

Suspect tells tale of drugs, death and payoffs

BY JEFF LANGLEY
Senior Staff Writer

LIPSCOMB — Berserk killers and dope dealers in Western Oklahoma, aided by corrupt law officers on the take, traffic in drugs and kill anyone who tries to stop them, according to the court testimony of a confessed killer.

A drug syndicate headquartered in Beckham County, Okla., is responsible for as many as 43 recent murders there—and it has paid off local law enforcement officers to protect the drug-ring members from arrest and prosecution, according to the confessed killer and drug dealer who testified here Tuesday during his trial for murder.

Michael Anderson, 26, of Wheeler County, said a member of the crime organization known as "The Family" ordered him to kill Robert Eugene Hall, 28, of Sayre, Okla. Anderson admits killing Hall by shooting him four times in the back of the head with a .45-caliber, automatic handgun.

Anderson testified Tuesday in a defense effort to prove Hall's shooting death was committed under duress, that Anderson had good reason to fear "imminent death or serious bodily injury" to him and his family if he did not follow the alleged order to kill the victim.

Final arguments began this morning at 9 a.m. in Anderson's trial for Hall's death last February 19. Defense lawyer Harold Comer of Pampa has told the nine-woman, three-man jury that they must acquit Anderson should jurors decide Anderson was compelled to kill by a threat of death. The suspect testified he couldn't ask Oklahoma authorities for help because many officers there are on the payroll of the drug syndicate.

The defense rested its case at 10:43 a.m. Tuesday after calling four witnesses.

Jurors were sent home and court adjourned for the day before noon Tuesday so that lawyers could research the law raised by the unusual defense in preparation for the final arguments today.

Anderson testified "The Family" is an Oklahoma-based crime syndicate that controls the manufacture and distribution of drugs and is involved in gun running and prostitution.

The suspect, who said he started taking drugs at age 12 and worked up to a $2,000-per-month "speed" habit, said he became associated with "The Family" through his drug use. However, he denied being an actual member of the syndicate.

"I was never in 'The Family,'" said Anderson told District Attorney Guy Hardin Tuesday.

The suspect said it was a member of the syndicate he identified as Mark Hughes, who told him to kill both Robert and Donna Hall. Anderson said the crime organization wanted the Halls dead, as it feared the couple would testify against another member of "The Family," identified in testimony as David "Two Ton" Staggs, of Elk City, Okla. Staggs was in custody in Oklahoma on drug and assault charges at the time of Robert Hall's murder, but he was later acquitted.

Wheeler Deputy Lonnie Miller, who testified as a state's witness Monday, was recalled by the defense Tuesday. Miller testified that after Anderson was arrested and returned from Lake Charles, La., the suspect told him about threats made by the drug syndicate. He said Anderson later wore a bullet-proof vest and rode on the floorboard of the deputy's car during transport to hearings in connection with the murder charge. The deputy said Anderson told him some Beckham County law officers work to protect "The Family."

"He said when he (Anderson) was in business (selling drugs) they would take care of (pay off) officers in Beckham County. He gave names, but nothing specific," Miller said.

On cross-examination by Hardin, the deputy said he tried to locate Mark Hughes, but still doesn't know whether the man even exists. (An officer with the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, Charlie Wellman, who was at the Lipscomb trial Tuesday, told The Pampa News the bureau knows of a Mark Hughes, a man from the Beaver, Okla., area.)

Hardin also brought out through Miller's testimony that Oklahoma authorities have refused to cooperate in the prosecution of Hall's death. The deputy agreed in testimony that the court clerk in Beckham County refused

MURDER DEFENDANT—Michael Anderson drops his head as he is escorted from the Lipscomb County courthouse during a recess in his trial. He is charged with murder in the death of Robert Eugene Hall of Sayre, Okla. Anderson has claimed he killed Hall under orders from members of an Oklahoma drug syndicate, who threatened to kill his family if he didn't comply.

Jury deliberates Anderson's fate

LIPSCOMB—A Lipscomb County jury started deliberating the fate of murder defendant Michael Anderson of Wheeler County after hearing closing arguments Wednesday morning.

The case went to the jurors at 10:34 a.m. after they heard the defendant described as an unwilling instrument of death by the defense attorney and an admitted killer by the district attorney.

