CHARLIE THUT ... he knows Gray County

Thut, Courthouse Both From Lefors

By ED NASH Pampa News Staff Writer Charlie Thut and the Gray County Courthouse came from Lefors to Pampa in 1928. Since then, neither one has moved — the Courthouse from its site nor Thut from his job as county clerk.

Gray County has come a long way from the days when Thut was growing up in Lefors and when he worked in the office of Sheriff-Tax Collector E. S. Graves. In the Courthouse with him then were Rufus Thompson, Jack Back and Ray Wilson, all of whom are now in the Courthouse in Pampa.

Grand Jury Empaneled In District Court

Homer Abbott, of McLean, was elected foreman of the new grand jury in 31st District Court this morning. Dist. Judge Lewis M. Goodrich was in Pampa today to preside over the selection of the new grand jury and sound the docket on upcoming court action.

Adult Group Enrolls 57

There were 57 Pampans enrolled into this morning in the adult education program. Mrs. Dorothy Statton, program secretary, said there were 15 in Spanish, 15 in American Heritage, 15 in Great Books and 12 in World Affairs.

Teachers' Routine Reversed

Pampa Businesses Explain Methods

Pampa school teachers were on a field trip all day Monday, learning first-hand some of the little things that make Pampa's businesses and industrial firms "click." It was the second annual Business-Industry-Education Day pilgrimage by the teachers who were guests at the places of business of 28 Pampa firms and industrial sites.

The activity was similar at each of the firms. Typical Procedure Here's what the teachers saw and did at the Pampa News, one of the participating firms:

The group of four teachers, Mrs. John I. Bradley, Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, Mrs. J. B. Ayres and Robert Payne, was first greeted by Publisher E. Roy Smith who outlined the general procedure of the business of publishing a daily newspaper. Then the group spent some time with Circulation Manager Charles Scott who explained the difficult job of seeing to it that over 7,000 newspapers are delivered daily to subscribers throughout Pampa and several other Top O' Texas cities.

After that, they went to the Advertising Department where they were told the how and why of the department which provides the revenue whereby a newspaper can operate and also were told about the value of the service newspaper advertising renders to the businesses who buy it. Publisher Smith and Advertising Manager Homer Deck explained that operation to them.

United Fund Drive Opens

The 1954 Pampa Community United Fund advance drive kicks off Tuesday. John Campbell, overall drive chairman, late this morning pointed out there would be little of a tangible nature to report — it is just a matter of contacting those who gave in the 1953 advance drive and have not yet done so this year.

The general United Fund drive will be held Oct. 5. Fund Officials are asking that all who contribute do so by means of bank draft. Six hundred letters were sent out a week or so ago to those who contributed in 1953 and Campbell has labeled the response, good. Still, he emphasized, there are a lot more to be heard from.

Japanese Typhoon Toll Nearly 3,000

TOKYO, Sept. 27 — UP — A typhoon whipped through Tsugaru strait in northern Japan Sunday night, overturning and sinking 208 vessels and killing almost 3,000 persons, including 57 Americans. The Americans were among the 1,042 passengers and 111 crewmen on the ferry boat Toya Maru which was capsized by the 118 mile-per-hour winds in the strait between Honshu and Hokkaido islands. More than 1,000 persons were killed in the sinking of the 4,300-ton railroad ferry, which caught fire before it sank. Only one American survived; He was Pfc. Frank Goedken, 21, of Dubuque, Iowa. He escaped through a port hole and fought his way ashore with the aid of a life preserver and a raft.

Attlee Asks SEATO Seat For Chinese

SCARBOROUGH, Eng., Sept. 27 — UP — Former Labor Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee said Monday Communist China is governed by "idealists" and should be admitted to the newly formed southeast Asian defense organization. Attlee spoke at the British Labor Party's annual conference which opened Monday in Scarborough. Dr. Edith Summerskill, former minister of national insurance in Attlee's cabinet, told a cheering pre-conference meeting Sunday night that she invited Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and Chinese Communist Premier Chou-En-Lai to visit Britain next year. Attlee, Dr. Summerskill and six other British Socialists recently returned from a visit to Moscow and Red China. "I believe that we were absolutely right in accepting the invitation to visit China," Attlee told 1,268 delegates.

AND IT COMES OUT HERE The final stage of the newspaper production is in the press room where all the energies of department personnel is at last materialized in the appearance of the paper which rolls from the press. Here the teachers, visiting The Pampa News during B-I-E Day hear Mechanical Superintendent Kendell Green explain this final process. (News Photo)

Discussions Slated On Report Nov. 8

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — UP — A special Senate committee unanimously recommended Monday that the Senate censure Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy on two grounds — for contempt of the Senate and for abusing an Army general.

The Senate has been called back into session Nov. 8 to consider the recommendations of the six-man censure committee headed by Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah).

The committee spent nine days from Aug. 31 to Sept. 13 hearing five general censure charges against the Wisconsin Republican. In Monday's 88-page report it criticized him in strong terms for his conduct in connection with three of the charges but did not propose censure on those counts. The two charges on which the committee did recommend censure were:

- 1. That McCarthy was in contempt of the Senate when he failed to appear before a 1951-52 elections subcommittee that investigated his finances and other activities. The committee said McCarthy was "contemptuous, contumacious, and denunciatory, without reason or justification, and was obstructive to legislative process." 2. That he abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, World War II combat hero and former commander of Camp Kilmer, N.J. McCarthy's conduct toward Zwicker at a secret hearing in New York last February was, the committee found, "reprehensible, and for this conduct he should be censured by the Senate."

On the other three counts in the "indictment" against McCarthy the committee found:

- 1. That charges McCarthy encouraged federal employees to violate their oaths or executive orders, "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure." But it said McCarthy's conduct in inviting federal employees to supply him secret information "cannot be condoned and is deemed improper." 2. That charges he improperly received and used secret government information do not justify censure. But the committee said he "committed a grave error" in this respect. 3. That he used abusive language. (See SENATE, Page 2)

Mendes-France, Dulles Confer

LONDON, Sept. 27 — UP — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles met with French Premier Mendes-France Monday in a dramatic last ditch effort to win a compromise at the nine-power conference on German rearmament which opens here Tuesday. Dulles' meeting apparently was an attempt to smooth American-French relations after the American secretary avoided stopping in Paris during a flying tour of Europe last week. Dulles' action on the trip was considered a snub by Paris.

SEN. JOSEPH MCCARTHY ... faces censure

Three Injured In Collision

Three persons were hospitalized — two Pampans and an Alabamian resident — in a one-car turnover about 7 p. m. Sunday southeast of Lefors. Hospitalized were Carl Ray Cox, 22, of 500 Yeager, the driver; Mrs. Gail Cox, his wife; and Glen Cox, Alabamian. The Coxes' baby was given first-aid treatment and released at Highland General Hospital.

The accident occurred on the Alabamian road, about 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Texas Hwy. 273, the highway patrol reported this morning.

The Cox car ran off the right shoulder of the road, swerved back onto the pavement and, out of control, turned over, patrolmen said. It was reported Cox went off to the right in the first place to avoid an oncoming vehicle that never stopped.

Mrs. Cox and Glen Cox were reported in "fair" condition this morning in the hospital. Carl Cox was reported as "pretty good." Patrolmen said the car was "about a total loss."

"I have been in all sections of this district since I came home, and there isn't one spot that doesn't need rain. Some parts are much harder hit than others, but unless rain is forthcoming within the next few weeks, we could well be in worse condition than ever before."

Mrs. Smith, a 38-year-old divorcee, was shot to death with two guns, one a German Luger, in a grocery store last Monday night. The victim's body was found in a grocery store and got $234. SENATE

(Continued from page one) toward some of his Senate colleagues do not warrant censure. But the committee said McCarthy's remarks about Sen. Ralph Flanders (R-Vt.), whom he had called senile, "were highly improper." But the investigators said McCarthy's remarks were "induced by Sen. Flanders' conduct in respect" to him.

McCarthy was not immediately available for comment on the findings. He was reported to be visiting somewhere in Arizona. The last time the Senate censured a member was Nov. 2, 1929 when it voted 54-22 to censure Sen. Hiram W. Bingham (R-Conn.) for taking a tariff lobbyist into a closed meeting of the Senate Finance committee, which was considering tariff legislation.

On the charge that McCarthy was in contempt of the elections subcommittee the special committee said: "It is therefore the conclusion of the select committee that the conduct of the junior senator from Wisconsin toward the subcommittee on privileges and elections, toward its members, including the statement concerning Senator (Robert C.) Hendrickson (R-N.J.), acting as a member of the subcommittee, was contemptuous, contumacious and denuncatory, without reason or justification, and was obstructive to legislative process."

Censured on Committee Count "For this conduct," the committee concluded, "it is our recommendation that he be censured by the Senate."

McCarthy referred to Hendrickson as a "living miracle... with neither brains nor guts." As to the "Zwickler charge" the committee said: "The select committee concludes that the conduct of Senator McCarthy toward General Zwickler was reprehensible, and that for this conduct he could be censured by the Senate."

The committee also recommended changes in Senate rules to improve procedures of investigating committees. The changes are in line with a resolution introduced by Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.). The censure group studied the rules changes as part of its assignment.

McCarthy, pressing Zwickler for an answer as to who ordered an honorable discharge for Maj. Irving Peress, an Army dentist described by McCarthy as a "Fifth Amendment Communist," told Zwickler at one point in a closed hearing that he was "not fit to wear that uniform."

The committee said McCarthy knew before questioning Zwickler that he had been ordered by higher authority to grant an honorable discharge to Peress and that Zwickler was a "loyal and outstanding" officer.

"Under these circumstances," it said, "the conduct of Senator McCarthy toward General Zwickler in reprimanding and ridiculing him, in holding him up to public scorn and contumely, and in disclosing the proceedings of the executive session in violation of the rules of his own committee, was inexcusable."

(McCarthy, after the closed session at which he questioned Zwickler on Feb. 18, briefed reporters on what had happened.) McCarthy's treatment of Zwickler was one of the factors that led to the Army-McCarthy dispute which was aired before another committee last spring.

