lion's den than Sen. Edward M. Kennedy encountered at Moral Majority leader Jerry Falwell's Liberty Baptist College.

When Kennedy, probably America's most recognizable liberal, accepted an invitation to speak to Falwell's apostles of the New Right, people in both camps expected at least a minor earthquake Monday night in the Shenandoah Valley.

Not even a tremor. Instead, a full house of about 4,000 students and 1,500 townspeople saw an outspoken guest lecturer defend positions they regarded as wrong-headed if not sinful — and they applauded.

"I was surprised at the applause," said Barbara Sharp, a student from Ohio, "especially when he talked about things like the Equal Rights Amendment and the nuclear freeze. But what I was proud of was how politely our student body behaved."

That also surprised at least one aide to the Democrat from Massachusetts.

"We were expecting some pretty hostile questions on things like abortion, gay rights, issues we consider peripheral," said Kennedy staffer Bob Shrum. "But they stuck to things of more substance, the nuclear freeze, MX missiles, the United Nations."

The pleasant evening began before the speech, when Kennedy and his party dined at the Falwell's lovely old home in the mountains.

They had cheese and crackers at poolside on a soft Indian summer evening, these two adversaries, then moved indoors for beef Wellington, asparagus, potatoes and strawberry pie. Falwell said grace. The drinks were iced tea and coffee. There were no ashtrays in evidence.

When it came time for the speechmaking, the students stood and clapped when Kennedy entered the hall, a cavernous building used mostly for chapel services. They clapped for the senator's sister, Jean Smith, and his daughter, Kara, when they were introduced and clapped politely, at times enthusiastically, a dozen times during his address.

They were a fresh-looking, well-scrubbed audience, wearing sweaters and skirts and jackets and ties. Beards and jeans were scarce. They listened attentively, even studiously.

They applauded him again at a reception after the speech, discussing the night's events over chocolate cake and fruit punch.

Before leaving, Kennedy presented Mrs. Falwell with a signed copy of his mother's book and gave the pastor a boxed

Exhaustion hitting free enterprise

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A competitive market can be great for consumers but cruel for producers, who sometimes get into fights so savage they forget what it's all about and succumb to exhaustion.

"A market is identified as promising, the gates of financing are opened and there is almost instant overbuilding," says Charles Wingo of Lomas & Nettleton, which calls itself the nation's biggest mortgage lender.

Wingo, spoke recently about the construction of rental real estate, a business that every four or five years leaves its dead, dying and bankrupt in the cellars of uncompleted projects.

But he could have been talking about several other basic industries — of airlines, computer manufacturing, banking or farming — all of which have companies that are involved in life-death struggles.

Major airlines, such as Western, have sought and won wage concessions from employees in order to survive. Failing to obtain concessions, Continental Airlines has sought protection to reorganize under the federal bankruptcy law.

Others could follow. Eastern, said it may seek similar protection if its workers turn down a request to cut their incomes by 15 percent. Many others are feeling the stress of costs.

Deregulation of the industry, which has permitted newer, smaller airlines — many of them with relatively small payrolls — to pick off some of the more lucrative routes, is frequently given as a major reason for the problems.

The impact of deregulation is now at work in banking also, as you can determine from the signs in the window of your local savings institution. Freed to offer rates of their own choosing on certificates of deposit, rather than rates dictated by regulators, banks have been thrown into competition that could produce stress or even failure on some of them.

Although the deregulation of CD rates has only begun, many banks are offering bonuses to those who open new accounts, some have installed hotlines on which collect calls can be placed, and almost all have raised savings rates.

Already, a record-high 597 banks are on the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. "problem" list, meaning they have serious difficulties that demand close supervision, and the higher costs of deregulation could worsen
