Price, Purcell get two years in prison

BY JEFF LANGLEY
Senior Staff Writer

A Beaumont federal judge this morning sentenced the sons of two former Panhandle congressmen to two years in federal prison and fined them $10,000 each for their roles in what prosecutors charge was an international drug smuggling conspiracy.

Despite their lawyer's plea for probation, U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher told Robert Grant Price, 28, of Pampa, and Kell Purcell, 25, that the federal drug violations to which they earlier pleaded guilty are serious crimes that warrant the federal prison terms and fines.

The younger Price, son of former U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa, and the younger Purcell, son of former U.S. Rep. Graham Purcell of Arlington, Va., both pleaded guilty to federal drug charges September 6.

The defendants "were apologetic" during their sentencing before Judge Fisher this morning, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Wes Rivers of Beaumont. Noted criminal lawyer Warren Burnett of Odessa and Galveston asked the judge to grant his clients probation.

Judge Fisher could have sentenced both Price and Purcell to a maximum of four years in prison and a $30,000 fine, Rivers has said.

Price and Purcell were charged June 28 along with 43 others in connection with a drug ring that smuggled more than 200 tons of marijuana into the United States from Columbia over a two-year period, according to the federal charges.

Following a two-year investigation by the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, the sons of the former federal legislators were each charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and conspiracy to possess marijuana with intent to distribute.

In a later plea bargain, Price and Purcell each pleaded guilty to "use of an interstate communications facility (telephone) in the furtherance of narcotics violations."

The guilty pleas were accepted by Beaumont federal Judge Robert Parker, a former congressional aide, who later said he shouldn't sentence

Price and Purcell because he is acquainted with their fathers. After Parker disqualified himself from the sentencing, the cases were transferred to Judge Fisher's court.

Rivers said Judge Fisher told Price and Purcell today he would grant a motion for a new trial and let a jury decide their sentences if they don't agree with the results of the plea bargain on the lesser charges.

In addition to Price and Purcell, others charged in connection with the smuggling conspiracy, including Columbians and Cubans, have pleaded guilty or were found guilty during a Beaumont trial last September. Others were acquitted; while others in several foreign countries have escaped the U.S. charges, Rivers has said.

Bob Price and Graham Purcell each represented Panhandle districts for several terms in Congress during the 60s and 70s.

During the time it's alleged Grant Price was involved with the smuggling conspiracy, Bob Price was serving an unexpired, three-year term as the Panhandle's 31st District State Senator.

Over 100 arrested

Greyhound buses roll despite union violence

By CYNTHIA GREEN
Associated Press Writer

Police arrested more than 100 people in protests from Boston to San Francisco as striking Greyhound workers hurled rocks, eggs and curses at buses making their first trips in two weeks, but company officials said they were encouraged by passenger turnout.

At least half a dozen injuries were reported Thursday as chanting, sign-waving strikers tried to block buses from leaving depots for the first time since the Amalgamated Transit Union walkout began Nov. 2.

Most buses carried few passengers, and ticketholders willing to board the big cruisers faced delays and abuse as protesters smashed windshields, flattened tires and ripped off mirrors in attempts to keep non-union replacement drivers off the roads.

Meanwhile, union leaders meeting in Scottsdale, Ariz., with company officials unanimously rejected a new Greyhound contract proposal late Thursday, but said the 12,700 rank-and-file members could vote on it.

However, a union source who asked not to be identified said one condition for the vote was that the company take the buses back off the road.

The company is seeking wage and benefit cuts, saying it must reduce labor costs to stay competitive with other buses and cut-rate airlines.

In response to the violence Thursday, judges and police in Atlanta, Philadelphia and San Francisco acted quickly to limit the number of pickets allowed at terminals.

"I was expecting something, but I didn't imagine anything quite like this," said passenger Sandra Morefield, boarding in Effingham, Ill., where 30 jeering pickets temporarily blocked one bus and threw eggs at two others.

In Boston, 51 protesters were taken into custody after they blocked buses from leaving and entering the terminal, police spokesman Peter Woloschuk said. One officer suffered a broken leg, another had his thumb broken and three or four more were injured in making the arrests, he said.

In one of the most violent outbursts, 300 strikers in San Francisco hurled rocks, bottles and chunks of pavement at buses leaving the terminal, police said. The first bus, carrying five passengers, was forced to turn back after a tire was flattened and its windows broken a few blocks away. The windshield of the second bus was shattered, and police had to stop protesters from ripping off its wipers.

"Emotions just went up," said Howard Brown, a Greyhound driver

Wrong time, place for shoplifting try

By JULIA CLARK
Staff Writer

Three young men from Amarillo picked the wrong time and wrong place to attempt shoplifting tapes from Hastings Records and Tapes in the Pampa Mall Thursday, according to police records.

The moment they left the store, they ran into Pampa's Chief of Police and the captain of the force.

"It's kind of ironic," Chief J.J. Ryzman said.

Six members of the Pampa police force were in the mall talking with managers of various stores about preventing shoplifting and assisting with security deficiencies, according to Ryzman.

The chief said he and Captain Roy Denman were standing near the doorway to Hastings talking with the manager of the store when they saw three young men leaving the store as the shoplifting alarm went off.

The young men ran when the officers approached them.

With the captain and chief in hot pursuit, the three suspects ran across the parking lot and Perryton Parkway, turning south toward 25th Street.

The three suspects split up at 25th Street and Christine, but the officers continued the chase.

According to the chief, two Pampa residents helped the officers by giving them rides. Captain Denman jumped into the back of a pickup where he could have a better view of the fleeing suspects, according to one police observer.

After being chased through yards and jumping over fences, James Cooper Ellis, 18, of Amarillo, was caught hiding in bushes on Charles Street.

Seventeen-year-old Reuben Berlanga Jr. was found crouching under a woodpile in a back yard on Mary Ellen.

The third youth, also from Amarillo, was caught by officer Gary Boydston as he was trying to enter a house on Mary Ellen.

Ryzman said the police have recovered various items believed stolen from other Pampa Mall stores.

The three suspects were arrested and charged with theft under $20 and fleeing and evading arrest.

Running for lives...as shells hit Tripoli neighborhood

Palestinian rebels reportedly blasting Tripoli neighborhoods

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's loyalists claimed they recaptured the Baddawi refugee camp today in a pre-dawn counterattack on Syrian-backed Palestinian rebels in northern Lebanon, Beirut radio stations reported.

The radio reports quoted an unnamed spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization as saying Syrians and PLO rebels fired a barrage of artillery and rockets on residential neighborhoods in the nearby port of Tripoli to avenge the loss of Baddawi. The camp had been Arafat's final stronghold in Lebanon until the rebels seized it Wednesday.

The claims could not be immediately verified

In southern Lebanon, meanwhile, the Israeli military command said today that an Israeli soldier was killed and six others wounded when a roadside bomb detonated next to a military convoy Thursday night.

The command said the bomb killed Cpl. Moshe Ben-Tsur, 20, at the southern entrance to the port city of Sidon. Reinforcements were brought in to search for the attackers.

In Beirut, one radio report said the rebels pounded the four Tripoli neighborhoods where Arafat's loyalists maintain positions with 50 shells a minute.

The neighborhoods included Zahreh, where Arafat set up his new command headquarters after the fall of Baddawi to the rebels on Wednesday, the Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio station reported.

The other three neighborhoods were Kubbeh, Mallouleh and Mina — all strongholds of the Islamic Unification militia which has supported Arafat in the 15-day-old PLO war, the station said.

The state radio said the loyalists' counterattack was mounted at 3 a.m. and within two hours Arafat's supporters regained control of Baddawi, on the northeastern outskirts of Tripoli.

The Voice of Lebanon said "suicide units" of Arafat's loyalists took the hills north and east of the camp and then moved into Baddawi.

Sandinista leaders claim invasion near TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Nearly 1,000 U.S. Marines were ready to land today on an isolated beach in northern Honduras, kicking off two weeks of joint military maneuvers with Honduran forces.

The leftist Sandinista government in neighboring Nicaragua sees the maneuvers, coming on the heels of the invasion of Grenada, as the prelude to a U.S.-backed attack on Nicaragua.

Sandinista leaders are stepping up preparations for war, but the U.S. ambassador in Nicaragua said Thursday the fears of a U.S. invasion are "exaggerated."

Elsewhere in Central America, Costa Rica declared its "permanent... unarmed" neutrality, and journalists who traveled to three towns in northern El Salvador were told army troops had killed more than 100 leftist sympathizers, including women and children. The army said the victims were "terrorists" and "subversives."

The amphibious landing by Marines, accompanied by a Honduran infantry battalion at Puerto Castillo on Honduras' Caribbean coast, is a highlight of the Big Pine II exercise that began in August and is expected to last into March.

After the landing, the combined forces planned to move through swampland to a point 12 miles inland.

In El Salvador, journalists who traveled to Copapayo, San Nicolas and La Escopeta, about 45 miles northeast of San Salvador, said they saw 20 bodies being buried and were given a list of 117 people, including women and children, who reportedly were killed.

Survivors said troops from the U.S.-trained Atlacatl battalion killed the victims.

An armed forces communique said the "terrorist casualties occurred when a column was surprised on the shores of the lake" by the battalion.

The communique also said army troops Thursday retook the town of El Tabio, 116 miles northeast of San Salvador in Morazan province, a longtime guerrilla stronghold. It said 13 soldiers were wounded in heavy fighting.

The rebels had seized the town Tuesday, scattering a defending force of about 200 government soldiers.

Peets are honored as family of year

The family of Richard and Carol Peet, 2230 Duncan, was named Pampa's "Family of the Year" at a presentation Thursday night in the Heritage Room of M. K. Brown Auditorium sponsored by the Pampa Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

This is the fourth year for the award, presented to honor families active in community and church affairs and displaying high moral standards and family solidarity.

Presenting the award to the Peet family was Judge Don Cain, 223rd District.

Residents of Pampa for the past 12 years, the Peets both are currently employed at Pampa High School. Peet teaches government and his wife works in the Audio Visual Department. He also teaches at the Pampa Center of Clarendon College on Tuesday evenings.

Peet referees junior high school football games and coaches Little League baseball and soccer. A member of Zion Lutheran Church, he has taught adult Sunday School classes and has been involved in Youth Fellowship programs and in Businessmen's Outreach.

Mrs. Peet has directed choir, sings and wrote a children's Christmas play. At the Zion Lutheran Church, she has been involved in Women Aglow and Monday women's prayer meetings as well as other church activities.

The Peets have three sons - Tory, 12; Tarin, 9; and Tracy, 7. All play soccer and baseball. Tarin has taken gymnastics, and Tory and Tarin play piano. Tory is in the gifted and talented program in the Pampa school system.