TEXAN (Continued from page one) has become pretty much a gathering place and that's the way he likes it. "If a fellow wants to stay in office, he's gotta stay there. Service is what the people want." If there is one person in Gray County who knows just about everyone, that is the man. But not to hear him tell it. "When I first ran for office, I knew everyone in the county," he recalls, adding, "but now there are so many new people coming in." He says it with a grin, though, an indication there are probably very few he does not know.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27-UP—Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has charged Vice President Richard M. Nixon with telling "an outright lie" when he claimed, the Republicans fired "thousands" of Communists from the government. Mitchell said President Eisenhower recently made a similar statement and noted Presidential Assistant Bernard Shanley once "retracted" such a statement. In a television interview (NBC "Youth Wants to Know"), Mitchell was asked to comment on a statement by Nixon the Eisenhower administration had removed "hundreds, yes thousands" of subversives from the government as a result of investigations launched under the President's security program. It said, however, that only 429 cases involved any "subversive information."

Mitchell asserted that the GOP claim voiced by Nixon had been disproved a number of times. The Democrats have charged that the administration lumped as "subversives" all government employees who resigned or who were removed for a variety of reasons. Early this year, the Civil Service Commission reported that 2,488 federal workers had been separated or allowed to resign as a result of investigations launched under the President's security program. It said, however, that only 429 cases involved any "subversive information."

Mitchell said the vice president made "an outright falsehood." A bit later he was asked to "clear up" his statement. The questioner wanted to know if he was accusing Nixon of "an outright lie." Mitchell said he was and added: "Is that clear? I hope it's clear to him, too." Early this year, the Civil Service Commission reported that 2,488 federal workers had been separated or allowed to resign as a result of investigations launched under the President's security program. It said, however, that only 429 cases involved any "subversive information."

Teenagers Charged In Child's Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27-UP—Charges of murder were filed Monday against two teen-age male baby sitters who admitted beating to death with belts and fists Saturday an 18-month-old boy whom they considered backward because he "had not learned to walk." The charge carries a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair.

The youths, step-brothers, were identified by detectives as James Brewer, 16, and Benjamin West McGrew, 17. An inquiry was made into the death of tiny Thomas Harris after an autopsy report disclosed the infant died of a brain hemorrhage. The youths, who first said the baby fell out of a bed, signed statements and said they beat the child for more than three hours. Leo Z. Harris, the baby's mother, said she hired the youths to take care of her five children while she was working. The baby-sitters said they fed the children lunch and took four of them to the Harris home next door for afternoon naps.

"Tommy wasn't through eating yet," one of the youths said. "He is slower than the rest. When he got through, I took him in the front room and tried to get him to stand up." "He wouldn't stand up, he just clung to my knees and looked at me. I'd turn him loose and he would fall down. I'd make him take his hands away from my knees, and he would fall down again." "I slapped him a few times because he wouldn't stand up," the boy said. He said he slapped the baby "maybe three or four times about the head and then spanked him."

The boys said both used the buckle end of a belt and struck the baby several times about the sex organs because he wouldn't stand up. Later they said they picked the baby up and slammed him against the floor. "He acted kinda funny after that," one of the youths said. "He started breathing hard, and he had a funny look in his eyes."

Baby Sitter, Charge, 4, Murdered

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 27-UP—A madman who butthered to death a pretty teen-ager and the babe she was minding, was hunted here Monday by police who admittedly had few clues. At least 42 stab wounds were inflicted on Lynn Ann Smith, 14, and her charge, four-year-old Stephen Goldberg, in the most fiendish double murder that authorities here could recall. The victims also were beaten with a hammer after death.

The horribly mangled bodies were discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg after the couple admitted to the Goldberg home shortly before the killings are believed to have taken place. Police deduced from this that Lynn probably knew her killer. Capt. James McCarthy, chief of detectives, has ordered police to watch for a man fitting that meager description who might also bear severe scratches suffered in a struggle with the girl.

Police already have questioned a dozen of the girl's boy friends in hopes of getting a lead, but without success. The girl, a ninth-grade student, lay in a pool of blood in a hallway leading from the front door. The child was found massacred in his bed. Lynn was stabbed 38 times, little Stephen 24.

An unidentified neighbor told police she saw a thin man about six feet tall and wearing a felt hat admitted to the Goldberg home shortly before the killings are believed to have taken place. Police deduced from this that Lynn probably knew her killer. Capt. James McCarthy, chief of detectives, has ordered police to watch for a man fitting that meager description who might also bear severe scratches suffered in a struggle with the girl.

All Britain Guesses As To Winnie Plans

By WILBUR LANDREY LONDON, Sept. 27-UP—Winston Churchill was always a man who could keep a secret and the doughty old gentleman seems to be enjoying himself hugely keeping one of the biggest of all: Is he going to retire? Churchill will be 80 in a few weeks. He began his political career when Victoria was queen. He has outlived all his contemporaries—Roosevelt, Stalin, Hitler, and Mussolini.

His health has been failing. He has suffered two strokes in the past four years. He has been pushing his almost certain successor, Anthony Eden, more and more into the forefront. But Churchill has not been acting like a man about to step aside. His forceful personality will be one of the dominant factors behind the scenes at the nine-nation conference opening here Tuesday to try to fit Germany into the West's military structure.

Gossip is Buzzing Just the same, as it does every year about this time, the gossip is buzzing that the "old man" is about to call it quits. The speculation comes at this time because the Conservative party holds its annual convention Oct. 9. Churchill will speak on the final day. It is in this setting the prime minister would be most likely to tell of his future political plans. A party member in his own constituency, Capt. John Thirkell, said this month Churchill would stay in office.

"I have it on good authority that Sir Winston Churchill plans not only to continue in office as prime minister but he also intends to represent Woodford division in Parliament for a considerable time to come," Thirkell said. But whether Thirkell's "high authority" was Churchill himself is doubtful. Friends report privately that recently Churchill growled: "Those who want me to retire will have to wait for the next stroke."

The prime minister suffered a stroke four years ago at the Riviera villa of his longtime friend, Lord Beaverbrook. The second, and much more serious one, was little over a year ago when his scheduled Bermuda meeting with President Eisenhower had to be postponed suddenly. A close friend said he was almost completely paralyzed then and his family and physician despaired. But by sheer will power he came back. Since then he has flown both to Bermuda and the United States to meet Mr. Eisenhower. And he has left no doubt his is the hand which guides the affairs of Britain. Churchill is, first and foremost, a politician. His is the precept that statesmen, no matter how great, are of little use out of office.

Batchelor May Try Plea Of Insanity

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 27-UP—A deposition by a New York psychiatrist, dealing with "brainwashing" of POW's by the Chinese Communists, will be introduced Monday as the trial of ex-progressive Cpl. Claude Batchelor nears a close. The court martial of the Kermit, Tex., soldier on charges he aided the enemy while a prisoner has been recessed five days—since last Tuesday—to permit the psychiatrist, Dr. Leon Freedom, to complete the deposition. Lt. Col. Donald L. Manes Jr., the laws officer judge of the court martial will study the deposition to decide whether Batchelor's lawyers can use temporary insanity by reason of brainwashing as a defense.

If he decides such a defense is permissible, the Army is expected to put on witnesses in rebuttal; if not, there probably will be no more testimony. In any event, the trial is expected to end Monday or Tuesday. Batchelor, 22, is charged with collaboration and with latching on fellow prisoners. Batchelor testified before the recess that the Reds planned to send agents into the United States and have them infiltrate "sensitive spots," such as the New York police department, the FBI and the Army's counter-intelligence corps. He testified, however, that he wasn't acting under orders from Chinese captors when he gave up plans to become a "peace fighter," accepted repatriation and tried to get in the counter-intelligence corps.

A prospective defense witness said Thursday he was cursed and abused by several other witnesses in a San Antonio tavern. The witness, Robert H. Hickox of Syracuse, N. Y., said he was cursed, liquor was thrown in his face and he was almost choked before the tavern's bouncer came to his rescue.

Lamar School Cubs Organize An organizational meeting for a new Cub pack, sponsored by Lamar School, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today in the school auditorium. Ray Fancher, Santa Fe District organization and extension committee chairman, late this morning said that he and three committee members would be on hand for the get-together. An estimated 75 to 100 persons are expected to be present. Fancher said, pointing out that 50 Lamar students had indicated interest during the recent Scout school survey.

The program will take an estimated 1 1/2 hours, Fancher said, and is expected to close with the actual pack organization. The pack will be No. 15 and will be the first Scout group in that area of the city, Fancher continued. Both parents and prospective Cubs will be on hand tonight. Another Cub pack is expected to be organized in Groom a week from tonight.

Men's Night At Revival As part of the tent revival of the Central Baptist Church at E. Francis and Starkweather, a special "Men's Night" service will be held at 7:45 p.m. today. Special feature will be a 60-voice men's choir. Joe Boyd, all-American tackle for Texas A&M College in 1935, is the evangelist and will preach on "The Brazen Serpent." During the Sunday evening service, Evangelist Boyd preached to an estimated crowd of 700 persons. Special music was a hymn, "Take My Hand, Precious Lord," by a sextet composed of Misses Joyce Adams, Rena Webb, Mary Ann Becker, Jo Ann Cox, Joyce Roenfeldt and Mrs. Sue Davies. Services are conducted daily at 10 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Nurseries are open in the church during all services.

School Board Meets Today The teachers do not have to work today, but the Pampa school board does. Board members, ignoring the fact that this is Business-Industry Education Day, are scheduled to meet at 5 p.m. today in the school business office in City Hall, according to Herman Whitley, board president. Only routine items are on the agenda for the first board meeting of the month, Whitley said.

Crouch Rites Held Today

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. today for Mrs. Dixie Kauneil Crouch, 22, who died Saturday night at Highland General Hospital. Services were held in the First Baptist Church with Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mrs. Crouch died a day after giving birth to a daughter. She had been a resident of Pampa for 20 years, having graduated from Pampa High School in 1930. Besides her infant daughter, she is survived by her husband, Jimmy, of 206 N. Wynne; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Johnson, 2109 Duncan and a brother Blaine Johnson, a student at North Texas State College at Denton.

