U. S. Jet Armada Planned

$4.3 Billion Set Aside For 11 Wings

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 —UP— The United States is building a $4.3 billion fleet of giant jet aircraft capable of delivering H-bombs, defense authorities revealed Monday.

Pentagon sources indicated the awesome new "retaliation" force will comprise about 350 B-52 bombers, which fly more than 600 miles an hour, and 200 tankers for in-flight refueling.

The all-jet fleet will be organized into 11 wings in the Air Force's Strategic Air Command. Designed for immediate counter-attack from American bases if a global war starts, those wings now fly much slower B-36 Super Bombers. The B-36s now are America's chief means of delivering the H-bomb.

Officials emphasized that it will take several years to build the new multi-million dollar jets and forge them into a fighting force. They will be long-range big brothers of the B-47 Stratojet, medium bombers of which the Air Force now has 1,000 with another 1,000 to come.

The B-52 Stratojet, an eight-jet monster estimated to cost $5 million, is in production at Boeing Airplane Co.'s Seattle, Wash., plant and will be coming later from Boeing's second line at Wichita, Kan. The first jet tanker, the Boeing 717, is some months away. Contracts for a larger tanker are expected to be placed soon with one of several bidders. The tankers will cost an estimated $4 million each.

Defense sources reckoned the cost of the B-52 program at more than $3.5 billion, taking into account the costs of tooling and instructing the labor forces at Wichita and Seattle. The tanker program adds at least $800 million more to the cost of building the force.

The Stratojet, which later may be built in reconnaissance as well as bomber versions, is reported slightly faster than the smaller six-jet B-47. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, has said repeatedly that Russia has no defense today against a plane of the B-47 type. Russia, however, in recent months has displayed models of planes similar to both the B-47 and B-52.

Fulbright Urges Debate Freedom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 —UP— Sen. J. William Fulbright has urged colleges and universities to allow students to debate the recognition of Red China because "there's no great credit in ignorance."

The Arkansas Democrat, a former college president, made the statement Sunday night in commenting on the banning of the debate in West Point, Annapolis and other institutions of higher learning.

His statement put him in agreement with another former college president, President Eisenhower. The President told his news conference last week that he sees no reason why the service academies should not debate the Red China issue.

Admits Poisoning 4 Husbands

Widow Suspected Of Killing Family

TULSA, Nov. 29 —UP— A rosy-cheeked "lonely hearts" widow who confessed poisoning four of her five husbands apparently killed them "just because they rubbed her the wrong way," authorities said Monday.

Mrs. Nannie Doss, 49 and pudgy, also is suspected of poisoning her mother, father, two sisters, two daughters and a step grandson.

She gave police a gap-toothed smile Sunday night when she confessed she killed husbands No. 2, 3, 4 and 5, "the same way... with rat poison."

The only survivor was husband No. 1, Charles Bragg of Alabama City, Ala., who admitted fear was one reason why he divorced her in 1929 after eight years of marriage.

Republicans Are Split On Hot Policy Issues

McCarthy Heads Day's Discussion

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 —UP— Two red hot policy disputes, each fiercely dividing the Republican party, come up Monday for public discussion.

The disputed questions are "McCarthyism" and foreign policy. The depth and firmness of the Republican party front in the new 84th Congress and in the 1956 presidential election campaign may well depend on how these questions are resolved.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will make a full-dress foreign policy statement in Chicago Monday night and the Senate Monday resumed after a 10-day recess its debate of the resolution to censure Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

National and party interest in Dulles' speech has been swollen by events. It was preceded by Sen. William F. Knowland's barrage of complaint that the Eisenhower administration's cold war policies were too softly timid and needed overhaul.

Then came Red China's announcement that 13 Americans, 11 of them Air Force men, had been charged, convicted and imprisoned for espionage. Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, promptly called for a blockade of the China mainland to obtain release of those prisoners and all other Americans held by Red China.

There is no doubt in Washington now that the young Senate leader from California seeks a showdown with the administration of foreign policy. Some support for that is building up in the Senate. More may come from the conservative or so-called Taft wing of the party where, by chance, also is found most of the support for McCarthy in the effort to reject or weaken the censure resolution now pending. Knowland will need more support if he is to get anywhere.

These are angry disputes likely to become more so as they proceed. Dulles' speech Monday night should indicate whether the Knowland formula is possible or whether the Senate Republican leader will be compelled to seek among the Taft conservatives a political combination to put on pressure for his foreign policy ideas.

The word in Washington has been that Dulles will not offer much comfort to Knowland although China's fake spy charges may have changed that.

Attending physicians late this morning reported Wheeler in "fair" condition — he has a smashed nose, concussion and possible skull fracture. Keys is in good condition.

Boling suffered head cuts and a cracked left wrist, the highway patrol reported. Trautman and Keys each had head cuts.

The accident occurred at 5:25 a.m. Sunday, a distance of 6.67 miles east of Pampa, the highway patrol said today. Both cars collided with each other in the center of the highway.

There was total damage — probably $1,300 — to the two cars, the patrol stated. Wheeler was driving a 1946 Ford and Boling, a 1952 Oldsmobile. The patrol has filed a citation for defective headlights against Wheeler.

The Christmas Story

Retold in the words of the Holy Bible by Norman Vincent Peale Illustrated by Valenti Angelo

The Magnificat

AND Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. For he hath regarded the low estate of his hand-maiden: for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name. And Mary abode with Elisabeth about three months, and returned to her own house.

Solon Introduces 3rd Censure Count

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 —UP— Sen. Wallace F. Bennett called on the Senate Monday to censure Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy on new charges of bringing the Senate into "dishonor and disrepute."

structing its processes and impairing its dignity.

The conservative Utah Republican arranged to introduce the new censure counts as the upper chamber resumed its formal debate after recessing 10 days to let McCarthy recover from an elbow injury.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), a leader in the McCarthy camp, announced he also hoped to introduce his long-promised compromise proposal Monday. But his plans were subject to last-minute change.

McCarthy slipped out of Bethesda Naval hospital Sunday through a "fire exit," almost eluding reporters. His right arm in a sling inside the coat of his blue serge suit, the senator climbed into his Cadillac with his wife, Jeanne.

He reported he was feeling "very well" despite continued pain in his elbow and said he would be on hand for Monday's Senate session. McCarthy said developments during the day probably would determine whether he will attend a pro-McCarthy rally in Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Bennett's new charges, which he made public Sunday night, were contained in a proposed amendment. (See SOLON, Page 3)

June Talk

Pampa News Women's Editor

A CONTROVERSIAL ASPECT of home decorating is hardwood floors versus carpeting. Some prefer one, some the other. Here is an article for those favoring carpeting, on the types now available, latest designs and colors. It also tells of a new weaving technique that gives moderate-priced carpeting an expensive, custom-styled look.

SHOPPERS FOR CARPETS now have a far greater range of selection than at any previous time. Leading carpet manufacturers have increased their lines adding many new textures and new designs. At the same time they have introduced additional colors some of which had been previously available only to those ordering high-style custom dyeing.

These new carpets are available in all price ranges—in fact, many of this fall's offerings have a much more expensive look than the actual price tag would indicate. One of the reasons for this low price "expensive look" is new weaving techniques; also there's the wider application of man-made fibers, as well as the increased use of the tuffing process. These all add up to great numbers of well-styled carpets in the moderate and budget price ranges, as well as a wide choice of luxury weaves.

There is a great deal of emphasis on the drama of textures, and the hand-crafted look. This fall's fresh approach to tweeds and textures includes what is known as "Western" tweeds, which combine several kinds of soft and hard yarns for some marvelous effects and color combinations. With so many of today's homes in the casual Provincial, ranch, or modern flanner, such tweeds and textures fit in perfectly.

The increasing interest in traditional furnishings as well finds the hand-crafted look of many of the new carpets right in tune—there's a special charm embodied in these soft floor coverings that set off mahogany or other traditional-type woods.

AMONG THE POPULAR carpet colorings are beiges, from sandy to caramel tones, sagegreen, a new variation of the well-liked turquoise, gold, hearstone and other grays, and browns. Copper tones and persimmon are other color highlights. Some of the interesting color combinations in the tweed patterns include: avocado, brown and cocoa; turquoise, ivory and gray; sandalwood and aqua; copper, black and white; celadon, toast and mahogany.

Among the other elements that make carpets extremely interesting today are the many new tufts.

20th Century Club Women Make Trip To Antique Shops

Mrs. Paul Kasiaske, a former Twentieth Century Club member, entertained present members with a luncheon in her home in Amarillo. Following the meal a short business session was held. RUTH MILLET

Well, what do you know? A gal from another country has come to America, looked over us American women and is ready to go back home without telling us what an easy life we have or that we don't fully appreciate our so-wonderful American men.