The family likes to travel and enjoy activities together.

Peet was born in New York and came to Texas while serving in the U.S. Air Force. He graduated from Midwestern University at Wichita Falls. Mrs. Peet, a Pampa native, graduated from Concordia Teachers College in Nebraska and met her husband while teaching in Wichita Falls. She taught school for six years and then took off several years to begin raising their children.

The award is presented by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to emphasize the family in conjunction with Family Unity Week, observed by Congressional proclamation during Thanksgiving Week. The church teaches "No other success can compensate for failure in the home" and believes that home is the place to save society.

David Rindlisbacher, professor of art at West Texas State University at Canyon and counselor in the church's Amarillo Stake (diocese) presidency, spoke on family togetherness, stressing the need to develop strong family unity.

Also honored were finalists for the award. These included the families of Jerry and Barbara Bruce, 1200 S. Farley; Kent and Linda Lane, 1200 S. Farley; Lonnie and Anne Loter, 2237 Chestnut, and Jack and Katherine Reeve, 1811 Dogwood.

Congress leaving for vacation without acting to erase red ink

WASHINGTON (AP) - Climaxing a year of hand-wringing about the evils of federal deficits, Congress is leaving for a two-month vacation after doing little about the red ink except to authorize the borrowing of another $101 billion.
 A compromise plan raising the limit on borrowing to $149 trillion was accepted by voice vote by the Senate Thursday night, sending the measure to expected final approval in the House today.

 Action on the credit bill would clear away the last major obstacle to wrapping up the first session of the 98th Congress, and allow the federal government to resume its borrowing above the old limit of $139 billion.

 The last opportunity for Congress to do something major this year to combat deficits disappeared Thursday when the House refused, by a vote of 214-204, to consider even a modest package of tax increases and spending reductions.
 Still, the Senate planned to consider today a $28 billion measure balanced about evenly between tax increases and spending reductions.
 That's even though any action by the Senate would be merely symbolic, since the House will be taking no action this year.
 Also on Capitol Hill:
 The Senate also approved a dairy subsidy bill that would empower the government for the first time to pay farmers not to produce milk. The compromise bill worked out by House-Senate conferees passed on a voice vote and sent to the House for final action.
 The measure also includes changes in tobacco price supports and a provision that provides government-owned corn to drought-stricken farmers for use as livestock feed.
 A bill to cut natural gas prices by 5 percent to 10 percent was defeated by the House Energy and Commerce Committee on a 23-19 vote. The panel's vote killed any chances for natural gas legislation this year. Republicans and Democrats from natural-gas producing states teamed up to defeat the bill sponsored by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., the committee's chairman.
 Legislation to set up a national center to match patients needing organ transplants with donors was approved by the House Commerce Committee. The legislation included a provision that allows Medicare coverage for immunosuppressive drugs, which prevent the body from rejecting transplanted tissue.

Panel believes former lawmakers used drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Rep. Charles Wilson says he received "a million dollar vindication" from the House ethics committee, which spent $1.5 million to conclude there is no hard evidence of illegal drug use by current House members. But the panel found "substantial evidence" that three former lawmakers used drugs.

The report said the 16-month probe investigated nine current congressmen, discovering only "mere speculation and hearsay" in seven instances and "insufficient evidence" against Wilson, D-Texas, and Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif. - the two major targets. The other seven were not named.
 Dellums, 47, said in a written statement that "I have stated at every opportunity that the allegations made against me were false. I am pleased that the ethics committee has finally confirmed my innocence, and found that there is no reason to believe a violation (of House rules) occurred."
 Wilson, 50, reacting to Califano's estimate of the investigation's $1.5 million cost, said, "You have to be pleased with a million dollar vindication. I had no doubt from the start as to the final result."
 The House ethics report did not name Goldwater, Richmond or Burton, but Califano was asked by reporters to identify the former lawmakers.
 Committee Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio and Califano said the committee found that 42 current and former congressional employees used or distributed illegal drugs - 20 from the Senate and 22 from the House.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., said Thursday that former Democratic Reps. John Burton of California and Frederick Richmond of New York confessed "under oath after a grant of immunity" that they used drugs.
 Ex-Republican Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr. of California admitted to no drug use but Califano said, "There was substantial evidence of such activity." Goldwater called Califano's statement "outrageous. Absolutely inaccurate."
 The 147-page report released wove a tale of marijuana and cocaine use inside the U.S. Capitol, saying that one of the three ex-congressmen, doorkeepers, tour guides, pages, and even Capitol Police officers sometimes bought the drugs in the building.
 The report did not spell out, by name, which former congressman had done what - and Califano, when questioned by reporters, refused to be that specific.

PAINT JOB - Whoops. Police said an unidentified driver probably didn't see the two five-gallon buckets of silver paint that fell off the back of his truck when he turned the corner at Alcock and Hobart Thursday afternoon. When the buckets smashed open, and gallons of wet, silver paint covered the intersection and median. Firemen hosed off the paint; and city crews covered it with sand, but not before the tires of several vehicles picked up an unwanted paint job. (Staff Photo)

Administration concerned about reaction to nuclear war film

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration is apprehensive about how Americans will react to a powerful television movie depicting nuclear war devastation. It says it is safer to be strong militarily while pursuing arms negotiations than to disarm or freeze atomic arsenals.

The film, ABC-TV's "The Day After," for broadcast Sunday, graphically shows the horrors of nuclear war and offers no hope for survivors. Anti-nuclear groups are using the movie as a focal point for fund-raising and membership drives.
 One of President Reagan's political aides called the film "potentially the most emotionally powerful thing ever shown on American television."

 Speaking anonymously, the aide expressed fears it could be politically damaging to Reagan, who has been criticized on occasion as being trigger-happy.

Indeed, concern about Reagan's military posture is a key ingredient of the so-called "gender gap" - the tendency among women to have generally more negative feelings toward Reagan than men do.

Skellytown council handles long agenda

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) - During a recent meeting, the Skellytown City Council announced the town's schedule for the Christmas and Thanksgiving Day holidays, approved hiring a town judge, and approved the local gas company's plans to show consumers how they can reduce utility bills.

Christmas dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Dec. 13.
 On an emergency motion, the council passed an ordinance providing for hiring a municipal judge. The judge will accept pleas and fines for violations of city ordinances. The council set the salary for the position at $30 per month, plus $5 for each fine collected.
 Canyon consultant J. Pat Stephens also discussed with council members the need to update ordinances affecting city employees, animal-control laws, building permits, property taxes, vendors, landfill operations, city streets, public utilities, health and safety, and traffic and vehicles. The city council discussed Stephens' proposals but took no action.
 Mayor Tom Spence presided at the meeting, with all council members present.

Trail ride slated

MIAMI - Miami residents will get together to share sack lunches and horseback rides along a planned route Sunday.
 The two separate rides both will start from the Miami Rodeo Arena north of the railroad tracks. The first trail ride starts at 10 a.m. Sunday, and the second group will leave at 2 p.m.
 Warning that some ornery horses won't be welcome, ride organizer Mary Slavin, said, "No stallions, please."
 She said all riders are welcome to join the trail rides, but they must sign releases in connection with liability for mishaps.
 Riders should bring sack lunches, which will be eaten at the rodeo arena before the trail rides begin.
 For more information, call Slavin at 668-5541.

Arguments postponed in baby deaths hearing

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A state judge has postponed final arguments in a hearing concerning a contempt charge filed against a medical school dean by prosecutors investigating unexplained infant deaths.

The arguments had been set for Thursday night but Judge David Berchelmann, tied up with another trial, rescheduled them for Dec. 1.

The contempt of grand jury charge contends that Dr. Marvin Dunn, dean at the University of Texas Health Science Center, did not fully comply with a subpoena seeking all papers related to the pediatric intensive care unit at Medical Center Hospital.

A Bexar County grand jury has been investigating a string of suspicious infant deaths at the pediatrics unit between 1978 and early 1982.

Dunn, whose faculty staffs the hospital, took the stand during a five-hour hearing Wednesday and repeatedly denied that he "intentionally" withheld any documents from investigators.

District Attorney Sam Millsap has contended the dean purposely kept certain documents to protect the Health Science Center from civil liability in "possible future lawsuits."

Dunn's attorney, Gerald Goldstein, said Thursday that he was glad Berchelmann had reset the hearing.

"I think he realized this is not the sort of thing you want to do at night on a rush, rush basis," Goldstein said. "This is very important to the community and, of course, to Dr. Dunn."

Chief Deputy District Attorney Nick Rothe, who has been heading the baby deaths investigation, was in conference and could not be reached for comment about the postponement.

A grand jury in Kerr County has indicted vocational nurse Genevieve Jones on one murder charge and seven counts of injury to a child.

Prosecutors contend Ms. Jones, 33, killed a 15-month-old Kerrville girl and caused serious injuries to six other children with injections of a powerful muscle relaxant.

Mattox reference to 'trap' discussed in depositions

AUSTIN (AP) — A transcript of a conversation between Attorney General Jim Mattox and a partner in a law firm he allegedly threatened shows that Mattox said the firm was in a "trap."

But the two sides of the high-stakes legal battle disagree on what the trap was. Thomas McDade of the Houston firm of Fulbright and Jaworski testified Thursday he thought the trap was a reference to an alleged threat by Mattox to ruin the firm's profitable public bond business.

However, defense lawyer Roy Minton said the trap was a reference to a legal stalemate in a $1.7 billion civil lawsuit fight between the state of Texas and Mobil Oil Corp., a Fulbright and Jaworski client.

McDade took the witness stand Thursday for a rare, open court deposition. Minton asked to question McDade and Wiley Caldwell, another Fulbright and Jaworski partner, in preparation for Mattox's commercial bribery trial.

No trial date has been set.

McDade said Caldwell told him that Mattox threatened to use his official powers to cut off the firm's bond business if McDade did not withdraw a request to interrogate Mattox's sister Janice in the Mobil suit.

The conversation between Caldwell and Mattox was not recorded, McDade said. However, McDade recorded later conversations he had with Mattox and Mattox's assistants.

Reading from the transcript, McDade testified that Mattox told him, "If you want to get out of this trap I'm in and you're in" then Fulbright and Jaworski should forego the questioning of the attorney general's sister.

"We'll win the battle one way or the other," Mattox said, according to the transcript. "We ain't out of the trap yet."

Mattox then made a reference to an end of negotiations between McDade and Arthur Mitchell, a top Mattox aide.

McDade said Thursday he interpreted that as meaning an end to negotiations about "whether we're in the bond business."

Minton later told reporters the negotiations comment was a reference to talks about working out the dispute over depositions in the Mobil case.

It was "two lawyers screaming and yelling about a lawsuit," said Minton.

"If that is against the law, I'm finished," Minton said.