Concrete Poured On New Bridge The pouring of caps and concrete work was underway this morning at the site of the proposed Canadian River bridge, between Pampa and Perryton, on which the driving of piling "benis" was completed last week; resident highway engineers reported late this morning.

June Talk

BY JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

AS A SIDELINE today, I thought I'd tell you about Frances Hofess' trip to Mexico, as she told it to me. Frances and George took their daughters with them, Anne and Julie, and drove down to Monterrey and through that area.

FRANCES SAYS she was amazed at the size of Monterrey. It has a population of about 700,000 people and is quite an industrial town. One of Mexico's leading industrial towns, she believed. They were there over the Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16, and Frances says it was quite a sight with big parades and fireworks. Just like our Fourth of July celebrations.

The "promenades" fascinated the Hofesses. These are held in the town square, usually around a raised bandstand. The girls walk in a circle one way and the boys in a circle the other way. When the band starts playing, the boys choose a partner and everybody dances. Of course the chaperones are always watching carefully from the sidelines.

Leather Coverings Glamorize Homes

It won't be long now before housewives all over the country are lacking a traditional summer chaise — taking the slip covers off the living room chairs and sofas.

As usual, a lot of women aren't going to like what they see underneath. The furniture always looks shabbier than in the spring, and Dad will get to wondering whether his overstuffed chair will hold out another winter.

Today, though, many homemakers have found a way out. They've discovered leather — in chairs, sofas, tables, desks and the like — adds beauty and glamor to some of America's smartest homes, as well as taking the drudgery out of housework. You will find that the new leather finishes are almost completely soil-proof.

Now available in more than 400 colors, upholstered leather pieces are today favorites of leading decorators who use them to lend elegance to every part of the home. Because of its versatility and many different hues — from the classic browns, blacks and greys to the new jewel-toned shades and pastels — leather can be blended with every period of furniture.

And from the housewife's viewpoint, leather upholstery is heaven-sent. Not only is it quite literally tough as a steer's hide, its handsome glossy finish is impervious to such hazards as spilled ink and Junior's muddy shoes. Every housewife who has sedately surveyed the ring marks on her lovely tables will be delighted to hear that the new leather finishes are also alcohol resistant. Both alcohol and food stains can be removed by rubbing with a dry cloth and then sponging with ordinary soap and water.

A Cozy Set

A cute jacket made from navy felt with crocheted (or knitted) sleeves and edging in red plus a matching headcovering will delight your little sweetheart and help to keep her cozy and warm.

Pattern No. 5498 contains tissue for felt pieces of jacket in sizes 2, 4 and 6; headcovering directions, crocheted or knitted instructions for sleeves and edging; material requirements; sewing directions and stitch illustrations.

ces explained. The courtyards usually have large banana trees and lots of ferns and are "gorgeous." Every window on the street also has an ornate grillwork in front of it. Once, one of the girls stopped and whispered, "Oh, Mother! Look! They've got a woman in jail." So Frances had to explain about the grillwork.

In one of the eating places they visited, Frances told of a place in one corner where there were all sorts of tropical birds sitting on the branches of a tree. As there was no screen or cage to keep them in one spot, she asked the waiter what they did if one of the birds flew out of the corner. His answer was that they just "spanked" them.

WINDOWS ARE ALWAYS an important feature of any room. One of the most popular treatments of windows that I noticed in material I've received on the subject, is curving rods and valances. When used in dinette or dining room, you can achieve a Colonial effect by using curved rods, with white ruffled valance and white ruffled curtains, drawn back about halfway down. In a parlor, it can give a formal effect by using a pleated valance of heavy drapery material, with white curtains hanging straight.

Cafe curtains are very popular now to give a "relaxed" tone to almost any room in the house. The double sets go well in a living room, or you can combine them with the more formal draperies in a family room, den or bedroom. They also go well singly in a kitchen, using a narrow ruffled valance with them. You can achieve almost any effect you desire with these curtains.

OUR CONTEST for Pampa's most distinguished man is coming along. The leading contender now is Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., who is well out in front this time. Others nominated are Dr. R. M. Bellamy, Dr. E. Douglas Carver, Dr. Lloyd M. Hicks, Ed Myatt and E. Roy Smith.

If you haven't voted, let's get busy. Either mail your vote or the name of the man you want to nominate on a card to Jane Talk Contest, Pampa Daily News, Pampa. You don't have to sign your name. You can vote for someone already nominated or you can submit someone else's name. Let's really make this a bang-up contest!

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS, cooked American family style, are always popular.

Cook's Nook

Swedish Meat Ball Recipe From Minneapolis Is Tops

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
When we were in Minneapolis, several Swedish-American cooks gave us their recipes. The basic ideas come from the Old Country, but they have been adapted to American tastes and methods.

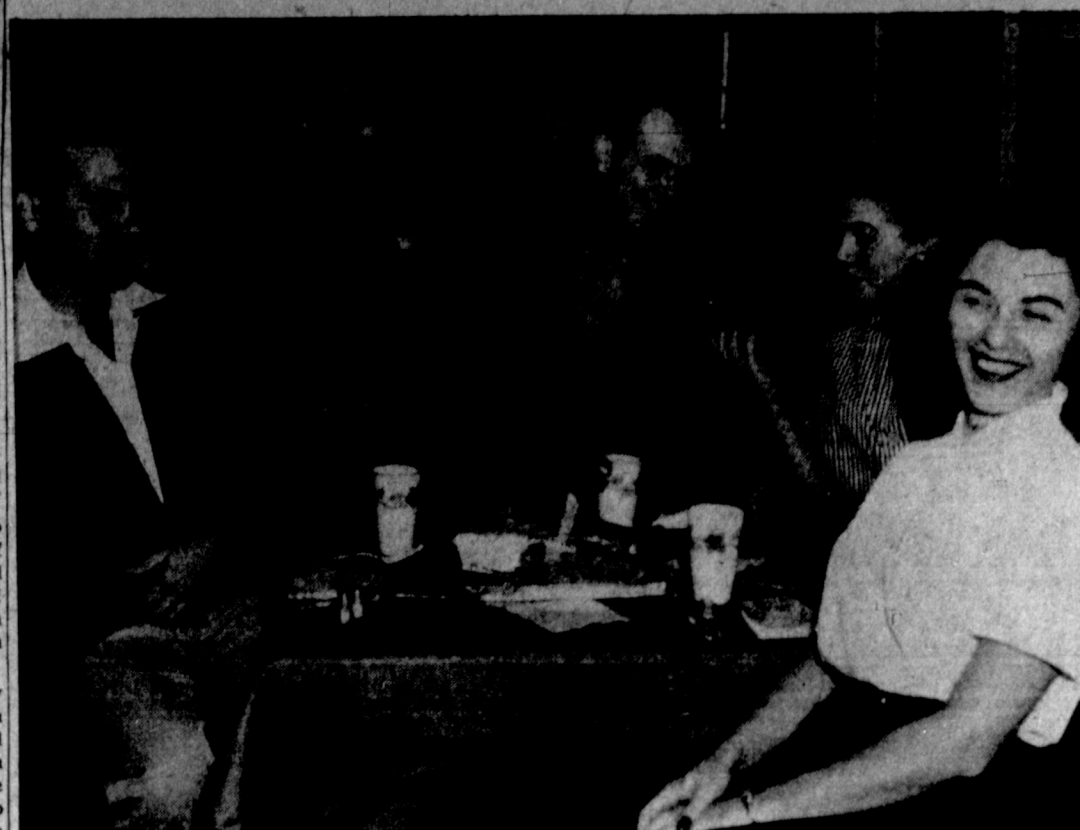

Swedish Meat Balls
Family Style
(Yield: 4 to 6 servings)

One pound hamburger, 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon allspice, 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves, 1 egg, 4 slices dry bread, flour, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups water.
Combine meat, onion, seasonings and egg. Dip bread in water and squeeze dry. Crumble bread into very small bits and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Form into small balls, roll in flour, and brown in hot fat. When all the balls are well browned, remove from skillet. Pour off drippings. Measure back 2 tablespoons drippings. Add 2 tablespoons flour. Stir until smooth.

Gradually add water, stirring constantly until thickened. Boil 5 minutes. Return meat balls to skillet. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes. Season gravy to taste.
Crisp Swedish Nut Crescents
(Yield: 9 dozen)
One-quarter cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, well beaten; 2 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-1/2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup chopped pecans, 1/2 cup sugar.
Cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into butter mixture. Spread dough very thin (and evenly) on bottom of greased inverted 8 x 8-inch pans. Sprinkle with nut meats and sugar. Mark in strips 1/4 by 4 inches.
Bake 1 pan at a time 10 to 12 minutes in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.). While hot cut into strips and shape over a rolling pin. If strips become too brittle to shape, return to oven to reheat and soften.

BGK Sorority Has Treasure Hunt Fete

Member of Beta Gamma Kappa sorority feted their husbands and escorts with a buffet supper Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. W. L. Heskew, 1120 N. Somerville. Hostesses were Mrs. L. C. McMurry and Mrs. Jack Benton.

In keeping with the Treasure Hunt theme, the individual tables were centered with a miniature island of sand, miniature treasure chests, palm trees, maps and spades. The large table was covered with a green cloth, on which were larger maps covered by a fish net, and a larger treasure chest from which "jewels" were spilled.

Following the meal the couples went on a treasure hunt. Winning group was Mr. and Mrs. Bill Braly and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Johnson. The group placing second included Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hilburn and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bridges. Dessert and coffee were served after the treasure hunt in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster, 1228 Williston.

RUTH MILLET

A wife and mother of several small children says she is "unutterably lonely" because her husband, who has many friends, rarely brings anyone home.

Instead of planning some social life with his wife he leaves her at home with the children while he plays golf, meets friends goes to various club meetings, etc. She can't see any way out of the situation since her husband seems perfectly satisfied with things as they are.

There is a way out, if she is ready to rebel against being the neglected "little woman" and get busy making a social life that includes them both.