Anderson's attorney Harold Comer of Pampa maintains that his client killed Robert Eugene Hall of Sayre, Okla., because of a death threat against Anderson's family and should be acquitted because he acted under duress.

In his charge to jurors, District Judge Granger Milhaney said the defense of duress, or compulsion to commit a crime, is an affirmative defense and the jurors must acquit a suspect if they decide he was compelled in his act by the threat of death to himself or others.

However, the judge told jurors acquittal was possible only if the defendant had not placed himself in those circumstances by his own reckless conduct and only if the compulsion was such that a reasonable person could not withstand it.

The defense has contended that Anderson killed Hall because of a threat to his mother by "The Family," an Oklahoma drug syndicate.

"Michael Anderson was an unwilling instrument of death. He was an extension of a gun, put into his hands by this group (The Family). The group put the gun in his hand and the group pulled the trigger," Comer said in his closing arguments.

The defense attorney argued that the law requires jurors to acquit Anderson because his action in killing Robert Hall was "compelled by the threat of imminent death or serious bodily injury to himself or another."

District Attorney Guy Hardin, in his closing argument, reminded jurors that Anderson testified he had been told to kill both Robert and Donna Hall because of the threat against his parents.

"If he was so afraid my parents would get killed, then why did he let Donna live," Hardin asked.

"He didn't say he was pressured to kill until he found out about this defense (duress)," Hardin maintained.

The district attorney also argued that the duress defense is designed only in instances where there is a clear and immediate danger, such as in kidnapping case.

"There was testimony that Mr. Hall may not have been the kind of person you would want living next door," Hardin said. "His wife testified that she peddled dope, but he had as much right to live as that man right there," he added, pointing to Anderson.

Southeast Texas crime spree

Trooper, four others killed

HEMPSTEAD, Texas (AP) — A lone gunman was arrested after a 5½-hour crime spree across Southeast Texas that left a state trooper and four other people dead, a woman critically wounded, and six hostages released unharmed.

Department of Public Safety spokesman Larry Todd said Tuesday night authorities believe the same man was responsible for all of the shootings and the two kidnappings.

Law enforcement authorities said the man killed two people in College Station at about 6 p.m. CDT Tuesday, stole a car and drove to Hempstead, about 40 miles south, where he gunned down a DPS officer who stopped him at about 6:50 p.m.

The man then drove to a truck stop and stole another car, a Waller County sheriff's spokesman said. He killed two people and critically wounded a 70-year-old woman at a home in Hempstead, drove 16 blocks south and abducted a couple and their three young children, stole their car, then released the family and abandoned the vehicle in Pasadena.

In Pasadena, southeast of Houston, the man abducted a maintenance worker at an apartment complex and took his vehicle. The man was arrested at about 11:30 p.m. at a highway roadblock southwest of Houston near Wharton, sheriff's officials said.

The man, Eliseo Hernandez Moreno, 24, of Bryan, was taken before Justice of the Peace Frank Shannon in Wharton and ordered held without bond on a capital murder charge in the death of the trooper.

College Station authorities identified the dead there as Juan Garza Jr., 30, a mailman, and his wife, Esther, 31. Neighbors said the couple's two children, Jessica, 6, and Johnny, 1, ran from a neighbor's apartment when the shootings started.

The highway patrolman, Russell Lynn Boyd, 25, of Hempstead, was shot to death along Texas Highway 6 near Cedar Creek when he stopped a car believed to have been driven by the suspect for a traffic violation, said Todd.

"He had not started to write the ticket when the shot was fired," said Waller County deputy sheriff H. Lester.

Todd said Boyd joined the DPS on Oct. 8, 1982.

Hempstead Police Chief Randy Johnson said he had talked to Boyd a short time before he was killed.

"Thirty minutes before it happened, we were talking on the radio about going deer hunting," said Johnson. "He said, 'I'll bring the ammo.' That's what he said."

Dr. W.D. Baily at Memorial Hospital here identified the two dead in Hempstead as James Bennett and Allie Wilkens. Their ages were not available.

Baily said Bennett was the husband of 70-year-old Ann Bennett. She was listed in critical but stable condition at Houston's Hermann Hospital where she was taken by LifeFlight helicopter.

