Bomb threat suspected

Security net thrown about White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that appeared to be designed to foil any Beirut-style bombing, the Secret Service tightened security around the White House during the Thanksgiving holiday by parking seven sand-laden dump trucks at five metal-gate entrances

White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the move was "not in response to a specific threat," but security also was tightened at the State Department six blocks away, where spokeswoman Anita Stockman said authorities were reacting to "possible bomb threats

President Reagan and his family were at Reagan's ranch in Santa Barbara, Calif., for a five-day Thanksgiving vacation, ending Sunday. At the State Department, five entrances were blocked by cars or vans and police cars blocked part of a street that leads to a sixth. Ms. Stockman said 'extra security has been taken and will be in effect until we can evaluate this possible or potential threat." The State Department security measures were implemented Wednesday, while the trucks were moved around the White House on Thursday.

The parked trucks at the entrances to the White House grounds were the latest episode in a series of increasingly stringent security measures prompted by a late-night bomb blast at the Capitol on Nov. 7 and the attack on the Marine headquarters in Beirut. The Oct. 23 Beirut bombing, which killed 239 servicemen, occurred when a dynamite-laden truck with a suicide driver at the wheel rammed the Marine

Last week, in reaction to the Capitol bombing, guards began to use dogs to sniff all cars and trucks entering the White House grounds for explosives. Guards also searched the handbags and briefcases carried by reporters, normally exempt from such measures. in what was described as a spot check.

On Thursday, three dump trucks were parked at the southwest gate across the entrance

Another truck was parked on that same street inside the northwest gate; two more were inside gates leading off 17th Street into the Old Executive Office Building and a seventh was on East Executive Avenue, a public walkway on the other side of the building separating the White House from the Treasury

Soviets plan to enlarge arsenal

Andropov says action a response to NATO missile deployment

MOSCOW (AP) - President Yuri V. Andropov says the Soviet Union will enlarge its nuclear arsenal at home, in eastern Europe and at sea in response to NATO'S deployment of new U.S. missiles in Western Europe.

Most Western leaders said Andropov's statement, carried Thursday by the official Soviet agency Tass, was little more than a irmation of long-standing Soviet plans.

However, it was the first time Andropov publicly had disclosed new plans to bolster Soviet maritime nuclear forces.

Navy sources in Washington have said several Soviet submarines armed with nuclear weapons are assigned to positions several hundred miles off the east and west U.S. coasts.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to deploy 572 new medium-range U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 nuclear missiles in five Western European countries starting next month. Parts of some of the missiles already have arrived in Britain and West Germany.

Andropov indicated that, through an increased sea arsenal, he wanted to keep the direct threat to American soil at the same level as that posed by Western weapons to Soviet territory.

"Since by deploying its missiles in Europe the United States increases the nuclear threat to the Soviet Union, the corresponding Soviet systems will be deployed with due account for this circumstance in ocean areas and seas," he said The Soviet Union on Wednesday broke off negotiations in Geneva on limiting medium-range

In West Germany and Britain, government spokesmen said Andropov's statment was not a "It does not meet our hopes, but also does not contradict our expectations," said West German spokesman Peter Boenisch. The Soviet short-range missiles "have been ready for deployment for some time. The Soviet Union would probably have wanted to deploy them in Eastern Europe in any case," the British Foreign Office said

But Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou of Greece, who is NATO's leading critic of new missile deployment, said the United States miscalculated the Kremlin reaction

"I warned that the Soviet response would be to increase its nuclear weapons in Europe, leave the talks and possibly take additional measures." Papandreou said during a visit to Brussels,

The West contends its new deployment is needed to counter Soviet SS-20s aimed at Western Europe.

Andropov has not been seen in public since Aug. 18. His statement was read in full on the main Soviet television evening news. But as has been customary since he came to power a year ago, no pictures of Andropov were shown.

He said the Soviet Union was ending a moratorium on deploying new SS-20s in Soviet

America celebrates its oldest holiday

Associated Press Writer Millions of Americans stepped out for parades or just settled back to watch football, but Thanksgiving meals formed the holiday's centerpiece as families both intimate and impromptu gathered for the oldest of national observances

In Massachusetts, where the hardy people of Plymoth Plantation first gave thanks for a bountiful harvest 350 years ago, the family of Marine Cpl. John L'Heureux felt especially blessed Thursday L'Heureux, a wounded survivor of October's terrorist bombing in Beirut, was home from Lebanon for his first Thanksgiving outside a barracks in

A half-million people stood in brisk winds and temperatures in the low 30s. to watch Detroit's big Thanksgiving Day parade, while parents in New York hoisted tots who screamed and cheered as a helium-filled Superman, Woody Woodpecker and other favorite characters floated past in Macy's 57th annual parade. "We're not used to this kind of weather," said a shivering Sharon Kaddvama, a hula dancer in the Mililani, Hawaii, high school band

Across the nation, those who felt fortunate gave thanks by sharing their time, money and food, providing instant families for others whose holiday would otherwise have been gloomy

Denis Jensen, who until three years ago was a senior vice president at Arkansas' First National Bank in Little Rock, woke up early to collect homeless people from the emptied streets downtown. Now the director of the Union

Wheeler trial date not firm

Senior Staff Writer

WHEELER — The lawyer pursuing a half - million - dollar lawsuit filed in connection with the controversy over "R" - rated movies in Wheeler said today he was "shocked" when he read an Amarillo newspaper story reporting that a trial date has been set in the case

A story in the Amarillo Daily News -Globe Times Thursday reported Wheeler Judge Grainger McIlhany set a Feb. 20 trial date in the lawsuit filed by a Wheeler movie - theater owner against a Wheeler preacher and his church. The report also said McIlhany will hear pre - trial matters in the case sometime in January

James Fling of Shamrock, the lawyer who actually filed the lawsuit on behalf of theater owner Ed Nall. said today that to his knowledge, the report of a "firm" trial date in the case was in error. Fling said the parties have discussed a Feb. 20 trial date but that one of the lawvers involved in the suit, Fred Nies of Canadian, has not been notified or agreed to the date.

Fling said since he filed the lawsuit against the Rev. Ricky Pfeil and the Wheeler Christian Center, he should be the one to know whether a trial date has been set. The lawyer said to his knowledge, Judge McIlhany has not firmly scheduled the trial for February 20. Fling said that's the date e's shooting for; but until Nies and icilhany accept the February setting, it remains very "tentative" at this time

Further, the Shamrock lawyer said the judge has not announced when he will hear the case's pre - trial motions. Nall's lawyer said he was surprised when he read that McIlhanv reportedly has announced the trial date and wondered where the newspaper received its information. "I thought it was tentative. I have confirmed it (a February 20 trial have not had a chance to do that," Fling said this morning. McIlhany and Nies were unavailble for comment this morning due to the date) with all but one party, and I

District Clerk Paul Topper this morning also said that to his knowledge. McIlhany has not set firm trial date.

