Warren Dedicates New Law Center

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 —UP—The nation is in a "world war of ideas" and as part of the contest must preserve man's right to learn, to disagree, and even to dissent from the majority opinion, Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the United States, said Thursday.

Warren spoke in Rockefeller Memorial chapel on the University of Chicago campus at the dedication of the new $2 million American Bar Center. His address was a highlight of the week-long convention of the American Bar Association.

"We are living in a world of ideas and are going through a world war of ideas," Warren said. "Everywhere there is a contest for the hearts and minds of people.

"Every political concept is under scrutiny. Our American system like all others is on trial both at home and abroad. The way it works; the manner in which it solves the problems of our day; the extent to which we maintain the spirit of our Constitution with its Bill of Rights, will in the long run do more to make it both secure and the object of adulation than the number of hydrogen bombs we stockpile."

Warren noted that the new center's site was contributed by and is near "one of the great universities of the world, where unfettered men and women pursue knowledge in every field to establish the truths that will keep us free."

Visiting Fireman In D. C.

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 —UP—What's new in Washington: A recent visitor to our town was Antonio Frascetti, an architect from Montevideo, who happens to be an honorary fireman's club member. He expressed a desire to do the town, particularly the fire houses.

His host took the gentleman straight to the head fire house where Frascetti watched the fire ladders slide down poles, couple the hoses and shoot sprays of water at a couple of fires. When he left, our guest had himself a card bearing his signature and calling him a "Washington Honorary Fire Chief." The visitor decided to go shopping. All of the many credentials he had, including passport, letters from the higher-ups of his city got him no place on credit.

A Magic Card

But when he flashed his "Honorary Fire Chief, D.C." it worked magic. He bought some new shorts. A few PJ's and a couple of sports shirts at this place and that. Later, he made the rounds and paid his bills.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has been kidded about his wide suspenders. In his latest newsletter he does a little kidding himself. He says:

"From the big pasture news at Grandfield, Oklahoma, I note this item: 'Two men who wear those broad suspenders are none other than Ned Seller and Robert S. Kerr, who is seeking re-election to the U. S. Senate. Ned says he wears 'em because they are comfortable. Don't know why Senator Kerr wears 'em unless he likes 'em.'"

Hold 'Parity' of Paris

The senator commented: "If my suspenders ever get as flexible in their support of my pants as the pygmy supports of farm products in the new farm bill, I will have to throw them away and get myself some safety pins."

Commie Outlaw Urged In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19 —UP—A Mexican political party has urged President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines' government to follow the lead of the United States Congress and outlaw the Communist party.

The Mexican Nationalist party (PNM) announced Wednesday night its "warmest" support of the U. S. congressional action and said Mexico should fight "Communist elements and their party in our fatherland."

"Facing with the choice of saving Western and Christian civilization or succumbing before the Soviet onslaught," the statement said, "our party supports...the measure taken by the United States against Kremlin agents."

A spokesman for the PNM said his party hoped "all sister republics in the continent will follow suit, as the destiny of our civilization is in danger in this crucial hour in which we live."

Rotarian Praises Optimists' Service To Pampa Youth

Travis Lively, Sr., guest speaker of the Pampa Optimist Club at its weekly meeting last night at the Schneider Hotel, praised the club for its activities in its first year of organization.

"I know of no other organization which has done so much to attract so many boys in such a short time as your kid baseball program," Lively said.

"Every worthwhile organization is based upon service to the community rather than benefit to its members," Lively continued. "Man is born with an instinct to 'own' and also a desire to serve." Lively, for 26 years a member of the

EX-PREMIER

has remained preoccupied until the end came early Thursday morning.

The modest, hard-working and untiring De Gasperi was a symbol of vigilant democracy that arrived in Italy through a Communist crisis created near the end of World War II. Foreign statesmen who worked with him rated his stature as equal to that of Sir Winston Churchill.