Mattox told reporters his comment about a trap meant the parties were "not able to get an agreement on a set of depositions."

Board urged to adopt orphan program

AUSTIN (AP) — At the urging of a Dallas legislator and Roman Catholic priest, a state agency has held up approval of a limited program to bring in orphans from Southeast Asia and agreed to consider opening its borders to many more.

The Rev. Justin Lucio, director of migration and refugee services for United States Catholic Charities, said Thursday, "It is time to renew our sense of goodness and the moral obligation this country was founded on. Let the children come into Texas."

Rep. Al Granoff, who visited refugee camps in Thailand this summer, said congressmen and others had assured him that federal money would be available for the orphans program "two years from now and six years from now. I certainly think we ought to believe the word of our government."

The Board of Human Resources, wary of the federal government's financial commitment to relocating orphans from refugee camps, asked its staff to check on other states that have accepted Asian orphans and report Feb. 2.

The largest number of children from camps in Thailand, Hong Kong and the Philippines are located in New York (635), California (555), Minnesota (304), Iowa (199), Illinois (195) and Oregon (185).

"Their plight is bleak, their future is bleak," said commissioner Marlin Johnston of the Department of Human Resources. "We are not without feelings for the children."

The DHR staff recommended a program, beginning with a small pilot project, that would give priority to children whose fathers are American servicemen.

Johnston said 97,000

Southeast Asian refugees live in Texas, but the state has not participated in the orphan refugee program "because of serious legal and fiscal ramifications and restrictions."

He said most of the orphans are teen-agers and unlikely to be adopted or reunited with their real parents and the addition of Asian orphans to the state foster care program "would place a significant strain on an already strained program."

Johnston said a conservative analysis of adding 10 orphans a year to the program for five years would result in an annual cost at the end of that period of $406,177.

He said the Unaccompanied Refugee Minors Program is 100 percent federally funded but that funding "has been erratic and unpredictable in the past, and frequently there is doubt that it will come at all. We literally do not know from month to month where we stand."

Board member Thomas Dunning, Dallas, said in Texas 20 percent of the children live below the poverty line "and we're only covering 5 percent. I would have guilt feelings about bringing in more."

Lucio responded that the Catholic Church "is committed to alleviating the suffering of the children in this program."

Board chairman J. Livingston Kosberg, Houston, asked Lucio if Catholic Charities would accept "fiscal responsibility" for the program. Lucio said if the government should deplete its funds, "the church would be aware of our own commitment to the children."

But would the church accept financial responsibility, he was asked, and Lucio replied "to the extent that we're possible, yes."

Kosberg said he felt a "moral commitment" to bringing Amerasians to the United States "because we're partially responsible for the creation of these children."

Granoff said there are almost no Amerasians left in the refugee camps, "and I'm concerned that has racial implications I'm not sure I believe in."

"If you cut off one recipient group, let it not be homeless orphans," Granoff said.

Use of Doggett funds barred by commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas state Sen. Lloyd Doggett has been forbidden by the Federal Election Commission from using certain funds from his state campaign war chest to finance his bid for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

But the commission also said that some funds left over from Doggett's 1982 state campaign could be used for the U.S. Senate bid, if certain conditions were met.

The decision was adopted by the commission on Thursday by a 5-0 vote and involves about $50,000 in Doggett state campaign funds.

However, it was not immediately clear how much of the money Doggett would be barred from using in his federal race and how much of it he could use.

Jim Marston, a volunteer attorney for Doggett, said that as a result of the decision "I think we ought to be able to transfer some more money" to Doggett's U.S. Senate campaign but that he couldn't say how much.

He said the ruling was "probably good news for the campaign."

Doggett, who is seeking the Democratic nomination to run for the seat being vacated by the retirement of Republican Sen. John Tower, had a little over $53,000 left in his state campaign fund as of June 30, according to his campaign finance report.

Marston said in an interview that he had sought the advisory opinion from the commission in hopes of using all but several thousand dollars of that for the U.S. Senate race.

At issue was whether Doggett could use in the federal race contributions that came from Texas professional corporations and from political action committees (PACs) registered with Texas but not the Federal Election Commission.

The commission said Doggett could not use the contributions from the professional corporations but could use contributions from the PACs, if the PACs met certain requirements.

Doggett had already transferred to his U.S. Senate campaign committee more than $187,000 from his state campaign war chest, according to records on file with the commission.

Thursday's commission decision dealt with money remaining in the state fund after that transfer. Marston said that in addition Doggett had raised between $400,000 and $500,000 in campaign contributions for his U.S. Senate race.

Diabetes may be controlled in near future, expert says

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Scientists may discover within a generation how to control or prevent diabetes, one of the nation's major killers, a medical research expert said at a conference at the University of Texas Medical Branch.

Dr. David Kipnis, chairman of the department of medicine at Washington University in St. Louis, said Thursday in an interview that medical researchers are on the brink of developing methods of curing diabetes completely and, perhaps, even developing inoculations that will prevent people from developing the disease.

"I think with a generation we will see diabetes completely controlled," Kipnis said.

Diabetes develops when the pancreas of a patient stops producing insulin, a hormone that is essential for the metabolism of sugars and carbohydrates. There are about 10 million diabetics in the U.S. and about 20 percent of these require regular doses of insulin to stay alive. Diabetes is the 3rd to 4th most common cause of death and is often the base cause of heart disease in the young.

Kipnis said scientists have discovered that there is a virus associated with diabetes and an indication that some people have a predisposition for developing the disease.

He said there is a possibility that an inoculation against the virus will be developed.

"We could then identify the people who are at risk (candidates for diabetes) and give them the immune agent," he said.

Transplantation of islets, cells in the pancreas that produce the insulin, also offers the promise of curing diabetes, he said.

Kipnis said that in animal studies researchers have been able to isolate the islet cells and transplant them into animals. The cells can be placed into the abdominal cavity or into the liver where it can reside for a lifetime, producing the necessary insulin.

"We can do it now in animals," he said. If a way is developed to do in humans, Kipnis added, "we could cure diabetes."

Mail delivered....eventually

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Florene Oats said she was pleased to find a graduation announcement from her niece in the mail earlier this week, but she didn't know exactly how to respond.

Is it appropriate to buy a graduation gift for someone who graduated 34 years ago?

The envelope delivered by the U.S. Postal Service carried a postmark of 1949, a 5-cent stamp and a Midland postmark.

"It was a shock," Mrs. Oats said with a laugh. "I just had to sit down and think about it. I was so astonished."

"The only problem is to find the appropriate gift for her."

A spokeswoman for the Postal Service in Fort Worth was at a loss to explain how the graduation announcement, which was supposed to have been mailed in 1949 from Madill, Okla., ended up going through the Midland post office Saturday and then to Mrs. Oats' home — all on a nickel stamp.

Mrs. Oats said she contacted her niece Peggy South Martin, who now lives in Hurst and is a grandmother. Mrs. Oats said the delayed delivery gave them both a good laugh and caused them to reflect on the postman's creed, "Neither rain, nor snow, nor ..."

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Latest scare not necessarily valid

We face wear and tear on the nerves from warnings about danger from nuclear power plants which usually turn out to be unjustified. Are we going to go through the wringer again with the so-called greenhouse effect?

If a study prepared for the Environmental Protection Agency is correct, the accumulation of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is going to produce a rise in temperatures which could cause havoc in various parts of the world. The burning of fossil fuels, mainly coal and oil, is causing the buildup.

What distinguished the EPA report from some others on the same subject is that it does not treat the greenhouse effect as a theoretical possibility but as a certainty. It also warns that the rise in temperature, which might eventually cause the level of the ocean to rise by several feet because of the melting of the polar ice cap, will begin to occur sooner than anyone thought - possibly in the 1990s.

Now, if the scientific community subscribed unanimously to the EPA findings, the way scientists believe, for instance, in the law of gravity - we could get busy building dikes to hold back the sea and plan for the major changes in the way we fund ourselves. In the atmospheric greenhouse, some farming areas would become too hot for the crops they now produce.

But no sooner is the EPA report released than we hear that its warnings are highly exaggerated. Scientists who seem to be as familiar with the carbon dioxide problem as those who contributed to the EPA study have reached quite different conclusions. One of them, Charles Keeling of San Diego's Scripps Institution, even sees some possible beneficial effects in higher content of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. The increase of CO2 seems to make plants grow faster. We could wind up with more food rather than less. And later the National Academy of Sciences came out with a report on the subject that did not disagree with the EPA findings but seems to view the problem with much less alarm.

So where are we? We're back behind the eight-ball with chemicals that may or may not cause cancer, with nuclear waste that may or may not be dangerous, and all the other disputed propositions that can keep you awake at night.

Roger Revelle, a University of California professor, thinks the greenhouse effect presents a "serious, serious set of possibilities that we must be content with." All right, let's contend with the possibility that they won't. That may be the best we can do for now.

Martin Luther's legacy still lives

"And tho this world with devils filled - Should threaten to undo us - We will not fear, for God hath willed - His truth to triumph through us."

So wrote the man whose 500th birthday much of the Christian world marked on Nov. 10 - an astoundingly relevant anniversary, may it please the court of history.

Of Martin Luther, whose "Ninety-five Theses" launched the Protestant Reformation in 1517, a contemporary biographer (Roland Bainton) has written: "If there is any sense remaining in Christian civilization in the West, this man Luther in no small measure deserves the credit."

A large statement; but, then, one has to reckon with the way Luther's basic religious ideas (men gain salvation by faith in Christ, rather than by good works) reinfused Western society with Christian conviction and zeal.

The matter in no way ended there. When Luther affirmed that our God was a mighty fortress (Ein Feste Burg), he meant then and always, never mind how cruel and forceful the competition. To German Lutherans, during the 1930s, that meant nazism. Since the mid - '40s it has meant something even deadlier and more unyielding - communism.

In 1945, the Communists, hard haters of God, took over the birthplaces of Luther and Lutheranism - Whittenberg, Eisenach, Eisenberg, Leipzig - much as the Vandals seized St. Augustine's North Africa. Quickly the mighty fortress of Luther's hymn came under siege.

And did it fall? Possibly this is the big story of the Luther Quincentennial: No, it didn't fall. It holds out to the present day, growing ever stronger.

Overt religious persecution in East Germany began promptly. Promptly the marginal Christians fell away. Yet as many as 8 million in an East German population of 17 million remain Lutheran (not counting almost 2 million more Roman Catholics and other Protestants).

Both above ground and below ground the church endures and grows. Nearly all East German Lutheran parishes are "twinning" with West German ones: through which arrangement the Eastern parishes receive everything from cars to church bells, cloth for vestments, wine for the Eucharist and money for church restoration.