The first thing she should do, of course, is to make some friends of her own. If she starts by inviting only one couple to dinner, she should make it quite clear to her husband that she expects him to be at home to act as host.

After they have entertained a few of her friends, she can suggest that he might like to include some of his friends next time they entertain.

But whether he does or not — she shouldn't give up her plan to entertain in her own home, with her husband sharing the honors.

No husband has the right to work out a social life that excludes his wife. But if a husband doesn't include his wife in his plans, then she should include him in plans she makes herself.

A man can't turn a wife into "the little woman" unless she wants to play that passive role.

Woman-Designed Homes Have Lots Of Cedar Closets

When women design homes, you can be sure they provide for plenty of storage space. This was demonstrated recently by two Michigan homemakers who, without previous technical experience, personally planned houses to suit their own ideas of comfortable living.

The beautiful new Clarence A. Collier home in Sault Ste. Marie was built to accurately scaled plans drawn by Mrs. Collier and Mr. Collier did most of the construction, both of them holding down full-time jobs at the time.

The utility room of the Collier home is lined with cupboards for provisions. The recreation room has a large closet for coats. An expansive, open living room is divided from a combination vestibule-hall by a long tier of book-cases in birch plywood, with bare storage cabinets all along the opposite side. And, to fill the moths, two closets are lined with aromatic red cedar — one in the hall and a larger, walk-in type in the master bedroom.

In Saginaw, Mich., Mrs. Clement D. Lagalo designed her family's new ranch-type house with cottage style room. To utilize the attic for extra storage, she concealed an entrance to it in a bedroom wardrobe. The latter, occupied by a 4-year-old daughter, has a bed with a built-in toy chest in the headboard and a cedar-lined storage drawer in its foot. To safeguard woollens from moths, the hallway has a tightly-fitted cedar-lined closet.

Unimpressed

One of the big victories of the Eisenhower administration was the new farm bill, which establishes the principle of flexible, rather than fixed, price supports.

It's a safe bet, though that Joseph Blattner, an 81-year-old chicken farmer of Norristown, Pennsylvania, is unimpressed. Blattner is against farm price supports in any size or hue.

Like many other farmers, he is against any government program that tells farmers what to do and how much to plant. Blattner is unique, however, in that he has translated his convictions into action. He's suing Uncle Sam.

Former Blattner's dispute with the U. S. Government arose over his contention that he needs all the 24 acres of wheat he planted this year to feed his 6,000 hens. The government says he can only raise 16 acres of wheat, and has notified him that he must pay a penalty of $179.20 for exceeding his allotment.

A farmer since boyhood, Blattner says he has never asked for nor received assistance of any kind from federal agencies.

In his suit, Mr. Blattner asks the court to declare the wheat planting control regulations of all Federal farm acts since 1938 unconstitutional.

The suit states that the government's penalty deprives him of property without due process of law, in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

Blattner contends that his chicken and egg output is sold within the county in which he lives, and that all the corn and wheat he harvests is used to feed his own chickens. Therefore, he reasons, no authority vested in the federal government by virtue of its rights to regulate interstate commerce is applicable in his case.

As reported in the Wall Street Journal, Blattner's complaint also says "the government has restricted his right to market wheat to his neighbors by denying him a wheat marketing card because of the claim that he has harvested more wheat than permitted. He also is prohibited from buying wheat from his neighbors who may not have such a card. The complaint claims the acts of the government will put him out of business, since the prices of his eggs and chickens are not arbitrarily fixed, while the feed the government is forcing him to buy to produce his product is so fixed."

Farmers in every state will watch to see what success Blattner has in establishing his two chief demands: that the government be restrained from collecting any penalty from him, and that government agents be enjoined from preventing him from raising his usual crops on his land.

Another rugged individualist, industrialist Vivion Kellens, has been trying for years to force a court decision on the constitutionality of the withholding tax. In that case, the government has sidestepped the issue by refusing to be sued. It remains to be seen whether Blattner has any better luck.

Ethel Merman Guest Column Told 'How To Hold A Wife'

By J. P. McEVROY (For Henry McLemore)

Dear Ethel: My wife tells me you wrote a guest column recently about how tired you are of those "How to Hold Your Husband" articles in the women's magazines. How about "How to Hold Your Wife" for a change, says you and hauled off and did it yourself.

The best way to hold a wife, if she is quoting you correctly, is to dress her all up like an Elk's Carnival one night a week and take her out on the town.

I asked my wife if she really believed such nonsense and she said there was a chance you could be wrong about this, but she was willing to take a chance on it.

I mused, "You know I don't think I've taken you out stepping since the night prohibition ended. Ah, that was a night, wasn't it?"

"That must have been the other time you took somebody out," my wife cracked. "The last time you invited me to shuck my old wrapper and dry my dishpan hands was the night I went to the opening of 'Stars in Your Eyes' which you wrote for Ethel and Jimmy Durante. Remember?"

"You never looked lovelier," I told her.

"I know how I looked," said my wife. "I had a baby the next day. Remember?"

And then she said that you'd remember, too, Ethel, because after the show we all went to a party at the Stork Club and Sherman Billingsley asked my wife if she'd mind doing a little publicity stunt for him.

"Sure, anything to do," said Sherman said. "Have my baby here at the Stork Club and make all the front pages."

"I remembered," I said. "That's the night I remembered you — that Sherman Billingsley — a thousand dollars to start — let every one of us get off to the

BETTER JOBS

Comparing City Fire Departments With Private Ones

An article in a recent issue of Reader's Digest under the heading of "In Case of Fire" relates how obsolete red fire boxes are compared with telephone notifications of fire.

The writer of the article seems to be surprised that city fire departments are not progressive and cost conscious. Of course, the Reader's Digest would hardly run any article that didn't agree with the popular opinion that fire departments are the natural function of a city government. This magazine would hardly stand for anything that was unpopular because it seems to have a case of popularity drunkenness. The only kind of article it runs is about something that is popular.

This article goes on to show how expensive these little red boxes are that have been used for years and how wasteful they are and how many more false alarms are given by fire box notification than there are by telephone.

Private Fire Department

But those people who believe that the government—federal, state or local—should be limited to stopping aggression and fraud and not try to protect people from their own folly, realize that the fire departments would be much more efficient and their charges would be much less and more justly apportioned if the fire departments were owned and run by private insurance companies rather than by the city. If fire insurance companies operated the fire departments, undoubtedly these little red boxes would have been discarded long ago and a modern method of notification would be used in place of them. If the fire departments were owned by fire insurance companies where competition governed the cost of the service, those people who built buildings that were practically fire proof would not be penalized, as they are now, when the city owns the fire departments. When the city owns the fire departments, the more an owner spends on a building to make it fire proof, the more he has to pay to the fire departments, because his valuation is higher than it would be if he built a cheap fire trap.

If the fire departments were owned by fire insurance companies, the rates would be in proportion to the risk, as is fire insurance. Again, if the fire departments were owned by private insurance companies, there would be no charge for protection of vacant lots that can't burn up, as there is when the city owns the fire departments. And again, if the fire departments were owned by fire insurance companies, the firemen would not be kept in idleness waiting to be called to a fire. They would be producing something of value. When the fire department is owned by the city, it gets into politics and some state laws prevent firemen from working more than so many hours a week, which would not be the case if the state did not interfere and they were operated on a competitive basis by private insurance companies.

People seem to be so indoctrinated with the idea that the city should operate fire departments that they never give a thought to having them operated on a competitive basis. It seems to be in the air that the city is supposed to do more and more things. And when the city owns the fire departments, it is only a question of time until the city wants to tell people how to build their buildings. If the city was not in the fire department business, self-interest would make the builders try to build so that the cost of their insurance and their fire departments would be as low as possible, just as it is lower for fire insurance when buildings are fire proof.

The reason, of course, why private fire insurance companies could operate fire departments more efficiently and more economically is that the owners and the workers can be more nearly rewarded for their services on a free market basis than when they are operated by politicians, who only seem to be interested in getting more power into their hands.

In the opinion of the headquarters and clubhouse crowd, the Adams school of political thought has persuaded the President to alienate almost every large bloc of voters in the land. They have been too stiff-necked and uncompromising in their relations with Congress, the Party and the people.

Most every test suggests that their farm program has cost the Republicans the support of normally Republican voters through the wheat and cattle belts, where it was expected that the GOP would show gains in the November election. President Eisenhower still holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

Moreover, the policies which he has espoused, or which he has been forced to follow by unsympathetic Republicans on Capitol Hill, do not seem to have won the general approval of the electorate. He is blamed for the company he keeps by many who voted for him, despite their distrust of the Party which nominated him.

As of today, and it is doubtful if Ike's calls for the election of Republicans can change the situation; impartial observers believe that Democratic capture of House and Senate is almost a certainty. When Republican analysts talk frankly and privately, they attribute their sudden slump in popular esteem to Eisenhower's policies and to his trust in an insulated circle of advisers at the White House, especially the Eastern clique headed by Sherman Adams of New Hampshire.

Anti-G.O.P. Pattern Shows Up In Tests Of Recent Voting

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Republicans' concern over prospective loss of congress in November is not based on ballot-box reversals in Maine and other sections of the country, including heavy Democratic turnouts in primaries so far held. It is recognized that these upsets could be due to local conditions, personalities and issues, as some cautious Democrats concede.

Their real worry, based on a headquarters canvass of the results, derives from their realization that a definite pattern of anti-Republican revulsion shows up in all these tests. GOP, they fear, has lost caste with almost every class or group of voters — urban and rural, farmers and factory workers, conservatives and liberals, the eggheads and independents, and especially among the women.

President Eisenhower still holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

Moreover, the policies which he has espoused, or which he has been forced to follow by unsympathetic Republicans on Capitol Hill, do not seem to have won the general approval of the electorate. He is blamed for the company he keeps by many who voted for him, despite their distrust of the Party which nominated him.

As of today, and it is doubtful if Ike's calls for the election of Republicans can change the situation; impartial observers believe that Democratic capture of House and Senate is almost a certainty. When Republican analysts talk frankly and privately, they attribute their sudden slump in popular esteem to Eisenhower's policies and to his trust in an insulated circle of advisers at the White House, especially the Eastern clique headed by Sherman Adams of New Hampshire.