De Gasperi became premier in December, 1945 and held the country's first post until July 28, 1953, when the Italian chamber of deputies voted to give him a confidence vote and forced his resignation.

Fought for Christian Ideals

De Gasperi was a devout Roman Catholic and vigorous fighter for Christian ideals as leader of the Christian Democratic party.

He was born in Pieve Tesino, near Trento, on April 3, 1881, when that territory was part of Austria.

He was elected to the chamber of deputies in 1919 but walked out in 1924 in protest against the murder of Socialist Deputy Giacomo Matteotti by Benito Mussolini's Fascists.

Mussolini outlawed De Gasperi's Populist party, from which the Christian Democrat party grew, in 1925 and jailed De Gasperi the following year for anti-Fascist activities.

Following years of persecution by the Fascists, De Gasperi obtained a job in the Vatican library and remained there until 1943 when Mussolini was overthrown.

McMillen late this morning said that they would be available from Monday through Aug. 31. Beginning Sept. 1, however, they would be on first-come, first-served basis. If some of the estimated 1,800 persons who had season tickets last year do not want them this year, he said, "we've got a list of those who do." Season ducats will be sold for the entire 2,940 seating capacity in the west stands of Harvester Park. "If they can be," The price is $9 for a season ticket for one seat.

Those who do not want the same seats as last year and those who are buying season tickets for the first time can get them Sept. 1, McMillen said. Those purchasing general admission and reserved tickets for a specific home game can generally do so the Monday before the game.

Medal Of Honor Given To Texan Posthumously

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 —UP— With tears in their eyes, the parents of S. Sgt. Ambrosio Guillen Wednesday received the Medal of Honor on behalf of their young Marine son who heroically gave his life only two days before the cease-fire in Korea.

Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas presented the medal — the nation's highest award for heroism — to Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Guillen of El Paso, Tex., in a solemn ceremony at the Pentagon.

The elderly couple sat with bowed heads, wiping away their tears, as Thomas related how their 22-year-old son had heroically led his platoon in defense against a night attack by two Communist battalions and had refused to abandon his position despite mortal wounds.

Thomas praised the heroism and devotion shown by Guillen and expressed "a nation's gratitude and tribute for the life which your son gallantly gave in the cause of freedom."

At the end of the ceremony, the father — apologizing for his broken English — said there is "no way to tell what I feel in my heart... as long as the Lord gives me life I will never forget what you have done for us."

On the father's lapel hung the Good Conduct Medal won by his son in his five-year career in the Marine Corps. On Mrs. Guillen's dress was pinned the Purple Heart Medal won by her son.

Also present for the ceremony were Guillen's two brothers, Ramon and Jesus, and a sister, Guadalupe.

Oil, Chemical Unions Agree To Merger

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 —UP— Representatives of two CIO unions in the oil and chemical field have agreed on merger plans that would form one of the CIO's 10 largest organizations.

A proposed new constitution was drafted by rank-and-file committees representing the CIO Oil Workers and the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers.

The constitution, agreed upon Tuesday after 10 days of discussions, will be submitted to separate conventions of the two unions this fall. Later it will be considered by a combined convention on the merger question.

Richard Leonard, assistant to CIO President Walter P. Reuther, presided over the merger talks. Union officials said the details will not be announced until the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers convention at St. Louis Sept. 13.

Teen-Age Thugs Kill 'For Kicks'

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 —UP— Four burly teen-agers, with no outward show of emotion, confessed to police Tuesday night an orgy of crime that included the murder of two men, the horse-whipping of two girls and the savage beating of two homeless tramps.

They said they did it just for the "kick" they got out of it.

Police identified the four as Melvin Mittman, 17, Jerome Liberman, 17, Robert Trachtenberg, 15, and Jack Koslow, 15, all of Brooklyn. All were said to come from respectable families. Koslow, a former bank clerk, was described as highly intelligent.

