Reds Offer To Trade GIs For Seat In UN

15 Captured Fliers Political Prisoners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 -UP- A defense official said Friday the Chinese Reds are demanding a seat in the United Nations as their price for the release of 15 U. S. Air Force fliers being held as "political prisoners."

The official disclosed that negotiations have been conducted through "third parties" during the past year for the release of the airmen and other Americans being held by the Reds. He said the Communist position, in effect, has been: "Admit us to the United Nations and we will release the men."

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles repeatedly have voiced this country's opposition to seating the Reds in the world organization. The United States has refused diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Reds may be holding a few more American Korean war prisoners in addition to the 15 unrepatriated airmen.

Of 526 missing Americans still unaccounted for by the Communists, evidence has been received indicating a "very, very small number" may still be alive and in the hands of the Communists. The evidence has been in the form of letters, Red propaganda broadcasts and intelligence information.

Defense officials declined to give any precise figure on how many Americans may still be in Communist hands. They are convinced that most of the 526 Americans once believed in Communist captivity are now dead.

EDC Crisis Break Sought By Belgium

BRUSSELS, Aug. 20 -UP- Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak in a dramatic 11th hour move to break the deadlock between France and her allies, Friday put forward his own compromise plan to save the European army plan.

Spaak introduced his compromise formula during Friday's three-and-one-half hour conference session of the six nations which hope to form a unified continental defense force.

The project has been threatened with collapse by French insistence on crippling restrictions unacceptable to the other five nations of the European community.

The ministers and heads of state attending the conference recessed to study the new proposal.

Its contents were not immediately disclosed. But informed sources believed Spaak had offered a modification of the controversial plan brought to Brussels by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Spaak, these sources said, sought to find a way to satisfy French fears of German rearmament without imposing restrictions on German elements of the proposed defense force which West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has branded "discriminatory."

During the afternoon intermission, Fred Alger, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, called at the French embassy to confer with Mendes-France. The purpose of the call was not announced, but it underscored the close interest of the United States in the critical conference.

At Spaak's suggestion, a committee of experts was assigned to go over the controversial French plan item by item. They were told to separate items which could be regarded as "merely matters of interpretation" from those which are "matters of substance" on which there is basic disagreement.

Mr. Eisenhower said the United States has poured more than $6 billion into West Europe for fighting equipment since 1949. This has helped to provide a better defense now than at any time since the end of World War II, he said.

The President also deplored French and Italian reluctance to ratify the European Defense Community treaty. He said "the latter deficiency constituted the most serious single obstacle to an adequate European defense posture."

The President made the statements in a report to Congress on operations of the U. S. foreign aid program during the first six months of this year.

His criticism of the French and Italian stand came as the six EDC nations met at Brussels to act on the treaty. French Premier Pierre Mendes-France urged the other five nations to water down the plan but they rejected his proposal.

France has balked at the European army plan mainly because of fear of a revived German army. Italy, with both left and right wing parties critical of EDC, has not had a strong enough government so far to ratify the plan which would rearm Germany as part of a six-nation army.

Iron Curtain Churchman Praises Ike

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 20 -UP- An "Iron Curtain" delegate to the second World Council of Churches joined other leading churchmen in praising President Eisenhower's call for prayers for peace.

The delegate, Dr. Joseph L. Hromadka of Prague, Czechoslovakia, said Thursday night that Mr. Eisenhower's speech to the council Thursday "underscored that we have come together to find a lasting peace."

Mr. Eisenhower, climaxing a flying speech-making tour through Illinois, asked the council delegates to invite every person in the world to join in a "mighty, simultaneous, intense act of faith."

"If this mass dedication launched an unending campaign for prayer, I am certain wondrous results would ensue," he said.

The only questioning of Mr. Eisenhower's proposal came from one of the council's most distinguished delegates, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey F. Fisher, spiritual head of the Anglican Church.

Exclusive Interview Senseless Murders Shock New Yorkers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The nation's largest city has been battling teenage crime for a long time. Teenage gangs and murders have become commonplace. Most of the young hoodlums come from the slums. Robbery is the usual motive. But this week New York was shocked by a crime entirely different. Four teenagers confessed they murdered, beat and burned just for "thrills." All were above average in intelligence. In the following exclusive interview, the parents of the ringleader go back over their son's childhood to try and find why he suddenly changed from a "difficult" boy into a murderer.)

They had agreed to meet an interviewer after two days of silence. "We gave him everything," Mrs. Koslow sobbed.

"How can we talk about it... who could understand that Jack was a good boy," her husband said bitterly. He clutched a newspaper in one flat that described new developments in the incredibly fiendish series of beatings, torture and murder that the four teenagers (See MURDERS, Page 2)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20 -UP- Comedian Jerry Lewis failed to show up for his opening at City's nightclub Thursday night and his agent reported that he had been ordered to bed with pneumonia.

Cross Fired During Rally

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 20 -UP- An aerial bomb exploded and a cross was set on fire Thursday night during a political rally at which gubernatorial candidate Ralph W. Yarborough later spoke.

The incident occurred during a preliminary speech by Ed Idar, executive secretary of the GI Forum, an organization of Latin American war veterans.

Police quickly put out the burning cross, some 50 yards behind the speakers platform in the plaza near the Laredo business district. Women in nearby cars said some "older youths" were nearby before the bomb was set off.

Congressmen Hope To Quit By Nightfall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 -UP- Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) reported to President Eisenhower Friday that he had "high hopes" Congress will finish its work by nightfall.

Main barrier to adjournment by Friday night is a deadlock over the administration's "must" social security bill. Leaders of the House and Senate appeared confident a formula would be found to solve differences.

Knowland breakfasted with Mr. Eisenhower Friday morning at the White House and gave the chief executive a "farewell fill-in" on the legislative situation.

Afterwards, he told reporters he thought the legislative record represented "an excellent batting average on passage of key parts of the President's program."

Outlook Hopeful The outlook for a solution of the social security dispute was hopeful. Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.), chairman of Senate conferees on the social security measure, told reporters he believed the dispute could be ironed out Friday.

The conferees met Friday morning and there was a general feeling differences would be resolved.

Four Pampa women were making the rounds today for the Pampa community United Fund, visiting business and industrial concerns to get the names of employees to be solicited for the 1954 drive.

They are Mrs. Don Pumphrey, Mrs. W. L. Boosa, Mrs. Martin Ludeman and a Mrs. Bailey, according to Mrs. Emmet Gee, Fund associate.

The job will take the rest of this week and a good part of next week. Mrs. Gee said late this morning. When a master list of all the city's employees is compiled, cards will be made from it and sent out. There is no residential solicitation.

Drive is set for Oct. 5 with the advance drive coming Sept. 25.

7,000 At Opening Of Perryton Fair

PERRYTON - Well over 7,000 people attended the opening day of the North Plains Fair Thursday, and some 700 delighted spectators saw Miss Phyllis Vernon, 16-year-old Perryton High School senior, win the "Miss Perryton" coner schoolmates, Miss Barbara Powell. Both girls will take part in the "Miss Wheatheart of the Nation" contest Saturday.

Miss Powell, popular high school junior and member of the debating team, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Powell. The winner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Vernon.

Ralph Thomas, county agent, who is agricultural and horticultural judge at the fair said, "the number of exhibits is considerably higher than last year."

"In 1953 it took me an hour and a half to judge all the agriculture and horticulture entries. But this year, even with the assistance of Ray Sigmund, Wheeler county agent, it took six hours."