Waller County deputy sheriff Raymond Cook said the gunman kidnapped Billy Shirley Jr., his wife and three children from their home in Hempstead, stole their 1974 Oldsmobile and then released the family unharmed at a truck stop in Cypress, which is about halfway between Hempstead and Houston.

Shirley declined to talk to reporters as he and his wife were driven away from the Waller County sheriff's department by Shirley's parents.

"I'm tired. I'm upset. Please don't ask us no questions," Shirley said.

Probe continues in fatal crash

Pampa News Staff Report

The investigation of an airplane crash near Alanreed in which an Arizona man was killed is continuing.

Although an autopsy report has not been filed, Justice of the Peace R.C. Parker of McLean, who pronounced Michael Speshock, 56, of Chandler, Ariz., dead at the scene, said it looked as though "he had been there a good while." Parker and Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan speculate the crash occurred sometime Sunday.

Reportedly found at the site were "about four or five pounds of a green leafy substance" and some unidentified pills and needles. Parker said the unidentified substances are being sent to a laboratory in Lubbock for testing.

Jordan said he knows what the "green leafy substance" appears to be, but "something about it doesn't look right."

"We'll have to wait for the test results," he said.

Parker said the results of the tests will not make any real difference because the pilot is dead.

The wreckage was found by a repairman who was replacing lights on a KVII television microwave tower just west of Alanreed.

Although Ada Whatley of Pampa said she spotted what appeared to be an airplane matching the description of the downed craft, Parker said he doubted it was the same plane.

Whatley said the plane she saw about 3:10 Monday afternoon appeared to be flying very low over the hills and would disappear between the hills before coming back up into the sky. It looked as though the pilot was looking for something, she said.

She said the sun was reflecting off the silver colored plane with what appeared to be a blue stripe down the side.

The report filed by Department of Public Safety Trooper Ronnie Shanks said the Cessna 195 was painted silver over blue, with the numbers N3048B on it.

Whatley said the plane appeared to be over Alanreed when she saw fumes coming from it. The plane then disappeared below the crest of a hill and Whatley told The Pampa News she thought no more about it until she heard the news Tuesday morning.

The wreckage of the Cessna was found in a gully about three-fourths of a mile southwest of Alanreed about 7:30 p.m. Monday.

According to the report filed by trooper Shanks, only one person was in the plane.

The body was sent to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo where the autopsy was to be performed.

FAA and National Transportation Safety Board officials investigated the scene Monday afternoon. According to the offices in Lubbock and Fort Worth, the investigation is continuing.

The DPS report said a flight plan listing Amarillo as the destination was filed by Speshock Saturday in Sayre, Okla. According to the flight plan, he was to leave Sayre about 4 p.m. that same day.

An Alanreed resident said, "The fog has been so thick here since Saturday, we couldn't see the road from the restaurant." The Windi Inn Restaurant is on I-40 in Alanreed, about a mile from the crash site.

She said the wreckage probably would not have been found when it was, had it not been for the repairman who had to climb up onto the tower.

Dear Abby

Woman vows women can't be "given away"

DEAR ABBY: I am a 58-year-old woman. When I was a young girl, I attended a formal wedding and was greatly enraged when I heard the minister ask, "Who gives this woman . . . ?"

The question still arouses my anger, and I am amazed that more women are not insulted by this question — asked publicly yet!

Only the woman herself has the right to "give" herself to anyone, any time, for any reason.

I've finally begun to express defiantly my indignation when a bride-to-be tells me she is going to be "given away" by her father or stepfather. Of course, I am a "nut" to even suggest that a woman belongs to no one but herself, and is not an inanimate object to be "given away."

Thanks for listening.

MARGARET JONAS IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR MARGARET: The original marriage vows were written during Biblical times when a woman was considered "chattel" — a piece of property owned by her father. He had the right to "give" her to her husband, who then regarded her as his property.

However, in recent years, many couples have requested that that portion of the marriage ceremony be omitted for the reason you cited.

DEAR ABBY: I learned about a year ago that, even with corrective surgery, my chances for having a baby are practically non-existent. My husband, "Barry," never did really want children, and now he feels relieved. He refuses to adopt one.