This visitor came over from Italy all set to marry an American who had been courting her via mail for 18 months. But she quickly changed her mind about wanting to become an American housewife once she found out we aren't the spoiled darlings we have the reputation for being. In her own words, "It was rather shocking to me to find out the average American housewife has to keep up her own house—even does the cooking!"

Every time some babe from across the ocean pays America a brief visit and sounds off about how spoiled American women are, how extravagant, and how little we know about keeping a man happy, our men get smug and say, "Boy, is she ever right!"

So here is a suggestion: Just file this little item about Vanna Scussel, 26, of Milan, Italy, who came to America to become an American wife and changed her mind when she discovered that the average American wife doesn't have "as rosy a time" as she had "been led to believe."

Then next time your husband starts reading you what some visiting foreigner has to say about spoiled American women who don't appreciate a good thing when they have it—drag out this clipping and read it right back at him.

You might even point out that Miss Scussel got disillusioned without even waiting around long enough to find out that on top of doing their own housework and cooking, a big percentage of American wives also help bring home the spaghetti and meat balls.

Calvary Baptist Ladies Set Meet

Mrs. Ennis Hill will lead the final study and discussion on Brazil at the 9:30 a. m. meeting Wednesday of the Calvary Baptist Women's Missionary Union in the church.

The all-day session will be highlighted with a noon luncheon, Brazilian style. The meeting is expected to end at 2:30 p. m.

Wear your clothes as the designer intended. Never, even in the greatest rush, go about with your coat hung on your shoulders and the sleeves dangling empty. The coat was cut to be worn by a woman with arms and it won't hang right in back without them.

Have Your Tires Trued Today At Hall & Pinson Tire Co.

TRUING A TIRE

Leymond Hall, owner and operator of Hall & Pinson Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, is shown as he makes a tire perfectly round on his new Tru-O-Matic machine. This process, which takes only about five minutes, means longer tire wear, more mileage, smoother riding and less driver fatigue. This machine is accurate to .003ths of an inch.

Perfectly round tires wear longer, ride better, give more motorist pleasure. That's why it is important to have your tires made perfectly round at Hall & Pinson Tire Co., "Seat Cover Headquarters," at 700 W. Foster, telephone 4-3521.

How often have you, or your friends, noticed vibration, shimmy or tire slap? Those slap-happy tires cause vibration, bounce, shimmy, make motorists tired.

Tru Tires
Hall & Pinson, the place you go for the best selection of seat covers that fit your car, has installed the Tru-O-Matic tire truing machine to help you solve this problem.

Tire truing — making tires perfectly round — is another great step forward in the search for a perfect automobile ride. No amount of wheel balancing can give a smooth, vibration-free ride if the wheels are out-of-round.

Eight out of ten tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out-of-round, although those tires were within .125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory.

A tire stretches as the molecules of rubber align themselves with the stresses of the tire, causing high spots and dish areas of the tread. These irregularities vary from 1-64th of an inch to 3-16ths of an inch on passenger car tires, to over 1/2 inch on truck tires.

Drag on Wheel
As these irregularities on the tire tread strike the ground there is not only a bump, but the wheel is slowed in its turn because of the drag of the greater circumference at that point. At 60 miles an hour a 6.00 by 16 tire develops 2,000 pounds tread-weight. Even a

Tankers Collide At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Nov. 29 —UP— Two oil tankers collided in the Port Arthur canal Saturday and had to be pried apart. Traffic in the canal was held up for several hours.

No one was reported injured in the collision, which occurred about 6 a.m.

The vessels involved were the Gulf Oil Co. tanker Gulfside and Magnolia's Shabonee. They were locked together until tugs managed to separate them about 1:35 p.m.

The Gulfside, with damaged bow, returned to the Gulf docks to discharge its petroleum products cargo after being freed. The Magnolia Shabonee, inbound and empty, suffered a slashed hull above the waterline where the Gulfside struck it.

The Gulfside was reported carrying about 85,000 barrels of oil. There was no fire. Officials declined to estimate the amount of damage to the two tankers.

your spare tire trued in only about 25 minutes!

While you have your tires trued for smoother riding, look at Hall & Pinson's tremendous stock of seat covers, covers that fit your car! This firm has the largest stock of seat covers in the Panhandle and one of the largest stocks in the State of Texas. That means you can select your covers from ones that fit your car.

Seat Covers
Look over the seat covers, all in the latest patterns. They are made to add more beauty than ever to your car, to prolong the life and good appearance of the automobile interior.

Have Leymond Hall, owner and operator of Hall & Pinson Tire Co., show you the make and model of your automobile.

Hall declared "It takes skill and time to trued tires and in truing experience to fit a seat cover correctly, and we insist on the right fit. If the covers are not fitted correctly motorists do not get all the wear they are buying."

Hall stresses care both in fittings. He declared care in both processes means extra miles of tire wear and seat cover wear for motorists.

Come in, talk over tire and seat cover problems with Leymond Hall. He can help you.

And discuss problems in winterizing your automobile. Have Leymond point out the right weight of Mobil Oil for your automobile. Have him lubricate your automobile, get it set with anti-freeze for winter driving. He can tell you why the right oils and greases are just as important as anti-freeze in winter motoring.

Get Your Tires And Save At Central Tire Works

You'll never know how little your automobile and truck tires can cost until you get acquainted with Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, telephone 4-3781.

Central Tire Works specializes in retreading tires, section repair work on all sizes of automobile, truck and tractor tires, tire truing and balancing, and in mud and snow tires.

Central Tire Works has both new and retread tires to fit your car. All are tires that will give you thousands of miles of wear. And most of them will save you dollars and dollars on your purchase.

Central Tire Works uses the Bacon Retreading System that saves the life of your tire because the process keeps the side wall and frame of your tire cool.

In other processes the tire is heated so that it will stretch to fit the mold. No so in the Bacon. There is no way for heat to reach the side of your tire. All the life stays in!

In these modern molds the fresh, cold rubber is fitted to the tire, and then mild heat is applied to the new tread which expands and blends itself to the tire.

Rubber which Wardie Maddox, owner and operator of Central Tire Works, uses, is FRESH — manufactured as late as mid-November! That means you get rubber with all of its strength ready for you, rubber that will wear longer, give more miles of service.

Visit Central Tire Works also for section repairs on punctured tires. Central Tire will vulcanize those punctures so that the punctured part of the tire will be stronger than when it was new! That is saying a tire with thousands of miles of wear for you.

Central Tire Works is getting a new machine — one to repair punctures made in the new tubeless tires. Tubeless tires, which seal themselves after a puncture and prevent blowouts, are becoming more popular. Therefore the problem of permanent section repairs is more important. Central Tire Works is getting the answer to the problem for motorists in the Pampa area.

The new machine has been ordered. In a very short time it will be installed.

All the machinery at Central Tire Works is the most modern. Like the Bacon retreader the other machines were designed to prolong the life of the tires.

Come in, see Wardie Maddox or his son, Vernon. Let them explain their modern machinery. They can tell you how those machines can save money for you!

Have Wardie or Vernon also show you the famous Central Tire mud and snow tires. They have the dual grip for better traction. That small grip and large grip give that special traction for better traveling in snow or mud.

Tires like that also cut just about all the noise other snow tires make on bare highways. Central Tire dual grip tires give a quieter, smoother ride.

Those tires are especially good in the Panhandle for the deep snows, and muddy oil lease roads.

Wardie Maddox has been in the tire business in Pampa for 15 years, and has been in the tire business for a total of 30 years. Before he came here he operated a tire concern in Elk City, Okla., for 15 years.

Come in, see Wardie or Vernon Maddox. Find out about Central Tire Works tires, and about Central Tire processes to prolong the life of your tires. They can save money for you!

Chiang Gets First Load Of US Jets

TAIPEI, Nov. 29 —UP— Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese air force received its first shipment of American-made MIG-killing F-88 Sabrejets Monday to meet the increasing Red threat against Formosa.

The supersonic planes will give trained Nationalist pilots a better-than-even chance in air combat against the Chinese Communists who have appeared over Nationalist-held islands in the Russian-built MIGs.

U.S. Ambassador Karl Rankin, Major Gen. Walter C. Miller and high Nationalist officials met the first shipment for which the Nationalists had been clamoring since the planes were promised to Chiang.