Not to be outdone were three Gray county 4-Hers who walked away with top county honors, in the land judging contest. Davis Miller, a member of the Gray County team took top individual honors. In second place was Michael Price. The other member (See PERRYTON, Page 2)

Eisenhower Gets Legal Red Weapons

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 -UP- Congress has voted to arm President Eisenhower with most of the legal weapons he sought to strike at communism at home and to protect the nation from spies and saboteurs.

But one of his key proposals - the use of wire-tap evidence against spies and traitors - is dead for this year at least.

Mr. Eisenhower was scheduled to sign Friday afternoon the first of the half dozen Communist control bills the Senate and House have piled on his desk during the drive for adjournment.

It would compel witnesses before congressional committees and federal courts to testify against traitors, saboteurs and spies by granting them immunity from prosecution for any statement that might be self-incriminating. Those granted immunity would be subject to contempt prosecution if they refused to talk.

This measure is aimed at balky witnesses who invoke the Fifth Amendment in refusing to testify.

One of the other bills on the President's desk was an "extra" that Congress tacked on the anti-subversive program in some of the most torrid debate at the tag end of the session.

Hailed by both sides as a bill to "outlaw" the party, it would strip the party of all its legal rights and deny government bargaining services to unions and business groups which are "Communist infiltrated."

The Democrats had written in a provision that would have made party membership a crime and imposed heavy fines and jail terms on anyone who "willfully or knowingly" became or remained a party member.

What Do You Think of Outlawing The Communist Party?

By T. D. ELLES News Quizzing Cameraman

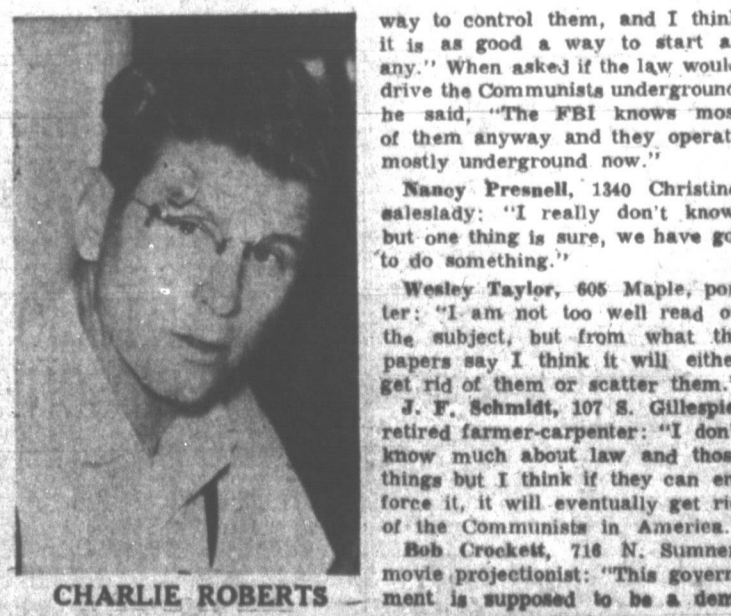

"What do you think about Congress passing a law outlawing the Communist party?" was the question asked 10 Pampans this week in the first of a series of "Question-of-the-Week" articles by the Pampa News Quizzing Cameraman.

Seven persons believed that the law is a good thing; one objected to it and two refused to comment.

The opinions of eight Pampans are as follows:

W. R. (Bill) O'Neal, 435 N. Sumner, electrician: "I think the law is good if it doesn't drive the Communists underground. I am sure that if something isn't done the first thing you know they are going to take over this country."

let them go to Russia where the doctrine abounds. At present I wouldn't know how to fight Communism if confronted with the problem."

Communism as defined by Webster's International Dictionary: "Any theory or system of social organization involving common ownership of the agents of production, and some approach to equal distribution of the products of industry. A system of social organization in which goods are held in common."

Public opinion is a very important issue as far as mankind is concerned and the Pampa Daily News has undertaken to try and find out what Mr. and Mrs. Pampa are thinking on various issues.

Next Friday, the Quizzing Cameraman will be back with another question of general interest in the Pampa Daily News.

Solons Term Drouth Aid 'Penny Ante'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 —UP— Farm state Democratic senators renewed charges Thursday that the administration's drouth relief program is "penny ante" and "grossly inadequate."

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) charged that "the present drouth relief program is very much like giving a man four shots of penicillin when he needs five."

"It is also impossible to avoid the feeling that those in charge of the program are more concerned with saving money than they are with saving people," he told the Senate.

He reported receiving protest letters from small Texas ranchers that they have been denied drouth relief because they have taken part-time jobs in nearby towns. The senator said that "stringent" eligibility requirements are preventing relief to "many who need it and need it badly."

"Realistic Basis"
He urged that the program be put on a "realistic basis." "We can wait and possibly save a little money but we will lose an irreplaceable treasure — the soil upon which all life depends and the people who know how to work and manage that soil," Johnson said.

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) said that he has received many protest letters from the drouth-stricken Southwest although his home state was not suffering from lack of water. He said some asked him to dramatize their plight with a 15 hour Senate speech.

Morse said the price of hay is being pushed up by profiteers and "the administration is dragging its heels." He said hay and grain should be shipped in to drouth-stricken areas "practically" for nothing.

Open Attacks
Democratic senators from the South and Southwest opened the attacks Wednesday.
The drouth situation is so serious according to Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), that Congress ought to stay in session until stepped-up measures are taken.

OKLAHOMA FARM WOMAN'S LETTER HOLDS CONGRESSMEN SPELLBOUND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 —UP— An Oklahoma farm woman's dramatic letter telling of her drouth problems held members of the U.S. Senate "spellbound" when it was read to them, Sen. Robert S. Kerr reported Thursday.

Kerr read the letter from Mrs. Elonzo Hays Tuesday on the floor of the Senate, but not until Thursday did he reveal the author's identity. He said it held the attention of 60 or 70 senators "better than I've held it any time this year."

The letter was part of Kerr's unsuccessful attack on the conference report on administration's farm program, which later was adopted by the Senate. In it Mrs. Hays, who lives on a dairy farm 3 1/2 miles northeast of Chickasha, told of the plight of small farmers.

"Last year when the drouth came we were told over and over, 'cull your herds and feed for better production,'" she said. "When you are drowning you will try anything. I have sales and purchase slips to show that we did just that. We culled five head of dairy cows and shipped them to Oklahoma City stockyards."

"We had given $1,197 for them, or an average price of $239 per head. We received a check from the National Livestock Commission for $330.16, or an average price of $66 per head. Then we paid the trucker $10 for hauling them."

She said a few weeks later reports from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson indicated the packers were to be reimbursed for cattle purchased.

"I ask you, why reimburse them?" she asked. "We had already taken the loss, not the packers."

More recently, she said, she and her husband — a former Caddo county sheriff — took a cull dairy cow to the stock yards and received 7 cents a pound, or $69.65, although they had paid $225 for it.

"Can you explain to Mr. Benson that we small dairymen that have to sacrifice these dairy cattle just can't go on like this; that we just have to have a better program of some kind," she said.

Mrs. Hays told Kerr later she had written the letter "straight from the heart in the middle of making some green apple sauce." She said she told her husband "I didn't know if Kerr would have time to read my letter, but it did me a lot of good just to get Benson out of my system."

She said she recently saw a letter from Benson saying some smaller farmers will have to be diverted.

"What I want to know," she asked, "is what a 48-year-old woman who has farmed all her life is going to be diverted to?"

Prison Trusty Electrocuted

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 20 —UP— A 30-year-old trusty convict was accidentally electrocuted at the state prison here Thursday when he touched a hot wire while repairing an electrical circuit.