Fling said before announcing a new trial date, he wants to be certain that all parties to the lawsuit can be in court at the appointed time. Several previous trial dates had to be postponed due to the lawyers' conflicting schedules.

When it does begin, the court fight between a small - town preacher and his view of morality and a theater owner and his desire to operate a business free from what he sees as harassment is guaranteed to be colorful.

Nall, the owner of Wheeler's Rogue Theater, filed the lawsuit against the Rev. Pfeil after the preacher and his followers held daily demonstrations against "R" - rated films shown at the theater. The protests on the sidewalk in front of the Rogue and other actions by the preacher have ruined Nall's business, health and reputation, the lawsuit charges.

The Rev. Pfeil has said he realizes Nall isn't breaking any laws by showing "R" - rated films. He has said he knows the films are shown at most theaters across the country and even on pay TV in Wheeler. But Pfeil has said he has protested at the Rogue because a stand for morality has to start somewhere. His hometown is the best place to start, he said.

Further, the reverend has admitted he wants to hurt Nall's business and force him to close the theater. But he said his protests are legal and a constitutionally - protected stand against 'raw filth, debauchery, obscenity, pornography, nastiness, lasciviousness, and perversion."

Nall counters that Pfeil's actions for about the past two years went beyond the bounds of a legal protest and violated the theater owner's First Amendment rights and his right to earn a living.

Reagan dismayed, but response is low-keyed

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) -President Reagan, dismayed by Moscow's announcement of retaliation against the United States for deploying new missiles in western Europe, is keeping his response low key in an apparent effort to prod the Soviets back to the bargaining table.

The Soviet Union has been threatening since March to respond to the new U.S. missiles in Europe with new deployments of its own close to the United States, but the questions of where and how remained unanswered.

On Thursday, Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov announced that the Soviet Union will increase its nuclear weapons at sea, at home and in Eastern Europe.

Reagan's muted reaction to the decision was made in a written statement issued soon after the Soviet news agency Tass relayed Andropov's statement

"We can only be dismayed at this Soviet statement," said Reagan, who is spending a five-day vacation out of public view at his ranch in the Santa Ynez Mountains

He said Andropov's statement was

"at sharp variance with the stated wish of the Soviet Union that an agreement be negotiated" to limit medium range nuclear weapons in Europe.

"While we are dismayed, we are determined to renew our efforts to entirely do away with the land-based intermediate range nuclear missile systems," said the president. "We continue to seek negotiations in good

Reagan was informed of Andropov's statement in a telephone call from his national security adviser, Robert C. McFarlane, according to deputy White House press secretary Marlin Andropov said the Soviet Union considers it impossible to continue negotiating with the United States in Geneva because of NATO's decision to deploy U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in western Europe.

In confining his response to a two-paragraph written statement, Reagan seemed determined to play down Andropov's dramatic statement

"They poured in all day bringing food, money, calling to see what they can do. It has been overwhelming. We have stores for next month and on into Christmas.

Tripoli evacuation plan reported

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) - PLO mutineers and loyalists reached agreement today on a plan to end their three-week-old battle and evacuate both forces from the Tripoli area within two weeks, the foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia and Syria announced. There was no immediate confirmation by PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat or his opponents of the announcement, which came shortly after loyalists and Syrian-backed guerilla mutineers clashed with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and machineguns in this northern Lebanese port.

The agreement was announced at a joint news conference in Damascus by Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud al-Faisal and his Syrian counterpart, Abdul-Halim Khaddam.

The accord, read to reporters by Khaddam, calls for a permanent cease-fire in and around Tripoli, a negotiated settlement of the PLO's internal differences and departure of all Palestinian fighters from the Tripoli

Prior to the announcement, there was 90-minute exchange of mortar and machine gun fire between the rival forces in Tripoli which Arafat's aides described as "probing attacks" by the rebels to test loyalist defenses in the city.

Shells fell in a seaside shantytown and the Azmi commercial district during the exchanges. One or two shells landed in the city center and the harbor. Arafat had been reported ready to bow to the rebels' demands and leave his last Middle East stronghold to avert a bloodbath, provided he got sufficient guarantees for the safety of loyalists and local militia allies he would leave behind.

In Beirut, 50 miles south of Tripoli, warplanes flew low runs over the city early today as Lebanese troops and Shiite Moslem militiamen battled near the Marine base at the international airport.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said three shots were fired into the Marine base but caused no casualties. He said the shooting stopped when Marines fired a few rounds in Asked whether the incoming rounds were deliberately aimed at the Marines, Jordan said: "They were probably fired in their direction.

Arafat gained the release Thursday by Israel of 4,600 Palestinian and Lebanese prisoners in exchange for six Israeli soldiers captured by PLO fighters in September 1982. But his aides said the exchange was not directly linked to Arafat's predicament in Tripoli

Thursday also was the first time PLO rebel delegates met with the Suadi mediators in Syria.

Hundreds of people in Tripoli and in two nearby refugee camps have been killed in weeks of warfare between Arafat's forces and the rebels who want to oust him from leadership of the PLO.

Meanwhile, it was announced that President Amin Gemayel will hold talks with President Reagan in Washington on Dec. 1.

Storm leaves 100,000 without power before moving westward

By DANA FIELDS Associated Press Writer

A "good strong cold front" sped toward the Rocky Mountains today after knocking out power to more than 100,000 people, as the death toll rose to 27 from an earlier storm that dumped up to 2 feet of snow on the Great Plains before lumbering into Canada.

Nearly 4 inches of rain soaked the San Francisco Bay area Thursday. unleashing a mudslide that blocked U.S. 50 near Placerville for several hours. The moisture turned to snow as winds gusted to 70 mph in the mountains, causing blizzard conditions at Alpine Meadows ski resort and dropping half a foot of snow at Norden. 45 miles northwest of Lake Tahoe.

About 130,000 people in western Washington — many with half-roasted Thanksgiving turkeys still in the oven - lost power Thursday morning as the new storm blew in and drenched the West as far inland as Idaho, where visibility was down to 100 feet in mixed rain and snow

Electricity was restored within several hours to 63,000 people in the Seattle area, but 57,000 others were still without power early today. A spokesman for the Snohomish Public Utility District, where 10,000 outages were reported, said "it could be a couple of days before this is taken care

While the new storm "doesn't have quite as big a windup" as the system that howled out of the Rockies last Sunday, "it's still a good strong cold front that will bring snow and wind to the Plateau and Rockies today," said meteorologist Nolan Duke at the National Weather Service's Severe Storm Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Duke said it was expected to spread from Montana to northern Arizona, covering territory still digging out from the earlier storm blamed for the deaths of 15 people on roads, 10 in small planes and two elderly Minnesota men.