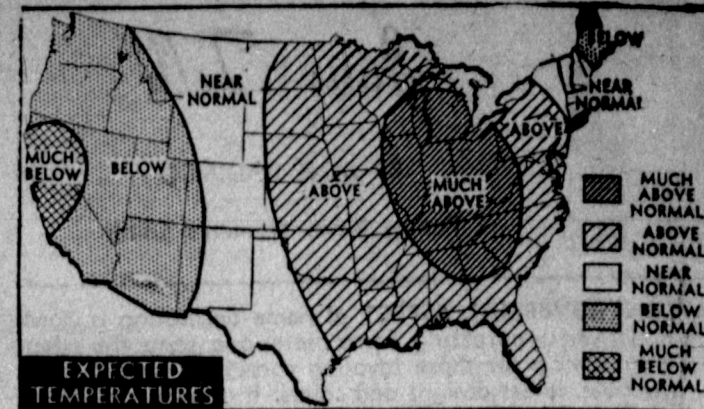

The planes, which emerged as the best fighter craft of the Korean war, arrived after the ministry of national defense reported that Soviet submarines were active around Nationalist-held islands off the China mainland.

A ministry announcement said the Russian submarines were seen off the Chekiang coast near Tachen and off the Fukien coast near Matsuo Island.

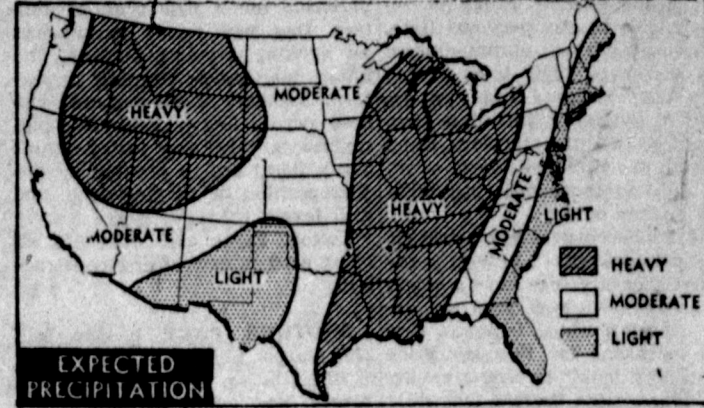

The announcement also said Communist submarines had been detected around Wuchih Island, a stepping stone to Formosa which the Communists attempted to invade last Friday.

Little action was reported along the 300-mile-long chain of Nationalist-held islands that extends from Tachen in the north to Quemoy in the south.

But Nationalist authorities anticipated that the Reds would try to invade Wuchih again or seek to grab a foothold on other islands in Chiang's defensive complex.

Temperatures during mid-November to mid-December will be above normal in the East and much above normal in the Ohio Valley. Below normal temperatures indicated for the West.

Moisture Needed In Winter Wheat Belt

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 29 —UP— Moisture is badly needed throughout the winter wheat belt to provide anything like an adequate cover to protect the soil from spring winds, a report by the Santa Fe Railroad said Monday.

The report said a few favored areas in western Kansas, eastern Colorado, the Texas Panhandle and eastern New Mexico received moisture late in August and some planting was done in those areas earlier than usual.

However, it said a great deal of the acreage still is in need of moisture to provide an adequate cover for the soil. The report said more than normal moisture will be needed throughout the winter and spring months "to produce anything like an average yield."

The report, prepared by Santa Fe's agricultural agent, R. I. Cross, said most wheat in western Kansas was planted on summer fallowed fields and was holding up well, but in the central and south central portions the growth of wheat "virtually is at a standstill." Conditions in eastern Kansas were better.

In western Oklahoma, wheat prospects "continue to decline each day that goes by without moisture being received." Central and eastern Oklahoma's wheat was said to be in better condition due to November rains. However, more moisture is needed in those areas, also.

In Texas, the report said the eastern third continued to show improvement from scattered showers, and hopes for fall planted crops was reviving in the southern counties of Central Texas. But the farm expert said much of the wheat on the High Plains and low rolling plains was "just hanging on."

So far as pastures and ranges are concerned, Cross said they were at a generally low level throughout the Southwest, with continued drought and poor range feed conditions covering much of eastern Colorado, parts of Kansas,

TSTA Rejects Tax Increase

PORT WORTH, Nov. 29 —UP— Delegates to the Texas State Teachers Association convention Saturday rejected a proposal to ask the state legislature to raise the tax limit for school building funds by 50 per cent.

Some 600 delegates tossed out a recommendation that the limit be boosted from 80 cents per $100 valuation to 75 cents.

The recommendation came to the delegates from the educational finance committee.

Matt Williams, superintendent of schools at Lubbock, suggested that instead of setting a flat limit on the tax per $100 valuation, the tax percentage of a school district's valuation be set. "This would result in lower interest rates on building bonds sold by the school," he said. "The saving would amount to substantial figures in view of the multi-million dollar building programs of the next few years."

The substitution suggested by Williams was approved.

The educational finance committee went on record as strongly opposing any limit to the available school funds from state taxes.

Charles H. Tennyson of Austin, executive secretary of the TSTA, said that $360 million worth of school facilities must be built in the state in the next five years to keep pace with increasing enrollment.

Tennyson said that, in addition, $600 million more must be spent within the next five years to replace obsolete facilities and bring existing facilities up to an acceptable standard.

Irving Berlin Sullivan

Irving Berlin is one of the greatest insomniacs of our time. He can't even sleep through a travelog, which takes talent. At least, that's his story, but after an event of this past summer, his family has come to suspect that he's a sleepy fraud.

It was at the Berlin home, which includes a dog and a swimming pool. Sometime during the night, dog fell into pool and there was a howling and a screeching that got everyone up and they all dashed down to rescue the poor pooch. Everyone but Irving Berlin, who didn't appear.

The next morning, the composer complained, as usual, about not sleeping a wink. Thus are reputations lost.

But his insomnia, whether real or imagined, gave him his latest song hit. He was consulting a doctor about this inability to sleep and told the doctor everything he'd tried — pills and music and gadgets and "I even count sheep."

"Why don't you count your blessings instead of sheep?" asked the doctor.

A song clue if there ever was one. The hit tune, Berlin's "White Christmas" is called "Count Your Blessings Instead of Sheep."

Controversial South African Politico Steps Out Of Office

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst
 A stubborn old man steps out of office in South Africa Tuesday. Prime Minister Daniel Francois Malan is retiring voluntarily at 80, leaving a divided country behind him. He has been embroiled in fights, internal and foreign, for many years. He has tried to invalidate the high courts of South Africa in an attempt to impose his extreme "apartheid" race segregation program. He has incurred the bitter resentment of India and other countries whose people he classifies as "colored."

He has defied the United Nations in an attempt to get outright control of the 117,725-square-mile area of southwest Africa, over which the Union of South Africa holds a mandate. He has demanded that Great Britain, a fellow member of the British Commonwealth, give up its important Simonstown naval base on the Cape of Good Hope and cede its protectorates of Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Basutoland inside the Union of South Africa.

Leaving Fights
 Malan is leaving all these fights as an inheritance to his own Nationalist party. Also, he is leaving the party split as to his successor. A man who is even more extreme in his ideas may be named party leader Tuesday instead of Malan's own candidate.

Malan is one of those aged men like Winston Churchill of Britain, Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, Shigeru Yoshida of Japan and Syngman Rhee of Korea who have remained in office by force of personality well beyond the allotted life span of man. Malan announced on Oct. 12 that he intended to retire on Nov. 30. It is expected that he will even give up his seat in parliament.

Choice as Successor
 Malan's choice as his successor is F. P. M. Minister Nicolaas Christiaan Havenga, who at 72 is crowding Malan in years. Havenga is a relative moderate. He backs the race segregation program but wants it carried out by constitutional means. Havenga's rival for leadership is Johannes Gerhardus Strijdom, 61. He is even more stubborn than Malan. He never compromises. He is a member of the extreme wing of the Nationalist party. He wants to proclaim the Union of South Africa a republic. It was reported, after Malan announced his intention to retire, that Strijdom had agreed to step aside in Havenga's favor. He seems to have changed his mind. Advice from Johannesburg says that Strijdom is a two-to-one favorite over Havenga. The 123 Nationalist members of parliament meet Tuesday in part caucus to elect a new leader. Advice from Johannesburg says Strijdom may get two-thirds of the votes. If he does, there should be headlines from South Africa soon.

TO VISIT U. S. — Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida will pay an official visit to the U. S. in the very near future. He had spent a week in England where he was received by Queen Elizabeth II, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

GLANCING BACKWARD

(From the Files of The Pampa Daily News)
ONE YEAR AGO TODAY
 Sheriff's officers in Pampa were awaiting word from Dodge City, Kan., authorities on a man suspected of forging a check on Tom Rose Ford Company — and talking off in a Rose truck. City officials were allowed to sleep late — the gas hearing in Austin had been postponed for the third time.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY
 Dr. Homer Vanderpool, pastor of the Tyler, Methodist Church, delivered the principal address at the annual banquet of the 16-county Adolfe Wais Area Council according to Paul Beisenherz, Boy Scout executive. Roy Lewis, businessman and veterans leader, was the first to file his candidacy for city commissioner of Ward 2, to fill the unexpired term of Murray Body.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
 The Savings Bond rally was considered more of an artistic than a financial success by county bond chairman, Judge S. D. Siemis. Only $22,812.50 was taken in. Capt. Edward J. Goodman, of the Pampa Army Air Field, announced that the PAAF salvage department had constructed a large salvage box for waste-paper collection which was to be placed at the intersection of Cuyler and Francis.