Prison Records Clerk J. C. Roberts identified the man as Allen Jeffcoat, San Antonio, who was serving two years on a forgery conviction in Bexar county.

Roberts said Jeffcoat entered the prison March 2, 1954, and was assigned to construction work as an electrician last June. The accident occurred at the prison administration building which was undergoing repair.

Roberts said fellow prisoners saw Jeffcoat fall and called a guard, Prison Dr. Fred Barbee said the man was dead but he could find no marks of a burn on him.

However, no foul play was involved, Roberts said.

Justice of the Peace Mrs. Mabel Franklow returned a verdict of accidental death.

All three of the missing hearts. South should now be worried about a bad break in diamonds. East is known to have at least seven clubs and three hearts, and he has already played one spade. It is quite likely that East has only a singleton diamond at most.
In order to count the hand more fully, declarer cashes the top clubs. West's failure to follow suit on the second round of clubs proves that East started the hand with eight clubs. South should draw a second round of trumps and lead a diamond to the ace. Fortunately, as expected, East's thirteenth card turns out to be a diamond instead of a second spade.
In order to make the contract, South must now lead a low trump and allow East to win the trick. East is obliged to return a club, which gives declarer a ruff and a discard, thus handing his trick right back to him.
Declarer then runs the rest of his trumps, whereupon West is squeezed in spades and diamonds. A rather gaudy hand, in my opinion, but very interesting to those who like problem plays.

A Choice?

Too often in the election of public officials, the voters do not take the trouble to look behind the candidates to see who will be pulling the strings if they are elected. Very rarely does a man enter public office free of obligations to individuals and groups which supported him. The discharge of these obligations may require only that their advice be given friendly consideration, but this is the exception and not the rule. Generally the successful candidate is forced to grant favors, some of which may not be in the public interest.

Even more dangerous for the welfare of the citizens, the men in the shadows behind the candidate may represent a philosophy, a way of life that is unsound and undesirable. Yet their candidate may ride into a position of responsibility and trust behind a smoke screen of trivial "issues."

We have that situation today in the campaign for governor of Texas.

Seeking the Democratic nomination for the office in the second primary later this month are Allan Shivers and Ralph Yarborough.

On the surface there might seem to be little to choose between them. They are residents of Austin and members of the same Baptist church. Each teaches a Sunday School class in that church.

Presumably each of the two candidates is an upstanding, patriotic citizen. The questions for the voter to decide are:

- 1. To whom is each obligated?
2. Do I want those fellows standing behind the governor's chair?

Allan Shivers has been in public office nearly all his adult life. His policies are known; his friends are known. His future actions can be forecast with reasonable assurance on the basis of his past performance.

Whether you like his actions or not, you know what to expect.

Ralph Yarborough, on the other hand, is an unknown quantity so far as performance in public office goes. The only thing the voter has upon which to base a judgment is the political company Yarborough keeps.

That Yarborough has the backing of the labor unions has been stated but never denied. Leaders of the CIO are among his most ardent backers.

It would be less than realistic to imagine that the unions would fail to demand that he pay his political debts to them if he should be elected. Experience would indicate that the least they would ask would be complete domination of the governor's office, with all that implies.

We certainly have every reason to know what union rule in Austin would mean.

It is their purpose to repeal the state anti-closed shop laws.

They were and still are the most ardent opponents of the recently enacted laws against communists.

The second primary really boils down to whether you want Shivers for a third term or the unions for no telling how long.

Hoss Players Don't Care About Scenery, Just 'Hosses'

The hoss player looks like other men, but he isn't. I have been observing hoss players at close hand for many years, and I have found that they are men apart.

They have determinations of steel, wills of iron, faith and hope of even more lasting materials, and courage that is all whipcord and whalebone.

And they are the same wherever they are. The hoss player picked in like an inferior sardine at New York's Jamaica and Aqueduct. The hoss player ignoring the royal palms and pink flamingos at Miami's Hialeah. The hoss player totally disinterested in the mountains, lakes, and flowers of Santa Anita and Hollywood. The hoss player who walks beneath the majestic trees of Saratoga and Belmont without knowing they are there.

I have always maintained that race tracks could be built on abandoned broken bottle factories without losing the patronage of a single hoss player. He doesn't care about an amenity; just give him eight races with horses — and he won't care about the horses, either, just so long as they have four legs, a tail, a mane, and a price on the board!

I'm not a hoss player, myself, but a couple of days ago I did cheat on a couple of lights getting out to Burbank Airport so I could catch a 12:45 plane for the Del Mar track, which would make the first race with a few minutes to spare.

The plane seated eight, and was just a few days younger than the Wright Brothers. My seat didn't have any cushion — just springs — and I had as good a seat as all the other passengers. Seven others were aboard when I got in — all hoss players. I recognized them. Their heads were buried in racing forms. They had been waiting 15 minutes inside an old plane that was 100-plus hot. One had on an overcoat, but not a word of complaint came from him. They were aboard the only thing that would get them to Del Mar on time, and that was sufficient.

The pilot — wearing a sports shirt — started the motors. The right one worked fine, the left one sounded like a weary sewing machine motor. It gave out great gasps and moans. It wheezed, sputtered, threw out blue and red flames, and the propeller barely turned over.

I was all for getting out, but not one of my companions looked up. They were working on form; working on the first race.

The pilot talked to someone in the tower. He struggled out to the starting line. Ever time he revved the motors, the left one sounded worse.

The pilot got up, and started out of the plane. It was then that the first hoss player spoke.

"Let's get this thing in the air, Bud, or we're going to miss the first race."

The pilot answered him: "I've been flying for twenty-five years, and I'm not going up in this one."

The hoss player wearing the orange coat glanced up from his form and said, "Doesn't sound too bad. Let's try it."

We all got out and waited for a substitute plane. It had two good motors, and it was a nice flight down the coast. But the hoss players didn't like it.

We missed the first race, and what the pilot knew how ridiculous he had been in not trying to get off the ground with the first one.

They all grumbled. "He could have made it," one said. "Sure," said another. "The things are supposed to fly on one motor." "That silly cost me a good over-lay," said another. "No daily double now," was the comment of another. "I think the pilot should have tried it," I said, proving that I was among my own kind.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Why The Teacher Shortage

The Family Weekly magazine has a double-page article in its August 1st issue under the heading of "The Teacher Shortage: A Grave National Problem." The article is written by Louis Zera. He quotes two persons who he says are authorities on education — one is Samuel M. Brownell, U.S. Commissioner of Education; and the other is Mrs. Newton P. Leonard, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The whole tenor of the article is that we have a teacher shortage because we do not pay them enough money. Mr. Brownell says that we are about 72,000 prepared teachers for elementary schools. He laments the replacing of teachers with less than standard certificates. Of course Mr. Brownell's definition of a "prepared" teacher is that he has gone to college for a certain amount of time, whether or not he has any natural talent for teaching.

The National Education Association has been conditioning the public to believe that only professional educators know anything about education. Of course, if we have a teacher monopoly created by the State, we can have a great scarcity of teachers, just like labor unions that restrict those who dare become apprentices. Can a make a scarcity in any line of work they get a monopoly of.

The Real Cause of Scarcity

There are several reasons why teachers are leaving their jobs, as the article complains about. One is that most states require children to stay in school until they are 18 whether they have any desire for book-learning or not — and whether they behave or not. This puts the teacher in an impossible position, as if he is trying to teach the youth who will make no effort himself to learn. These teachers are legally required to try to teach the youth when he would rather be out learning a trade and learning to be useful to mankind with the talent that God gave him rather than being forced to try to adopt himself to a certain mold as established by the National Education Association and the state. Being faced with this kind of a problem, of course, is discouraging to any individual who does not want to waste the energy God gave him.