All West German pastors have 10 percent deducted from their salaries as Bruderhilfe ("brotherly help"). The money goes for the relief of the miserably paid East German pastors. An East German pastor over 65, if he moves to the West, will receive the same generous pension as if he had always served there.

East German Christians are discriminated against in schools and on the job. This holds down official church-going, but "unofficial" attendance (for organ concerts, architecture - gazing, etc.) is on the upswing. Churches formerly closed during the week now stay open.

Younger inquirers, wholly insulated from the church, are prone to ask what the crucifix is, the statue of a gymnast? Yet increasingly the church lures the young, particularly the university-trained.

The Evangelische Studentgemeinden (ESG) at the universities carries on subtle missionary work, maintaining close ties with West German youth groups. The younger Lutherans, like younger American Christians, are most often lured by pietism and fundamentalism. They often pray in tongues and take the Scriptures literally. They sport bumper stickers that say: "Smile, Jesus Loves You." They are intensely pro-Israeli and pro-American.

East Germany is rife with Christian "cells," which are reported to exist even in the National Peoples Army. Despite its wretched salaries, the ministry beckons so many young people that all vacant pastorates (some open since the 1950s) are expected soon to be filled.

And Martin Luther is dead? At age 500, he may be more alive than ever, in the faith and witness of German Lutherans. Which is not to forget what Luther understood himself to be - merely God's servant, speaking the words he was persuaded God wished him to say. Such as: "I cannot and I will not recant anything, for to go against conscience is neither right nor safe. God help me. Here I stand, I cannot do otherwise."

Here today stand millions who would be like him, their faces uplifted, the light of ultimate victory in their eyes.

Legacy

In this feature we excerpt material that has appeared on The Pampa News' editorial pages in previous years, whether from the editorials, the column written for many years by Freedom Newspapers founder R.C. Hoiles.

When taxes are levied with the idea of giving any class protection without having them pay the full price for it, this class sooner or later loses it self - respect and independence. Nothing can happen to an individual that will do him more harm than to lose his own self - reliance and come to believe that he must be helped by the government in having his share of government costs paid by someone else than himself.

Organized religious educators do not coerce anyone to send their children to their schools, nor do they coerce anyone to pay for them. Not so with public schools. They insist on their educational bureaucracy having the right to select textbooks on social and economic subjects that not only the state schools must use, but also the private schools. They will permit private schools to use some textbooks that they do not approve, but the private schools must also use certain textbooks that the professional educators specify. They, in other words, insist on their right to brainwash not only the children attending public schools, but also those attending private schools and those children whose parents want to educate them themselves.

Answering false alarms costs

The newest EPA study concludes that "acid rain" is such a menace that we must spend $21 billion to control it.

Perhaps. But before we rescue our northeast states' lake fish at a cost of $6,000 a pound, let's be sure.

We've let the false - alarmists scare us into some frightful extravagance in the past. In 1978 HEW reported that 38 percent of all cancer in the U.S. could be traced to on - the - job chemicals.

It was 1981 before two of the world's leading epidemiologists found that report to be grossly erroneous.

In 1979 a spokesman for the National Cancer Institute testified before Congress that the incidence of cancer was rising toward epidemic proportions.

A 1981 statistical review discovered, on the contrary, our nation's incidence of cancer was not increasing.

In 1980, 700 families were evacuated from the area of Love Canal after the EPA reported "chromosomal abnormalities in some residents."

Last May the Center for Disease Control updated that research, found "No excess chromosomal abnormalities of any sort."

And the other informal health studies alleging that residents of the Love Canal area suffered increased epilepsy, birth defects, cancer...

Those studies have since been refuted also.

In 1969 the FDA issued its dramatic alarm about cyclamates, got cyclamates banned from broad consumer use.

"It caused bladder cancer in lab rats," they said.

Twenty - one separate studies since affirm that even sustained feeding of high dosages of cyclamates to lab animals produces no significant increase in bladder cancer.

A 1978 Canadian study of bladder cancer claimed it could be caused by saccharin.

Two years later the NCI decisively refuted those findings.

DDT was banned in 1972, suspected of causing liver tumors in mice.

In 1978 the NCI announced "no such evidence exists."

Now we come to the new scare - acid rain. Now the EPA says coal - fired factories in our Midwest are killing fish and forests in our Northeast.

However, four other studies affirm that "soil formulation" and "vegetative succession" have more to do with acidification of soil and water than anything falling from the sky.

And besides, one active volcano produces more upper - altitude pollution in one year than all our factory smoke. The jury is still out: this time let's wait until the jury is in before we spend $21 billion fixing something that isn't broken.

Why do young girls smoke?

It was 9 a.m. when I met Mindy in her high school classroom. She wore a T - shirt with the name of a motorcycle on it and had the unmistakable glow of a 16 - year - old.

She had just finished her third cigarette. The day's first smoke, she told me, had been after her morning shower, the second while walking to school, and the third in the school courtyard where smoking is allowed.

Her friend, sitting beside her, was Jill - also 16, also a smoker. Jill recalled their antics in junior high. "Remember," she said laughing, "how we'd smoke in the girls' john just to see how long it would take for a teacher to find us?"

Mindy and Jill were the youngest of six girls who agreed to talk to me about smoking. The others were Linda, Meg and Hildy, all seniors, and Beth, a drop - out who recently returned to school.

I told them I wanted to write something for yesterday's Great American Smoke - Out. I also told them about government statistics indicating that pack - a - day smoking has increased fourfold among teenage girl smokers while smoking has leveled off among teenage boys.

Linda, 17, said she started smoking at 13 while attending a private school.

"I was considered an oddball, so I decided I might as well be an oddball all the way and smoke too." Neither of her parents smoke and "they are having a fit." But Linda, who was elected a homecoming queen attendant this fall, seems to enjoy creating fits.

The school had a fit when she wore her swimsuit to class one hot day. "Well," she shrugged with obvious delight, "they said we couldn't wear shorts but they didn't mention swimsuits."

Smoking to her is a way to be independent, a way to defy. "I don't rebel unless I'm trying to make a point," she said. "Like, I don't think the school should tell us what to wear."

The group did not disguise its disdain for non - smoking jocks and their girlfriends, who they consider submissive and adoring. Jocks congregate in one area of the school; smokers, who consider themselves great partiers, congregate in another. "We're more friendly and laid back," they insisted.

"The jocks call us freaks."

One of the girls began smoking at 9, the others at 12 or 13. All said they were copying older kids. In four cases at least one parent smokes and in two cases, parents pay for their daughters' cigarettes.

Here are some of the girls' observations:

They think boys smoke less because they have more to do. "More of them have jobs or are in sports," said Mindy.

All six said they drank as well as smoked. Four also smoke pot. "Cigarettes taste better when you're high," Jill said.

All have been unimpressed with anti - smoking campaigns. "You're not going to lecture us?" they asked me anxiously. They don't think cigarettes are any more dangerous than other alleged cancer - producing substances. "What about the polluted air?" said Hildy. "I read that you can even get cancer from too much burned toast."

Two said their doctors warned them it was dangerous to be "on the pill" and smoking too (because of the increased risk of cardiovascular problems). "But it's my life," said Beth, "if I want to chance it, that's my business."

They don't like others to look down on them because they smoke. "Just because I smoke," said Meg, "is no reason to think I'm a sleaze."

The bell rang and they had to leave. I sat there trying to sort out what smoking symbolizes to them.

It has been said that boys smoke to be macho, to seem sophisticated and cool. These young women seem to feel the need to be emancipated, or non - conforming, or downright daring. They think smoking does that for them.

I wonder how long it will take for them to realize that it doesn't.

Drought relief legislation goes to house

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ranchers hard-hit by drought moved a step closer to getting low-cost cattle feed as the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill containing a provision ordering the aid.

The House was expected to act today on the drought proposal, contained in a dairy and tobacco price support bill. The administration had been supporting the measure, but President Reagan's approval of the bill was in doubt because of recent White House concern that it is too expensive.

The drought provision would require Agriculture Secretary John R. Block to provide 83 million bushels of government-owned feed corn at reduced prices.

Approval of the provision by the Senate came after weeks of struggling between Texas congressmen and Block, who had opposed making the grain available.

The Agriculture Department had said that if applied nationwide such a relief program would be far too expensive.

Instead, the department announced it was reducing the interest rate on emergency loans to farmers and ranchers in counties declared disaster areas because of this year's drought.

However, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who had the relief feed provision attached in the Senate, said livestock growers "need something a cow can eat, not another note at the bank."

The ranching country of West Texas has been one of the areas most seriously affected by the drought, which has led ranchers there to liquidate 60 to 70 percent of their herds.

Under the legislation, Block would be required to sell the three lowest grades of government-held corn at 75 percent of the government floor price for corn.

The corn would be made available to assist ranchers and farmers in maintaining breeding herds of livestock and poultry and their offspring.

Eligible to buy the corn would be livestock growers in counties throughout the country that have suffered from drought and related disasters and been declared disaster areas by the Agriculture Department.

However, the livestock growers would be required to pay the cost of transporting the corn to their ranches and farms.

This requirement produced sharp protests at a Senate-House conference committee earlier this week. Several congressmen complained that it discriminated against livestock growers in states where little or no grain is stored and where transportation costs would thus be much higher.

"They will be prejudiced against because of where they live," said Rep. Lindsay Thomas, D-Ga. However, the conference committee rejected language calling for the government to pay for the transportation costs.

Block has said that the grain is stored in 27 states, but that a majority of it is located in Texas, Iowa and Minnesota. About 21 million bushels of it is stored in the Texas Panhandle.

Workers retrieve body of slain rail worker

BLANCHARD, La. (AP) — The charred body of a Kansas City Southern railroad worker was recovered from the wreckage of a fiery train derailment Thursday.

The dead man, identified as John D. Mosely, 49, of Couchhatta, was operating a KCS track maintenance machine on a spur leading to the Haughton Timber Co. pulpwood yard about 2:50 p.m. Wednesday when it was struck by a five-engine freight train, authorities said.

The five locomotives and seven freight cars derailed, and nearly 9,000 gallons of diesel fuel aboard the engines caught fire and gutted five freight cars.

The track machine was pushed back into several flatcars taking on pulpwood from the Haughton yard.

Two workers on the flatcar and four of the train's crew were injured in the collision, one of them seriously.

The cause of the accident is under investigation by local authorities and the National Transportation Safety Board, officials said.

"The engines went down the track going into the woodyard and that is what caused the derailment. But we don't know what caused the engines to go down that track," said A.D. Karr, a Kansas City Southern official in Shreveport.

The spur switch was approximately 60 yards east of the point of impact.

The KCS employees reportedly had switched the track maintenance machine onto the siding to allow the train to pass, but authorities said they did not know if the switch was defective or "if it was something premeditated."