In the opinion of the headquarters and clubhouse crowd, the Adams school of political thought has persuaded the President to alienate almost every large bloc of voters in the land. They have been too stiff-necked and uncompromising in their relations with Congress, the Party and the people.

Most every test suggests that their farm program has cost the Republicans the support of normally Republican voters through the wheat and cattle belts, where it was expected that the GOP would show gains in the November election. President Eisenhower still holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

"My eight-year-old daughter," writes Mrs. A. "has had pinworms off and on 10 times in less than three years. I have taken her to four doctors but nothing seems to help her. She is a nervous child and restless at night."

Mrs. P. says she is at her wit's end about the same problem: "I am a mother of small children and have found they have pinworms and am almost beside myself trying to find a cure."

THESE LETTERS show what is well known to doctors, that pinworms are hard to get rid of. Often the reason for this is not that they can't be eliminated but that reinfection is all too easy. In families of several children—or in institutions where many youngsters live close together—the problem is toughest to deal with because one youngster may get rid of them only to catch them again from another.

Pinworms are one of several kinds of animal parasites which have a liking for the human intestinal tract. They live in comfort inside the bowel, usually laying their eggs near the outlet and thus causing itching in this area.

YOUNGSTERS WITH pinworms are likely to be nervous and irritable, suffer from difficulty in sleeping, and may even have convulsions. Any of these signs—or observing the worms in the intestinal waste—call for an examination with the microscope.

As indicated by Mrs. A. and Mrs. P. treatment may be discouraging. But there are some good remedies which usually work. If they don't work the first time the motto should be "try, try again." These medicines, however, are often not enough to bring about permanent cure, particularly if there are other children in the family who have a few parasites and are all set to pass them on again.

THIS CAN HAPPEN through the use of bed linen, pajamas or other clothing, or the use of the same toilet. Consequently good hygiene is just about as important as treatment.

Harriman Nomination Shows Our Moral, Spiritual Decline

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — The very fact that Averell Harriman can be seriously put forth as a candidate for Governor of New York is a grim sign of our political, moral and spiritual decline. Taken in conjunction with Jimmy Roosevelt's nomination for Congress in California in spite of the disgusting implications in the correspondence with his wife concerning many other women, and Franklin Jr.'s bumptiousness in New York, this is a depressing development.

These two Roosevelts personify their father and mother. Thus, their prominence and their considerable popularity are a reliable sign that we have positively abandoned standards in which we, as a people, formerly took pride. Better stipulate, however, that great portion of the presently qualified electors are young ones who grew up to maturity under the Roosevelt influence. They never knew a time when the White House was beyond exploitation. They were "conditioned," as the jargon has it, to slip-knot marital bonds, scandal and more or less white graft.

Harriman is 63 years old. He is the son of old Edward H. Harriman, a railroad promoter out of Wall Street, who is only a minor name in recent history to most of us. Averell grew up in the region of the Roosevelt barony at Hyde Park and was a familiar of the supercilious and effete "aristocracy" who lived in castles on wide grounds, all tended by cheap local labor and cheap "trained" household from Europe. Roosevelt himself had his governess and his cute little pony cart. His mama whisked the dear boy away on a cruise to try to cure him of an infatuation for a she-curse of remote degree. He married before he had ever earned a dollar and it is doubtful that he ever bore the manly burden of supporting his own family. And, as a key commentary, not one of their five children ever spent an hour in a public school. So much for their "democracy!"

That is the atmosphere in which Harriman grew. Rather well along in years for athletics, he took up polo and played well. He went into the railroads inherited from his father and appears to have had success under conditions which precluded failure. He went into politics as an "administrator" of Roosevelt's fascist venture, the N.R.A., in 1934. The marked preference for the term "administrator" in this and other phases of Roosevelt's distasteful gives me no support that he had in his mind Colonel E. M. House's plan for the overthrow of the Constitution. The packing of the courts, the heavy-handed subjugation of political opponents and the dissolution of the states were projected in House's novel, "Philip Dray: Administrator." Harriman was one of the earliest. Thereafter he became ambassador to both Britain and Russia and, following the war, he served about 18 months as Secretary of Commerce under Truman.

Harriman's really ominous phase was his hitch as lend-lease "administrator" in Moscow. We sent some of the most alarming characters at large at the time to several foreign countries to throw our treasure away on contemptuous recipients. But in Russia, Harriman deliberately forced on a plainly hostile power which was building for a post-war industrial future in competition with the civilized West, enormous masses of equipment which could have nothing to do with her current military effort against the Nazis. There is abundant testimony on this in the memoirs of many of his colleagues in that fantastic orgy. Even Harry Truman had realized, in one flash of reason, possibly his last ere he succumbed to the brain-washing, that Russia was no less our enemy than Germany. He said so, obscurely, the day after Hitler attacked Russia but he was nobody then and his remark was lost. The time came when the same man presided in our name at the summit to Stalin of the victory which our people had won in war.

Henry Wallace well expressed the New Deal dementia when he insisted in one of his gibbering rants that Russia must be built up into a great industrial power to replace obliterated Germany. Henry Mor-genthau formally prescribed that Averell Harriman be the victor obliteration with a further stipulation that the United States should pull out and leave Germany to her neighbors. That would have meant that Russia would sweep to the channel, The Pyrenees and the Mediterranean. It would be pleasant to think that these great men were fools. But we have to assume that they knew what they were doing.

"Unfortunately," Deane wrote, "We read in 'Strange Alliance' by General John R. Deane, the head of our military mission in Moscow, that after Hitler's attack had definitely failed at Stalingrad the Soviet became more and more demanding. We had helped them put out the fire and now they assumed that we would continue to submit to his direction in helping to rebuild the house."

"We did. Now that the house is finished, we have only a nodding acquaintance."

We sent 1,900 steam locomotives; 66 diesels, 992 flat cars, 1,000 dump cars, more than one billion dollars worth of machinery and industrial equipment and countless miles of fine copper cable for manufacturing and wire communication after the war. Total cost to us was about 11 billions. Not a dollar has ever been paid back.

Harriman "was looked upon, after Roosevelt, as the father of American aid." He was "received everywhere outside Moscow with acclaim."

We offered to continue sending such massive gifts after the victory but we asked 2% per cent over 25 years and the Russians haggled for 2 per cent. They might as well have agreed to 20 per cent, for they weren't going to pay, anyway. But the haggling continued until after V. E. Day so the deal wasn't made. So, fortunately, we put a stop-loss on the situation, no thanks to Averell Harriman.

Can any American city or state seriously think of electing Harriman on his record? An appalling number of New York voters would be glad to.

The Nation's Press

HAVE WE TWO PARTIES? (The American Reporter) BY SENATOR JACK B. TENNEY

Los Angeles.—Informed observers of the political parade have foreseen the ultimate capture of the Republican Party by left-wing forces for a number of years. The capture of the Democratic Party, which is now probably complete, made the conquest of the last stronghold of American principles—the Republican Party—inevitable. The two-party system, sound and practical on paper, becomes a set-up in reality. Only so long as the advocates of a two party system adhere to a common cause—the best interests of the people they would serve—may the respective parties prove effective vehicles for the determination of political action. When an alien force—a force that works for interests other than the interests of the people it purports to represent; when such a force gains power; when it inexorably moves to annul the fundamental purpose of a two-party system, i.e., as vehicles for the selection of political action or governmental policy.

This process has been going on for a number of years, 1936 may be the dead-line. For many years most informed Americans looked upon the captured Democratic Party as the left-wing party; the party of socialists and internationalists—the party "soft on communism." These same Americans put their hope in the Republican Party. Today informed Americans have lost this last hope. The Republican party now appears to be as thoroughly controlled by socialist and internationalist forces as is the Democratic Party.

The Congressional elections in November may be the final preface for catastrophe in 1956. The primary elections of this year indicated the strength of left-wing groups within Republican high command. In many instances, conservative Republicans were struck down by international, left-wing candidates masquerading as Republicans, so that the voters have no valid choice—except as between political labels—in the November elections. It has now become apparent that the "back Eisenhower" candidates are supine captives of the internationalist-socialist forces, and that "Citizens for Eisenhower" back left-wing Democratic candidates over Republicans who stand on the Constitution.

It should be apparent to any informed observer that a "back Eisenhower" landslide in November means collectivism and world government in the future. If the next Congress is an Eisenhower rubberstamp Congress the work of Roosevelt and Truman should be concluded during the next national administration.

The American people have been so thoroughly brain-washed that they no longer appear to be able to pierce the fog of propaganda deceit that whirls about them. Pumped full of the "brotherhood of man," "world peace," "economic justice" and other propaganda slogans they cannot recognize the head that betrays them.

THE WILES OF WILEY.

MOPSY by GLADYS PARKER

THE FISHING POLE? OH, I ALWAYS DIG UP A LOT OF SWELL WORMS.

We must watch wily old Senator Wiley on this matter of the United Nations veto. The veto is the only instrument for retaining our sovereignty which the UN charter provides. So, naturally, the internationalists are very anxious to get rid of it. Senator Wiley is chairman of the Senate Committee on Revision of The UN Charter. If this committee recommends the removal of the veto, it will be "goodbye United States." Our enemies have raised a big racket over so-called "McCarthyism." It's time for loyal Americans to start holding over "THE WILES OF WILEY."

PAMPA WAS WELL REPRESENTED for the Ben Hogan exhibition golf match in Amarillo yesterday. Guess there must have been at least 50 who drove over to see the "master" in action.

Hogan didn't disappoint us any. I believe his consistent 300-yard plus down the middle drives drew the most "ohs and ahs" from the huge gallery of about 2,000.

Bantam Ben, though, who is well known as a fine putter, was having his troubles on the carpets yesterday. He even three-putted one green.

Hogan only ran down one "longie" during the match—a 25-footer. He did come close on several other long putts.

Professional Jack Smith of the Amarillo Country Club outshone Hogan on the greens.