Another reason for the scarcity is that the bureaucrats have taken over control of the textbooks that are used. The social studies textbooks are invariably filled with collectivistic ideas. They are written with the purpose of indoctrinating the youth of the land to believe that man gets his rights and his liberty from the state rather than from God.

A real teacher, of course, wants to help develop his pupils to understand God's or Nature's laws. That is a great reward besides the money he gets. But there is no such reward when he is compelled to teach socialistic "progressive" collectivistic beliefs. They naturally do not get any happiness out of this kind of work.

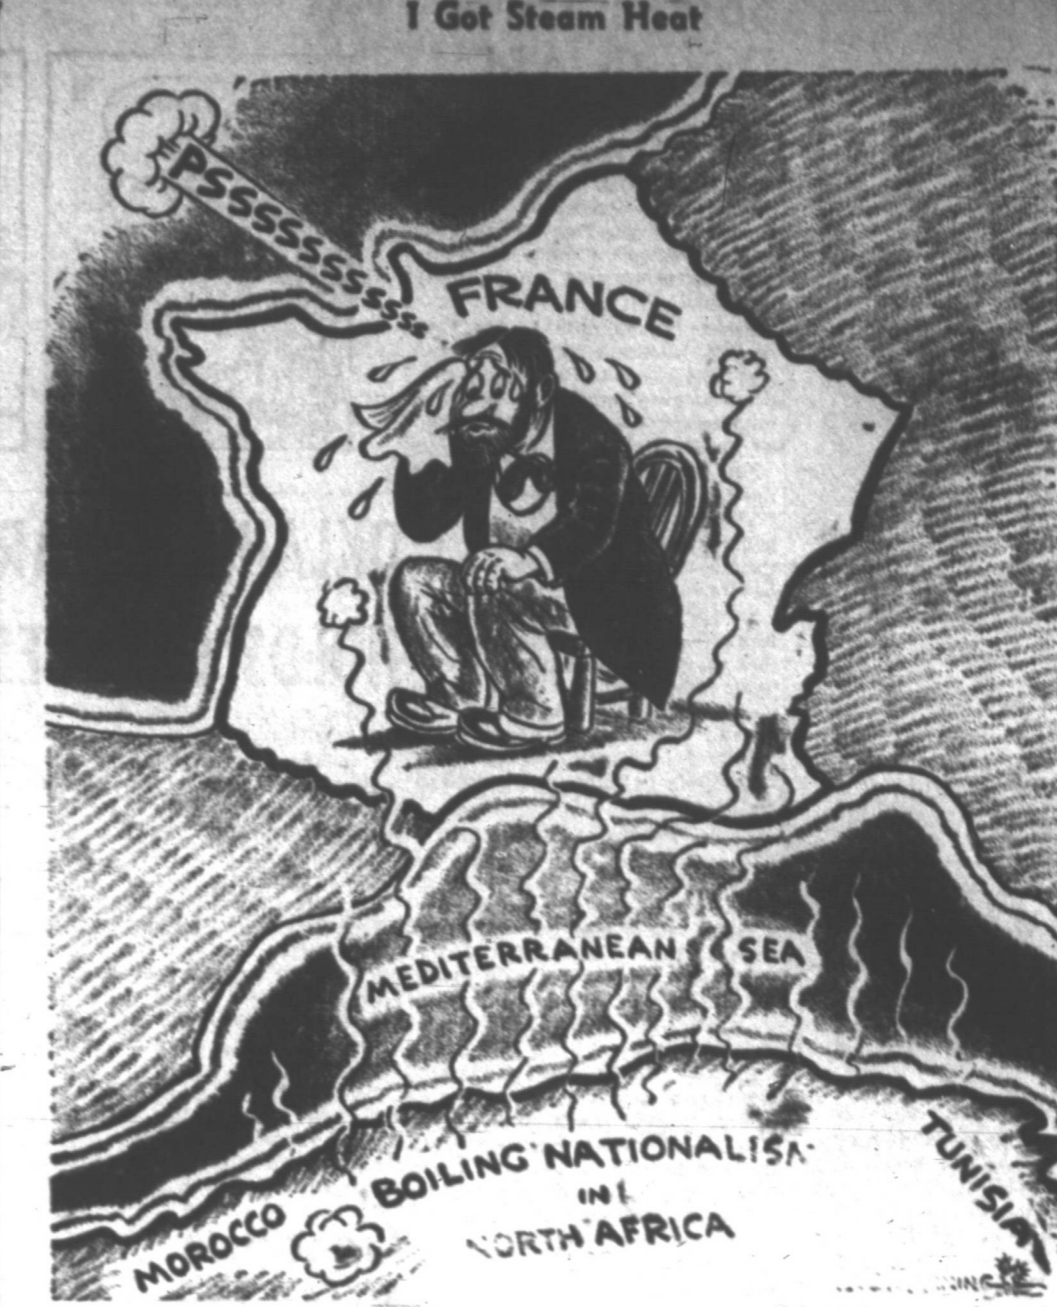

The Highest Compensation

The highest compensation in any work is the feeling of accomplishment, and when the state makes the conditions so that it is almost impossible for the teacher to help the pupil develop and has to depend solely on money for his reward, he is naturally discouraged and the good teachers walk away from the job.

Again, tax-supported schools are so wasteful that the teacher who believes in efficiency does not like to be connected with anything that only uses his energy five days a week and nine months of the year. A real educator does not want to be a party to the waste that always exists in government-managed schools. He does not want to waste four or five years of his life being indoctrinated in collectivism and "progressive" education as is required to become a "prepared" teacher. The so-called standards that the professional "educators" require eliminate the real educator. Such real educators as Rose Wilder Lane and Isabel Paterson could not teach in practically any state in the union because they have not received a certificate from the state to teach. Yet these two individuals are examples of real educators. But because Rose Wilder Lane only went to school six months in her life and Isabel Paterson only went to school two years in her life when they were little girls, the state says they are not "prepared" teachers. Yet Isabel Paterson wrote "The God of the Machine," which Ayn Rand says is the greatest book published in the last 400 years, and Rose Wilder Lane paid income tax one year on $65,000 income as a professional writer. If anyone thinks these individuals are not qualified to educate, let him read their books.

The shortage of teachers is not due to money or wages, it is due to the restrictions partially listed above that interfere with competition in education and prevent the teacher from getting the great joy that comes from the belief "that it is more blessed to give than to receive." But when they are a party to keeping children in school when they should not be in school and are obliged to teach what the brain-teasers specify in the way they specify and have to be under the control of bureaucrats and politicians, they naturally do not get the joy out of teaching that they expected to get when they entered the wonderful profession of being an educator.

National Whirligig Army Secretary Stevens Still Playing Politics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens created an extremely unfavorable impression during the Army-McCarthy hearings after it developed that he had cultivated the Wisconsin Senator so ardently and dined with the wealthy family of Buck Private G. David Schine. But the textile manufacturer apparently learned no salutary lesson, for he is still politicking on Capitol Hill.

In its economy program, the Army recently decided to close a veterans' hospital at Little Rock, Ark., and to keep a similar institution open at Framingham, Mass. Arkansas happens to be the home of Senator John J. McClellan, who headed the Democratic minority on the Mundt Investigating Committee. Massachusetts is represented, Republican-wise, by Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

When the Pentagon announced its hospital program, McClellan was engaged in a tough primary battle with former Governor Sid McMath, who represented the New Dealish faction of Arkansas Democrats. The Senator felt it necessary to absent himself from important Senate sessions and Mundt Committee meetings in order to fight for re-nomination.