Sgt. Richard Dunn, the hazardous materials specialist for the Caddo Parish sheriff's office, said the train was traveling at around 35 to 40 miles an hour when it collided with the cars.

Wealth transfer to continue

NEW YORK (AP) — A vast transfer of wealth has been occurring during the past year or so, and is likely to continue well into next year.

Even so, it has only begun the process of returning money to victims of what is sometimes called the great heist of the 1970s, when the transfer of wealth went in the opposite direction.

Back then it was the transfer of assets from savers to borrowers, from the haves to the have-nots. Today, the haves are getting their money back and they intend to keep things going that way.

The process is simple: The haves are lending their savings — directly or through the institutions in which they keep their money — at interest rates that far exceed the rate of inflation.

Consider the contrast: In the late 1960s and mid-1970s it paid to borrow. Interest rates hadn't risen into double digits, but rates of inflation were already there. You could get a home mortgage for 8 percent or 9 percent while inflation was 11 percent.

Thus people made money borrowing by paying back in cheaper dollars, and borrowers further reduced costs by deducting interest payments from taxable income, while lenders had to pay taxes on non-existent interest income.

If the borrower bought a house his money grew faster. Between 1969 and 1979 the consumer price index rose from 109.8 to 217.4, a hefty jump, but home prices rose even faster: from 109.5 to 223.1.

The price of some homes grew much quicker. In some instances, houses bought for $30,000 rose within a few years to $90,000.

But such investment sometimes paid off in current income too: In many instances buyers declined to live in the houses but rented them out for income instead. And that rental income rose swiftly, too.

Meanwhile, the inflation that helped the borrower hurt the saver. Most savers keep their money in institutions, and institutions lend out their money, and that makes the saver a lender.

The saver-lender earned little or nothing at all on his money. It took time for lenders to adjust their rates to the new reality, and in some instances they were hampered from doing so by usury laws, or limits on interest charged.

Never again, said the saver-lenders, and they could be right. They not only stopped lending, they cornered legislators and won changes in borrowing-lending practices.

The variable-rate home mortgage is one such change. Rather than offering money at a fixed rate for 30 years, lenders now offer rates that tend to float with interest rates generally.

And if no such devices exist with which to protect themselves the lenders simply charge more to be safe. The roughly 10 percent gap between rates in general is about triple the norm.

Rates should come down, say many critics, and they

Dear Abby

Encourage fine young man to find a wife on his own

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column for years in the Scranton Tribune but never needed to write before this. I am 62 and have been taught from childhood to help my fellowman.

I know a wonderful 27-year-old man who is as nice as they come. He's served four years in the U.S. Army, believes in God, and has no prejudices whatsoever.

Can you rush me a list of missionaries, institutions, religious orders and lonely hearts magazines where he could find a nice girl who maybe has had a hard life and would appreciate a tall, handsome, slim, young white man? Religion doesn't matter. He could give her a nice home, children, marriage and a happy future. He doesn't care if she's divorced, widowed or has had a child out of wedlock. And it's even OK if she's Oriental or American Indian. Thank you.

A FRIEND IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR FRIEND: Your friend sounds like a fine young man, but if you want to help him, please encourage him to find his own wife. He can begin by socializing where decent, worthwhile people spend their time. He could volunteer his services to the elderly, disabled, disadvantaged children and veterans. All these people have friends and relatives. All he has to do is let them know he is interested in meeting a nice woman. Nice young women are standing in line to meet a decent young man.

DEAR ABBY: Is it right for my family (brothers and sisters) to invite my ex-husband and his new wife to family parties where I am invited even after I have specifically requested them not to? And to add insult to injury, his new wife was the woman who broke up our marriage. They are all aware of how he mistreated me during our marriage, but they continue to include him in family gatherings.

I want to be with my family—particularly for the holidays—but not if he is going to be there.

HURT IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR HURT: Since your family is aware that your "ex" has mistreated you and you are uncomfortable in his presence, but they invite him anyway, then they have made a choice. And it's not you.

DEAR ABBY: I wish kids would stop calling it "making love" when it's simply "having sex." Sex is the icing on the cake. To make a cake, you assemble the right ingredients, combine them properly, bake and cool. Then apply the icing!

Thanks for listening.

DISGUSTED IN SAPULPA, OKLA.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Right! The most important part is letting the cake cool.

...

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago you ran a letter that still bothers me. It was signed "Can't Decide." She couldn't decide if she should marry the "wonderful, considerate, generous" man she had been dating for two years because he was "short, stocky and bald." She said she was afraid that any children they might have would look like him.

Abby, I'm so glad you advised her to not marry him because she was unsure. I have an even greater concern for any children they might have: They might grow up to think like her.

"Lost" relatives may be found heading West

By GENA WALLS

Have you "lost" relatives in 1860? You might find them in Mississippi moving west for various reasons. In anticipation of the war, families that differed on the issues rather than divide loyalties just moved west in the hopes of avoiding conflict. Many people are found in Mississippi that are further west in 1870 and who were in northern, eastern and even other southern states in 1850.

Another practice that makes these census difficult was the common use of initials instead of names and the census taker often recorded initials to save time. Be careful in assuming you have you family only by initials. Remember, the naming sequence allowed for children of brothers to have the same names and in the same order of birth.

The 1860 Mississippi census has been indexed and can be purchased in book form. It is a three volume set, costing $30 per volume and can be purchased individually. Volume I contains surnames beginning with A through GA; Volume II names GE - NY and the last volume surnames O - Z. Include shipping - handling fees with your order, one book $1.50, two $1.75 and three $2. Order from Bonner Genealogical Research, Route 3, Box 61, Marianna, Ariz. 72360.

My suggestion to researchers purchasing books is to donate them to the public library when you finish. This is an excellent way to increase the genealogical section at the library, provide a community service and it is an allowable contribution for income tax deductions.

These indexes include all persons listed as heads of house, others within the household with a different surname, and an extra feature is the inclusion of persons with the same surname, living together that are old enough to be a parent.

In homes that a widow appears as head of household, the names of sons that appear to be married but of the same house are also listed. Labor camps, military posts, schools and boarding houses have been included and estates are shown. With these features many "lost" relatives might be "found."

Another book that can be purchased from the same company is "Phillips County, Ark. Marriages 1820 - July, 1879." You might find your relatives here even if you know they never lived in this area. The reason for this is that the county seat, Helena, is right on the Mississippi River, and two old military roads — one from Memphis and one from Alabama - Mississippi — crossed here. After 1810 TEN countiers were formed fully or partly from the old Phillips County. This book is an excellent source for persons researching early eastern Arkansas and western Mississippi.

Do you have a question about a particular area of research? Perhaps someone else has the same question or the answer for you. Write to me and I will publish your query and answer if you include a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Canyon museum prepares for Christmas open house

CANYON — The Panhandle - Plains Historical Museum staff is gearing up for its seventh annual Old Fashioned Christmas Open House, Dec. 1, 2 and 4.

"This year's open house will be even bigger and better than last year's," said Suzanne Hewitt - Knorpp, director of education and chairman of the staff Christmas committee. "Last year 5,000 people attended, despite a snowstorm. This year we've expanded the program to include a Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 p.m. This way we hope to attract senior citizens and other people who don't like to come out at night."

Right now the staff is decorating the museum and getting out the sleighs. The museum auxiliary is rounding up enough cookies and cider for a big crowd. Knorpp said Tavis Morris of Amarillo is the auxiliary's Christmas chairman this year, she added.

The Seventh Annual Old Fashioned Christmas Open House activities will include role players in Pioneer Village, singers and dancers performing every half hour, gingerbread cookies and cider served by the museum auxiliary and pioneer crafts demonstrations, Knorpp said. The dates and times are Thursday, Dec. 1, and Friday, Dec. 2, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 4, from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free.

Gulf chief admits reorganization is late

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. Chairman James E. Lee admits his firm should have reorganized under Delaware's more protective corporate laws long before Mesa Petroleum Co. moved to influence the nation's fifth-largest oil company.

Lee, in an interview with The Associated Press, also warned the outcome of Gulf's current proxy battle with Mesa Chairman T. Boone Pickens could affect America's drive for energy independence and the future of other major corporations.

A special shareholders' meeting Dec. 2 in Pittsburgh will decide whether Gulf may incorporate its holding company under Delaware laws, a move which would help prevent Pickens' group from winning one or two seats on Gulf's board of directors next spring.

Pickens leads an investors' group holding 10.8 percent of Gulf's stock worth about $80 million. He is lobbying shareholders against Gulf's bid to eliminate certain voting rights available under its incorporation in Pennsylvania.

Asked if Gulf should have joined scores of other major firms incorporated in Delaware long before Pickens' challenge, Lee said Wednesday that, "It should have been done. I think... I understand it's been raised by our people several times in the past."

Gulf Oil, Mesa fight in paper ads

DALLAS (AP) — Mesa Petroleum Inc. and Gulf Oil Corp. are battling over a bid to reorganize Gulf on the pages of the nation's newspapers, with both companies taking out full-page ads.

Mesa, based in Amarillo, Texas, is the largest single shareholder in Gulf. It's opposed to the company's reincorporation, which is scheduled to come up at a Dec. 2 special meeting of Gulf's board of directors.

In ads which appeared in the New York Times and the Dallas Times Herald on Thursday, T. Boone Pickens, Jr., chairman and founder of Mesa, urged Gulf shareholders not to approve the company's reorganization.

"The Gulf Investors Group is convinced that Gulf Stock is undervalued. We are dedicated to the goal of enhancing shareholder value and oppose any action that is contrary to that goal," the ad in the New York Times said.

Gulf is proposing to reorganize itself as a holding company and move from Pennsylvania to Delaware. "What's the rush?" asked Pickens' ad in the Dallas Times Herald. "For 61 years, Gulf has been a Pennsylvania corporation. Now, suddenly, the Board proposes to establish a Delaware holding company..."

John F. Boros, a Mesa vice president and secretary-treasurer, said Mesa's ad "is going to run in all major newspapers today and tomorrow."

Gulf, meanwhile, lashed back with its own reasoning. In a New York Times ad headlined "Gulf Oil Corporation Wants Its Shareholders to Know," the Pittsburgh-based company urged shareholders to vote for the company's reorganization.

"We believe that the best way to protect your investment in Gulf and maximize your future returns is to support your board's recommendation. Vote for the reorganization proposal..." Gulf said.

It went on to say that "a group headed by T. Boone Pickens... is using the Special Meeting of December 2 as an indirect way to gain support for its plan to create a royalty trust."

Pickens wants to increase the wealth of Gulf stock owners by putting hundreds of Gulf oil and gas wells into a separate entity, otherwise known as a royalty trust.