UCLA Dominates UP All-Coast 11

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27—UP—The undefeated UCLA Bruins, powerful rulers of the Pacific Coast Conference, dominated the United Press all-coast selections Saturday by placing four men on the first team and three more on the second.

The all-star team, chosen by the West Coast sports writers with the assistance of the coaches themselves, had three men from California, two from Oregon State and Washington State.

The Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl representative, Southern California, failed to land a man on the second and third place teams. It was the first time in post-war years that the Trojans failed to land a first-team man. There were, surprisingly, four nearly-unanimous selections on the first team: All America tackle Jack Ellena, UCLA; end Jim Hanliff, California; and backs Paul Larson, California, and George Shaw, Oregon.

The rest of the first team was composed of end John Stewart, Stanford; tackle Ron Aschbacher, Oregon State; center Matt Hazeltine, California; guard Jim Salisbury, UCLA; and backs Primo Villaneuva and Bob Davenport, UCLA.

Ike's Press Aide Stops Daily Queries

By DAYTON MOORE
 AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 29—UP—Backstairs at the White House: White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty now has a sure-fire way to cut off questioning of reporters about President Eisenhower's golf score. Hagerty just asks the reporters how well they did on the President's favorite course, the famed and ultra-tough Masters layout at the Augusta National. As the President's guests, White House reporters and news photographers played the Augusta National for the first time last Friday. And the newsmen didn't do too well. A few shot in the low 90's. But most of them shot over 100, some way over.

President Eisenhower usually gets in the low 80's or upper 80's on the Masters. However, his game had gotten a little rusty from lack of attention and he spent about as much time practicing under the tutelage of pro Ed Dudley as he did actually playing the course during the past Thanksgiving vacation.

Although the reporters were playing from the front tees, as does Mr. Eisenhower, they easily could see why even the best pros have so much trouble there. For instance, a high-handicap duffer named Moore was only able to scrape through with a double bogie and a bogie on two of the toughest holes. And that without once being in any trouble. If I had not lucidly stayed clear of the water and sand hazards, the scores would have been much, much higher.

The 13th hole generally is considered the hardest on the Masters course. Its official name is "Azalea." But it is better known as the "giant killer" because of the top pros whose hopes for victory have been shattered there. From the front tee, it is a 470-yard, par five dogleg to the left, a creek fully cuts across the fairway before the dogleg turn, winds along the left side and finally turns back across the fairway just in front of the green. A heavy woods also borders the left of the fairway.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

On Christmas Eve, as tight-fisted Ebenezer Scrooge sat huddled before his hearth he heard a strange sound—the rattle of chains!

There stood the ghost of his dead partner, Jacob Marley, wrapped in the chains of his worldly selfishness. He told Scrooge that those who do not share their happiness on earth meet, after death, wander the world in chains.

Britain To Honor Churchill With Pomp On His Birthday

EDITOR'S NOTE: Britain honors Winston Churchill, the statesman, on his 80th birthday Tuesday with pomp and ceremony. The following dispatch is a closeup on Churchill, the man.

By ROBERT MUSEL
 LONDON, Nov. 29—UP—Sir Winston Churchill will be 80 Tuesday. Looking back over his long career he may wonder how he got there.

He was a premature baby. Had a chest weakness at eight, double pneumonia at nine. Fell out of a tree and was unconscious three days when 18, suffered a serious shoulder injury at 21.

He fell off a camel at 47, off a polo pony at 48, into a lake at 52. At one time or another he also suffered from gastro-enteritis, appendicitis, tonsillitis, skin trouble, eye trouble, lung trouble, seasickness, hernia. He has survived two strokes.

He was in the room in which a shell burst in 1916, in a plane crash in 1919, knocked down by a New York taxicab in 1931, 50 yards from a German shellburst in 1945, 50 yards from a bomb that almost dropped a chandelier on him during the blitz.

Where Churchill differs from most men is that he refuses to recognize time as an antagonist. He has changed his mode of living only the barest minimum. He no longer smokes 18 cigars a day or drinks three quarters of a bottle of brandy. But he still smokes, he still drinks. He no longer works 16 hours a day—but he still works a lot longer than many younger men.

He awakens about 8 in his roomy bedroom at No. 10 Downing and spends the next two hours in bed. He reads the newspapers and official reports. He breakfasts on coffee, bacon and eggs. Then, in his striped pajamas, he dictates to a secretary who takes it directly on a noiseless portable typewriter. He shaves with a safety razor, bathes and dresses, usually in a black coat with striped trousers and blue polka dot tie. Then he confers with his ministers, fixing specific questions at them and then entering into a general discussion.

After lunch (an aperitif before and brandy and cigar after), Big PM takes a short nap. He picked up the stiesta habit as a young war correspondent in Cuba.

Then he is off to parliament, later to Buckingham Palace and often to a banquet or late cabinet meeting.

New Congressmen's Aides Get Briefing In Capitol

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—UP—The new Congress isn't here yet, but the vanguard is.

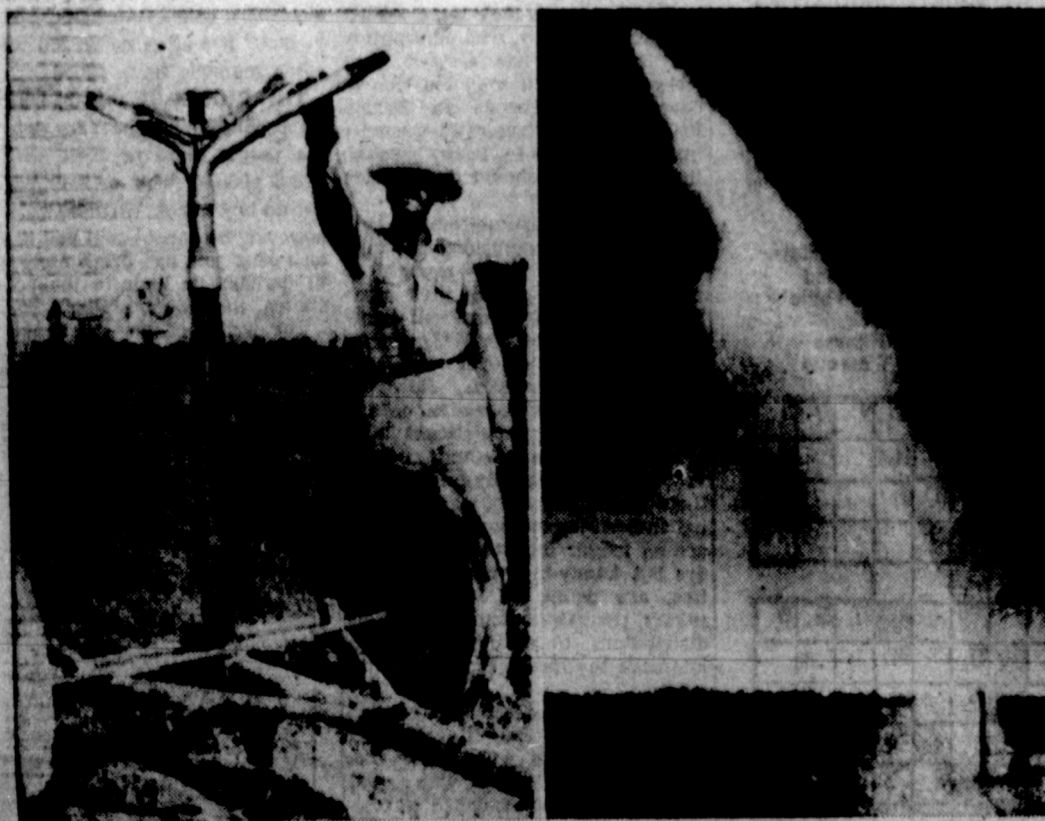

Administrative assistants, clerks and some of the stenographers. All are looking for a place to land. They have their own housing problems, but the biggest job is to anchor the boss — the man who has been elected.

Lyle O. Snader, clerk of the House, has many of the answers for freshmen congressmen. He has put them in a little booklet that can save a lot of rookies a lot of time. It is called "Information for representatives-elect to the 84th Congress."

Lyle, a helpful guy and an old house-hunter himself, first describes taking of the oath of office and the duplicate filing of copies with the clerk of the House. The pamphlet informs the newcomers that their yearly stipend is $12,500, plus $2,500 expenses per annum.