With or without McClellan's solicitation, Stevens reversed himself overnight. He agreed to keep open the hospital at Little Rock and to shut down the veterans' institution in Saltonstall's State.

It was an amazing shift, in view of the Bay State Senator's influential position as head of the body which handles so many national defense problems, and in view of the fact that "Salty" faces re-election in what might be a tough contest.

For some strange reason, the White House has singled both Saltonstall and Representative Edith Rogers of Massachusetts, who heads the House Veterans' Affairs Committee.

Supposedly through the influence of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, an aircraft carrier scheduled to be built at the Quincy, Mass., yard was given to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. And Mrs. Rogers failed in her attempt to have several destroyers constructed at Quincy. Both Saltonstall and Mrs. Rogers are quite upset.

Politicians frequently argue that patronage perquisites are a nuisance instead of an asset in their business. Their expression is that, in filling a governmental job (federal, state or municipal), "You make one friend and create a score of ingrates." Few, however, abide by that theory.

The exception to the credo in Senator Henry C. Dworshak of Idaho, who must face the voters next November. When his colleague, Senator Weiker, demanded another judgeship for Idaho several months ago, Dworshak replied bitterly on the ground that every lawyer in the potato with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization

PAUSE FOR REFLECTION

Korean President Syngman Rhee told the U.S. Congress the other day, according to the press, that "the Communists have made this a hard world, a horrible world, in which to be soft is to become a slave."

Whatever anyone may think about Rhee's suggestion that now is the time to free China from Communist control, nearly everyone will surely agree with his statement quoted above — "to be soft is to become a slave."

This has always been true. Paul's advice to Timothy, "Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ," is just as apt for us today as it was for Timothy nearly 2,000 years ago.

Moreover, it is not only Communism but every other form of evil, as well, that enslaves the "soft."

There, if we are to be free, we must have the spiritual strength to resist the temptation to be "soft" toward any kind of evil. We must, as Paul told the Corinthians, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit like men, be strong."

This is the formula for freedom — the only one that will work in this, hard world, this horrible world, that totalitarian political theories have had such a large part in making.

Fair Enough Author Of Religious Book Defended Hollywood Reds

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — A friend of mine was attracted by a two-bit book called "How the great religions began: your key to understanding man's search for God." We fell to discussing this book and I asked who wrote it and he said, "Joseph Gaer, ever hear of him?"

I said "sure, that is an old friend of the Dies committee days. He came here from Romania by way of Canada. He told me he adopted the name of Gaer because, in some language which he knows, possibly Romanian, it means 'stranger.' He was a stranger in the hospital and not always wary country of ours."

My friend, being a Catholic, said he was good and sore at Gaer and the new American Library of World Literature, which put out this edition, and Dad-Mead which put out the original hard-cover version, way back in 1929. He was sore because, in interpreting the religion of that world-minority who believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ, Gaer said Joseph, his father, and Mary, Joseph's wife, had a large family of other boys and girls. Gaer otherwise rejected the divinity of Jesus Christ in a manner which my friend thought unnecessarily rough. Then he asked how I happened to have a line on him.

I said, "I had traffic with the guy when Doc Matthews, the original fellow-traveler and Bob Stripling, turned him up in the treasury. He was ghosting an autobiography of Henry Morgenthau who was host to so many other interesting people, including Harry Dexter White and Ed Foley, the lawyer who wrote lend-lease under Henry's orders but kept a still tongue when senators Hiram Johnson and Bennett Champ Clark were trying to find out who did write it, and Henry was giving them evasive double talk. After Truman split with Morgenthau, Henry published his memoirs in the Collier's, which are hard to come by now because people naturally figured Morgenthau would bring it out as a book later. However, a question was raised regarding legal title to a lot of recordings and official treasury memoranda and the stuff never did appear between boards."

This series included the only revelation of the fact that bubble-head Wallace was the one who put over the cabalistic design on the back of the new and now current one-dollar bill with the pyramid surrounded by an open eye and the words "new world order in Latin, down below. Bubblehead had been messing around with his Guru at the lamasery on Riverside Drive where Sol Bloom, chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, had a rent-free apartment. F.D.R. junior represents the district now but he lives outside."

"Bubbles used to sneak in and out of the joint and when he sent the Guru to Japan and Mongolia to collect grass-seeds (honest, that was his official mission) Wallace's wacky letters were addressed to the Joss-house on the drive to be forwarded. Bubbles thought the Guru was a god-man so he really let himself go in his correspondence which went right into the hands of the gutless Republican National Committee through a patriotic American intermediary who thought stumpy ought to be exposed in the interest of national security."

"But even after that the Republicans let Roosevelt and LaBoca impose him on us for four years, including three years of war, one heart-beat removed from the presidency itself. The term 'New World Order' on the dollar bill raised no suspicions but it deserves notice now that we are beginning to study Col. E. M. House's blue-print for the Roosevelt-Truman — Eisenhower fascism published transparently as a novel under the title 'Philip Dru: Administrator.'"

My friend said, "Let's get back to Gaer." I said, "He got into the publishing business with someone named Boni, although which Boni I don't just know. This outfit produced 'the people's song book' which contained the repertoire of a Communist singing orchestra, which scared the wits out of a lot of Republican industrialists back around 1940. The book includes the old wobbly song, 'Solidarity, the scabs crawl in,' 'round and round the picket line,' 'I'm stickin' to the union and I don't want your millions mister.'"

I said "he also wrote a handbook for the CIO on organizing and winning public elections and Boni and Gaer turned out a book defending the convicted Hollywood Reds. The profits were to go to the defense fund, although the of these Reds were well-heeled. The New York Herald Tribune gave it a double-take first in the Daily, then in the Sunday book-ballyhoo, without falling to blast the committee on Un-American Activities."

My friend said, "Thanks."

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

EVERETT, Wash. — You leave Olympic peninsula country early in the morning and drive for 107 miles, using two motor ferries on the way, and you return to Everett. You have passed eight days in a corner of America that is without parallel in this country and which pales the more traditional scenic splendors of several other countries. You have, in a day more than a week, seen vistas in every way comparable to anything in Switzerland. You have gone, on a sunny morning to a tiny farm which to the last inch is as far west as you can go into the Continental United States without getting your feet wet in the Pacific Ocean. You have rocketed with fishing Indians across rough, open water in a slim, long dugout sent spearing through the waves by a fast, powerful outboard. It was like flying a wooden splinter from a slingshot. Some kind of impossible magic kept the foot-pedal-for-is-rough light bright and dry. You have eaten baked salmon less than 45 minutes out of the water, a dish recommended for any weary palate and a flavor totally and wonderfully unlike any salmon that ever came out of a can. You have had frango, a sort of secret-recipe Northwest ice cream that comes in flakes.

And you have gained eight pounds which you gaze down upon with some dismay. It all seems to have gathered right in front just at the belt line. You have met some fascinating human beings, from Quilleyville fishing Indians to a gnarled old retired banker from Seattle who runs his commercial fishing boat four months a year just to have some fun and prove that his economic usefulness is not ended. His hands are cut and stained, crimson with Mercurochrome, his hatch of snow-white hair glisters with an occasional fish scale. He is the happiest old man you ever met.

You have walked through heavy timber centuries old to look upon a small waterfall with its ice-cold waters from a melting glacier. You have looked upon live bears 50 feet away and they have looked on you, neither you feeling the slightest anxiety. Young does have walked up to you with their fawns, spotted and frisky, and you have not made them fear. You have collected a few odd, time-polished stones, and sat around huge fires in stone hearths in the cold nights of July and August. You have watched your wife swim in 65-degree mountain water and have only watched. It's not for you, an addict of the hot shower.