Survivor of train crash no help in investigation of drugs or alcohol, the Harris County

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) - The man federal investigators hope will provide the clue to the causes of a freight train wreck that killed four crewmen told two ambulance attendants he didn't know how the accident happened.

James Muchow, 41, of Hempstead suffered broken legs and other injuries when he was thrown from a 13-car Southern Pacific freight train that slammed into a line of parked boxcars Saturday

Federal investigators have said Muchow, the lone survivor of the wreck, may hold the key to providing information about the accident.

National Transportation Safety Board safety inspector Thurman Toal said his investigation indicates the

Wheeler trial

1982 was an indication of things to come at the pending trial.

At the hearing, McIlhany granted a temporary injunction against the fundamentalist, non - denominational minister and ordered Pfeil to stay away from Nall, at least until the lawsuit is settled.

During testimony at the hearing, Nall said he slugged the protesting preacher one night because Pfeil and a church member were out on the sidewalk "speaking in tongues" Nall testified Pfeil and his follower rushed up to him babbling, "Choo, choo, choo, cha, cha, cha." He said the babble scared him so badly he smacked Pfeil several times.

"Hit me again. Hit me again. Oh, devil, devil," Nall said the preacher shouted when the 60 - year old businessman started throwing punches.

Also at the 1982 hearing, Fling asked the church member, Tim Elliott, to speak in tongues from his seat in the witness stand "Would you demonstrate that (speaking in tongues) to the court?" Fling asked Elliott. "Must I demonstrate that the the court?" Elliott asked. "Yes, sir, if you're able," McIlhany ordered.

Pfeil, representing himself at the time, objected to the request for spirit speaking in the courtroom, and Fling did not pursue it.

crew may have been distracted or dozing because the train's brakes apparently were not applied.

Muchow, who was in a caboose directly behind the train's engine. remains in stable condition at Houston's Hermann Hospital.

Muchow "said that although he didn't know why the train crashed, he remembered everything that happened because he was never knocked unconscious at any time either during or after the accident," Roger Lay of Baytown, one of two ambulance attendants who treated Muchow at the scene, told the Baytown Sun.

Toxicology tests on the four men who died in the wreck were negative, meaning none was under the influence

During the minister's past protests against the Rogue's movies showing nudity and violence, he has taken down license - plate numbers of customers going inside. He has handed them religious tracts and preached to them as they went into the Rogue, according to the earlier testimony. Pfeil has said the Lord "put me on hold" and told him to "back off a little" in his protests at the Rogue. The preacher and his followers stopped showing up at the theater about a month after the judge granted the temporary injunction against the reverend.

Nall has also claimed that Pfeil violated his church's charter and tax exempt status by campaigning for political candidates. The theater owner complained to both the Internal Revenue Service and the Texas Attorney General that Pfeil's politics violated the rules for a tax - exempt church. Neither government agency took any action against the preacher based on Nall's complaints.

The theater owner is presently contesting the preacher's broadcast application to operate a proposed gospel radio station from a church

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Construction at a city park around it." left the Jaycees without a home for their 50-foot Christmas tree, but some intrepid members of the civic organization will light the tree tonight anyway - in Main Street.

The park that was the site of the Jaycees' Douglas fir Christmas tree for 26 years has been ravaged by construction

The thought of Fort Worth foregoing tradition, however, was too painful for Dee Hardin, a Jaycee and head of operations for the city's parks and recreation department. "I've got five girls and I know what Christmas means," he

And it meant finding another place to put up the tree. "I combed the city," he said. "I looked at 10 parks close to downtown. Everyone had some kind of construction going on.

Industry is taking over." Hardin was ready to scout the stockyards for a suitable site and give up on downtown when a group of business leaders suggested putting the tree on Main Street.

The Jaycees have been hauling giant Douglas firs from New Mexico to Burnett Park for the past 26 years. But this year the park is torn up from nearby erection of skyscrapers and parking structures.

In Burnett Park, "we had a big hole in the ground we just stuck it in," Hardin said.

Hardin, who says he's not an engineer, drew a sketch of a Christmas tree stand similar to those used in homes and asked Bass Brothers Enterprises to build it. For the fence, he filled nine 55-gallon drums with water, painted them red and used them as decorative fence posts. "It anyone has a better idea, I'd like to hear it," he said:

A solid wood fence was installed around the stand and the fire department helped string the lights last weekend. The tree will be lighted this evening, after a parade through downtown

"I've only heard one or two people say it's a shame we had to break a tradition,' Hardin said. "But I feel like we're starting We had major problems to overcome," he said. "We had to a new tradition. Burnett Park is a little out of the way. Where see if we could get the street blocked off, then we had to figure the tree is now, it will receive all the downtown traffic. With how to keep a 50-foot tree standing and how to put a fence the courthouse in the background, it's really beautiful."

The Tyler report has become a "best seller" in the academic world, winning fans throughout the country - including U.S. Education Secretary Terrel Bell. The report - "An Analysis of Reports on the Status of Education in America: Findings, Recommendations, and Implications" - is a condensation and comparison of 18 studies on the condition of public education in the United States. All of the studies, including the highly publicized "A Nation at Risk" report, call for schools to redefine their purpose and then do a better job fulfilling it, the 179-page Tyler report says. Virtually all the reports speak to the need to establish higher standards and higher expectations throughout the education system. The disagreement comes in the area of curriculum."

said Tyler school superintendent Jack L. Davidson. 'There appears to be a pretty good consensus for the need to expand to three years of science and TYLER, Texas (AP) - Eighteen recent studies agreement on the need for computer literacy programs for all students.

After Davidson presented the analysis at a national conference of school superintendents in Washington last month, Bell asked for 3,000 copies to use at the National Forum on Excellence in Education Dec. 6 in Indianapolis.

'When we first started it, we really didn't have any idea it would attract national interest. We started it just to use within the Tyler School District." said Davidson

'More than 100 additional requests for the report have come in, and we anticipate receiving many more after the Indianapolis conference," Davidson told The Dallas Morning News.

The reports generally call for more schooling — a longer school year and a longer school day. 'Students are in school longer in the most other countries than they are in the United States," Davidson said.

The studies were virtually unanimous in seeking smaller classes, more rigid standards for teachers. communities will see the need to bring about higher pay for teachers in general and higher pay educational improvements at the local level," he for the best teachers.

One of the sharpest areas of disagreement in the "critical" that education and training be linked to jobs. But Mortimer J. Adler's Paideia Group said schools "should eliminate from the curriculum all training for specific jobs.