Their series of wanton crimes began July 29, they said, and was directed mostly at homeless men who had sought refuge in Brooklyn parks.

"I have an abstract hatred and distaste for bums and vagrants," Koslow, described by police as leader of the group, was quoted as saying.

Suspect In 'Ride' Death Faces Charge

CONROE, Tex., Aug. 19 — UP—Sheriff Will Willette said Wednesday he expects to charge a 49-year-old lumber mill worker with the gangland-style "ride" murder of a Cleveland mechanic.

"I probably will file the charges later Wednesday," Willette said.

The suspect was arrested Monday night after Willette's men found his blood-smeared auto which Willette said "might be" the car in which M. D. Blackman, 41, was bludgeoned to death and from which his body was tossed into a roadside ditch last Friday night.

Willette said a bloody shirt and blanket also were found in the suspect's cabin and a piece of bloody wood, believed to have been the murder weapon, was traced to the mill where the man worked.

"We believe there was more than one person involved in the killing," Willette said. "We are looking for a woman who may throw some light on the case."

Another suspect, a 27-year-old oil field worker, was also held. Willette said he and the mill worker both were seen with Blackman the night he was killed.

Black, a husky 185-pounder who weighed only 125 pounds when he was released after three years from North Korean Camp 5, will be cited for "fortitude and inspiring devotion to duty and to principles of democracy in the highest tradition of military service."

His, said the Army, was a "determined and steadfast stand against Chinese Communists' attempt to indoctrinate" him. He "resisted all (Red) efforts to stir up racial differences" and was "severely punished and tortured for his outspoken defiance."

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Behind the Camera: The day of the big-name cast has arrived in Hollywood and I count the million-dollar schnozzles of Lauren Bacall, June Allyson, Van Heflin, Cornel Wilde, Arlene Dahl, Clifton Webb and Fred MacMurray on the set of "Woman's World" at Fox.

Director Jean Negulesco puts the stars through their paces time after time under the blazing CinemaScope lights against the backgrounds of a business tycoon's mansion.

At a break, Lauren Bacall goes over to the sidelines to talk to Humphrey Bogart and their young son, Steven, who are visiting the set.

"I know this is dull, dear," Lauren says to the boy, "but some day I'll do a movie with Roy Rogers or the Lone Ranger and you'll be proud of me."

The "Drum Beat" company has moved back to the Warner studio at Burbank from a location at the Coconino National Forest. "Drum Beat" is Alan Ladd's first independent movie and more than one of his fellow players, I'm told, have observed him looking around with an air of positive disbelief.

It's the same sound stage where Ladd worked as an ordinary day laborer before he was tapped for stardom.

A SHAPELY Peggy Ann Garner, back at the studio where she reigned as a moppet star, is playing a scene with Otto Kruger in Fox's "Black Widow." Director Nunnally Johnson calls "Action," and Peggy, as a small-town girl visiting her uncle in New York, begins her dialogue.

Between scenes I look over the set—an unpretentious bachelor apartment. A stack of letters on the mantel catches my eye. It's an it-could-only-happen-in-Hollywood item that Otto Kruger's apartment is littered with fan mail addressed to Marilyn Monroe.

The playback machine blares out the voices of Jose Ferrer and Rosemary Clooney as they do a song-and-dance number before a stage set at MGM for the Sigmond Romberg screen biography, "Deep in My Heart."

Rosemary was borrowed from Paramount to do the specialty with her husband and there are the usual number of set visitors who show up when a visiting star is on view. One of them, arriving just as Director Stanley Donen tells Jose to fall to his knees in front of Rosemary, mutters:

"Holy smoke, is Jose playing Toulouse-Lautrec again?"

IT'S LIKE Hollywood in the old days on the Universal-International back lot—as a vintage motorcycle and an ancient jalopy tear through a farmyard gate and a haystack for a comedy sequence in "Abbott and Costello Meet the Keystone Kops."