And then Snader lets out that each lawmaker in the House is allowed 20 cents a mile each way from his home to the steps of the capitol for each session of Congress. But what is worrying the new members is the assignment of suites in the two House office buildings (plus finding private lodging in this crowded city). The former adds up to a gamble for the neophytes. In order to get the best view and the finest mahogany, a congressman must have seniority. The longer the whiskers, the better the view and the finer the drapes and furniture. If a new member comes upon a nice empty suite and decides to do his own moving, he will find his goods in the hall the next morning, unless he has been cleared. Between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Dec. 6 the new members or their representatives draw numbers from the hat to determine the order of their choice of what's left after the old-timers have had their pick.

THIRST QUENCHER—Eugene Earnest, left, adjusts the giant sprinkler he rigged up as portable irrigation device for a Dodge City, Kan., farm. It supposedly sprays about 200 gallons of water on an area 200 feet in diameter. The device, which looks like a mammoth lawn sprinkler in operation, is made from a sprinkler head mounted on an old automobile chassis. It can be unhooked and moved by hand from one spot to another.

Firmness

Today's parents of teen-agers could save a lot of wear and tear on their nerves, their energy and their pocketbooks if they could just get up the courage to say a flat "No" occasionally.

Mrs. Jones complains about how much it costs to clothe a teenager—with every week or two bringing forth a new style that is an absolute must. But it never occurs to Mrs. Jones that it is possible to say "Nothing doing" to some of her daughter's demands.

Mrs. Smith says she worries the whole time her 14-year-old daughter is out in a car with a teen-age date. But she doesn't see that she could have saved herself at least two years of such worry by not letting her daughter have car dates while she is too young to be driving herself.

Mrs. Brown spends most of her time chauffeuring. Some of the activities her children are in are important. But Mrs. Brown doesn't say "No" to the most unimportant plans. Whenever her children want to go, she hops in the car and takes them, as much as their command as any hired chauffeur.

Civic clubs in one town have come in for a lot of praise because they planned a series of aftermoon parties ending with a breakfast to keep high school juniors and seniors from tearing around the countryside in their cars.

That's the modern way, all right. Figure out some way to give the kids everything they want, no matter how much trouble it is for the grownups.

Of course, those parents could have kept their kids from tearing around the countryside for hours after a dance just by telling them they had to come home as soon as the dance was over.

But nobody says "No" to teen-agers any more. It's the one word today's parents are afraid of.

A child specialist advises parents to "treat your children with friendly firmness, and they'll like it."

Of course, they'll like it, especially if they are sure your firmness is going to stay "friendly" no matter what they do.

In a drugstore, a few days ago, we saw what one mother got for her firm but friendly manner with her young son who was loudly insisting that she buy the box of candy he had grabbed off the counter. When she told him "No" in a firm but friendly way and reasonably explained why he couldn't have the candy, he accepted the verdict. But only after kicking her in the shin.

And that's the point the experts seem to overlook. Parents have the experts to tell them how to act. But the kids make their rules as they go along.

And once they know the worst they are going to get is more of the same—friendly firmness—they act exactly as they please.

It seems that parents—even in this enlightened age—have to back up their friendly firmness with some means of discipline not quite so friendly. In other words, try friendly firmness but if it fails, be prepared to try something else.

GOVERNMENT AND ROBBERY (The Interpreter)

E. A. OPIET

Robbery is the first labor saving device. Lewis Mumford remarked in one of his books, "The first but one," we would have to amend. Before there can be robbery, there must be an accumulation of goods for the thief to steal. And there is no accumulation unless men have access to that primary labor saving device, the market. Unless there is some degree of specialization and division of labor, robbery, by the means of peacefully exchanging surpluses, men live from hand to mouth and there is nothing left over to steal.

There is the fact of variation; we are all different. But we have one thing in common; we are driven by an urge to satisfy our needs and desires with a minimum of effort. Sometimes, lacking knowledge, we actually go to a lot of trouble to accomplish pitifully little. But such is not our intention. We don't like to drive with the brakes on; our interest is in augmenting output and diminishing input. Therefore, we are interested in such an arrangement as the marketplace—which is simply the name we give to the voluntary exchanges of goods, services, and ideas. Participation in these multiple exchanges is a natural result of our efforts to accomplish our ends with the least loss of energy. But this same tendency in all human beings which leads to the establishment of the marketplace, also causes some human beings into efforts to raid the marketplace. This is the point at which robbery comes in as a labor saving device. If robbery was not a common temptation the marketplace would not need police protection. But because robbery seems to be the best way to satisfy their needs with a minimum of effort, the marketplace needs a guardian. In order to keep energy exchanges open they need to be policed.

Early in the game it may have occurred to each man to be his own cop and protect his property himself. But the same force which acts to produce specialization in other functions, the desire for efficiency, operates here. In order to get the greatest amount of protection with the least waste of effort men appoint one of their number constable. This constabulary is a political establishment and its function is to police the marketplace so that no participants takes anything out of it without putting something commensurate into it.

But the same force which operated to set up government in the first place—the natural desire of men to accomplish more with less effort—causes government to go sour. Those who raided the marketplace, having decided that robbery was the best labor saving device for them, turn from direct robbery. They work at making government an accomplice in their raids on the property of honest men. The man who lives by predation affects an alliance with the men of the political establishment. Nock called this alliance the State, and he declared it to be the enemy of society. But men are so far from being convinced that this is so that they worship the State as an idol. Isn't this a pretty costly idolatry? Well, idol worship never comes cheap!

BETTER JOBS by R. C. HOILES

What Was American Government To Do?

A group of American citizens have bought radio time to be used by Dean Clarence Manion to try to get people to better understand what the American government is supposed to do and if it is able to do. Dean Manion is giving his time as a public service.

"I gave a beggar from my little store Of well-earned gold. He spent the shining ore And came again, and yet again, still, cold And hungry, as before.

"I gave a thought, and through that thought of mine He found himself, the man, supreme, divine! Fed, clothed and crowned with blessings manifold, And now he begs no more."

Our government has been trying to help people by giving them material assistance and is not using the thoughts as set forth in the Declaration of Independence. Now Clarence Manion is trying to give these thoughts, as Ella Wheeler Wilcox referred to, so that men will become men and beg no more.

From here on Manion is speaking. "The shrinking area of American private business intensifies its research, cuts its costs, increases the volume and variety of its output, in order to make more profits with which to pay more taxes to feed and expand more governmental bureaucracy, which further restricts and socializes the private business area.

"The most conspicuous feature of this endless, very un-merry-go-round, is the all but complete absence of perspective. Tied to the demanding idiosyncracies of his own particular branch, the average American cannot possibly see the big forest as a whole. In this universal state of restricted vision, the American voter sees only what passes before the narrow concentrated lens of his special interest. He sees only his own particular government subsidy, his personal tax rate, his own company's government contract, or the amount of his own take-home pay. This is all but universal loss of vision, and we are told in Holy Writ that where there is no vision, the people perish. (Proverbs XXXII-18).

"For the restoration of our lost political perspective it is neither necessary nor desirable for voters to qualify as governmental specialists. The country is literally crawling with governmental specialists. Now, Restoration of popular vision would sweep at least a million of these bureaucrats out of government and into useful, productive work. The political responsibility of the American citizen is not centered on the propriety of farm subsidies, Social Security or the Taft-Hartley act. The first responsibility of every citizen is to determine the object and purpose of American Government itself.

"American government is not the result of evolutionary processes with its origins and basic elements obscured in a dim and distant past. American government is the product of a group of political architects who set out 178 years ago to fabricate a mechanism which would accomplish definite purposes. These purposes were deliberately described at the very beginning of their plans and specifications. The precisely engineered purpose of this or any other mechanism puts a definite limitation upon the variety of its uses. No housewife would think of using her electric dishwasher as a garbage disposal unit. To do so would not dispose of the garbage, but it would probably ruin the dishwasher. By the same token no intelligent American should pour into the hopper of his government tasks which the mechanism of that government was not designed to perform. Nevertheless, thousands of Americans who would guard their dishwashers with their dear lives, will casually load the machinery of their government with every problem that confronts modern society. They are surprised and even outraged when the governmental apparatus, unable to digest this unpalatable load, becomes corrupted, crippled and contaminated.

"No American can pass proper judgment upon particular projects of his government unless he remembers that the purpose and carrying capacity of the government are both sharply limited. "When the Divine Master told us to 'render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's,' he built a high fence around the area of governmental activity to separate it from the wide domain of our God-imposed personal responsibilities. He also told us that the truth would make us free. This Divinely authored truth is a definite limit upon the area of governmental power is the chief ingredient of American freedom.