'While we're talking about seeking high goals. we want to make sure we don't return to some of the problems we used to have, such as high truancy and dropout rates." Davidson said

He said he also is somewhat concerned by the studies' interest in science and math to the exclusion of the arts.

And he said he found one aspect of education missing in all the reports. "They talk about the need for longer school hours and higher pay for teachers, but no one talks about the cost of the system. Nobody has put a price tag on any of this," Davidson said.

Davidson said he does not expect any more money for education to come from the federal governent, "and that's fine with me." he added. "I'm more optimistic that specific local

DALLAS (AP) - If Robert Austin ever meets the person who stole his group's 10-foot-long, 1-ton World War II Mauser cannon, he'd like to ask a few questions.

New dairy bill Grade-A ripoff

No matter that the federal budget deficit is $200 billion. Who's worried about a national debt that is pushing $1.5

The House of Representatives recently voted, 325-91, to start a new subsidy program, paying dairy farmers for not milking their cows.

Since 1949, the fedeal government has supported the price of milk by buying all the surplus the dairymen could produce.

The big dairy cooperatives: owned by farmers, have continually lobbied Congress for higher support prices. They have collected hugh slush funds to help elect their friends in Congress. And they have succeeded all too

The support price has risen so high that it has become unsupportable. The cost of the dairy program in the last fiscal year rose about $2.7 billion. That compares with a total expenditure of under $100 million just four years

Now the dairymen want the taxpayers to pay them not to produce milk

The Senate tumbled first, passing this socialistic new program Oct. 7 on a voice vote. That means there was no roll call to record each senator's vote and the public has no way of knowing who voted for the legislation.

The House followed dutifully, doing the will of the diary lobby. The margin of passage was greater than the two-thirds (290)) needed to override a presidential veto.

There will be some manuevering to compose the difference between the Senate and House bills. But the new program to pay cows for not producing seems certain to pass Congress, boosted by millions in campaign contributions.

The legislation would cost the consumer as well as the taxpayer. It would boost the retail price of a gallon of milk by an undetermined figure and increase the cost of all other dairy products in every supermarket in the

We don't need this expensive new farm giveaway program. We should be weaning the farmers away from government price supports, not making them more and more dependent on taxpayer handouts.

President Reagan should veto this Dairy Production Stabilization Act of 1983 if it reaches his desk. It is a Grade-A ripoff.

If America could come home

As few McGovernites as there might have been in 1972, there can't be even that many in 1983. But that is not to imply that plenty of us, now as then, don't nod wistfully, recalling the senator's famous campaign slogan: "Come home, America."

If only America COULD come home! Then U.S. Marines wouldn't be blown to bits in a country that many of their countrymen know only as a place in the Old Testament. Then other Marines might be able to avoid even backyard locales like Grenada

Far - called, our navies would melt away, as Kipling foretold. Indeed our whole military establishment would melt. The budget would be balanced: at least until Congress was done rerouting all this extra cash into social programs. The arms race would be over. We could sit by the fire and tend to our knitting.

Except that as most people, apart from former Sen. George McGovern, understand. this is all fantasy and pipedream. American Marines do get blown up; others get sent to wrest power away from tinpot dictators. That is the kind of world we always have lived in. It's the kind we live in now - where nothing but American power, in the moral and the physical sense, shields freedom from totalitarianism

How agreeable it was, for Americans, when Great Britain policed most of the marginally civilized world. But the writ of the British doesn't run nearly so far as it

Lo, all their pomp of yesterday (how Kipling does stay in the mind!) is one with Nineveh and Tyre. Which, by the way, is in Lebanon - Tyre, I mean. Nineveh is in Iraq: another war zone; here also American power would have to be brought to bear if Iran blocked oil shipments from the Persian Gulf. The torments of the ancient world are ancient indeed - as congressmen especially like to point out when they talk about Lebanon - but that in no way places these torments beneath American notice.

It is glib to assert that the Marines must "come home" from Lebanon: because, all right, this would save American lives in the short run, but it would also have unpleasant long - term consequences. If the Marines do come home, without resolving anything, they will leave behind what the diplomats call a power vacuum. Into which will rush the Syrians, who are backed by the Soviets; probably then the Israelis will rush in to defend their own interests. In a few days a week - a month, the region could be embroiled in a general war. What do we do in that case, sit by the fire and tend our

As for the Caribbean, it is find to think about how the U.S. and six island - countries are restoring human freedom in Grenada.

But that isn't all they are doing. Grenada. prior to the invasion, was becoming a Cuban Soviet satellite: a launching pad for all manner of Communist enterprises in the Caribbean area, including possible interdiction of oil shipments. Why should the Soviets enjoy one more base in a region where they wouldn't be permitted to operate at all, if we paid serious attention to the Monroe Doctrine?

The Soviet Union, when all's said, is the overriding reason America can't "come home " No more relentless - certainly no more powerful - empire has ever existed before. The Soviets have their Western apologists, who reason that all we ever do is provoke them to outraged defense of their own interests. Of course this doesn't reckon with events like the crushing of Poland or the genocide in Afghanistan.

It's hard, for instance, to see that Ronald Reagan provoked the events at Kalchabad, Afghanistan, last Oct. 13, described thus by the Associated Press: "The slaughter began at 2 p.m. The youngest survivor, an 11 - year old girl, remembers because her family was sitting down to lunch when Soviet soldiers burst through the door... They tossed a grenade into the room where the family of eight was seated with nine guests. When the smoke cleared the intruders sprayed the room with gunfire, and the girl was the only one who lived ... In the village's two mosques five people were gunned down as they prayed... At another village, the troops bayoneted women and children.

True. America has the power, even the right, to come home, stretch its legs, and sit by the fireside. But it wouldn't get to sit long. Outside the wind howls more and more violently. Through the keyhole drift the moans and sobs of a ravaged world

it's Glenn against Reagan, I'll vote for whoever's movies I like more."

How to handle secret papers

Under the "No one is perfect" rule, the State Department sent over a file cabinet full of top - secret papers to the Lorton Reformatory in Virginia. Lorton has a contract with the department to repair Foggy Bottom's furniture, but the State Department rules say the files are supposed to be empty before they leave the building.

You can imagine the excitement at Lorton when one of the inmates opened up the cabinet and discovered it fully loaded with the innermost secrets of our government. 'Hey, guys, look here. There's a bunch of papers in this cabinet

'I'll be damned. What kind of papers?'' 'Don't know. This file says 'For Eyes

Only.' What does that mean?