Because the action is extremely hazardous, a group of stuntmen who can take falls are pretending to be Hank Mann, Chester Conklin, Fatty Arbuckle, Ben Turpin and the immortal slapstick Joe Friday of the past.

Bud and Lou watch their doubles tumble from the tin Lizzy and prepare to take their places for the closeups under the supervision of Director Charles Lamont.

Early Life Sparked Curious Mixture That's Real Audrey

(Fourth of Five)
By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Audrey Hepburn's mysterious quality of being simultaneously down-to-earth and out-of-this-world may spring from her curious background. It would be difficult for anyone coming from such a background to be run of the mill.

To begin with, take her parents. Her father was a wealthy Anglo-Irish businessman, J. A. Hepburn-Ruston, with Fascistic tendencies—he was a member of the notorious British Blackshirts, led by Sir Oswald Mosley.

Her mother was the daughter of an important Dutch family—her grandfather, Baron Aernoud van Heemstra, had been governor of the Dutch colony of Surinam, and the family home had been the famous Castle of Doorn, where the German Kaiser spent his last days.

To complicate this mixture, the marriage was unhappy, and her parents were divorced, when she was 10. Even earlier, she had been leading a split life—winters at school in England, summers at her father's estate in Belgium, where she was born.

Then there was another complication, the war. It began when she was 10. She had been in England, in comparative safety, but, curiously, her mother took her to the family home in Holland. So, for six years, she lived under the Nazis, and her once-secure life tumbled and she learned the meaning of fear and hunger and other things that had been only words in books.

Out of all this came a girl who combines the old-worldliness of her mother's people with the gaiety of her father's Irish forebears; a girl who knows how to portray the joys of love and the sorrows of separation; a girl whose eyes mirror both the happiness and tragedy she has lived through.

It is not surprising that such a girl would be an unpredictable medley, and that she is. She can be all things to all people—and, it is nothing.

The turning point in her life came one day in 1940. She was 11, living in Amheim, Holland. The Sadler's Wells ballet troupe made one of its last appearances on the continent, and little Audrey Hepburn was in the audience. When the performance was over, she'd made up her mind. She was going to be a ballet dancer. It was as simple as that.

And so, while the war raged around her and an uncle and a cousin were shot by the Nazis and a brother hauled off to concentration camp, once a week the big-eyed child went to ballet class. She soon was accomplished enough to give little recitals of her dancing skill—recitals in basements and back rooms, with the pitifully small proceeds going to the Dutch underground.

There was more and more privation for the family. Food was scarce, and Audrey was thin to begin with. So it hit her hard, and she still has a weakness that doctors say began with her anemic condition and malnutrition. Even today, she can't work too hard too long. Even today, she has a passion for chocolate that dates back to her wartime hunger.

With the end of the war, ballet became her life. She studied rigorously, and her long legs grew more and more skilful, more and more shapely. Shapely enough, in fact, to land her a chorus girl spot in a London production of "High Button Shoes" after she moved back to England for ballet studies.

It was the lure of more money in the chorus line, than in ballet that took her to that addition. And from the chorus it was just a hop, skip and high kick to the other jobs—nightclubs, revues, small movie parts. In one of these, she played a bit part with Alec Guinness in "The Lavender Hill Mob." In another, she was shipped to Monte Carlo for location shots. There she was spotted by the French author, Colette. Colette's novel, "Gigi," had been made into a play by Anita Loos, and the fabulous Frenchwoman was looking for a girl to play the title role. One look at Audrey Hepburn and that was it.

In November, 1951, Audrey Hepburn was in New York and by December she was the coming actress of the year. Her name went up on the theater marquee. Nightly, the audience was full of talent scouts from Hollywood. Daily, the press carried her picture and stories about her. One play did it.

She doesn't know when she felt that the stage was more her metier than either the ballet or chorus line. But sometime during her days in England the stage bug bit her, and she began studying drama.