In such a trust, all production money is paid directly to shareholders after expenses are deducted.

Gulf officials are opposed to it because it would eliminate the use of production money to finance explorations or other capital spending.

"Distributions of royalty trusts, in our opinion, have done little, if anything to enhance shareholder wealth over the long term," Gulf's ad said. "For a large, integrated oil company, creating a royalty trust is like sailing in uncharted waters."

But, Lee said, executives were afraid that dissenting shareholders could have demanded Gulf buy back their shares at higher-than-market prices and taken the firm to court for the money.

Lee said the fear was that "you'd have a lot of shares dumped on the company and it would create financial problems."

Lee, however, later said the "dissenter's rights" challenge "is probably not going to be pursued by many people."

The executive said Pickens' plan to boost Gulf's stock values by spinning off the firm's petroleum assets into a royalty trust could have "political and economic consequences" nationwide.

Lee said royalty trusts, applied so far only at relatively small companies, would drain major integrated firms like Gulf of cash needed to replenish domestic oil and gas reserves and reduce dependence on imported fuels.

"We don't want to wrap ourselves in the flag, but it's going to take the large integrated companies with financial resources and technology and people to do the job that needs to be done," Lee said.

"We can't do the job if you're going to start breaking up the large integrated companies," he said. "There are political and economic consequences out of that kind of action."

Lee said the appeal of enhanced stock prices through royalty trusts could spill over to other major companies.

"If indeed the royalty trust is the answer to creating shareholder value in Gulf's case, then why isn't it in the case of... any natural resource company — a coal company, a copper company, a gold company," he said.

"Why would you stop here? I think there are real connotations here. I think the other companies then have to have some concern."

Mesa Vice President John Boros, reached by telephone in Amarillo, Texas, late Thursday, said Gulf would still have adequate exploration capital after creating a royalty trust. He deferred to Pickens for further comment on Lee's statements and said Pickens was unavailable.

With the shareholders meeting only two weeks away, Lee and other Gulf executives are telling individual and institutional shareholders that a royalty trust would hurt Gulf and create a new tax burdens on royalty trust payments.

Gulf management needs 50 percent plus one of its 165 million outstanding shares to reincorporate in Delaware.

Because a proxy not returned is a vote against management, Lee said Gulf is urging maximum participation among individuals, who hold 77 million shares.

"It's normally the individual shareholders who are lax about sending their proxies back. The individuals are going to be the key," he said. "The number of individual shareholders is larger than the number of institutional and corporate shareholders."

Lee said he's "very encouraged" by shareholder response to the company's lobbying effort and hopes to boost the number of proxies exercised beyond the 75 percent usually voted in special meetings.

"The way the interest has been piqued on this issue, the experts are telling us the vote is going to be very heavy on the number of proxies returned. They're estimating it's going to go over 80 percent," he said.

Gulf and Mesa took out full-page ads in newspapers across the country on Thursday to take their dispute directly to the shareholders.

"The Gulf Investors Group is convinced that Gulf Stock is undervalued. We are dedicated to the goal of enhancing shareholder value and oppose any action that is contrary to that goal," Pickens said in an ad in the New York Times.

BARRY MCGUIRE

McGuire in concert tonight

Barry McGuire, who first stepped into the public eye in 1962 as the gravelly voiced lead singer of the Nedw Christy Minstrels, will appear in concert at M.K. Brown Auditorium at 7:30 tonight.

The local concert by McGuire is being sponsored by the local Youth for Youth Ministries. There will be no admission charge.

McGuire launched his musical career with the two million seller songs "Green Green" and "Greenback Dollar." Then in 1965 his growing awareness of social hypocrisy was revealed in his third chart buster, "Eve of Destruction" which echoed around the world as an anthem of the times.

In 1971 his life was completely turned around and he now sings and shares of the hope and healing that's available through the Creator-King of the universe. His music is a direct reflection of the change that has taken place deep within himself and his intense desire to communicate the source of that change.

DR. WINFRED MOORE

City-wide Thanksgiving set

The Pampa Ministerial Alliance will sponsor its city-wide Thanksgiving service at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 22, in the sanctuary of the First Christian Church, 18th and Nelson Sts.

Nashville recording artists and song writers, the family members are masters of six different Appalachian instruments, including the five-string banjo, mandolin, fiddle, auto harp, dobro and guitars.

The Turners have appeared on radio and television and performed at such places as Knott's Berry Farm in Los Angeles. They also have appeared with Grand Ole Opry star Bill Monroe, the father of bluegrass music and performed on "It's a New Day" tv show in Winnipeg, Canada.

"Everyone from children to grandparents will enjoy the traditional, folk and contemporary songs of faith and inspiration in the unique Turner style," Pastor John Farina said.

Records, tapes and photo souvenirs will be available. The public is invited to attend the special service.

The Hand that rocks the cradle...

... How true that a mother's influence can be so great... "The Hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." Perhaps the child pictured here will, in the future, not be rocking a doll, but a precious new life. The influence brought to bear on her life now may be passed on to many others. Take your children to Church and train them in the ways of the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Deciding whether to finish nuclear power plant

By JOHN NOLAN
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — The three Ohio utilities that jointly committed themselves 14 years ago to building the William H. Zimmer Nuclear Power Station must now decide whether they can afford to finish the problem-plagued plant.

The utilities are weighing their decision under mounting public criticism and scrutiny, and in light of investor concerns over the project that have hurt the utilities' stock prices.

All three are studying a consultant's report made in September which included the possibility that Zimmer could cost $3.1 billion or more to complete. When announced in 1969, the plant at Moscow, Ohio, 27 miles east of Cincinnati, had an estimated cost of $240 million. By last year, that estimate had risen to $1.7 billion.

The new cost estimate from Bechtel Power Corp., consultant to Zimmer's builder and majority owner, the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., is based on the assumption there won't be a long delay before federal regulators lift a year-old ban on safety-related construction at the plant. However, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has given no indication when it might lift the ban.

The NRC ordered the halt Nov. 12, 1982, because of concern for the quality of plant construction. A year earlier, the NRC fined CG&E $200,000 for sloppy quality assurance record-keeping.

Zimmer's opponents say CG&E mismanaged the project and is responsible for its cost overruns, an allegation the utility denies. The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is currently investigating to determine whether mismanagement occurred.

Before the ban on safety-related construction can be lifted, CG&E must obtain NRC approval for three separate proposals including a project management restructuring plan which CG&E submitted Oct. 6, a proposal to verify Zimmer's construction quality and another to complete the construction.

No one knows for sure when Zimmer will generate electricity — 1986 is considered the earliest possible date — or even if it will be completed. CG&E and its partner utilities, Dayton Power and Light Co. and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., are considering whether to finish the plant in light of its soaring cost.

Dayton Power announced Oct. 25 that it prefers to convert Zimmer to a natural gas-fired plant and then to a coal-fired facility when required environmental approvals are obtained. Peter H. Forster, DP&L president, said the gas conversion can be done in 28 months for $350 million.

Neither Cincinnati Gas & Electric nor Columbus and Southern Ohio has announced what they want to do with Zimmer. Executives of both companies say they plan to reach a final decision jointly.

Joe Williams Jr., a retired Navy vice admiral hired by CG&E in April as its senior vice president for nuclear operations, wants to complete Zimmer.

"I want to go make this plant right," said Williams, who helped the Navy develop its fleet of nuclear-powered submarines. "If somebody wants to go look at what caused the problems with the plant, that should be kept separate from completing the plant."

The NRC stopped all safety-related construction at Zimmer nearly a year ago after receiving reports of construction problems, including possible pipe weld defects.

NRC officials had received allegations in 1981 that quality-control inspectors at Zimmer were intimidated to keep them from reporting construction problems. When the NRC asked Williams how he would stop such problems, he replied that CG&E had established a complaint telephone line for employees so they would not have to fear losing their jobs if they reported problems.

The NRC also required an independent management audit of Zimmer. The audit was recently completed by Torrey Pines Technology Inc., which said poor CG&E management was responsible for errors at the plant and recommended a committee of top management to oversee completion of Zimmer.

In response, Williams recommended that Bechtel Power Corp. be made project director, responsible to CG&E for construction quality assurance and finishing the project. CG&E also hired four assistant vice presidents — for nuclear projects, nuclear operations, nuclear engineering and quality assurance — to help Williams.

But Zimmer critics say CG&E's proposed restructuring fails to allow for adequate public oversight of the project. The Cincinnati City Council has passed a resolution calling for an oversight council to participate in Zimmer decision-making.

CG&E president William Dickhoner, who says Zimmer can be safely operated, announced last month that, for the first time, alternatives being studied include abandoning the plant and starting another type of generating facility.

And Cambridge Energy Research Associates, a research team which reviewed 48 nuclear power projects under construction nationwide, said in a study released this month that Zimmer may simply be canceled because of its soaring costs.

Said Dickhoner, "What we really get down to is there's no easy solution to the Zimmer problem."

Chrysler challenges 'lemon law'

AUSTIN (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is challenging in federal court a 1983 Texas law that was passed to protect new car buyers who get stuck with "lemons."

Chrysler contends the law and other remedies give customers too many shots at the company.

The law is directed at cars that need repairs four or more times within the first year or remain out of service for 30 days while they are still under warranty.

Unhappy car buyers may seek a hearing before the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission, which could order the manufacturer to pay the customer for the car or replace it.

The commission includes a majority of five auto dealers.

Allan Huss of Detroit, senior legal counsel for Chrysler, said Wednesday that Chrysler customers may take their complaints to its Customer Satisfaction Arbitration Board, which complies with federal law, as well as the commission or the courts.

"The new law does not provide a simple and fair option to the consumer," Huss told a Capitol news conference. "Owners are forced to decide which arbitration process is best for them."

George Warren named to board

George W. Warren, minister of education and business administrator at Pampa's First Baptist Church, was elected to serve on the board of Amarillo's High Plains Baptist Hospital during the recent annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Warren was elected to the Baptist hospital's board during the BGCT general convention, which was held in Amarillo November 1 through 3.

The Texas Baptist organization, which has 2.2 million members, owns and operates eight colleges and universities, an academy, eight hospitals, four children's homes and five homes for the aging.

The Baptist schools, hospitals and other facilities are supported by the convention's 4,700 churches and missions. Through the Baptist organization's Cooperative Program, the churches will donate more than $50 million this year for a unified effort of mission work at home and abroad, according to the BGCT.

In addition to its institutions, the convention helps support the work of more than 6,000 missionaries in the United States and more 100 foreign nations.

Musical program scheduled at Lamar Full Gospel Church

The Lamar Full Gospel Church Choir will present "Majesty," a hymn celebration of worship and praise at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the church, 1200 S. Sumner.