'Guess it means you are supposed to read What are your eyes for? Here, give me that. Man, this is hot stuff. It looks like a telegram from some State Department cat asking for $50 million to buy off some dude in Central America who wants to knock off another dude who's running the country. "Here's another one. It's narked 'Top

Secret, Return After Reading.' It's a letter from the Secretary of State to a dame named Margaret Thatcher telling her how to fuse a cruise missile. What's a cruise

"Beats me. Let me see what else they got in there. This one says they broke the diplomatic code of Bulgaria and they now know the order of battle of the Warsaw Pact

"Boy, this stuff is boring. It don't have anything tn there about how we can break out of here, does it?

"Don't expect so. They got lots of maps of prisons in foreign countries showing how the prisoners can break out from there, but none for Lorton.

"What's in that confidential folder?" "Just a bunch of stuff about death squads knocking off the peasants, and how to handle it if the press starts asking too many questions.

"You mean they're cooling it when it comes to death squads in other countries?' "Sure looks like it."

"Then why am I doing 20 years for just shooting my wife's boyfriend?"

'State Department don't get involved with what we do in this country. They just supposed to protect criminals in other countries from going to jail.

"Hey, Jeeter, you used to work in the government before you heisted the credit union. You think this stuff got any value for

"It sure does. When they find out their files are missing they're going to go ape until they get them back. What I suggest we do is divvy up the top - secret folders amongst ourselves and then deal with

"How do you mean deal?"

'Well, let's say I'll give them back their plans for supplying the rebels in Nicaragua, they take five years off my sentence. 'Maybe they'll give us five years more for having the top - secret folders in our possession. "They won't if we tell them we'll blow the whistle to '60 Minutes' on what the State

Department really thinks of Pierre Trudeau.

'Is that in the files?"

'It's right in this top - secret folder in psychiatric profiles of heads of state.

'Hey, man, give me a real good one. I got a parole hearing coming up soon, and if I give them back something they really need, the secretary of state might appear himself to recommend it.' 'Sure, Shorty. Here's a plan on how the State Department is going to shaft the secretary of defense with the White House. They'll do anything to get that one back. Don't shove, there's enough to go around for everybody, but hide them good because they're going to tear this joint apart to find "Hey, we forgot something. We're suppose to repair this cabinet. 'Don't give it no mind. No one at the State Department is ever going to want to see the outside of this cabinet again."

Listen to what women say

I like what women are saying these days. There's more than a flash of verve, confidence and spunk in their remarks.

Take the case of Julie Ann Smith, a seventh grader from Shrewsbury, Mo. She became indignant when her church, St. Michael's, recently reverted to all - male "I'm pretty mad," said Julie Ann. "I feel appalled at what the last speaker said. I am shocked to hear that American women are meant to be breeder reactors to sustain civilization and pay off the deficit. I am insulted, insulted

The actress Amanda Plummer, who portrays the daughter of a couple similar to Julius and Ethel Resenberg in the movie, "Daniel." told a Rolling Stone reporter, "I'm lucky not to have a conventional face or beautiful body, because the kind of roles I get are the most fascinating.

Thank you, Amanda, from all of us who want to find fascinating things to do with our lives with or without beautiful bods.

I love the comment of Dr. Barbara McClintock, the 81 - year - old Long Island scientist awarded the 1983 Nobel Prize for Medicine. Her 1951 discovery of "jumping genes" in Indian corn was not heralded as a genetic breakthrough until recently. Having her research largely ignored for so many years has not made her bitter.

'When you know you're right, you don't care," she said. "You know sooner or later you will come out on top.

That kind of inner confidence is something most of us women have to work at I especially like the remark of the homecoming queen at Claflin College in Orangeburg, S.C. She is Zulee Samuels, a senior majoring in English, widow of a minister - and a grandmother who won't tell When elected queen last month by an admiring and much younger student body. she was asked if she would have an escort. "I'm going to have more than an escort," she answered saucily. "I'm going to be carried on a float by seven young men." And indeed she was. I called the college and learned she was borne on a barge like Cleopatra and crowned with a glittering

U.S. assails Salvadoran death squads

The Reagan administration is escalating its criticism of rightist terrorists in El Salvador, calling them "fascists who serve the communist cause" and hreaten to destroy that untry's democracy.

The administration has become increasingly concerned over an upsurge in death squad activity in recent months and that sentiment was being underscored today in a speech by the U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, Thomas Pickering, to the American Chamber of Commerce in San Salvador.

A senior U.S. official provided excerpts of the speech on the condition he not be identified.

Pickering, who assumed his duties in El Salvador during the summer, was described by the official as being especially frustrated by the inability of Salvadoran authorities to crack down on the death squads even though the identity of their membership is widely known.

More than 35,000 Salvadorans have been killed during four years of civil war

Critics of U.S. policy in El Salvador have accused the administration of not being forceful enough in confronting the death squad problem, contending that efforts by lower level officials to address the issue were thwarted by the White House.

In recent weeks, however, the administration has repeatedly criticized the death squads, and Pickering's speech represents the most outspoken statement to date.

Secret Anti-Communist Army, the White Hand and the Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez Brigade, are believed to be funded by wealthy Salvadoran exiles operating mostly from Miami and Guatemala.

The Reagan administration is considering a series of actions against the Miami-based exiles, including revoking their visas and investigating their financial dealings. One official has even recommended "unleashing the CIA" against the death squads, according to one

The researchers studied 255 women under 50 who had had heart attacks and 802 women who had not. The relative risk of myocardial infarction (or heart attack caused by damage to heart muscle) rose with the amount smoked.

In women who smoked 35 or more cigarettes a day almost two packs - the risk of heart attack was 10 times greater than in non-smoking women.

Salvadoran soldiers search for rebel forces

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) Government troops are trying to dislodge leftist rebels from strongholds in eastern El Salvador after one U.S.-trained unit killed 25 guerrillas in a SUFDrise attack.

Military sources in the city of San Vicente. 36 miles east of San Salvador, said Thursday the U.S.-backed government has begun a campaign to oust leftist guerrillas from areas they occupy in the northern part of San Vicente province.

The sources, requesting anonymity for security reasons, said the campaign would last three days.

On Thursday, the military said it staged a surprise attack on guerrillas with troops trained in counterinsurgency by the United States. The heaviest fighting was in the towns of Barilla Negra and Cerro Bahilonia, on the outskirts of Corinto.

It said the attack occurred Wednesday and "high commanders of the People's Revolutionary Army" were among the 50 wounded in fighting 127 miles northeast of the capital.

In another Central American development, Nicaraguan Interior Minister Tomas Borge Martinez said Thursday his country would be willing to get rid of its Cuban military advisers if Honduras and El Salvador get rid of their U.S. military advisers.

The Sandinista government says it already has sent home 1,200 Cuban advisers, mostly civilians. The United States has 55 military advisers in El Salvador and about 200 in Honduras.

Withdrawal of all foreign troops in Central America is a cornerstone of a proposed regional peace treaty drafted by the Contadora group -Venezuela, Mexico, Panama and Colombia.