You have soaked and lazed in faintly sulphurous 110 degree mineral water, letting the water heat iron away tension and weariness. You have lanced in a cut up 13 twisted, steep miles to a snow-and-wind-swept ridge above which there is nothing but chilled air. You have found there, where the snow is a yard deep, lupins, avalanche-lilies and other high mountain wild flowers living in perfect comfort in the cold. You have sat shivering delightedly while reading of 86 degrees in New York and 110 in Dallas and thrust your hand deep into the spotless snow banks and felt their cold numb your wrists.

You have not once seen a fly, heard a mosquito, feared a snake in the woods or turned from a wasp. They don't exist up there, you have encountered hospitable Western courtesy at all times. Inquiries have accepted you without question, natives have told you their life stories, National Park Concession employees have of their own volition gone out of their way to be helpful. You had nothing to give but a hopefully matching courtesy. And you have sat silently by a fire while hearing seven new-to-America German talk among themselves and proudly use the phrase "Unser America." GUB Arctica. They said among themselves. Not a con- quered user but an American which received them. That kind of user. It had that kind of heart-warmed intention. You have had to add it up, the best and most stimulating vacation you ever had anywhere at any time in any place.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

(Editor's note: While Women's Page Editor Jane Kadingo is on vacation this column is being written by guest authors. Today's column is by Marlene Kohl, Pampa News staff writer.)

"The eyes are the most important of all features," is the belief of Mrs. Mae Plummer, Pampa cosmetician; and agreeing with her, I decided to find out how good points of the individual's eyes can be brought out — how much more emphasis can be placed upon the eyes.

The proper make-up, properly applied, is the answer to the "how-to" above. But you ask just what articles of eye make-up are at my disposal, and what are some rules to follow in their use? Here is what I found out by talking to Mrs. Plummer:

Starting at the top of the eyes, seen to harmonize or contrast with the color of the eyes or costume. There are a variety of shades available, and nice effects can be created by their use. The eyes will be made to appear larger, more brilliant, and depth may be added.

Place a dot at the center of the upper lid, and smooth upward and outward toward the temples. Be sure not to apply too much, or the whole effect of the make-up may be ruined.

Mrs. Plummer said that eye make-up highlights eyes which sometimes need just a little something extra to bring out their color. "It's there," she says, "but just needs help."

Remember, she cautions, that making up for nighttime is a lot different from making up for day. Under the bright artificial lights of night, make-up needs to be a little heavier. This is important to remember when applying the eye shadow.

Hope that these suggestions have been of help to someone. I know they certainly are to me. Isn't it nice to have a trained cosmetician like Mrs. Plummer to consult on these problems?

I found the answer to an eye beauty problem in an article by Alicia Hart, NEA Beauty Editor, which may be informative to someone. I hope so, for here it is:

"The older woman whose job entails small-print reading and figures must make certain her eyes do not suffer for it.

"For the results of eyestrain are many. And soon little fine lines will appear under the eyes. When the lines are strongly visible, it's time for a few home treatments.

"Take a compress of cotton, dampen it in cold water and sprinkle it with eye lotion. Lie down for 15 minutes with the compresses over your eyes. Do this every day until you notice a marked improvement.

"Bags and puffs under the eyes may be due to tension or inadequate sleep. To remove these, try this. To a quart of hot water, add two tablespoons of salt. Squeeze out the excess water, then place

Polish Remover Conditions Cuticle

By ALICIA ART
NEA Beauty Editor

A nail polish remover that conditions cuticles will be introduced this spring.

Based on an entirely new formula, this remover is said to soften and smooth cuticles and to remove polish almost instantly without smearing.

According to the firm making it, the new product will also help to protect the nails against brittleness caused by harsh soaps and detergents. It contains no acetone, which has been found to have a drying effect.

When finished, wash your eyes with eye lotion and apply eye cream. Remember, always use light touches when working around the eyes. If the puffs don't yield to your home treatments, consult your doctor to determine their cause.

Meanwhile, to detract from the puffs while you're trying to correct them, use eyebrow pencil and eyeshadow so that attention will be focused above the puffs.

Daily Teeth Care Is Vital To Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Being self-conscious of the way her teeth look has prevented many a teenager from smiling in response to her friends and acquaintances.

When being introduced to new friends, the self-conscious teenager will keep her mouth in a tight line that's most unbecoming. Or, at best, she will attempt a half-smile with her lip closed.

At any rate, she will use any unattractive expression rather than reveal crooked or discolored teeth.

If you see your dentist for regular checkups, you're well on your way to having healthier, more beautiful teeth.

Then, the daily care you give them is next in importance. The really well-groomed girl spends five, not two minutes brushing her teeth and massaging her gums morning and night and after each meal.

When you haven't a toothbrush with you, the next best thing you can do after eating is retreat to the powder room and swish water around in your mouth for a few minutes. This will remove any food particles clinging to the teeth.

Regular use of dental floss between the teeth will remove any particles which may have accumulated there between regular

What annoys your husband? Without racking her brains almost any wife could quickly make a list of the little things that irritate her husband, things that never fail to annoy him.

But how many wives — in the interests of harmony — ever bother to make such a list and then to take the logical step of trying to figure out how that particular list of annoyances can be eliminated?

Probably not many, else husbands and wives wouldn't so often get to bickering over the same silly incidents.

Yet it would be so simple for a wife who knows exactly what irritates her husband to figure out ways of avoiding and irritating incidents.

Many of the solutions would be as simple as always checking shirts for missing buttons before they are put in his drawer, or always putting his mail in a certain place, or getting him an office file for the important papers that always turn up missing.

Certainly that is a more sensible way to handle a husband who gets irritated over "little" things than to match his grouchy with anger or hurt feelings or to try to shame him by telling him how hard you work and how he doesn't appreciate it and so on.

And there is sometimes an extra dividend for the wife who tries to eliminate the things that annoy her husband. Aside from keeping him in a better frame of mind, she sometimes finds that since she is concerned with trying to cater to his whims he is more willing to try to cater to hers.

cleanings by your dentist. Avoid rich, sweet desserts (they're bad for your figure, too) and banana splits. Make it a point to include foods that must be chewed thoroughly (like raw fruits and vegetables) on your daily diet.

Start now to get your teeth in perfect condition, for a sunny smile can win you new confidence and new friends.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

"The Divine Principle of Forgiveness"

"I say unto thee, 'till seven times; but until seventy times seven times." — Matthew XVIII, 26.

Resentment and vengeance are incompatible with true Christian spirit. That spirit exacts generosity, magnanimity, and forgiveness. It is not too much to say that our parable is nothing more than a re-statement of the law of charity in terms of forgiveness; for, forgiveness is only an element in the more fundamental principle of charity — without which no man can be saved.

Have we the Christian spirit of forgiveness? Sometimes people, otherwise just, nurture a grudge or a desire for revenge for years. Meanwhile they parade their piety and expect to share in the joys of the kingdom, entirely oblivious to the principle which our parable teaches.

This they will never do; for as Christ makes plain in the parable, there is no place for the unmerciful.

Remember the master calling the steward to make an account of his debt . . . the forgiveness of the master.

BALLOTING IS NOW UNDERWAY for selecting the All-West Texas-New Mexico League team, the all-rookie team, the manager of the year and the rookie of the year.

We have just spent a couple of hours filling out our ballot, and believe us, some of the positions were difficult to select.