And Baxter was keeping abreast of Ben off the tee boxes.

Overall, of course, Hogan was the master.

Hogan and Farquhar (an 18-year-old) teamed against Baxter and Smith and were defeated, 3-2.

Individually, though, Hogan was all even in match play and medal at the conclusion of 18 with Baxter and Smith and held a 4-2 margin over Farquhar.

Hogan, Smith and Baxter all fired 68s—four under par.

WELL, TOP OF TEXAS GOLFING enthusiasts are in for another treat this week.

Miss Betsy Rawls, one of the finest lady golfers in the country, will be in Pampa Wednesday to appear in an exhibition match.

Betsy, in fact, is a former National Ladies Champion. She won the national crown in 1952.

It will certainly be interesting to see how our own city ladies champion, Lila Austin, compares with Betsy on the links. Lila will be playing in the foursome Wednesday along with Betsy and two men players, pro Joe Houck of Borger and Johnny Austin of the Pampa Country Club.

Johnny and Lila will likely be paired against Betsy and Houck in Wednesday's exhibition affair.

There should be a large turnout for Wednesday's appearance of Miss Rawls here. There will be no admission charges. Betsy is being sponsored by the Wilson Sporting Goods on her tour around the country.

Betsy will hold a clinic, starting at 4 p.m. The exhibition match will start at 4:30.

Let's give Miss Rawls a royal Top of Texas welcome Wednesday.

TONIGHT, YOU KNOW, is the weekly meeting of the Pampa Quarterback Club.

Attendance for the first two meetings hasn't been too good although last week's turnout was much better than the first.

The Harvesters need your backing now more than ever before. The odds are going to be stacked against them all season long.

Betsy, in fact, is a former National Ladies Champion. She won the national crown in 1952.

I'm confident our fans are going to back the Harvesters all the way, win, lose or draw.

You can get the ball rolling by attending the weekly meetings of the Quarterback Club.

It was the end of a great career for Ted Williams Monday but only the beginning for Willie Mays—the wondrous new star of major league baseball.

In a script that would make Hollywood blush, the 36-year-old Williams announced his retirement on the day the 23-year-old Mays duplicated one of Ted's most dramatic hours in winning the National League batting title.

It was just 13 years ago that Williams blasted six hits in eight at bats on the final day of the campaign to win his first American League batting crown with a .406 average.

In a similar dramatic setting, Mays Sunday hammered out three hits in four tries against 23-game winner Robin Roberts to win his three-way struggle with teammate Don Mueller and Brooklyn's Duke Snider and annex the N. L. crown with a .345 mark.

Mays thus climaxed one of the most amazing second years in baseball history and became virtually a "tinch" to be named the youngest "most valuable player" in the history of the award.

Mays, who started the game with a .342 compared to Snider's .325 and Mueller's .326, cracked a single, double and triple off Roberts as the New York Giants squeezed out an 11-inning 3 to 2 triumph. Mueller made a gallant bid with two hits in six tries while Snider went 0 for 3 in the Brooklyn Dodgers' 1 to 0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rookie southpaw Karl Spooner set a national league record and equaled a major league standard when he struck out 12 Pirates and hurled his second straight shutout.

Williams had one-hit—a homer—in four trips as the Red Sox swamped the Washington Senators, 11 to 2, completing the campaign with a .345 average and 29 homers. Williams fell 14 at-bats short of the necessary 40 to be recognized as the official A. L. batting champion, that honor going to Cleveland's Bobby Avila, who wound up with a fine .341 mark. Avila went 1 for 2 in the Indians' 13-inning, 8 to 7 loss to the Detroit Tigers.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 2 to 0, and the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5 to 2, in the other National League games while the Philadelphia Athletics downed the New York Yankees, 8 to 6, in the other American League game. Chicago and Baltimore were idle.

Last season's star—Willie Mays. Read The News Classified Ads.

1-4A Elevens In Final Non-District Action

Harvesters Meet Paschal Here Friday

All eight District 1-AAA teams will have wound up their non-district slates this week before the "play for keeps" schedule begins next week.

One-half of the eight team loop owns unbeaten records. Midland is the only three-time winner. The other three undefeated elevens, Odessa, Abilene and San Angelo, have 2-0 marks.

The Fighting Harvesters were the latest to drop from the unbeaten ranks. The Pampanos were upset by Vernon last week at Vernon, 20-13.

The Harvesters will host the Paschal Panthers of Fort Worth Friday night in their final tuneup before firing begins in the rugged District 1-AAA race. Paschal dropped a 25-7 decision to another 1-4A foe last week, Amarillo.

Abilene kept its undefeated record intact last week with a 13-0 twin over Sweetwater while San Angelo romped past Poly of Fort Worth, 34-0, to protect its perfect record.

Midland's third win in as many starts came at the expense of Austin High of El Paso, 28-14. Midland is the only team resting this week before conference play begins.

Borger broke into the win column for the first time this season Friday night with a convincing 29-7 victory over Amon Carter Riverside of Fort Worth.

Feature game involving 1-4A teams this week is the Abilene-Breckenridge tilt. Both Abilene and Breckenridge own 2-0 marks. One of Breckenridge's wins was a whopping 41-13 win over Wichita Falls.

Following is the District 1-AAA score board:

Team	W	L	Pct.	GB
Midland	3	0	1.000	65
Abilene	2	0	1.000	53
Lubbock	2	0	1.000	50
San Angelo	2	0	1.000	61
Pampa	1	1	.500	45

Amarillo	1	1	.500	25

4-Way Tie For First In BC

There'll be a four-way tie for the Border Conference lead after this week's games, but in the eyes of most observers the race has already narrowed itself down to a two-team struggle between Texas Tech and Arizona.

Those two clubs are sharing the lead along with Hardin-Simmons today and the winner of Saturday night's Tempe State-Texas Western game will join them atop the heap.

But the rest of the loop appears now as just stepping stones leading toward a climactic battle Nov. 8 at Tucson between Tech and Arizona.

Arizona, 54 to 39 winner over Utah last week, sits out this week's schedule, but the rest of the circuit will be in action.

Tech, which bested West Texas A&M 27 to 0 last Saturday night, takes on undefeated Oklahoma A&M in the feature attraction at Lubbock. Hardin-Simmons hosts potent Trinity at Abilene, West Texas A&M entertains Midwestern at Canyon and New Mexico A&M and Sul Ross collide at Pecos.

FHU's Cowboys beat New Mexico A&M 27 to 0 last week join the other pace-setters. Texas Western chalked up its second straight non-conference victory, 27 to 8 over McMurry and Tempe bounced Brigham Young 28 to 19 in other activity.

EASY DOES IT, BOYS — Football and fisticuffs filled the air as the University of Southern California downed the Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh, 27-7 in their game at Los Angeles. The hard-fought game wound up in a pitched battle in the fourth quarter. In this action above, an unidentified official pulls USC's Frank Pavich (black jersey) away from Pitt's Pete Neft. In the background is Pitt's Eldred Kraemer. Pavich was banished from the game. (NEA Telephoto)

Lions Whip Bears In Opener, 48-23

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

The National Football League opened its 35th season Sunday and Coach Buddy Parker's Detroit Lions made an impressive start in their bid for a record third straight championship by rallying to rout the Chicago Bears, 48 to 23.

It was a different story in the Eastern Division as Paul Brown, the professional game's most successful coach during the last decade, practically conceded that crown to the Philadelphia Eagles after they whipped his Cleveland Browns, 28 to 10. Cleveland won the Eastern title the last four years.

While Detroit tamed the Bears, the San Francisco 49ers-Niners and Los Angeles Rams opened with scoring sprees to show they are set to battle the Lions for Western Division honors. The Forty-Niners crushed the Washington Redskins, 41 to 7, and the Rams shut out the Baltimore Colts, 48 to 0.

The New York Giants, scoring more points than they did in any game last year, started their Eastern bid with a 41 to 10 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals. In the other opener, the Pittsburgh Steelers edged the Green Bay Packers, 21 to 20.

Parker said his Lions would have a "good chance" of winning a third straight title if his rookies "came through." Bill Bowman, a 210-pound first year fullback from William and Mary, and Doak Walker, Detroit's veteran back-of-all-trades, indicated Parker's champions are geared for a maximum effort.

Bowman raced 100 yards to score with a kickoff and caught the nine-yard scoring pass from Bob Hoernschmeyer that put Detroit in front to stay late in the third quarter. Walker, led the individual scoring with 21 points: Touchdowns on a 70-yard punt return and a three-yard end run, six extra points and a 28-yard field goal.

The Eagles, who have been taking Cleveland's dust since 1950, took a 14-0 halftime lead on Bobby Thomson's TD passes to Bobby Walston and Jerry Williams.

"The way the Eagles played, they definitely are Eastern champions and can win 12 in a row," Brown said. "I have lots of problems the way they (the Browns) looked Sunday but I hope to get rolling soon."

Parsons said his Lions would have a "good chance" of winning a third straight title if his rookies "came through." Bill Bowman, a 210-pound first year fullback from William and Mary, and Doak Walker, Detroit's veteran back-of-all-trades, indicated Parker's champions are geared for a maximum effort.

Frogs-Porkers Open SWC Card Saturday

By ED FITTE

A battle of 'teenagers' was the opening title game of the young season and the inaugural appearance of Southern Methodist's prancing Mustangs highlights a full South west Conference football slate this week.

Usually, the annual Texas Christian-Arkansas title opener is overshadowed by inter-sectional play, but this year's action doesn't follow the script.

For Coach Abe Martin's sophomore-peppered Horned Frog team has bloomed into a potential championship threat with forceful offensive performances against Kansas and Oklahoma in opening games and rivals and fans will be interested in seeing how it can act in its own corner.

While TCU and the equally-soph dominated Razorbacks are matching wits at Fort Worth, SMU will be meeting Georgia Tech at Dallas and Rice will play host to Cornell at Houston in Saturday night games.

Saturday afternoon, Texas flexes its Notre Dame-weary muscles against Washington State at Austin and the improving Texas will be in Athens, Ga., against the Georgia Bulldogs.