"Fortunately, the architects of our American Republic understood that we cannot have freedom unless we first have truth. Consequently, they began their specifications for the United States with a clear statement of indisputable fact. Look now at the American Declaration of Independence, the first blueprint of our structure of freedom. This is one of the most deeply philosophical and at the same time one of the most soundly scientific documents ever composed. The great Declaration is not something merely to be framed and hung high on the wall; it should be read, studied and treasured by every American citizen. Treat it reverently for it is the dynamic seed of the most bountiful harvest of human happiness ever reaped by mankind on this earth." (to be continued)

National Whirligig Circus Man Adds Missing Link To Midget-Morgan Bit

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Frank Braden, press representative for Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, has filled in missing chapters of the anecdote I recently described in this column—namely, how the world, wanted to "meet the little woman in the circus, who was the midget from the circus who was the midget from the circus who was the midget from the circus."

Perhaps the most enjoyable line in Frank's letter is the postscript: "The Royal Box will be yours when RB and B and B comes to Washington."

Since the publication of my column on how the Midget came to meet Morgan, and my reference to a subsequent interview with him, many readers have asked me what his views were on economic conditions, politics, etc. He forbade me to publish them then, but there is no bar now.

He hated Roosevelt and the New Deal, believing that both would bankrupt the country. But he felt that the United States was so great, so rich, so energetic, that it would survive. He hated American noises, especially the constant ringing of bells. He loved the peace, the quiet and the orderliness of England.

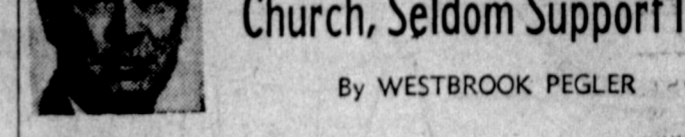

He exploded when I suggested that he was largely responsible for the peal of bells in this country. "How do you explain that?" he asked.

"Well," I replied, "who but the house of Morgan, with its bond issues, has financed telephone bells, railroad and trolley bells and whistles, door bells and every other kind of bell in the United States?"

Fair Enough Fans Treat Baseball Like Church, Seldom Support It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The only reason for this is so painful that all the philosophers of the sport side and the high priests in the sacrifices of the major leagues have put it out of their thoughts. Baseball is fading because the people of the United States will not buy tickets to keep it going. That means that the people have lost some interest in baseball. Most of us seldom contribute to its support by buying tickets and give our attendance, which is important, too, because small gatherings have lonesome, mournful look and feeling. But we expect baseball to be there, when the spirit moves us to go. The people would feel a nostalgic hurt if the spirit moves us to go. The people would feel a nostalgic hurt if the spirit moves us to go. The people would feel a nostalgic hurt if the spirit moves us to go.

To be sure, millions of us would actually grieve in our souls if the organized game, meaning a system of graduated professional leagues, were to stop dead on opening day next April. But we have been treating baseball as we treat church. Most of us seldom contribute to its support by buying tickets and give our attendance, which is important, too, because small gatherings have lonesome, mournful look and feeling. But we expect baseball to be there, when the spirit moves us to go. The people would feel a nostalgic hurt if the spirit moves us to go. The St. Louis Browns and the Athletics have been uprooted in the American League and moved to Baltimore and Kansas City amid optimistic but quite unreasonable assumptions that people of those quaint settlements are naive natives who will press their claims on the new migrants in return for calico and beads. But Baltimore had fine baseball under Jack Dunne, of the Orioles, in the International League. And Kansas City has high standards cultivated during many years in the American association. Both cities often had better home teams than the cities in the second divisions of the Majors.

To be sure, these high-minded natives would have some scuffed-up veterans of the Majors, possibly men of the World Series renown, playing out their days after losing some of their spark. They also had slightly erratic but brilliant sprouts on their inevitable way up. But there was not much to choose between St. Louis, Philadelphia and, sometimes, Detroit, in the American League, and some cities in the International, the Association and the Coast League which is in the same category.

Baltimore lost many games by one run last summer, her first season in the American League, but the customers are uncompromising and they admire a clumsy, clouting club which wins over weak opponents by 12 runs and sneer at a better one which loses 20 games in a season by scores of 2 to 1, 3 to 2 and 5 to 5.

There is no occasion to scold the customers. Though we may be fined for non-attendance at Dave Dubinsky's political rallies, we have the option of shunning the local ball-yard for seasons at a stretch. Some semi-professional clubs, subsidized by regional taverns and dance-halls and paying their athletes $5, $10 or $15 a game, three afternoons or nights a week, do better than some of the Majors, including the strong Majors. The games are enjoyable and the rivalry is personal, not merely contractual. At least they break even because little patrons who vaunt their blue plates across the shoulders of the athletes are quick to realize that their advertising appropriations are not bringing results. But the Braves were practically dispossessed from Boston by public apathy and nobody ever knew how much they were losing.

And Tom Yawkey, who puts up for the Red Sox, has always been looked upon as a man too rich to care. So the people in Boston looked to benefactors personally known to them to keep baseball there for them should they decide to go.

The Major League teams long ago undertook to subsidize the minors, receiving their reward in fresh players to replace their apathy. But this system was self-defeating when most of the Majors drew fewer customers over the long haul year after year. Now the Minors are total parasites on the Majors. Local populations hardly know how they stand in their respective leagues. By mid-term of their short, precarious seasons local minor league sportswriters, who are no longer full-time sports-writers but handy-men with other duties, are trying to incite undertakers, taxicab fleets and soft-drink distributors to underwrite losses and save the localities from humiliation.

If the people don't care enough for baseball to buy tickets with money, baseball will either die, transform itself in some way as yet unimagined or abandoned a foolish aversion to exploitation by the great manufacturers of automobiles, cigarettes, beer and whiskey. These are the main great national advertisers. The aluminum company whose home is Pittsburgh, preferred political contri-tributed by Egbert Morrow or its emotional appeal but the financial reports may one day prompt the stockholders to plump for the First of franchise, and another pennant-winner after many years of frustration. It remains to be seen whether a dismal tail-end in a Major League would depress the sales and receipts of an industrial giant as sponsor. With Ford, General Motors and Chrysler in a competition, the farm system could be restored and the quality of the minor league "presence" improved to playoff standards.

At World Series time in New York, great parties of festive, extravagant men and women fly or ride the deluxe train from Phoenix, Tucson and many other cities in all directions not only to see the ball games from preferred seats, unavailable to the regular customers, but to tear up money in night clubs, hotels and theatres. That is fine for business wherever the Series is, but a dramatic commentary on the apathy and hand-to-mouth economy of their local minor-league clubs.

Toledo has been a disaster-area in baseball. The customers simply would not buy tickets so the club finally closed after many years. Nobody would even farm the patch until the Braves moved into Milwaukee and took the turkey-town on the Maroons for a loss-leader. No other nation has ever had an emotional and sentimental experience comparable to our obsession with baseball except Britain with her enormously vital, competitive and profitable Soccer. This is of recent development, however, and may one day go the same way.

In Cotton Bowl Saturday

SMU-Irish Clash Ends SWC Slate

By UNITED PRESS

Arkansas, which still must play a football game of some importance in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day, ushers in the Southwest Conference basketball season Monday night.

Only the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame nationally televised encounter next Saturday in the Cotton bowl — and the post-season Cotton Bowl game — remained of the 1964 football season in Texas.

Last Saturday's abbreviated Southwest Conference football schedule settled a wacky season. Baylor's dream of sharing the title with Arkansas — the Bears haven't won a conference football championship in 20 years — and of a bowl bid disintegrated in defeat, 20 to 14, at the hands of Rice.

Owls in Picture

The Owls meantime remained in the Bowl picture as a favorite for the Gator classic in Florida.

Southern Methodist won its first game from Texas Christian in seven years, 21 to 6, but lost for the Notre Dame game the services of its starting quarterback and ace passer, senior Duane Nutt, who suffered a broken collarbone midway in the second quarter.

The Corsicans star will play to more college football. Seriousness of his loss to SMU was evidenced by the fact that in the TCU game the Mustangs attempted only two passes, both incomplete. As a result, quarterbacks "Big John" Marshall and Frank Eldom were left with the burden of the Pony offensive attack.

Marshall, a Dallas junior, ran for 182 and workhorse Eldom, who tired visibly, for 71 yards as SMU's total 297 yards rushing against the Horned Frogs.

Hogs Down Houston

Arkansas, at least a title tie already clinched, came back from its 7 to 6 loss to Louisiana State with a 19 to 0 verdict over Houston.

At Waco, all-America Dicky Moegle showed Saturday how he got that way. He had one of the best days of his brilliant career, scoring two touchdowns and spearheading the Owls' defense against Baylor.

SMU won second place in the final conference standings with its Saturday victory.