Abby, having a child is very important to me. I tried for six years, but it just never happened. I was so depressed, I even considered leaving Barry to find a man who could love me and adopt a child with me. I felt that if Barry really loved me, he would want to have a child with me — one way or another.

Now I realize that I really do love Barry. I could never find a better man, Abby. I want to stay with him, but I still have these terrible feelings of resentment because he is depriving me of motherhood. (I want to adopt.) I try not to show it, but it hurts so much whenever I see children — especially when they are with a loving father. What can I do? Counseling is out.

back in if you value your marriage, because your obsession with motherhood and your unresolved resentment will surely drive your husband away.

DEAR ABBY: "No More Reunions" sounds like a sore-head. He accompanied his wife to her high school reunion, and because he didn't know anybody he got mad, skipped the banquet and sat in the lobby.

Last August I went with my wife to her 42nd high school reunion. I figured it was her class and her party. On my name tag I wrote "MR. Mary Smith" and just wandered around in the crowd.

The affair lasted two days, through three meals and two cocktail hours. I had a great time, talked with many people, didn't skip any of the events and didn't go sit in the lobby.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A FOOL IN LOVE IN PENSACOLA: When a man tells you he's breaking up with you because you are "too good" for him — believe him. He knows himself better than you do.

Here's a good cure for the goof-off goose

NORFOLK, Conn. (AP) - If you wonder whether you'll ever get your child to help around the house without having a pitched battle; if your child is going to do everything "tomorrow" - only tomorrow never comes - "Don't despair," says author and mother Jackie Reinach.

"Are you the parent of a Goof-Off Goose?" asks Ms. Reinach, who is co-author of a popular book series, in which Goof-Off Goose is one of the 26 sassy animal characters who inhabit the storybook town of Sweet Pickles.

"I'm sure Goof-Off Goose was created in memory of the many wars I fought with my kids on the battlegrounds of their messy rooms," she says of the character that is lovable but, oh, so lazy.

There are specific techniques parents can use to achieve desired behavior in their children, says Ms. Reinach, 53, mother of two grown sons who provided her with "on-the-job training."

Co-creator along with author-illustrator Richard Hefter and editor Ruth Lerner Perle of Sweet Pickles projects, she believes the two most valuable tools a parent can use are humor and lots of positive reinforcement - hugs, kisses and praise work wonders with even the sloppiest youngster, she says.

Ms. Reinach, who has a background in developmental psychology and many years' experience working with and writing for children, offers these suggestions for dealing with a resident Goof-Off Goose:

-Invent an imaginary character to use as a reference. For example, if your child's room looks like World War III, you can say, "Oh, I see Goof-Off Goose, (or Messy Max or Dirty Dan) has been here." You are thus labeling the behavior as unacceptable, not the child.

-Make it easy for the children to be organized. Assign specific places where items are to be placed, such as a toy chest, box or closet. Provide easily accessible closet space and drawers; clothes rods that are child height, or a stepstool to reach them; drawers that are easy to open, color-coded for tots, labeled for children old enough to read.

-Be specific about what you want done, and demonstrate how it should be accomplished. You're apt to have more success saying "Make the bed" or "Put your toys in the chest" than a general "Clean up this mess!"

-Make a schedule of chores that your child is expected to perform on a daily or weekly basis. A list leaves no room for misunderstandings. With more than one child, the chores can be rotated or assigned on the basis of age.

-Help your children take responsibility for their actions. Be sure they understand what is expected of them, then warn them of any consequences for not following the house rules.

-Help your children understand family cooperation. Remind them, "I'd love to take you out to play (or to the ballgame or to the movies or whatever), but I have to do the work you didn't do today."

Family therapy

New way to satisfy needs

A radically new and novel way of approaching human problems in these days of tension and stress is attracting widespread attention and substantial approval. It's called family therapy.

Family therapist are reported to take issue with the psychoanalytic tradition of delving into a patient's psychic world when it is clear to them that a more efficient way of arriving at change is to deal instead with ongoing personal behavior within the family.

Help a person change by altering the rules and interactions by which the whole family lives and the change, they claim, will not only be more enduring and thorough, but quicker to come by as well, reports the October issue of Town & Country.