The week's action gets under way Friday night in faraway Florida when Baylor meets a high-scoring Miami eleven.

Observers have now had chance to look over all conference teams except SMU and they aren't so sure Texas will dominate the race after all.

Offenses in High Gear

The most revealing thing about the games to date is that touchdowns may come thick and fast season-long with defense taking a back seat to high-geared offenses all along the line.

TCU was sure to have been a favorite over Arkansas by game time Saturday, but the close battle the young Frogs gave mighty Oklahoma before bowing 21 to 16 last Saturday only served to make them an even more solid choice.

Arkansas' stock took a rise on its own, however, in a 41 to 0 rout of Tulsa and the "battle of the soph" at Fort Worth just might erupt into the first major upset of the season.

Texas, despite its hesitant, fumbling performance in the 21 to 0 loss to Notre Dame, should get back on the winning trail against a Washington State team that does not rank in the first division in its own conference.

SMU Packed with runners, but an unknown quality elsewhere, probably lost much of its underdog advantage when Georgia Tech was upset by Florida last week. But, on the basis of what shows on paper Monday, a Mustang victory still would be in the upset classification.

Rice, rested with a week's lay-off after a victory over Florida, matches a Cornell team on the rebound from a loss to Colgate. But the humid, home field advantage should only serve to enhance the Owl's chances.

Baylor's talented sophomores face probably their biggest challenge yet against potent Miami, although they had the scars of their lives before pulling out a 25 to 19 edge over Vanderbilt last week.

The Texas Aggies, also refurbished with soph as Coach Paul Bryant seeks to build to the future, will be the underdog for the third straight week against Georgia. But with a little luck, the scrapping Aggies might better the 14 to 6 setback at the hands of Oklahoma A&M.

ATLANTA, Sept. 27—UP—The Dixie Series moves back into the park of the Atlanta Crackers Monday night and the Southern Association champions have their backs to the wall against the Texas League's Houston Buffs.

Despite a 1 to 0 victory behind Glenn Thompson's brilliant third pitching at Houston Saturday night, the Crackers were down in the best of seven series, three games to two.

Manager Whitlow Wyatt of the Crackers nominated Dick Donovan as his pitcher Monday night. Donovan, who won the first game of the series, will be opposed by Willard Schmidt. Schmidt also has picked up one victory in this series.

Tennessee, which downed Mississippi State, 19 to 7, as Johnny Majors ran 80 yards for one score; Wisconsin, which crushed Marquette, 52 to 14, as Alan Ameche gained 107 yards rushing; UCLA, which rolled behind three first-period TD's to a 32 to 7 win over Kansas; California, which rebounded from the Oklahoma loss to rout San Jose State, 45 to 0; and Michigan, which downed Washington, 14 to 0, on two touchdown bucks by fullback Lou Balducci.

But the play of the week came at Hanover, N. H., where Lou Turner of Dartmouth made an over-the-shoulder catch of Bill Beagle's pass as the final gun sounded. The TD created a 28-26 tie and Dartmouth beat Holy Cross by one point when Leo McKenna booted the extra point.

Mays, Avila Win Major Bat Titles

By FRED DOWNS
United Press Sports Writer

It was the end of a great career for Ted Williams Monday but only the beginning for Willie Mays—the wondrous new star of major league baseball.

In a script that would make Hollywood blush, the 36-year-old Williams announced his retirement on the day the 23-year-old Mays duplicated one of Ted's most dramatic hours in winning the National League batting title.

It was just 13 years ago that Williams blasted six hits in eight at bats on the final day of the campaign to win his first American League batting crown with a .406 average.

In a similar dramatic setting, Mays Sunday hammered out three hits in four tries against 23-game winner Robin Roberts to win his three-way struggle with teammate Don Mueller and Brooklyn's Duke Snider and annex the N. L. crown with a .345 mark.

Mays thus climaxed one of the most amazing second years in baseball history and became virtually a "tinch" to be named the youngest "most valuable player" in the history of the award.

Mays, who started the game with a .342 compared to Snider's .325 and Mueller's .326, cracked a single, double and triple off Roberts as the New York Giants squeezed out an 11-inning 3 to 2 triumph. Mueller made a gallant bid with two hits in six tries while Snider went 0 for 3 in the Brooklyn Dodgers' 1 to 0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rookie southpaw Karl Spooner set a national league record and equaled a major league standard when he struck out 12 Pirates and hurled his second straight shutout.

Williams had one-hit—a homer—in four trips as the Red Sox swamped the Washington Senators, 11 to 2, completing the campaign with a .345 average and 29 homers. Williams fell 14 at-bats short of the necessary 40 to be recognized as the official A. L. batting champion, that honor going to Cleveland's Bobby Avila, who wound up with a fine .341 mark. Avila went 1 for 2 in the Indians' 13-inning, 8 to 7 loss to the Detroit Tigers.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 2 to 0, and the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5 to 2, in the other National League games while the Philadelphia Athletics downed the New York Yankees, 8 to 6, in the other American League game. Chicago and Baltimore were idle.

4-Way Tie For First In BC

There'll be a four-way tie for the Border Conference lead after this week's games, but in the eyes of most observers the race has already narrowed itself down to a two-team struggle between Texas Tech and Arizona.

Those two clubs are sharing the lead along with Hardin-Simmons today and the winner of Saturday night's Tempe State-Texas Western game will join them atop the heap.

But the rest of the loop appears now as just stepping stones leading toward a climactic battle Nov. 8 at Tucson between Tech and Arizona.

Arizona, 54 to 39 winner over Utah last week, sits out this week's schedule, but the rest of the circuit will be in action.

Tech, which bested West Texas A&M 27 to 0 last Saturday night, takes on undefeated Oklahoma A&M in the feature attraction at Lubbock. Hardin-Simmons hosts potent Trinity at Abilene, West Texas A&M entertains Midwestern at Canyon and New Mexico A&M and Sul Ross collide at Pecos.

FHU's Cowboys beat New Mexico A&M 27 to 0 last week join the other pace-setters. Texas Western chalked up its second straight non-conference victory, 27 to 8 over McMurry and Tempe bounced Brigham Young 28 to 19 in other activity.

Port Arthur and Baytown, other South Texas powers take on Houston teams that do not figure to give them too much trouble—Port Arthur playing at Houston Reagan and Baytown entertaining Houston Davis.

Lubbock, which may develop into a threat for Abilene and Odessa in 1-AAA, plays a good North Side team at Fort Worth, while Odessa takes on weak Highland Park.

Port Neches, defending AAA champ, whose stock took a big jump last week on the heels of a 91 to 13 shelling of Orange, will travel to Freeport for a game that should provide a stiff workout for the Indians.

Conference play begins this week with one game in AAAA—Dallas Wilson vs. South Oak Cliff, while bulky District 7-AAA moves into its second week of title action with Kerrville at New Braunfels, San Antonio Burbank at Harlandale and San Antonio Edison at Victoria.

Other good games on the week's schedule include Tyler-Dallas Sunset, Dallas Hillcrest-Pleasant Grove, San Angelo Sweetwater, Levelland-Phillips and Robstown-Alice.

Ormson's Garage Specializes In Hydramatic Transmissions

Every motorist wants an automobile that will "get him there and back," that he can depend on in any emergency, a car that will "get up and go," and that will stop NOW!

That's why Benny Ormson's Garage, 1308 Alcock (Borger Highway, Telephone 4-7592) is so important to Pampa and other Gray County motorists. He puts automobiles and trucks in "good running condition." By good running condition Ormson means you can depend on your car for mechanical perfection — it will go, stop, react just the way you want it to do.

Hydramatic Specialist
Ormson, an automobile expert who has specialized in hydramatic, front end, brake and engine work, opened his garage Aug. 24 — an independent garage in the Pampa-Amarillo area with the skill and equipment to handle hydramatic work. Most other garages which do the work are associated with automobile agencies.

Benny Ormson has concentrated on automobiles and trucks all of his life, has 18 years' experience working on automobiles, has studied at specialized hydramatic and carburetor schools.

His experience includes 5 years' automotive work in Pampa, and many years' additional work in Midwest garages.

Hydramatic Cars
Now Ormson specializes in his hobby and work, hydramatic transmissions — those used in Lincoln, Nashes, Pontiacs, Kaisers, Oldsmobiles, Cadillacs, Hudsons, GMC and Chevrolet trucks. He adjusts, repairs, rebuilds them, makes them hum again like new.

Hydramatics, Ormson said, work with the engines of cars. To keep the transmission working well the motor must be snappy. Of course Ormson, as an expert engine man, can overhaul the engine of any car, or tune up the motor, or do anything from replacing a spark plug to a major overhaul or rebuilding job.

Ormson recommends that every car be given a tune up every 10,000 to 12,000 miles. Tune ups, he explained, often can prevent major repairs, save gasoline and oil, keep cars in good running condition for any trips or steady driving in town.

Jenner Probe Committee Wins Praise

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—UP—A Senate committee which regularly gets its facts in a row before permitting headlines is assembling a formidable record of war and post-war time subversion within the government.

Chairman is Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.). He heads a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary committee. Its function: To investigate the administration of the Internal Security Act and other internal security laws. A larger order.

Much of the committee's solid accomplishment has been due to the judgment of Robert Morris of New York, who was chief counsel until he took office last Jan. 1 as a municipal judge in his hometown. Charles P. Grimes succeeded Morris. Grimes is maintaining the high standard of inquiry which inherited.

Jenner and the eight other committee members have followed the highest standards of congressional investigation in permitting committee counsel to plan and conduct investigations within prescribed fields.

From the committee has come a stream of verbatim pamphlet reports of testimony, much of it in public hearing but not heretofore assembled for careful examination. The committee currently is publishing testimony in its investigation of interlocking subversion in government departments.

An example is the testimony of Spruille Braden taken from time to time from last December to April of this year. Braden ended a public career service in Latin America affairs as an assistant secretary of state in 1947, having served previously in several important diplomatic posts.