The program will feature such favorites as "Sweet Hour of Prayer" along with new releases, such as "We Shall Behold Him."

"Be sure not to miss this time of praise and thanksgiving," said Pastor Gene Allen. The public is invited to attend the special program.

'Horns eye Cotton Bowl berth

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
The Texas Longhorns can earn a Cotton Bowl berth and a share of the Southwest Conference football title Saturday by defeating Baylor.

If they don't, then the Longhorns have the luxury of trying it one more time the following week against Texas A&M.

No. 2 ranked Texas is 6-0 in the SWC and 9-0 overall.

No. 6 ranked Southern Methodist, which plays Arkansas in Little Rock at 11:35 a.m. in a nationally (ABC) televised game, trails the 'Horns by a game.

Should SMU and Texas tie the 'Horns would get the bowl because they beat the Mustangs. Meanwhile, SMU is expected to accept a Sun Bowl berth opposite Alabama after Saturday's game against the Razorbacks. It will be played on Christmas Eve.

Texas was a 13-point favorite over the Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Bears, who are expected to accept a bid for a New Year's Eve date against Oklahoma State following the game.

SMU rated a 7-point choice over the Razorbacks.

In other games, Texas A&M was a touchdown pick over Texas Christian in Fort Worth and Houston was also a touchdown choice over Texas Tech in a night game in the Astrodome.

Baylor brings the most potent offense in the SWC against the Longhorn defense, which is the best in the nation.

The Bears have not beaten Texas in Austin since 1951. There was a tie in 1957.

"Their defense is so good it shouldn't be called the Texas Longhorns," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "They should be called the Texas Scrooges. They are stingy."

Texas' defense has yielded just one touchdown in the last five games.

The 'Horns have allowed an average of only 188.3 yards per game, best in the nation. Texas also leads the country in defending against the pass (87.2 yards) and against scoring (7.8).

Baylor has the SWC's top offense at 411.6 yards per game and quarterbacks Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke are 1-2 in passing.

"Our football team, although it's very young, is not intimidated by playing the No. 2 team in the nation in their own back yard," Teaff said. "But that's not to say we don't respect them. Like you have respect for any great person, team or champion of any kind, we have respect for the University of Texas Football team."

"It should be a great matchup with our very productive offense and their stingy defense."

Lady Harvesters looking sharp

Bench strength, quickness and defense may all play a part in helping the Pampa High girls' basketball squad improve their won-lost record this season.

New head coach Albert Nichols has at least seven players bidding for starting positions, but he also likes what he sees on the bench.

"I'm really looking forward to using some of these girls off the bench," Nichols said. "If a girl gets tired or gets in foul trouble, there's going to be somebody I can put in there and you won't be able to tell the difference in the quality of play. That's going to pay off later down the road."

Nichols said he would probably choose between Gaye Hendricks (5-6 senior), Stephanie Smith (5-6 junior), Kerri Richardson (5-11 junior), Melissa Nichols (5-10 sophomore), Melanie Morgan (5-8 sophomore), Rhonda Denman (5-5 junior) and Tina Greenway (5-1 senior) for the starting five. Of these seven, Greenway has been the most impressive on defense.

"Tina has a lot of quickness. She gets across the lane in a hurry," Nichols said.

Lisa Crayton, a 5-5 senior, and Leslie Cash, a 5-9 junior, could crack the starting lineup, but they may be better utilized coming off the bench.

"Lisa has played some of the best defense I've ever seen in practice," Nichols said. "She's really looking good."

Crayton was team captain and floor leader for Pampa's District 1-4A volleyball champions this season.

"Leslie is playing well underneath the basket," Nichols said. "She's really going to help us."

The Lady Harvesters will have an extra day of practice since Monday's opener with River Road was canceled.

Pampa's first game will be Tuesday night against Shamrock.

"Shamrock isn't very tall, but they have a lot of quickness," Nichols said. "We'll have to try and keep them from fastbreaking on us."

Pampa will host White Deer at 7:30 p.m. tonight in another scrimmage. The junior varsity teams will scrimmage at 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

"We're pleased with our own fast break," Nichols said. "We've got the speed and we'll try and utilize it."

Washington seeks Rose Bowl trip

By The Associated Press
Washington Coach Don James says the revenge factor "is garbage" as his 15th-ranked Huskies prepare for a meeting with cross-state rival Washington State.

The game, for the second straight season, will determine the Pacific 10 Conference's Rose Bowl representative.

Last year, the Huskies needed to beat Washington State to win the Pac 10 title, but they lost 24-20. This year, they are in the same position, only they're two-touchdown favorites to beat the Cougars Saturday at Seattle and win their third trip to the Rose Bowl in four years.

"Last year's game is history," James said. "This year's game is played right out there Saturday afternoon. Any of our players that think differently are making a big mistake."

The Rose Bowl was among the few major bowls still unsettled going into Saturday's college football games. No. 4 Illinois will be the Big Ten representative, having clinched its conference title last week.

At 5-1 in the Pac 10 and 8-2 overall, the Huskies had to worry only about UCLA in its drive to the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2. If Washington loses and UCLA beats Southern Cal Saturday, the Bruins could face Illinois.

Whichever team fails to make it to the Rose Bowl apparently will go to the Aloha Bowl on Dec. 26 at Honolulu to face Penn State, although official bowl invitations cannot be extended until Saturday.

The other major bowl bids still up for grabs were the Sugar and Fiesta bowls, both on Jan. 2.

NBA roundup

Johnson leads Lakers past Cavaliers

Ervin "Magic" Johnson is "all business" these days for the Los Angeles Lakers, according to his coach, and it's added up to some pretty impressive numbers for the computer-like guard.

Thursday night, it was another night at the office with 22 assists, 23 points and 9 rebounds as the Lakers routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 127-114 in the National Basketball Association.

Johnson "has been pushing the ball up quickly and hitting the open man very well," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "He's the leader on offense. He just has the ability to turn it on and rise to the occasion. That's what he is doing now."

"The thing that's different about Magic now is that he is more mature and businesslike in his play. Other than that, he's the same old Magic. He takes the responsibility on his shoulders and we want to keep the ball in his hands."

In other NBA action, it was Washington 102, Indiana 94; Atlanta 99, Philadelphia 94; Seattle 119, Chicago 110; Dallas 115, New Jersey 113; Kansas City 129, San Antonio 128; Denver 131, Golden State 120; and San Diego 141, Milwaukee 122.

Johnson's 22 assists were one short of the Lakers' club record of 23 set by Jerry West in 1967. The performance increased his league-leading assists average to 14.9 per game.

In his last five games, Johnson has been just short of remarkable. He is averaging 20.2 points per game, on 75 per cent shooting from the floor, with 16.6 assists and 8.2 rebounds in that span.

"There's a lot of teams in the NBA that can't play defense against Magic," said Riley. "When they can't do that it just opens it up that much more for him."

Cleveland Coach Tom Nissalke said Johnson is "just a great player. It's just as simple as that. A couple of times he got layups he should not have gotten. He is far more dangerous in the lane and we should not have let him get in there. The Lakers just had too many weapons."

After the Cavaliers opened the final period with a basket close to within 92-90, Los Angeles reeled off 11 straight points, as Johnson scored a layup and dished off three assists on fast-break baskets to Michael Cooper and to Swen Nater.

Bullets 102, Pacers 94
At Landover, Washington rookie Jeff Malone scored 12 of his team-high 21 points in the fourth quarter to lead the Bullets over Indiana. Despite getting a season-high 32 points from Clark Kellogg, the Pacers, 3-8, lost their 19th straight game on the road.

Washington, 4-6, entered the final quarter trailing by two points, but Malone ignited a 10-3 scoring spree with two straight baskets, giving the Bullets a 79-74 lead that never shrunk below three points the rest of the way.

Hawks 99, 76ers 94

In Atlanta, Dominique Wilkins scored 30 points to lead Atlanta over Philadelphia. The total marked a season high for Wilkins, who scored 27 points in each of the first two games.

With 1:02 left in the game, Wilkins scored to give Atlanta a 93-83 lead and later put the clincher on the game with a dunk just before the buzzer for the final margin.

Andrew Toney led Philadelphia with 27 points.

Sonics 119, Bulls 110

In Chicago, Jon Sundvold scored 10 of his career-high 24 points in the fourth quarter to spark Seattle over Chicago. Reggie King also helped the Sonics' cause, coming off the bench to score 11 points in the final six minutes.

The Bulls had staked out a 90-82 lead early in the final period before Seattle reeled off 10 unanswered points to take command.

Mavericks 115, Nets 113
In Dallas, Mark Aguirre hit a 20-foot shot with 58 seconds left and added a free throw with one second to play to give the Mavericks a tight victory over New Jersey.

Aguirre, who finished with 30 points, hit his basket after a miss by New Jersey's Otis Birdsong, who had 17 points. Darryl Dawkins, who had 18 points, hit one of two free throws with 47 seconds left to pull the Nets to within one point.

Kings 129, Spurs 128
At San Antonio, Eddie Johnson sank two free throws with six seconds remaining to lift Kansas City over the Spurs.

The Kings led by as many as 10 points in the fourth quarter, but San Antonio took the lead 128-127 with 16 seconds remaining before Johnson hit his winning points.

School placed on probation

AUSTIN (AP) — The Austin Johnson football team has been placed on probation for one year by the University Interscholastic League because a player hit an official in the face after Johnson's game with Austin Lanier last month.

UIL athletic director Bill Farney said Eulalio Arevalo, a senior defensive lineman, struck referee Jon Bible after Johnson lost to Lanier 17-14 on Oct. 21.

"He just turned around and swung," said Arevalo's father. "Right after that, he went to apologize to the official. He didn't mean to hit him."

Arevalo was dismissed from the team by coach Jim Craig and put on school probation until the end of the semester.

On Wednesday the UIL executive committee voted unanimously to place Johnson on probation beginning next football season.

The probation is a warning. Johnson, 2-8 this year, will be eligible for the district title and the playoffs.

Johnson is the third District 26-5A school to be disciplined this season. Austin was disqualified from the district race, and Travis was placed on probation for breaking a UIL rule regarding player eligibility.

Pro Picks

Strength vs. Strength

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Rams, each with a share of first place in their respective National Football Conference divisions, send strength against strength Sunday in Anaheim Stadium.

The Rams will throw Eric Dickerson, their extraordinary running back, against the Redskins' rushing defense, the best in the National Football League.

And the winner will be ... Vince Ferragamo. While the Washington rushing defense is the best, the pass defense is the worst, which means the Rams' quarterback should have a pleasant afternoon throwing as well as handing off. Take the L.A. RAMS plus 3 over Washington.