Arkansas, less than 48 hours after the end of the football race in which the Razorbacks were supposed to finish last, sends its 15 untested basketball squads against Northwest Louisiana State's Demons at Fayetteville, to open the conference pre-Christmas game schedule. Conference play starts after the first of the year.

Browns Near 9th Pro Title

By EARL WRIGHT

The Cleveland Browns are rushing toward their third straight National Football League championship game with the Detroit Lions — but don't try to tell Paul Brown he has his ninth straight division title all but clinched.

Brown — coach, general manager and psychologist — watched his Browns take a commanding, 1-2 game lead in the Eastern division Sunday by defeating the New York Giants, 16-7. "I'm not counting on anything yet," Brown said as he discussed strange bounces, his own mistakes and the emotions of players.

The champion Lions, resting after defeating the Green Bay Packers twice in five days last week, clinched at least a tie for their third straight Western crown when the Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco Forty Niners suffered surprise defeats. The Chicago Bears eliminated the Rams, 24-13, and the Baltimore Colts ended Forty Niner title hopes by scoring a surprise, 17 to 0.

The Bears (6-4) moved into the runner-up spot behind Detroit (8-1) and could tie for the Western title by winning their last two games — if the Lions accommodate by losing their last three.

Cleveland (7-2) needs to win only one of its last three games to clinch at last a tie for Eastern honors, even if the second-place Giants and Philadelphia Eagles (each 6-4) could sweep their last two starts. And either the Giants or Eagles figure to meet Dec. 12.

Adrian Burk's five touchdown passes helped Philadelphia beat the Washington Redskins, 41-33, while Nick Bokvack's field goal provided the victory margin as the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Chicago Cardinals 20-17.

Tag Team Bout On Tap At Mat Arena Tonight

It's a tag team match tonight for wrestling fans who patronize the Pampa Shrine Club's promotions at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club Monday nights.

A championship is not involved, but when Frank Murdoch of Waltham and Vern Taft of Salt Lake City get through with George Curtis of Vicksburg, Miss., and Chet Wallick of Detroit, most fans may feel they've seen a championship tag match.

It's due to be quite rough, with Murdoch and Taft taking the "rough side" against a pair of rather clean wrestlers, Curtis and Wallick.

Added to Monday night's wrestling card is a special event, billed as the semi-final, between Con Bruno of Brooklyn and George Overhulso of Amarillo.

George Overhulso, on the other side of the fence for the semi-final, also is just back from a long tour. The former Amarillo High School football and wrestling star has done quite well with his talents in other sections of the country during the past three years. He is considered a dangerous opponent, a devastating, vengeful wrestler who never slows down, and he has a fine opponent in Bruno.

First match of the Monday night card brings George Curtis against Vern Taft. This is for one fall or 15 minutes, and is bound to set the stage for the main event to follow.

Harvester Quint Set For Opener

The Harvester basketball team will usher in their 1954-55 season tomorrow night when they go against the Tulsa Hornets at Tulsa.

It will be the first of three games for the Harvesters this week. The Green and Golders will entertain Vernon Friday and Sudan Saturday at Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters will be bidding for their 57th straight victory in tomorrow night's opener at Tulsa. The PHSians have gone unbeaten the last two seasons. They won 28 last season and 26 the year before. The winning streak started at the tail end of the season when the Harvesters closed out by winning the final two games.

Three lettermen, one squadman and one B teamer will probably make up the starting lineup for tomorrow's game at Tulsa.

Lettermen included in the lineup are center Gary Griffin; forward E. Jay McIlvain and guard Ken Hinkle.

Benny Cartwright, a squadman last year, will start at the other forward while Jimmy Enloe, up from the B team, will man the other guard spot.

Coach Clifford McNeely will carry about 12 or 13 boys on the trip. The others included Gerald Clark, Melvin Romine, Gene Brown, Jimmy Green, Buddy Sharp, Bill Culpepper and Dickie Mauldin.

Sharp, Culpepper and Mauldin only joined the squad Friday due to football duties.

Tomorrow night's game will be preceded by a B team game between the two schools.

Two members of the Northern bracket of 1-AAAA have already opened the season. Amarillo and Borger met each other Friday with Amarillo winning, 65-62. Then Borger dropped a 53-55 decision Saturday to Sudan, who comes to Pampa Saturday.

Lubbock, the fourth member of the Northern division, will open the season tomorrow night at Sudan.

Raiders May Get Sun Bowl Berth

By UNITED PRESS

Border Conference champion Texas Tech, which ran up 81 points against each opponent on two consecutive seasons closing Saturdays, Monday looked like a shoo-in to the Sun Bowl.

A likely opponent should the four-time Border Conference title be chosen: Wichita or Denver. Mike Melsenheimer, chairman of the Sun Bowl game selection committee, was expected to announce Monday the two teams who will play in the Jan. 1 post-season football game, which climaxes a week-long Sun Carnival at El Paso.

Melsenheimer said Texas Tech, Texas Western of El Paso, Denver, Wichita, Miami of Ohio, Virginia Tech and unbeaten Trinity of San Antonio, the latter one of 23 squads in the nation with an unblemished record, all were "looked at" as possible Sun Bowl teams.

El Paso bowl, oldest in Texas, is obligated to no conference. Texas Western and Mississippi Southern played last year in the Sun Bowl, with the Miners from El Paso winning, 27 to 14. Texas Western still remain in the Sun Bowl picture to the last with a 7-3 overall record, compared to Texas Tech's 7-3-1. Tech is unbeaten in conference play.

Texas Tech won the Border Conference championship Saturday by humiliating Hardin-Simmons, 61 to 19. H-SU had given up only a total of 81 points to all other conference foes before running into the Red Raiders.

The previous Saturday, Tech won 61 to 14, from a Houston team that came down almost en masse with virus just before the game.

Arizona's narrow 42 to 40 victory over Wyoming, a non-conference opponent, and the Tech-HSU game ended the Border Conference season. Tempe State of Arizona placed second in final conference standings with a 3-1 mark, followed by Texas Western, Arizona, Hardin-Simmons, West Texas and New Mexico A&M.

JUST AS A FOREWARNING, the Harvester basketballers' winning streak will be in serious danger Saturday night when the Sudan Hornets come to town.

The PHS cagers have two games on tap before meeting Sudan, but we haven't learned much about the two foes, Tutia and Vernon.

But Sudan has already raised a lot of eyebrows over the Panhandle and High Plains with its stirring 63-55 win over the highly regarded Borger Bulldogs Saturday night.

Sudan has a veteran ball club and by virtue of its win over Borger, you can't rest assured the Harvester basketballers will have their hands full next Saturday night at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Harvester coach Clifton McNeely watched Borger in its six-point loss to Amarillo Friday night and he came back with few additional grey hairs.

Then upon hearing Sunday that Sudan outdueled Borger, McNeely took on a few more grey hairs.

We have learned via the grapevine that Sudan began building for their basketball season way last fall.

Sudan's football coach, F. M. Smith, is also the basketball coach and when his gridders got off to a rather dismal start last fall, he turned his basketball players who were out for football loose in order for these boys to get ready for the cage season.

So you can see Sudan means business with her basketball team.

IT WAS OUR PLEASURE to meet the new Pampa Country Club pro, Hart Warren, yesterday.

Certainly believe the Country Club officials made a wise choice in finding a replacement for the popular Johnny Austin who has resigned to take the job as pro at the new Tascosa Country Club course in Amarillo.

Warren appears to be well pleased with the setup here. We'll be having more on Warren later. He returned to Levelland yesterday but will report back for duty Dec. 1.

JUST HOW IMPORTANT IS the point-after-touchdown to a football team?

Well, it has decided many, many football games down through the years but we don't ever recall one of these point conversions costing a school as much as it did SMU this season.

By missing an extra point against Texas, it cost SMU something in the neighborhood of $120,000.

SMU tied Texas 13-13 and it was that tie game that kept the Mustangs out of the Cotton Bowl which would have meant the above amount to the school.

Had the Mustangs kicked both extra points, she would have tied Arkansas for the Southwest Conference title and since SMU defeated Arkansas during the regular season, she would have won the Cotton Bowl berth.

Speaking of point conversions, the Harvesters must have set some sort of a record in making good on conversion tries for a single District 1-AAAA season.

The Harvesters made 19 touchdowns in 1-4A play and added extra point after 18 of them.

End-around Stone did all of the converting for the Harvesters in 232 plays. Stone was credited with finishing the season with 18 straight conversion attempts.

The only time the Harvesters failed to convert in District play came on a bad pass from senior after the third touchdown against San Angelo and Stone never got a chance to kick.

We're not criticizing the bad snap back because 18 of 19 good snap back tries is a pretty good country average.