The offer to reduce the number of Cubans in Nicaragua is one of several recent moves by the Sandinistas which appear to be intended to show an interest in the Contadora proposals.

The Sandinista government said Thursday that a helicopter from Honduras strafed three Nicaraguan border villages, which it said proves neighboring Honduras "openly supports"

anti-Sandinista rebels based its territory The Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry sent a protest

note to Honduras saying an olive-green helicopter sprayed the villages with machine-gun fire for 40 minutes and returned to Honduras after the attack.

The note did not say how many casualties there were in the helicopter attack, which Nicaragua said took place Tuesday. Nicaragua accuses Honduras of harboring rebels behind its borders.

In another development, the Washington Post, quoting congressional sources, said today that the CIA has concluded U.S.-backed guerrillas in Nicaragua lack the punch to topple the Sandinista

The newspaper also said there are indications the Reagan administration is beginning to give some thought to how the war by the anti-government counter-revolutionaries can be wound down.

The CIA says the rebels lack the military capability, financing, training and political support to overthrow the powerful and well-entrenched Sandinista government, the newspaper said.

Bill would strengthen citizen rights in Mexico City

Interior Ministry spokesman said Thursday that a new bill sent to Congress seeks to clean up on-the-spot justice in misdemeanor cases in the capital and eliminate the "mordida," the longstanding system of bribes.

"The police will no longer have arrangements with the person committing the infraction." spokesman Gregorio Rocha said. "The person stopped will be able to ask the judge to sanction the policeman

The bill is the latest in a series of steps President Miguel de la Madrid has taken in an attempt to clean up corruption in government and increase citizens' rights. His office sent the bill to Congress late Wednesday while the president was on a working tour of the northwestern state of Chihuahua.

Congress is dominated by the de la Madrid's Institutional Revolutionary Party and passage of the bill, possibly with revisions, is virtually assured. The bill is limited to the Federal District, which takes in most of the Mexico City metropolitan area and does not have its own legislature. Other areas of Mexico have that would make their own misdemeanor laws.

Rocha said the bill would give citizens the right to deny the charge or protest the punishment before a judge, to

De la Madrid started the campaign of 'moral renewal" after taking office last Dec. 1

His administration instituted a comptroller general's office to keep tighter reins on government spending and prosecuted on fraud charges Jorge Diaz Serrano, the former director of the state oil monopoly PEMEX, and other visible political figures.

Proposed revisions in the penal code also are pending in Congress.

The hill describes the area of police misconduct and minor infractions as being "one of the points of the most direct and daily contact between the governors and the governed" and one which "frequently involves people with little income.

A major change will be to limit fines, set arbitrarily by the judge under the present system.

"The amount of the fine will be from one to 30 days of the minimum wage for the Federal District at the time the infraction was committed," the bill says. "If the violator is a day worker or laborer he will not be fined

Under the proposal citizens would be able to choose between 36 hours of arrest and a fine. Those who choose arrest must be separated from convicted criminals.

The bill also would limit arrests to "flagrant violations," when someone is caught in the act of commiting an infraction, or when police consider that his appearance before a judge is necessary to avoid other violations. In other cases citizens could be given a future date to appear before

Long distance telephone uses will be ha

By NORMAN BLACK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -People who prefer to pick up the phone rather than pen and paper will be fans of the revamped national telephone ystem that debuts next year. The American Telephone &

Telegraph Co. sheds its 22 local Bell companies on Jan. 1 but keeps its long-distance network.

And it intends to start competing as never before against companies like MCI Communications. GTE Sprint, ITT's U.S. Transmission Systems. Western Union and Satellite Business Systems, which have been offering lower rates on long-distance calls among the states.

AT&T has already asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to lower its interstate long-distance phone rates by an average 10.5 percent. AT&T wanted the reductions to take effect Jan. 1, but the FCC has postponed the effective date until at least April 3 for further study. Commission officials say they could conceivably order even larger rate reductions.

The competitors. meantime, won't be standing still - they see an opportunity to expand the 6 percent or so of the long-distance market they hold now, even though they may not be able to offer the same margin of discount to AT&T's rates as they offer not only from the scheduled breakup of AT&T but also from changes in the federal government's regulation of the telephone industry. First, the breakup. To accomplish the split, AT&T. the Bell companies, the Justice Department and a federal judge drew service boundary lines around the local Bell exchanges. Those service areas are known as LATAs, or Local Access and Transport Areas.

That's important for long-distance callers. because it determines which company - AT&T or the local Bell company - handles a particular long-distance call.

Some of the LATAs are quite large, encompassing entire states. As long as a phone call remains within a LATA, it will be handled by the local Bell company. If the call crosses a LATA boundary, it must be handled by AT&T or one of its competitors.

If a customer is using a competing service, he'll get a separate bill from that company. All the competing carriers say they'll offer rates lower than AT&T's, but not all consumers can subscribe to them - the competing networks are not vet nationwide and for the time being, a customer must have a tone-generating telephone to sign up.

For customers not using a long-distance competitor. none of this will immediately change the way they dial The approaching changes long-distance calls. But it will determine which company bills them. The bill from the local Bell company will list any long-distance phone calls that didn't stray outside the company's LATA. Unless customers are using a competing service like MCI Communications, they will get a separate bill from a new unit of AT&T - AT&T Communications - listing the long-distance calls that went outside a LATA.

Initially, consumers will still write just one check. AT&T is going to pay the Bell companies to handle its billing and include its long-distance charges in the same envelope that brings the local bill. Eventually, though, AT&T will probably establish its own billing system.

Another change for consumers comes from the FCC's decision to phase out the subsidy for local phone companies that now come from long-distance rates.

The commission maintains that step is crucial, because most of the current subsidy roughly $10.7 billion for 1984 — is loaded onto AT&T's long-distance rates and not those of its competitors, placing AT&T at a disadvantage.

In addition, the agency says the subsidy - by keeping long-distance rates at artificially high levels encourages large customers charge, but the Senate is not And it is those same to build separate telephone expected to consider similar systems, ultimately a much larger threat to affordable

To remove the subsidy, the FCC has ruled that all residential customers must pay $2 a month as an "access charge." Those payments were to have begun Jan. 1 but have been postponed until April 3. The House voted Nov.

Preaching styles change

The Scottsdale Daily Progress TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - Preaching has changed with the changing times in this nation, an Arizona State University religion historian says. Richard Wentz, professor of religious studies, says the emphasis in the Colonial period was on the sovereignty of God, the idea that man has no control over destiny, that "we are in

'When you get to the 19th century, things change," Wentz says. "It was a very optimistic nation. It was a new nation. It didn't like notions about the sovereignty of God. It emphasized the possibilities of human perfection. It was more humanitarian. God is waiting for us to respond. There was much emphasis on taking the initiative."