So she was ready when Colette spotted her.

(TOMORROW: What a difference a year makes.)

London-Bridge Romeo Back In America

QUEBEC CITY, Aug. 19—UP—Gene Thompson, a tempestuous Texan, sailed into Quebec Wednesday with the girl for whom he flew under the London bridge.

The 30-year-old Korean war veteran and blonde Helen Brown, 22, both of Lubbock, Tex., were passengers aboard the liner Atlantic from Britain where Thompson's stunt raised cockney eyebrows.

He spent what he said was his last $10 to rent a plane, then flew it between the uprights of Tower bridge and under the main span of London bridge "because I wanted to do something mad to show Helen how I felt about her."

One report said London bridge almost fell down as word of the Texan's self-admitted crazy flip in a strong wind reverberated through Britain and flashed across the world. But Thompson figured it didn't matter to a man in love. "I want to marry Helen, but Helen just couldn't make up her mind," he said before leaving London. Helen, meanwhile, appeared non-committal, although she appeared on affectionate terms with the former U. S. Air Force pilot when they boarded the boat.

On the way here the Atlantic stopped at LeHavre, France, where Thompson said he wouldn't take no for an answer. He told French newsmen who asked about his "affaire d'amour" that if Helen still refused to marry him by next year he'd go back to France and fly under the Eiffel Tower.

Tempt Family Appetite With Choice Of Chilled Meat Salads In Lettuce Cups

KNEADING THE DOUGH — is the way to make hot rolls that are smooth and fine. That is the tip given by Mrs. M. F. Hethcock, 1120 Buckler, who has been cooking for many a year.

Take your choice of tasty individual chilled meat salads served in lettuce cups. Here is the way to tempt summer appetites, says home economist Reba Staggs. This is the serving you'll want to especially remember for your summer buffet.

Two hearty main dish meat salad recipes are given below, but this is only a start. Your salad tray may be made up of as many meat salads as your imagination dictates. Cold roast beef, veal, pork, lamb or ham are grand for salads. Cut meat into matchlike strips or into cubes. They may be teamed with meats on your cupboard shelf such as chilled canned luncheon loaf, Vienna sausages or corned beef. Of course, there are the numerous ready-to-serve meats for your salad — "boiled" ham, salami in various forms, liver sausage, frankfurters, etc.

Freeze Fruits For Jams And Jellies

Maggie's Hot Rolls Are An Old-Fashioned Treat

By MARLEEN KALB
Pampa News Staff Writer

"Good old hot rolls just like grandmother used to bake" are not so common any more, and it's even a little difficult to find a recipe that will turn out with that "certain" taste.

Mrs. M. F. Hethcock, 1120 Buckler, has such a recipe and makes them just right. They're called Maggie's Light Rolls. Mrs. Hethcock is 76 years old and says emphatically that she has been cooking "Oh, all my life." She says that there have been very few days that she didn't cook three meals a day and wash dishes.

Mrs. Hethcock is the mother of four children and got plenty of practice cooking for her family. It will be 40 years this November since she was married. Up until this last year she always had the big Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, at which her hot rolls were a feature. Now she cooks for herself and son Emmett.

"Since there is just us, I don't make the rolls as much as I used to, but sometimes if I get hungry for them I'll make up a batch of the dough, put it in the ice box, and use as much as I want to at a time," says Mrs. Hethcock. This is the recipe for Maggie's Light Rolls:

- 7 cups flour
 - 2 tsp. salt
 - 3/4 cups sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 2 cups warm water
 - 1 1/2 cakes yeast
 - 3 lbs. melted lard
- And here is how she does them: Make a hole in the center of the flour in the bowl and pour in all the ingredients. Work them together until you have a stiff dough. For this process, Mrs. Hethcock recommends using the hands instead of a spoon. "Some people use a spoon, but seems like I get along better with my hands," she says. "That's the only real way to measure the stiffness of the dough." Mrs. Hethcock kneads her dough with smooth experienced motions. The kneading makes the bread smoother and finer.

Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover with a cloth, and put in a warm place to rise for about one hour. After one hour's rising, knead down to original size and let rise again. The second rising doesn't take as long. Mrs. Hethcock says that one rising can be sufficient. And sometimes when she is in a hurry that's all she al-

Tapioa Takes On New Taste Appeal

NEW YORK — UP — Tapioa, a school lunch hall "steady" for many years, takes on new taste appeal when prepared this way. Combine 4 tablespoons of quick-cooking tapioca, 3/4 cup sugar, a dash of salt and 2 1/2 cups of canned or bottled apple juice. Cook in a saucepan, stirring over medium heat until the mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat, cook and stir again after 15 minutes. Cover and chill.

New York state, with 89,183, suffered the most casualties in World War II.

Immigration to the United States reached its peak between 1905 and 1914.

All the hard-surfaced roads in the United States of 1900 would not have reached from New York to Boston.

COOLING "DAIRY DELIGHT"

At last—a cooling "dairy cocktail" is on the menu! For those days when the thermometer tempts adults in the family to eat lightly and sip a satisfying chilled tonic, this recipe for a milk punch is apt to be just what father orders—nourishing and liquid.

Minnesota's Swedish communities are responsible for this taste-leaser, which is actually an old-timer known as the "Olson Milk Punch." We can thank the dairy industry and the makers of Old Crow who have revived this mixture of milk and honey and bourbon, which has summer-drink appeal and food-value as well.

Easy for mothers, too . . . to get the young fry to drink their milk (straight, of course!) when they see the older members of the family with the "dairy delight."

For a serving for two, mix a pint of milk, two jiggers of Old Crow bourbon, and two teaspoonsful of honey. Shake with cracked ice; strain into chilled tumblers, and garnish with grated nutmeg.

Accused Reds Can't Get Lawyers To Defend Them

DENVER, Aug. 19—UP—Seven Communists accused of plotting the overthrow of the government received bond reductions Wednesday, and will not be arraigned until Sept. 1 because they can't find a lawyer to defend them.

They argued all day before Federal Judge Jean Breitenstein for lower bonds, which U. S. District Attorney Donald E. Kelley opposed on the ground that they were chronic drifters addicted to alcohol.

Judge Breitenstein originally set bond for Arthur Bary, 42, whom the FBI calls an "outstanding" underground Communist leader, for his wife, Ann, 29, for Louis Martin Johnson, 34, and Harold Zepelin, 28, at $40,000 each. Mrs. Patricia Julia Blau, 42, of Los Angeles—the only one arrested outside Colorado in the Aug. 1 and 2 roundup—and Joseph and Mais Scherres were given $20,000 bonds.

This was scaled down to $30,000 for Bary, $28,000 for his wife, $15,000 for Johnson and Zepelin, $10,000 for Mrs. Blau and $5,000 each for the Scherres couple. Judge Breitenstein said the Scherres were the only ones who could establish that they had a permanent residence, at Pueblo, Colo., and were gainfully employed.

Attorney Stuel Menin represented the seven in the bond hearing, but said his health would not permit him to defend them through what is expected to be a drawn-out trial. His bond reduction motion said Bary and Johnson were in ill health and that the other five were suffering irreparable property loss while in the Denver city jail.

Menin said Bary had lung trouble, and the portly, balding Red testified irately that he was getting bad food, sleeping on a lumpy bed and being permitted no exercise in the city lockup.

Johnson has an "arthritic condition associated with a skin disorder," the attorney argued, and said his appearance will suffer because of mutilation of the skin by red and scaly patches and falling scales "unless the price of his freedom was reduced."

A federal grand jury has indicted the seven under the Smith Act, charging that they conspired at several meetings in Colorado during the past three years to overthrow the government by force.