WEDDING TO URGE ALL members of Pampa Quarterback Club to be on hand at tomorrow night's final meeting.

The election of officers is on the agenda and it's pretty important for all members to have a hand in selecting the 1955 officers.

Sharp-Stone Top Harvester Pass Combo

The Buddy Sharp - to - Marion Stone combination sparked the Harvester passing attack over the 1954 season, according to the Pampa News statistical figures.

Sharp unrifled 121 passes over the season, completed 56 of them for a grand total of 738 yards.

Three of Sharp's passes went for touchdowns.

Stone proved to be Sharp's pet target as he snared 17 for 282 yards. All of Stone's catches came in the first nine games as he was blanked in the final game against Borger.

Dickie Mauldin followed in pass receiving with 13 catches for 232 yards. Bill Culpepper was third with 10 catches for 114 yards.

Following is the passing and pass receiving record of the Harvesters' passing season:

Abilene Hosts Austin EP

4A, 3A Commence Playoffs This Week

By DICK HARDWICK United Press Sports Writer

The two upper echelons of Texas school football start their bids for state titles this weekend, with the 4B-district survivors in Class AA and A pair off in regional tussles.

Thirteen of the 40 surviving teams are unbeaten and undefeated while five have only ties to mar otherwise perfect marks.

The top game of four bi-district clashes in Class AAAA matches once-beaten teams — Waco and Corpus Christi Miller at Corpus Christi Saturday. Waco is a slight favorite.

Galveston, the only perfect record team left in the top bracket (10-0), should make Houston S. F. Austin its 11th victim at Houston Friday night and advance into the semifinals against the Waco-Miller winner.

Abilene Favorite

In the northern Class AAAA bracket, Abilene (9-1) is a heavy favorite over El Paso Austin at Abilene Saturday. And Fort Worth Poly will pit its passing against Dallas South Oak Cliff's running attack Friday night at Dallas.

Garland and Lufkin, both with 10-0 records and the only perfect record teams in Class AAA, are favored over their opponents. But Garland is a narrow favorite over the perennially strong Breckenridge Bucks at Breckenridge Friday.

Lufkin, the favorite for the Class AAA championship, is a heavy bet to trip Riferman (7-3) at Sherman Saturday.

FEARFUL FRINGE — Map above shows the fringe of tiny island outposts along the Chinese coast, frequently the scene of bombings, artillery duels and hit-and-run raids by both sides. Some of them are held by Nationalists and some by the Communist Chinese.

CHINA'S POWDER-KEG ISLANDS

The most worrisome-to-Washington real estate in the world is a string of tiny islands fringing the coast of Red China for 350 miles. They have a total area of fewer than 200 square miles. Many are Nationalist held. The Reds want them—indeed, must have them, if they are ever to launch an all-out attack on Formosa. The Nationalists seem determined to hold them. The clash could trigger general war. So critical is the situation that Sec. retary of State Dulles is reported to have tried (vainly) to persuade Chiang Kai-shek to voluntarily withdraw from the islands. Maps below show their strategic location in relation to Red China and Formosa.

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Exclusively Yours: Leslie Caron won stardom with her little-girl look and then an Oscar nomination for her sad-faced heroine in "Lili." But "Permanent Wave" is a label Leslie's ready to shed. From now on out she wants more zip and zing in her screen roles, she confessed on the "Daddy Long Legs" set at Fox and, "besides I'll soon be too old to play little-girl parts."

Her stint with Roland Petit's "Ballet de Paris" is one reason for Leslie's rebellion with an eye on the glamour department. She played a wicked doll who murdered her seven husbands and it ended, she beams, "with a ballet strip tease and it was loads of fun."

Marjorie Reynolds' ex-hubby, Jack Reynolds, will wed department-store buyer Jane Crist now that her divorce is final. The end of a Hollywood marriage was a financial blow to the hubby, who collected $500 a week spending money.

A Congressional ban on the use of "FBI" in all movie and TV titles is the reason "Case File: FBI" was released as "Down Three Dark Streets." The hit novel was authored by former FBI man Gordon Gordon and his wife, Mildred. AVA GARDNER is saying she still doesn't know when she will have all the necessary papers for her Nevada divorce from Frank Sinatra. But she insists: "I have every intention of getting the divorce." Financial haggles, it's said, have delayed the final meeting.

cabins on the S. S. Libertas return voyage. Marlon Brando is being paged for a Broadway revival of "Hamlet." The bankroll needed for the production is ready for Brando's yes or no. To date there's just silence from the star. I WONDER WHAT Gene Tierney is thinking about Yvonne de Carlo's quotes when asked about dates with Aly Khan in Germany. Said Yvonne: "Aly has only come here to see a man about a horse. Anyway, the Aga Khan does not want his son to marry another movie star."

Memory - Book Note: When Humphrey Bogart started the heroic tough-guy cycle on the screen, explaining: "I come to work without shaving and with a hangover, so that starts a big movie cycle."

Marjorie Reynolds' sister, Lucita, and her husband, Jean Roy, are helping raise little Maria Christina, daughter of the late star and Jean Pierre Aumont. They've moved into Aumont's home in Paris.

Now that she's announced her retirement, Betty Hutton's saying she's no longer a candidate for the Sophie Tucker film biography. According to Betty: "Writers were never able to lick the story. There is no story." BLONDE DOROTHY TOWNE spent two days in a local hospital for a checkup, with Jack Webb as a bedside visitor. Ida Lupino and Howard Duff will costar in a Four-Star Playhouse TV film despite their latest domestic battle. Slick-performance dept.: Dorothy Malone's emoting as the lonesome wife who falls for a young GI in "Battle Cry." Comic Hank Henry tossed it at a pasty-faced heckler at the Silver Slipper in Vegas: "I thought I told you to wait in the hearse!"

Suspect Held In San Antonio Jewel Theft

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 29 —UP— A San Antonio electrician was charged Saturday with taking part in a $10,000 jewelry robbery and police said he and an ex-bellhop arrested Thursday are also suspected of "several armed robberies" in Kansas City. The electrician, Don Summers, 27, was arrested Saturday and charged with transporting stolen goods worth more than $5,000 across a state line. The FBI said he showed them 18 diamonds from an $1,800 bracelet belonging to Mrs. S. B. Ireland of Bartlesville, Okla., wife of the president of Cities Service Oil Company. The ex-bellhop is Ralph Ford, 23, who told police Thursday he "found" the $10,000 worth of jewelry — diamond earrings, a diamond bracelet, a gem-studded watch and two diamond rings — in the Plaza hotel while she and her husband were attending the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas convention Oct. 5. Ford claimed he found the jewelry in the bellhops' locker room and sold them to a "fence" in Kansas City. Detective Capt. Joe Hester said both Ford and Summers are wanted in Kansas City for questioning in several armed robberies, including a news stand and a shoe shop, between November 20 and 22. Hester said the two men apparently "blew" most of the $2,500 they got from the fence on a spree in Kansas City and resorted to robberies to get money to return to San Antonio. President Eisenhower reportedly finds the short 18th hole, "Red Bud," with its pond water hazy even more difficult than the 13th. The pond is all the fairway there is on the 125-yard, par three hole. Two sandtraps flank the rear of the green. I lucked on the far edge with a three wood. But it was three putts again for a bogey four. A cotton-quilted housecoat is fine for winter. But have it dry-cleaned or you'll find your floor-lengther is a shortie, with sleeves and waist to match.

Hollywood's Hottest Property Is Cool, Calm Philadelphian

EDITOR'S NOTE — The bright sex and actresses with poor, un-est 1954 film star is Grace Kelly, a beauty whose sudden success has mystified the entertainment world. In a series of three articles, the United Press details Grace's rise and why she passed hundreds of other hopefuls.

By ALINE MOSBY HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29 —UP— The most outstanding new star and hottest property of the year is a cool, blonde beauty who curiously violated all the traditional Hollywood rules yet seems destined to join the rank of top actresses. In two years Grace Kelly has appeared in seven top-budget pictures, dispensing with the usual feature roles, struggling bits and cheesecake period. Many a more beautiful, bosomy and experienced actress has asked, "what's she got that I haven't?" In the complex answer lies the recipe for what goes into the mixture of a movie star.

Grace has been described as a "ladylike beauty" yet you see the same types in the college Rose Bowl parade. She is a nearly flat-chested girl without the startling beauty of Elizabeth Taylor, the flamboyance of Marilyn Monroe, the dramatic fire of Bette Davis, the printable sayings of Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Yet her leading men in a brief period include Jimmy Stewart, Bill Holden, Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Stewart Granger, Bing Crosby, Clark Gable. Hollywood experts believe Grace is a success because she's a different type — a lady — than the current glamour girls. What is more important, is her timing. She came along at a time when the public was satiated with bosoms.