Like the Redskins, Denver will be facing a serious running threat. Curt Warner, Seattle's single-season rushing leader, is only 28 yards away from becoming the Seahawks' first 1,000-yard ground gainer and the first of the season in the American Football Conference.

Seattle's pass defense is one of the league's shakiest, which should bolster John Elway's confidence and stats — but not the Broncos' record. Take Seattle plus 1 over DENVER.

Pittsburgh and Minnesota are headed in opposite directions, the Steelers winners of seven in a row, the Vikings losers of three straight. Few teams are worse at stopping the run than the Vikes, and the Steelers' offense is wrapped around Franco Harris and his fellow backs. Also, few teams get to the quarterback as often as do the Steelers. Take PITTS-BURGH minus 7 over Minnesota.

In other games (home teams capitalized), take:

MIAMI minus 9 over Baltimore
PHILADELPHIA minus 5 over N.Y. Giants
NEW ENGLAND minus 4 1/2 over Cleveland
GREEN BAY minus 3 1/2 over Detroit

San Francisco minus 3 1/2 over ATLANTA
L.A. Raiders minus 2 over BUFFALO

San Diego minus 1 over ST. LOUIS
Chicago plus 1 over TAMPA BAY

N.Y. Jets plus 3 over NEW ORLEANS
Kansas City plus 9 over DAL-LAS

Houston plus 9 1/2 over CIN-CINNATI

Last week's record against the spread: 6-8; for the season: 71-73-8.

PET THERAPY — Nohomi Rios, 3, a burn patient at the Moody State School in Galveston, plays with a kitten during therapy. Kittens, puppies and older animals who

91-year-old snakebite victim goes home

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) — Nurses pause and smile as they pass her old room.

The spry little woman in Room 211 has gone back home to the country.

She arrived at the Brownwood Regional Hospital Sept. 1 after suffering two bites from a rattlesnake. The nurses and therapists are going to miss 91-year-old Willie Dunn, who was a patient almost two months.

Hospital employees dubbed her "Aunt Willie" and it's obvious that this woman has won the hearts of everyone who took care of her all the way from her physician to the housekeeper.

She was admitted to the hospital in the wee hours of the morning. Her neighbor, Vernon West, was supporting her arm, and she was holding up her hand trying to stop the bleeding.

The nightmare began around 4 a.m. when the woman's dog barked outside. As she always did in the past, Mrs. Dunn grabbed her robe and a flashlight and, armed with a hoe, went out to see what was going on.

She hadn't gotten too far before she spotted the dog, who was standing perfectly still and barking incessantly. Almost at the same time, she heard the tell-tale rattles of the snake.

No problem. She had handled this type of situation alone time and time again since her husband's death more than 10 years ago.

She reached the snake and began hitting at it with a hoe. Over and over she struck at the reptile and suddenly the rattling ceased. But in all the commotion, the batteries fell out of the flashlight and Mrs. Dunn thought the snake was dead. She reached down to the ground to gather up the batteries and that's when it happened. The snake, apparently still very much alive, bit her twice right behind the index finger on the back of her right hand.

Even then the woman was determined to "finish him off." She returned to the home to get more batteries and saw by then that her whole hand was soaked in blood.

Despite the fact that she is going on 92, Mrs. Dunn is quick-thinking and realized immediately that she must get to the hospital. She summoned West, who lives just a short distance away, and in less than 10 minutes he was there with the car and then came the race to the hospital. West made the trip in record time and the woman was rushed into the emergency room.

At first she was coherent and although noticeably frightened, she managed to carry on conversations with the staff members of the hospital.

For three days she remained in the intensive care unit of the hospital. Dr. T. Ward Locklear, who has been her physician through the entire episode, refers to Aunt Willie as a "remarkable woman."

After the initial shock was over and she was declared out of danger, the woman was moved to Room 211. For several weeks her arm and chest area were black. Gradually the darkness faded.

Right from the start she made friends with everybody. Cards, flowers, gifts and guests poured into her room. In fact, by the time she left the hospital at the end of October, the small private room looked very much "lived in."

Therapy was started almost immediately. Her chief physical therapist was Alan Martin. He said she received daily whirlpool treatments. "Her muscles were nearly completely contracted, and she could not move any of her muscles in the hand at first," he said.

"Today, she is much better but still cannot move the extensor tendon which is the muscle that raises the index finger. However, she still has her flexor tendon which enables her to grip," he said.

Multiple pigskin grafts were made, he explained, and this has enhanced the growth of tissue in the wound area.

Both Martin and Kay Wadsworth, who is head nurse at Brownwood Regional Hospital, laughed when they mentioned how Aunt Willie for her exercise walked "all over the hospital" and with the assistance of the therapist actually ran at a moderate pace up and down the halls of the second floor. Mrs. Dunn's favorite destination was the nursery, where she stood at the window smiling at the babies.

"We all feel that she is our grandmother, and we have adopted her," Ms. Wadsworth said. The other nurses agree that while she was in the hospital Aunt Willie was not like a patient.

"We felt as if she was just visiting," said Wadsworth.

News in brief

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP) — Some inmates involved in a violent clash between Mexican-American and black gangs at Folsom Prison had been removed from a security unit because of a court order against double-celling, officials said.

Four Mexican-American inmates were stabbed Thursday when a band of black prisoners stormed their cells with prison-made knives during breakfast, said Lt. Ted Zink, a prison spokesman. Three of the injured were in stable condition and one in good condition, he said.

Zink said several of the inmates involved in the attack had been returned to the main prison population from the Security Housing

Unit on Tuesday or Wednesday.

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Customers flocked to the reopening of a restaurant where 37 people came down with botulism, although health officials haven't pinpointed the food responsible for the lethal disease.

The Skewer Inn, which was closed Oct. 17 after 37 patrons entered hospitals, reopened Thursday following extensive health inspections. Twenty-five people remain hospitalized, officials said.

Tests by the national Centers for Disease Control have linked the botulism to the inn's "patty melt" cheeseburger, which remains on the menu. But the precise source of the toxin and its place in the food distribution chain have not yet been determined, officials said.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — The sister of former President Efraim Rios Montt, who was held by kidnappers during almost four months of her pregnancy, gave birth this week to a "beautiful boy," relatives report.

Maria Elena Rios de Rivas, 37, was kidnapped June 29 near a school where she taught. She was about five months pregnant.

Antonio Rios Montt, one of her brothers, said the boy was born Tuesday night at the hospital where Mrs. Rios de Rivas has been since she was freed Oct. 26.

Mrs. Rios de Rivas was freed after a statement issued by her leftist guerrilla kidnappers was published in newspapers. She later told an interviewer she received medical attention during her captivity.

Efraim Rios Montt was ousted in a coup Aug. 8 by Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores. The new chief of state's sister, Celeste Aida Mejia de Velasco, was kidnapped Sept. 10 by leftist guerrillas and released the same day as Mrs. Rios de Rivas.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, wearing a black pullover sweater, grey skirt and charcoal gray boots, spent a day in court over an advertisement for Christian Dior sportswear which contains a Jackie look-alike, model Barbara Reynolds.

Mrs. Onassis sat in the front row of the spectator section in state court Thursday and made no statements during the proceeding.

Lawyers for the 54-year-old Mrs. Onassis asked Justice Edward J. Greenfield to issue an order stating, "Thou shalt not use the likeness of Jackie Onassis for purposes of trade."

Dior lawyer Todd Sollis said the ad ran from Sept. 8 to Oct. 18, and "Christian Dior has no present intention of ever using this again."

The judge reserved a decision.

LONDON (AP) — When Rex Harrison and Rosemary Harris open on Broadway next month in George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House" they already may have won the British equivalent of a Tony Award for their work in the revival.

Miss Harris and the 75-year-old Harrison appeared in the production in London last summer. They are among 76 nominees in 19 categories announced Thursday for London's 1983 Society of West End Theater (SWET) Awards.

Best Musical nominees include two imports from the United States — "Little Shop of Horrors," currently running off-Broadway, and "Snoopy," which ran on Broadway last spring.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Nobel laureate Czeslaw Milosz says Soviet leaders have built a society that mirrors the one depicted by George Orwell in the book "1984."

"I recently reread 1984," Milosz told an audience at Marshall University Thursday. "And I found it accurately describes the totalitarian Soviet system."

Milosz left Poland after World War II, moving to France and then the United States. In 1980, he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature. Although he considers himself a poet, his best-known book in the United States is "The Captive Mind," which described the effect of the communist takeover in Poland.

A member of the University of California at Berkeley faculty since 1961, the poet appeared at Marshall as part of the Birke Fine Arts Symposium.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nik

Cohn, the British writer whose magazine article helped spark the hit 1977 picture "Saturday Night Fever," has been put on probation for five years on a drug charge.

Cohn, arrested after a raid on his Manhattan townhouse May 19, also was fined $5,000 Thursday by U.S. District Judge Henry Bramwell. He pleaded guilty last month to possessing small amounts of cocaine.

The article — "The Tribal Rites of the New Saturday Night" — appeared in 1976 in New York Magazine.

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Betty Williams warns that the world is probably in "the most precarious position it's ever been in."

In an address Thursday at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Ms. Williams, who with Mairead Corrigan was awarded the Nobel prize in 1977 for organizing women's peace rallies in Northern Ireland, said "If you look back in the history of mankind, he has never developed a weapon that he has not used ... somebody just presses the wrong button or somebody just gets angry enough to use it."

"Mankind will and must live together before mankind destroys mankind," she said.

Her speech drew a standing ovation.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frank Sinatra is feeling better after a bout with the flu but still won't be able to keep a concert date early next month, a booking agent says.

Sinatra, 67, previously had canceled a Nov. 8 appearance in the Milwaukee Arena.

But Roberta Monda of the Edgewood Agency said Thursday that the singer now has had to call off the rescheduled show, which had been set for Dec. 9.

"Although Mr. Sinatra is feeling better, he has been advised by his doctor to spend more time recuperating," Ms. Monda said.

Promoters said ticket refunds will be made.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — If rock singer Rod Stewart continues to duck a court appointment in a case concerning his hit song "I Was Only Joking," the judge says he'll prove that he's not fooling around.

The British performer has repeatedly failed to make himself available for a deposition in a copyright suit filed against him by a songwriter, U.S. District Judge John Nixon said Thursday.

Nixon added that unless the 38-year-old entertainer appears in federal court in Nashville by Jan. 26, he will automatically lose the case.

The suit had been set for trial last month.

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles is the latest prominent figure to turn down an invitation to the Latonia Race Course, and a track spokesman says he's about ready to stop sending out the requests.

"I can't seem to get an OK," track publicity director Andrew Furman said Thursday after getting the following message from Buckingham Palace:

"Thank you for your letter addressed to the prince and princess of Wales. Their royal highnesses were most grateful to you."