In part 37 of its report, just issued, Braden relates in detail one of the incidents in which Harry Dexter White, an important treasury official, was involved with the Communist party line. The time was May, 1942, some weeks after White had submitted recommendations as the head of a Treasury Department financial mission to Cuba.

White's mission was to reorganize Cuban government finance and the chairman went about it in a big way, Braden related he obtained a copy of the report only on the day of his departure for Havana although it already was well advanced toward enactment in the Cuban Congress.

Modern automobiles and trucks, built to start faster, go faster, and safer than ever.

Ormson has the skill and equipment to keep your brakes safe for your own sake and for the sake of all others. Every motorist knows that children will run to and from school, will chase a ball or a dog into the street, that pedestrians will step suddenly from behind parked cars into downtown traffic. All these circumstances require good brakes NOW to prevent accidents and perhaps serious injuries. Have Ormson make sure that your brakes will hold in an emergency. You can depend on him to be sure you can stop your car in time.

Be sure, too, the front end of your car is in line. If the front end is right the tires wear more evenly, and give many more miles, and you get a smoother ride. It pays in savings and comfort to have Ormson check, adjust and repair the front end.

Guarantees Work
Make sure of the electrical system in your car. Ormson can do it for you. He can look over the generator, distributor, regulator, points, lights — all of it so you can be safe and certain of your car. Ormson guarantees all of his work.

This garage owner does all of his work, a practice which gives you the advantage of all of his study, skill and experience to do a better job on your car or truck.

To keep your car or truck in good condition, call Benny Ormson, 1308 Alcock (Borger Highway) telephone 4-7592.

Hybrid Grass Flourishes In Arid Areas

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 27—UP—A new hybrid grass, combining qualities of Johnson and Sudan grass, may be a boon to drought-stricken Texas cattle raisers, the Southwest Research Center said Saturday.

The grass, called sorghum alnum, originally came from Argentina. It has flourished on test plots here despite an almost total lack of rain.

The new grass has one drawback. Like sorghums, it produces prussic acid and is poisonous during the first 10 days of growth. Livestock should not be allowed to graze it until it is 16 inches high.

Dr. G. L. Shrewsbury, associate director of the center's Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, said the new grass "produces more tonnage than anything else we know of, and can be either grazed or cut and used as silage or dry feed."

The grass was first tried out at the Georgia agricultural experiment station, where it yielded 10 to 15 tons of green forage per acre. It was planted at San Antonio April 1 and watered then. Since then, despite scant rainfall, it has grown fast. In early September it stood six feet high, compared with Johnson grass nearby only four feet eight inches tall.

Shrewsbury said it was the most promising of 200 grasses being tested and that if it proved out, seed would be available to ranchers in limited numbers in two years.

remarkable roach-killer is called Johnston's No-Roach, a amazing new liquid that was years in the making.

Just brush the colorless, odorless, stainless liquid near cabinets, sink and baseboards. Applied to such spots, the coating attracts roaches within the room. They walk across the coating, contacting the chlordane, and within two or three hours become paralyzed and die. The coating remains effective for many months to kill any strays and thus prevent re-infestation.

To kill the waterbugs that crawl into your home from sewer pipes, brush No-Roach around the drain openings in your basement. To keep ants out, brush No-Roach around the cracks in your floor.

Ants will not cross this invisible barrier. Pour a few drops into ant hills to eliminate their nests. It is important to remember that roaches and ants are found near food and cooking utensils, and that contaminating sprays should never be used in such areas. But No-Roach may be brushed just where you want it. . . you don't have to move your pots and pans away from the area.

Guard against crawling insects this modern No-Roach way. 8 oz. 89c. Pint $1.69. Quart $2.98. Available at Furr Foods, Cretney's, Clyde's, Perkins and your local drug store.

SUSPECT

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Private Detective Jim Dunn and his bride Nancy are posing as caretakers for their client, Mrs. Kit Carlstrom, who needs some detective work to clear her of suspicion as a murderer. They are living at the Springs, part of the Carlson estate, in Colorado. When he goes to make a fire in the morning, Jim notes the corpse of his secretary, Miss Wister, whom he supposed to be in Denver, outside the cabin and in the basement on an elevator next to a hole in the wall to the upstairs. There is a dead woman's body. The dead woman is Miss Wister. Her sister-in-law is his client.

ash. Nowhere was there evidence of any disturbance.

Jim found two unused bedrooms and Kit Carlson in the third. On the night table was a small round bottle with a plastic top. Inside were many small, brightly colored capsules.

Jim muttered under his breath, "One drunk and the other drugged." He pushed at her covered shoulder.

She rolled toward him, and her soft snoring stopped. Her smile widened. The movement uncovered a shoulder and Jim noticed she considered a very sheer nightgown appropriate wear for the mountains. The skin of the shoulder was silky, resilient. "Mrs. Carlstrom! Wake up." He interspersed shakes with the insistent words.

She sat up, eyes still tightly shut. The coverlet slipped away and she held up her arms. "Petey! Petey!"

Jim Dunn evaded her arms, shook her until her eyes opened. "You remember me," Jim said quickly. "Jim Dunn. You hired me."

SHE pulled the coverlet around her, shook her head from side to side to clear away the fog of drugged sleep. "What are you doing here? Go away! I'll scream."

"I'll go make some coffee," Dunn interrupted. "And you'd better get dressed. There's been an accident."

"Sue? It isn't Sue?" Apparently Jim's expression was blank enough to penetrate, and she went on. "Not Mrs. Carlstrom?"

"No. Nothing's happened to her," Jim said. "But you'd better get dressed." He left the bedroom. He picked up the phone. He listened. He jiggled the base, listened again with no reward.

With that proviso, let us listen to the NBC-TV newscaster's predictions for TV:

"I've seen such remarkable things happen on TV already," he says, "that I believe the future of the medium is virtually limitless. I believe without qualification that we will see within our working span international pickups, live pickups from most any part of the globe, just as we now make them from around the nation."

"Color, of course, is already with us. When everyone has color sets, think of the wonderful things in store — the Easter parade, the Tournament of Roses procession in Pasadena, the opera and a million other features.

"In the field of sports, there is bound to be devised an accepted system of giving big fights to the public without blackouts of certain areas, and I think it will come through some modest charge assessed against the viewers. The total take will be astronomical.

"I think the day will come when smart sponsors will bankroll some of the excellent features that now get slotted into bad time spots. I'm speaking of the so-called informative or even semi-educational shows. If they were properly placed on the schedule, they'd win a large, high-quality audience."

There'll be another award on Broadway next season. A theater-loving cloak-and-suiter, David Haft of the House of Swansdown, has inaugurated an annual award for the best costumes of each theatrical season. It'll be two awards, actually — one for musicals and one for straight plays.

Put some water in it."

Dunn turned around. Mrs. Carlstrom had hoisted herself erect in the chair. Her little eyes were open.

Jim obeyed, set the percolator over the pale blue flame.

Mrs. Carlstrom waved her arm back and forth over her head. She rubbed the inside of the elbow joint. "Adeep," she explained. "Pins and needles. I must have dozed off." She looked around, spotted the empty bottle. She used both arms to hoist herself to her feet, went to the cupboard and managed to avoid the pieces of glass on the way. She took a new bottle from a well-filled shelf, opened it expertly and had a three-gulp drink from its neck.

SHE said, "Abhh. Now maybe you'd better tell me what you're doing here?"

"Where's Miss Wister?" Jim demanded.

"Miss Wister? What are you talking about? I don't like riddles this time of day. I don't know any Miss Wister, I'm sure. There was a malicious sparkle in her eyes.

"There's a dead woman in the basement," Jim said bluntly. Mrs. Carlstrom had been in the process of reaching again for the bottle she had set on the table. The tiny hand at the end of the fat arm stopped with fingers still in a grasping curl. "Dead—no! Kit! Tell me it isn't Kit!" There was no doubting the sincerity of the wail.

"No," Jim said. "Not your employer."

Mrs. Carlstrom drew a long, shuddering breath which pulled her thick lips into her open mouth. She darted a sideways, cunning look at Jim, took a quick drink. "Not Mrs. Kit. But—where is she?"

"She's asleep," Dunn said. "Drugged, I'd say."

THE MARQUEE BY DICK KLEINER
TV STAGE RADIO RECORDS PEOPLE

Pity the poor TV gag writer. Larry Gelbart, who was one of Red Buttons' stable, gets morose when he talks about the short life span of a TV skit.

"If you write a good skit for a Broadway revue," he says, "it lasts a year. If you write the same skit for a television show — boom, it's over. You've got no time for bows — just run back to your typewriter and write the next one."

But there's another side to the story — if your Broadway skit is a flop, it's a quick fold. But on TV you get paid no matter how bad it is.

We are fast entering the two-TV-sets-in-every-home era. A survey just conducted in Los Angeles shows that nearly 50 per cent of the present TV owners are planning to buy a second set.

Among 1280 families interviewed, 563 said they were going to get another receiver, mostly this year or in 1955.

Why two sets? Well, the survey conducted for Admiral Corp. by Woodbury College of Los Angeles showed that the biggest reason was so the children could watch what they wanted while the parents could watch what they wanted.

That just bears out what some TV critics have said — television is kid stuff.

It is always interesting to contemplate the future. And the future of television, since it holds so much promise, is especially exciting. John Cameron Swayze is a pretty fair future contemplator, too, although he admits that his record as a guesser-of-things-to-come isn't too drawer.

"Once," he says, with a reflective sigh, "Joe Frisco and I were playing the horses in a highly reputable bookmaking establishment. Up came a six-horse race. For some reason that now eludes me, I picked the win, place and show horses and promptly placed bets on half the field. My three horses ran fourth, fifth and sixth.

Executives More Calm Than In '29

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—UP—What's the mood of the American businessman just 25 years after the great crash of 1929?

Fortune Magazine took a poll of executives and came up with the conclusion business leaders are optimistic but not "exuberant."

The publication noted "a vast difference between the present cautious attitude of optimism in the business community and the intoxicated over-confidence of 1929."

It found 80 per cent of the executives in major business and industrial fields consider their current sales either "good" or "excellent."

About half look for an improvement in sales within the next six months.