After all was said and done, we picked five Oilers on the all-rookie team and four on the all-league team. And, in addition, we cast a vote for our own Curtis Hardaway as the "Rookie of the Year."

The most hotly contested position for selecting an all-star, at least in our opinion, was the catcher.

With such fellows as Art Bowland, I. E. Palmer, Tom Jordan, Frank Benites and Goose Goff to pick from as the top catcher of the league, you can readily see it's a difficult proposition.

We finally narrowed it down to Bowland and Palmer with a coin toss deciding our choice — Bowland. The scribes and sports casters around the circuit were also requested to fill in a second team choice so Palmer naturally got our second team catcher's vote.

Another position that was difficult to make a selection was at second base. Here we had Frank Kempa, Bobby Westfall, Ben Felder, Jackie Sullivan, Orlando Varona et al., to choose from. Kempa finally got our vote with Westfall a close second.

Without further ado, here are our first and second All-W-T-N-M League selections:

FIRST TEAM
1B — Doug Lewis, Pampa
2B — Frank Kempa, Amarillo
3B — Curtis Hardaway, Pampa
SS — Bill White, Amarillo
OF — Don Stokes, Plainview

SECOND TEAM
1B — Bob Pascal, Abilene
2B — Bob Westfall, Albuquerque
3B — De La Torre, Amarillo
SS — Bobby Brown, Plainview
OF — Oz Walker, Abilene
OF — Lynn Boyd, Clovis

MANAGER OF THE YEAR
1 — Grover Seitz, Grover
2 — Ben Felder, Amarillo

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR
1 — Curtis Hardaway, Pampa
2 — Bill White, Amarillo

ALL-ROOKIE TEAM
1B — Bud Reagan, Lubbock
2B — Jim Lewis, Clovis
3B — Curtis Hardaway, Pampa
SS — Gil Valentin, Albuquerque
OF — Oz Walker, Abilene
OF — Joe Jacobs, Albuquerque
OF — Dick Hairston, Pampa
OF — Gus Vergetta, Plainview
RHP — Rueben Phillips, Clovis
RHP — Jose Valquez, Pampa
LHP — Albert Clarke, Pampa
LHP — Jonas Gaines, Pampa

The all-star selections will be announced before the end of the season in order for the local clubs to recognize their players who gain the above honors.

A. B. EVERETT FORMER Pampa Officer, pers the following letter to us:

Dear Sir:

I would like for you to say in your column something about what I'm going to tell you.

In the 1949 season while I was playing third base for your Oilers at the near close of the season, a man whose name I do not know came to the screen and gave me a worn silver dollar. He told me he carried it for 20 years as a good luck piece. He told me I was his favorite player and he wanted me to have it for myself.

Although we didn't win that night to get in the playoffs, I wanted him to know it has brought me extremely good luck in these past five years and I thank him very much.

Regards,
A. B. Everett

Kid Softball Regular Slate Ends Tonight

By RAUL (Rabbit) RAMIREZ
A six-game schedule will wind up the regular season in the Kiwanis Softball Leagues tonight.

In the feature game, Holy Souls and Central Baptist will clash in a Senior League fracas. It will be the only Senior game on tap.

Holy Souls is one of four teams who has gained a playoff berth in the Senior League. The other three are First Baptist, First Christian and Central Baptist.

Three games are carded in the Junior Boys League tonight. First Christian will play in two of the games. The Christians will meet Central Baptist and Harrah Methodist.

In the other Junior game, Holy Souls will play Trinity Baptist. Central Baptist needs a win over First Christian tonight to clinch fourth place in the Junior League standings. Should the Baptists lose tonight, they would drop into a two way tie with First Methodist for fourth place. In this event, the two teams would meet Monday at 6:30 in a one-game "sudden death" playoff.

Three teams have already gained a spot in the Junior League playoffs. They are St. Paul Methodist, Progressive Baptist and Calvary Baptist.

Two teams, First Baptist and Central Baptist, have clinched playoff berths in the Junior Girls League. The other two spots are depending on the outcome of tonight's two games.

Following is the schedule tonight:

SENIOR BOYS
8:00 Holy Souls vs. Central Baptist

JUNIOR BOYS
7:00 First Christian vs. Central Baptist
8:30 First Christian vs. Harrah Methodist
7:00 Holy Souls vs. Trinity Baptist (N.W.D.)

JUNIOR GIRLS

Texans Favored In Oil Bowl Contest

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Aug. 20 —UP— A good passer and overall team speed ruled Texas a slim favorite over a heavier Oklahoma team Friday night in a split-T attack.

F — Bob Witwicki, 191, Tulsa Capital Hill.
TEXAS
LE — Fred Magpie, 190, Fort

cludes powerful Charles Joseph of Seminole as principal running threat and Royce McQueen of Ardmore as its passing star in a split-T attack.

The Sooners have never won this charity game since the interstate rivalry started in 1945. They came close last year but a missed extra-point try let Texas out with a 20-19 victory.

The teams are made up of top stars from each state who finished their high school eligibility last season.

Oklahoma will outweigh Texas seven pounds per man in the line and 14 pounds per man in the backfield, but this hefty advantage is expected to be offset by the passing of Kenneth Ford of Breckenridge and the running of Walt Funder of Houston Lamar. Curtis Reeves of Wichita Falls and Jimmy Welch of Lubbock.

Oilers Depart After Whipping G-Sox, 8-5

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The "emergency" batting drill called Thursday morning by Oiler manager Hershel Martin apparently did some good as the locals broke out of a slump with an 8-5 victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox last night at Oiler Park.

The victory broke a 3-game Oiler losing streak and strengthened the Oilers' hold on second place in the West Texas-New Mexico League race. The Pampans are now 5 1/2 games ahead of the third place Gold Sox.

Jonas Gaines, knocked out of the box in his previous appearance before he could get a man out, returned to form last night by hurling the Oilers to victory, Gaines, while notching his 18th win of the year, struck out 13 Gold Sox batters, walked four and allowed eight sacrifices.

The rookie southpaw recorded at least one strike out in each of the nine inning fracas last night. Gaines was the master of the situation last night after the Oilers presented him with a 7-3 lead after six innings which was later stretched to 8-3 before Amarillo got its final two markers in the eighth.

The Gold Sox put on a mild threat in the ninth by getting two men on, one via an error, after two were away but Gaines made Johnny Rucker, who represented the tying run, his 13th strike out victim of the night to end the game.

The two teams were all even after three innings, 3-3, but the Oilers went ahead for good when Sam Williams, subbing for the injured Ben Felder at second base, punched a single to left to score Slick Johnson in the fourth.

The Oilers put the game on ice in the sixth with a three run uprising in the sixth to take a 7-3 lead. Gene Hauradou's bases-loaded single that scored two runs featured the rally. Hauradou's lick shelled the Gold Sox starter, George Tomacek, from the mound.

Felder, regular Oiler second baseman, missed last night's titt due to an injured finger suffered in Thursday morning's workout. It was not known last night how long Felder would be missing from the lineup.

Curtis Hardaway slammed his 21st home run of the year for the Oilers last night while Julio de la Torre whacked his first roundtripper since joining the Gold Sox recently.

The Oilers left after last night's game to go to Albuquerque where they'll open a 4-day road trip tonight.

was nearly called off Thursday when Olson's manager, Sid Flaherty, walked out of a State Athletic Commission hearing setting the weigh-in time.

A compromise finally was reached and the gladiators were to weigh in at 10 a.m. Friday morning. The commission originally set the weigh-in for noon and Flaherty stormed out of the meeting saying the fight was off. However, Al Lima, a. Castellan's manager, soothed things over by agreeing to a 10 a.m. weigh-in.