Before the 20th century, it wasn't unusual for a sermon to last two hours — and people didn't seem to mind, Wentz added. About the only literature people had in those days was religious, he added, saying that as a result, the people knew

"If someone got up on the pulpit and started to preach hierarchy, they would have known it," he said. "You can get up in a pulpit today and teach hierarchy and many people wouldn't know the difference."

Wentz said the New England clergy in particular had a strong influence in the shaping of America in that they conveyed important propaganda that stirred people for the American Revolution

And it was the Protestants who made the sermon an important part of American religion, the professor said. He said the sermon traditionally has been the most dominant part of the Protestant service whereas other religions focus on ritual

The Protestant sermon also has been an important vehicle for shaping religion in America even outside of Protestantism, he added.

Wentz said that American Catholicism has been influenced by Protestantism "because Protestantism is the primary influence in American culture. For Protestants, the sermon is central. For Catholics, the Mass is central. They reserved sermons for special days or oft times if they had it, it was 'We need more money to build a parochial school or a new gymnasium.' It was for financial support.

"In Judaism, it's the prayer and liturgies of the synagogue that are central, but the dominance of Protestantism began to reshape that; at least in Reform Judaism, the rabbi became a minister." he said.

Today's sermons basically either are the liberal and socially active preaching associated with mainline churches or the fundamentalist and evangelical form.

"They are two different theories of comm7nicating," Wentz said. "It effects not only the content of the preaching but the way the sermon is constructed.

Death of a faith healer

By George R. Plagenz

When anyone dies at 54, we are shocked. When a faith healer dies at 54, the shock is even greater.

Explaining why she refused medical treatment when it was discovered she had a terminal illness, evangelist and faith healer Ruth Carter Stapleton said last spring, "I have been working in the healing ministry for 20 years and I have seen many miracles. I want to put all my trust in God.' In September, Mrs. Stapleton, the sister of former President Jimmy Carter, died. She was only 54.

"Why did she (or he) die?" is the question that has always perplexed the disciples of spiritual healers whenever the leaders pass away. To some of these followers, the death is a

If the one they looked to for guidance on the path of spiritual healing has been overtaken by death, how (they ask themselves) can they whose faith and understanding is so much weaker expect to be healed?

"It's like having your doctor die of the disease he has been treating you for," as one person expressed it following the death of the faith healer whose patient she had been. The followers of Kathryn Kuhlman were said to be in the millions. They looked to her not only for miracles of healing but as the channel by which the Holy Spirit came into their So why, people asked when Miss Kuhlman died in 1976 at age 66, was she taken from the human scene at such a relatively early age and while she was still in the prime of her Joel Goldsmith, whose spiritual healing movement attracted hundreds of thousands, died unexpectedly at age 72

while on a lecture tour in England. Ernest Holmes, founder of Religious Science, another metaphysical healing movement, died in his early 70s. While both had passed the biblical "threescore years and ten," Goldsmith and Holmes taught that the lifespan of the "natural man" does not apply to those who believe that "outer conditions are merely reflections of belief" and who banish the thought of sickness and limitation from their

His biographer, Harry Gaze, who succeeded Fox at the Church of the Healing Christ, says in the last chapter of his book on Fox's life:

"To those who knew him through his books and sermons and heard him proclaim week after week that one had only to ask in faith to be healed, there is still a lingering question. Why did Emmet Fox die? If it is true that prayer can heal, why did it not heal Emmet Fox?"

Gaze has an interesting comment on this question. He refers to Fox's belief in life after death and to the great attraction the next world had for him.

"I am going to live forever," Fox wrote in one of his best

"In a thousand years from now I shall be gone from the physical plane but I shall be alive and active somewhere in a hundred thousand years, still active, and alive somewhere else. And so the events of today have only the importance that belongs to this day. Always the best is yet to be.

With this philosophy implanted in Fox's subconscious mind, says Gaze, "the chemistry of his body worked in that direction. His body was sensitive to the secret prayer of his soul to be free of the physical body." Whatever the truth of this in the case of Emmet Fox, the death of faith healers - especially untimely deaths as in the case of Ruth Stapleton — will always raise the question in the minds of many sincere seekers after the truth, "If they healed others, why couldn't they heal themselves?'

Religious Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) - A dramatic ecumenical step is being recommended to the United Methodist Church — that it permit some delegates from other denominations to have a voice and vote in its top governing body.
"This is idealistic ecumenical legislation," says the Rev.

Robert W. Huston, general secretary of the church's unity commission, which decided at a meeting here to recomend the move to the church governing general conference next year.

He said such action would be "both a symbol of the oneness" of the church of which the United Methodist Church is a part and a sign to others of our ecumenical seriousness.

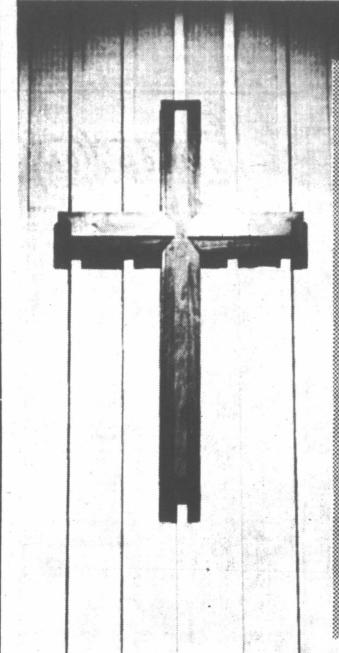

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - The Lutheran World Federation reports large-scale religious repression by the military Marxist-oriented government in Ethiopia

The report particularly details harassment of the growing 550,000-member Ethiopian Evangelical Church Mekane Yesus, a Lutheran body, including imprisonments of many pastors and lay leaders and mounting restrictions on it. The report adds that the military regime's measures also have included an "all-out effort to close down the Baptist, Mennonite and Pentecostal churches in the country. "Actions have also been taken that limit the work of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church ... (and) the Roman Catholic Church has lost its institutions in Asmara."

A Look at the Cross on THANKSGIVING

"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted."

"But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him: and with his stripes we are healed."

"All we like sheep have gone astray: we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Isaiah 53:4-6

Our prayer this Thanksgiving Season is that everyone will attend the house of God, giving thanks unto him for his great gift, which is eternal life through his son.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Dear Abby

Born-again mother problem for daughter

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In response to a letter in your column you said, "You don't need a person's permission to pray for him." Well, that's my problem. My mother is praying for me, and I wish she wouldn't. Ever since she got herself "born again," she says she is praying that God will bring me to my knees so I will be born again, too.

Abby, I have my own religion, which doesn't happen to be the same as hers, but she keeps trying to talk me into being "saved." When I ask her to please leave me alone and quit praying for me, she says it's her duty as a parent to lead me down the "right" path.