"Problems are family-wide, not just in the individual," says Dr. Carl A.

Whitaker, professor emeritus of psychiatry at the University of Wisconsin.

"The family is the patient. Any symptom is part of the family system, and so to change a symptom, you must change the system."

Dr. Thomas E. Clark, president of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy, sees the new method as "a radically different and novel way of approaching human problems."

The consciousness revolution of the 1960s and 1970s brought an explosion of therapies, the magazine notes, all celebrating the isolated self and promising personal wholeness.

Encounter groups and the sexual revolution held out the lure of instant intimacy. Family therapists believe they might just hold the crucial clue in the search for new ways to satisfy old needs, for when truly successful their methods can help people achieve a balance between autonomy and belonging.

"In our view, the unit in human life with the most powerful dedication to growth is not the individual or the work group or the social group, but the family," says Dr. Whitaker.

How does one find a competent family therapist?

Consult people you already know and trust, the magazine suggests. Ask friends who have had similar therapy, or medical doctors, clergymen or teachers.

If that doesn't do the trick, check on whether a convenient city has a private family therapy institution.

There are several. The American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy, which is recognized by the U. S. Education Department as the accrediting body for graduate and post-graduate degree programs in family therapy; can supply names of member therapists. The association's address is 1717 K Street N.W., Washington, D.C., 20006. Their phone: (202) 429-1825.

Self health urged for the indulgent

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - "The American way of life may be hazardous to your health," says Jerid Fisher, a University of Rochester Medical Center psychologist and developer of a "self-health" program called SKYS - Stop Killing Yourself Slowly.

People have been led to give up responsibility for their own well-being, he says. Nine of the 10 leading causes of death in 1980 have now been replaced by diseases of stress and excess - such as heart attacks, strokes, and cirrhosis, says Fisher.

He urges attention to diet, exercise, and stress management and an immediate end to such "life-robbing" habits as smoking, excessive smoking, excessive drinking, and overeating.

Astro-Graph
by bernice bede osol

More travel for pleasurable purposes is likely this coming year. Contacts you make on your sojourns will prove helpful in other areas of your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In situations where you have charge over others, don't be heavy-handed or throw your weight around today. Stepping on toes will make enemies. Libra predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're not the type to be easily intimidated, but today you could be defeated by your own negative thoughts. Seek sunshine, not shadows. Seek sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your industrious intentions will go by the boards today if you become involved with friends who entice you into frivolous activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you hope to make your mark in the world today, chances are you'll have to do it on your own. Persons with clout aren't apt to assist you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Just because you made a mistake in the past, it doesn't necessarily follow you'll repeat it today. Yet, this fear may prevent you from trying.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Self-deception could be detrimental to you in business situations today. Don't kid yourself that you're dealing from strength where you are not.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Seek placid companions today, rather than dominating types. You'll not be in the mood to have others do your thinking for you or tell you what to do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against tendencies today to magnify the magnitude of your tasks. If you believe them to be difficult, they will be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid risky ventures today, especially those of a financial nature. Gambles that look good on the surface may lack real substance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Steering a middle course enhances your effectiveness in dealing with others today. If you take a strong position, they may be forced to do likewise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Kind words and gentle suggestions are musts in dealing with subordinates today. Look for ways to praise, not to haze, if you want good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your prudence in financial matters could desert you today. There's a chance you'll be wasteful or extravagant when you shouldn't.

Pampa spikers down Dumas to increase lead in loop race

DUMAS — Pampa increased its lead in the District 1-4A volleyball race Tuesday night with a 10-15, 15-8, 15-10 win over Dumas.

Some of our girls are hurt physically and we also weren't mentally ready to play. Hall said 5-5 junior Shaun Simmons and 5-6 junior Teresa Perkins helped hold the team together during the three tough games.

They came in and helped turn things around. Hall said. "It was a team win. It took all 12 of them to win the match, not just the usual six or seven."

"It's going to be a tough one," Hall said. "Everybody is out to knock us off. We're going to have to get ourselves up again like we did against Estacado."

"A fastball down the middle," noted Dwyer. He didn't see any more of those, he said. It was to be Denny's only major mistake and, on this night, he could afford only one.