Rumors have it that Olson is having trouble making the weight limit. It is believed that Flaherty wanted the extra time for his boy to regain strength before the fight after the necessity of drying out for the weigh-in.

The bout, second title defense for Olson since winning the crown nearly a year ago, has attracted wide interest and the crowd probably will put $200,000 into the bill to witness the bout.

Olson 3-1 Pick To Keep Crown

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20-UP—Rocky Castellani, a cocky 1 to 3 underdog, gets a crack at a 7-3 lead Gene Hauradou's bases-loaded single that scored two runs featured the rally. Hauradou's lick shelled the Gold Sox starter, George Tomacek, from the mound.

Felder, regular Oiler second baseman, missed last night's titt due to an injured finger suffered in Thursday morning's workout. It was not known last night how long Felder would be missing from the lineup.

Curtis Hardaway slammed his 21st home run of the year for the Oilers last night while Julio de la Torre whacked his first roundtripper since joining the Gold Sox recently.

The Oilers left after last night's game to go to Albuquerque where they'll open a 4-day road trip tonight.

was nearly called off Thursday when Olson's manager, Sid Flaherty, walked out of a State Athletic Commission hearing setting the weigh-in time.

A compromise finally was reached and the gladiators were to weigh in at 10 a.m. Friday morning. The commission originally set the weigh-in for noon and Flaherty stormed out of the meeting saying the fight was off. However, Al Lima, a. Castellan's manager, soothed things over by agreeing to a 10 a.m. weigh-in.

Rumors have it that Olson is having trouble making the weight limit. It is believed that Flaherty wanted the extra time for his boy to regain strength before the fight after the necessity of drying out for the weigh-in.

The bout, second title defense for Olson since winning the crown nearly a year ago, has attracted wide interest and the crowd probably will put $200,000 into the bill to witness the bout.

Another $75,000 will come from television. The local area will be blacked out, but a blow-by-blow account will be carried nationally. Both fighters are confident of victory.

These two lads carry into the ring two of the most impressive ring records in the fight game. Each has appeared in 62 fights; each has been beaten only five times, although Castellani also has a draw.

Olson, 28, has a string of 15 consecutive victories. Castellani, 28, has won 10 in a row.

Hoffman Oil, First National Bank Capture Little League, PONY Titles

It's all over but the shouting in the 1954 PONY and Little League pennant races.

The curtain fell on both league schedules last night with Hoffman Oil emerging as the Little League champions and First National Bank the PONY champs.

Hoffman made it two in a row over the Spokesman with a 11-4 victory in the Little League playoffs while the Bankers did likewise in disposing of Pampa Druggists, 15-2, for the PONY League title.

Hoffman had won the Eastern Little League crown and Spokesman the Western title, First National Bank came back to win the second half and then went on to down Pampa Druggists, the first half champions, in the playoffs.

Lynn Boyd was the big factor in the Hoffman win over Spokesman. Boyd came on in the second inning to set the Spokesman down with one run the final five innings after the losers had tallied four times in the half frame.

And in addition to his pitching chores, Boyd slammed a three-run homer to highlight an 8-run Hoffman rally in the third inning that wiped out a 4-3 Spokesman lead.

Spokesman had taken a commanding 4-0 lead in top of the first inning, with three runs crossing on Billy Joe Wray's home run over the center field wall.

Four home runs powered First National to its win over Pampa Druggists in the PONY playoff.

David Marier, Gary Heiskell, Buster Baird and Jerry Gindorf hit round trippers for the Bankers.

Heiskell also was the Banker hurler in the title clinching tilt as he scattered seven hits over the route.

One of the Pill Rollers markers came on a home run by first baseman Davis.

The PONY tilt was tied at 1-1 through three innings but the Bankers scored twice in the fourth to

What Just One Year Did To Audrey

(Last of Five)
By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — A year ago, Audrey Hepburn was appearing in "Gigi" on the New York stage. "Roman Holiday," her first movie, was finished but unreleased and Audrey Hepburn was just a gleam in the Paramount executives' eyes. Outside of New York and Hollywood, nobody much had heard of her.

Today, wow! What has this year done to Audrey Hepburn, the ex-London chorus girl who was "discovered" on a Monte Carlo beach? It depends whom you talk to, whom you believe. Some say this year has made Audrey Hepburn almost unbearable. She is spoiled these people say, and conceited and uppity. As proof they cite the fact that, for one thing, she is about the hardest show business personality to get to interview.

AN UNPREDICTABLE MEDLEY: Audrey Hepburn turns on three of her curious repertoire of moods for camera. Occasion was a press conference last March after she was awarded movie Oscar.

And, even though poise is bordered on all four sides by conceit, they may have something there. It's difficult to tell whether the change in Miss Hepburn — and there's no doubt a change has taken place — is due to simply more confidence or too much self-approval. But the weight of the evidence seems to indicate she's simply more poised these days.

letters in longhand. Her normally weak health suffered. The secretary was a doctor's prescription. Exhibit C — her virtual refusal to grant interviews isn't so black a feature as it's been painted. In the early part of this crucial year, she gave dozens. Some were badly chosen — she wasted much time on small circulation fan magazines and ignored large circulation newspaper writers. But she had no experience in which was which. So, to cut off criticism, she cut off most interviews.

before she finished "Roman Holiday" she broke off her engagement with James Hanson, an English executive. It was the old story — her career and his career — never the twin shall walk down the aisle. Then, during "Roman Holiday," came rumors of a romance with Gregory Peck. And, while "On the Beach" was on Broadway, the rumors linked her with Mel Ferrer. She vigorously denied the Peck rumors, and hasn't said much of anything about Ferrer. Neither has he. Time and the gossip columnists will tell. The odds are that next fall will find her name linked with somebody new.

rying kind. She is now only 25, far from an old maid. She likes children. She isn't particularly domestic, but a home — even if it's only a city apartment — is decided by on her list of "things to do sometime."

There are other similar features. But the most convincing documentation is Audrey Hepburn herself. According to those who know her, the year has done little for her, in terms of altering her personality. "A lot happened to her in one year," said a good friend. "She came through it OK. She has more style now, but as a person she's little or no different."

It means perfection in her trade. She wants to be the best actress that she can possibly be, and she doesn't think she is yet. So, first things first. After that, marriage. She won't have any trouble finding a man.

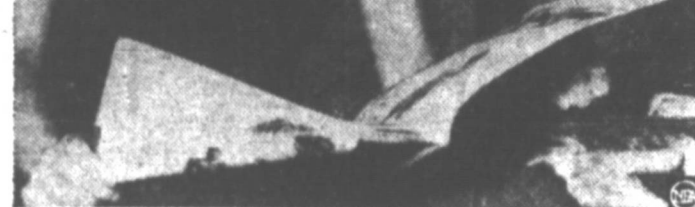

But sooner or later she will marry. Her friends say she's the marrying kind. (Last of a series.)

CAREER CAME FIRST: Audrey Hepburn and her British fiance, James Hanson, were planning a wedding in 1952, but their careers clashed and the engagement was broken off.

"You tell men make war whoop," Assistant Nate Barrager relayed to Blackfoot Leader James Many Hides.

He also asked for the right to have his daughter with him in Rome for part of the year.

Sam McDaniel, actor brother of the late Hattie McDaniel, says he's unhappy over the executor's report of the Oscar winner's estate. He says he plans legal inquiry to find out why Hattie's fortune dwindled to almost nothing during her long illness.

"Okay," replied Many Hides. "We yell like Indians do in the movies."