'Don't get me wrong. I also believe in prayer, but I don't want to get into a contest with my mother to see which one of us prays better.

GETTING GOOFY IN L.A.

DEAR GETTING: You didn't state your age, but if you're an adult you have the right to choose your own religion. And as well-meaning as your mother may be, she needs to be reminded that one of our most cherished rights is the right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: From time to time I meet people who are anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay and anti-foreigner, while loudly proclaiming that they are passignately pro-American!

Since the logic behind this kind of thinking escapes me, I am at a loss as to how to deal with them. Please advise. And you may use my real name. CHARLOTTE CAMPBELL

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Tell them that it's not possible to be anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay and anti-foreigner AND passionately pro-American at the same time because a substantial part of America is composed of blacks, Jews, Catholics, gays and foreigners.

DEAR ABBY: A close relative, age 77, recently went to Poland to visit his relatives. His wife was unable to accompany him because of poor health.

Two weeks after he arrived in Poland his wife received a telegram from the American Consulate in Poland informing her that her husband had suffered a fatal heart attack and it would cost her $7,500 to have his body flown back to the United States for burial. The alternative was to have him buried in Poland for $300. His wife chose to have him buried in Poland because she couldn't afford to have his body shipped back here at those prices.

We were shocked at how much was asked to have his body shipped to the United States from Poland. It seems so grossly overpriced. Am I being ridiculous to question the whole thing? Why in the world is so much charged for such a humane service?

Now the poor widow will be deprived of being buried alongside her lifelong companion in the family plot with other family members. I would like to hear your comment on this upsetting crisis in our family. UPSET IN N.Y.

DEAR UPSET: I am informed that the cost of shipping a body by air is determined by the weight and mileage. The average weight (including the shipping crate) is approximately 350 to 400 pounds, which costs between $120 and $140 per each 100 pounds. Add to that the mortician's fee for embalming, plus the casket, and it should not total anywhere near the figure you were quoted. I think you have good reason to be upset.

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Holly-

Fire safety tips

Holidays are high risk times for fires. Christmas parties and family get-togethers frequently mean smoking in crowded areas, and can result in careless smoking habits. And careless smoking habits, according to the experts at the Polyurethane Foam Association, are the leading cause of home fires in the

Follow these easy steps for holiday time fire safety: After a party, lift all furniture cushions and look for live cigarette ashes. A hidden cigarette butt can lead to a smouldering cushion that bursts into flames hours later.

 Don't empty ashtrays directly into the trash. A partially lit cigarette can ignite wrapping paper or other trash, resulting in a house fire. Wet down ashtrays before emptying.

• Be careful with candles and other decorations.

· Be sure not to overload household wiring.

• Water a live Christmas tree often, and plan to remove it from the house two weeks after buying it. Enjoy the holidays, but remember to keep your house fire-safe.

Happy Thanksgiving! Did you have the traditional dinner or turkey, dressing, sweet potatoes and Indian pudding? The first American Thanksgiving was held in October, 1621 by the surviving Pilgrims. Only fifty - five of the 101 people survived the harsh winter and only twelve were women.

Pampa "outmuscled" by Sandies

After watching Amarillo High beat his Pampa Harvesters, 60-52, Tuesday night, head coach Garland Nichols came to the conclusion that the Sandies have one of the top teams in the panhandle.

"I pick them to win their district," Nichols added. 'Mark my words, they'll be in the playoffs."

Nichols was particularly impressed with the muscle and boardwork of the Sandies's big men-6-4 Kelly Calvin 6-6 Kevin Gleghorn and 6-3 Tim Gilbreath.

"I just didn't think they were as strong inside as they were," Nichols said. "They just outmuscled us and kept rotating their big men. '> "

Pampa had a tough time at the foul line, hitting only eight of 21 shots for a meager 38 percent.

"Our foul shooting was horrible," Nichols said. "That's something we're going to have to work on."

However, the Harvesters

trailed only once in the first half and led by as much as seven points. Pampa led by one, 42-41, going into the fourth quarter and didn't surrender the lead until there was more than three minutes gone. AHS outscored Pampa, typical of an inexperienced 11-2, in the final three

"Our record may not be .500 going into district, but we'll have our program developed by then," Nichols said. "We'll be okay."

Pampa's second game of the season is at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Palo Duro, a 77-53 winner over Dumas Tuesday night. The Don's balanced scoring attack was led by Terrance Gardner's 16 points.

Public Notice

In order to implement the Modified Final Judgement entered in United States v. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Plan of Reorganization which was approved by the United States District Court on August 5, 1983, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., have jointly filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas an Application for and Notification of the Transfer of Facilities and Voting Stock

This application affects the provision of interLATA service throughout the State of Texas. Effective with the implementation of this transfer of facilities, which is expected to be on January 1, 1984, Southwestern Bell will offer telephone service only within certain geographical areas defined as LATAs (intraLATA) in Texas. Concurrently, interLATA communication service presently provided by Southwestern Bell will be provided by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

For purposes of this application. AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., has filed a Tariff with the PUC containing rates applicable to all of its services in Texas at the same level as Southwestern Bell's current Tariffs. Certain adjustments necessary to implement divestiture have been made to the structure of the Tariffs.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin. Texas 78757. A fin de cumplir la Decisión Final Modificada registrada en el caso de los United States v. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (Compañía Americana de Teléfonos y Telégrafos) así como el Plan de Reorganización que fue aprobado por la Corte de Distrito de los Estados Unidos el día 5 de Agosto de 1983, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. y AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., han presentado en forma conjunta ante la Public Utility Commission of Texas (Comisión de Servicios Públicos: PUC) una Solicitud y Notificación de la Transferencia de Instalaciones y Acciones Votantes

Esta solicitud afecta la suministración de los servicios interLATA en todo el estado de Texas. Con vigencia desde el cumplimiento de esta transferencia de instalaciones, presuntamente el 1º de Enero de 1984, Southwestern Bell solamente proveerá servicios telefónicos dentro de ciertas áreas geográficas, denominadas LATAs (es decir, servicio intraLATA) en Texas. Concurrentemente, los servicios de comunicación interLATA que actualmente provee Southwestern Bell serán provistos por AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

Para el propósito de esta solicitud, AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., ha registrado un Arancel ante la PUC (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) que incluye las tarifas aplicables a todos sus servicios en Texas, al mismo nivel que el Arancel actual de Southwestern Bell. Se han realizado algunos ajustes en la estructura arancelaria, por ser necesarios para llevar a cabo el desposeimiento.

Toda persona que desee intervenir en el proceso o comentar la demanda debe dirigirse a Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, o llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223 o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para sordos
